Program

Sociology and the Reconstruction of Society

Max Weber described a long-term rationalization of society, changes that have progressed rapidly since he wrote. This rationalization has been marked by the movement of activities out of the primordial institutions of family and community into organizations designed for specific purposes. Economic production has moved from the household to the factory and office; much of child socialization has moved from the home to the school and the day care center; social welfare functions once carried out in the family and community are now carried out through agencies of the state; informally and locally organized leisure activities have been replaced in part by commercial entertainment. Medical care has undergone extensive rationalization. Social control that was once exercised informally through norms and sanctions has been in part replaced by formal law enforced by police and other agents of government. Communication has come to be mediated by formal organization.

As this rationalization has proceeded, economic and social interaction once confined to small localities have expanded first to a national level and increasingly to a world level. This expansion has been accompanied by increased rates of migration and by other changes which restructure the social, economic, and political organization of the world. Western Europe is currently undergoing a transformation which illustrates this; in other parts of the world as well, the restructuring proceeds apace.

Even as this rationalization proceeds, however, certain primordial bases of social organization show resurgent strength. Ethnic and national movements, as well as fundamentalist religions, have grown. What can be said about these anti-rationalization movements?

Sociology was born and has grown in accompaniment to the rationalization of society. It has been implicated in a major failure of social reconstruction, that is, Lenin's attempt to apply Marx's theories in the Soviet Union, and subsequent attempts in Eastern Europe. However sobering this fact, it is clear that the rationalization of society will continue, with or without the aid of sociological knowledge. In full recognition of the potential for good or ill that sociologists' work has, it is important that social theory and social research inform the social change that is increasingly a result of design. This should include work which shows how primordial institutions can be preserved when they make social life more humane.

There are many questions. How can we do these things without being mere agents of the dominant or mere advocates for the subordinate? How can we avoid national parochialism in our research and theoretical work? How can sociological knowledge be best put to use at different levels of social organization, from interpersonal to international? How do we train a set of sociologists for the 21st Century who will be the architects for the construction of society?

Drugs and Social Control
Session 368, Monday, August 24, 4:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 7
Organizer and Presider: Mark Kleiman, Kennedy School, Harvard University
Culture and Social Control: The Case of Drug Policy. Mark Kleiman, Kennedy School, Harvard University
High and Low Politics of Drug Control. Peter K. Manning, Michigan State University

Authors Meet Critics

These sessions are designed to bring authors of recent books deemed to be important contributions to the discipline together with discussants selected to provide different viewpoints. This year the Program Committee has chosen six publications for discussion.

The Impossible Science: An Institutional Analysis of American Sociology* (Sage, 1990)
Session 39, Thursday, August 20, 12:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 7
Organizer: Albert E. Gollin, Newspaper Association of America
Presider: Martin I.A. Bulmer, London School of Economics and Political Science
Authors: Stephen P. Turner, University of South Florida
Jonathan H. Turner, University of California, Riverside
Critics: Charles Camic, University of Wisconsin, Madison
Howard Schuman, University of Michigan
N.J. Demerath, III, University of Massachusetts, Amherst

A Treatise on the Family* (Harvard Press, 1991, 2nd ed.)
Session 104, Friday, August 21, 10:30 a.m.
Convention Center, South 4
Organizer and Presider: Mary C. Brinton, University of Chicago
Author: Gary S. Becker, University of Chicago
Critics: Margaret Mooney Marini, University of Minnesota
Richard Easterlin, University of Southern California
Paula England, University of Arizona

Black Feminist Thought
Session 185, Saturday, August 22, 12:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 7
Organizer: Judith Treas, University of California, Irvine
Presider: Bonnie Thornton Dill, University of Maryland
Author: Patricia Hill Collins, University of Cincinnati

Critics: Marjorie L. DeVault, Syracuse University
Linda M. Burton, Pennsylvania State University
Clovis White, Oberlin College

Order without Law: How Neighbors Settle Disputes (Harvard, 1991)
Session 199, Saturday, August 22, 2:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 7
Organizer: Donald Black, University of Virginia
Presider: Peter K. Manning, Michigan State University
Author: Robert C. Ellickson, Yale University
Critics: Mark Cooney, University of Georgia
Allan V. Horwitz, Rutgers University
Calvin Morrill, University of Arizona

Organizational Ecology (Harvard, 1989)
Session 233, Sunday, August 23, 8:30 a.m.
Convention Center, Renaissance Theater
Organizer and Presider: Wayne Baker, University of Chicago
Authors: Michael Hannan, Stanford University
John Freeman, Cornell University
Critics: J. Miller McPherson, University of Arizona
David Knoke, University of Minnesota
Walter W. Powell, University of Arizona

Global Formation: Structures of the World-Economy (Basil Blackwell, 1989)
Session 252, Sunday, August 23, 10:30 a.m.
Convention Center, North 6
Organizer and Presider: Stephen K. Sanderson, Indiana University of Pennsylvania
Author: Christopher Chase-Dunn, Johns Hopkins University
Critics: Randall Collins, University of California, Riverside
Charles Tilly, New School for Social Research
Immanuel Wallerstein, State University of New York, Binghamton

Three Sections have also organized author/critic sessions as part of their program activities.

Section on Community and Urban Sociology
Streetwise: Race, Class and Change in an Urban Community
Session 78, Thursday, August 20, 4:30-5:30 p.m. Convention Center, North 6
Organizer: John R. Logan, State University of New York, Albany
Presider: Gerald Suttles, University of Chicago
Author: Elijah Anderson, University of Pennsylvania
Critics: Jonathan Rieder, Barnard College
Bruce Williams, University of Mississippi

Section on Theoretical Sociology
Dorothy Smith's Social Theory—The Everyday World as Problematic (1987), The Conceptual Practices of Power (1990), Texts, Facts and Feminity (1990)
Session 227, Saturday, August 22, 4:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 1
Organizers: Barbara Laslett, University of Minnesota; Barrie Thorne, University of Southern California
Presider: Barrie Thorne, University of Southern California

Judith Howard, University of Washington
Iris Young, University of Pittsburgh

Section on Political Sociology
Book Panel: G. William Domhoff, The Power Elite and the State (Aldine de Gruyter)
Session 314, Sunday, August 23, 4:30 p.m. Vista, Allegheny I
Organizer and Presider: Susan Eckstein, Boston University
Discussion: Frances Fox Piven, Graduate Center, City University of New York
Michael Schwartz, State University of New York, Stony Brook
Maurice Zeitlin, University of California, Los Angeles

Didactic Seminars

Didactic seminars are designed to keep sociologists abreast of recent scholarly trends and developments. Experts considered to be at the forefront of a given field are invited by the Program Committee to conduct these sessions.

Seminar speakers will present materials to explain specialized developments within their topic areas. Seminars are scheduled for two, three or four hours. Please see the listing below for session details and brief descriptions provided by the leaders.

Attendance at each Didactic Seminar is limited to 60, and pre-paid registration is required. Seminar fees are $20 (except Session 3, as noted below). All persons registering for seminars must also be paid registrants for the Annual Meeting. Those who did not reserve in advance but who wish to attend should check at the Tickets Desk for possible openings.

No on will be admitted to the seminar room without a paid reservation; tickets will be collected at the door.

Regression Diagnostics (co-sponsored by the Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research and the ASA Section on Methodology)
Session 3, Wednesday, August 19, 9:00 a.m.-12:00 noon; 1:00-4:00 p.m.
Vista, Cambria
Ticket required for admission. Fees: $125 general, $100 Methodology Section members, $60 students
John Fox, York University, Toronto, Canada

This one-day course will introduce diagnostics for detecting several important problems, including outliers, high-leverage data, and influential data; non-normal errors; non-constant error variance; and unmodelled nonlinearity. Time permitting, collinearity problems will also be discussed.

Where possible, techniques that produce graphical displays will be emphasized, including maximum-likelihood methods that imbed the usual regression model in a more general statistical model. There will also be a brief discussion of methods for dealing with problems that are detected.

Participants in the course should be generally familiar with the theory and application of linear regression analysis; knowledge of the matrix algebra of regression analysis is desirable, but not essential.

Using the GSS (Advanced)
Session 7, Thursday, August 20, 8:30-10:20 a.m.
Vista, Cambria
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
James A. Davis, Harvard University

Using the new Sage book, The NORC General Social Survey: A User's Guide, as a framework, the seminar will discuss content, study design, sample design, field procedures, data sets, and data analysis. Attention will also be devoted to the cross-national studies of the International Social Survey Program.

Computer Analysis of Historical Narratives
Session 24, Thursday, August 20, 10:30 a.m.-12:20 p.m.
Vista, Butler
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Larry Griffin, Vanderbilt University

This seminar will (a) address the question of the sociological utility of historical narratives, (b) examine the logic of the narrative explanation of events, and (c) describe in detail one methodological innovation grounded in, exploiting, and generalizing qualitative historical sequences, "event structure analysis" (ESA). Developed by David Heise, ESA uses a particular software, ETHNO (for ethnographic analysis), to aid the analyst in imputing causal connections among sequences of actions constituting a historically singular event and in interpreting the meaning and significance of those actions. Much of the seminar will be devoted to using and manipulating ETHNO and to exploring its applications to both microand macro-historical sociological issues.

ISSP/GSS
Session 40, Thursday, August 20, 12:30-2:20 p.m.
Vista, Cambria
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Andrea Tyree, State University of New York-Stony Brook

Grantwriting: Obtaining Research Support from Federal Government Agencies
Session 55, Thursday, August 20, 2:30-6:20 p.m.
Vista, Butler
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Joseph Morrissey, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
Jennie Jacobs Kronenfeld, Arizona State University
Stephen Cutler, University of Vermont
Patricia Martin, Florida State University
Mary Fennell, Pennsylvania State University

The four-hour seminar will focus on strategies for writing grant applications for Federal government research support. General principles of grantwriting in this environment will be presented, with a special focus on the PHS-398 application used by the NIH, ADAMHA, and AHCPR (among others) for investigator initiated research. Topics to be considered include the differences between grants and contracts, the structure of the agency grant review process, the logic of the research application, and a panel discussion of the nuances of grantwriting for different agencies. The seminar is pitched so that novice or first time grantwriters as well as those with more experience can benefit from the presentations.

LISREL Models
Session 71, Thursday, August 20, 4:30-6:20 p.m.
Vista, Cambria
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Gerhard Arminger, Universitaet Wuppertal

This seminar gives an overview of recent developments in mean and covariance structure models. Participants should have a working knowledge of the classical LISREL models for metric variables such as simultaneous equations and factor analysis and an understanding of the Maximum Likelihood (ML) estimation of these models. The classical models will be extended to general mean and covariance

models. Threshold models are included to deal with censored dichotomous and ordinal variables. The assumptions and uses of the different estimation techniques—Maximum Likelihood (ML), Pseudo ML, marginal ML, Minimum Distance—will be discussed.

Life Course
Session 87, Friday, August 21, 8:30-10:20 a.m.
Vista, Cambria
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Karl Ulrich Meyer, Max Planck Institute for Human Development and Education, Berlin, Germany

The seminar will provide a systematic overview of quantitative studies on the life course as an emergent research paradigm. It will cover main concepts and theoretical tenets, methodological approaches, major studies and selected important results. The focus will be on Life Course Analysis as a way of studying social structure and macro-social change within institutional contexts rather than as a means of studying psychological development or the subjective biography.

The seminar will probably be most useful for three groups: (a) novices who look for comprehensive information and assessment; (b) those who want to catch up with the state of the art; and (c) researchers who are about to do work in this area and wonder how best to do it.

Sociological Applications of Game Theory
Session 105, Friday, August 21, 10:30 a.m.-12:20 p.m.
Vista, Butler
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Jeroen Weesie and Werner Raub, University of Utrecht, Netherlands

Game theory provides tools for modeling and analyzing social situations with interdependent actors. This seminar has a twofold objective. First, the seminar provides an introduction to basic notions of the theory of noncooperative games, e.g., the extensive and normal form of a game, equilibrium concepts. In the second part of the seminar, applications will be discussed: the analysis of trust and cooperation in social dilemma situations, the paradox of relative deprivation, crime and punishment, competition among political parties. The seminar does not assume previous knowledge of game theory. Some affinity with the use of formal theoretical models in sociology would be useful. As a background reading, we recommend Eric Rasmusen, Games and Information: An Introduction to Game Theory, Oxford: Blackwell 1989, Part I.

Participatory Action Research
Session 137, Friday, August 21, 2:30-4:20 p.m.
Vista, Cambria
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
William Foote Whyte, Cornell University

The seminar will begin with a definition of Participatory Action Research (PAR), distinguishing this research strategy from other related approaches. We will then briefly review how PAR has been used in a variety of industrial, community, and agricultural research and development projects. With the participation of seminar members, we will discuss how the sociologist might develop the participation of members of the organization studied in the PAR project. Finally, we will consider the potential of PAR for advancing science and human welfare. Prerequisites: reading in advance two reprints to be sent to enrollees by the ASA Executive Office: W.F. Whyte, "Advancing Scientific Knowledge Through Participatory Action Research", and Ira Harkavy et al, "Universities and Community Schools."

Event History Analysis
Session 151, Saturday, August 22, 8:30-11:30 a.m.
Vista, Cambria
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Lawrence L. Wu and Brian Martinson, University of Wisconsin, Madison

Introduction to the analysis of event history data. Topics include data structures for event histories and time varying covariates, exploratory methods, time dependence, right and left censoring, proportional and nonproportional hazard models, time dependence, estimation, and hypothesis testing. We stress a mixture of theory and practical issues using concrete example and computer output. Seminar assumes knowledge of linear regression, logistic regression, and statistical inference, but does not require prior exposure to event history models or methods.

Field Research
Session 200, Saturday, August 22, 2:30-4:20 p.m.
Vista, Cambria
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Elijah Anderson, University of Pennsylvania

Personal reflections on seminar leader's field experience in low income urban Black communities over the past twenty years. Familiarity with Anderson's work, including Streetwise: Race, Class, and Change in an Urban Community and A Place on the Corner, will be useful but not essential. Seminar leader will focus on the way in which such settings are changing as well as the implications such changes have for field research methods. Issues of method, substance, and theory will be explored, with an emphasis on making sociological sense of field data.

Log-Linear Models
Session 201, Saturday, August 22, 2:30-4:20 p.m.
Vista, Butler
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Scott R. Eliason, University of Iowa

The seminar will provide an overview of methodology for the analysis of contingency tables using log-linear models and their extensions. The session is organized around a PC packagee developed by Eliason ("Categorical Data Analysis System"; CDAS). Modules in this program can be used to fit regular log-linear and logit models, latent class models, association models, multiple-group association models, and other standard or recent models. It can also be used to adjust rates, or standardize rates, using the purging method. Many of the routines in CDAS allow treatment of methods that cannot be considered with standard packages. Some familiarity with log-linear and logit models is assumed.

Multi-Dimensional Scaling
Session 216, Saturday, August 22, 4:30-6:20 p.m.
Vista, Cambria
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Keiko Nakao, University of New Mexico

The aim of this seminar is to present a set of scaling techniques known as multidimensional scaling (MDS). MDS provides a geometrical representation of objects in a multi-dimensional space that enables researchers to examine structures underlying the relationships among the objects. MDS can be applied to a variety of sociological domains, for example, with group members or organizations defined as objects and the relationships derived from the perceptions, preferences, or interactions among them. Topics to be discussed include non-metric and metric multidimensional scaling, preference scaling, and individual differences scaling. Examples of research using these methods will also be provided.

Using Legal Sources in Sociological Research
Session 234, Sunday, August 23, 8:30 a.m.-12:20 p.m.
Vista, Cambria
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Kim Lane Scheppele, University of Michigan

Law provides a rich repository of textual evidence for sociologists interested in historical, interpretive and discursive analysis of culture, knowledge and power. This seminar explores the possible uses of legal texts in sociological inquiry through a nuts-and-bolts introduction to legal research. Our time will be devoted primarily to American materials, including an overview of the legal process and the structure of American courts as well as some quick training in how to read legal texts. We will then go on to cover the basics of research into primary legal documents, like court cases, statutes and administrative regulations, so that participants can find materials for themselves in their own research projects. No specialized background is assumed and sociologists of all methodological orientations are welcome.

Regional Sociology and Geographic Information Systems
Session 284, Sunday, August 23, 2:30-4:20 p.m.
Vista, Cambria
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Leonard J. Hochberg, Stanford University
David W. Miller, Carnegie Mellon University

One of the more exciting interdisciplinary linkages is currently occurring between geography and sociology. This linkage has fostered several new theoretical approaches, evident in the work of Anthony Giddens, Immanuel Wallersteln, G. William Skinner, and others, as well as new methodological tools such as Geographic Information Systems (GIS) for displaying and analyzing quantitative data through the production of computer-designed maps.

This seminar consists of a lecture introducing several theoretical approaches in regional social science and a computer demonstration of a Geographic Information System. The presenters highlight the generic features of GIS capabilities using computer-designed maps of and sociologically-relevant data from nineteenth-century Ireland, both of which are drawn from their current research. Hochberg and Miller are current coediting (with Carville Earle, Department of Geography, Louisiana State University) Geographic Information Systems: A Handbook for the Social Sciences (Basil Blackwell, forthcoming).

Network Analysis
Session 302, Sunday, August 23, 4:30-6:20 p.m.
Vista, Butler
Ticket required for admission. Fee: $20
Ronald Breiger, Cornell University

This seminar provides an introduction to the following topics: (1) the modeling of complex networks across multiple types of relation by means of more elementary network images obtained on the basis of aggregation of relations and actors; (2) statistical frameworks for the assessment of network models (with emphasis on random-permutation and log-linear approaches); and (3) types of equivalence (generalizations of structural equivalence) that have been defined for the study of network algebras. Discussion will center around examples from the literature on each topic, and participants will receive diskettes with several relevant programs and datasets.

Professional Workshops

Professional Workshops are a standard component of the Annual Meeting. The 11 workshops on this year's program roster provide opportunities for attendees to update their knowledge and skills in a variety of professional areas. Workshops are generally open to all convention registrants;

however, please note that the two-day pre-convention workshop requires advance registration and fee payment.

Skill-Building Workshop: Conducting Focus Groups for Marketing and Social Research
Session 1, Tuesday, August 18, 9:00 a.m.-12:00 noon, 1:00-5:30 p.m., 7:30-9:30 p.m.; Wednesday, August 19, 8:00 a.m.-12:00 noon, 1:00-5:00 p.m.
Ticket required for admission. Fees: $250 ASA Members; $350 Non-members; $200 Students and low-income Members (below $15,000)
Christine Wright-Isak, Young and Rubicam
Janet Mancini Billson, American Sociological Association

This intensive two-day workshop will offer the skills and theoretical basis essential to conducting focus group research; it is intended for sociology academics, practitioners, and graduate students. Participants will receive individual attention and an opportunity to moderate a "focus group." Experienced moderators will be able to extend their skills. Topics include: origins in sociology as a qualitative method (the focused interview); when to use focus groups; principles of group interaction; developing proposals and interview guides with clients; data analysis; report writing and presenting back to clients; fees and logistics. Participants may attend a special reception Wednesday evening to meet other sociologists who conduct focus group research in a variety of settings.

Book Reviewing for Sociology Journals
Session 25, Thursday, August 20, 10:30 a.m.
Convention Center, North 9
Wendy Griswold, University of Chicago
Walter W. Powell, University of Arizona
John Shelton Reed, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Negotiating the Government Job Market
Session 56, Thursday, August 20, 2:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 9
Organizer: Janet Mancini Billson, American Sociological Association
Robert J. Dotzler, Internal Revenue Service
Larry Suter, National Science Foundation

This workshop will explore employment and career opportunities in the federal government for sociology graduates with PhDs, MAs, and BAs. The new ASA Federal Network, which helps sociologists access government positions, will be introduced. Practical issues will include: approaches to job seeking, preparing Standard Form 171, benefits/salary levels, and networking. Department chairs and academic advisors are encouraged to attend.

How to Write a Research Monograph
Session 72, Thursday, August 20, 4:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 9
Teresa A. Sullivan, University of Texas, Austin

Desktop Publishing
Session 88, Friday, August 21, 8:30 a.m.
Convention Center, South 12
Organizer and Presider: Theodore Wagenaar, Miami University
Panel: Theodore Wagenaar, Miami University
Dean S. Dorn, California State University, Sacramento
Karen Bloom, Managing Editor, American Sociological Review
Amy Grams, Managing Editor, Teaching Sociology

This session addresses advantages, disadvantages, complexities, and practicalities of desktop publishing. The workshop focus is on professional journals. Mechanics of desktop publishing are addressed, as are the changes needed in working with authors, budget implications, and changes in the social structure of publishing.

Getting Research Grants: Opportunities for Federal Funding
Session 106, Friday, August 21, 10:30 a.m.
Convention Center, South 12
Organizer and Presider: Felice J. Levine, American Sociological Association
Panel: William Sims Bainbridge, Sociology Program, National Science Foundation
Larry E. Suter, Division of Research, Evaluation, and Dissemination, National Science Foundation
Nancy Moss, National Institute of Child Health and Human Development
Ann A. Hohmann, National Institute of Mental Health
Katrina Johnson, National Institute on Aging

This workshop will focus on federal funding opportunities for research and training at several key science agencies. Panel members will describe programs and initiatives, application and review procedures, criteria of funding, and the elements of competitive proposals. The goal of the workshop is to make accessible the process of applying for grants. There will be ample time for questions. Sociologists, including students, who have not yet received federal grants for research are particularly encouraged to attend.

Negotiating the Business and Non-Profit Job Market
Session 169, Saturday, August 22, 10:30 a.m.
Convention Center, North 8
Organizer: Janet Mancini Billson, American Sociological Association
David Goslin, American Institutes for Research
Sandra Hofferth, The Urban Institute
David Prensky, School of Busines, Trenton State College
Joan Waring, The Equitable
David Woodrow, Standard and Poors

Numerous sociologists work in the business and non-profit sectors, bringing sociological perspectives and methods to bear in creative projects and research. Panelists will discuss how to find, keep, advance in, and stay satisfied with careers in these sectors. Veterans with experiences to share, department chairs and academic advisors, as well as those interested in non-academic careers are invited to join the interchange.

Dealing with the Media: Pitfalls and Opportunities
Session 217, Saturday, August 22, 4:30 p.m.
Convention Center, South 12
Organizer: Rachelle B. Warren, RBW Associates
Herbert J. Gans, Columbia University
Pepper J. Schwartz, University of Washington
Wayne Youngquist, WISN-TV, Milwaukee, and University of Wisconsin, Whitewater

Sociologists will discuss how they bring sociology into the daily news, and when and how to talk with media. The workshop will focus on both the organizational structure of various media and guidelines for presenting data and ideas to the media.

Negotiating the Academic Job Market
Session 235, Sunday, August 23, 8:30 a.m.
Convention Center, North 5
Organizer: Janet Mancini Billson, American Sociological Association
Gerald Marwell, University of Wisconsin, Madison
Edward M. Sutton, Community College of Allegheny County
Catherine White Berheide, Skidmore College
Bruce B. Williams, University of Mississippi

This workshop will consider the preparation needed for being competitive in the academic job market, strategies for pursuing job openings, and circumstances to consider when interviewing for academic positions. The panelists will offer ideas but will expect participation from workshop attendees. Department chairs and academic advisors are encouraged to attend.

Writing for Scholarly Journals
Session 253, Sunday, August 23, 10:30 a.m.
Convention Center, North 12
Organizer: Richard L. Simpson, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
Presider: Rachel A. Rosenfeld, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
Panel: Charles M. Bonjean, University of Texas, Austin
William Form, Ohio State University
Alan Sica, Pennsylvania State University

The panelists are current or recent editors of sociology journals. They will discuss the process of reviewing and selecting articles for publication, with the aim of helping authors understand better how to write articles and get them published. Ample time will be left for questions and comments from the audience.

Assisting Communities with a Plant Shutdown (co-sponsored by the ASA Committee on Employment and Unemployment)
Session 285, Sunday, August 23, 2:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 3
Fred Caloren, University of Ottawa, Canada
Cynthia Deitch, George Washington University
Robert Erickson, Steel Valley Authority
Kenneth Root, Luther College
Ellen Rosen, Nichols College

Teaching Workshops

Teaching Workshops are a popular part of each Annual Meeting program, and there are 15 workshops on this year's program roster. These sessions provide opportunities for attendees to update their teaching skills and discover ways to integrate new material into their courses. Teaching workshops emphasize interaction between leaders and audience, and attendees are encouraged to bring questions or problems for discussion and new ideas to enliven classroom activities. Workshops are generally open to all convention registrants; however, please note that there is one pre-convention workshop which requires advance registration and fee payment.

Academic Leadership: The Role of the Chair
Session 2, Tuesday, August 18, 7:00-10:00 p.m.; Wednesday, August 19, 9:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.
Vista, Butler West
Ticket required for admission. Fees: $65 ASA Members, $90 non-members; includes luncheon.
Lee Bowker, Humboldt State University
Barbara R. Keating, Mankato State University
Hans O. Mauksch, University of Georgia
Dennis McSeveney, University of New Orleans

Designed to acquaint sociology department chairs and chair-designees with material on the undergraduate curriculum, faculty evaluation, departmental planning, resource acquisition, the uses of the power of the chair, faculty motivation and faculty development. Case studies will be used to stimulate discussion on representative dilemmas faced by department chairs.

Preparing Graduate Students to Teach
Session 26, Thursday, August 20, 10:30 a.m.
Convention Center, North 5
Organizer and Presider: Carla B. Howery, American Sociological Association
Panel: Bernice Pescosolido, Indiana University
Brian Pendleton, University of Akron
Tom Van Valey, Western Michigan University
Howard Aldrich, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
A panel of sociologists who offer training programs, seminars, and workshops to prepare graduate students to teach. Each will share what she or he has done and the strengths and weaknesses of that approach. The panel will share materials, syllabi, and outlines with the group. The workshop will include time for members of the audience to describe their experiences and needs with regard to TA training and more general professional preparation of graduate students.

Teaching Qualitative Methods
Session 57, Thursday, August 20, 2:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 5
Donna Hess, South Dakota State University
Donald Arwood, South Dakota State University
This workshop presents ideas and techniques for teaching qualitative methods at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Resources supportive of such teaching are identified. Exercises and projects appropriate to each level are introduced. Specific qualitative methods included are observation, participant observation, ethnographic interviewing, and working with documentary data.

Teaching Introductory Sociology for the First Time
Session 89, Friday, August 21, 8:30 a.m.
Convention Center, North 8
Ann Sundgren, Tacoma Community College
Edward L. Kain, Southwestern University
This workshop is designed for those who have never taught Introductory Sociology, either because they are preparing for their very first teaching experience or because their teaching experience has never included the first course. We will focus on course goals and organization, lecture preparation, text selection, exams and assignments, things to do and things to avoid. Handouts will be provided.

Teaching about Family Violence
Session 107, Friday, August 21, 10:30 a.m.
Convention Center, North 8
Ann Goetting, Western Kentucky University
Ralph LaRossa, Georgia State University

Teaching Sociology in Joint Departments
Session 121, Friday, August 21, 12:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 6
Allen Furr, East Texas State University
Barbara R. Keating, Mankato State University
Catherine White Berheide, Skidmore College
This workshop focuses on the pedagogical and administrative questions that are generated when sociology shares university and college departments with other disciplines. Particular attention is paid to identifying, clarifying, and resolving conflicts common to inter-disciplinary departments.

Teaching Sociology of Emotions
Session 152, Saturday, August 22, 8:30 a.m.
Convention Center, North 8
David D. Franks, Virginia Commonwealth University
Arlie Hochschild, University of California, Berkeley
This workshop has two parts: (1) Hochschild will lead "mainstreaming" or the interweaving of emotion studies into general and topical sociology courses. (2) Franks will focus on "Teaching the Sociology of Emotions" using materials developed by the ASA Section on Sociology of Emotions. Other topics include the importance of emotions in the liberal arts curriculum, use of student diaries, etc.

Teaching Sociology Using Computer Tools, Including CHIPendale
Session 186, Saturday, August 22, 12:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 8
Organizer and Presider: Gregg Carter, Bryant College
Panel: Sharlene Hesse-Biber, Boston College
William Frey, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor
Margaret Brooks Terry, Baldwin-Wallace College
The major aim of this workshop is to offer demonstrations of how ChipenDale microcomputer software can be used in the teaching of several upper-division courses (more specifically, Sociology of the Family, American Society, and Population & Society). A secondary aim is to demonstrate how related software, HyperResearch, MicroCase, ShowCase, and SPSS/PC+Studentware, can be adapted for the same didactic purposes. Although the emphasis will be on quantitative analysis, a brief demonstration of HyperResearch will explore the analysis of qualitative data. In sum, the workshop is promoting the artful use of microcomputer-assisted data analysis in non-research methods sociology courses, especially those typically taught at the upper-division level.

Teaching Sociology with a Marxist Perspective
Session 218, Saturday, August 22, 4:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 8
Rhonda F. Levine, Colgate University
Scott G. McNall, University of Toledo
This workshop will discuss strategies for introducing marxist and other critical perspectives in undergraduate courses, with special attention given to the introductory course. One goal of the workshop will be to discuss how to avoid simplistic and mechanical applications of the marxist perspective. Another will be to show how to enhance students' critical perspective on a wide variety of sociological phenomena. Suggestions for lectures, discussions, exercises, examinations, and paper topics that further these goals will be introduced. It is expected that workshop participants will share their experiences in introducing and teaching a critical perspective in different contexts, e.g., from community colleges, to small liberal arts colleges and large universities and from the introductory course to the upper-division course.

Effective Advising in Sociology Departments
Session 236, Sunday, August 23, 8:30 a.m.
Convention Center, North 8
J. Michael Brooks, Texas Christian University
Rodger Bates, Lambuth University
The underlying premise of this workshop is that effective advising is a key component in successful undergraduate programs. Workshop activities will focus on personal developmental characteristics of students, ways to structure effective advising, and professional socialization and portfolio enhancement activities for students as they define career opportunities.

Teaching Sociology of Deviance and Delinquency
Session 286, Sunday, August 23, 2:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 8
Maureen E. Kelleher, Northeastern University
Richard A. Wright, University of Scranton
The workshop will review a variety of syllabi, projects, exercises, and assignments used in courses on deviance and delinquency (and will include discussions of some resources available from the Teaching Resources Center). Deviance/delinquency activities checklists will be discussed, along with strategies to relate these checklists to important concepts.

Teaching Sociology of Organizations and Occupations
Session 303, Sunday, August 23, 4:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 5
Carol J. Auster, Franklin & Marshall College

Teaching Sociology in the Secondary School
Session 319, Monday, August 24, 8:30 a.m.
Vista, Butler
Organizer and Presider: Paul S. Gray, Boston College
Panel: Paul S. Gray, Boston College
Ed Nitowski, Plum Burrough School District
Kathleen Piker King, Mt. Union College
Keith Roberts, Hanover College

Teaching about Social Problems
Session 333, Monday, August 24, 10:30 a.m.
Vista, Cambria
Paul J. Baker, Illinois State University, Normal
Louis E. Anderson
This workshop will examine various thinking frames appropriate to teaching the sociology of social problems. Consideration will be given to crucial questions of sociological anaylsis and the needs of well-informed citizens in a democractic society. Issues of instructional design will be developed.

Regular Sessions

Regular Sessions are comprised of papers submitted by the ASA membership in response to the 1992 Call for Papers. Sixty-five general topics were announced for open submission, and the designated organizers each received anywhere from 6 to 55 submissions for review. A total of 133 formal paper sessions were organized from the submitted papers. (Last year 122 sessions were formed from 64 announced topics.) Please refer to the body of the Program for details on each Regular Session.

Scholar-To-Scholar Sessions

This new component of the program features a series of display presentations that allow face-to-face conversation between authors and viewers. By facilitating informal discussions between presenters and "browsers", Scholar-To-Scholar sessions provide a more intimate forum for exchange than do formal paper presentations.

Five sessions have been arranged from submissions recommended by general topic organizers and Section session organizers. These sessions will be located in East Hall at the Pittsburgh Convention Center, adjacent to the exhibits. Be sure to include some time in your schedule to visit East Hall and browse through these presentations!

AIDS, Housing/Homelessness, Medical Sociology
Session 41, Thursday, August 20, 12:30 p.m.
Convention Center, East Hall

Aging, Family, Violence, Deviance, Education, Teaching, Race and Ethnic Relations
Session 108, Friday, August 21, 10:30 a.m.
Convention Center, East Hall

Collective Behavior and Social Movements, Political Sociology, Work
Session 170, Saturday, August 22, 10:30 a.m.
Convention Center, East Hall

Mathematical Sociology, Methodology, Organizations, Labor Market
Session 202, Saturday, August 22, 2:30 p.m.
Convention Center, East Hall

Social Psychology, Sexual Identity, Social Stratification
Session 254, Sunday, August 23, 10:30 a.m.
Convention Center, East Hall

Roundtable Discussions

This popular program component is designed to bring together small groups of people interested in discussing specific topics. The 1992 Program Committee invited Judy Stepan-Norris (University of California, Irvine) and Charles A. Goldsmid (Claremont, California) to review proposals and select topics and presenters to guide discussions.

Again this year the informal discussions have been organized around general topics. Please refer to the body of the Program for complete details on these sessions. Since several discussions are held simultaneously in one large meeting room, no audio-visual equipment or recording devices may be used and no papers will be prepared for distribution.

Teaching Sociology and the Sociology of Education
Session 73, Thursday, August 20, 4:30 p.m.
Convention Center, South 6-8

Gender, Sexuality and Family Issues

Open Forums

Two open forums and a poster session have been scheduled to facilitate the work of ASA committees and task forces. All meeting registrants are invited to attend and express opinions and give suggestions.

Open Forum. Society and Persons with Disabilities (sponsored by the Committee on Society and Persons with Disabilities)
Session 51, Thursday, August 20, 12:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 9

The Committee invites meeting attendees to provide comments on disability issues affecting the ASA (including meeting accessibility) and ways to integrate disability concerns into the mainstream of sociology.

Poster Session. Hate/Bias Acts on Campus (sponsored by the ad hoc Task Force on Hate/Bias Acts on Campus, a subcommittee of the Committee on Teaching)
Session 58, Thursday, August 20, 2:30 p.m.
Convention Center, East Hall

Open Forum. Defining Scholarly Knowledge (sponsored by the Task Force on Defining Scholarly Knowledge)
Session 204, Saturday, August 22, 2:30 p.m.
Convention Center, North 8

The Task Force invites the views of sociologists on how to define scholarly work more broadly. The thrust is aimed at identifying the scholarly components of teaching and service. Attendees may comment on the nature of their scholarly work, how to measure and evaluate it, and how it might be appropriately rewarded in their workplace. The panel represents an ASA Task Force established to study these issues and write a report or guidelines on how to broaden the definition of scholarship in sociology. Task forces in other disciplines are involved in similar efforts.

Research Funding Day

August 21, 1992, has been designated as Research Funding Day at the 1992 ASA Annual Meeting. The activities of the day will bring social scientists interested in fundamental research on social processes and social structures with the most active members of the funding organizations.

The morning professional workshop, "Getting Research Grants: Opportunities for Federal Funding" (session 106, 10:30 a.m., Convention Center, South 12), is presided over by Felice J. Levine, ASA Executive Officer. Panel members from four key science agencies will describe programs and initiatives, application and review procedures, criteria of funding, and the element of competitive proposals.

The afternoon is devoted to an inclusive poster session which will provide ASA research sociologists, practitioners, and students with a forum for learning about funding opportunities in a variety of organizations and agencies. The event will be held between 1:30 and 4:20 p.m. adjacent to the exhibits in East Hall at the Convention Center. Prospective applicants can walk among the display areas to learn about: (1) funding priorities; (2) how to apply; and (3) review procedures. Attendees will also have an opportunity to talk with representatives from funding agencies and institutions in an environment designed to encourage questions that might not be aired in a more formal session.

See Session 122 for a concise listing of agencies and representatives, then turn to the end of the program schedule for brief descriptions of programs and funding initiatives.

ASA is excited about its role in providing an opportunity for the best of the sociological research community to come together with the best of the funding agencies and organizations to learn about each other in one central location. Both groups should find it an informative and useful exchange.

Student Activities

The ASA Membership Committee and the Honors Program Student Association have made special efforts to make undergraduate and graduate students feel welcome at the Annual Meeting.

Student Center. Students attending the Annual Meeting may make use of the Student Center located in South 11 on the third level of the Lawrence Convention Center. The center will be open from 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. on Thursday through Sunday, August 20-23, and 8:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m. on Monday, August 24, to provide a place for students to meet, make dinner arrangements, caucus, etc. All students attending the Annual Meeting are welcome to use this hospitality room. Some refreshments will be provided each day.

Student Reception. An informal reception, co-hosted by the Membership Committee and the Honors Program Student Association, will be held on Friday, August 21, at 7:00 p.m. in the Student Center. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting are invited to this lively social gathering.

Student Sessions. Several student sessions have been organized by the ASA Honors Program, and some Sections have sponsored special tables during their roundtable sessions for student papers. See sessions 147, 165, 213, 246, and 377 in the program schedule for complete details.

Additional student sessions sponsored by the Honors Program but not part of the formal Annual Meeting program appear below.

Joan Ferrante, Northern Kentucky University

Section Activities

Section activities are interspersed throughout the five-day schedule of the Annual Meeting and are open to all meeting attendees. These specialized sessions range in format from formal paper presentations to informal discussion roundtables. The number of sessions allocated to each Section is based on the size of the section; for the 29 active sections, there are a total of 113 program sessions scheduled. There are also three new sections-in-formation: Sociology of Children, Latina/o Sociology, and Sociology of Law, and organizational meetings have been scheduled for each. The Section Council and Business meetings, program sessions, and receptions are summarized below for quick reference; for more complete information, refer to the body of the Program. Days of the Annual Meeting are Thursday, August 20; Friday, August 21; Saturday, August 22, Sunday, August 23; and Monday, August 24.

Tours

An easy and enjoyable way to explore and learn about this year's host city is to participate in at least one or perhaps several of the special tours coordinated by Daniel Regan, University of Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh is a city rich in tradition and heritage and these tours offer many opportunities to explore its history. Easy accessibility makes it an ideal city for self-guided walking tours. Baseball fans will welcome the chance to the see the Pittsburgh Pirates play at Three Rivers Stadium.

The schedule of tours is provided below. Reservations are mandatory. Please check at the Tickets Desk in the ASA Registration Area in South Hall for availability and any late cancellations. Those already enrolled in tours should have received their tickets with their name badges.

All bus tours will depart from the Lawrence Convention Center following a brief orientation period. Attendees should meet on the Lobby Level of the Convention Center in the designated ASA Tour area near the Penn Avenue entrance. Please plan to arrive promptly so that departure times may be observed. Keep in mind that the arrival times back to the Convention Center are estimates only and may vary somewhat due to traffic congestion.

TOUR 1: Fallingwater
Wednesday, August 19, 9:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.
Fee: $40.00 (includes lunch)
Orientation Area: Convention Center, Penn Avenue entrance

Fallingwater, in Pennsylvania's Laurel Highlands, is probably famed architect Frank Lloyd Wright's most widely acclaimed work. Often called the "waterfall house", the sound of cascading water surrounds you as you walk through the wooded area leading to the house. Built of native sandstone and concrete, the building's dramatically cantilevered terraces soar over the waterfall. Inside, look for the fireplace that is part of the site's original rock formation and the glassed-in suspended stairway that descends to the falls. In 1986 Fallingwater was judged by the American Institute of Architects to be the nation's most successful example of architectural design. It is one of the clearest expressions of Wright's ideal..."that man can live in harmony with nature."

Fallingwater is the only remaining great Wright house with its setting, original furnishings, and art work intact. The Western Pennsylvania Conservancy, which owns and operates Fallingwater, indicates that the Fallingwater tour is designed for adults and most children become restless. Therefore, they require that children under 10 remain in the supervised child care center at the Visitors Pavilion where they can enjoy games and toys relating to nature and architecture. The fee is $2.00 per child per hour (not included in the tour price).

The bus trip to the site is about two hours each way. Once there, there is considerable walking and numerous steps; comfortable shoes are strongly advised. A lunch stop at Seven Springs is included in the tour price. (Bus Tour—Limited to 25 participants)

TOUR 2: Pittsburgh Pirates Baseball Game
Wednesday, August 19, 7:35 p.m.
Fee: $10.00
Orientation Area: None; attendees are responsible for getting themselves to the stadium.

This is a chance for baseball fans to see the Pittsburgh Pirates, 1991 National League Division Champions, playing the San Diego Padres in a home game at Three Rivers Stadium. Those who do not wish to walk across the bridge to the stadium may hop a city shuttle for a small fee (not included in the ticket price). (Walking excursion—Limited to 100 participants)

TOUR 3: Holy Pittsburgh (co-sponsored with the Association for the Sociology of Religion)
Thursday, August 20, 2:00-4:30 p.m.
Fee: $12.00
Orientation Area: Convention Center, Penn Avenue entrance
Tour Leader: Paula M. Kane, University of Pittsburgh

It used to be known as the "Steel City," more recently as a "deindustrialized city," part of the "Rust Belt." It has also been called the Steeler city (after the professional football team), more recently the Pirates and Penguins city. It might, as well, be called "Holy Pittsburgh." Clearly religion has been and still is of primary importance to the life of the city and its surrounding region. This tour will take you to some of Pittsburgh's major religious landmarks. By visiting them you will glimpse Pittsburgh's religious history over four eras—periods of settlement, commercial growth, rapid industrialization, and deindustrialization—and also the emerging trends of its religious present. This tour should provide a sense of how Pittsburgh reflects national trends in religious commitment, as well as how it occasionally diverges from those trends. (Bus and walking tour—Limited to 25 participants)

TOUR 4: CMU School of Computer Science
Thursday, August 20, 2:00-4:00 p.m.
Fee: $12.00
Orientation Area: Convention Center, Penn Avenue entrance
Tour Leaders: Faculty from the Carnegie Mellon University (CMU) School of Computer Science and Norman Hummon, University of Pittsburgh

Once home to steel, Pittsburgh is now a center for the study of artificial intelligence and home to various forms of advanced technology, including robotics. This tour includes visits to two laboratories where you will see field and planetary robots. You may see a robotic work station designed to assist the physically challenged or one sent to clean up Chernobyl. Other applications to be explored on this tour include machine-assisted translation, image understanding, computer music, and a speech recognition system. Guides will take you through the demos and introduce you to the Andrew campus network. There will also be an opportunity to discuss the sociological implications of what you observe. (Bus drop off/pick up, flat shoes are recommended—Limited to 30 participants)

TOUR 5: The Mon Valley (co-sponsored with Section on Political Sociology)
Friday, August 21, 9:00 a.m.-1:30 p.m.)
Fee: $20.00 (includes lunch)
Orientation Area: Convention Center, Penn Avenue entrance
Tour Leader: Jo DeBolt, Executive Director of the Mon Valley Initiative

July 1992 marks 100 years since steelworkers and Pinkertons clashed at Homestead, PA in one of the most violent and significant battles in American labor history. This tour provides a unique opportunity to view current developments in the steel valley around Pittsburgh. The bus will go first to Pittsburgh's South Side, site of the now-defunct J&L steel mill and recipient of significant public-private investment in recent years. Then the tour will continue through the Monongahela Valley for a comparative look at four communities: Braddock, Clairton, Homestead, and Duquesne. The focus will be various stages of deindustrialization and mill demolition and various strategies for community revitalization. Around noon the bus will stop at the original Carnegie Library complex in Homestead, PA, where ASA tour-goers will be joined for lunch and discussion by community people from several Mon Valley towns. (Bus drop off/pick up—limited to 40 participants)

TOUR 6: Homewood Cemetery
Friday, August 21, 1:30-4:30 p.m.
Fee: $12.00
Orientation Area: Convention Center, Penn Avenue entrance
Tour Leader: Eleanor Falls, Duquesne University

In 1974 Randall Collins wrote, "Life is basically a struggle for status in which no one can afford to be oblivious to the power of others around him." A visit to the Homewood Cemetery in Pittsburgh suggests that the "struggle" follows one to the grave! Its' mausoleums and tombstones are inscribed with the names of some of Pittsburgh's most prominent families; and, as Patricia Lowry has pointed out, for every wealthy industrialist, thousands are buried there "who lived modestly and died in obscurity." A mini-course in stratification, while wandering over the hills of this marvelous "City of the Dead," is available to ASA visitors in Pittsburgh. (Bus drop off/pick up—Limited to 40 participants)

TOUR 7: Allegheny Brewery and Pub
Saturday, August 22, 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.)
Fee: $12.00
Orientation Area: Convention Center, Penn Avenue entrance
Tour Leaders: Owners Tom and/or Mary Beth Pastorius; Janet Stocks, University of Pittsburgh

Pennsylvania has more regional breweries than any other state and Western Pennsylvania is the site of dozens of small breweries, micro-breweries, and brew-pubs. The Allegheny Brewery and Pub is the first "tied house" (brewery-owned restaurant) in Pennsylvania since Prohibition. Built on the site of the former Eberhardt and Ober Brewery, which operated from 1848 to 1952, it is located across the street from the J.J. Heinz plant and adjacent to the German-American community of Troy Hill. The Brewery began production in 1989, and since has produced ten varieties of fine German beer (at first under the supervision of a brewmaster from the prestigious University of Munich program). Before touring the facility ASA visitors may order lunch from a menu of German specialties (sandwiches $3.25 to $4.25, salads $1.75 to $5.50, beer $1.75). (Bus drop off/pick up—Limited to 45 participants)

TOUR 8: Fairywood
Saturday, August 22, 1:00-3:30 p.m.
Fee: $12.00
Orientation Area: Convention Center, Penn Avenue entrance
Tour Leader: Robin R. Jones, University of Pittsburgh

Nestled in a wooded valley, Fairywood is located on the extreme western edge of the city of Pittsburgh. Its idyllic location and name contrast with its demographic profile: 89% African American, primarily female-headed households, 50% under 18 years old. Eighty percent of Fairywood's population is split between a public housing community and a Section 8 community (the latter owned by a private developer based in Baltimore). These two communities are not only geographically isolated but have more and more become separated from the city's social and economic mainstream. In 1984 they joined to form a resident-controlled community development corporation, which has achieved impressive accomplishments in economic development. Most notably the CDC has renovated an underutilized recreation center into Ujamaa Commercial Center, which houses a resident-owned grocery store, a laundromat, and a credit union. You will tour the community, meet the dynamic women in its' CDC and the charismatic Lutual Love, its' founder and executive director, who was profiled in a February Newsweek. They will show you how they are carrying out a philosophy of "ujamaa," or "cooperative economics." (Bus drop off/pick up—Limited to 25 participants)

Tour 9: Self-guided Walking Tour Package
Fee: $5.00
Orientation Area: not applicable

A package of three self-guided walking tours has been prepared for sociologists visiting Pittsburgh.

(1) DOWNTOWN PITTSBURGH: Downtown Pittsburgh is nestled between the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, which come together at "The Point" to form the Ohio. An area rich in natural resources which was home to Native Americans, it was fiercely contested, as both the French and the English viewed the area as a key to controlling the interior of the continent. The Point was the site first of Fort Duquesne, built by the French, and then Fort Pitt, built by the English in the 18th century. In the 19th and early 20th centuries, Pittsburgh was a national center for steel production, and the downtown area still contains architectural evidence of this prosperous era. Today the glass structure of Pittsburgh Plate Glass tower and plaza along with other modern skyscrapers define the skyline. This walking tour will provide a view of a number of the more interesting architectural, historical, and sociological sites which downtown Pittsburgh has to offer.

(2) THE STRIP DISTRICT: Just four blocks east of the Convention Center on Penn Avenue is the Strip District, home of the city's wholesale produce markets. It is also the fastest growing entertainment and restaurant center in Pittsburgh. The area is full of local color, outdoor markets, a range of restaurants, and is home to the Society of Arts and Crafts. Starting in the wee hours of the morning, through early afternoon, the Strip is bustling with activity as both wholesale and retail customers come to do their business. Later in the evening, a different kind of customer comes to enjoy the night life on Smallman Street. This walking tour will tell you where to find the best fish sandwiches, delicate pastries and cheap breakfasts, how to find the Metropol (for late-night dancing) or the Rosebud (for late-night coffee and acoustic music), as well as what to look for as you tour the rest of the Strip.

THE SOUTH SIDE: Pittsburgh is known as a city made up of distinctive neighborhoods, each with its own special charm. The South Side combines Eastern European residential communities built on its hilly slopes (so that, originally, steelworkers might walk to the now-defunct J&L millworks) with a commercial district built on the "flats" along the Monongahela River. It is an important example of successful interaction and occasional conflict between ethnic and historic preservation, on the one hand, and commercial development on the other. This walking tour will take you through the South Side, help you find Pittsburgh's best pierogies, show you a number of the ethnic churches in the neighborhood, and tell you where the most interesting night life can be found.

Welcoming and Orientation Party

All new members of the Association, and those who would like to know more about ASA's governance structure and how to become involved in ASA activities, are invited to the Welcoming and Orientation Party on Thursday, August 20, from 6:30-8:20 p.m.

This welcome is sponsored by the ASA Membership Committee. Members of ASA Committees and Sections and several ASA officers will be on hand to discuss avenues for formal and informal involvement in the Association. New members and first-time meeting participants are particularly encouraged to be present for this informative event!

DAN

Be sure your meeting schedule for Thursday, August 20, includes the nineteenth annual Departmental Alumni Night (DAN), where sociologists from around the world meet to reminisce about graduate school days, relay recent rumors, and create new coalitions!

The gathering will begin when the opening plenary session concludes, around 10:30 p.m., and plenty of time is provided for chatting and meeting colleagues and alumni.

Each graduate department of sociology in the United States and Canada is given the opportunity to fly its banner and wave its signpost to attract alumni and friends. Tables will also be provided for sociologists in business and industry as well as for international scholars and guests.

Make sure your meeting plans include the social event that brings all your friends together inone place at one time. Join the alumni interaction in West Hall, second level of the Convention Center, at 10:30 p.m. on Thursday evening!

In Remembrance

During the Presidential Address and Awards Ceremony (Friday, August 21, 4:30 p.m.) there will be a "Moment of Silence" to remember those members of the ASA who died during the last year (names as submitted to Footnotes, August 1991-August 1992). If you know of other members who have died during the past year who are not on this list, please contact the ASA Headquarters Office prior to the Ceremony.

Honorary Reception

Since 1984, the American Sociological Association has been joined by sociology departments and regional societies in co-sponsoring the annual Honorary Reception that follows the President's address and the ASA Awards Ceremony. This year the Association is pleased to acknowledge the following as co-sponsors of the Honorary Reception:

Department of Sociology, The University of Chicago, where President Coleman is presently Professor of Sociology;

Department of Sociology, Columbia University, where President Coleman received his PhD

Department of Sociology, University of Akron;

Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Allegheny College;

Department of Sociology, Carnegie Mellon University;

Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Gettysburg College;

Department of Sociology, The Johns Hopkins University;

Department of Sociology, Kent State University;

Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Ohio University;

Sociology Department, University of Pennsylvania;

Department of Sociology, The Pennsylvania State University;

Department of Sociology, University of Pittsburgh;

University Center for International Studies, University of Pittsburgh;

Department of Sociology and the Student Sociology Club, University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown; and

Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Purdue University All meeting participants are invited to join with the co-sponsors at the Honorary Reception in the Allegheny Foyer of the Pittsburgh Vista at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, August 21, to express appreciation, congratulations and best wishes to the President and major award winners on what promises to be a festive occasion!

ASA Business Meeting

The annual ASA Business Meeting will begin at 8:30 p.m. on Sunday, August 23, in South 2 on the third level of the Lawrence Convention Center. All members of the ASA are encouraged to attend to hear Association officers present their reports to the membership and to consider resolutions from ASA members offered for discussion and action.

Resolutions for the Business Meeting must be delivered to the ASA Headquarters Office (South 1 in the Convention Center) before 5:00 p.m. on Saturday, August 22. Each resolution must indicate the name and affiliation of the submitter and identify the person who will actually present the resolution at the Business Meeting. Those received before the deadline will be posted in the ASA Registration Area so that members may become familiar with upcoming business. Resolutions submitted to the Executive Office by the Saturday deadline will be given preference on the Business Meeting agenda; unposted resolutions will be permitted, up to the limit of time available before the 10:20 p.m. adjournment.

Reminder . . . Only current voting members of the ASA may submit, present, discuss and vote on Business Meeting resolutions.

River Cruise

Enjoy a relaxing evening of conversation, dinner, and music on a special river cruise at 6:30 p.m. on Saturday, August 22. The dinner cruise is a fundraiser for the ASA Teaching Endowment Fund, a small grants program which supports teaching-related projects. Five dollars of each ticket will go to support the Fund; additional contributions are welcomed.

On the boat, enjoy a buffet supper and cash bar. After a satisfying meal, walk the decks and take in the lovely riverfront scenery and Pittsburgh skyline. It promises to be a pleasant evening for sociologists, spouses, and friends—and it's all for a good cause.

Tickets for this year's dinner cruise are $39. Advance reservation is required; sign up at the Tickets Desk in the ASA Registration Area in South Hall by 5:30 p.m. on Friday, August 21.

Transportation to the dock is not included in the ticket price. Attendees are advised that the gangplank will be pulled up at 6:45 p.m. sharp, so expect to miss the boat if you are tardy. Tickets are non-refundable.

Activities of Other Groups

General information on activities of various groups meeting in conjunction with the ASA is listed below and in the daily program schedule. In addition to the published meeting schedule, several organizations will have membership information and publications on display in the Table Space Area in South Hall.

Three special film/video showings are being highlighted this year.

ASA Information—Convention Center, South Hall

The ASA Information Desk is staffed with ASA Executive Office personnel who are able to provide information on membership, subscriptions, and publications. Staff will be available Thursday-Sunday, 8:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m., and Monday, 8:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m. Copies of the 1992 Guide to Graduate Departments, 1992 Directory of Members, and 1992 Directory of Departments are available, as are other ASA publications. Sample copies of ASA journals are available for inspection.

ASA Office—Convention Center, South 1

The Headquarters Office will be staffed from Wednesday through Monday by ASA Executive Office personnel. Office hours are 8:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m., Wednesday-Monday, August 19-24. The demands on staff time and equipment are limited to official ASA functions.

Child Care—Convention Center, South 10

A child care program, "KidConvention 92", is being provided by Janet Onnie and associates of the ASA Executive Office Staff. Care will be available during the daytime program sessions (8:00 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.) for infants and older children. Evening care must be arranged on an individual basis through local babysitting agencies specializing in this service.

We are pleased to announce that the following individuals/companies have generously co-sponsored the 1992 Child Care Program, thus defraying some of its expenses and lowering daily fees to parents: Austin Travel, J. Howard Baliles Construction Company, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Carey, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Quellmalz, Greenwood Publishing Group, Inc., Gumpy's Copy Center, Sociological Abstracts, Wadsworth Publishing Company, and all the sociologists who contributed both their time and money to this service. We thank each contributor for assisting ASA in providing another quality convention experience for your children.

Lunch and snacks will be provided; however, parents may arrange to take their children out for lunch or bring a special bag lunch with them in the morning if they prefer.

Charges for those who did not pre-register their children for the Child Care Service are $45.00 per child for a half day (8:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.) and $65.00 per child for the entire day. For children using the service for shorter periods, the half-day fee will apply in order to encourage more stable use, discourage frequent dropping in and out, and simplify payment. Children who are not pre-registered with the service will be accepted only on a space-available, first-come first-served basis.

Reminder: All parents/guardians using this service must also be paid registrants for the Annual Meeting.

City Information—Convention Center, Lobby Level

Check the Convention Center lobby for information about attractions in the Pittsburgh area. The Greater Pittsburgh Convention and Visitors Bureau and the Convention Center have information displays and most materials are available free of charge.

Didactic Seminar Information—Tickets Desk, Convention Center, South Hall

Those already enrolled for seminars should have received their tickets with their meeting packets. Some tickets may still be available for Didactic Seminar; check at the Tickets Desk for up-to-date information.

Seminar tickets are non-refundable and cancellations cannot be accepted. You may, however, sell your ticket to someone else if you are unable to attend.

Employment Service

The 1992 Employment Service will be open at the Lawrence Convention Center on Wednesday, August 19, from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m., and Thursday through Sunday, August 20-23, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. The service will not be open on Monday, August 24.

Facilities will be available for reviewing employment listings, exchanging messages, and interviewing. If you have pre-registered as a candidate for the Employment Service, report to Employment Service Candidate Registration area as soon as possible to activate your file. (Candidate registration forms are not supplied to employers until the candidate files have been activated on-site.) If you have not pre-registered, you should do so as early as possible. Attendees wishing to make full use of this Service should register by 5:30 p.m. on Friday, August 21.

All persons using this Service must register for the Annual Meeting as well as for use of the Employment Service. Once registered, you will be issued a pass permitting your entrance to the Service any time it is open. No one will be admitted without a pass. Fees for use of the Employment

Service: Candidates with ASA membership—$15, Non-member Candidates—$35, Employers—$75. All employer listings must be prepaid (a valid purchase order will be accepted); post-meeting billing is not available.

During the Annual Meeting in Cincinnati last year, 64 employers listed 81 openings, including 16 positions outside academia, and 344 candidates registered with the Service. Nearly 1,100 interviews were scheduled.

Exhibits—Convention Center, East Hall

All Annual Meeting attendees are encouraged to browse through the Exhibits located in East Hall. Exhibits will be open to meeting registrants from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Thursday-Saturday, August 20-22, and from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, August 23.

Plan your schedule to include several visits to the 1992 ASA Exhibits to browse through the latest publications, explore current computer hardware and software, view new film releases, chat with representatives of statistical and informational literature, and meet with colleagues participating in the Scholar-to-Scholar Sessions adjacent to the exhibit area.

See the Directory of Exhibitors listed elsewhere in this Program for names and booth numbers of all exhibitors, and don't forget to look through the Program for special ads!

Locator File—Convention Center, South Hall

Locator cards will be filled out by convention attendees as they pick up their registration packets. These cards will then be available for reference at the ASA Information Desk during the meeting to help colleagues contact each other while in DC. Message Exchange boxes are located near the escalator banks in South Hall, providing message access during the hours the Convention Center is open.

Media—Convention Center, South 5

Media representatives are invited to stop by for registration packets and interview assistance. The media office will be open 1:00-5:00 p.m. on Wednesday, August 19; 8:00 a.m.-5:30 a.m. on Thursday-Sunday, August 20-23; and 8:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m. on Monday, August 24.

Meeting attendees are invited to stop by the Media table in the ASA Registration area and indicate their willingness to be available during the Annual Meeting as resources for media contacts and press interviews.

Minority Fellowship Information—Convention Center, South Hall

Information on undergraduate fellowships for advanced study under the MOST Program and predoctoral fellowships under the regular MFP Program will be available from the ASA Office. You may leave your name and address at the ASA Information Desk in Pittsburgh, or write or call Ms. Frances Foster, Minority Affairs Manager, ASA, 1722 N Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20036; (202) 833-3410, x322.

Paper Sales—Convention Center, South Hall

The Paper Sales Room is open on Wednesday, August 19, from 1:00-5:00 p.m.; Thursday-Sunday, August 20-23, 8:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; and Monday, August 24, 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Papers are available for the price of $3.00 each. All eligible papers which were submitted to the Executive Office for duplication and/or distribution appear on the list of "Available Papers" (blue copy included in your registration packet). Authors who indicated that they would bring copies with them to the Annual Meeting are urged to deliver them to the Paper Sales room as soon as possible upon arrival.

Papers may be purchased as long as supplies last; order for future delivery cannot be accepted. Requests for papers which have sold out or were not supplied may be sent directly to the author(s). In order to facilitate communication with authors, a "Roster of Authors" which includes names and mailing addresses of authors may be purchased for $3.00. Papers may also be available through Sociological Abstracts, Inc.; check the abstracts booklet for information.

The Executive Office is not able to return unsold copies of papers to individual authors; however, authors may pick up any remaining copies of their own papers after 1:00 p.m. on Monday, August 24.

Copies of some papers may remain at the end of the meeting. Any institution wishing to obtain some of these should contact the Executive Office before or during the meeting.

Note: All persons wishing access to the Paper Sales Room must be paid registrants for the Annual Meeting; badges are required for entrance into this area.

Professional Development Information—Convention Center, South Hall

As the ASA's newest service, the Professional Development Program (PDP) seeks to enhance the role of sociology in all types of public and private job settings and to strengthen sociological practice as a growth area for the profession. Be sure to stop by the PDP information table to review available career publications and sociological practice materials.

Quiet Spot—Convention Center, South 1 and Office 5

Attendees coping with illness or lack of stamina may use a "quiet spot" to escape briefly from the noise and bustle of convention activities. This space is being provided in response to concerns brought to the ASA Council by the Socioloigsts' AIDS Network and the Sociologists' Lesbian and Gay Caucus. Anyone needing immediate medical attention should contact the first aid station on the lobby level for help.

Resources for Attendees with Special Needs—Convention Center, South Hall

The ASA Information Desk will coordinate resources during the convention week for registrants with physical disabilities who are attending the Annual Meeting. Again this year the ASA Information Desk is conveniently located adjacent to the ASA Registration Area.

Special services which were arranged in advance may be verified with Information Desk staff on your arrival to ensure that you receive the assistance you need. Attendees who did not make advance arrangements are requested to contact staff in the ASA Office in South 1.

Restaurant Services—Convention Center, Lobby Level

The Greater Pittsburgh Convention & Visitors Bureau is providing information on local restaurants that are members of the Bureau, along with sample menus and assistance in making reservations. The reservation service will be open from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Thursday-Sunday, August 20-23.

Pittsburgh's Choice, a local dining club offering temporary memberships to meeting attendees, will also have a table in the lobby. Attendees who pre-registered with the club may pick up their membership cards and restaurant information there. Those who wish to sign up on-site may do so at the club's registration table.

Section Information Table—Convention Center, South Hall

Information on 32 ASA Sections and two sections-in-formation, including copies of 1992 Section newsletters, is available in the ASA Information area at the Section table which is staffed by representatives of the various sections. Section representatives will also be present at the Welcoming and Orientation party on Thursday, August 20, 6:30-8:20 p.m., in Allegheny II-III at the Vista.

SSSP Transportation—Convention Center, Penn Avenue entrance

The Society for the Study of Social Problems (SSSP) is running a small mini-van shuttle between the Convention Center and the Green Tree Marriott on Thursday, August 20, to facilitate attendance at their tribute session for Alfred McClung Lee and the two cross-listed sessions on the SSSP and ASA programs. The Tribute Session, "Remembering Alfred McClung Lee: The Father of SSSP, is scheduled at 12:30 p.m. in the Stephen Foster room; "Marx in the Postmodern World I" (ASA Session 68) is at 2:30 p.m. in the Link room; and "Marx in the Postmodern World II" (ASA Session 83) is at 4:30 p.m. in the George Westinghouse Room.

The shuttle will run on a continuous schedule. Passengers may board at the Penn Avenue entrance to the Convention Center.

Teaching Resources—Convention Center, South Hall

The ASA Teaching Resources Center (TRC) is a source for written materials about teaching sociology. Most of these products have been written by sociologists; ASA Sections have been active contributors as well. TRC offers 49 syllabi sets, guidelines for training gradute students for teaching roles, curriculum development, specific teaching skills such as lecturing, and information on the institutional variables that bear on effective teaching.

TRC personnel will be staffing the Teaching Resources Table in the ASA Registration area, where copies of current TRC materials will be available. Don't forget to stop by the table before your departure to look over the display items and ask for the latest catalogue!

Tours—Convention Center, Penn Avenue Lobby

Those already enrolled for tours should have received their tickets with their meeting packets. Please check at the Tickets Desk in the ASA Registration area (South Hall) for any cancellations or changes in site schedules.

Orientation sessions for tour groups wil be held in the Tour Orientation areas listed with the tour descriptions; most groups will be meeting in the main lobby near the Penn Avenue entrance. Tickets are required for access to the orientation and departure areas.

Tour tickets are non-refundable and cancellations cannot be accepted. You may, however, sell your ticket to someone else if you are unable to attend.

The following MFP Fellows are participating in this year's Annual Meeting Program. ASA and the 1992 Program Committee are pleased to highlight these professional activities of current and former Fellows. The Minority Fellowship Program (MFP), in operation since 1974, has been a significant factor in recruiting minorities into sociology. Fellows continue to make important contributions to the growth of the discipline. The Asociations takes great satisfaction in acknowledging this form of professional activity.

24. Didactic Seminar. Computer Analysis of Historical Narratives

Vista, Butler

Ticket required for admission
Larry Griffin, Vanderbilt University

This seminar will (a) address the question of the sociological utility of historical narratives, (b) examine the logic of the narrative explanation of events, and (c) describe in detail one methodological innovation grounded in, exploiting, and generalizing qualitative historical sequences, "event structure analysis" (ESA). Developed by David Heise, ESA uses a particular software, ETHNO (for ethnographic analysis), to aid the analyst in imputing causal connections among sequences of actions constituting a historically singular event and in interpreting the meaning and significance of those actions. Much of the seminar will be devoted to using and manipulating ETHNO and to exploring its applications to both micro- and macro-historical sociological issues.

71. Didactic Seminar. LISREL Models

Vista, Cambria

Ticket required for admission
Gerhard Arminger, Universitaet Wuppertal

This seminar gives an overview of recent developments in mean and covariance structure models. Participants should have a working knowledge of the classical LISREL models for metric variables such as simultaneous equations and factor analysis and an understanding of the Maximum Likelihood (ML) estimation of these models. The classical models will be extended to general mean and covariance models. Threshold models are included to deal with censored dichotomous and ordinal variables. The assumptions and uses of the different estimation techniques—Maximum Likelihood (ML), Pseudo ML, marginal ML, Minimum Distance—will be discussed.

87. Didactic Seminar. Life Course

Vista, Cambria

Ticket required for admission
Karl Ulrich Meyer, Max Planck Institute for Human Development and Education, Berlin, Germany

The seminar will provide a systematic overview of quantitative studies on the life course as an emergent research paradigm. It will cover main concepts and theoretical tenets, methodological approaches, major studies and selected important results. The focus will be on Life Course Analysis as a way of studying social structure and macro-social change within institutional contexts rather than as a means of studying psychological development or the subjective biography.

The seminar will probably be most useful for three groups: (a) novices who look for comprehensive information and assessment; (b) those who want to catch up with the state of the art; and (c) researchers who are about to do work in this area and wonder how best to do it.

105. Didactic Seminar. Sociological Applications of Game Theory

Vista, Butler

Ticket required for admission
Jeroen Weesie, University of Utrecht, Netherlands
Werner Raub, University of Utrecht, Netherlands

Game theory provides tools for modeling and analyzing social situations with interdependent actors. This seminar has a twofold objective. First, the seminar provides an introduction to basic notions of the theory of noncooperative games, e.g., the extensive and normal form of a game, equilibrium concepts. In the second part of the seminar, applications will be discussed: the analysis of trust and cooperation in social dilemma situations, the paradox of relative deprivation, crime and punishment, competition among political parties.

The seminar does not assume previous knowledge of game theory. Some affinity with the use of formal theoretical models in sociology would be useful. As a background reading, we recommend Eric Rasmusen, Games and Information: An Introduction to Game Theory, Oxford: Blackwell 1989, Part I.

106. Professional Workshop. Getting Research Grants: Opportunities for Federal Funding

Convention Center, South 12

Organizer and Presider: Felice J. Levine, American Sociological Association

Panel: William Sims Bainbridge, Sociology Program, National Science Foundation

Larry E. Suter, Division of Research, Evaluation, and Dissemination, National Science Foundation

Nancy Moss, National Institute of Child Health and Human Development

Ann A. Hohmann, National Institute of Mental Health

Katrina Johnson, National Institute on Aging

This workshop will focus on federal funding opportunities for research and training at several key science agencies. Panel members will describe programs and initiatives, application and review procedures, criteria of funding, and the elements of competitive proposals. The goal of the workshop is to make accessible the process of applying for grants. There will be ample time for questions. Sociologists, including students, who have not yet received federal grants for research are particularly encouraged to attend.

137. Didactic Seminar. Participatory Action Research

Vista, Cambria

Ticket required for admission
William Foote Whyte, Cornell University

The seminar will begin with a definition of Participatory Action Research (PAR), distinguishing this research strategy from other related approaches. We will then briefly review how PAR has been used in a variety of industrial, community, and agricultural research and development projects. With the participation of seminar members, we will discuss how the sociologist might develop the participation of members of the organization studied in the PAR project. Finally, we will consider the potential of PAR for advancing science and human welfare. Prerequisites: reading in advance two reprints to be sent to enrollees by the ASA Executive Office: W.F. Whyte, "Advancing Scientific Knowledge Through Participatory Action Research", and Ira Harkavy et al, "Universities and Community Schools."

A panel of sociologists with expertise on urban studies, societal violence, ethnic and race relations, and social change comment on urban unrest. From the recent riots in Los Angeles and other cities, to the more general challenges of managing cities frought with social problems, sociologists have special insights to share. Why did the riots occur in some cities and not others? What are reasonable solutions to urban problems? What do we know about racial and ethnic relations that can reduce urban tensions?

This session is organized for the media, although all meeting registrants are welcome to attend. The panel has prepared briefing materials about urban unrest, including a bibliography.

151. Didactic Seminar. Event History Analysis

Vista, Cambria

(to 11:30 a.m.)

Ticket required for admission

Lawrence L. Wu and Brian Martinson, University of Wisconsin, Madison

Introduction to the analysis of event history data. Topics include data structures for event histories and time varying covariates, exploratory methods, time dependence, right and left censoring, proportional and nonproportional hazard models, time dependence, estimation, and hypothesis testing. We stress a mixture of theory and practical issues using concrete example and computer output. Seminar assumes knowledge of linear regression, logistic regression, and statistical inference, but does not require prior exposure to event history models or methods.

The major aim of this workshop is to offer demonstrations of how ChipenDale microcomputer software can be used in the teaching of several upper-division courses (more specifically, Sociology of the Family, American Society, and Population & Society). A secondary aim is to demonstrate how related software, HyperResearch, MicroCase, ShowCase, and SPSS/PC+Studentware, can be adapted for the same didactic purposes. Although the emphasis will be on quantitative analysis, a brief demonstration of HyperResearch will explore the analysis of qualitative data. In sum, the workshop is promoting the artful use of microcomputer-assisted data analysis in non-research methods sociology courses, especially those typically taught at the upper-division level.

This special session is an open forum to discuss current challenges facing sociology in the academy and to consider approaches for enhancing the discipline's future. President Coleman will chair this session and, along with Executive Officer Levine, will make some initial remarks to guide the discussion. They will be followed by commentators who bring different forms of first-hand experience. Two speakers (DiMaggio and Rumbaut) are on campuses where just this year financial crises have threatened the viability of their departments. Two speakers (Otten and Huber) are academic administrators (Department Chair and Provost, respectively) who have worked to ensure departmental growth and change. The audience is encouraged to participate in this session and to frame questions and contribute ideas.

200. Didactic Seminar. Field Research

Vista, Cambria

Ticket required for admission
Elijah Anderson, University of Pennsylvania

Personal reflections on seminar leader's field experience in low income urban Black communities over the past twenty years. Familiarity with Anderson's work, including Streetwise: Race, Class, and Change in an Urban Community and A Place on the Corner, will be useful but not essential. Seminar leader will focus on the way in which such settings are changing as well as the implications such changes have for field research methods. Issues of method, substance, and theory will be explored, with an emphasis on making sociological sense of field data.

201. Didactic Seminar. Log-Linear Models

Vista, Butler

Ticket required for admission
Scott R. Eliason, University of Iowa

The seminar will provide an overview of methodology for the analysis of contingency tables using log-linear models and their extensions. The session is organized around a PC packagee developed by Eliason ("Categorical Data Analysis System"; CDAS). Modules in this program can be used to fit regular log-linear and logit models, latent class models, association models, multiple-group association models, and other standard or recent models. It can also be used to adjust rates, or standardize rates, using the purging method. Many of the routines in CDAS allow treatment of methods that cannot be considered with standard packages. Some familiarity with log-linear and logit models is assumed.

202. Scholar-To-Scholar Session. Mathematical Sociology, Methodology, Organizations, Labor Market

Convention Center, East Hall

216. Didactic Seminar. Multi-Dimensional Scaling

Vista, Cambria

Ticket required for admission

Keiko Nakao, University of New Mexico

The aim of this seminar is to present a set of scaling techniques known as multidimensional scaling (MDS). MDS provides a geometrical representation of objects in a multi-dimensional space that enables researchers to examine structures underlying the relationships among the objects. MDS can be applied to a variety of sociological domains, for example, with group members or organizations defined as objects and the relationships derived from the perceptions, preferences, or interactions among them. Topics to be discussed include non-metric and metric multidimensional scaling, preference scaling, and individual differences scaling. Examples of research using these methods will also be provided.

217. Professional Workshop. Dealing with the Media: Pitfalls and Opportunities

Convention Center, South 12

Organizer: Rachelle B. Warren, RBW Associates

Herbert J. Gans, Columbia University

Pepper J. Schwartz, University of Washington

Wayne Youngquist, WISN-TV, Milwaukee, and University of Wisconsin, Whitewater

Sociologists will discuss how they bring sociology into the daily news, and when and how to talk with media. The workshop will focus on both the organizational structure of various media and guidelines for presenting data and ideas to the media.

218. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Sociology with a Marxist Perspective

Convention Center, North 8

Rhonda F. Levine, Colgate University

Scott G. McNall, University of Toledo

This workshop will discuss strategies for introducing marxist and other critical perspectives in undergraduate courses, with special attention given to the introductory course. One goal of the workshop will be to discuss how to avoid simplistic and mechanical applications of the marxist perspective. Another will be to show how to enhance students' critical perspective on a wide variety of sociological phenomena. Suggestions for lectures, discussions, exercises, examinations, and paper topics that further these goals will be introduced. It is expected that workshop participants will share their experiences in introducing and teaching a critical perspective in different contexts, e.g., from community colleges, to small liberal arts colleges and large universities and from the introductory course to the upper-division course.

219. Regular Session. Gender: Gender and Socialization

234. Didactic Seminar. Using Legal Sources in Sociological Research

Vista, Cambria

(to 12:20 p.m.)
Ticket required for admission
Kim Lane Scheppele, University of Michigan

Law provides a rich repository of textual evidence for sociologists interested in historical, interpretive and discursive analysis of culture, knowledge and power. This seminar explores the possible uses of legal texts in sociological inquiry through a nuts-and-bolts introduction to legal research. Our time will be devoted primarily to American materials, including an overview of the legal process and the structure of American courts as well as some quick training in how to read legal texts. We will then go on to cover the basics of research into primary legal documents, like court cases, statutes and administrative regulations, so that participants can find materials for themselves in their own research projects. No specialized background is assumed and sociologists of all methodological orientations are welcome.

284. Didactic Seminar. Regional Sociology and Geographic Information Systems

Vista, Cambria

Ticket required for admission
Leonard J. Hochberg, Stanford University
David W. Miller, Carnegie Mellon University

One of the more exciting interdisciplinary linkages is currently occurring between geography and sociology. This linkage has fostered several new theoretical approaches, evident in the work of Anthony Giddens, Immanuel Wallerstein, G. William Skinner, and others, as well as new methodological tools such as Geographic Information Systems (GIS) for displaying and analyzing quantitative data through the production of computer-designed maps.

This seminar consists of a lecture introducing several theoretical approaches in regional social science and a computer demonstration of a Geographic Information System. The presenters highlight the generic features of GIS capabilities using computer-designed maps of and sociologically-relevant data from nineteenth-century Ireland, both of which are drawn from their current research. Hochberg and Miller are current coediting (with Carville Earle, Department of Geography, Louisiana State University) Geographic Information Systems: A Handbook for the Social Sciences (Basil Blackwell, forthcoming).

SESSION 122. SPECIAL POSTER SESSION RESEARCH FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES

Presider: Felice J. Levine, American Sociological Association
Friday, August 25, 1992, 1:30-4:20 p.m.
Convention Center, East Hall

1. Department of Agriculture
COOPERATIVE STATE RESEARCH SERVICE—Richard Stuby, 5-A Administration Building, 14th Street and Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, DC 20250; (202) 401-4425

CSRS supports research in the food and agricultural sciences. It includes studies in agricultural economics and rural sociology. Some CSRS funds are awarded directly to state land-grant institutions, and investigators must be affiliated with these institutions to receive funding. Competitive research grant funds are open to proposals from all sources.

2. Department of Commerce
BUREAU OF THE CENSUS—Manuel de la Puente, Center for Survey Methods Research, Washington Plaza Building, Room 433, Washington, DC 20233; (301) 763-1447

The Census Bureau funds research using data collected by its surveys and censuses. The agency is also a key source of statistical data for social science research.

3. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
Office of Research—Joseph Conaty and David Stevenson, Room 611, 555 New Jersey Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20208; (202) 219-2239

Through support of basic and applied research, evaluations, and analyses, the Office of Research serves parents, teachers and school administrators, and policymakers at local, state, and federal levels.

A major function of the Office of Research is to fund and coordinate research carried out by 22 national educational research and development centers based in universities across the country. In addition, OR supports field-initiated research projects and intramural research.

Of particular interest is the Field-Initiated Studies that encourages individuals and groups to pursue research that is clearly relevant to national educational concerns and issues. Public and private organizations, agencies and institutions, and individuals are invited to apply. Approximately 10 projects are funded each year.

The Office of Research has four divisions Learning and Instruction, Schools and School Professionals, Higher Education and Adult Learning, and Education and Society.

4. NATIONAL CENTER FOR EDUCATION STATISTICS
Tom Smith, (202) 219-1685

NCES, in partnership with the American Educational Research Association (AERA), funds fellowships.

5. Department of Health and Human Services, Public Health Service
AGENCY FOR HEALTH CARE POLICY AND RESEARCH—Patricia Thompson, Suite 602, Executive Office Center, 2101 East Jefferson Street, Rockville, MD 20852; (301) 227-8449

AHCPR serves as the Public Health Service's research arm and is responsible for studies on medical effectiveness, patient outcomes, health care delivery and costs, and technology assessment. Extramural research is supported on such issues as health survey methods, measurement of functional status, measurements of outcomes of alternative treatments in common use, primary care, changing provider behavior, quality of care assessment and assurance, methods of dissemination of research findings and practice guidelines, health care for rural and disadvantaged populations.

6. Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration
NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF MENTAL HEALTH—Ann A. Hohmann, Services Research Branch, Division of Applied and Services Research, NIMH, 5600 Fishers Lane, Room 18C-14, Rockville, MD 20857; (301) 443-3364

NIMH is the focal point for federal support of investigator-initiated research and research training in mental health. The NIMH extramural research program is administered by three divisions: Division of Applied and Services Research; Division of Basic, Brain, and Behavioral Research; and Division of Clinical Research.

The Division of Applied and Services Research supports investigator-initiated research and research training in the following areas: accuracy of clinical assessment; effectiveness of treatment and rehabilitation services; role of self-help groups and families in providing care; quality of care and outcomes research; organization, financing, and structure of care, resource development; law and mental health, responses of and interventions for victims of interpersonal violence and catastrophic events; etiology, course, and correlates of aggressive and violent behaviors; and the impact of disasters.

The Division of Basic, Brain, and Behavioral Sciences Research supports investigator-initiated research and research training in the following areas relevant to social science: cognition, learning, perception, memory, attention, communication, emotion, and temperament, including the brain mechanisms underlying these activities; personality, mood, development across the life span, and the influence of family processes, social, cultural, and environmental factors on mental health and mental illness; relationships among behavior, physical illness, and emotional dysfunction, with an emphasis on ways of reducing health damaging and high-risk behaviors and enhancing healthful behaviors.

The Division of Clinical Research supports investigator-initiated research and research training in the following areas: diagnosis, etiology, genetics, and clinical biology of mental disorders; psychopharmacologic and psychosocial treatments to test the efficacy of existing treatments, to develop new treatments, and or improve rehabilitation; genetic, developmental, and other epidemiologically-defined risk factors which predispose individuals to have a higher rate of illness than that of the general population; and preventive interventions that are based on knowledge of risk factors and empirically-demonstrated approaches.

7. Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration
NATIONAL INSTITUTE ON ALCOHOL ABUSE AND ALCOHOLISM—Susan Martin, Room 13-C23 Parklawn Building, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857; (301) 443-1677

NIAAA supports basic and applied research related to the causes, consequences, treatment, and prevention of alcohol-related problems. Most social science research is funded through the Division of Clinical and Prevention Research and the Division of Biometry and Epidemiology. NIAAA also supports several alcohol research centers and an intramural research program. Research priorities include sociocultural and environmental determinants of drinking; safety, trauma, and alcohol-related performance; economic and socioeconomic issues in the prevention and treatment of alcohol problems; and the prevention of alcohol-related problems in children, adolescents, and other at-risk populations.

8. Centers for Disease Control
NATIONAL CENTER FOR HEALTH STATISTICS—Audrey Burwell, Grants Coordinator, Room 1100, Presidential Building, 6525 Belcrest Road, Hyattsville, MD 20782; (301) 436-7062

NCHS, the Federal Government's principal vital and health statistics agency, maintains data systems covering the full spectrum of concerns in the health field from birth to death, including overall health status, lifestyle and exposure to unhealthy influences, the onset and diagnosis of illness and disability, and the use of health care.

9. National Institutes of Health
NATIONAL INSTITUTE ON AGING—Ronald Abeles and Katrina Johnson, Room 2C-234, Gateway Building, 7201 Wisconsin Avenue, Bethesda, MD 20892; (301) 496-3136

NIA provides significant support for social and behavioral research related to the aging process and to specific diseases and conditions of the aged. NIA research on health and behavior investigates how good health, effective functioning, and productivity can be prolonged, and disability and dependence postponed.

The Behavioral and Social Research (BSR) program integrates research on the process of growing older, the interrelationship between older people and social institutions, and the impact on society of the changing age composition of the population.

10. National Institutes of Health
NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF CHILD HEALTH AND HUMAN DEVELOPMENT—Nancy Moss, Room 611, Executive Plaza North, 6130 Executive Blvd., Bethesda, MD 20892; (301) 496-1174

NICHD is a major source of NIH funds for the social and behavioral sciences, and has the largest annual budget ($26 million) in the U.S. for social science research. Historically, the Institute has two main extramural programs: the Center for Population Research, which funds demographic and sociological research, the the Center for Research on Mothers and Children, which funds developmental and behavioral, as well as maternal and child health research. Additionally, a new component was added in 1991 the National Center for Medical Rehabilitation Research.

NICHD's major research efforts in the social sciences include sociodemographic factors in mortality, including infant motality; family and household structure; immigration; child care; residential segregation; labor markets; fertility; and adolescent pregnancy.

11. National Institutes of Health
RESEARCH GRANTS DIVISION—Bob Weller, Room 307, Westwood Building, 5333 Westbard Avenue, Bethesda, MD 20892; (301) 496-7906

NIH and ADAMHA study sections provide the critical first review and evaluation of research grant applications. This poster session will explain the NIH review process, identifying each step from submission to evaluation and explaining the review process and procedures, study section activities, and criteria for writing a successful proposal.

12. Department of Justice
NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF JUSTICE—Bill Woldman, Senior Manager, Networking Services, NIJ/NCJRS, 1600 Research Blvd., Rockville, MD 20850; (301) 251-5309

NIJ supports research, development, and evaluation programs designed to improve the criminal justice system. Priority is given to policy-relevant research that can yield approaches and information that state and local agencies can use in preventing and reducing crime. The 1992 Research and Evaluation Plan solicits proposals in several broad areas, with specific priorities established in each area. In addition, support is available through the visiting fellowships, graduate research fellowships, and summer research fellowship programs. Information and announcements can be obtained from the National Criminal Justice Reference Service. Call 1-800-851-3420 to become a registered user and receive free documents.

13. Department of Labor
BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS—Clyde Tucker, Room 5217, 600 E Street, NW, Washington, DC 20212; (202) 272-2280

The BLS collects and publishes statistics on the labor force, prices, living conditions, wages and working conditions, productivity and technology. The Bureau also funds data collection for the National Longitudinal Survey of Labor Market Experiences, as well as research projects using that data collection. Other activities includes surveys needed to implement the Federal Employees Pay Comparability Act and revision of the Current Population Survey. BLS, in cooperation with the National Science Foundation and the American Statistical Association, sponsors a Senior Research Fellow and Associate Program. Program participants have the opportunity to make major advances in methodology and applications in a number of areas.

14. National Science Foundation
DIRECTORATE FOR SOCIAL, BEHAVIORAL, AND ECONOMIC SCIENCES—William Bainbridge, Director, Sociology Program, 1800 G Street, NW, Room 336, Washington, DC 20550; (202) 357-7802

The newly established Directorate for Social, Behavioral, and Economic Sciences is probably the single most identifiable federal source of research support for basic research in the social sciences. Within the new Directorate, social science research is primarily supported in the Division of Social and Economic Science and the Division of Behavioral and Cognitive Sciences. Also, there are other relevant programs and initiatives throughout the Directorate. This is a source of information on all these avenues of support.

The Division of Social and Economic Science (SES) where the Sociology is located, provides support for disciplinary and multidisciplinary research, data collection, and measurement and methodological research. The goal of the Division is to develop basic scientific knowledge of social and economic systems, organizations and institutions, and human interaction and decision making. SES will also provide support for research conferences, doctoral dissertation research, the acquisition of specialized research and computing equipment, group international travel, and data resource development.

15. National Science Foundation

DIRECTORATE FOR EDUCATION AND HUMAN RESOURCES—Larry Suter, Director, Office of Studies and Assessment, 1800 G Street, NW, Room 1249, Washington, DC 20550; (202) 357-7425

The Indicators Program seeks statistical information about the health of the nation's science, mathematics, engineering, and technology (SME) education. It measures educational achievements in progress, comparing the output of the nation's education system against various benchmarks. Beginning in 1993 it will produce a biennial indicators report on national and international trends. Extramural research supported by this program includes data collection and, where necessary, analysis of data and their significance. Research funded through this program (1) assesses SME achievement trends in the U.S. and other nations at pre-college and higher levels, (2) examines student participation trends in both pre-college and higher SME education, (3) evaluates factors that influence educational quality—like teacher qualifications, instructional time, course content, and learning methods—in relation to student achievement, and (4) develops tests that measure both conceptual knowledge and problem-solving skills.

16. CONSORTIUM OF SOCIAL SCIENCE ASSOCIATIONS—Judy Auerbach, 1522 K Street, NW, Suite 836, Washington, DC 20005; (202) 842-3525

COSSA represents more than 185,000 American scientists across the full range of the social and behavioral sciences disciplines, functioning as a bridge between the research world and the Washington community. It monitors research and funding in various federal agencies that advocate for and support social and behavioral science. This activity is summarized annually in a special issue of the COSSA Update devoted to analysis of the administration's budget for social and behavioral science research.

17. AMERICAN COUNCIL OF LEARNED SOCIETIES—Janet Greenberg, 228 East 45th Street, New York, NY 10017-3398; (212) 697-1505, ext. 131

ACLS supports research in the humanities and humanistic aspects of the social sciences through awards to individual scholars. Of the five ACLS programs, the general ACLS Fellowship/ Grant-in-Aid helps make it possible for scholars to devote two to twelve continuous months to research. In addition, ACLS sponsors jointly with the Social Science Research Council several programs concerned with encouraging social science and humanistic research on specific countries or regions of the world. The ACLS also has administrative and fiscal responsibility for the Council for International Exchange of Scholars, which administers the Fulbright Scholarships; is one of the sponsors of the Committee on Scholarly Communication with the People's Republic of China, which administers exchanges with that country; and is one of the founders of the International Research and Exchanges Board (IREX), which administers scholarly exchanges with Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union.

18. COUNCIL OF PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATIONS ON FEDERAL STATISTICS—Katherine Wallman, 1429 Duke Street, Suite 402, Alexandria, VA 22314-3402

COPAFS works with the federal agencies that collect, analyze, and disseminate data on virtually all aspects of society and individuals within the society. These agencies include, among other, the Bureau of the Census, the Bureau of Justice Statistics, the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the National Center for Education Statistics, and the National Center for Health Statistics.

The statistical agencies are particularly important to social and behavioral scientists—not because they are major funders of extramural research, but because they serve as important data resources for the research community. Fellowships to support on-site internships at several of the agencies are available on a competitive basis, and arrangements are made for researchers to work on special projects. In addition, these agencies make contract agreements for data collection and analysis and, in varying degrees, seek input from academic and nonacademic researchers on ways to improve survey methodology.

19. NATIONAL HUMANITIES ALLIANCE—John Hammer, Director, 1527 New Hampshire Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20036; (202) 328-2121

The National Humanities Alliance (NHA) was created in 1981 to unify the public interest in support of federal programs in the humanities. The Alliance is the only organization that represents the humanities as a whole—scholarly and professional associations; organizations of museums, libraries, historical societies, higher education, and state humanities councils; university and independent centers for scholarship and other organizations concerned with national humanities policies. The Alliance also speaks in behalf of individuals engaged in research, writing, and public presentations of the humanities.

The purpose of the NHA is to advance the cause of the humanities by promoting the common interests of its members with regard to national policy, programs, and legislation that affect the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) and other agencies related to the humanities. NHA carries out this purpose by providing members with timely information, by providing a forum for active members to discuss and develop NHA policy and activities, and by representing all members or groups of members in actions aimed at influencing national policies, programs, and legislation affecting NEH and other humanities-related agencies.

20. SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH COUNCIL—Katherine Hoffman, 605 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10158; (212) 661-0280

SSRC supports the training and work of individuals scholars through fellowship and grant programs for pre-dissertation, dissertation, and postdoctoral work. A major emphasis is on study relating to areas outside the U.S. An International Predissertation Fellowship Program provides foreign area training for social scientists at any of 23 participating institutions. Programs sponsored jointly with the American Council of Learned Societies support comparative and foreign area research in the humanities and social sciences. Fellowships on Peace and Secruity in a Changing World support work that explores new forces affecting international peace and security. Other programs support research on persistent and concentrated urban poverty and participation in workshops designed to promote research skills of Hispanic scholars relevant to contemporary Hispanic issues.

Questionnaire Design, Interviewing & Attitude Measurement
Second Edition
by A.N. Oppenheim

"This book is a very practical and down-to-earth introduction to the construction and use of questionnaires. It is intended for students of sociology and psychology, for market research and advertising research workers, and indeed for all who might at some time be required to draw up and use questionnaires for the purpose of ascertaining the attitudes of various groups of people towards various issues or products...[T]his is unquestionably an excellent book in its field, which it is hoped will be widely read." — Journal of Child Psychology

1992 320 pp. ISBN 1-85567-044-5 $22.50 pb.

COOL POSE
The Dilemmas of Black Manhood in America
Richard Majors and Janet Billson

"A creative and dynamic contribution to the growing literature on the unique position of black males in American society."
—Jewelle Taylor Gibbs, author of Young, Black, and Male in America

1992 0-669-24523-2 $19.95

COPING WITH JOB LOSS
How Individuals, Corporations and Communities Respond to Layoffs
Carrie R. Leana and Daniel C. Feldman

"The first thorough examination of the effects of job loss on people's lives and careers. By considering different ways people react to layoffs, it identifies positive and negative consequences of alternative coping strategies—valuable information for employees, managers, and counselors."
—Manuel London, SUNY, Stony Brook

1992 0-669-16569-7 $24.95

GAY FATHERS
Robert L. Barret and Bryan E. Robinson

For the gay father, the difficulties of parenting are compounded by the painful stuggle to reconcile dual identities in an atmosphere that offers little support or understanding. This book provides an insightful look at the personal, legal, and psychological issues that accompany gay fatherhood.

1990 0-669-19514-6 $18.95

JUVENILE JUSTICE
Toward a National Agenda
Ira M. Schwartz, Editor

Juvenile crime is one of the most significant domestic policy issues of our time. Despite the pressing interest in this issue, little progress has been made in reducing the rate of serious juvenile crime. Written by some of this country's most respected scholars and professionals, this volume examines many of the critical and troubling issues in juvenile justice—including delinquency prevention, youth gangs, the future of juvenile court, and race, gender, and ethnicity.

1992 0-669-26902-6 $35.00

BLOWING THE WHISTLE
The Organizational and Legal Implications for Companies and Employees
Marcia P. Miceli and Janet P. Near

"Miceli and Near make a valuable contribution to our understanding of this sensitive issue. It is highly recommended reading for those wishing to maximize the benefits and minimize the harm that can come from a whistle-blowing situation."
—John M. Palguta, Deputy Director of Policy and Evaluation, U.S. Merit Systems Protection Board

1992 0-669-19599-5 $24.95

CRIME CLASSIFICATION MANUAL
A Standard System for Investigating and Classifying Violent Crimes
John E. Douglas, Ann W. Burgess, Allen G. Burgess, and Robert K. Ressler

"A very useful guide for any professional involved in the investigation or litigation of major felonies. Classification of the elements of crime will facilitate the conduct of criminal investigations and resolution of cases."
—Richard L. Goldberg, M.D., Georgetown University Hospital

1992 0-669-24638-7 $49.95

MISSING CHILDREN
Rhetoric and Reality
Martin L. Forst and Martha-Elin Blomquist

—Jerome H. Skolnick, University of California, Berkeley

1991 0-669-24418-X $22.95

The Lexington Books Series on Social Issues
George Ritzer, General Series Editor

THE UNREAD MIND
Unraveling the Mystery of Madness
Morris Rosenberg

Throughout history, people have been intrigued and baffled by mental illness. Rosenberg, who spent seventeen years conducting research at the National Institute of Mental Health, asserts that the root of this is our inability to fully understand the thoughts and emotions of other human beings. His radical new theory offers us a new way to look at the relationship between mental illness and society.

1992 0-669-27727-4 $35.00

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT IN AMERICA
Raymond Paternoster

Addressing one of today's most controversial issues, Paternoster reviews the history of execution in the United States, the laws concerning capital punishment, and the arguments for and against the death penalty.

1992 0-669-21409-4 $35.00

HEAVY METAL
A Cultural Sociology
Deena Weinstein

"A compelling and thoroughly researched treatment of America's most misunderstood and maligned youth subculture. With this text the study of rock music subcultures comes of age, an event that has been long overdue in American sociology."
—Jonathan S. Epstein, Kent State University

NEW EDITIONS IN 1993

AMERICAN ETHNICITY, Second Edition
Joseph Hraba, Iowa State University

This race and ethnic relations text examines the specific histories of American ethnic groups within the context of the nation's economic and labor history and, by emphasizing the complementarity of social and psychological theories, interprets ethnic change in a changing American society. The second edition reflects new research and changing demographics.

Winter 1993 — c. 470 pages — casebound

SOCIOLOGY IN EVERYDAY LIFE, Second Edition
David A. Karp, Boston College
William Yoels, University of Alabama, Birmingham

This engaging introductory textbook uses symbolic interaction to examine the interplay between the micro and macro features of daily life. Examples are drawn from the university setting. The second edition includes a new chapter on health and illness.

> ". . . Rather than simply presenting sociological concepts, Karp and Yoels do an excellent job of using these concepts. Students are shown, by example, how the language of sociology can be used to clarify and understand their social experiences. . . "
> (Kriss A. Drass in Teaching Sociology)

Winter 1993 — c. 350 pages — paperbound

THEORIES OF DEVIANCE, Fourth Edition
Edited by Stuart Traub and Craig Little, State University of New York, Cortland

THEORIES OF DEVIANCE is a collection of theoretical statements from diverse sociological perspectives, tracing the development of the sociology of deviance from 19th century functionalism to contemporary political-economic explanations.

The streamlined fourth edition includes expanded chapter introductions. The control theory chapter now covers family violence, and the final chapter contains new selections written especially for this edition.

1993 — c. 460 pages — paperbound

Striking sparks in sociology.

Responding creatively to change.

Pine Forge Press recognizes the myriad changes that will affect the college teaching and publishing environment into the 21st century:

- The redefinition of courses and disciplines
- Advances in computer technology
- The decline of originality in text publishing
- The demand for top-quality yet affordable texts
- The growing concern for undergraduate teaching

Forging a new kind of sociology text.

Texts to help you teach as you aspire to teach. Books and software that ignite students' sociological imaginations and encourage ideas and applications.

The publisher for scholars with new ideas about social science education.

Home Fires

An Intimate Portrait of One Middle-Class Family in Postwar America

Donald Katz

Donald Katz offers a powerful saga of the cultural transformations of postwar America as reflected in the experience of a real-life family. Home Fires chronicles nearly five decades of the Gordon family's quest for the fulfillment of the American dream, with the scope, depth, wealth of incident, and emotional intensity of a great novel, and an abundance of humor, scandal, warmth and trauma. Deftly juxtaposing day-to-day family life with landmark public events and figures, Katz has created an intricate and unforgettable narrative tapestry, a rich and revealing portrait from Truman to Bush.

"Donald Katz has taken a wonderful idea, tracing the members of one American family from the end of World War II to the present, and has given us a rich and poignant portrait of the complexity and volatility of the American dream in that period. I am sure that anyone who begins this book will fall under its spell and find some kind of kinship with many of its characters. This is American social history at its best."—David Halberstam

"Family stories intrigue us because they are yardsticks against which we measure our own experience, assuring us that the secrets and sorrows and weirdnesses of the life lived behind our drawn drapes are recapitulated in households all over America. There are tatters and rents in every American dream, this mesmerizing, important book reminds us. If you've ever dreamed that dream—of a family secure in its love, stability, wholeness, accomplishments—don't ask for whom 'Home Fires' is written. It's written for you."

—Judith Viorst, New York Times Book Review

Teenage Wasteland

Suburbia's Dead End Kids

Donna Gaines

"An outstanding case study....This book could serve in any introductory course as a prime example of the sociological imagination....Gaines shows how teens engage in cultural production and how such social agency is affected by economic transformations and institutional interventions."

—Richard Lachman, Contemporary Sociology

"Fascinating...refreshing...As a work of scholarship, [Teenage Wasteland] poses many valuable questions for the field of cultural studies. There is no comparable study of teenage suburban culture, let alone of a metalhead subculture, and very few ethnographic inquiries written with anything like Gaines's native gusto or her luminous eye for detail."

—Andrew Ross, Transition

"A brilliant chronicle of youth and death and social class among America's burned out generation.... Journalism was never this profound, sociology was never so engaged or hip."—Barbara Ehrenreich

"For anyone who wants to understand the culture of a large segment of American youth, Teenage Wasteland is essential—an astonishing portrait of the dark side of contemporary adolescence, and of the social forces that make it dark."

—Paul DiMaggio, Yale University

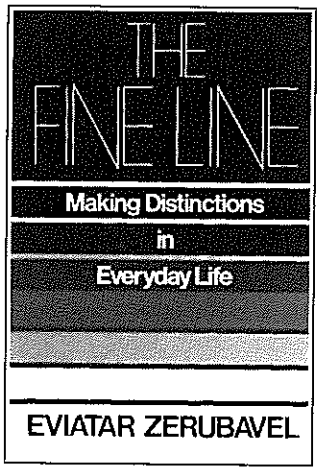
SOCIOLOGY FROM THE SOURCE



THE FINE LINE
Making Distinctions in Everyday Life

Eviatar Zerubavel,
Rutgers University

"An eclectic and impressive compendium of mental boundaries, boundary shifts and shades of grey. A valuable and thought-provoking excursion into how the human mind works, and Zerubavel pulls off the difficult trick of writing in a scholarly and stimulating way at the same time. It's well worth reading for people inside, outside, and ambiguously straddling the boundary of the new field of cognitive science."

SOME DO CARE
Contemporary Lives of Moral Commitment

Anne Colby,
Radcliffe College and
William Damon,
Brown University

Many believe that this is a barren time for moral leadership in America. Quite the contrary, assert Colby and Damon, and in Some Do Care, they provide a living psychological account of 23 moral exemplars who have provided moral leadership in communities across the United States. The stories of their lives reveal the moral heartbeat of America in inspiring color and detail—and provide new insights about moral courage, its meaning and place in America today, and how it may be kindled and nurtured in the youth of America.

DUAL ATTRACTION
Bisexuality in the Age of AIDS

Martin Weinberg,
Colin Williams, and
Douglas Pryor, all
Indiana University

Until now, little has been known about bisexuality. In this exhaustive and timely study, the authors document their decade of research in San Francisco's bisexual community to shed new light on the processes that lead people to become bisexual, the nature of bisexual desire, the extent and variety of bisexual activity, and the relative stability of bisexuality as a preference. The authors also include information on how the AIDS crisis has affected bisexual behavior.

SICK SOCIETIES
Challenging the Myth of Primitive Harmony

Robert B. Edgerton, University of California, Los Angeles

Was a pure and peaceful American continent corrupted by the arrival of Columbus? Have Western contacts irrevocably tainted the pristine folkways of indigenous peoples around the globe? These popular notions reflect the current view about the legacy of Western civilization. But is this picture really true? Or does it simply reflect the fashionable dogmas currently entrenched in the academy? Edgerton challenges these comfortable orthodoxies in a thorough review of actual social conditions in both the developed and developing worlds.

TELL THEM WHO I AM
The Lives of Homeless Women

Elliot Liebow, Catholic University

In this, his first book in thirty years, Elliot Liebow does for America's homeless what his classic Talley's Corner did for urban blacks. Liebow carefully investigates and documents the patterns and routines of homeless women: how they meet their needs for clothing, shelter, food, storage, work, religous solace, and companionship. Liebow brings the maturity of a lifetime of work as one of America's most sensitive and admired urban anthropologists to bear on this painful and difficult subject. He shows a side of our society—the lower tier—that few have ever seen.

MORTAL ENGINES
The Science of Performance and the Dehumanization of Sport

John M. Hoberman,
University of Texas, Austin

"Provides a unique historical perspective on many of the problems currently plaguing sport, such as doping, nationalism, and racism. Hoberman's account of the conspiracy to cover up the doping epidemic on the part of international officials and members of the sports medicine community is particularly riveting. A scholarly work that is enjoyable to read."

LIFESCAPES: 1930-1990
The Shaping of the Lives of 300 Individuals over a 60-Year Period

John A. Clausen,
University of California, Berkeley

In the culmination of the now famous Berkeley Longitudinal Studies, Clausen assesses what he has learned about the lives of 300 men and women studied since their adolescence in the early 1930s to determine why some were successful while others were less so. The findings of this study will challenge popular educational psychology that proffers shortcut solutions to deeply rooted personal problems, while enlarging our understanding of the importance of values and behavior patterns established early in life.

THE DANGEROUS EDGE
The Psychology of Excitement

Michael Apter,
Northwestern University

Why do people seek out uncomfortable, unnecessary, and often dangerous activities—skydiving, or bullfighting, or fast driving? Apter offers the first comprehensive and accessible guide to the psychology of excitement, in which he explores the fascinating and complex relationship between excitement and anxiety, panic and euphoria.

ABOVE THE LAW
Police Use of Excessive Force and What to Do About It

Jerome H. Skolnick,
University of California, Berkeley
and James J. Fyfe,
American University

The astonishing acquittal of four Los Angeles policemen in the Rodney King case precipitated mob violence and a worldwide outcry against police violence. Skolnick and Fyfe use this incident to introduce their definitive new study of the nature of police violence, the extent of its presence in America today, and the possible ways to remedy a problem which is undermining public confidence in police across the nation.

POLICING DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

Lawrence Sherman,
University of Maryland

Family violence has always been illegal, but over the last decade, feminist and public interest groups—arguing that a bond of complicity exists between police and male abusers—succeeded in pressuring over a dozen state legislatures to adopt a mandatory arrest policy. Wisconsin was one of the first to adopt this policy, and Sherman and his team spent several years closely observing its implementation and outcome in Milwaukee. His controversial findings reveal the limitations of a mandatory arrest policy. Sherman argues that relying on arrest as a "cheap fix" only points to the neglect of underlying social problems which are still not being addressed.

BORDER CROSSINGS
Cultural Workers and the Politics of Education
Henry Giroux

"Border Crossings is an enormously powerful and important book by one of the most intense and brilliant thinkers of our times....an eminently accessible book and, in its interweaving of popular culture, contemporary politics, and moral vision, the writing speaks to a broad audience. Giroux has written heretofore chiefly as an educator. This time, he is speaking as a public citizen in the great tradition of American dissenters....this is certainly his most important and searching book. It ought to be read widely." —Jonathan Kozol, author of Savage Inequalities

EMBATTLED EROS
Sexual Politics and Ethics in Contemporary America
Steven Seidman

"In a lively analysis, Steven Seidman takes us beyond romanticism and libertarianism to an ethics where consent and responsibility become the crucial guidelines for a culture in which sexual diversity is the norm. This book is a major contribution to the ongoing sexuality debates, and will surely become one of its key texts." —Jeffrey Weeks

THE DIALOGICS OF CRITIQUE
M. M. Bakhtin and the Theory of Ideology
Michael Gardiner

The Dialogics of Critique explores Bakhtin's insights on the terrain of critical social and cultural theory, encompassing a broad range of interpretive, methodological and epistemological concerns centering around the theory and critique of ideology.

240 pp $49.95/cloth $15.95/paper

BAUDRILLARD'S BESTIARY
Baudrillard and Culture
Mike Gane

"In this committed and important study, Mike Gane makes a case for Baudrillard as an important cultural critic with nothing flashy or lightweight about him. He concludes in true Baudrillardian fashion that Baudrillard remains enigmatic, 'struggling in the void between symbol and simulation.'" —The Sunday Times, London

BLACK WOMEN AND WHITE WOMEN IN THE PROFESSIONS
Occupational Segregation by Race and Gender, 1960-1980
Natalie J. Sokoloff
Foreword by Julianne Malveaux

"Thank you Natalie Sokoloff, for tearing apart the vicious stereotype that black professional women have hiring advantages and better salaries—and that black and white women are each other's enemies. This book is ammunition for fighting sexism and racism."

THE GAY AND LESBIAN LIBERATION MOVEMENT
Margaret Cruikshank

Concise, balanced, and highly readable, this book examines gay and lesbian liberation from three different perspectives: as a sexual freedom movement, as a political movement, and as a movement of ideas. Separate chapters treat gay culture, lesbian feminism, and conflicts and debates within the movement.

MARXISM 1844-1990
Origins, Betrayal, Rebirth
Roger S. Gottlieb

"...a timely, lively, coolly impassioned work. Roger Gottlieb helps us to see what is worth stoking and what is worth dousing in the alleged embers of Marxism. The book's clarity and comprehensiveness make it particularly reader-friendly for both long-time and beginning students of Marxism." —Elizabeth V. Spelman, Smith College

INSIDE THE STATE
The Bracero Program, Illegal Immigration and the INS
Kitty Calavita

"This book is a beautifully researched and welcome addition to the emerging literature on administrative discretion and policymaking in the immigration area. It cuts deeply through previously unexplored terrains of data—both oral histories and Immigration Service archives. It should be of considerable interest to every scholar looking for informed discussion about the nature of official behavior in difficult political contexts."

Have A Statistical Database Application?

Use SIR. The Right Tool for the Job!

Tools are designed for specific purposes.
Use the right tool and you save time and effort.
Use the wrong tool and you don't.

You wouldn't use a hand-held hammer to drive in fence posts or a sledge hammer to push in tacks. The same is true with software tools. It's only natural that systems designed for commercial applications don't have the features needed to handle statistical database applications.

The SIR application development tools have been designed to address the specific needs of statistical, scientific, and research databases - problems that systems designed for commercial applications generally don't have to consider.

▲ Missing Values.
SIR understands the difference between "not answered" and "not applicable". It can distinguish between missing data and "not-yet-defined" data. It knows that none of these forms of missing data is allowed in sums, averages, and other statistical calculations. You don't have to write special purpose programs to prevent missing data from turning into zeroes.

▲ Coded Data.
With SIR you can write reports by merely extracting data from the database tables. There is no need for a separate table for each coded column in your database. There is no need for joining data tables and code tables. You save on database size and greatly simplify your queries.

▲ Built-In Functions.
The SIR 4GL application development tool has a collection of over 200 functions including row-wise and column-wise statistics, mathematical functions, and much more. You save a great deal of programming effort.

▲ Built-In Statistics.
SIR is outfitted with "descriptive statistics" routines to get a quick analysis of the data in the database. You don't have to write programs or exit from SIR to accomplish these tasks.

▲ Statistical Interfaces.
SIR automatically creates system files for the most popular statistical packages. In the stat package, you can go straight to statistical analysis and skip the time-consuming data description step.

To learn more about SIR, stop by Booth #230 or contact us directly at:

CLASSICS OF CRIMINOLOGY $14.95

"An excellent and valuable reissue. It provides a wonderful collection of primary materials—brief extracts from classical works in criminology that students should be familiar with. The editor has done a valuable service by locating the most essential passages to be included." —Edward Wells, Illinois State University

Gary F. Jensen and Dean G. Rojek

DELINQUENCY AND YOUTH CRIME, Second Edition $23.95

"This book is clearly written, engaging and informed by a deep understanding of the most significant work on delinquency. [The authors'] ability to synthesize and explain complex theories is excellent. The organization of the book is different from the usual repetitive format of most delinquency texts, and that is refreshing."—James L. Williams, Randolph-Macon College

Joseph T. Howell

HARD LIVING ON CLAY STREET Portraits of Blue Collar Families $10.50

"Even more vivid than Tally's Corner, it follows real, if disguised, people through concretely realized days and years." —The Washingtonian

". . . it is above all an intensely immediate, even gripping, account of daily life among the white urban poor." —Ms. Magazine

David Dawley

A NATION OF LORDS The Autobiography of the Vice Lords, Second Edition $9.95

"This book represents some of the best writing on race written in the last twenty years. It recounts the story of Chicago's gang culture and how David Dawley helped turn it inside out to help the Lords use their energy and skills to build a new life." —Dick Irish, author, Go Hire Yourself An Employer

Phil Brown, Editor

PERSPECTIVES IN MEDICAL SOCIOLOGY $21.95

Newly reissued by Waveland Press, this collection reflects a newer viewpoint in the field arising from the dramatic intellectual growth and expanded breadth of medical sociology and from the need to situate the American health care system's deepening problems in a fresh perspective. —Adapted from the Preface

Geoffrey P. Alpert and Roger G. Dunham

POLICING URBAN AMERICA, Second Edition $11.95

"This is an excellent overview of various issues that relate to the police. It is well written, and students should find it extremely interesting. The authors are to be commended." —Mark Blumberg, Central Missouri State University

Thomas R. Shannon, Nancy Kleniewski and William M. Cross

URBAN PROBLEMS IN SOCIOLOGICAL PERSPECTIVE, Second Edition $12.95

"This is a good, thorough book on the range of urban problems. It offers sound, insightful analyses." —Patrick Donnelly, University of Dayton

New Books for Sociologists

Urgent! Of particular interest to faculty members!

Retirement 101

How TIAA-CREF Members Should Deal with the Dramatic Changes in Their Pensions

Willard F. Enteman

For decades, the major pension insurer for American academics, TIAA-CREF, had virtual monopolistic control of its participants' savings. The funds were locked in until retirement and the only option thereafter was to purchase an annuity from TIAA-CREF. Those restrictions were removed in 1990.

Retirement 101 is the first guide written specifically in response to the TIAA-CREF changes. Readers will find clear, jargon-free, nonbiased advice on all aspects of retirement planning, arranged by the stages typical of an academic career;

- savings allocation
- investment management
- early retirement
- insurance in all its varieties.
- estate planning
- social security
- property ownership and disposition

The Politics of Pensions

A Comparative Analysis of Britain, Canada, and the United States, 1880-1940

Ann Shola Orloff

"There is a vast literature on the development of the welfare state but few substantive comparative books that pursue a causal analysis. Ann Orloff's project will be an exceptionally important addition to the literature. This book will force those interested in explaining the development of the welfare state to revise their arguments."

—Jill Quadagno, Florida State University

Cloth library edition $60.00 Paper $19.95

Between Memory and Reality

Family and Community in Rural Wisconsin, 1870-1970

Jane Marie Pederson

Pederson examines the development and the people of two rural Wisconsin communities during the post-frontier years. She demonstrates the effects of the cultures brought to these communities by immigrants and migrants on the distinctive ways these towns responded to change in the twentieth century.

History of American Thought and Culture

Cloth library edition $50.00 Paper $17.95

Migration and Residential Mobility

Macro and Micro Approaches

Martin Cadwallader

"Migration and Residential Mobility is a tour de force within the field of migration, representing an excellent summary of Martin Cadwallader's research on migration over the past seventeen years. The book will establish and confirm him as a leading authority within the field."

—James O. Huff, University of Illinois

Cloth library edition $45.00 Paper $18.95

Race in America

The Struggle for Equality

Edited by Herbert Hill and James E. Jones, Jr.

"Race in America is a monumental assessment of the current status of race relations in the United States. It is without a doubt the authoritative work on this most important subject. . . . Impressive in its scope and analytical quality, there is no other work that achieves the breadth and depth of this collection."

—Arthur J. Vidich, New School for Social Research

Political Attitudes over the Life Span

The Bennington Women after Fifty Years

Duane F. Alwin, Ronald L. Cohen, and Theodore M. Newcomb

This book builds on Newcomb's famous research on women who attended Bennington College in the 1930s and 1940s. Combining data from the 1930s, 1959-60, and 1984, the authors apply state-of-the-art assessment methods to this extremely rich data set to produce a landmark work in social science.

Life Course Studies

Cloth library edition $40.00 Paper $21.50

Magical Arrows

The Maori, the Greeks, and the Folklore of the Universe

Gregory Schrempp

Foreword by Marshall Sahlins

"A highly original and thought-provoking work. It is packed with insights into an astonishingly wide range of subjects, from the evolution of Lévi-Strauss's thought on the nature-culture opposition, to the status of kinship as an analytic category, to the distinctive features of the Judaeo-Christian and Polynesian cosmogonic traditions. To read it is a demanding and rewarding experience."

New from Macmillan Reference

The only comprehensive reference that covers every aspect of the field...

THE Encyclopedia OF Sociology

EDITED BY EDGAR F. BORGATTA & MARIE L. BORGATTA, Univ. of Washington

- the definitive introduction to every topic, theory, methodology
- approximately 1,800 pages in four volumes
- more than 400 signed and original articles by the most highly respected contributors
- international editorial advisory board of distinguished sociologists

At last — a reference as broad-ranging as the discipline it describes...

Addressing every aspect of sociology, from affirmative action to white collar crime; from theory and methodology to the latest research findings, this four-volume set stands alone in the literature. Written specially as an introduction, in clear nontechnical language, the Encyclopedia will be a welcome addition to your collection.

Entries range from 1,000 to 7,000 words in length, and feature the work of sociologists who are at the forefront of their respective fields. The scope is impressive — from James S. Coleman on rational choice theory to David Mechanic on health and illness behavior, and Kay Deaux on sex differences — the information is thorough, up-to-date, and insightful. Articles on various international sociological topics are included, as are those on such timely topics as homelessness and family violence.

AMONG THE ARTICLES:

- Causal Inference Models, H.M. Blalock, Jr. • Collective Behavior Theories, Ralph H. Turner
- Deviance and Criminalization, Toby Jackson • Sexual Violence and Abuse, Sharon K. Arajli
- Social Gerontology, Linda K. George • Family Planning, Jacqueline Darroch Forrest
- Kinship Systems and Family Types, Bernard Farber • Income Distribution, Beth Hess

A COMPLETE EDUCATION IN FOUR VOLUMES:

- accessible — material assumes no prior knowledge
- authoritative — contributions by eminent scholars
- easy to use — A–Z entries with ample cross-referencing and indexing
- up-to-date — current state of knowledge plus insights into future developments
- comprehensive — concepts, theories, practical information, methodologies, research, and statistics

SPECIFICATIONS:

- 1,800 pages in four volumes, 8½" x 11"
- over 200 illustrations
- bibliographies, cross-references, and index
- printed on acid-free paper
- smyth-sewn to lie flat when opened
- ISBN 0-02-897051-9

Backstreets

Prostitution, Money, and Love
CECILIE HØIGÅRD AND LIV FINSTAD

"Backstreets is a major breakthrough that takes us into the daily, lived experiences of prostitution to reveal its harsh and brutal realities. Nowhere else have we seen the violation that prostitution is to women so fully and sensitively revealed. From women's lives Backstreets exposes the lies of liberal romanticization of prostitution. The unavoidable conclusion of this work is that we must challenge every social condition that gives men license to use women in these ways." —Kathleen Barry, author of Female Sexual Slavery

The Rise and Fall of Nuclearism

Fear and Faith as Determinants of the Arms Race
SHELDON UNGAR

"Ungar has written a book of extraordinary value and timeliness. He provides a detailed account of one of the most bizarre and destructive ideologies of our era, the spiritual disease of nuclearism. The recent loss of faith in this ideology on the part of commentators and ordinary Americans does not, as he points out, extend to our present policy makers. They in particular would do well to read carefully and take very seriously this painstaking and accessible work of engaged scholarship."

Final Solutions

Biology, Prejudice, and Genocide
RICHARD M. LERNER
Forewords by R. C. Lewontin and Benno Müller-Hill

"In this cogently argued work Richard Lerner scrutinizes deterministic views of human nature and documents the pernicious uses to which they have too often been put. He also presents the scientific rationale for a more flexible view of human potential." —Howard Gardner, Harvard University

JUDY WAJCMAN

"A well-written, coherent, intelligent, and thoughtful statement of the interrelationship between gender and technology in modern Western society. Beyond the Welfare State?

The New Political Economy of Welfare
CHRISTOPHER PIERSON

"Beyond the Welfare State? draws on a careful and exhaustive review of both the theoretical literature and empirical evidence on the contemporary Western welfare states and social democracy. Pierson's overview of the forces that propelled comparative welfare state development, crisis, and change is masterful, critical, and balanced. Packed with fresh insights and sharp reasoning, the book manages to pull together what it is important to know in the field of comparative welfare state studies. It is just about the best review of the literature currently available—a perfect text for upper-level university courses."

WHAT ASA CAN DO FOR YOU

Join 13,000 of your colleagues by becoming a member of the professional association established to serve us in academia, government, business, industry and non-profit associations.

Since 1905, ASA has been the professional association for sociologists and with each year, it has grown stronger by publishing major journals, lobbying for research monies, establishing a Teaching Services Program, creating a Minority Fellowship Program, working to strengthen the public image of sociologists and their work, and much more . . .

THE SOCIO-CULTURAL MATRIX OF ALCOHOL AND DRUG USE
A Sourcebook of Patterns and Factors
Twenty-two original essays that address the social and cultural factors affecting the use and abuse of alcohol and other chemical substances in a variety of sub-populations, including: adolescents, the elderly, women, physicians, nurses, the poor, members of the upper middle class, Mexican-Americans, Oriental Jews, and black students. 0-88946-849-4 $119.95 587pp.

Jansen, Clifford J. and Anton J. Jansen
SOCIOLOGICAL AND ECONOMIC CHANGE IN THE PEASANT SOCIETY OF TROINA, SICILY
"This study is a rich, original and compellingly comprehensive study of various stages of development and transformation of a local community. . . . The discussion of the relationship between the local community and the more centralized state authorities is also very persuasive and in a number of instances sheds new light on the interactions between state politics and assisted or "colonized" communities.. . . . breaks new ground by focussing on the processual and structural dimensions of community life and by confronting directly the conditions and consequences of social change. . . . suitable for many audiences, from those more oriented towards multi-disciplinary accounts, cultural studies, Italian studies, sociology of communities, social history, to the more curious general public readers." - L. A. Visano, York University, in Scholarly Research and Review 0-7734-9469-3 $59.95 200pp.

Hegy, Pierre
MYTH AS FOUNDATION FOR SOCIETY AND VALUES
A Sociological Analysis
Knowledge, business, politics, defense etc. would be impossible on a national scale without the inner horizon of common values. Values are rooted in myth, defined here in its earliest and simplest meaning, as that which is said, as in Homer, but also as the inner rationality of our everyday discourse.
0-7734-9680-7 $69.95 236pp.

Kirby, David
BOYISHNESS IN AMERICAN CULTURE
The Charms and Dangers of Social Immaturity
Argues the paradox of American culture by drawing from the allied disciplines of literature, history, and psychology: from sources as venerable as the classic texts of our civilization and as current as today's headlines. In the words of one journalist, "our dreamy, drifting culture throws off dangerous, drifting dreamers," the kind of men who shoot our presidents, of course, yet also the kind of men who sometimes become president.
