Annual Report – 2001

The Business Meeting of the Section on Aging and the Life Course convened at 10:30 AM on August 19, 2001 at the Annual Meeting of the American Sociological Association held in Anaheim, California. Eva Kahana (Section Chair) presided. Approximately 150 members attended.

Minutes of the 2000 Meeting

Deborah Gold distributed the minutes of the 2000 meeting. No corrections or changes were made. Section members unanimously agreed to accept them as presented.

Summary
Deborah Gold reported that the Section went over budget in two categories last year: the Section Reception, and the Section Newsletter. She proposed that each of these budget items be increased in the next (2002) budget. This proposal was unanimously supported by the membership. Kahana also reported that she had spent significantly less money on the 2001 reception, so we should be able to recoup some minor losses.

Election Results

Chair of the 2000-2001 Nominations Committee was Ron Abeles. Members of that committee were Rebecca Adams, Monika Ardelt, and David Ekerdt. The Chair of the 2001-2002 Nominations Committee will be Eva Kahana.

Results of the 2001 annual election of officers were announced:

Chair-Elect: David Ekerdt
Secretary/Treasurer: Eleanor Palo Stoller ('04)
Council: Duane Alwin ('04), Ellen Idler ('04)
Student: Joy Pixley ('03)

Report of Membership Chair

We have had an approximately 30% drop in Section membership from our high of 610 in 1999 to 434 in 2001. Typically, membership does increase around conference meeting times. Fluctuations in membership are considered over a three-year period, it appears that we have a stable base of around 300 persons who have been members for all three years. At the same time, there were 217 people who were members for only one year. M any of these may be students. O ne initiative that Marc Musick suggested is to contact members and invite them to continue their membership. W e distributed literature on our section at the roundtables in an effort to recruit more members. Unfortunately, Musick was not able to be at the meeting, but everyone called for more ways to both retain long-time members and to attract new members.

Report of Newsletter Editor

Ron Abeles was unable to attend the meeting. The one piece of information we had was that the three issues of the newsletter had exceeded budget this year, but not by much.

Distinguished Scholar Award

Linda George announced the winner of this year’s Distinguished Scholar Award is Phyllis Moen, Ph.D. M oen, Co-Director of the Cornell Gerontology Research Institute, is the Ferris Family Professor of Life Course Studies and Professor of Human Development and Family Studies at Cornell University. She also serves as founding Director of Cornell’s Bronfenbrenner Life Course Center. M oen received her Ph.D. in Sociology from the University of Minnesota in 1978. W hile on leave from Cornell, she spent several years as Director of the Sociology Program at the National Science Foundation, where she received two awards for her leadership. S he has since served as a consultant to the National Science Foundation. M oen will give her Distinguished Scholar Lecture at the 2002 meetings.

Student Award

T he Student Award had joint winners this year: co-authors Joy Pixley and Carter Butts. T hey will split the stipend for travel that comes with the award. T he chair of this committee was Madonna Harrington-Meyer.

Roundtables and Research Groups

Jacqueline Angel and Kenneth Ferraro were responsible for this year’s roundtables. T hey reported that there were 23 roundtable papers submitted; 22 were accepted. Attendance in the past has not been good for roundtables, thus, they have assigned at least 3 members to each table. S ome roundtable papers came bundled in conceptual packages. O thers were individual paper submissions. Individuals should be allowed to bundle their own roundtables.

Both Ferraro and Angel suggested that the newly elected council members who are responsible for roundtables need more guidance before doing the tables. T hey suggested that we send them a letter, urging them to come to the Council meeting when they are elected so that they can see the kinds of things they’ll be in for. Stoller suggested that Ferraro and Angel write up a report on the experience that can be given to future Council members.

Listserv

Marc Musick was not at the meeting. H owever, the Section needs to update with the ASA listserv.

Succession of Chairs

At the end of the Business Meeting, Chair Eva Kahana expressed her appreciation for the excellent work of section officers and announced that certificates of appreciation are being presented to them as a new initiative of the section. S he then turned over the reins of the Section to new Chair, Linda George, of Duke University. S he spoke briefly on some of her plans. T he meeting concluded at 11:30 AM.

Roundtables and Research Groups

Ellen Idler & Duane Alwin, Members of Council

The 97th Annual Meeting of the ASA will take place August 16-19, 2002, in Chicago. The theme for this year's meeting is Allocation Processes and Ascription. This call for Roundtable and Research Group submissions encourages you to participate by organizing or joining a Roundtable or Research Group. Information about our Research Groups is posted on our HomePage at http://www.asanet.org/sectionaging. Our section has always had a lively set of roundtable presentations, and last year's meeting in Anaheim was no exception.

We look forward to seeing you in Chicago. Send your submissions for roundtable or research groups to:

Urgent: Renew Your Membership

Marc Musick
Membership Chairperson

Last year was a not a good one for the section in that we fell below the threshold for two sessions at the 2002 annual meeting. With a concerted effort to retain members and to add news members we can regain the loss session for 2003! While it is now too late for 2002, it is not too late for the following year! So, if you have not renewed, please do so and keeping the aging section on your list of section memberships.

I would also encourage you to invite your doctoral students, new Ph.D.s, and colleagues to join the ASA and the Section on Aging and the Life Course. As you may know, membership in the section confers several benefits:

- Members receive copies of the section newsletter
- Members receive a copy of the section directory
- Members are added to the section listserv
- Members are informed of section activities (e.g., section reception) where they can meet colleagues with similar interests

As I mentioned above, higher section membership levels translate into more space for us on the annual program. More detailed information on our section and on the benefits of membership can be found on the section webpage at www.asanet.org/sectionaging/

We are also offering free section memberships to graduate students and new PhDs who are members of ASA! Requests for these free one-year section memberships and for regular section memberships should be sent to me at:

Students and new Ph.D.s who would like the free membership but are not members of ASA must first join the organization. Student memberships in the ASA are only $37. This price includes a full-year subscription to one of the ASA-sponsored journals. New PhDs join as regular members, whose annual dues vary by income (ranging from $48-$210). Regular membership includes a subscription to two journals. Applications for general ASA membership are available from ASA. They can be reached in several ways:

Job Opportunities

Texas A&M University: Three Positions

Texas A&M University System Health Science Center, School of Rural Public Health, Department of Social and Behavioral Health. The mission of the Department of Social and Behavioral Health is to improve the health and strengthen capacity of people and communities, with emphasis on rural and underserved populations, through application of the social and behavioral sciences to education, research, service, outreach, and creative partnerships. The department is seeking a Full Professor and Department Head (tenured) and two tenure track Assistant/Associate Professors to assist in achieving this mission. All are 12-month appointments, beginning 2002. The new faculty members will join a rapidly growing, and dynamic school of public health. The school currently offers M.P.H. degrees in the core areas of public health, as well as M.S.P.H. and M.H.A. degrees. The school is awaiting final approval to offer two doctoral degrees (a Ph.D. in Health Services Research and a Doctor of Public Health (DrPH; anticipated winter 2002). Approximately 160 students are currently enrolled in the school’s masters degree programs. The school was recently accredited by the Council on Education for Public Health (CEPH). Candidate must possess a doctorate in one of the relevant social and behavioral sciences. For information about the School and these positions, visit: http://hscconcord.tamu.edu/srph.

A graduate degree in public health or public health experience is preferred. Interested candidates should send a letter of application summarizing interests and qualifications, a curriculum vita, and the names, address, and phone numbers of three references to:

National Institute on Aging: Four Positions

Seeking one Branch Chief (at GS15/title 42 level) and three Health Scientist Administrators (at GS13/14/title 42 level) for fast-paced extramural research program office. The Behavioral and Social Research Program (BSR), one of four NIA extramural research programs, supports training and basic social and behavioral research on aging processes and older people in society. BSR is organized into two branches, one focusing on Individual Behavioral Processes, and one on Population and Social Processes. Major areas of BSR emphasis include the Aging Mind; Health Disparities; Genetics, Behavior and the Social Environment; Increasing Health Expectancy; Health, Work and Retirement; and Interventions and Behavior Change. Integration among psychological, physiological, social and cultural levels of analysis is emphasized. For additional information about the BSR Program, email M.s. Angie Chon-Lee at Chon-Lea@exmur.nia.nih.gov.

Applications for all four positions must be received no later than December 17, 2001. For information on application procedures, call Ms. Sue Braunstein at 301-496-5347. NIH is an equal opportunity employer.

Call for Nominations

Award for Distinguished Scholarship

This award honors a scholar in the field of aging who has shown exceptional achievement in research, theory, policy analysis, or who has otherwise advanced knowledge of aging and the life course. Nominations for this year’s Distinguished Scholar should be submitted to Dr. Eva Kahana, Distinguished Scholar Committee Chair, not later than April 1, 2000. Please describe your nomination’s contributions that are the basis for your suggestion. While not required, additional letters of support may be submitted.

Research Training Workshops

American Psychological Association Offers Advanced Training Workshops

Longitudinal Methods, Modeling, and Measurement
University of Virginia
Charlottesville, VA
June 10 - 15, 2002

APA’s first Advanced Training Institute of 2002, running from June 10 - 15 at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, will be a weeklong series of lectures and computer workshops on longitudinal methods, modeling, and measurement in contemporary psychological research. University of Virginia faculty members John McArdle, PhD, Karen Schmidt, PhD, and John Nesselroade, PhD, will lead the course. Applications for this course must be submitted electronically by February 1, 2002. Those selected will be notified by March 4.

Functional Magnetic Resonance Imaging
MGH-NMR Center
Charlestown, MA
June 23 - 28, 2002

APA will hold its Advanced Training Institute in functional Magnetic Resonance Imaging (fMRI) at Massachusetts General Hospital in Charlestown, Mass. The course, which provides training and hands-on experience in experimental design and data analysis, will also cover some of the necessary background in physics, biology, and biophysics. Directed by Robert L. Savoy, PhD, head of fMRI education at Massachusetts General Hospital, the course is designed for active researchers who are new to the field of fMRI. Applications for this course must be submitted electronically by March 8, 2002. Those selected will be notified by April 3.

For both courses, advanced graduate students, post-docs, and new and established faculty are invited to apply. Applications are available at www.apa.org/science/ati-info.html. For more information, contact APA’s Science Directorate at (202) 336-6000 or by e-mail at ati@apa.org.
NIH Summer Institute on Design and Conduct of Randomized Clinical Trials Involving Behavioral and Social Interventions
July 28 - August 9, 2002
Airlie Conference Center, Virginia

Organized by the NIH Office of Behavioral and Social Sciences Research (http://obssr.od.nih.gov)

OBJECTIVE: to provide a thorough grounding in the conduct of randomized clinical trials to researchers and health professionals interested in developing competence in the planning, design, and execution of clinical trials involving behavioral or social interventions.

The CURRICULUM will:
* Describe the principles underlying the conduct of unbiased clinical trials.
* Contrast biomedical vs. Behavioral interventions in the context of RCTs.
* Evaluate and interpret critically the literature on RCTs for behavioral interventions.
* Contrast and evaluate alternative research designs in terms of their appropriateness.
* Contrast and evaluate methods for monitoring, coordinating, and conducting RCTs.
* Select appropriate outcome measures, enrollment strategies, and randomization techniques.
* Design a specific research proposal in collaboration with a multidisciplinary team.

FACULTY: Faculty will consist of leading authorities in their fields, with extensive prior experience in the conduct of major clinical trials, with specializations in psychology, behavioral medicine, psychosomatic medicine, gerontology, oncology, cardiovascular diseases, statistics, clinical trials, and other areas.

STUDENTS: Priority will be given to individuals with a doctoral or medical degree and a minimum of two years post-degree research experience. Due to the limited number of spaces in the course, applicants must be citizens or non-citizen nationals of the United States, or must have been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence (i.e., possess a currently valid Alien Registration Receipt Card I-551, or other legal verification of such status). Women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. If you require reasonable accommodations to participate in this activity, please include this information with your application or inform TASCON at least 60 business days before the course begins. A request for reasonable accommodation will not influence the selection process.

COSTS: The Office of Behavioral Sciences Research, NIH, will pay for travel to and from the Summer Institute site, room and board, and for course materials. There are no additional fees. Family members may accompany participants at their own costs.

APPLICATIONS: The application form and instructions are posted at http://obssr.od.nih.gov/Conf_Wkshp/rct/RCT_Info.htm or may be obtained from:

TASCON, Inc.
Attn: NIH RCT Course
1803 Research Blvd. Suite 305
Rockville, MD 20850
Phone: (301) 315-9000
E-mail: RCTcourse@tascon.com

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION: Complete information, including the Frequently Asked Questions (and answers) and instructions on how to join the electronic mailing list, is available at http://obssr.od.nih.gov/Conf_Wkshp/rct/RCT_Info.htm.
