Job Description:

The Department of Sociology, Social Work, and Anthropology at Christopher Newport University invites applications for a tenure-track position in criminology, effective August 2024. Our interdisciplinary department offers majors in sociology, criminology, anthropology, and social work. We are seeking a criminologist or sociologist who will expand the ranks of our faculty and who will contribute to our rapidly growing criminology major.

While the area of specialization for this position is open, preference will be given to candidates who have active research agendas or established teaching strengths in gender, sexuality, and crime; inequality and crime; and/or victimization. In addition to teaching upper-level undergraduate courses in their area(s) of specialization, the successful candidate will also have teaching responsibilities in core courses in support of the criminology major, which could include introduction to criminology, criminological theory, research methods, and/or senior seminar. The nominal teaching load for tenure track appointments is 3-3. We seek a teacher-scholar who is committed to undergraduate education, who will engage with a diverse group of students in and out of the classroom, and who will pursue a robust research agenda in their area of expertise.

A Doctoral degree in sociology, criminology, women and gender studies, or a closely related field is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. A J.D. alone is not sufficient for consideration. In some cases, exceptionally well-qualified candidates may be considered for appointment at a higher rank, and ABD candidates who will not hold the doctorate by the time of appointment may be considered for appointment at the rank of Instructor.

The Department of Sociology, Social Work, and Anthropology, or SSWA, offers the B.A. in Sociology with majors in Sociology, Criminology, and Anthropology; the B.A. in Social Work; and minors in Sociology, Criminology, Anthropology, and Geography. The SSWA faculty consists of 16 full-time faculty positions representing all fields encompassed in the department. Over 300 students are currently navigating our integrated and interdisciplinary curriculum, and an average 80 students receive their undergraduate degrees in one of our programs each year. SSWA also houses two research centers, The Center for Crime, Equity, and Justice Research and Policy (CCEJ) and the Center for Education Research and Policy (CERP), each with robust policy-oriented research agendas and extensive local and state-level relationships. Our facilities include a newly remodeled state-of-the-art statistics and GIS computer lab with laser projectors, iPads and handheld GPS devices for each student workstation, drones, digitization tablets, and a large-format plotter; a bone lab housing our extensive collection of equipment and model bones for physical anthropology and archaeology; a secure data lab for restricted-use datasets, and an observation lab for focus groups, simulation and role-playing, and professional skills development. Our goal is to develop students into critical thinkers, readers, and writers who go on to become global citizens with compassion, communicative skills, and knowledge to help others. In new faculty we always seek excellent teaching, promising scholarship, supportive collegiality, and the ability to inspire passion for research in our students.

Candidates wishing to know more about the department and its academic programs are invited to visit http://cnu.edu/academics/departments/sswa.

To apply, please visit https://jobs.cnu.edu/postings/16312 to upload a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (photocopies acceptable for initial screening), statement of teaching philosophy, a one-page statement articulating how your teaching, scholarship and service would contribute toward fostering an inclusive learning environment on campus, additional evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. (Letters should be uploaded with application materials or emailed to facultyrecruitment@cnu.edu).

Review of applications will begin at 11:59 PM ET on 10/13/2023. Applications received after 11:59 PM ET on 10/13/2023 will be accepted but considered only if needed. Search finalists are required to complete a CNU sponsored background check. Christopher Newport University (CNU) will make a reasonable effort to accommodate persons with disabilities in the application and/or interview process. Persons with disabilities who require accommodation should contact the CNU Human Resources Office by calling (757) 594-7109.

Job 19458: Neukom Postdoctoral Fellowship (2024-2026)

Date Position is Available: Summer 2024

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 8/30/2023 to 10/29/2023

Institution: Dartmouth College
Department: Neukom Institute for Computational Science
Region: Northeast
Title: Neukom Postdoctoral Fellowship (2024-2026)
Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: Post-doctoral, Fellowships/Post-docs: All
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas, Other Program/Area
Salary Range: $60,000 - $69,999

Job Description:

The Neukom Institute for Computational Science at Dartmouth College invites applications for the Neukom Postdoctoral Fellowship. We expect to appoint several fellows, with anticipated start date of September 1, 2024.

Neukom Postdoctoral Fellowships are interdisciplinary positions for recent Ph.D.s, DMAs, or MFAs whose research interests or practice cuts across traditional disciplinary boundaries, and has some computational component, whether it be a framing concept for intellectual exploration or an explicit part of the work that is pursued. Qualified candidates should have a history of collaborative work across disciplines, while also showing evidence of independence and initiative. For information about current Neukom Fellows, please visit: https://neukom.dartmouth.edu/research/neukom-postdoctoral-fellows/current-fellows

The Neukom Postdoctoral Fellowships are two-year full-time appointments; other than standard research trips, fellows are expected to be in residence at Dartmouth College. Neukom Fellows will be mentored by faculty in two departments at Dartmouth College, take up residence in one department, and will teach one seminar course each year on a subject of their interest. The remainder of fellows' time is dedicated to research and participation in the intellectual life of campus. The fellowship stipend for 2024-2026 will be $65,000 per year (pro-rated in the event of early departure). Additional funds are available for equipment, travel, and research materials. Fellows are eligible for certain benefits, as well as professional development opportunities with the Guarini School of Graduate and Advanced Studies.

The Neukom Fellows Program and the Neukom Institute are made possible by a generous gift from Mr. William H. Neukom, Dartmouth College Class of 1964.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D., DMA, or MFA in any discipline, or have a degree conferred no later than September 1, 2024.

Selection criteria include: research interests strongly intersecting with the theme of computation; demonstrated interest in multidisciplinary research; evidence of ability to think outside traditional paradigms; and potential to contribute to an interdisciplinary community of scholars. Dartmouth is highly committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive population of fellows, faculty, students, and staff. We are especially interested in applicants who are able to work effectively with fellows, faculty, students, and staff from all backgrounds, including but not limited to: racial and ethnic minorities, women, individuals who identify with LGBTQ communities, individuals with disabilities, individuals from lower income backgrounds, and/or first-generation college graduates. Applicants are welcome to address in their materials how their research, teaching, service, and/or life experience have prepared them to advance Dartmouth's commitments to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Employer Description:

Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex, race, color, religion, age, disability, status as a veteran, national or ethnic origin, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, or any other category protected by applicable law, in the administration of its educational policies, admission policies, scholarship and loan programs, employment, or other school administered programs. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

If you are an applicant with a disability and need accommodations to assist in the job application or interview process, please email ADA@dartmouth.edu. In the subject line, please state “Application Accommodations” and include the job number or title. Someone from the ADA Compliance Office will be in touch within 2 business days.

For additional employment opportunities at Dartmouth College, please visit the Dartmouth Interfolio Job Board, the Office of the Provost, and the Office of Human Resources.

Offers of employment are contingent upon consent to a pre-employment background check with results acceptable under Dartmouth policy. Please visit the Office of Human Resources for details.
All Dartmouth College employees must comply with the College’s health and safety guidelines and protocols, including but not limited to those related to COVID-19, such as any testing, masking, or distancing requirements that may be in place at any given time or place.

Job Description:

POSITION DESCRIPTION
Joint Center for Housing Studies
Harvard University

POSITION AVAILABLE

Title: Postdoctoral Fellow in Climate and Housing

Description:
Harvard University’s Joint Center for Housing Studies (JCHS) seeks applications for a postdoctoral fellow for a two-year appointment to begin in Summer 2024. Since its founding in 1959, the Center has been a leader in advancing public understanding of housing issues and policy. The Center strives to improve equitable access to decent, affordable homes in thriving communities, we conduct rigorous research to advance policy and practice, and we bring together diverse stakeholders to spark new ideas for addressing housing challenges. Through teaching and fellowships, we mentor and inspire the next generation of housing leaders.

Candidates should have research interests related to housing policy, affordable or assisted housing and household energy or disasters assistance, mortgage finance, urban planning, land use regulation, home improvement markets, housing quality, residential design and construction, home energy or disaster performance or related topics in relation to global climate change. Either a focus on climate mitigation (including residential decarbonization) or climate adaptation (including hazard mitigation or residential relocation) are accepted though familiarity with the technical, programmatic, and policy scholarship design of both are ideal. The Center also will prioritize scholars with a demonstrated background and professional interest in the inequities associated with their selected areas of scholarship, including but not limited to racial and income disparities.

Potential areas of interest include:

- Housing and climate mitigation (including residential decarbonization)
  - Residential energy-efficiency program effects on non-energy household outcomes
  - Weatherization and LIHEAP program use, implementation, and effects
  - IRA residential tax credit and rebate implementation
  - Energy-efficiency and renewable energy programs in assisted and public housing
  - Rental properties and “split-incentive” energy retrofit challenges
  - The effect of green buildings standards on assisted housing construction and maintenance
  - Residential utility spatial patterns

Residential density and land-use patterns in relation to greenhouse gas emissions

- Housing and climate adaptation (including climate-related disasters and housing)
  - Household disasters assistance
  - Home buyout programs, voluntary relocation incentives, and mandatory “retreat”
  - Homeowner and disaster insurance policies
  - Property risk disclosure laws’ effectiveness
  - Residential-level structural mitigation programs and policies
  - Geographic and demographic disparities of adaptation planning and implementation
  - Climate “gentrification,” displacement, migration, and related housing market effects from climate projections
  - Non-flood and sea-level rise residential risks (e.g., wildfire, heatwaves, drought, air and water quality and access, etc.)
  - Community engagement, participation, and inclusion in climate plans and project selection
  - Housing market and affordability effects across the disaster chronology
  - Community social networks and housing design
  - Interplay between regional or community infrastructure and individual residential property

The postdoctoral fellow will split their time between conducting their own independent research and contributing to the research products of the Center, which include working papers, reports, research briefs, and other publications. Fellows receive a yearly stipend of $72,000 and will receive office space within the Center in addition to access to Harvard University staff resources.

Position Requirements:

The ideal candidate will have a Ph.D. in environmental sciences, architecture, civil or environmental engineering, urban planning, public policy, any of the relevant social sciences, or a related discipline at the time of the expected start of July 2024 or soon after; strong oral and written communication skills; and the ability to work as part of a team, contributing to the intellectual environment of the Center. Experience with a range of data collection and analysis tools is a plus, as is extensive familiarity with both quantitative and qualitative research methods.

Application Instructions:

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and 3 reference letters to jchs@harvard.edu no later than Friday, November 3rd, 2023. Contact Dr. Carlos Martín (carlos_martin@harvard.edu) with any questions.

Institution: Saint Louis University
Department: Department of Sociology and Anthropology
Region: Midwest
Title: Quantitative Analysis and Data Science (tenure track)
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant/Associate Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas, Quantitative Methodology
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

Tenure Track Quantitative Analysis and Data Science (Open Rank)

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care and service, is seeking applicants for a tenure-track, open-rank position in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology to begin in Fall 2024. The area of expertise is also open, but the candidate should contribute to the department's strengths in quantitative methods, computational social science, as well as an emerging College-level program in applied data science.

The department has strengths in health, immigration, race and ethnic relations, social inequality, research methods, and interdisciplinary urban scholarship. The Department of Sociology and Anthropology is strongly committed to SLU’s Mission for Faculty Diversity and Excellence. Our new colleague will contribute to our department's commitments to support the success of students from historically marginalized economic, social, and cultural groups. Duties include teaching courses in the candidate's areas of expertise, as well as statistics at the undergraduate and/or graduate levels. Candidates will have the opportunity to develop new courses in their areas of expertise in the newly established university Core. Candidates are expected to participate in service and maintain an active program of published research. Research-active faculty in our department normally teach two courses each semester.

Scholars working in the following disciplinary areas are encouraged to apply: sociology, demography, public policy, anthropology, geography, and allied fields.

Applicants must have a PhD or equivalent degree for appointment. The successful candidate will demonstrate scholarly achievement and promise, dedication to graduate and undergraduate teaching and mentorship, a commitment to service at the department, college, and university levels, and a willingness to contribute to the continued development of a methodologically diverse and collaborative department. Regardless of their own religious affiliation, the successful candidate will demonstrate a strong commitment to the University's Catholic and Jesuit mission, which affirms the importance of diversity and fosters an inclusive work environment (<https://www.slu.edu/about/catholic-jesuit-identity/mission.php>).

All applications must include curriculum vitae and cover letter, submitted online at <https://slu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers>. Candidates who are selected for a campus interview will be asked for three letters of recommendation.

On the “My Information” page, upload cover letter and CV as a single .pdf file. On the “My Experience” page, you may upload all other required documents using the upload box labeled “Resume/CV”.

Your application must be completed in one sitting; you will not be able to revise it once it is submitted. At the time of completing the application, have the following documents ready to upload:

<Document #1: Cover Letter>
<Document #2: CV>

Review of applications will begin September 8, 2023, and will continue until the position is filled.

Job Description:

The Max Planck Institute for Demographic Research (MPIDR) is recruiting two highly qualified Postdocs (m/f/div) or more Senior Research Scientists (m/f/div) to join the Department of Digital and Computational Demography, headed by MPIDR Director Emilio Zagheni. One position will be filled in the Lab of Migration and Mobility and one in the Lab of Population Dynamics and Sustainable Well-Being.

Digital and computational demography is a growing interdisciplinary field that tackles fundamental questions across all domains of demographic research by combining the methods and perspectives of computational sciences, social and behavioral sciences, and statistics. The field has emerged in parallel with rapid technological improvements in computing, the spread of internet and mobile technologies, and the increased digitalization of people’s lives. Our group brings together methodologists (from areas like statistics, computer science, or formal demography) with experts in various areas of the social sciences in order to foster cross-pollination of ideas, to advance methods and theories of population research, and to address pressing scientific and societal questions.

Candidates who can enrich or complement projects in any research area of the Lab of Migration and Mobility or of the Lab of Population Dynamics and Sustainable Well-Being will be considered. Across all profiles, the ability and willingness to work in interdisciplinary teams in order to conduct cutting-edge research that advances our understanding of population processes is key.

Examples of themes that we are interested in strengthening include (but are not limited to):

- The use of advanced statistical analysis, machine learning, or causal inference for estimating, understanding, and forecasting demographic outcomes, at the individual and aggregate levels
- The assessment of the relationships between climate change, population dynamics, and individual behaviors, including the impact of climate change on demographic and health indicators
- The assessment of the impact of technological transformations, including the digitalization of life, on social inequalities, time use, and well-being
- Modeling and understanding migration flows, including high-skilled migration and migration of scientists

Applications must be in English and be submitted online via this survey and include the following documents:

1. Curriculum Vitae
2. Letter of interest (max one page)
3. Research Statement (max two pages)
4. Names and contact information for two academic referees
5. Two writing samples or publications

The announcement will be open until the positions are filled. In order to receive full consideration, applications should be submitted by October 7, 2023. The starting date is flexible, but no later than fall 2024. The successful applicants will be offered a three-year contract with remuneration commensurate to experience (starting from currently approx. 57,241 euros gross per year for researchers who have just completed their PhD, up to approx. 66,217 euros gross per year for more senior scientists), based on the salary structure of the German public sector (öffentlicher Dienst, TVöD Bund). They are expected to be in residence at the MPIDR.

For inquiries about the positions, please contact Daniela Perrotta or Ugofilippo Basellini.
The unique environment that combines the best aspects of an academic setting and a research laboratory.

The MPIDR is an equal opportunities employer. Our work atmosphere includes respectful treatment of each other, with gender, nationality, religion, disability, age, cultural origin, and sexual identity playing no role. We aim to have an institutional culture that enables everyone to develop their individual skills and competencies.

The Max Planck Society offers a broad range of measures to support the reconciliation of work and family. These are complemented by the MPIDR’s own initiatives. The society has been awarded the certificate “Work and Family” which is granted to institutions committed to establishing a family-friendly corporate culture by binding target agreements. The MPIDR collaborates with a network of local daycare centers that provides childcare places for the children of the institute staff. The Max Planck Society has contracts with a private family service company that offers services such as arranging childcare on short notice in various cities in Germany for parents who attend conferences, care services for children of school age up to 14 years, and support for those caring for family members and relatives. The MPIDR also practices flexible working-time models which include at least one home office day per week and scheduling meetings only within core working hours. To help accompanying spouses and partners find appropriate work at their new location, the MPIDR works in close cooperation with dual career partners in regional networks.

We value diversity and are keen to employ individuals from minorities and underrepresented groups. The Max Planck Society is committed to increasing the number of individuals with disabilities in its workforce and therefore encourages applications from such qualified individuals. Furthermore, the Max Planck Society seeks to increase the number of women in those areas where they are underrepresented and therefore explicitly encourages women to apply.

Position description
The Goldman School of Public Policy (GSPP) at the University of California, Berkeley's holds the #1 US News and World Report rankings in Policy Analysis, and in Social Policy, and we are committed proudly to equity and justice for the public good. We seek applicants for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor position as part of the Berkeley's (Non)Citizenship Cluster search. Successful applicants will have primary research using analytical methods to examine policy areas that enhance, sustain, or threaten citizenship as a legal and cultural status combining civil, political, and social rights with a sense of identity. Focal areas include, but are not limited to immigration, voting and election policy, refugee/asylee policy, legal, social, and cultural incorporation processes, and other relevant topics touching upon the determinants of citizenship in the face of increasing threats of democracy and international mobility.

Successful candidates' scholarship must speak to and advance the goals of the "Understanding (Non)Citizenship" initiative at the University of California, Berkeley, which aims to hire an interdisciplinary cluster of faculty on this topic over two years. The cluster tackles three overarching themes: issues of justice, fairness and equality as related to (non)citizenship; the determinants and content of (non)citizenship; and the consequences of (non)citizenship. The cluster considers citizenship broadly, as a legal, social and cultural status that combines civil, political and social rights with a sense of identity, encompassing those who lack formal citizenship but also those who experience "second-class" citizenship through differential rights and treatment. Fully understanding (non)citizenship requires an interdisciplinary approach: claims for citizenship and equality are invariably normative, while the consequences and drivers of (non)citizenship must be studied empirically to understand change and effects. For this reason, this innovative cluster of faculty hiring will bring together diverse units in the social sciences, humanities and professional schools across UC-Berkeley. Faculty hired through the Understanding (Non)Citizenship cluster will hold positions in Philosophy, Political Science, Public Policy, Sociology and Law.

The successful applicant's faculty line would rest within GSPP. Ideal candidates will be prepared for an intellectually and methodologically rigorous academic setting, working with an exciting and energetic group of faculty committed to public impact and change. We seek scholars who have already completed their degree requirements and are currently serving in industry, post-doc positions, or at the assistant professor rank; but will consider highly productive scholars near degree completion. Candidates should have an existing track-record of independent or collaborative research excellence, experience or aspirations to teach and be actively engaged in a professional graduate school setting, and a commitment to interdisciplinary perspectives and collegial service. We encourage applications from individuals with an understanding of, and commitment to, the public university mission, as well as a familiarity with schools of public policy. Prior policy-related work experience is desirable.

GSPP is particularly interested in candidates who will contribute to diversity, inclusive perspectives, collegial respect, and support for underserved student populations through their intellectual voice and actions in research, teaching, and service. This commitment to advancing equity and inclusion is essential for GSPP, as our excellence can only be fully realized if our entire community shares in the commitment to these values. Additional information about programs and resources supporting the advancement of diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging is available at: https://diversity.berkeley.edu/

The Goldman School of Public Policy is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. We are also interested in candidates who have had non-traditional career paths or who have taken time off for family reasons, or who have achieved excellence in careers outside academia. Job Description:

Department of African American Studies
Open Rank Faculty
Health & Wellness
University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign

The Department of African American Studies at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor or full-time tenured Associate or Full Professor in Black Health and Wellness. The rank is open.

The successful candidate will join an interdisciplinary faculty and lead efforts to address issues of Health Policy and/or Health and Wellness among Black populations. The area of specialty is broadly defined and includes mental, physical, community, and/or social health in a national or diasporic framework. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research is grounded in the discipline of Black Studies and who apply social science methods to areas such as social determinants of health, food and health disparities, healing practices as related to culture, and mental health. Successful candidates are expected to teach effectively at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, to establish and maintain an active and independent research program, and to provide service to the department, the university, and the profession. Collaboration with other health-related campus units (e.g., Community Health or Psychology) and community-based organizations is anticipated. Candidates with a documented commitment to working with students or faculty from groups historically marginalized or underrepresented in the field through teaching, mentoring, or administration are especially encouraged to apply.

Applicants at the assistant professor level must demonstrate evidence of a promising research agenda and a commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching effectiveness. Applicants at the associate or full professor level must have a record of research, teaching, and service indicative of an associate/full professor. Ph.D. in public health, community health, epidemiology, sociology, or psychology is required. Target start date is August 16, 2024. Salary is competitive and commensurate with the candidate’s qualifications. Startup funds for research and professional responsibilities are available.

The Illinois College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is a world leader in research, teaching, and public engagement. Assistant Professor of Democracy Studies

The University of Notre Dame’s Keough School of Global Affairs invites applicants for a tenure-track position of assistant professor working on the study of democracy and democratic backsliding. The ideal candidate will have a comparative research agenda focused on questions of democratic erosion, democratic resilience, and strategies to protect democracy. The position is funded by the Kellogg Institute for International Studies, as part of Notre Dame’s new Democracy Initiative.

The search is open in terms of discipline, methodological perspectives, and geographic area focus, but competitive candidates are expected to possess strong empirical skills (with a preference for mixed methods) and to be conversant across research traditions, theoretical perspectives, and geographic regions. Successful candidates must provide evidence of high-quality research, as well as an interest to engage global policy debates about the future of democracy.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop novel analytic perspectives in the study of democracy and regime change to inform his or her research, teaching, and service. The position will be based in the Keough School (https://keough.nd.edu), which advances integral human development through research, policy and practice, transformative educational programs, and partnerships for global engagement. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research agendas inspire lessons for democratic practitioners. The candidate will interact with colleagues in Political Science, Sociology, and related fields. The Keough School is open to the possibility of a joint appointment with a disciplinary department.

The Keough School is committed to fostering a culture of diverse views and approaches to Global Affairs. All applicants whose scholarly pursuits will enhance our ability to fulfill that commitment are encouraged to apply.

The position will close on October 31, 2023 and review of applications will begin at that time. Applicants are required to submit a cover letter, C.V., three letters of recommendation, a writing sample, a research statement, and a teaching statement or teaching portfolio. All application materials must be submitted through the Interfolio/Notre Dame online application system: http://apply.interfolio.com/130347 Questions about the position can be directed to Aníbal Pérez-Liñán at mailto:aperez11@nd.edu

One semester residencies will be considered, but the preferred length of residence is two semesters.

Eligibility: We invite applications from tenured or tenure-track faculty, or equivalent. Interested applicants should send their CV to inequality@harvard.edu, along with a 2-page single spaced description of their proposed research agenda or topic. This description should include an explanation of (1) the significance of the research, (2) anticipated work product, (3) timeline for the research and how the visiting scholar position corresponds to the timeline, and (4) how the research will be shared with the Stone Program community and with the broader public. Faculty may apply for the 2024-2025 academic year.

The deadline for 2024-2025 visiting scholar applications is October 1, 2023.

Faculty will be recognized as Stone Visiting Scholars in honor of the support provided by James M. and Cathleen D. Stone. Faculty who receive these grants will be given office space at the Harvard Kennedy School and be expected to be in residence and contribute to the collective intellectual life of the Stone Program. Examples of this collaboration include leading a Stone Program seminar, giving a presentation on the research accomplished, presenting in the weekly seminar speakers series, and moderating the Stone Lecture. Faculty may also be invited to mentor Stone PhD Scholars, who are graduate students working on inequality from departments across Harvard University.

Employer Description:

Uniting Harvard faculty and PhD students from sociology, political science, economics, education, government, public policy, and beyond, the James M. and Cathleen D. Stone Program in Wealth Distribution, Inequality, and Social Policy supports graduate training and research on economic inequality through fellowships, research grants, a three-semester course sequence on inequality, an Inequality & Social Policy Seminar Series, the annual Stone Lecture, and other events to promote inquiries into the social, political, and economic causes and effects of inequality.

Job Description:
Kenyon College, a highly selective, nationally ranked liberal arts college in central Ohio, invites applications for a tenure-track position in environmental sociology beginning July 1, 2024. We are also interested in a colleague who specializes in rural sociology and/or applied sociology, as well as someone who would be able to teach courses in quantitative methods and/or sociology of disasters. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Sociology in hand or be near completion by the beginning of the appointment.

The Department of Sociology currently houses 7 tenure-line faculty, expanding to 8 with this position, who possess wide ranging areas of expertise. The Department is dedicated to fostering the development of teacher-scholars who are committed to inclusive excellence in teaching alongside an impactful research program. We seek candidates who can integrate their dynamic and creative research programs with excellent undergraduate teaching and research mentorship. The academic year at Kenyon includes two semesters, with a standard teaching load of 5 courses per year across two semesters, and an average class size of 15 students.

Initial applications should include:
1. Cover Letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. Reference List

To apply, candidates should visit the online application site found at http://careers.kenyon.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2023 and continue until the position is filled.

Completed applications received by the October 15, 2023 deadline will be guaranteed full consideration.

Employer Description:
Kenyon College is a private liberal arts college in Gambier, Ohio. It was founded in 1824 by Episcopal Bishop Philander Chase. Kenyon is the oldest private institution of higher education in the state of Ohio. As of 2023, Kenyon has 1,877 undergraduate students enrolled. Its 1,000-acre campus is set in rural surroundings and is home to the Brown Family Environmental Center (BFEC), which has over 380 acres and hosts seven different ecosystems. There are more than 120 student clubs and organizations on campus. Kenyon athletes are called Owls (previously the Lords and Ladies) and compete in the NCAA Division III North Coast Athletic Conference. Kenyon College is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission.

Position description

The Goldman School of Public Policy and the School of Information at the University of California, Berkeley, invite applications for a joint tenure-track appointment to the faculty at the Assistant Professor rank.

We seek applications from intellectually rigorous and exciting scholars who have already completed their degree requirements, with preference for those who are currently serving in industry, post-doc positions, or at the assistant professor rank. Ideal candidates will have research foci in one or more broad areas at the intersection of technology and policy - including digital democracy, privacy and security, and data science from a policy analysis perspective - and who can teach innovative courses on these topics to graduate students in both Public Policy and Information Schools. We seek applicants with expertise in technology combined with an explicit policy domain including, but not limited to: policies and regulation for AI/automation; racial-ethnic and social justice; public health; climate change and environmental sustainability; election and voting integrity; social media, journalism and information integrity; public administration and agile government; planning, infrastructure, and transportation; and law and technology regulation.

We encourage applications from individuals of any scholarly discipline whose research focuses on these questions. Preference will be given to scholars who have demonstrated the potential to make significant research contributions and who have a clear interest in contributing to both the School of Public Policy and the School of Information.

The Goldman School of Public Policy (GSPP) at the University of California, Berkeley's holds the #1 US News and World Report rankings in Policy Analysis, and in Social Policy, and we are committed proudly to equity and justice for the public good. The School of Information is a graduate research and education community committed to expanding access to information and to improving its usability, reliability, and credibility while preserving security and privacy. This requires the insights of scholars from diverse fields — information and computer science, design, social sciences, management, law, and policy. GSPP and the I School are particularly interested in candidates who will contribute to diversity, inclusive perspectives, collegial respect, and support for underserved student populations through their intellectual voice and actions in research, teaching, and service. This commitment to advancing equity and inclusion is essential for GSPP and the I School, as our excellence can only be fully realized if our entire community shares in the commitment to these values. Additional information about programs and resources supporting the advancement of diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging is available at: https://ls.berkeley.edu/about/diversity-equity-and-inclusion and at: https://www.ischool.berkeley.edu/about/community

The Goldman School of Public Policy and the School of Information are committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. We are also interested in candidates who have had non-traditional career paths or who have taken time off for family reasons, or who have achieved excellence in careers outside academia. For information about potential relocation to Berkeley, or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty

Basic qualifications (required at time of application)

PhD, J.D. or equivalent international degree, or enrolled in PhD, J.D. or equivalent international degree-granting program at the time of application.

Preferred qualifications

Preference will be given to scholars who have already demonstrated significant research contributions, who have a clear interest in interdisciplinary scholarship, and who are interested in teaching in both the School of Public Policy and the School of Information. Public-sector experience is also desirable. Candidates will be evaluated on the following criteria:

• Excellence in research, including quality and trajectory;
• Teaching and mentoring ability for graduate students;
• Fit with the research and teaching desires and needs of the Schools;
• Ability and interest in bridging fields and topics in an interdisciplinary manner;
• Public/professional sector experience and impact; and

Position description

The Jurisprudence and Social Policy (JSP) PhD Program in the School of Law at the University of California, Berkeley invites entry-level and lateral applicants for a full-time, tenured or tenure-track faculty position in the field of race and law. We seek a scholar whose primary research focus is on race and its relationship to law and legal institutions and/or a scholar whose research centers on the legal activities, ideas, and experiences of underrepresented minorities. We are especially interested in scholars whose research centers on race and law as they relate to African Americans, and who will teach at least one course in the broad area of race and law. Candidates may be appointed at the tenure-track or tenured level, depending upon their qualifications and experience.

The successful candidate should be a scholar who does theoretically informed qualitative or quantitative research, which could include but is not limited to archival methods, computational text analysis, digital humanities, ethnography, experimental methods, mixed methods, survey methods, or other similar methods. We are interested in candidates who have demonstrated excellence in research, teaching and service, and/or a commitment to mentor, teach, and build an equitable, diverse, and interdisciplinary learning environment for all students, including those with nontraditional backgrounds. Candidates with a history and/or commitment to mentoring non-traditional and underrepresented minority students are encouraged to apply and state their experience and/or commitment in their letter of interest and/or in their Statement on Contributions to Advancing Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion.

The JSP Program attracts a diverse student body with a variety of experiences before graduate school. We are interested in candidates who have demonstrated excellence in research, teaching and service, and/or a commitment to mentor, teach, and build an equitable, diverse, and interdisciplinary learning environment for all students, including those with nontraditional backgrounds. Candidates with a history and/or commitment to mentoring non-traditional and underrepresented minority students are encouraged to apply and state their experience and/or commitment in their letter of interest and/or in their Statement on Contributions to Advancing Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion.

The JSP Program is committed to methodological pluralism and encourages scholars who are willing and able to mentor students who are using a range of methods. Applicants should indicate in their letters of interest their qualifications for and proposed contributions to working with students from diverse disciplinary backgrounds. We also welcome candidates who could contribute to teaching within the broader community at Berkeley Law, including the JD program. Most JSP faculty members also teach in Berkeley's interdisciplinary undergraduate Legal Studies major, which operates under the auspices of JSP.

The JSP Program is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. We are interested in candidates who have demonstrated excellence in research, teaching and service, and a commitment to building an equitable, diverse, and interdisciplinary scholarly environment. We are also interested in candidates who have had non-traditional career paths or who have taken time off for family reasons, or who have achieved excellence in careers outside academia. For information about family friendly resources, potential relocation to Berkeley, or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty.

EO/AA/Veterans/Disability institution committed to cultural diversity.

Employer Description:

GSL aspires to draw students to UO by engaging them with cultures, languages, histories, and ways of life across the world. The School’s mission is to prepare graduates for their future lives and careers by providing holistic, interdisciplinary perspectives on critical issues and cultural developments that are global and historical in scope. GSL provides a career-legible, interdisciplinary curriculum, drawing on the research and pedagogic expertise of faculty in the social sciences and humanities. Customized curricular pathways allow students to acquire foundational skills in the liberal arts and translate them into real-world abilities. The School is home to a community of students and faculty who value the common transformational experience of immersion in multiple languages and cultures. This shared value forges a collective mission while honoring the diverse histories, cultures, and disciplines embraced by GSL.

Alongside the School’s focus on cultures and languages, GSL immerses students in humanistic and social science perspectives and methods of inquiry. Students will pursue language learning, and cultural studies, and engage undergraduate professional tracks, including international law, diplomacy, human rights, global health and development, and global environmental change, all of which position them to bring humanities-informed cultural understanding to careers that have global impact. The School provides students with language and intercultural skills that align with their individual academic and career goals and that prepare them for future opportunities in a 21st-century global context. Students study abroad, engage in experiential learning that bridges theoretical knowledge and its practical application, and participate in career-readiness activities at every step of their degree progress.

Title: Assistant Professor in Child Development and Mental Health
Position/Rank: Academic Positions; Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Children and Youth
Salary Range: $80,000 - $89,999

Job Description:

The Department of Family & Consumer Studies (FCS) at the University of Utah invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin July 2024. We seek a faculty member whose focus is on child development and mental health. For example, candidate’s research might address the impact of adverse childhood events, trauma, chronic illness, or natural disasters on children’s development or well-being in low-resource communities, or how early intervention approaches counter toxic stress. We are especially interested in researchers whose scholarship informs practice and policy. The ideal candidate for this position is an applied scholar, with a focus on developmental intervention and community engagement, whose scholarship illuminates work with children and families. We are particularly interested in candidates who conduct research and engage students with local, state, or federal agencies and organizations (e.g., the Health Department’s Babysit program, Zero to Three, home visiting). Additionally, we are interested in scholars whose research addresses developmental processes among historically disadvantaged and underrepresented infants or children (e.g., immigrants, racial and ethnic minorities, those in the child welfare system). An ideal candidate’s research will have implications for supporting optimal development and reducing disparities of children from marginalized and underrepresented identity groups. Promising candidates will be able to draw on different disciplinary perspectives and methodological approaches to inform their work.

Candidates should have an excellent publication and teaching record, commensurate with experience, and show potential for extramural funding. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in the social sciences by the time of appointment. Successful candidates will be committed to working in a collaborative, interdisciplinary environment and to enhancing undergraduate and graduate education.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, two writing samples or publications, a list of three references, and a statement on the candidate’s commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion to https://utah.peopleadmin.com/postings/151449

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2023 and will continue until the position is filled. Information about the Department of Family & Consumer Studies can be found at http://www.fcs.utah.edu/, Inquiries regarding the position may be directed to the Faculty Search Committee Co-Chairs, Marissa Diener, marissa.dienber@fcs.utah.edu or Daniel Carlson, Daniel.carlson@fcs.utah.edu

Employer Description:

Family & Consumer Studies is an interdisciplinary department dedicated to understanding and enhancing the well-being of individuals and the families and communities in which they live. We examine how the social, economic, political, and physical environments affect families, individuals, and consumers. The faculty includes scholars from sociology, demography, economics, psychology, family studies, human development, and early childhood education. FCS faculty are involved with the Consortium in Families and Health Research (https://cfahr.utah.edu/), which brings together faculty from 11 departments across 5 colleges, the School of Medicine, the Huntsman Cancer Institute, the University Neighborhood Partners, and the Utah Population Database.

The University of Utah is a Carnegie RU/VH Research University and Utah’s flagship university. The University is a member of the Association of American Universities and the PAC-12. The University is located in beautiful Salt Lake City, which offers an outstanding quality of life in a major metropolitan area of 1.5 million residents, nestled in the foothills of the Wasatch Mountains. Utah’s great outdoors are close by, offering activities from world class skiing, hiking, and mountain biking in the spectacular surrounding canyons. The city is vibrant and cosmopolitan with music, the arts, sports, and nightlife. The area has received international recognition for its light rail system, downtown, library system, and increasing diversity. Salt Lake City is home to sizable Latinx and immigrant populations. More than a third of Utah’s ethnic/racial minorities are children or youth under the age of 18 years, and the Salt Lake City School District is now a majority minority district, with one in five Salt Lake County residents speaking a language besides English at home. The International Rescue Committee, headquartered in Salt Lake, is one of eight national resettlement committees committed to helping people with refugee status thrive in the United States. Institution: Nuffield College
Department: Sociology
Region: Europe
Title: Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Sociology
Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: Post-doctoral Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Tenure Track
Salary Range: $40,000 - $49,999
Submission Link:
Job Description:

Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Sociology (two posts)

Nuffield College intends to appoint with effect from 1 September 2024 or as soon as possible thereafter, two Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellows (PPRFs) in Sociology, broadly construed to include sociology, demography, criminology, social and medical statistics, public policy, and social policy. The College particularly welcomes applications from candidates who work or plan to work in the field of one or more of the College’s Sociology Fellows, but this is not a requirement.

The key responsibilities of the Research Fellows are to engage in advanced study and independent scholarly research in sociology broadly construed (as above); to disseminate research findings through publication and participation in conferences and seminars; and to take part in the intellectual life of the College by organising seminars, workshops, or conferences. Research Fellows may also undertake ad hoc paid teaching or supervision within the collegiate University in Oxford, up to a maximum of 48 hours per year.

To be eligible, candidates should have completed, or be close to completing, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant field. Candidates must be within three years of the defence date of their doctorate at the time of application. Allowances will be made for career breaks (for example, family-related leave) and candidates are asked to provide relevant information. Preference will be given to candidates who have not previously held a research fellowship similar to that advertised for more than one year at the time of taking up the fellowship. Prospective candidates should also have experience of carrying out independent research and a track record of excellent quality papers appropriate for and commensurate with their career level. They should have the willingness to contribute to the intellectual life of the College, and excellent oral and written communication skills.

The Fellowships are full-time, fixed-term posts and are to be taken up on 1 September 2024 or as soon as possible thereafter. The post end date will normally be 31 August 2027.

Candidates who have not yet completed their doctorate at the time of application should note that to take up the Fellowship in September 2024, it may be necessary for them to have submitted their doctoral dissertation for examination by the end of May 2024. The posts will be based at Nuffield College. The salary offered is GBP 39,378 per annum (salary for 2023/24).

Further particulars, including information on how to apply and further benefits, are available from the College website at https://www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/sofbujci/socpprf2024-jd.pdf

The deadline for applications is Monday 25 September 2023.

Employer Description:

Nuffield College exists to promote excellence in education and research, and is an equal opportunities employer committed to equality and valuing diversity. Applications are particularly welcome from women, from disabled people, and from black and minority ethnic candidates, who are currently under-represented in posts in the College.

Job Description:
The Wythes Center on Contemporary China at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) seeks to hire a social science scholar working on China. While the position is open to rank, preference will be given to early-career scholars from the social sciences whose scholarship and teaching combine disciplinary expertise, methodological rigor, and deep regional knowledge of China (including the ability to read, write, and speak Chinese).

The successful candidate will be jointly appointed in a social science or related department at Princeton. They will complement our existing strengths and areas of concentration and enjoy cross-disciplinary ties with other units on campus. Princeton is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Interested applicants should apply online at https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/apply/application.xhtml?listingId=31801. Please include a curriculum vitae, a publication list, a statement of research and teaching interests, and a separate statement outlining how the applicant sees themselves contributing to our mission of expanding our strengths in China-relevant social sciences. Please also include the names and contact information for three references. For junior candidates, referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. For senior candidates, referees will not be contacted until later in the process. Review of applications will begin immediately but accepted until the position is filled. For fullest consideration, apply by October 31, 2023.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

EO/AA/Veterans/Disability institution committed to cultural diversity.

Employer Description:
GSL aspires to draw students to UO by engaging them with cultures, languages, histories, and ways of life across the world. The School’s mission is to prepare graduates for their future lives and careers by providing holistic, interdisciplinary perspectives on critical issues and cultural developments that are global and historical in scope. GSL provides a career-legible, interdisciplinary curriculum, drawing on the research and pedagogic expertise of faculty in the social sciences and humanities. Customized curricular pathways allow students to acquire foundational skills in the liberal arts and translate them into real-world abilities. The School is home to a community of students and faculty who value the common transformational experience of immersion in multiple languages and cultures. This shared value forges a collective mission while honoring the diverse histories, cultures, and disciplines embraced by GSL.

Alongside the School’s focus on cultures and languages, GSL immerses students in humanistic and social science perspectives and methods of inquiry. Students will pursue language learning, and cultural studies, and engage undergraduate professional tracks, including international law, diplomacy, human rights, global health and development, and global environmental change, all of which position them to bring humanities-informed cultural understanding to careers that have global impact. The School provides students with language and intercultural skills that align with their individual academic and career goals and that prepare them for future opportunities in a 21st-century global context. Students study abroad, engage in experiential learning that bridges theoretical knowledge and its practical application, and participate in career-readiness activities at every step of their degree progress.

Institution: Amherst College
Department: Department to be determined
Region: Northeast
Title: Assistant Professor with a Specialization in Education Studies (Department to be Determined)
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Education
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

Assistant Professor with a Specialization in Education Studies (Department to be Determined)

Amherst College invites applications for a full-time tenure-track appointment at the rank of assistant professor with a specialization in education studies. The department in which this faculty member will be housed will be based on the individual's discipline. Examples include history, sociology, or American studies. The successful candidate will play a central role in the college's Education Studies Program.

We seek an interdisciplinary scholar whose research and teaching explores the social, cultural, and political dimensions of education and centers questions of justice and power. The successful candidate will be able to offer courses that address one or more of the following core areas (culture and education; cognition, teaching and learning; or society, policy and politics) and will have the opportunity to develop an area of specialization that complements current offerings. Possible areas of specialization include but are not limited to: the experiences of BIPOC students in schools, childhood and education policy, bilingual education, special education, Indigenous and decolonial knowledge systems, disability studies, and ethnic studies in K–12 schools. We welcome applications from candidates with an interest in all areas of education, including comparative international schooling, early childhood education, and higher education, but will require knowledge of K–12 U.S. schooling.

The person hired will be expected to design and teach required education courses, which may include foundations, community engaged learning, research methods, global/comparative, and an advanced education studies project seminar as well as additional courses related to their areas of interest. Faculty members at Amherst teach two courses per semester, advise senior honors theses and participate in program governance and college-level service.

Given the interdisciplinary nature of education studies, we will consider candidates who are trained in education Ph.D. and Ed.D. programs as well as in interdisciplinary, ethnic, cultural and area studies Ph.D. programs, such as the following: American studies, African American studies, Africana studies, Asian American studies, Chicano studies, colonialism and diaspora studies, Native and Indigenous studies, and LatinX studies, and in humanities and social science Ph.D. programs such as anthropology, economics, political science, psychology, sociology and history. In alignment with Amherst College’s commitment to historically marginalized students, this position aims to attract teachers and scholars who display a commitment to anti-oppressive teaching and student mentoring. The department has a preference for candidates who engage in intersectional approaches in their work and who have experience in their research and teaching that emphasizes gender, sexuality, and queer studies as well as critical race, decolonial, Black, Indigenous, LatinX, and/or API perspectives, theories, and methods.

Candidates are asked to submit electronically a cover letter, c.v., statement of teaching philosophy, research statement, a scholarly writing sample (10-25 pages), and three letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2023, and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by October 1, 2023, will be assured of full consideration.

Amherst College is one of the most diverse liberal arts colleges in the country. Nearly half of our students identify as domestic students of color, and another 11 percent are international, with non-U.S. citizenship; 16 percent are the first members of their families to attend college. Amherst is committed to providing financial aid that meets 100 percent of every student’s demonstrated need, and nearly 60 percent of our students receive financial aid.
expectation is that the successful candidate will excel at teaching and mentoring students who are broadly diverse with regard to race, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, gender, nationality, sexual identity, disability/ability, and religion.

Employer Description:

Amherst College is an equal opportunity employer and encourages persons of all genders, persons of color, and persons with disabilities to apply. The college is committed to enriching its educational experience and its culture through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff. Job Description:

The Departments of Sociology and Psychology, in partnership with the Population Research Center (PRC) at The University of Texas at Austin, invite applications for the position of non-tenured Research Associate Professor or Research Professor in the area of social science statistics. The position’s purpose is to lead a newly conceived Social and Behavioral Statistical and Data Sciences (SBSDS) Hub housed within the PRC. Although it is expected that the SBSDS Hub Director will be hired into the either the Department of Sociology or Psychology, the position’s ultimate academic home will be open to the most appropriate fit for the scholar whose expertise and experience most closely match programmatic need. This research faculty position, appointed on a 12-month basis, includes principal investigator (PI) status, mentoring graduate students as appropriate, and interacting with faculty with common or overlapping interests across the university.

As part of the PRC, the SBSDS Hub is conceived as a forward-thinking collaborative resource for data science for the faculty, post-doctoral researchers, and students of the PRC. The SBSDS Hub aims to provide strong quantitative and methodological expertise, and to apply new methodologies as needed, critical to advancing the PRC’s research mission. It will also serve as a methodological concierge—helping investigators identify methodological needs—and in so doing will tap strong connections to the university’s rich scholarly community to advance basic and translational science for the PRC.

As founding Director of the SBSDS Hub, job responsibilities will include:

- Directing the day-to-day operations of the SBSDS Hub with regard to assessment and triage of new projects, and tracking progress of existing projects;
- Recruiting and overseeing graduate student and professional (typically MS-trained) statistical experts who will work on projects with PRC investigators;
- Playing key methodological roles in the design and conduct of research studies and the analysis and interpretation of the ensuing data in collaboration with PRC investigators; and
- Fostering a collaborative and collegial culture around quantitative methodology in social science.

The PRC aims to provide outstanding research infrastructure resources and sustain a dynamic interdisciplinary culture geared toward facilitating the highest level of population-related research among its faculty members, postdoctoral scholars, and graduate trainees. The PRC supports research that moves well beyond the bounds of traditional demography to the cutting edge of population research. Underlying the work of the PRC is a foundation that emphasizes:
- Fundamental attention to issues of social and economic inequality, particularly by race/ethnicity, gender, and socioeconomic status;
- Rigorous attention to, and application of, the most appropriate and advanced methodological techniques; and
- An orientation toward federal and major foundation grant funding and publication in top quality scientific journals.

Most PRC research is concentrated in four overlapping and reinforcing thematic areas: Population Health and Well-Being; Reproductive, Maternal, and Infant Health; Family Demography Human Development; and Education, Work, and Institutions. Many PRC researchers work in more than one of these overlapping and reinforcing areas, and in collaborative, interdisciplinary teams.

Qualifications

Required qualifications:
- PhD (or related doctoral degree) in statistics, biostatistics, economics, education, epidemiology, human development, psychology, sociology, political science, or a closely related quantitative area, with strong quantitative methodological training.
- Broad expertise in statistical methods and modern data science tools and extensive experience in their applications in social sciences population-based research.

Preferred Qualifications:
- Several years of experience providing collaborative statistical support to applications for funding and to funded projects at an academic or research institution.
- Ability and demonstrated interest in collaborative research in population-based social science investigation.
- Outstanding leadership skills.
- Supervisory experience.

Title: Assistant Professor in Contemporary Native American Studies

Position/Rank: Academic Positions; Assistant Professor

Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas

Salary Range: $80,000 - $89,999

Submission Link:

Job Description:

The Native American Studies Program at Colgate University invites applications for a tenure-stream position in contemporary Native American and Indigenous studies at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning fall semester 2024. We seek an engaged interdisciplinary candidate who combines scholarly work on pressing Indigenous issues with a demonstrated record of deep commitments to Native American communities. We are especially interested in scholars researching in US, Canadian, or South American-based Native, Indigenous, or First Nations. The research focus is open; areas of specialization could be but are not limited to: Native sovereignty; resource stewardship; environmental justice; Native language politics; education and alternative epistemologies; food sovereignty; visual arts; music; theater; literature; media and popular culture; contemporary ethics; queer Indigenous studies; critical museum studies; and/or decolonization. Completion of a Ph.D. in Native American Studies or a related discipline or interdisciplinary field is required prior to or shortly after the date of hire.

The candidate will be expected to contribute to the curriculum of the Native American Studies Program. Colgate sustains an undergraduate curriculum of Native American studies of the Americas, with more recent offerings that frame Indigenous studies in a Pacific and global context. We welcome candidates who will offer an array of Native American Studies courses that draw on their expertise. All Colgate faculty are also expected to participate in all-university programs, including the Liberal Arts Core Curriculum: https://www.colgate.edu/academics/core-curriculum

We invite applicants to submit a cover letter (1-2 pages), a CV, and the names and email addresses of three references willing to write letters on their behalf. Colgate faculty are committed to excellence in both teaching and scholarship. A candidate’s cover letter should outline their scholarly work and their approach to teaching. Colgate strives to be a community supportive of diverse perspectives and identities, and candidates may want to review Colgate’s key goals in this area: https://www.colgate.edu/about/third-century-plan/plan-diversity-equity-and-inclusion/key-goals. In their cover letter, candidates must describe how their approach to teaching, scholarship, mentorship, and/or community service might support the university’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. As candidates prepare their applications, they are encouraged to read further information about teaching and scholarship in Native American Studies at Colgate: https://www.colgate.edu/academics/departments-programs/native-american-studies-program/candidate-search. Applications must be submitted through Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/130249. Our review of applications will begin October 1, 2023 and continue until the position is filled. Later in the search process, as candidates move forward, they will be asked to provide an article-length writing sample and three letters of recommendation.

Employer Description:

Situated on the traditional lands of the Oneida Nation of the Haudenosaunee Confederacy, Colgate is a vibrant liberal arts university of 3200 students located in central New York state. Further information about the Native American Studies Program can be found at: https://www.colgate.edu/academics/departments-programs/native-american-studies-program

Applicants with dual-career considerations can find postings of other employment opportunities at Colgate and at other institutions of higher education in upstate New York at https://upstate-ny.hercjobs.org/.

It is the policy of Colgate University not to discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment on the basis of their race, color, creed, religion, age, sex, pregnancy, national origin, marital status, disability, protected Veterans status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, being or having been a victim of domestic violence or stalking, familial status, or any other categories covered by law. Colgate is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Candidates from historically underrepresented groups, women, persons with disabilities, and protected veterans are encouraged to apply.

Job Description:

HARVARD DIVINITY SCHOOL announces five full-time positions as Research Associate and Visiting Faculty for 2024-25 in its Women’s Studies in Religion Program. Proposals for book-length research projects utilizing both religion and gender as central categories of analysis and focusing on any religion are welcomed.

Positions are open to candidates with doctorates in the fields of religion and to those with primary competence in other humanities, social science, and public policy fields who demonstrate a serious interest in religion and hold appropriate degrees in those fields. Selection criteria emphasize the quality of the applicant's research prospectus, outlining objectives and methods; its fit with the Program's research priorities; the significance of the contribution of the proposed research to the study of religion, gender, and to its field; and an agreement to produce a publishable piece of work.

Salary for 2024-25 will be $65,000. Completed applications are due online by October 15, 2023. Applicants must have received their PhD by October 1, 2023. Please see our website (http://wsrp.hds.harvard.edu/apply) for more information.

Employer Description:
The Women's Studies in Religion Program was founded in 1973 to explore the fundamental role played by religious traditions in defining roles for women and men. Research on religion and gender sheds light on questions about the changing roles of women both inside religious communities and in broader public spheres. The Program's goal is the production of new primary research addressing these and related issues and the dispersal of that information through courses, publications, and public programs.

Faculty Fellow

XE: Experimental Humanities & Social Engagement

New York University Graduate School of Arts and Science

XE: Experimental Humanities & Social Engagement, an interdisciplinary master’s program in the Graduate School of Arts and Science at New York University, invites applications for a Faculty Fellow position in the social sciences. The initial appointment will be for one year beginning September 1, 2024, renewable annually for a maximum of three years, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

We seek outstanding interdisciplinary scholars of the social sciences whose work engages intersectional social justice. The successful candidate will be committed to cutting-edge interdisciplinary inquiry and their fields will include, span, or exceed: anthropology, sociology, science and technology studies, politics, or urban studies, addressing urgent topics such as displacement and migration, indigenous rights, anti-racism, decolonization, incarceration, health, or environmental justice, among others.

Faculty fellows teach three graduate seminars per year, advise and mentor students, oversee master’s theses, organize public programs, and actively participate in shaping the life of the program.

XE is a highly innovative master’s program and tight-knit community of scholars and practitioners who value collaborative mentoring and career building, as well as exploring new pedagogies and research methods at the intersection of creativity, criticality, and social engagement.

Qualifications:

We seek candidates with a PhD in the social sciences. While PhDs are required, we welcome candidates who have a public-facing critical or artistic practice in their field/s. Candidates should have completed their Ph.D. no earlier than 2020 and no later than by August 1, 2024.

To apply, please submit: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a 20- to 30-page writing sample, sample syllabi for two dream classes, three letters of recommendation, and a statement of diversity and inclusion.

Applications should be submitted through Interfolio: http://apply.interfolio.com/129772

The search committee will begin reviewing applications on January 5, 2023 and will continue until the position is filled.

As diversity is a priority for NYU and for this position, for the latter statement we ask you to provide a brief paragraph telling us how diversity figures into your past and present teaching, research, community engagement, and/or life experience, as well as how you would bring issues of diversity to bear on the teaching and programming of XE. Information about diversity statements may be found at http://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultydiversity/recruitment/diversity-statements.html.

In compliance with NYC’s Pay Transparency Act, the annual base salary for this position is $60,000. New York University considers factors such as (but not limited to) the scope and responsibilities of the position, the candidate’s work experience, education/training, key skills, internal peer equity, as well as market and organizational considerations when extending an offer.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber who embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. Job Description:

The University of Notre Dame’s Keough School of Global Affairs in conjunction with the Notre Dame Lucy Family Institute for Data and Society invites applicants for a tenure-track (open rank) professorship focused in the area of computational social science. The ideal candidate will have completed a Ph.D. in business, computer science, economics, information science, public policy, political science, psychology, sociology, or a related field with a strong research focus on the intersection of business and society.

The candidate should have strong skills in computational social science and data analytics with expertise in methods such as machine learning, network analysis, system dynamics or big-data analytics and visualization. They should have a strong research agenda focused on using these methods to help understand the role and impacts of business policies, practice and performance in society with a particular focus on public policy interventions to address challenges of human development, persistent poverty and growing inequality. Areas of particular interest include, but are not limited to, a focus on lower income countries, implementation of environmental social and governance (ESG) principles, global supply chains, trade, migration, and human trafficking.

Competitive candidates for this professorship will have a scholarly track record with evidence of high-quality research as well as experience or interest in policy engagement on questions of social and economic development. Scholars with direct experience working on policy with governments, international organizations, or non-governmental organizations are encouraged to apply. The successful candidate is expected to participate in the Keough School in all dimensions of research, teaching, and service.

The professorship will be based in the Keough School (https://keough.nd.edu), which advances integral human development through research, policy and practice, transformative educational programs, and partnerships for global engagement. It promotes interdisciplinary research on critical issues in global affairs. The successful candidate will be appointed as an affiliated faculty member of Notre Dame’s Lucy Family Institute (https://lucyinstitute.nd.edu/), which seeks to advance data innovation to help transform society and individual lives.

Submission Link: http://apply.interfolio.com/129450

Job Description:

The School of International Service (SIS) at American University (AU) invites applications for a full-time, one-year Center for Environment, Community, & Equity (CECE) Postdoctoral Fellowship. We especially encourage applications from individuals from sectors of the population historically underrepresented on the professorial faculties of U.S. colleges and universities. The position begins on October 1, 2023, with the possibility of renewal for a second year.

We welcome applicants who possess a broad and big-picture understanding of environmental challenges and the ability to engage with research and scholarship from multiple disciplines. Preference will be given to applicants with experience working on actionable research and who possess project management and grant-writing experience, strong intrapersonal skills, and knowledge around equity, community, and social justice issues.

The postdoctoral fellow should reside in the D.C. metropolitan area and be an active participant in SIS’ vibrant intellectual community. The successful candidate will work directly with Professor Dana Fisher, the Director of CECE, to expand and enhance the Center’s reputation in D.C. and globally. Areas of work will be derived from CECE focus areas: 1) Climate and Sustainability; 2) Environment, Equity, and Justice; 3) Food, Agriculture, and Land; and 4) Water, Oceans, and Fisheries. Other fellowship expectations include:

• Working with Dr. Fisher and the CECE team to coordinate collaborative research projects in development by CECE affiliated faculty across American University,
• Contributing to the day-to-day activities at the Center, including coordinating environmental events, hosting guests, writing for the new CECE Clearinghouse, and providing other administrative support (25% of the time); and
• Providing support and insight to teams that are selected to be part of the Faculty Development Incubator program, which awards start-up funds to support the development of interdisciplinary research projects around the environment from across the AU campus.

Candidates should be enthusiastic about working in a multidisciplinary environment that includes both social and natural scientists. Candidates should also share a commitment to the university’s Inclusive Excellence plan.

Applicants should hold a PhD or the highest equivalent degree in any discipline connected to environmental studies (social sciences, humanities, or natural sciences) by the start date. Annual salary: $65,000. Review of applications will begin in mid-August 2023 and will continue until the position is filled.

Applications must be submitted electronically via the Interfolio application system [http://apply.interfolio.com/129450]. Applications should include the following:

• Cover letter detailing the applicant’s proposed research
• Curriculum vitae
• Sample publications
• Brief research statement including research agenda
• Statement describing past examples of your contributions to diversity and inclusion in your scholarship, the classroom and/or in other professional settings.

• The names and email addresses of three references (the Interfolio system will contact them for a confidential letter of recommendation) and whom the committee may contact.

Queries about the search may be sent to Professor Dana Fisher (drfisher@american.edu). Queries about the online application system may be sent to SIS faculty affairs coordinator Alissa Iwaniuk (aiwaniuk@american.edu) and help@interfolio.com.

Job Description:

Vassar College

Assistant Professor of Sociology, Tenure Track

Department: Sociology Department

Posting Number: F080P

For full consideration applicants should apply by: 09/30/2023

About Vassar College

Vassar is a highly selective, coeducational liberal arts college of about 2400 undergraduate students, located in the Hudson Valley, seventy-five miles north of New York City. Vassar stands upon the homelands of the Munsee Lenape. The College is located in Poughkeepsie, home to a culturally diverse community, and benefits from convenient commuter rail access to New York City. Vassar faculty are committed teachers/scholars who bring research and creative discovery to life for students in classrooms, labs, and studios and in individually-mentored projects. They teach broadly in the curricula of their departments, advise students, and serve on college-wide and departmental committees. The College maintains a generous leave policy, provides strong support for research, and encourages multidisciplinary approaches to teaching.

Position Introduction

The Department of Sociology at Vassar College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Sociology beginning August 2024.

AA Statement
Vassar College is deeply committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community and the curriculum, and to promoting an environment of equality, inclusion, and respect for difference. Candidates who can contribute to this goal through their teaching, research, advising, and other activities are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences in this area. The College is an Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action employer, and especially welcomes applications from veterans, women, individuals with disabilities, and members of racial, ethnic, and other groups whose underrepresentation in the American professoriate has been severe and longstanding.

Position Description

The Department of Sociology seeks candidates in the field of critical criminology. Specializations of particular interest include corporate crime, environmental crime, human rights law, and/or prison studies. The teaching load at Vassar College is 2-2, plus one flexible unit that can be fulfilled with senior thesis and/or independent study supervision. The candidate’s responsibilities will include teaching three courses in their field of expertise and staffing one of the Department's core courses (Introductory Sociology, Modern Social Theory, Research Methods). The ideal candidate will have multidisciplinary research experience and an ability to support one of the college's multidisciplinary programs. A PhD in Sociology is required and must be in hand by time of appointment.

How to Apply

Please submit your application online at https://employment.vassar.edu/postings/3229

Candidates should submit:
- A letter of application
- CV
- A statement of teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching experience
- A statement of current research
- A statement highlighting contributions to or future plans for promoting diversity and inclusion through teaching, research, and other involvements (additional information can be found at https://offices.vassar.edu/dean-of-the-faculty/positions/candidate-diversity-statement/)
- Graduate transcript (an unofficial copy is acceptable for initial application)
- Three letters of recommendation

Information about the department and its faculty can be obtained from the department web site. Please address any questions to the chair of the department, Prof. Light Carruyo (licarruyo@vassar.edu). Review of applications will begin on September 30, 2023, and continue until the position has been filled. There is no guarantee that applications received after this date will be considered.

Job Description:

Postdoctoral Research Associate - Baylor Center for Developmental Disabilities

Job Identification: 15199

Job Description:

What We're Looking For:

Post-doctoral Research Associate
Faith, Disability, and Flourishing

Baylor Center for Developmental Disabilities

We are launching a new interdisciplinary initiative at Baylor University focused on disability and faith. Our goal is to carry out research, training, resource development, and leadership that promotes the flourishing of people with disabilities, as well as their families and faith communities. We will be launching new lines of research focused on the religious and spiritual lives of people with disabilities, the postures and practices of local congregations, the impact of inclusive ministry models, and creative partnerships between faith-based organizations and disability service systems. Additional areas of inquiry will be identified by our team members, advisory board, community partners, and needs assessments. This Associate will work directly with Dr. Erik Carter and other faculty affiliated with the initiative. We are seeking two postdoctoral research associates with expertise and interest in partnering on the design, delivery, and dissemination of these and related studies. This two-year, full-time fellowships will provide rich opportunities to deepen one's research program, develop new topical and methodological expertise, forge new collaborations, and advance inclusive and accessible ministry. Although the start dates are flexible, fellowships must begin no later than Fall 2024.

Education and Experience:

Ph.D. in fields related to disability (e.g., special education, disability studies, rehabilitation), health sciences, sociology, religion/ministry, or related fields [Applicants who are ABD are invited to apply if their degree is conferred by the start of the fellowship]
Prior experience related religion, disability, and/or their intersections

Prior experience working on and leading research projects

Desired Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities:

• Expertise in at least one research methodology
• Willingness to learn additional approaches to data collection and analyses (e.g., qualitative, quantitative, mixed method)
• Ability to engage relevant contemporary literature in religion and disability

• Strong communication skills
• Knowledge of key issues faced by people with disabilities and their families
• Desire to see faith communities increase their accessibility and hospitality

A Ph.D. with experience related to religion, disability, and/or their intersections is required. This position also requires a Christian faith. This is a two year assignment.

What You Will Do:

Responsibilities -

• Contributing to the design and implementation of core initiative studies
• Designing supplemental studies aligned with one's individual interests, including measures, recruitment procedures, methods, and data analyses
• Recruiting, supporting, and retaining study participants
• Working with community and ministry partners to inform this work
• Conducting systematic and other literature reviews

• Developing applications for federal and foundation funding
• Disseminating findings for both scholarly and lay audience
• Making presentations at state and national conferences
• Contributing to or leading data analyses
• Collaborating with other team members on all aspects of this research

Required Documents -

• Cover letter detailing your research interests, personal connections, and prior experiences related to this position and our faith & disability initiative
• Resume or CV

• Contact information for three people who can speak to your interests and potential contributions to this work
• Up to two writing samples (e.g., book chapter, dissertation chapter, journal article, work under review, work in progress)
For questions about the position, please contact Dr. Erik Carter at erik_carter@baylor.edu

What You Can Expect:

Compensation & Benefits

As part of the Baylor family, eligible employees receive a comprehensive benefits package that includes medical, dental, and vision insurance, generous time off, and tuition remission. Job 19411: Assistant Professor of Quantitative Social Science

Date Position is Available: Summer 2024

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 8/18/2023 to 9/17/2023

Institution: Dartmouth College
Department: Quantitative Social Science (QSS)
Region: Northeast

Title: Assistant Professor of Quantitative Social Science
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor, Academic Positions: Assistant/Associate Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College seeks a teacher-scholar for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor, to be appointed as early as July 1, 2024. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science. With an emphasis on tackling social science questions, relevant fields include applied mathematics, statistics, demography, economics, geography, political science, sociology, and related disciplines.

Applicants should have a strong methodological background and be able to (1) conduct research using either machine learning techniques or advanced statistical methods with a focus on social science applications and (2) teach these methods at the undergraduate level and also competently at the postgraduate level as needed. Keen interest in mentoring of undergraduates is a must, along with a demonstrated interest in encouraging students of all backgrounds and disciplinary interests. The person in this position will be expected to foster cross-disciplinary connections at Dartmouth around modern research methods.

To learn more about Dartmouth College and QSS, visit http://qss.dartmouth.edu. The Program in Quantitative Social Science and Dartmouth are committed to fostering a diverse, equitable, and inclusive population of students, faculty, and staff. Dartmouth recently launched a new initiative, Toward Equity, that embraces shared definitions of diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging as a foundation for our success in institutional transformation. We are especially interested in applicants who are able to work effectively with students, faculty, and staff from all backgrounds and with different identities and attributes. Applicants should state in their letter of application how their teaching, research, service, and/or life experiences prepare them to advance Dartmouth’s commitments to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Employer Description:

Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex, race, color, religion, age, disability, status as a veteran, national or ethnic origin, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, or any other category protected by applicable law, in the administration of its educational policies, admission policies, scholarship and loan programs, employment, or other school administered programs. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

If you are an applicant with a disability and need accommodations to assist in the job application or interview process, please email ADA@dartmouth.edu. In the subject line, please state “Application Accommodations” and include the job number or title. Someone from the ADA Compliance Office will be in touch within 2 business days.

In the field of the Rhetoric of Global Imaginaries of Race, the Department seeks applicants whose research and teaching are focused by the discursive structures and practices that shape imaginaries of race and racialization globally. In the field of Environmental Rhetoric, it seeks applicants whose research and teaching centers around the rhetorics that inform natural or built environments, or their interfaces.

Rhetoric is a multidisciplinary and transdisciplinary department distinguished by its ongoing interrogation of existing and emerging fields of knowledge at their boundaries. While the Department is open to all disciplines in the humanities or the humanistic social sciences, it strongly values theoretical approaches that cross conventional disciplinary divisions. For more information about Rhetoric, visit https://rhetoric.berkeley.edu.

Applicants should demonstrate evidence of a strong humanistic research agenda and scholarly potential in areas that complement existing strengths in the Department, as well as an ability to teach a wide range of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels, to mentor graduate students in the Ph.D. program, and to participate in departmental and campus life.

Diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at UC Berkeley and in the Department of Rhetoric. Our excellence can only be realized by faculty, students, and staff who are committed to these values. Support for candidates on writing effective statements that demonstrate this commitment can be found at: https://ofew.berkeley.edu/recruitment/contributions-deib/support-faculty-candidates

The Department is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. We are also interested in candidates who have had non-traditional career paths or who have taken time off for family reasons, or who have achieved excellence in careers outside academia. For information about potential relocation to Berkeley or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty

Basic qualifications (required at time of application)

Applicants for this position must hold a PhD or equivalent international degree or be enrolled in a PhD or equivalent international degree-granting program at the time of application.

Preferred qualifications

Additional qualifications include evidence of strong research agenda and excellent scholarly potential, research and teaching that complement existing strengths in the Department, and the ability to teach courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Title: UCLA Sociology Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track)
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas

Salary Range: Negotiable

Submission Link: https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/JPF08714

Job Description:

The UCLA Department of Sociology invites applications for an Assistant Professor (tenure-track) faculty position to begin July 1, 2024. UCLA is a leading public university, located in a vibrant and diverse global city. We welcome applications from scholars in all substantive areas and all methodological approaches to sociology whose experience in research, teaching, and community/collegial service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to excellence and diversity. Candidates are expected to hold a doctoral degree in sociology or a related field by the date of hire, July 1, 2024.

To apply, candidates must submit (a) a cover letter, (b) CV, (c) statement of research, (d) statement of teaching, (e) an equity, diversity, and inclusion (EDI) statement that describes the candidate’s past, present, and future (planned) contributions to equity, diversity, and inclusion, (f) writing samples (one required, but may submit a total of three), (g) three letters of recommendation, and (h) a completed Authorization to Release Information form. Applications will be accepted via the UC Recruit web site at https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF08714 beginning August 15, 2023. Applications should be submitted by September 15, 2023, in order to receive full consideration.

The posted UC salary scales set the minimum pay determined by rank and/or step at appointment (see Table 1). The salary range for this position is $74,600 - $97,200. "Off-scale salaries" and other components of pay, i.e., a salary that is higher than the published system-wide salary at the designated rank and step, are offered when necessary to meet competitive conditions. A reasonable estimated salary range for this position is $121,300 - $149,000, inclusive of the salary scale and off-scale salary components.

The University of California is committed to creating and maintaining a community dedicated to the advancement, application, and transmission of knowledge and creative endeavors through academic excellence, where all individuals who participate in University programs and activities can work and learn together in a safe and secure environment, free of violence, harassment, bullying and other demeaning behavior, discrimination, exploitation, or intimidation. With this commitment as well as a commitment to addressing all forms of academic misconduct, UCLA conducts targeted employment reference checks for finalists to whom departments or other hiring units would like to extend formal offers of appointment into Academic Senate faculty positions. The targeted employment reference checks involve contacting the finalists' current and prior places of employment to ask whether there have been substantiated findings of misconduct that would violate the University's Faculty Code of Conduct. To implement this process, UCLA requires all applicants for Academic Senate faculty positions to complete, sign, and upload the form entitled "Authorization to Release Information" into RECRUIT as part of their application. If the applicant does not include the signed authorization to release information with the application materials, the application will be considered incomplete. As with any incomplete application, the application will not receive further consideration. Although all applicants for faculty recruitments must complete the entire application, only the finalists (i.e., those to whom the department or other hiring unit would like to extend a formal offer) considered for Academic Senate faculty positions will be subject to targeted employment reference checks.

As a University employee, you will be required to comply with all applicable University policies and/or collective bargaining agreements, as may be amended from time to time. Federal, state, or local government directives may impose additional requirements.

Employer Description:

Located in Los Angeles, the city that the world watches to detect the shape of the future – UCLA is one of the world’s preeminent sociology departments. The US News and World Report Guide to Graduate Departments ranks UCLA Sociology 3rd among public universities and 6th overall. We also rank among the top 2–5 public universities and 5–7 overall in Historical Sociology, Sex and Gender, Social Stratification, Cultural Sociology, and Sociology of Population. We have exceptionally strong programs in international migration, ethnicity and nationalism, and conversation analysis.
Committed to methodological pluralism, we conduct sociological research in myriad ways—including through direct observation, archival work, recording of naturally occurring interaction, large-scale sample surveys, social network studies, experiments, or secondary data analysis. Our PhD program provides an exceptional breadth and depth of training in methodology to our graduate students.

Our home base—Los Angeles—is an extraordinarily dynamic social setting and a rich laboratory for sociological research. If Chicago was the city that nourished the sociological imagination for much of the twentieth century, Los Angeles is arguably its successor. The city’s unparalleled levels of ethnic diversity, social and political experimentation, and diverse urban life provide endless research sites.

Our internationally renowned faculty includes numerous recipients of the academic world’s most prestigious awards including the Guggenheim Fellowships, Robert Wood Johnson Foundation fellowships, and one recipient of a MacArthur “Genius” award—along with numerous recipients of many other prestigious fellowships. Two faculty have been elected to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and one to the National Academy of Sciences.

Our recent Ph.D. students now teach at the world’s leading universities including Michigan, Wisconsin, Chicago, Yale, Penn, and Berkeley, along with some of the very finest liberal arts colleges.

Our undergraduate graduates are making important contributions in business, academia, the non-profit sector, public service, and the professions.

POSITION DESCRIPTION

The Sociology Department at the University of California, Santa Barbara, invites applications for a position in the area of culture, beginning July 1, 2024. The ideal candidate will have an active research agenda that engages in the sociological study of culture (topical specializations and methodologies are open), an outstanding publication record as demonstrated through peer reviewed journal articles and/or books, and demonstrated excellence in teaching, student mentorship, and professional and public service.

UCSB's Sociology Department is ranked among the top 10 nationwide in the sociological subfield of culture. Within the department, culture is a core area that intersects deeply and broadly with all the other core and thematic areas of research and teaching. We seek to hire a scholar whose expertise in sociology of culture can add to the department’s strength, which lies in the rich theoretical, analytical, and methodological diversity of the faculty. The ideal candidate also can contribute teaching and mentoring excellence to serve our graduate program and our large and highly diverse undergraduate major.

The University is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and service as appropriate to the position.

QUALIFICATIONS

Basic qualifications (required at time of application)

Applicants must currently have a PhD in sociology or a closely related social science discipline.

Preferred qualifications

Applicant's research and scholarship should focus on the sociological study of culture.

Active research program as demonstrated through publications in peer reviewed journals and/or books.

Topical specializations and methodologies in the field of culture are open. We are particularly interested in candidates with outstanding records of scholarly achievement.

Candidates with research and teaching experience that can add to the department's rich theoretical, analytical, and methodological diversity.

Demonstrated excellence in teaching and student mentoring (Demonstrable via letters of reference, qualitative and/or quantitative evaluations (if available), past record of student mentoring, and/or via interview process).

Contributions to diversity and equal opportunity as demonstrated by commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive learning community, including evidence of engagement in relevant activities promoting equity, inclusion, and diversity, as applicable.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

Document requirements

- Curriculum Vitae - Your most recently updated C.V.

Job Description:

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF RELIGION AND SOCIETY

Boston University School of Theology

BOSTON UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY invites applications for a full-time tenure track assistant professor position in religion and society or practical theology, with a specialization in Black Church Studies and/or African American religious communities. Competence with social-scientific research methodologies is central to this position, with a preference for scholars who have experience with ethnographic methods, especially emerging forms such as hybrid and digital ethnography. The successful candidate will be an outstanding scholar and teacher, holding a PhD in Sociology, Anthropology, Africana or African American Studies or ThD or PhD in Practical Theology or related fields, with demonstrated potential for a strong record of publications. Active engagement in empirical research within one’s scholarly field and excellence in teaching are expected. An additional seminary degree (e.g., MDiv, MTS, MAR) is desirable. Candidates should be committed to the School’s mission of preparing leaders for diverse forms of ministry in religious communities and faith-based organizations, as well as teaching doctoral students for the professoriate within the field of practical theology, and other forms of scholarship within the interdisciplinary context of a research university. Responsibilities and opportunities include teaching four courses per year in masters and doctoral programs of the School of Theology, as well as graduate advising and committee service. Boston University expects excellence in teaching and research and is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty and staff committed to engaged scholarship in a multicultural environment.

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, statements of teaching and research that include engaging questions of diversity and justice, a major publication sample, and three professional references (sent separately). Materials should be sent to the Faculty Search Committee, Boston University School of Theology, 745 Commonwealth Avenue, Suite 110, Boston, MA 02215. Applications may be submitted as email attachments to Ms. Jaziya Osman at sthodaa@bu.edu.

Review of applications will begin 25 September 2023 and will continue until a suitable candidate is selected. We are an equal opportunity employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor. Women and underrepresented minority candidates are especially encouraged to apply. BU conducts a background check on all final candidates for certain faculty and staff positions. The background check includes contacting the final candidate’s current and previous employer(s) to ask whether, in the last seven years, there has been a substantiated finding of misconduct violating that employer’s applicable sexual misconduct policies. To implement this process, the University requires a final candidate to complete and sign the form entitled “Authorization to Release Information” after execution of an offer letter.

Job Description:

Martin Luther King, Jr. Professor of Religion and Black Studies
Boston University School of Theology

BOSTON UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY invites applications for the Martin Luther King, Jr., Professor of Religion and Black Studies, a full-time, tenured faculty position at the rank of Full Professor, to begin in Fall 2024. The Professorship honors Dr. King by modeling the moral authority, prophetic vision of justice, peace, and love, ethical leadership, and global consciousness that he advocated for and embodied. The successful candidate will be an outstanding scholar, holding a PhD, ThD, or appropriate equivalent degree, whose research and teaching contribute to the School of Theology, Boston University, and the Academy in the work of religion and Black studies and to models and practices of ethical leadership.

Candidates should have a research record and agenda that engages and contributes to their particular field of specialization and to Religion and Black studies more generally. An additional seminary degree (e.g., MDiv, MTS, MAR) is highly desirable. Ideal candidates will be capable of teaching topics that touch upon the theology and life work of Martin Luther King, Jr. and the Civil Rights movement, peacemaking and conflict transformation, and/or other movements for social justice. Candidates should have a notable record of ethical leadership, mentoring, and collaboration with colleagues and students. The successful candidate will also exhibit capabilities for teaching, advising, conducting research, and contributing to the larger work of the School of Theology and Boston University.

STH is committed to the formation of intercultural competence and social justice in all aspects of our learning community; and we seek candidates who are eager and skilled in providing leadership to realize these goals, and who support the School’s Diversity Statement. Candidates should be committed to the School’s mission of preparing leaders at the masters and doctoral levels for diverse forms of ministry in religious communities and other organizations, as well as teaching doctoral students for the professoriate and other forms of scholarship within the interdisciplinary context of a research university. Responsibilities include teaching four courses per year as part of the master’s and doctoral programs of the School of Theology. Boston University expects excellence in teaching, research, and publication and is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty and staff committed to engaged scholarship in a multicultural environment. Boston University School of Theology is a United Methodist school that offers an ecumenical education and works closely with other denominations and religious communities.

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, statements of teaching and research that include engaging questions of diversity and justice, a major publication sample, and three professional references (sent separately). Materials should be sent to the Faculty Search Committee, Boston University School of Theology, 745 Commonwealth Avenue, Suite 110, Boston, MA 02215. Applications may be submitted as email attachments to Ms. Jaziya Osman at sasthan@bu.edu.

Review of applications will begin September 25, 2023 and will continue until a suitable candidate is selected. We are an equal opportunity employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a
VEVRAA Federal Contractor. BU conducts a background check on all final candidates for certain faculty and staff positions. The background check includes contacting the final candidate’s current and previous employer(s) to ask whether, in the last seven years, there has been a substantiated finding of misconduct violating that employer’s applicable sexual misconduct policies. To implement this process, the University requires a final candidate to complete and sign the form entitled “Authorization to Release Information” after execution of an offer letter.

Job Description:

Description:

The Department of Sociology in the College of Arts and Sciences at The Ohio State University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in computational sociology to commence autumn semester 2024. We seek candidates who are well-grounded in sociological theory and who create new computational approaches to generate knowledge and advance sociological methodology. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches – including but not limited to – text analysis, networks, advanced quantitative methods, Bayesian statistics, analysis of large-N data, experiments, machine learning, and simulations. Scholars who can work collaboratively with a diverse, multidisciplinary team are of particular interest, as are those who can engage with other programs and interdisciplinary research centers at the university. Responsibilities of the position include maintaining a robust research program, including actively seeking external funding, contributing to excellence in teaching and mentoring a diverse body of graduate and undergraduate students, and providing engaged service to the university and the profession.

Qualifications:

Applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in sociology or a related field by the start of employment and present evidence of potential for excellence in teaching and research. Appointment is contingent on the university’s verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

Application Instructions:

Apply to The Ohio State University Careers website at https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Assistant-Professor_R86520-1. A competitive application consists of the following required elements: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, three writing samples, and three letters of reference. We also invite candidates to consider providing an optional statement that reflects upon their experiences and endeavors related to OSU’s Shared Values (see below).

How to Apply:

You will be presented with the opportunity to attach up to five documents in the Application Documents section. Please include the following:

- Attachment 1: Cover Letter
- Attachment 2: Curriculum Vitae
- Attachment 3: Teaching Statement and Research Statement in a single file
- Attachment 4: Three writing samples in a single file
- Attachment 5 (optional): Values Statement: Description of efforts that reflect Ohio State’s Shared Values.

You will be sent an email with instructions to provide names and contact information for three reference letters following submission of your application materials.
The Ohio State University’s Shared Values include Excellence and Impact, Diversity and Innovation, Inclusion and Equity, Care and Compassion, and Integrity and Respect. Our university community welcomes differences, encourages open-minded exploration and courageous thinking, and upholds freedom of expression. We define diversity broadly and value multiple dimensions of diversity including, but not limited to demographic, religion, country of origin, perspective, ability status, and background.

Ohio State prides itself on welcoming a wide range of viewpoints and providing opportunities for all to deepen and develop their intellectual curiosities. As a land-grant university, we recognize and understand that a diverse faculty, staff, and student body in which all may engage in open dialogue, be exposed to new ideas and perspectives, belong, and feel valued and included is essential to our efforts in meeting our mission of academic excellence and public service.

Please share your own demonstrated efforts in your research, teaching, and/or outreach and engagement that reflect Ohio State's Shared Values and that might further advance our mission and institutional excellence.

Review of applications will begin on September 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Jamie Fowle at fowle.20@osu.edu.

Job 19403: Assistant Professor - Race and Economic Equity

Date Position is Available: Fall 2024

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 8/17/2023 to 9/16/2023

Institution: Ohio State University
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: Midwest
Title: Assistant Professor - Race and Economic Equity
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor

Salary Range: Negotiable

Submission Link: https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Assistant-Professor_R86537-1

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology in the College of Arts and Sciences at The Ohio State University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in the study of race, economic opportunity, and leadership to commence autumn semester 2024. We welcome scholars with expertise in this broad area, including but not limited to the study of race and ethnic inequalities and opportunities in credit, debt, wealth, consumption, household finance, life course and family transfers and those who focus on intersections and related inequalities in modern society (e.g., gender inequality, concentrated poverty, and racial segregation). Scholars who can work collaboratively with a diverse, multidisciplinary team are of particular interest, as are those who can engage with other programs and interdisciplinary research centers at the university. Resonable: the position include maintaining a robust research program, including actively seeking external funding, contributing to excellence in teaching and mentoring a diverse body of graduate and undergraduate students, and providing engaged service to the university and the profession.

This position is part of an Ohio State University initiative on Race, Inclusion, and Social Equality (RAISE) and an interdisciplinary hiring cluster of three tenure track faculty in the area of Race, Economic Opportunity, and Financial Inclusion Across the Life Course. Participating academic units include the Departments of Sociology and Economics in the College of Arts and Sciences and the John Glenn College of Public Affairs. Building on established interdisciplinary collaborations and unique administrative data infrastructure at Ohio State in the study of economic disparities across the life course, the cluster hires will accelerate progress in documenting, understanding, and addressing entrenched racial disparities in financial resources and economic opportunity. Ohio State's multidisciplinary research units and centers such as the Institute for Population Research, the Center for Human Resources Research (CHRR), the Kirwan Institute for the Study of Race and Ethnicity, and the Center for Ethnic Studies present opportunities for rich collaboration and scholarly community across disciplines. Learn more about the RAISE initiative from the Office of Faculty Affairs.

This tenure-track assistant professor position is eligible to be part of The Ohio State University Provost's Tenure-Track Fellow Program. This is a two-year program that assists early career scholars as they transition to the tenure track. Provost Fellows will focus full-time on research for up to two years allowing for an in-depth start on scholarship, with limited teaching requirements (although Fellows may teach one course per year if they choose). Provost Fellows will receive research funding and participate in career development programs to support their transition to assistant professor and their long-term career success. In addition, Provost Fellows will participate in scholarly activities within the Department of Sociology and have a designated faculty mentor. Following the fellowship period, Provost Fellows will automatically transition to the rank of assistant professor within the Department of Sociology and the tenure clock will begin.

Qualifications:

Applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in sociology or a related field by the start of employment and present evidence of potential for excellence in teaching and research. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

Position description

The Department of Demography at the University of California, Berkeley seeks applications for a full-time faculty appointment at the rank of tenured Associate or Full professor. The search is not restricted by subfield, and scholars with interdisciplinary interests are encouraged to apply. The position's duties include: academic research and publications, undergraduate and graduate teaching, and administrative service. The UC Berkeley Demography Department occupies a unique niche in the population studies landscape, with a strong focus on formal demography, population theory, and the relationship between demographic dynamics and social, cultural, and economic dynamics. For more information, please visit our department website: https://www.demog.berkeley.edu/.
The Department of Demography and the Division of Social Sciences recognize the intrinsic relationship between diversity and excellence in all our endeavors. We embrace open and equitable access to opportunities for learning and development as our obligation and goal. We seek candidates who demonstrate a commitment to advancing diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging through their research, teaching, and/or service. UC Berkeley is committed to upholding the university's principles of community so that every individual can be successful in a healthy, welcoming, and safe environment. Additional information about programs and resources supporting the advancement of diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging is available at:

https://ls.berkeley.edu/about/diversity-equity-and-inclusion

Job 19398: OPEN rank: Assistant/Associate /Full Professor

Date Position is Available: Fall 2024

Position Description: The Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies is seeking to fill one full-time tenure-track position beginning Fall 2024 at the Assistant/Associate/Professor level. Responsibilities include conducting and publishing scholarly research, seeking extramural funding, teaching face-to-face and online courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels, and service to the department, university, and profession.

About UTEP: The University of Texas at El Paso is America’s leading Hispanic-serving university. Located at the westernmost tip of Texas, where three states and two countries converge along the Rio Grande, UTEP is a comprehensive public research university that is increasing access to excellent higher education. We advance discovery of public value and positively impact the health, culture, education, and economy of the community we serve. Eighty-four percent of our students are Hispanic, and half of undergraduates are the first in their families to go to college. Deeply woven into the University’s character are the distinctive strengths of the people whom we serve. At UTEP, our 24,000 students have access to 169 bachelor’s, master’s and doctoral degree programs. Located in the second-most educated city in Texas, UTEP is recognized as one of the best research universities in the country for connecting students with the community around them. The Department offers a B.A. in Criminal Justice, an equivalent 100% online B.A., and an M.S. in Criminology and Criminal Justice. The Department has developed agency relationships to provide CJ faculty with access to agency-based research opportunities. The Department also has programs in Intelligence/Security Studies (B.A., M.S.) and Master of Defense and Strategic Studies.

Required Qualifications for Full Professor: Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, Criminology or closely related field and have 10 or more years post Ph.D. teaching experience, funded extramural grants, and an active scholarly publication record. Applicants with only a J.D., Psy.D., or Ed.D. will not be considered.

Required Qualifications for Associate Professor: Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, Criminology or closely related field and have 5 or more years post Ph.D. teaching experience, an active scholarly publication record and grant activity. Applicants with only a J.D., Psy.D., or Ed.D. will not be considered.

Required Qualifications for Assistant: Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, Criminology or a closely related field from an accredited university. ABD applicants will be considered if doctorate will be in hand by Fall 2024. Active research agenda and published scholarly journal articles are required. Applicants with only a J.D., Psy.D., or Ed.D. will not be considered.

Preferred Areas: Preference will be given to candidates who have teaching and/or research expertise in at least one of these areas: Criminal Justice Systems; Criminological Theory, and Justice Policy Applications.

Application Instructions and Contact Information: To apply, visit www.utep.edu/employment. Applicants must electronically submit: (1) letter of interest that specifies: the RANK at which this application is to be considered, teaching areas and research expertise; (2) curriculum vita; (3) one scholarly publication or dissertation manuscript; (4) a one-page research plan for the next 3 years; and (5) names and full contact information of three references that we may contact. If you have questions about the position, please contact the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Leanne Alarid at: Lfalarid@utep.edu

Application Review Date: Review of applications will begin September 25, 2023, and will continue until the position is filled. Hiring decisions are based on budget approval.

Institution: The University of Alabama at Birmingham
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: South
Title: Adv Asst/Assoc Professor
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant/Associate Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Eligible
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Medical Sociology, Sex and Gender
Salary Range: $80,000 - $89,999

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Alabama at Birmingham (UAB) invites applications for an advanced Assistant or Associate Professor position with a start date of August 2024. We seek a candidate with demonstrated scholarship in medical sociology, specifically around women, gender, and health. Using funds from a gift to the department, the occupant of this position will play a leadership role in developing programming devoted to raising awareness for gender and women's health issues. This programming can be related to the candidate's specific program of research or more broadly related to gender and women's health.

The department offers a B.A. and M.A. in Sociology and a B.S. and Ph.D. in Medical Sociology. Research in the department focuses on medical sociology and health-related topics. Currently, the department has about 75 undergraduate majors, 25 Ph.D. students, 75 professional master's students, and 15 full-time faculty members. See the department website for more information: http://www.uab.edu/cas/sociology/.

Interdisciplinary scholarship and teaching are prominent, and the Department of Sociology collaborates closely with multiple units across campus. For example, interdisciplinary research centers on campus include the Center for the Study of Community Health, the Minority Health and Health Disparities Research Center, the Center for Women's Reproductive Health, the Lister Hill Center for Health Policy, the Institute for Human Rights, the Center for Social Science and Justice Research, and the Center for Clinical and Translational Sciences.

Applicants are required to upload a cover letter; current CV; a writing sample; a Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) statement; (optional) evidence of teaching effectiveness; and (optional) evidence of programming experience. The cover letter should address research, teaching philosophy and experience, and programming goals. Also provide names of three professional references, who may be contacted later in the search process for letters.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2023 and will continue until the position is filled.

Questions may be directed to Mieke Beth Thomeer, Search Committee Chair, mthomeer@uab.edu.

Job Description:

The Indiana University School of Public Health-Bloomington invites applications for a post-doctoral fellowship in sexual and reproductive health measure development and research within the Department of Applied Health Science. We are seeking a bilingual – English and Spanish – post-doctoral research fellow for a multi-year study aimed at developing and psychometrically assessing survey items aimed at measuring attitudes and public opinion toward abortion in the U.S. for use in both English and Spanish social surveys. Drs. Kristen Jozkowski (PI; public health), Brandon Crawford (PI; public health), Ronna Turner, and Wen-Juo Lo (U of A, Co-PIs; statistics and research methodology) are the leads for the project. The fellow will work with the PIs as well as faculty in other disciplines at Indiana University and the University of Arkansas and other academic institutions.

Drs. Jozkowski and Crawford will be the primary mentors, with additional mentoring from the other investigators and researchers at Indiana University, the University of Arkansas, and other institutions. The fellow will be based in the Applied Health Science Department at Indiana University. This project presents unique opportunities for gaining research experience and working on a national project with a dynamic interdisciplinary team.

The term of the appointment is two years. The candidate may start as early as June 2024. Applications received by October 20, 2023 will receive full consideration. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. The salary and benefits are competitive and include the possibility of funding for conference-related travel and expenses. During the period of the fellowship, the fellow is expected to live in the Bloomington, Indiana area.

Responsibilities: There will be multiple phases of data collection in both English and Spanish during the formative and validation phases using both qualitative and quantitative methodologies. This may include assistance in developing surveys in English and Spanish and conducting interviews, and coding and analyzing interview data in both languages. Post-docs will play an integral part in conducting analyses using both quantitative and qualitative data, writing of manuscripts, preparation of reports, and dissemination of results at academic conferences. Additionally, this role will take part in the translation of survey and interview instruments using a team-based approach.

Qualifications: Applicants are invited from any relevant discipline including social and behavioral sciences (e.g., sociology, psychology, public health, political science). Candidates must have received a doctoral degree from an accredited educational institution by the start of appointment. Being fluent in English and Spanish is required. The successful applicant will have a strong interest and research experience in quantitative methodology including data management such as merging datasets, recoding variables, cleaning data, and data analysis including categorical data analysis and regression, and experience managing research projects. Interest and experience in qualitative methodology including conducting interviews and analyzing interview data is a plus. The applicant must have excellent oral and written communication skills in both English and Spanish and interpersonal and organizational skills. Demonstrated successful dissemination of scholarship would be an advantage.

About Us: Located on the Flagship Campus of the Indiana University System, IU School of Public Health-Bloomington has over 200 faculty in five departments. Title: Open Rank Faculty Search in Sociology
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor, Academic Positions: Associate Professor, Academic Positions: Full Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Race, Class and Gender, Racial and Ethnic Relations
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

As part of a strategic investment for a transformative expansion of the faculty of the Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the Department of Sociology at Johns Hopkins University is poised for significant growth in the coming years. We invite applications for tenured and tenure-track appointments at any rank. In the initial phase, beginning in 2024, we are especially interested in candidates who work in the areas of the sociology of race and ethnicity and the sociology of gender. We anticipate making at least these two appointments in 2024, with additional appointments likely in 2024 or soon thereafter.

Successful candidates will have a record of excellent empirical research and will join a growing, vibrant Department of Sociology within a School and University that foster a wide range of interdisciplinary conversations and collaborations, including on gender, race, racism and anti-racism. Experience in research, teaching and professional service should be commensurate with that expected in a research-intensive University with a strong commitment to instruction at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Applicants at the Assistant Professor level should have a record of published scholarship and expect to have earned their Ph.D. prior to the effective date. Applicants at the Associate and Full professor levels should have a record of research, teaching, and service commensurate with appointment at these levels.

Interested applicants should apply online and submit a cover letter with a research statement, a curriculum vitae, and a writing sample. Applicants at the Assistant Professor level should submit three letters of recommendation; applicants at the Associate and Full Professor level do not need to submit letters of recommendation at the application stage. Questions may be directed to the Recruitment Committee Chair, Dr. Rina Agarwala (agarwala@jhu.edu). Applications received after October 16, 2023, cannot be guaranteed consideration.

Employer Description:

Johns Hopkins is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The university is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other underrepresented group members. Consistent with the university’s goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will assess the comprehensive qualifications of each applicant.

Job Description:

Assistant Professor in Sociology

The Department of Sociology, Anthropology, and Social Work (SASW) at Texas Tech University seeks to appoint a tenure-track assistant professor in Sociology. The research specialization is open, but preference is given to those who have a specialization in health and/or culture. Teaching responsibilities will include graduate and undergraduate courses in Sociology including Globalization and departmentally required classes (statistics, theory, and/or research methods). A strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching is required. The successful candidate must conduct research commensurate with the standards of a research-intensive university and will be expected to offer appropriate service to the department, college, and university as needed. Applicants should have completed a PhD in the field of Sociology or another relevant field at the time of the appointment. Candidates who have very strong records of scholarship supported by extramural funding and who have the proven capacity or clear potential to bring externally sponsored research to Texas Tech University are encouraged to apply.

All interested applicants must apply online at <http://www.texastech.edu/careers> (click on 'Faculty' and 'Search openings' then enter requisition number 34207BR) and upload a CV and cover letter. After a preliminary review of applications, selected candidates will be asked to provide three letters of reference and a sample of scholarly work.

Inquiries should be directed to Dr. Jerome Koch, Search Committee Chair, at Jerome.Koch@ttu.edu. Review of applications will begin on September 15th, 2023.

Employer Description:

Texas Tech is designated as a Carnegie Research 1 Institution and is also recognized as a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI). Texas Tech is located in the West Texas High Plains city of Lubbock (population over 250,000) and has excellent medical facilities, a low cost of living, and a semi-arid, sunny, and mild climate. Lubbock is within driving distance of Dallas, Austin, Santa Fe, and other major metropolitan cities.

Job 19380: Collegiate Assistant Professor

Date Position is Available: Fall 2024

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 8/14/2023 to 10/13/2023

Institution: University of Chicago
Department: The College
Region: Midwest
Title: Collegiate Assistant Professor
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Other
Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Tenure Track

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas, Open to All Specialty Areas

Salary Range: $80,000 - $89,999

Submission Link: https://fellows.uchicago.edu

Job Description:

The College at the University of Chicago is now accepting applications for four-year postdoctoral teaching appointments as Harper and Schmidt Fellows who hold the rank of Collegiate Assistant Professor. Collegiate Assistant Professors are members of the College Faculty whose primary professional responsibility is to teach in the general education (Core) program. https://college.uchicago.edu/academics/core-curriculum

Core courses in the Humanities typically deal with fundamental issues and texts in history, philosophy, and literature. Currently, the Core is organized into eight year-long sequences: Readings in World Literature; Human Being and Citizen: Greece and Rome: Texts, Traditions, Transformations; Philosophical Perspectives on the Humanities; Media Aesthetics; Reading Cultures; Poetry and the Human; and Language and the Human. We encourage applicants to spend time reviewing the descriptions and syllabi for Core sequences to understand the distinct topics and approaches and gauge best fit. Descriptions of these courses are available here: https://college.uchicago.edu/academics/core/humanities-core

Core courses in the Social Sciences explore, on the basis of significant works or primary source materials, the fundamental concepts and the different modes of inquiry that have defined the social sciences in the modern period. Currently, we are inviting applications for Collegiate Assistant Professors to teach in some of the year-long sequences into which the Core is organized: Self, Culture and Society; Classics of Social and Political Thought; Power, Identity, and Resistance; Democracy: Equality, Liberty and the Dilemma of Self-Governance; Global Society; Mind; and Social Science Inquiry. We encourage applicants to spend time reviewing the descriptions and syllabi for Core sequences to understand the distinct topics and approaches and gauge best fit. Descriptions of these courses are available here: https://college.uchicago.edu/academics/core/social-sciences-core

Some Collegiate Assistant Professors also teach in the History of European Civilization Core sequence as well as the Introductions to the Civilizations of East Asian Core sequences. These courses are taught on the basis of intensive readings of significant primary source documents. For descriptions and syllabi of the History of European Civilization and the Civilizations of East Asia sequences see: https://college.uchicago.edu/academics/core/civilizations-studies-core

The positions are open to scholars in all disciplines and areas of specialization who will have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. degree no later than August 31, 2024. Candidates must demonstrate excellence in teaching as well as in their original scholarship. While many Core sequences feature set reading lists, applicants need not have conventional expertise in the specific texts and topics that are currently taught. Rather, we welcome applicants from a wide variety of disciplinary backgrounds who can apply conceptual and methodological creativity and skill to the teaching of general education courses. Applicants should be prepared 1) to identify and guide students through fundamental questions in a Core sequence and 2) to contribute meaningfully to the instructional community and the curricular evolution for that Core sequence.

In most years, Collegiate Assistant Professors teach two courses (usually of identical preparation) for each of three quarters. In the second through fourth year of residence, each Collegiate Assistant Professor has the opportunity to design up to two independent courses and each is eligible for one quarter of research sabbatical. In the fourth year there is a possibility of another quarter of sabbatical with salary reduction.

The position comes with an annual salary for 2024-25 of $82,571, carries full benefits, and an annual professional development fund of $6,500. The effective date for these teaching appointments is September 1, 2024.

To apply for these positions, please see our website at https://fellows.uchicago.edu

https://fellows.uchicago.edu
The terms and conditions of these positions are described in the collective bargaining agreement between the University and the Service Employees International Union.

All University departments and institutes are charged with building a faculty from a diversity of backgrounds and with diverse viewpoints; with cultivating an inclusive community that values freedom of expression; and with welcoming and supporting all their members.

We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange. The University's Statements on Diversity are at https://provost.uchicago.edu/statements-diversity.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-834-0681 or email dneibel@uchicago.edu with their request before the application deadline.

Salary Range: Negotiable

Submission Link: apply.interfolio.com/129805

Job Description:

Position Title: Assistant Professor in the Sociology of Sexuality
Location: Philadelphia, PA
Position Type: Standing Faculty
Position URL: apply.interfolio.com/129805

Position Description:

The Department of Sociology at the University of Pennsylvania invites applications for a tenure-track position in the sociology of sexuality at the assistant professor rank starting July 1, 2024.

This position is part of a multi-year, multi-departmental series of appointments in sexuality, gender, and/or queer studies. Candidates should have a strong interest in interacting with scholars from other disciplines whose research lies in this broad area of inquiry. The successful candidate will be centrally involved in the Program in Gender, Sexuality, and Women’s Studies (GSWS). They will teach three total courses per year in Sociology and the GSWS Program (typically one graduate and two undergraduate total).

We welcome candidates working on any geographical or substantive area. Preferably, candidates will help us build on our existing strengths in race and ethnicity, gender and the family, culture, stratification, and/or health and medicine.

We are a collaborative and interactive department. We pursue research that advances understandings of our social world. We are housed within the School of Arts & Sciences, which is comprised of 28 academic departments, the College of Arts and Sciences, the Graduate Division, and the College of Liberal and Professional Studies. Interdisciplinary research and collaboration are supported by the breadth and depth of academic pursuits at Penn as well as the proximity of resources on our contiguous green urban campus in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. We promote and encourage curiosity, intellectual engagement, and discovery among all our students and faculty. University, School, and departmental resources that support our efforts include but are not limited to: the Offices of the Vice Provost for Faculty and Vice Provost for Research, PennGlobal, Wellness at Penn, the Center for Teaching and Learning, the Penn Center for Undergraduate Research and Fellowships, and Penn Human Resources.

The department offers an undergraduate major that provides students an understanding of the modern discipline of sociology. In addition, we teach approximately 1500 undergraduate students a year in collaboration with interdisciplinary majors such as Health and Societies, and Philosophy, Politics and Economics.

At the graduate level, we have approximately 50 grad students in our program. Our graduate students often go on to become postdocs, assistant professors, or to work in research in housing, banking, and ecommerce.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit their materials online at apply.interfolio.com/129805 and include a letter of application that describes their research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (an article at any publication stage or dissertation chapter), a teaching statement, and the contact information for three references. The Ph.D. is expected at the time of the appointment. Recommenders will be contacted by the University with instructions for submitting their letters to the website if needed. Review of applications will begin September 5, 2023, and continue until the position is filled.

Please contact Aiasha Saalim Graham (abraham@upenn.edu, 215-898-7932) with questions regarding the application process.
Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

The University of Pennsylvania values diversity and seeks talented students, faculty and staff from diverse backgrounds. The University of Pennsylvania is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Candidates are considered for employment without regard to race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, creed, national or ethnic origin, citizenship status, age, disability, veteran status or any other legally protected class. Salary Range: Negotiable

Submission Link: https://som.yale.edu/faculty-research/faculty-openings

Job Description:
The Yale School of Management (SOM) is soliciting applications for tenure-track faculty in Organizational Behavior (OB). The search is open to candidates at all ranks. Macro, Meso, and Micro scholars are encouraged to apply.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. or equivalent degree (or will earn the degree within one semester from the start of the appointment) in Organizational Behavior or a field that is broadly related, including psychology, sociology, management, public health, education, and the many related disciplines that inform how groups organize.

Applicants for tenured positions (full professor) are expected to have demonstrated intellectual leadership, placing them among the very top candidates nationally or internationally in their chosen area of study. Applicants for assistant or untenured associate professor positions are expected to have demonstrated promise for eventually achieving that level of distinction and accomplishment in their scholarship. The position also requires effectively teaching MBA and/or Ph.D.-level courses and advising and mentoring graduate students.

The mission of SOM is to educate leaders for business and society. Faculty in the organizational behavior group embody this mission in their scholarship, teaching, and service. Diversity, equity, and inclusion are central to the OB group and School of Management.

Appointment terms
This is a full-time, tenure-track faculty position located at the Yale School of Management in New Haven, Connecticut. Appointments will be made for the 2024-2025 fiscal year, beginning July 1, 2024.

To Apply
For the Assistant or Associate Professor position, visit: http://apply.interfolio.com/129060
For the Tenured Professor position, visit: http://apply.interfolio.com/129062

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and at least two samples of their research for initial screening. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position has been filled. It is recommended that you submit your completed applications no later than August 31, 2023 for full consideration. Candidates applying from doctoral programs or post-docs are required to submit three letters of reference; advanced assistant and associate professors being considered for the position will be contacted for references if they do not wish to supply these at the time of application.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Region: Northeast
Title: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Environmental Studies

Position/Rank: Academic Positions; Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Animals and Society, Environmental Sociology

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Environmental Studies
Department of Environmental Studies
New York University Faculty of Arts and Science

The Department of Environmental Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Science at New York University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Animal Studies at the rank of Assistant Professor. We encourage applications from scholars whose research specializes in any dimension of Animal Studies, a multidisciplinary field that examines what nonhuman animals are like, how human and nonhuman animals relate to each other, and the significance of these relations across several dimensions. Research areas include but are not limited to animal minds, animal ethics, animal law, compassionate conservation, the relationship between animals and climate change, and the representation of animals in the media. The successful applicant will have a strong record of research and publishing. They will be committed to educating students in programs hosted by the Environmental Studies department, including the Animal Studies masters (MA) and undergraduate minor programs, the Environmental Studies undergraduate program, and/or the anticipated Environmental Studies PhD program (expected to launch in Fall 2024, and to include students in the field of Animal Studies). They will be committed to helping administer our Animal Studies programs. Finally, they will be excited to work within a department that emphasizes and encourages transdisciplinary scholarship and systems thinking, and with a faculty whose work spans the natural and social sciences and the humanities. You can learn more about the NYU Department of Environmental Studies at our webpage, and more about the NYU Animal Studies program here. The appointment will begin September 1, 2024, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

Qualifications
Candidates should possess a PhD by August 31, 2024, have an integrative research program that indicates the potential to be a leader in the field of Animal Studies, and have demonstrated excellence in teaching.

Application Instructions
Candidates should apply with the following materials:

- Curriculum Vitae
- Cover letter that includes the names of three (3) referees who can be contacted for reference letters
- Two (2) exemplary writing samples
- Research and teaching statement
- Diversity and inclusion statement, which offers applicants the opportunity to highlight their past, present, and future contributions to creating inclusive excellence, which is a core commitment of the Department of Environmental Studies and New York University.

Equal Employment Opportunity
The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber, who embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. Institution: Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies Department: Weatherhead Center for International and Area Studies

Region: Northeast

Title: Postdoc
Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: All
Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Applicable

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas, Open to All Specialty Areas

Salary Range: $70,000 - $79,999

Job Description:

The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies

Academy Scholars Program, 2024-2025

The Academy Scholars Program of The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies identifies and supports outstanding scholars at the start of their academic careers whose work combines excellence in a social science discipline with a command of the language and knowledge or expertise of countries or regions outside of the United States or Canada. Their scholarship should span traditional disciplinary divisions and elucidate comparative, transnational, or domestic issues, past or present.

The Academy Scholars are a select community of individuals with resourcefulness, initiative, and originality whose work shows promise as a foundation for careers in research universities or international institutions.

Academy Scholars are appointed for a two-year, in-residence, postdoctoral fellowship at The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies, Harvard University, Cambridge, MA, USA. They receive substantial financial and research assistance which permits them to undertake robust research projects and skills development in their chosen fields and areas. They meet at dinners, seminars, and informal meetings in order to pursue innovative interdisciplinary approaches to their work. They are mentored by the Harvard Academy Senior Scholars, a cohort of faculty members who act as a selection committee, participate in Harvard Academy events, and are committed to supporting the Academy Scholars as they work to achieve their potential.

These awards are open to recipients of PhD or comparable doctoral degrees (within two years of the August 1, 2024, start date) and advanced doctoral candidates in the social sciences. Scholars nearing dissertation completion must be able to submit degree conferral documentation issued by their university registrar’s office by June 30, 2024, for an August 1, 2024, start date. Individuals who hold or have completed another Harvard postdoctoral fellowship are not eligible to apply.

The Harvard Academy is dedicated to building an inclusive community of scholars with an array of experiences, perspectives, and methods and welcomes a diverse pool of applicants.

Each year, five or six Academy Scholars are named for two-year appointments with an annual stipend of $75,000, with the two years to be completed within a three-year window. Year 1 of the fellowship must be taken up no later than the fall immediately following the postdoctoral fellowship offer. Delays or deferrals in the start of Year 1 are not permitted. Between Years 1 and 2, Academy Scholars may apply for a one-time leave (up to 12 months), either to accept or to continue with a tenure-track teaching appointment but for no other reason. Academy Scholars may not accept other sources of funding, awards, or obligations during their appointment.

All application materials must be submitted by the deadline of September 22, 2023. We do not accept late applications.

The completed application will include:

Curriculum vitae (CV); including list of publications
Research proposal (2000 words maximum); including intellectual objectives and planned methodological and disciplinary work

One scholarly writing sample (e.g., PhD dissertation chapter or single-authored peer-reviewed academic journal article; fifty pages maximum; in English)

A copy of your PhD program transcript

Three letters of recommendation (uploaded directly and confidentially by the recommender through the online application)

All parts of the application, including the three letters of recommendation, are submitted online as pdf documents. Access the online application through the homepage of The Harvard Academy’s website: https://academy.wcfia.harvard.edu.

All materials must be received by September 22, 2023. The selection process begins immediately thereafter. Applicants whose materials are incomplete are at a disadvantage when considered by the Selection Committee. Announcement of the awards will be made in December 2023.

Employer Description:
The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies is dedicated to increasing our knowledge of the culture, history, and institutions of the world’s major regions and countries. The Harvard Academy was founded in 1986. It is based on the premise that knowledge and understanding of other countries and cultures require a combination of rigorous disciplinary skill and deep area expertise. The Academy Scholars Program identifies and trains social scientists in area studies, focusing on areas of the world outside of the US or Canada. Academy Scholars are supported by The Harvard Academy to undertake research and writing for two years at Harvard University. Each year The Harvard Academy receives over 500 applications for scholarships and selects four to six for two years in residence as Academy Scholars. They receive substantial stipends and support for their research and writing at Harvard.

Job 19371: Assistant Professor

Date Position is Available: Summer 2024

Application Deadline: 8/9/2023 to 10/8/2023

Institution: UCLA
Department: Institute for Research on Labor and Employment - Labor Studies
Region: Southwest
Title: Assistant Professor
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Labor and Labor Movements
Salary Range: $70,000 - $79,999
Submission Link: https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/JPF08459

Job Description:

The University of California, Los Angeles’s (UCLA) Labor Studies program seeks applicants for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. This appointment is part of a larger hiring initiative supported by the UCLA Institute for Research on Labor and Employment (IRLE) and Division of Social Sciences, to be carried out over the next 2-3 years in the interdisciplinary area of Labor Studies. We invite applications from scholars in Ethnic and Gender Studies, Economics, Geography, History, Labor and Industrial Relations, Sociology, Political Science, and other social science fields. Ideal candidates will have an excellent teaching record and an ambitious research agenda. Successful candidates will be appointed in a department that aligns with their disciplinary perspective and will also have teaching and service duties in Labor Studies.

UCLA’s Labor Studies Program is a rapidly growing social science undergraduate degree program serving a diverse (primarily Latinx) student body that reflects the demographics of working-class Los Angeles and California. Launched in 2019, the program teaches roughly 1,500 students each academic year and enrolls close to 200 majors and minors. The large majority of Labor Studies majors are women, and first generation college students from under-represented communities. Labor Studies plans to launch a masters degree program in the near future and many of the departments the UCLA Labor Studies program is partnering with for these searches have both undergraduate and doctoral programs.

UCLA is among the leading global universities and is the number one ranked public university in the nation. Labor Studies hires will be joining a dynamic community of scholars and practitioners who work closely with BIPOC, immigrant, LGBTQ+ and other marginalized communities to understand and improve the lives of working people and their organizations. Current faculty affiliates of the UCLA Labor Studies program come from many disciplines across campus—including the social sciences, law, education, public policy and public health—creating opportunities for new faculty research collaborations. Our teaching, leadership and intellectual community also include the dynamic staff and academic administrators of the UCLA Labor Center, with offices in the Westlake-Pico Union neighborhood just west of downtown L.A. The Labor Center has a long history of working with and supporting students and faculty affiliated with the Labor Studies program to produce both peer-reviewed and policy reports focused on issues related to unions, workers, and working-class communities.

The position is open until filled, but early applications are encouraged. Applications will be reviewed beginning September 1, 2023. Interested candidates should apply through UC Recruit: https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/JPF08459. The successful candidate is expected to hold a PhD in an interdisciplinary or social science discipline at the time of appointment. The expected start date is July 1, 2024. To be guaranteed full consideration, all materials must be submitted via UCLA Academic Recruit by September 29, 2023. To apply, please submit (1) a CV, (2) brief cover letter, (3) a research statement of fewer than 1,000 words highlighting scholarly contributions of recent research and plans for the near future, (3) one publication or writing sample that best represents your work, (4) a statement of fewer than 500 words that describes your approach to teaching, lists undergraduate and graduate courses you could teach, and briefly describes one of these courses, (5) a statement that addresses past and/or potential contributions to equity, diversity, and inclusion, (6) Names and contact information for at least three professional references, (7) Reference Check Authorization form. Please visit the UCLA Equity, Diversity and Inclusion website for Sample Guidance for Candidates on the Statement of Contributions to Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion: https://equity.ucla.edu/programs-resources/faculty-search-process/faculty-search-committee-resources/sample-guidance/.

The posted UC salary scales set the minimum pay determined by rank and/or step at appointment. See Table 1. The salary range for this position is $74,600-$97,200. “Off-scale salaries” and other components of pay, i.e., a salary that is higher than the published system-wide salary at the designated rank and step, are offered when necessary to meet competitive conditions. See campus compensation page for additional information.

Employer Description:

The University of California is committed to creating and maintaining a community dedicated to the advancement, application, and transmission of knowledge and creative endeavors through academic excellence, where all individuals who participate in University programs and activities can work and learn together in a safe and secure environment, free of violence, harassment, bullying and other demeaning behavior, discrimination, exploitation or intimidation. With this commitment as well as a commitment to addressing all forms of academic misconduct, UCLA conducts targeted employment reference checks for finalists to whom departments or other hiring units would like to extend formal offers of appointment into Academic Senate faculty positions. The targeted employment reference checks involve contacting the finalists’ current and prior places of employment to ask whether there have been substantiated findings of misconduct that would violate the University’s Faculty Code of Conduct. To implement this process, UCLA requires all applicants for Academic Senate faculty positions to... complete, sign, and upload the form entitled “Authorization to Release Information” into RECRUIT as part of their application. If the applicant does not include the signed authorization to release information with the application materials, the application will be considered incomplete. As with any incomplete application, the application will be considered incomplete. As with any incomplete application, the application will not receive further consideration. Although all applicants for faculty recruitment must complete the entire application, only finalists (i.e., those to whom the department or other hiring unit would like to extend a formal offer) considered for Academic Senate faculty positions will be subject to targeted employment reference checks.

As a University employee, you will be required to comply with all applicable University policies and/or collective bargaining agreements, as may be amended from time to time. Federal, state, or local government directives may impose additional requirements.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy, see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Position description

The University of California, Berkeley School of Education (BSE) seeks a tenure-track faculty member at the Assistant Professor (NT) level focusing on Early Childhood Education. This scholar should be engaged in a research program that focuses on how early development and education may reduce racial and social-class disparities in later schooling. Candidates may engage in research from a developmental or cultural psychology frame, investigating processes in school and community setting that enhance or impede healthy growth and learning.
Other candidates may research institutional and policy matters, illuminating how pre-K and allied organizations serving young children promote equity or inadvertently reinforce racial and social class inequities among children and families.

This new faculty member will teach and serve within the Berkeley School of Education, a multi-disciplinary center for fine research and quality teaching. This faculty member may teach in areas, including as examples, early childhood education, cross-cultural and racial dimensions of children’s early development, early cognitive, social-emotional, or language development in the context of early-childhood settings, educational disparities in early childhood education, and epidemiological approaches to community-level well-being and growth of children.

This new professor may join with other Berkeley colleagues across other departments and schools who are active in the early childhood development arena.

The department is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. We are also interested in candidates who have had non-traditional career paths or who have taken time off for family reasons, or who have achieved excellence in careers outside academia. For information about potential relocation to Berkeley, or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty.

In the Berkeley School of Education our research, teaching, and practice approaches support a vision of public education that has as its goal equity and inclusion at all levels - classroom, school, community, district, state, national, and global - and that positively impacts personal growth and social transformation. BSE values and centers diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) as articulated in the following principles of community: there is an inherent relationship between excellence and diversity and seek relational equity in all our practices across the School; we support structures and policies that ensure meaningful access to and engagement in opportunities to learn. BSE employs an expansive notion of DEI that is concerned with maintaining an inclusive and representative community that includes members of historically racialized, marginalized, and yet resilient communities, including trans and LGBTQIA+ communities and individuals with dis/abilities.

Job Description:

Position Announcement:
Assistant Professor of Public Policy, University of California, Riverside

The School of Public Policy at UCR is seeking to hire an Assistant Professor of Public Policy. We are open to the area of scholarship but have a particular interest in energy and environmental policy, housing policy, and immigration policy, the policies of heightened importance in Southern California. The School of Public Policy values public policies that promote efficiency, equity, prosperity, and justice; we are particularly interested in scholars who apply these principles in their research and teaching. We are seeking candidates with clear evidence of scholarship on public policy issues.

Applicants must have an earned doctorate by the time of appointment in a relevant field and demonstrated excellence in research and teaching. Work experience in a public policy setting and/or public policy training is valued. Instructional and mentoring activities include teaching four, 10-week courses per academic year and guiding the research of undergraduate and graduate students.

The School of Public Policy values diversity among its faculty and strongly encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented groups.

The Assistant Professor Series is a full-time position with the rights and responsibilities of membership in the Academic Senate. Appointments and reappointments are limited to a maximum term of two-years. The total University service with this title may not exceed eight years except as provided in APM - 133-12-b and 133-12-c. Advancement through the faculty and non-senate academic ranks at the University of California is through a series of structured, merit-based evaluations, occurring every 2-3 years, each of which includes substantial peer input. Teaching, scholarly professional achievement, and activities, and university and public service constitute the criteria for advancement.

All materials must be uploaded using UCR’s on-line application system via https://aprecruit.ucr.edu/JPF01753. To ensure full consideration, complete applications including cover letter, CV, writing samples, a research statement, a teaching statement, evidence of teaching excellence, statement of past and/or planned future contributions to advancing diversity and inclusive excellence, and at least 3 letters of recommendation should be received by October 1, 2023. Review of applicants will continue until the position is filled. The appointment will commence as early as July 1, 2024, or as late as September 1, 2024, per negotiation with the candidate.

The posted UC salary scales, https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/compensation/index.html, set the minimum pay determined by rank and/or step at appointment. See Table I https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/files/2023-24/oct-2023-acad-salary-scales/11.pdf for the salary range. The salary range for this appointment is $70,900 to $92,800 annually. “Off-scale salaries” and other components of pay, i.e., a salary that is higher than the published system-wide salary at the designated rank and step, are offered when necessary to meet competitive conditions.

UCR is a world-class research university with an exceptionally diverse undergraduate student body. Its mission is explicitly linked to providing routes to educational success for underrepresented and first-generation college students. A commitment to this mission is a preferred qualification.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

As a University employee, you will be required to comply with all applicable University policies and/or collective bargaining agreements, as may be amended from time to time. Federal, state, or local government directives may impose additional requirements.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by August 1, 2024, in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae, including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 50 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Saturday, November 4, 2023. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted on time.

Salary - Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund. This is a one-year appointment.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2024. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Jennifer Bolton, Assistant Director, at jbolton@princeton.edu.
We at the School of Public and International Affairs believe that it is vital to cultivate an environment that embraces and promotes diversity, equity and inclusion — fundamental to the success of our education and research mission. This commitment to diversity informs our efforts in recruitment and hiring as we actively seek colleagues of exceptional ability who represent a broad range of viewpoints, experiences and value systems, and who share Princeton University's dedication to excellence.

Employer Description:

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance is part of the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs. Our mission is three-fold. First, we seek to create a large and dynamic community of scholars and students interested in both the academic and policy dimensions of globalization and international governance. To accomplish this, the Center directs two visiting fellows' programs where the most promising, talented scholars working on globalization and governance issues will spend a year at Princeton. The Center strives to create an intellectual community that serves the main goals of the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs: to tackle the most serious issues of the present day and prepare the leaders who will shape the public policies of the future. A second element is to foster greater integration among various parts of the social sciences at Princeton University. Research on globalization by necessity involves economics, history, sociology, and political science. The Center promotes interdisciplinary research at Princeton; numerous faculty from the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs, Politics, Economics, History, and Sociology are associated with the Center and involved in its projects. It also seeks to bring together graduate students in the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs and various departments interested in globalization issues. And it plays a role in developing more systematic curricular offerings. Overall, the Center strives to create a tight-knit intellectual community at Princeton and promote ties between the academic and policy communities involved in globalization and international governance issues.

The Center strives to create an intellectual community that serves the main goals of the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs: to tackle the most serious issues of the present day and prepare the leaders who will shape the public policies of the future. A second element is to foster greater integration among various parts of the social sciences at Princeton University. Research on globalization by necessity involves economics, history, sociology, and political science. The Center promotes interdisciplinary research at Princeton; numerous faculty from the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs, Politics, Economics, History, and Sociology are associated with the Center and involved in its projects. It also seeks to bring together graduate students in the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs and various departments interested in globalization issues. And it plays a role in developing more systematic curricular offerings. The Center promotes engagement with the broader academic and policy community. Overall, the Center strives to create a tight-knit intellectual community at Princeton and promote ties between the academic and policy communities involved in globalization and international governance issues.

Job Description:

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's School of Public and International Affairs seeks two or more visitors for the 2024-2025 academic year in the Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies are of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Fellows will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus daily for the duration of the fellowship (expected to be September 1, 2024 - July 1, 2025).

Application Deadline - Applicants should apply by Wednesday, November 1, 2023 (11:59 pm EST) for full consideration; however, posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/31261

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae, including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 50 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of the business day (5 pm EST) on Saturday, November 4, 2023. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted on time.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating their salary for the current academic year (September 2023 - July 2024) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

Salary - Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, reimbursement of travel to/from Princeton, and a $10,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2024.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Jennifer Bolton, Assistant Director, at jbolton@princeton.edu.

Job Description:

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University’s School of Public and International Affairs seeks two or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy for the 2024-2025 academic year. This fellows’ program aims to develop a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South or Southeast Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions mentioned above, are invited to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Fellows will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program’s satisfaction the ability to be on campus daily and on short notice, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation for the duration of the fellowship (expected to be September 1, 2024 - July 1, 2025).

Application Deadline - Applicants should apply by Wednesday, November 1, 2023 (11:59 pm EST), for full consideration; however, posting will remain open until filled.

Job 19363: Social Worker (Mental health Counselor)

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/8/2023 to 9/7/2023
Institution: Strategic Resources, Inc.
Region: All US Regions
Title: Social Worker (Mental health Counselor)
Salary Range: $70,000 - $79,999
Submission Link:

Overview: The position supports the Veterans Health Administration (VHA) integrated healthcare system with counseling-related services to Veterans and their families. Social workers are an integral part of Veterans Administration (VA) health care. In this large and complex system, social workers are often the thread that pulls a treatment plan together and the one leading linkage and referral processes with community partners and engaging with Veterans' groups and organizations in efforts to strengthen services. Social workers’ contributions to these efforts are valued, acknowledged, and necessary.

VA Social Workers may include Community Counselors; Marriage/Family Counselors/Therapists; Mental Health Counselors; Rehabilitation Counselors; Social Workers (MS); Music Therapists; Art Therapists and Dance Therapists (Registered DTR) and may work in the following programs:

- Spinal Cord Injuries and Disease
- Mental Health
- Outpatient and Inpatient Medical/Surgery
- Emergency Department
- Long Term Care
- Visual Impairments
- Polytrauma Rehabilitation
- Palliative Care
- Therapeutic and Supportive Employment
- Homeless
- Suicide Prevention
- Veterans Justice Outreach
- Recovery implementation
- Medical and Residential Foster Homes
- Home Based Primary Care
- Caregiver Support Program

Tasks and Responsibilities:
- Conduct a timely assessment of at-risk Veterans in crisis to identify immediate needs, evaluate risk, and initiate safety plans as appropriate.
- Facilitate the delivery of health care services in collaboration with the Veteran, family/caregiver, and interdisciplinary treatment team.
- Provide direct patient care services as part of the interdisciplinary team focusing on the assessment of psychosocial issues that cause distress and negatively impact the Veteran's ability to function at optimum levels.
- Assess psychosocial problems that cause distress, often impacting the health condition and creating barriers to care. These stressors can include adjustment to the current medical condition, untreated or under-treated mental health or substance abuse conditions, economic instability, legal problems, and inadequate housing and transportation.
- Assess and document identified behaviors or symptoms of abuse, neglect, exploitation, and/or intimate partner violence; use clinical social work skills and knowledge to maintain Veteran privacy and confidentiality per policies, handbooks, or directives; and acts as an advocate with appropriate VA and community service providers and agencies when it serves the best interest of the Veteran and family members/caregiver.
Independently assess the psychosocial functioning and needs of Veterans and their family members, identify the Veteran's strengths, weaknesses, coping skills, and psychosocial acuity.

Link the Veteran with services, resources, and opportunities, to maximize the Veteran's independence, health, and well-being.

Establish and maintain ongoing education programs for Veterans, community agencies, students, and staff, to facilitate understanding of social work interventions specific to the Veteran/Military population.

Support the mission, policies, and procedures of the Department of Veterans Affairs, the Veterans Health Administration (VHA), the appropriate Veterans Integrated Service Network (VISN), and the facility.

Required Qualifications:

- Master’s degree with practicum.
- Master's degree must be from an accredited college/university in Community Counseling; Marriage and Family Therapy; Mental Health Counseling; Rehabilitation Counseling; Social Work; Music Therapy; Art Therapy; or Dance Therapy.
- At least two years working with Veterans as a mental health counselor.
- Must understand military service-specific factors such as deployment, relocation, combat, and reintegration post-deployment.
- Must possess compassion, a genuine desire to help others, adaptability, and a willingness to learn new things. Social workers who work with Veterans must also understand the unique challenges facing their clients.
- Must be able to obtain a favorable criminal background check and security investigation.
- US Citizenship.
- Must be proficient in written and spoken English.

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill
Assistant or Associate Professor in Health Equity

The Department of Social Medicine, School of Medicine, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, seeks applicants for tenure-track or tenured faculty positions in health equity at the Assistant or Associate Professor rank. This position will be supported through the UNC Center for Health Equity Research and the Department of Social Medicine. Review of applications will begin September 18th and continue until the position is filled. The anticipated start date is July 1, 2024.

Applicants should hold a Ph.D., MD, or equivalent terminal graduate degree. We are looking for individuals with advanced training in a public health or social science discipline, including but not limited to epidemiology, health services research and health policy, demography, economics, sociology, anthropology, and geography.

Applicants should have an established research focus on health equity issues. Example focus areas include the health of: racial and ethnic minorities, immigrant populations, persons with lower socioeconomic status, persons in carceral systems, rural communities, persons with disabilities, and sexual and gender minorities.

Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to and excellence in interdisciplinary teaching and research, skills in program building to facilitate scholarly exchange and research collaboration, and an active program of scholarship and publication. For associate and advanced assistant professors a strong track record of externally funded research and for new assistant professors, clear potential and strong prospects for attracting high levels of extramural funding are essential.

The UNC Center for Health Equity Research and the Department of Social Medicine offer uniquely hospitable environments for cross-disciplinary, collaborative research in a wide range of fields. Opportunities are available for collaboration and affiliations with clinical departments in the School of Medicine; the Gillings School of Global Public Health; other Centers such as the UNC Center for Bioethics; and the College of Arts & Sciences. A description of the Center for Health Equity Research is available at http://cher.unc.edu and of the Department of Social Medicine at http://socialmedicine.med.unc.edu.

Candidates should apply electronically at: https://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/262769. Please include: (1) a cover letter outlining your interest in the position and research agenda in health equity; (2) your curriculum vitae; and (3) the names and contact information of three professional references. The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Date Position is Available: Fall 2024
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/8/2023 to 9/7/2023
Institution: University of The Pacific
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: West
Title: Assistant Professor, Sociology (Tenure Track)
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Applicable
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Environmental Sociology , Mental Health
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

Primary Purpose and Essential Functions:

The Department of Sociology invites applicants for a tenure track Assistant Professor position, beginning in Fall 2024, open field. The College of the Pacific is hiring across multiple fields this year and seeks to bring in a cohort of new faculty to build upon and elevate our existing interdisciplinary focus areas: Environment and sustainability; Mental health and wellness; Communication, media, and design; Law and policy; and Health studies.

The Sociology Department offers a standard sociology major, along with concentrations in criminal justice, social work, diversity and equity, and community engagement. The successful candidate will be able to align with one of these concentrations and collaborate with colleagues to further develop student-centered programs in one or more of our interdisciplinary focus areas. The teaching load may include courses such as Environmental Health & Justice, Race & Ethnicity, Social Problems, Introduction to Sociology, and Self & Society, along with other courses from the Sociology curriculum or designed to fit the candidate’s area of expertise including special topics courses. The successful candidate will demonstrate a commitment to inclusive teaching strategies and the ability to integrate diversity into the curriculum. Information about the Sociology program can be found at https://catalog.pacific.edu/stockton/general/collegeofthepacific/sociology/#text.

In addition to teaching a range of courses within Sociology, the successful candidate will teach in the College's first-year seminar program, develop general education courses with broad appeal, and help build a meaningful internship program for students in collaboration with campus partners. Our faculty are dedicated teachers and advisors who value collaboration and develop innovative pedagogies to engage students and enhance their learning in addition to engaging in scholarship and service. We are excited to welcome new colleagues who are eager to be part of our vibrant academic community and to contribute to the College's growth and development.

University of the Pacific recognizes that diversity, equity, and inclusion is foundational to the success of our valued students and employees. We prioritize policy and decision-making that demonstrates awareness of, and responsiveness to, the ways socio-cultural forces related to race, gender, ability, sexuality, socio-economic status, etc. impede or propel students, faculty, and staff.

Minimum Qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in Sociology is required for the Assistant Professor position by the start of the Fall 2024 term. While open to candidates representing the broad field of sociology, the committee will give special consideration to candidates with demonstrated capabilities in one or more of the following areas: environment and sustainability, diversity and equity, community engagement, social services, and criminal justice.
Preferred Qualifications:

- Experience and sensitivity in working with people of diverse backgrounds and cultures.
- Demonstrated experience in advancing social justice, equity, and inclusion in a university setting.
- Ability to engage and integrate culturally responsive practices and knowledge in their work.

Physical Requirements:

The physical demands described here are representative but not definitive of those that must be met by an employee to successfully perform the essential functions of this job. Reasonable accommodations may be made to enable individuals with disabilities to perform the essential functions.

Work Environment/Work Week/Travel:
Schedule is dependent on department need.

Special Instructions:

Required documents include:

- Cover letter describing teaching experience and interests, relevant research
- Current CV
- Diversity statement
- List of three references who will provide letters of recommendation for applicants who are shortlisted

The hiring committee will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2023, and will continue to review until the position is filled.

Job Description:

The Department of Humanities, Social Sciences, and the Arts at Harvey Mudd College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Sociology beginning in July 2024. We are open to a variety of approaches, with a strong preference for qualitative or mixed methods research. Candidates whose teaching and research lie at the intersection of race and technology/new media, or whose interests span these topics are particularly welcome. More broadly, we are seeking candidates working in any of the following areas:

Race, Racism, Racialization; Science and Technology, Social Media, AI, Digital Media, Emerging Media; Critical Indigenous Studies; The Global South, Globalism, and Transnationalism; Work and Labor; Disability, Impairment, and Debility; Immigration, Migrant, Refugee, and Diasporic Studies; Environment, Urban and Rural Studies; Family and Education; Mass Incarceration, Policing, and Law; Medicine and Public Health

The annual teaching load is five courses. Candidates are expected to contribute to the Core Curriculum through either a first-year seminar, an interdisciplinary team-taught course centered on science, society, and climate change, or a first-year writing course. In addition, candidates will advise students at the departmental and institutional levels. Among the criteria for appointment are experience with students from diverse backgrounds and/or the ability to teach those students effectively. Candidates are expected to have completed their Ph.D. by July 1, 2024.

Application Procedure:

Applications must be submitted to: https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/25233

Preference will be given to applications received by Sept. 15, 2023. Applicants are asked to submit: a cover letter, CV, three letters of reference, course evaluations (if available), a statement of teaching philosophy, a research statement, and two sample syllabi. We encourage applicants to describe how a commitment to diversity and inclusion shapes their professional work. Those selected for the first round of interviews will be asked to submit additional materials, including a sample of scholarly work. We expect to complete Zoom interviews by Oct. 13, 2023. The salary range for the position is $100,000 -105,000 along with full health and retirement benefits package, start-up funds for research and teaching, and relocation costs. Harvey Mudd College is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer committed to providing a workplace that fosters diversity and inclusion in its faculty, staff, and student body. We welcome applications from scholars underrepresented in college faculties.

Further questions may be addressed to Ambereen Dadabhoy, Associate Professor of Literature and chair of the search committee: dadabhoy@hmc.edu.

Employer Description:

Harvey Mudd College is a highly selective, academically challenging institution that offers majors in the sciences, mathematics, and engineering. Across departments, the college is committed to broadening participation in STEM fields. This position is housed in the Department of Humanities, Social Sciences, and the Arts – an interdisciplinary department supporting the college's liberal arts program. Harvey Mudd's membership in The Claremont Colleges allows significant opportunities for collaboration with colleagues at the other undergraduate colleges in our consortium and at the Claremont Graduate University. The consortium includes intercollegiate departments and programs such as Africana Studies, Asian-American Studies, and Science, Technology, and Society.

Job Description:

Department of Educational Leadership and Policy
Tenure-eligible Associate/Full Professor

The Graduate School of Education at the University at Buffalo (UB), SUNY, invites applications for a tenure-eligible Associate or Full Professor position in Educational, Culture, Policy and Society (ECPS) in the Department of Educational Leadership and Policy (ELP). ECPS has a long and distinguished history of emphasizing research related to the production, reproduction and/or amelioration of educational, social and economic inequalities.

Building on programmatic expertise, we seek a colleague whose scholarly interests include, but are not limited to: examining the broader social and institutional forces shaping postsecondary opportunities and outcomes, while identifying those factors that may either serve as barriers to postsecondary opportunities or the policies, practices, and intervention strategies that may serve as catalysts for change. In addition, we are particularly interested in researchers who investigate the role of higher education in social and economic mobility as linked specifically to race/ethnicity, nation of origin, social class and/or gender.

Responsibilities include:

- Develop, advance, and apply cutting-edge large-scale quantitative data analysis techniques to inform and improve evidence-based education policy and practice towards the goals of advancing equity, diversity, justice and inclusion (EDJI).
- Teach two courses per semester at the graduate level primarily in the ECPS Ph.D. program
- Advise Ph.D. students in ECPS
- Support efforts to recruit Ph.D. students
- Candidates should have a proven record of externally funded grants with federal and/or private granting agencies such as The Spencer Foundation, W.T. Grant Foundation, Russell Sage, NSF, NIH, and/or IES

Required Qualifications:

1. Doctorate in sociology, sociology of education, economics of education, educational policy or a related discipline
2. Record of scholarship in stratification in higher education (including transition from high school to higher education and beyond), policies and interventions that aim to address inequities and diversity in higher education, or/and linkages between higher education social mobility (Associate Professor or Full Professor)
3. Evidence of success in securing external funding (e.g., IES, NSF, among others).
4. Commitment to caring mentorship of graduate students into teaching and academia, especially from and for underrepresented populations, commensurate with Associate- or Full-level commitments.

Preferred Qualifications:

1. Strong interest and ability in the pursuit of research (noted above), using multi-research methodologies and disciplines in collaboration with others;
2. Expertise on advanced cutting-edge quantitative research methods;
3. Enhancement of our existing strengths and capacity for secondary analysis of large-scale government, state, and/or institutional data; and
4. Expansion of our already existing strength in social, economic, and educational inequalities research.

To apply, please submit:

- A cover letter that includes: (a) relevant qualifications for the position, and (b) research and teaching interests
- Curriculum vitae
- Two sample publications
- Contact information for three (3) references.

Appointments are for a ten-month academic year beginning in the Fall 2024. For full consideration, applicants should submit materials to: https://www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu/postings/44350 no later than October 1, 2023

Employer Description:

About the Department of Sociology & Criminology, the University of Montana, and Missoula

Sociology and Criminology at the University of Montana is a vibrant and growing program with very high levels of student interest. We offer an undergraduate Bachelor of Arts degrees in Sociology (with the opportunity for an emphasis in Inequality and Social Justice) and Criminology. We also offer the only Master of Arts degree in Sociology in the state of Montana.

The University of Montana is a flagship, R1 research institution with a student enrollment of over 10,000. It is the state’s primary liberal arts and social sciences institution. Native Americans comprise the largest minority group on campus. Montana is home to seven reservations, 12 Tribal Nations, and multiple urban indigenous communities. Missoula is located on the traditional homelands of the Salish and Kootenai people and traditional territory to multiple Native American peoples. It is a thriving community representing the region’s cultural hub for visual and performing arts. It balances the warmth of small-town life with the sophistication and amenities of the urban northwest. Missoula and Montana offer stunning mountain scenery, blue ribbon trout streams, abundant wilderness, and thrilling recreational opportunities. Outside Magazine ranked Missoula among the top 10 best places to live in the U.S. in 2014 and one of the “Best Towns Ever” in 2017.

Job 19343: Assistant Professor of Sociology

Date Position is Available: Fall 2024

Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/7/2023 to 10/6/2023

Institution: Washington and Lee University
Department: Dept of Sociology & Anthropology
Region: South
Title: Assistant Professor of Sociology
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Race, Class and Gender , Quantitative Methodology
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

The Washington and Lee University Department of Sociology and Anthropology, the Shepherd Program for the Study of Poverty and Human Capability and the DeLaney Center invite applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor of Sociology beginning July 1, 2024. We welcome candidates with expertise in using quantitative and/or mixed methods to study race and inequality, with some focus on issues pertaining to the U.S. South. Candidates should be prepared to teach electives in these areas in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology as well as to contribute meaningfully to core teaching in the Shepherd Program. Other electives of interest might include courses on policy analysis, economic sociology, organizations, or stratification. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2023. Please see further information about applications at the Interfolio link.

Employer Description:

Washington and Lee University promotes a dynamic and inclusive environment that allows students and employees of multiple backgrounds, cultures, and perspectives to learn, work, and thrive together. Successful candidates will contribute to that environment and exhibit potential for excellence in teaching and for vigorous scholarship. In keeping with the University Strategic Plan, we welcome applications from underrepresented minority candidates and members of other communities that are traditionally underrepresented in academia.

The DeLaney Center is an interdisciplinary academic forum that promotes teaching and research on Southern race relations, culture and politics. The Shepherd Program -- which includes humanities, social science, science, and law faculty from across the university -- offers an interdisciplinary minor in Poverty Studies and has as its core mission understanding and addressing the causes and consequences of poverty and inequality in ways that respect the dignity of every person. The Department of Sociology and Anthropology offers a major in Sociology and Anthropology with concentrations in either discipline. We provide robust methodological training, core courses in theory, and a wide range of electives, and in recent years have seen our graduates attend some of the top doctoral programs in the country as well as contributing in a variety of professional settings as applied sociologists.

Job 19337: Assistant Professor - Criminology & Justice

Date Position is Available: Fall 2024
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/4/2023 to 10/3/2023
Institution: University of Minnesota-Twin Cities
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: Midwest
Title: Assistant Professor - Criminology & Justice
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Criminal Justice
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link: https://hr.myu.umn.edu/jobs/ext/356749

Job Description:

About the Job
The Department of Sociology in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Minnesota invites applications for a full-time faculty position beginning Fall Semester 2024 (August 26, 2024). We will consider applicants with a wide range of research interests, with a preference for scholars whose research complements that of the existing faculty. We are particularly interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups, knowing that diversity enriches the academic experience of students, faculty, and the wider university community. The substantive area of study is sociology of law, criminology & justice, with preference for scholars working on causes and patterns of crime; human rights; and/or mass violence. Appointment will be at the rank of tenure-track assistant professor. Salary is competitive.

Our new colleague will be expected to maintain an active program of scholarly research; develop and teach undergraduate and graduate courses under the Department of Sociology’s 2-1 teaching load; mentor graduate students; and contribute service to the department, the college, the university, and the profession that is appropriate for the rank of assistant professor. The Department of Sociology is committed to the success of our new colleague. The successful candidate will join a vibrant intellectual environment, receive mentoring and support from senior faculty in the department, have access to resources for conducting research, get teaching support, and receive clear expectations and transparency on the pathway to tenure.

Tenured and Tenure-Track Faculty
Tenured and tenure-track faculty constitute the core faculty of each of the campus or collegiate units. It is expected that they teach, engage in research/scholarship and perform service/outreach as defined in the Regents’ Policy on Faculty Tenure, Section 7.11 General Criteria and the unit’s 7.12 Statement.

Access the Standards for Promotion and Tenure for the Department of UMN Sociology online.

The Workload Principles and Guidelines for Regular Faculty in the College of Liberal Arts are available at the CLA Neighborhood.

Required Qualifications
A Ph.D. in Sociology or related field is required. Candidates will be evaluated according to the overall quality of their academic preparation and scholarly work, evidence of research ability, commitment to high-quality classroom instruction and student mentoring, the strength of recommendations, and departmental priorities. A successful candidate’s dossier will demonstrate a clear commitment to (and ideally, experience with) teaching, mentoring, and advising a diverse student body that includes students of color and those from a wide range of socioeconomic and cultural backgrounds.

How To Apply
Applications must be submitted online. To be considered for this position, please click the Apply button and follow the instructions. You will have the opportunity to complete an online application for the position and attach a cover letter and resume.

Additional documents may be attached after application by accessing your "My Cover Letters and Attachments" section. Please submit: 1) a cover letter and 2) curriculum vitae (CV). We also ask you to include: 3) at least two samples of written work; and 4) evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., course evaluations, awards, etc.) or a commitment to teaching.

PLEASE NOTE: After completing the online application and submitting your cover letter and CV, you can upload the additional documents by logging back in and accessing your "My Job Applications" page. All materials should be uploaded by October 2, 2023.

The search committee will begin reviewing applications on October 2, 2023; thus, qualified applicants are encouraged to upload their application material as soon as possible. The position, however, will remain open until filled. Applications received after November 1 may or may not be reviewed.

In addition to the material submitted through the university employment system, you are asked to arrange for THREE letters of recommendation to be sent electronically directly to the department.

These letters should be addressed to Professor Michael Walker, Chair of the Search Committee, and e-mailed to cronin@umn.edu.

Additional materials may be requested from candidates at a future date.
If you have questions about the position, please contact Professor Michael Walker via e-mail at walkerml@umn.edu.

For questions about your application or the application process, please contact Elizabeth Cronin, Communications Coordinator, at ecronin@umn.edu.

This position will remain open until filled.

To request an accommodation during the application process, please e-mail employ@umn.edu or call (612) 624-UOHR (8647).

Employment Requirements
Any offer of employment is contingent upon the successful completion of a background check. Our presumption is that prospective employees are eligible to work here. Criminal convictions do not automatically disqualify finalists from employment.

Employer Description:

Job Description:

The Sociology Department at Wellesley College seeks an Assistant Professor in the area of law and society to begin in Fall 2024. We are looking for a scholar who adopts a critical theoretical perspective on law, criminality, and the carceral state, either in the US or through comparative global work. We are particularly interested in scholars who leverage race, class, gender, sexuality, immigration status and/or disability as key frameworks of analysis and those who use innovative quantitative, digital and/or historical methodologies to advance their claims. Community-involved methodologies are also welcome. We are open to a range of more specific topics of focus, which could include interconnections between the geography of the carceral system and the electoral system, issues of environmental justice, immigrant detention practices, or post-carceral life trajectories, to name only a few.

Wellesley’s tenure-track faculty teach 2 courses per semester. The successful candidate will teach sociology courses related to their area(s) of specialty that will enhance existing offerings in the department.

Wellesley College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer, and we are committed to increasing the diversity of the college community and the curriculum. Candidates who believe they can contribute to that goal are encouraged to apply. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in sociology or a related discipline by the start date of July 2024 and show evidence of their potential for success in scholarship and undergraduate teaching. We seek candidates whose research, teaching, and/or service have prepared them to contribute to our commitment to inclusive excellence in higher education.

Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vita, one publication or other writing sample, statements on research and teaching (one document of 5000 words or less, combined), and a diversity statement that includes teaching or classroom practices that promote inclusion and belonging. Three letters of reference are requested. Please submit names and contact information for referees along with the application.

Review of applications will begin on September 1st and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by September 25th will be given full consideration.

All employees hired are strongly encouraged to be up to date with all vaccination and boosters against COVID-19

105. Salem State University

Job 19334: Faculty, Sociology (Latinx Studies), Full-Time, Tenure-Track, Fall 2024

Date Position is Available: Fall 2024
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/3/2023 to 10/2/2023
Institution: Salem State University
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: Northeast
Title: Faculty, Sociology (Latinx Studies), Full-Time, Tenure-Track, Fall 2024
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor, Academic Positions: Associate Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Latina/o Sociology , Theory
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

The sociology department at Salem State University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty (rank is usually open) position to begin September 2024. We seek a scholar to teach courses in introductory sociology, Latinx studies, race and ethnicity, classical and contemporary social theory, and specialty areas within the field. In addition to teaching responsibilities, the hire will advise undergraduate students, participate in department and university committees, and maintain active involvement in scholarly activities. Candidates must be committed to excellence in undergraduate liberal arts education and must demonstrate excellence in teaching across various modalities, including online instruction.

The sociology department is an inclusive and collaborative community with a commitment to high quality and supportive instruction, research, and service. Faculty and students are engaged in a myriad of activities that center on contemporary social issues affecting the United States and the global community, including racial and ethnic inequality, immigration, health, the American criminal justice system, American culture, family and intimate relationships, and gender and sexuality, among other areas. The sociology program supports students as they deepen their understanding of social patterns and processes, the social causes and consequences of complex social problems, and the possibilities for social change. The sociology curriculum is broad-based and contributes to the educational goals of multiple disciplines and programs, including social work, nursing, education, healthcare studies, and business. The department offers both a Bachelor of Arts degree and a Bachelor of Science degree in sociology.

Candidates are required to perform duties in accordance with the MSCA contract. Duties include teaching, advising, scholarship and contributions to continuously improve the department and university. The standard teaching load is 12 credit hours per semester. The position is subject to available funding.

Required Qualifications:
- PhD or ABD in sociology or a closely related field (PhD must be conferred by August 1 2024)
- College-level teaching experience in Latinx studies, race and ethnicity, and classical and contemporary theory
- Experience with online instruction and instructional technologies
- Experience with and a commitment to inclusive and interactive teaching practices for a diverse student community, many of whom are first-generation college students

Preferred Qualifications:
- As an emerging Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI), Salem State University seeks to enrich the faculty/librarian ranks by actively encouraging candidates whose lived and scholarly experiences directly address issues regarding the health, welfare, and representation of Latinx populations in the United States. Candidates who meet this strongly desired qualification should present documented activities in Latinx-related teaching, scholarship/research, and service, including community-based endeavors in each of these three areas.

- Interest in civic learning and civic engagement pedagogies

Working Conditions:

This is an on-site, in-person position.

Salem State University complies with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) to provide reasonable accommodation to qualified applicants and employees with disabilities. For accommodation information or requests please email eo-hr@salemstate.edu.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Interested applicants should apply online and submit the following: 1) cover letter describing your teaching experience, research agenda, and interest in joining the Salem State community; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) teaching statement that also describes how the applicant fosters diversity and inclusion in their teaching; and 4) (unofficial) academic transcripts.

Review of applications will begin in September and will continue until the position is filled.

Employment is contingent upon a completed background and CORI check satisfactory to the university.

This position is eligible for H1B visa sponsorship.

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Medical Sociology
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link:
Job Description:
The Department of Health Management & Policy (HMP) at the University of Michigan is seeking a tenure-track faculty member at any level—assistant, associate or full professor—with expertise in the fields of health services management and/or organizational studies. We seek candidates from related areas of research, including but not limited to strategic management, management science, technology and operations, marketing, organizational change, and team and professional dynamics. Individuals who have or will complete degrees in health services, business/management, sociology, psychology, and related areas are encouraged to apply. With a start date of August 2024, the candidate must have completed a PhD prior to the start date.

We seek researchers with strong scholarly credentials and a record or promise of external research funding. The faculty member will be expected to teach in our leading master and doctorate programs, and possibly in the School of Public Health’s undergraduate program. HMP is committed to the University of Michigan Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion plan and encourages applicants from faculty of color and women at all ranks. We value diversity as a necessary part of success in all aspects of teaching, research, and leadership. We encourage candidates to highlight their experiences with DEI in their materials including an explicit commitment to diversity.

How to Apply: All applicants should submit a curriculum vitae and a cover letter that address (or includes as separate statements) research agenda, evidence and interest of teaching excellence if available, a statement about experience and commitment to diversity, and 1 example of your research (e.g., a publication or draft article). We will ask for references and letters of recommendation at later stages of the process. All application materials must be submitted electronically via: http://apply.interfolio.com/126375

Please direct inquiries about this position to the chair of the search committee, Denise Anthony at deniseum@umich.edu.

Consideration of applications will occur on a rolling basis. Applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2023, for a start date of August 2024.

Background Screening: The University of Michigan conducts background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of a contingent offer and may use a third party administrator to conduct background checks. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

U-M EEO/AA Statement: The University of Michigan is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

Employer Description:

About HMP: The Department of Health Management & Policy has a longstanding reputation for its contributions to the design and improvement of health care and public health systems and has been ranked one of the top programs in the U.S. News and World Report rankings for over 20 years. This new faculty member will also be expected to actively contribute to our various educational programs, including the Health Services Organization and Policy PhD program, and professional master degree programs in public health, health services administration, and the health informatics program offered jointly by the School of Public Health, the School of Information and the School of Medicine.
The Department and the School of Public Health (SPH) are committed to the University of Michigan Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) plan and encourage applications from faculty of color and women. The department supports LAUNCH committees (following guidance from ADVANCE) for each new faculty member which entails a committee including 2 senior members of the department (one in a field related to the faculty member) and two members from outside the department (at least one with field expertise) who meet every other month during the first year of the faculty member’s appointment. The goal of the LAUNCH committee is to discuss all aspects of new faculty member’s transition: research, teaching, service, clinical responsibilities, work/life integration, family transitions/adjustment to Ann Arbor, and challenges or questions in any area the faculty member wants to discuss.

Job 19318: Assistant Professor

Date Position is Available: Fall 2024

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 8/3/2023 to 10/2/2023

Institution: University of Southern California
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: West

Title: Assistant Professor

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor

Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Salary Range: $90,000 - $99,999

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology (http://dornsife.usc.edu/soci/) in the Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences will be making one tenure-track appointment at the rank of assistant professor with an anticipated start date of Fall 2024. We seek candidates who use quantitative methodologies and are open to areas of specialization. A doctoral degree is required by the time of appointment. The search committee is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and/or service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

In order to be considered for this position, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-of-sociology/1209/52239526112 . The applicant should upload a brief letter of application, a research statement, a teaching statement, CV, writing sample, and names of three referees who can be contacted by USC for a letter of reference. Diversity, equity, and inclusion are integral to our university’s and college’s commitment to excellence in research, engagement, and education. We encourage applications from candidates who identify with groups that are historically underrepresented in the academy to apply. Further, we encourage all applicants, as a component of their discussions of their teaching and research, to discuss their experience or commitment to engaging with diversity through activities such as fostering an inclusive environment, working with students from diverse backgrounds, or incorporating diverse perspectives. Screening of applicants will begin October 2, 2023, and continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be sent to socisearch@dornsife.usc.edu.

The annual base salary range for this position is $93,500 - $98,200. When extending an offer of employment, the University of Southern California considers factors such as (but not limited to) the scope and responsibilities of the position, the candidate’s work experience, education/training, key skills, internal peer equity, federal, state and local laws, contractual stipulations, grant funding, as well as external market and organizational considerations.

Employer Description:

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The university particularly encourages members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Listing Active: 8/2/2023 to 9/1/2023

Institution: Appalachian State University
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: Southeast

Title: Assistant Professor
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:
The Department of Sociology at Appalachian State University invites applications for an open-specialty tenure-track, nine-month faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2024.

Successful candidates will have an active, well-defined, and theoretically-driven research agenda, as well as a strong commitment to teaching and mentoring undergraduate students.

Candidates should specify which of the sociology courses in our curriculum they are prepared to teach and how they can contribute to the department’s undergraduate concentrations: Criminology; Families and Intimate Relationships; Social Inequalities; Power and Social Change; Sociology of Health and Aging; and Applied Research Methods.

Instructional duties typically include a 3:3 teaching load, student advising, curriculum development, honors thesis mentorship, and online instruction. Faculty members are expected to maintain an active program of scholarship and participate in service activities. Appalachian State University and the Department of Sociology are proud to offer multiple internal funding and professional development opportunities to support faculty as they grow their research programs.

The Department of Sociology is committed to attracting and retaining a diverse faculty. We encourage people from historically underrepresented groups to apply.

The position requires a Ph.D. in Sociology. Candidates who are ABD will be considered; however, the position requires completion of all doctoral requirements in Sociology by the date of appointment. Please note that the position is subject to available funding based on enrollment.

The Department of Sociology has 20 full-time faculty members. The department serves approximately 150 undergraduate majors and offers minors in sociology and health and aging. Along with its undergraduate offerings, the department is the academic home of two online graduate certificates in sociology and aging, health, and society. Additional information about the Department of Sociology is located at https://soc.appstate.edu

Please use the following link to apply for the position:
https://appstate.peopleadmin.com/postings/40400

Applicants must submit the following documents:
1. A cover letter addressing the candidate's qualifications for the position(s);
2. A curriculum vita;
3. A sample of written or published scholarship;
4. A teaching portfolio, including a teaching statement and sample syllabus; and
5. Three professional reference letters.

Applications will be reviewed starting September 1, 2023, and continue until the position is filled.

For questions or more information about the available tenure-track faculty position in the Department of Sociology at Appalachian State University, please contact Dr. Pavel Osinsky, Search Committee Chair, by email at osinskyp@appstate.edu

Individuals with disabilities may request accommodations in the application process by contacting Maranda Maxey, Director & ADA/504 Coordinator, at 828-262-3056 or maxeymr@appstate.edu.

Employer Description:
Appalachian State University, in North Carolina's Blue Ridge Mountains, prepares students to lead purposeful lives as global citizens who understand and engage their responsibilities in creating a sustainable future for all. The transformational Appalachian experience promotes a spirit of inclusion that brings people together in inspiring ways to acquire and create knowledge, to grow holistically, to act with passion and determination, and embrace diversity and difference. As one of 17 campuses in the University of North Carolina system, Appalachian enrolls about 20,000 students, has a low student-to-faculty ratio and offers more than 150 undergraduate and graduate majors.

Appalachian State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. The University does not discriminate in access to its educational programs and activities, or with respect to hiring or the terms and conditions of employment, on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, gender identity and expression, political affiliation, age, disability, veteran status, genetic information or sexual orientation.

Appalachian State University is committed to developing and allocating resources to the fundamental task of creating a diverse campus culture. We value diversity as the expression of human similarities and differences, as well as the importance of a living and learning environment conducive to knowledge, respect, acceptance, understanding and global awareness. Learn more at http://diversity.appstate.edu.

Any offer of employment to a successful candidate will be conditioned upon the University's receipt of a satisfactory criminal background report.

Proper documentation of identity and eligibility for employment will be required before the hiring process can be completed.

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology at TCU invites applications for a tenure track position in sociology at the assistant professor level beginning fall 2024. Seeking applicants with research and teaching specialization in medical sociology/sociology of health and illness. The following areas of research and teaching are of particular interest: social determinants of health and illness, health disparities and health justice, and/or environment and health. Successful candidates will have demonstrated scholarly achievement, the capacity for excellence in the classroom and the ability to collaborate with departmental and college faculty on health, medicine, and social justice related research and curriculum development.

PhD in sociology required before hire date. This full-time faculty position is on-campus and in-person. All applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, and statement describing how they address diversity and inclusion in their teaching and broader work. Applicants whose candidacy we wish to pursue further will be contacted for three letters of recommendation and a writing sample. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2023. Applications must be submitted online: [TCU Apply Now]. This full-time faculty position is on-campus and in-person. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled or the search is closed. Direct inquiries to Jeannine Gailey, Search Chair (j.gailey@tcu.edu).

Employer Description:

ABOUT TCU

Founded in 1873, Texas Christian University sits on 302 acres nestled in a primarily residential part of Fort Worth just minutes away from downtown. The University includes seven schools and colleges, in addition to the Burnett School of Medicine and the John V. Roach Honors College.

Currently, TCU enrolls more than 10,200 undergraduates and 1,700 graduate students. Twenty-eight percent of students self-identify as a member of a minority group, five percent are international students, and forty-five percent are from out-of-state. Our students are supported by more than 2,200 faculty and staff. The University has more than 700 full-time faculty members and is a top 100 National University as classified by US News and World Report and has a Carnegie Classification of R2: Doctoral Universities – High Research Activity.

At TCU, diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) are an educational imperative directly tied to the University mission, vision, and strategic plan. Fulfilling TCU’s mission to develop ethical leaders and critical thinkers in a global community depends on the University’s ability to attract and retain students, faculty, and staff from diverse backgrounds. A diverse and inclusive campus leads to innovation, broadened perspective, and understanding—values that are foundational aspects of higher education. For the fourth consecutive year, TCU has earned the Higher Education Excellence in Diversity Award, which highlights ongoing commitment to build a comprehensive DEI strategy that aligns with core values and creates a campus culture where everyone is respected and included.

ABOUT ADDRAN COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology is housed in ADDRAN College of Liberal Arts, named for TCU’s founders, Addison and Randolph Clark. Job Description:

The Department of Sociology at the University of Massachusetts Boston invites qualified persons to apply for a tenure-track assistant professor position to join our faculty beginning September 1, 2024. Candidates are expected to have research and teaching strengths in sociology of health/medical sociology. Secondary areas of interest are open, but those applicants specializing in the sociology of race and ethnicity (for example, Black, Latino, or Afro-Latino studies) are especially encouraged to apply. UMass Boston and the Department of Sociology have a strong commitment to social justice and inclusion, and we strongly encourage people from the communities of color best represented in Boston to apply.

UMass Boston offers faculty the opportunity to teach and conduct research in one of the most racially and ethnically diverse campuses in the country. Most of our students are first-generation college students, many are immigrants or come from immigrant families, and a high proportion have working-class backgrounds. Our department has a large undergraduate program with majors in sociology and criminology & criminal justice. At the graduate level, we have a master’s Program in Applied Sociology, a PhD Program in Sociology, and a Graduate Certificate Program in Survey Methodology. Additional information about the Department can be found at http://www.umb.edu/academics/cla/sociology. UMB offers many collaborative opportunities for scholars engaged in research on health and medical sociology, such as the Manning College of Nursing and Health Sciences which includes the Department of Urban Public Health, the Department of Gerontology, and Exercise and Health Sciences Department, as well the world-class hospitals and medical infrastructure in and around Boston.

All candidates should have an emerging or established program of research with the potential for generating external funding. Candidates should be prepared to teach across our undergraduate, master’s, and doctoral programs. The appointment requires completion of the doctoral degree in Sociology or a closely related discipline no later than August 31, 2024.

Application instructions:

The application deadline is October 1, 2023. Submit online your cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, one or two writing samples, and three letters of recommendation.
UMass Boston is committed to the full inclusion of all qualified individuals. As part of this commitment, we will ensure that persons with disabilities are provided reasonable accommodations for the hiring process. If reasonable accommodation is needed, please contact the ADA/504 Coordinator Andrea Haas or 617-287-5148.

The University of Massachusetts Boston provides equal employment opportunities to all employees and applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, gender, gender identity or expression, age, sexual orientation, national origin, ancestry, disability, military status, genetic information, pregnancy or a pregnancy-related condition, or membership in any other legally protected class. The University of Massachusetts Boston complies with all applicable federal, state and local laws governing nondiscrimination in employment in every location in which the university operates. This policy applies to all terms and conditions of employment.

Job Description:

The Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy in the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in the area of International Relations & Global Economics. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2024, or shortly thereafter. The successful candidate may be appointed as the endowed Munk-Trinity Chair in International Relations & Global Economics for a five-year term.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. in any social sciences or humanities field and have demonstrated expertise relating to Global Economics, with a clearly demonstrated exceptional record of excellence in research and teaching. The Munk School seeks a scholar whose research and teaching interests complement and enhance one or more of our existing strengths, which include the Future of Democratic Societies, the Changing World Order, the Political Economy of Innovation, and the Digital World. Candidates will have an established international reputation and will be expected to sustain and lead innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to maintain an outstanding, competitive, externally funded research program. The Committee especially welcomes candidates whose work focuses on macroeconomics, international political economy, global finance and global economic migration.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated through teaching accomplishments, through the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application including a teaching statement, sample course materials, teaching evaluations, and through endorsements of teaching in the letters of reference.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of sustained high-impact contributions and publications in top-ranked disciplinary and/or field-relevant academic journals or academic presses, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, distinguished awards and accolades, other noteworthy activities that contribute to the visibility and prominence of the field, as well as strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated through teaching accomplishments, through the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application including a teaching statement, sample course materials, teaching evaluations, and through endorsements of teaching in the letters of reference.

Candidates are also expected to show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment demonstrated through the application materials.

The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate courses, including in the Munk School’s professional graduate programs (the Master of Global Affairs and the Master of Public Policy) to students from a wide range of academic backgrounds and interests and will also expand teaching capacity in Trinity College. The successful candidate will have experience or demonstrable interest in a professional school and/or in an interdisciplinary environment.

Salary and rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

For more information about the Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy at the University of Toronto St. George campus, please visit our home page at https://munkschool.utoronto.ca/.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; curriculum vitae; writing sample; teaching dossier (including a teaching statement and sample course materials and teaching evaluations); and a research statement outlining current and future research interests. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching, and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto’s recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each after an application is submitted (this happens overnight). Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date. More details on the automatic reference letter collection, including timelines, are available in the candidate FAQ.
Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in the PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact munkschoolacademic@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by September 14, 2023.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement

The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement

The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission. The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link: http://apply.interfolio.com/127027

Job Description:

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University invites applications for a faculty position in “climate change and social science” to begin in July 2024. We are seeking applicants whose research is solution-oriented, focusing on the transition to a low-carbon economy (mitigation) and/or adapting to unavoidable climate change. Research of interest includes, but is not limited to, topics such as the politics and political economy of decarbonization; climate-induced migration and displacement; environmental justice as it pertains to creating climate solutions; technology policy and climate change; the social, racial, and political aspects of economic transitions away from fossil fuels in the United States or elsewhere in the world; and international trade and finance in an age of climate change.

This faculty position will involve a joint appointment between the Watson Institute and a relevant tenure-granting disciplinary department at Brown. We welcome applicants with doctoral degrees from all relevant disciplines in the social sciences (e.g., Sociology, Political Science, Economics, Anthropology, History, Africana Studies, Public Policy). The Watson Institute is especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute through their research, teaching, and service to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. Candidates from historically underrepresented groups in higher education are strongly encouraged to apply.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. A successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of scholarly achievement and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. A successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence their field, and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising.

Review of applications will begin on Sept. 24, 2023, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Junior candidates must have completed their PhD by the time of appointment.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement. In the teaching statement, the candidate should describe how they foster inclusive learning and diversity.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references whom the search committee can contact at an appropriate time. The list of references can be submitted via the "additional documents" field in Interfolio.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Brown University is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community; as an EEO/AA employer, Brown considers applicants for employment without regard to, and does not discriminate on the basis of, gender, race, protected veteran status, disability, or any other legally protected status.

Employer Description:
Brown is a nonprofit leading research university distinct for its student-centered learning and deep sense of purpose. Our students, faculty and staff are driven by the idea that their work will have an impact on the world.

The Latino/a and Latin American Studies (LLAS) major offers an interdisciplinary approach to the study of the societies and cultures of Latin America and the Latino and Chicano experience in the United States. By extending the study of ‘Latin America’ beyond the geopolitical borders of the region to include the Caribbean and the United States, the major emphasizes the importance of migrations, interethnic interactions, and cultural exchanges of Indigenous, European, African, and Asian peoples throughout the Americas. The LLAS program engages students with a variety of perspectives on the socio-political complexities and cultural traditions of the Americas, and the historical development of unique regional societies and cultures. The transnational perspective of our curriculum distinguishes the LLAS major from more traditional area studies programs.

Occidental College is committed to academic excellence in a diverse community and to supporting interdisciplinary and multicultural academic programs that provide a gifted and diverse group of students with an educational experience that prepares them for leadership in a pluralistic world. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who will further Occidental’s mission of excellence and equity in their teaching, scholarship, and service. Occidental is an Equal Opportunity Employer and does not unlawfully discriminate against employees or applicants on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, pregnancy, breastfeeding or related medical condition, national origin, ancestry, citizenship, age, marital status, physical disability, mental disability, medical condition, genetic characteristic or information, military and veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by state or federal law. Occidental is strongly committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community and the curriculum, and to fostering an inclusive, equitable, and just environment within which students, staff, administrators, and faculty thrive. Candidates who can contribute to this goal through their teaching, research, advising, and other activities are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences in this area. Individuals advancing the College’s strategic equity and justice goals and those from groups whose underrepresentation in the American professoriate has been severe and longstanding are particularly encouraged to apply.

Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications. Moving expense reimbursement (up to $5000, taxable according to current IRS regulations), start-up funds, and a one-course reduction of teaching load in the first year are provided. A comprehensive benefits package is available that includes: excellent health, dental, life, and retirement benefits; tuition benefits for the employee, spouse, domestic partner, and dependents; additional extras including use of gym facilities and the College Library. For a detailed description of benefits, please visit https://www.oxy.edu/offices-services/human-resources/benefits-information.

All qualified applicants will be considered for employment, including those with criminal histories, in a manner consistent with the requirements of applicable state and local laws, including the City of Los Angeles’ Fair Chance Initiative for Hiring Ordinance.

Occidental College is committed to working with and providing reasonable accommodations to applicants with qualifying disabilities. If you need a reasonable accommodation because of a disability for any part of the application or employment process, please contact Human Resources (hr@oxy.edu).

Job Description:

Assistant Professor, Computational Social Sciences, Department of Sociology

The Department of Sociology at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign invites applications for a 9-month full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor in the field of computational social science (quantitative or qualitative). We are particularly interested in candidates with research interests and expertise in social inequality and poverty, health and health disparities, immigration, and crime that speak to questions related to social and racial justice (defined in terms of equal access and equal rights). Candidates must possess theoretical, analytical, and empirical skills; a commitment to research and teaching effectiveness is essential. Successful candidates are expected to teach effectively at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, establish and maintain an active and independent research program, and provide service to the department, the university, and the profession.

The University of Illinois College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is a world leader in research, teaching, and public engagement. Faculty in the College create knowledge, address critical societal needs through the transfer and application of knowledge, and prepare students for lives of impact in the state, nation, and globally. To meet these objectives, the College embraces diversity and difference through hiring faculty candidates who can contribute through their research, teaching, and/or service to the diversity and excellence of the Illinois community.

PhD in Sociology or a closely related field is required. PhD is required at the time of application or by June 15, 2024, to be appointed as an Assistant Professor in August 2024. Candidates whose PhD may be delayed but will complete all the PhD requirements within the first appointment year may be appointed at the rank of Instructor. After the PhD requirement is met, the appointment will be changed to Assistant Professor. The target start date is August 16, 2024. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Job 19326: Professor and Department Head

Date Position is Available: Summer 2024

Listing Active: 8/1/2023 to 9/30/2023

Institution: University of Illinois-Chicago
Department: Department of Sociology (M/C 312)
Region: All US Regions
Title: Professor and Department Head

Salary Range: Negotiable

Submission Link: https://jobs.uic.edu

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (LAS) at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) invites applications and nominations for the position of Head/Professor. The successful candidate will provide leadership for a department committed to public sociology and foster excellence in research, teaching, and community engagement.

Addressing social inequality is at the heart of our research and teaching endeavors in the department, and we have six focused research areas: gender and sexuality; race and ethnicity; organizations and the economy; politics, globalization and social change; health, science & knowledge; and urban and spatial inequality. The Department of Sociology is a vibrant community of scholars committed to teaching a wide range of methodological approaches and using sociological expertise to engage with the world for the public good. The department admits and trains a talented group of diverse graduate students and has a robust undergraduate program including a large number of majors and an active alumni community. Department faculty are actively engaged with and participate in a number of departments and centers/institutes on and off campus including the Gender & Women's Studies Program, Black Studies Department, Latin American and Latino Studies Program, Institute for Research on Race and Public Policy, Institute for Government and Public Affairs, Social Justice Institute Initiative, Scholars Strategy Network, and Council on Contemporary Families.

The Head of Sociology is the chief administrative officer of the department with responsibility for instructional efforts and for operational management including administrative, budgetary, promotion, and recruitment programs. The successful candidate will have a PhD, a distinguished scholarship and teaching record commensurate with the rank of full professor, and appropriate academic administrative experience. A demonstrated ability to lead diverse scholars committed to engaged sociology is desired, as is a strong record of external funding and academic recognition. UIC especially welcomes applications from women, underrepresented minority group members, persons with disabilities, members of sexual minority groups, veterans and others who would enrich the University's research, teaching, and Great Cities' mission. The ideal Head will work effectively with key units within LAS, the UIC community, and the Chicago metropolitan area to enhance the mission of the Department, the College, and the University. The desired appointment date is August 16, 2024. Salary is competitive based on qualifications.

UIC is a Carnegie Doctoral/Research-Extensive University located in the heart of one of the nation's largest metropolitan areas. It is a comprehensive public university with a diverse student body of more than 29,000 undergraduate, graduate, and professional students. UIC is federally recognized as a Minority Serving Institution (MSI) through its status as an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander Serving Institution (AANAPISI) and a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI), fully funded by the U.S. Department of Education.

To apply, complete an on-line application, including the names and email addresses of four references, a full curriculum vitae, and a cover letter that summarizes the candidate's research, teaching, administrative qualifications, and describes experience with diversity and engaged sociology at https://jobs.uic.edu. Click on the job board and then this job. Questions about the position can be directed to Rosilie Hernandez at rosieher@uic.edu and Joseph O. Jewell at jjewell3@uic.edu, the search committee co-chairs. Applications must be received by October 2, 2023, for fullest consideration.

Please forward nominations to Dean Lisa Freeman at las_dean@uic.edu by September 10, 2023. Applicants are not required to be nominated in order to apply.

Employer Description:

The University of Illinois at Chicago is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer that has a strong institutional commitment to the principle of diversity and is particularly interested in receiving applications from a broad spectrum of people. We are committed to equal employment opportunities regardless of sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, race, color, religion, national origin, disability, protected Veteran status, age, or any other characteristic protected by law. The University of Illinois may conduct background checks and other pre-employment assessments on all job candidates upon acceptance of a contingent offer. Background Checks will be performed in compliance with state and federal law. As a qualifying federal contractor, the University of Illinois System uses E-Verify to verify employment eligibility.

The University of Illinois System requires candidates selected for hire to disclose any documented finding of sexual misconduct or sexual harassment and to authorize inquiries to current and former employers regarding findings of sexual misconduct or sexual harassment. For more information,
