Job Description:

Visiting Assistant Professor (Sociology and Anthropology)

Position: Visiting Assistant Professor

Department/School: Sociology and Anthropology, College of Arts and Sciences

Months: 9 months

Salary Range: $48,360

Available: Start date is open; beginning no later than August 2024.

Posting Date: March 26, 2024

Application Deadline: Open Until Filled. Review of application materials begins on April 5, 2024.

To apply, please submit the following with your application:

(1) A letter of application,

(2) A curriculum vitae,

(3) A sample of scholarly writing, and

(4) One sample teaching material that demonstrates your approach to diversity and inclusion (which could include a syllabus, a description of teaching philosophy, a sample assignment, or other relevant material)

Definition of Classification:

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology invites applicants for a Visiting Assistant Professor position in the sociology of youth. Specialization in one or more of the following subjects within youth studies is especially welcome: marginalized/disadvantaged youth, social psychology, identity, and digital youth culture. A strong track record of teaching and mentoring a diverse group of students is a must; experience teaching in highly interactive classroom settings is highly desirable. Ph.D. in sociology is required; advanced ABDs with exceptional qualities may be considered.

This position's standard teaching load is eight courses a year, including core courses in Sociology (e.g., introductory sociology; social issues; sociological theory) and several upper-division electives. Teaching load may be negotiated for candidates interested in engaging our students in community-based learning, collaborative community research, and internship courses.

The University of Redlands is an independent private university with strong roots in liberal education. The Department of Sociology and Anthropology contributes to the College of Arts and Sciences general education program and serves undergraduate majors, who take an interdisciplinary array of courses to receive a joint B.A. in Sociology and Anthropology. Experiential learning, collaborative learning, and faculty-student interaction are highly valued in this close-knit academic community.

Qualifications Guidelines

Any combination equivalent to, but not limited to, the following:

Experience/Training/Education:

Required

• Doctorate degree in sociology.
• Experience teaching and mentoring a diverse group of students.
• Advanced ABDs with exceptional qualities may be considered.
• A valid California Class C CA driver's license with a good driving record is required. Note: Out-of-state licenses are valid until appointment. A valid California Class “C” driver’s license must be obtained within ten (10) days of appointment (in accordance with CA Vehicle Code 12505c).

Desired

• Experience teaching in highly interactive classroom settings.

Physical Requirements/Working Conditions:

Working Conditions:

Standard classroom/office setting. Duties performed are primarily in a classroom/office environment while sitting at a desk or computer workstation or in meetings. At least minimal environmental controls to assure health and comfort.

Physical Demands:

Incumbents regularly sit for long periods; walk short distances on a regular basis; may travel to various locations to attend meetings and conduct work; use hands and fingers to operate an electronic keyboard or other office machines; reach with hands and arms; climb stairs; stoop or kneel or crouch to file; speak clearly and distinctly to answer telephones and to provide information; see to read fine print and operate computer; hear and understand voices over telephone and in person; and lift, carry and/or move objects weighing up to 20 pounds.

TO APPLY: Interested applicants are required to submit (1) a letter of application, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a sample of scholarly writing, and (4) one sample teaching material that demonstrates their approach to diversity and inclusion (which could include a syllabus, a description of teaching philosophy, a sample assignment, or other relevant material).

In compliance with The Americans with Disabilities Act, if selected for the interview process and accommodations are needed, please call (909) 748-8040. If you are unable to complete an application due to a disability, contact us at (909) 748-8040 to ask for an accommodation or an alternative application process.

HIRING RANGE: The anticipated hiring range is near or at the minimum of the classification, commensurate with the candidate’s education, experience, skills, and training. The University of Redlands is required to provide a reasonable estimate of the compensation range for this role. This range takes into account the wide range of factors that are considered in making compensation decisions including but not limited to experience, skills, knowledge, abilities, education, licensure and certifications, and other business and organizational needs. It is not typical for an individual to be offered a salary at or near the top of the range for a position. Salary offers are determined based on the final candidate’s qualifications and experience. The full salary range for this position is defined as the Full Pay Range. The budgeted salary or hourly range that the University reasonably expects to pay for this position is defined as the Hiring Range. Placement within the Hiring Range is determined by internal equity and relevant qualifications.

BACKGROUND CHECK: Satisfactory completion of a background check (including a criminal records check) is required for employment. The University will make a conditional offer of employment, which may be rescinded if the background check reveals disqualifying information, or it is discovered that the candidate knowingly withheld or falsified information. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the continued employment of a current employee who was conditionally offered the position.

DRIVER'S LICENSE CHECK: Possession of a valid Driver's License is required for certain positions. Employees in positions that require a valid Driver's License will be enrolled in the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) Government Employer Pull Notice Program which confirms possession of a valid driver's license and reflects driving record.

PHYSICAL AND PSYCHOLOGICAL EXAMS: For certain positions typically in Public Safety, Facilities, Athletics, and Information Technology Services departments, employment is contingent upon a candidate passing a pre-employment physical exam with the ability to lift in excess of 50 lbs. Public Safety Officers, in addition to a pre-employment physical exam, will also be required to pass a psychological evaluation.

INFORMATION REGARDING COVID-19: New employees are required to submit proof of having received the full course dose of an approved COVID-19 vaccine or submit an exemption request for medical or religious reasons within sixty (60) days from your date of hire.

FOR MORE INFORMATION VISIT

http://www.redlands.edu/human-resources/employment/

SUBMISSION OF A RESUME OR APPLICATION INDICATES AGREEMENT THAT THE UNIVERSITY MAY VERIFY ANY AND ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED THEREIN.

MEMBERS OF UNDERREPRESENTED GROUPS ARE ENCOURAGED TO APPLY.

Talented applicants who are about to finalize their Master’s degree are also eligible to apply.

Above and beyond a two-year Master’s degree (or close to completion), the successful applicant should have the following qualifications:

• Interest in the sociology of science and issues of Global North-South disparities in research
• Strong background in computational social science and/or quantitative social science methods.
• Firm knowledge of conducting statistical analyses using R.
• English writing and communication skills.

How to apply

Submit a complete application at our online portal. Click on the “Apply now” icon at the bottom of the page to apply. The documents must be in Adobe PDF or Word.

• Cover Letter (detailing your motivation and background for applying for the position)
• Project description: A two-page description of a potential research design examining disparities in Global North-South research collaborations that could be implemented as part of the larger research project.
• CV
• Diploma and transcripts of records (Bachelor and Master)
• 1-2 examples of the applicant’s methodological skills, e.g. publications, working papers, BA- or MA thesis or exam papers.

Salary and work conditions

PhD students are paid a full-time salary including social benefits in accordance with the agreement between the Ministry of Finance and the Danish Confederation of Professional Associations (AC). The PhD student has a work obligation of up to 840 hours over the 3-year period of time without additional pay. This implies a full-time employment of 37 hours per week. The work obligation includes teaching obligations. Residency in Denmark implies full health care coverage and access to public services such as childcare facilities or schools.

The closing date for applications is 5 May 2024, 23:59 CETS.

Employer Description:

University of Copenhagen Graduate School of Social Sciences
Enrolment in the University of Copenhagen's Graduate School of Social Sciences provides PhD students with a rigorous and supportive PhD environment dedicated to nurturing outstanding researchers. Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link: https://case.edu/socialjustice/postdoc2024

Job Description:

Postdoctoral Scholar Fellowship in Social Justice:

The Social Justice Institute (SJI) at Case Western Reserve University is inviting applications for a postdoctoral scholar fellowship in social justice. The position is a two-year grant funded postdoctoral scholar fellowship under the direction of Professor Ayesha Bell Hardaway, effective Fall 2024. Candidates must have strong capabilities collecting and analyzing quantitative and qualitative data in order to develop user-friendly, community-accessible research databases.

This fellowship will focus on developing the next generation of social justice leaders and will emphasize evidence-based research, mentoring, and community building.

Fellows will actively participate in disseminating institute research and evaluation findings, possibly including: the production of briefs, policy statements, training protocols, webinars, and in high-quality peer-reviewed outlets. Additional responsibilities may include data management, grant writing, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate students.

Fellows will be required to teach SJUS 100: Introduction to Social Justice. The successful candidate will work with SJI Leadership to identify a CWRU faculty member who they can work with to further their research and teaching interests. This may also include teaching an elective topics course.

Qualifications:

Applicants should either (1) be working toward a doctoral degree that will be conferred by the anticipated position start date or (2) hold a PhD or equivalent (such as a JD) in a field related to social justice such as sociology, law, social work, or public health. Applicants’ PhD or equivalent should have been conferred within the last five years. Applicants should have experience working with mixed-method analysis, multidisciplinary research, and community engaged research.

The successful candidate will have the capacity to establish and maintain research partnerships with community stakeholders; must be self-motivated and adaptive to pivots in research needs; will be able to work with minimal supervision; and must communicate respectfully within the context of varying beliefs, behaviors, orientations, identities and cultural backgrounds.

To Apply:

Interested applicants should submit the following in PDF format, to socialjustice@case.edu:

- a cover sheet with contact and biographical information,
- a statement of interest encompassing qualifications and research interests,
- an up-to-date curriculum vitae,
- three professional references (one of which should be the applicant's dissertation advisor, if applicable), and
- a publication or writing sample.

Applications will be accepted immediately and on a rolling basis until the position is filled. The anticipated appointment starting date is September 1, 2024, with funding guaranteed for a term of one year with opportunity for renewal of the position for an additional year. Though possible, further employment is not guaranteed. Finalists may be asked to travel to CWRU for in-person interviews. Travel may be partially or fully subsidized.

Benefits:

The salary and benefits for this position are consistent with Case Western Reserve University’s salary structure as consistent with the current NIH National Research Service Award scale. Further benefits include membership(s) in relevant professional societies and applicable license fees, travel and attendance to one to two professional conferences for dissemination of project findings, and attendance at professional development workshops as appropriate. As appropriate and consistent with university policy and the fellows’ interests and training needs, they may also be eligible to take advanced doctoral level courses in arts and sciences, psychology, public health, etc.

About the Social Justice Institute:

The Social Justice Institute strives to create a just world. For over a decade, we have examined the root causes of social injustice and developed innovative solutions by supporting creative research, scholarship, and pedagogy; social justice leaders on and off campus; and relationships within the university and into the community. We work to eradicate all systems of oppression by redistributing and expanding resources and opportunities while exalting human dignity. Our work is supported by a leadership team of ten individuals who bring the expertise of multiple disciplines within CWRU as well as the broader community.

Equal Opportunity and Diversity:
In employment, as in education, Case Western Reserve University is committed to Equal Opportunity and Diversity. Women, veterans, members of underrepresented minority groups, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

Job Description:

Georgetown College seeks applications for a full-time Visiting Assistant Professor of Sociology, beginning August, 2024, pending funding. The department seeks a broadly trained sociologist with a strong focus on teaching and who shares our dedication to excellence in the classroom. The area of specialization should be related to criminal and social justice. A background in race, gender, class, and inequality would be beneficial, and the successful candidate will complement current faculty members’ teaching and research interests. Teaching responsibilities include Criminological Theory, Ethics in Social and Criminal Justice, Race, Gender, Intro to Social and Criminal Justice and other core and elective courses in sociology, as well as additional courses in the candidate’s area of research and interest. The successful candidate will teach a 4/4 load per academic year. Ph.D. expected, ABD considered.

Georgetown College is a private, Christian, liberal arts institution and emphasis is placed on teaching excellence in a diverse context. It is located in the small college town of Georgetown, Kentucky, just 12 miles north of Lexington.

As a Christian institution, Georgetown College builds community through admissions, hiring and promotion policies based on merit, qualification and character. Georgetown College does not discriminate, either in the admission of students, hiring and promotion of employees, or in the administration of any educational policies, programs, or activities on the basis of race, color, national or ethnic origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, age, disability or veteran status. The College may use religion as a factor in making faculty employment decisions and in Board of Trustees appointments. Women, people of color, members of the LGBTQ+ community, Indigenous people, and those with other or multiple historically marginalized and/or underrepresented identities are especially encouraged to apply to support our growing population of diverse students.

Screening will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. To be considered for the position, send letter of application, vita, unofficial transcripts, statement of teaching philosophy, and three letters of recommendation. All materials should be submitted electronically to Dr. Jonathan Sands Wise, Provost/Dean of the College to provost@georgetowncollege.edu.

Job Description:

OPS EES Research Assistant

Job Summary

FGCU’s Department of Ecology and Environmental Studies (EES) is seeking a full-time, fixed-term field research assistant to work on a project investigating nature-based incentive programs on cattle ranches in southern Florida. This position will be for one year, with a second year expected depending on satisfactory performance and the availability of funding.

The EES Department is located within The Water School, an interdisciplinary enterprise that brings together faculty from five colleges and schools within FGCU, representing 15 departments, to focus on the environmental, economic, and human dimensions of coastal resilience, ecosystem integrity, health and wellbeing, and restoration and remediation.

Job Description

Typical duties may include but are not limited to:

- Conducting focus groups and semi-structured interviews within the ranching community;
- Interacting with members of the ranching community to identify and interview participants;
- Using mixed-method approaches to analyze data gathered; and
- Authoring, presenting, and publishing study findings in academic conferences and peer-reviewed journals.

Additional Job Description

Required Qualifications:

- Masters degree in conservation-related discipline from a regionally accredited institution or equivalent accreditation OR equivalent level of experience working in agricultural and/or conservation-based settings.
- Experience with sampling and gathering field data using accepted qualitative methods.
- Reliable personal transportation.

Preferred Qualifications

https://ams3.enoah.com/Deskto
• Experience with leading or co-leading the design and implementation of comprehensive field-based qualitative studies.
• Experience with working within agricultural and/or rural communities.
• Experience conducting rigorous quantitative, qualitative, or mixed-methods data analysis.

Knowledge, Skills & Abilities:

• Knowledge of qualitative field research methodologies.
• Understanding of conservation challenges, especially those relevant to agricultural or ranching contexts.
• Proficiency in conducting fieldwork, including experience with sample collection, data recording, and other relevant tasks.
• Effective communication skills, both written and verbal, for interacting with participants, documenting research findings, and presenting results to diverse audiences.
• Ability to work collaboratively with a multidisciplinary team, given the interdisciplinary nature of The Water School.
• Ability to establish and maintain professional relationships with stakeholders, ranchers, and other collaborators involved in the project.
• Ability to work independently and engage in effective time management to meet project deadlines and complete tasks efficiently.
• Proactive approach to research, taking the initiative to identify and pursue opportunities for improvement or innovation.

Required Application Materials:

• Cover Letter
• Curriculum Vitae
• Unofficial Transcripts
• 3 Professional References

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen (UCPH), invites excellent candidates for one or more tenure-track assistant professorships in sociology.

The position is available from 1st October 2024 or as soon as possible thereafter.

A tenure-track assistant professorship is a six-year, fixed-term academic position involving both research and teaching. The successful candidate will be obliged to complete a teacher-training course designed especially for assistant professors, and will be expected to be able to take part in all activities of the Department, including examinations and administration.

Approximately six months before the end of the six-year period as tenure-track assistant professor, a committee set up by the Dean will assess whether the assistant professor can be considered for promotion to a tenured position as associate professor.

Read more about the tenure-track program at Copenhagen University here: Tenure track at the University of Copenhagen – University of Copenhagen (ku.dk)

Introduction

The Department of Sociology is an international department with an ambitious and friendly atmosphere, comprising at present 30 faculty, 15 Post Docs, 15 Ph.D. Students, and an administrative unit. We pursue problem-oriented research and investigate topics such as social mobility, facilitative cultures and structures that tackle climate change, migration and processes of integration, the role of education in (re)production of inequalities, social movements, the role of the digital in practices that are harmful, understanding practices of violence, impact of AI, and the sociology of science. We share a pronounced commitment to social theory – both classical and modern. We engage with and innovate around both qualitative and quantitative methods, and have in recent years invested a significant amount of resources in the area of social data science. The Department is located in the very center of the old city of Copenhagen and shares a campus with the other departments of the Faculty of Social Sciences: Anthropology, Economics, Political Science and Psychology with whom we have close collaborations.

To fulfill the research requirements of the position the applicant chosen is expected to be physically present on a regular basis and actively participate in the teaching and research activities of the Department.

Duties and Responsibilities

General duties attached to the position as tenure-track assistant professor are:

- Individual and group-based research, and research-based publishing, meeting high international standards within the field of Sociology
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate and graduate students in existing programmes and courses of the Department of Sociology
- Contributing to the administrative responsibilities of the Department of Sociology and Faculty wide tasks
- Communicating research findings to the public in general and to the stakeholders of the Department of Sociology and Faculty of Social Science in particular
- Taking an active interest in the employability of our graduate students
- Participation in the Faculty of Social Science ‘Teaching and Learning at Higher Education Programme’ for assistant professors
- Initiating and contributing to external funding activities
- Active participation in research activities such as conferences, workshops and seminars
- Promoting the Department nationally as well as internationally.

Your Competencies and Opportunities

In order to be assessed qualified for a tenure-track assistant professor position at the University of Copenhagen, the candidate must meet the University’s criteria of academic merit.

Six overall criteria apply for professor appointments at the University of Copenhagen. The six criteria (research, teaching, societal impact, organisational contribution, external funding and leadership) are considered a framework for the overall assessment of candidates.
You can read more about the criteria for recognising merit for assistant professors here: 5a_Criteria_for_recognising_merit_-Assistant_professors.pdf (ku.dk)

Qualified candidates are expected to have a thorough training in the field of Sociology and an in-depth understanding of sociological methods. They also have a keen interest to expand that knowledge further and to initiate and conduct research in the Department of Sociology and its areas of research. Furthermore, qualified candidates will have a plan to conduct this research collaboratively within the Department of Sociology and with other departments and research centres at the Faculty of Social Sciences.

Successful candidates will have to have strong interpersonal skills as well as an attitude for working collaboratively with colleagues in planning and delivering teaching, in research projects and in the discharge of administrative duties.

Furthermore, qualified candidates must demonstrate a commitment to student learning, supporting student welfare and enhancing the student experience.

Strategy of the Faculty of the Social Sciences

The Department of Sociology is part of the Faculty of the Social Sciences. The Faculty is a successful academic community that strives to put knowledge into action by:

- Engaging partners in the co-creation of knowledge, learning and social change.
- Empowering our students to become reflective and responsible citizens who have the vision, the knowledge and the competences to change society for the better.
- Energising global, European and Danish communities of knowledge by innovating research methodologies and by research findings with impact.

For more on the Faculty strategy 2018-2023, see: [Fakultetsstrategi – Det Samfundsvidenskabelige Fakultet - Københavns Universitet](Fakultetsstrategi – Det Samfundsvidenskabelige Fakultet - Københavns Universitet).
A Strategy for 2024-2028 is currently in the process of being formulated.

Terms of Employment

- Employment with the Faculty of Social Sciences and progression within employment will be determined only by personal merit. We do this by applying academic criteria of the University of Copenhagen which are related to the duties and conditions of each particular post and the needs of the Department concerned.

- As this is a tenure track position, and therefore we strongly encourage the appointed assistant professor to acquire the proficiency in Danish required to teach and interact with colleagues in that language in 2-4 years. The Department will provide and pay for the necessary language training.

- Further information on qualification requirements as assistant professor can be found in the Memorandum on Job Structure for Academic Staff at Danish Universities here: Ministerial_Order_no._1443_of_11_December_2019_on_Job_Structure_for_Academic_Staff_at_Universities.pdf (ku.dk)

- Terms of appointment and salary is in accordance with the Danish Confederation of Professional Associations (Akademikerne).

- The salary range starts at DKK 36.400 per month + a 17.1 % contribution to the pension scheme. It is possible to negotiate salary supplements on an annual basis.

The recruitment process

Further information on the recruitment process at University of Copenhagen can be found here: Recruitment process – University of Copenhagen (ku.dk))

An Equal Opportunity Workplace

The University of Copenhagen is committed in its pursuit of academic excellence to equality of opportunity and to creating an inclusive working environment and therefore encourages all qualified candidates to apply, regardless of personal background, gender, sexual orientation, age, disability, ethnicity etc. For more on the diverse working environment at the University and the University’s participation in the HR4SR HR Excellence in Research, see Recruitment process – University of Copenhagen (ku.dk))

15. New Jersey Judiciary

Job 20001: Judiciary Research Manager (Court Executive 2B)

Date Position is Available: Spring 2024

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 3/18/2024 to 4/17/2024

Institution: New Jersey Judiciary
Department: New Jersey Judiciary
Region: Northeast

Title: Judiciary Research Manager (Court Executive 2B)

Position/Rank: Sociological Practice/Applied/Other: Statistician, Sociological Practice/Applied/Other: Researcher

Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Applicable

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Statistics

Salary Range: $100,000 - $109,999

Job Description:

When you come to work for New Jersey Judiciary you will join an 8500-member strong TEAM that operates with the highest standards of independence, integrity, fairness and quality service. You will be engaged with work that has purpose, meaning and makes a difference in lives of the public we serve. We work hard every day to build the public’s trust and confidence in our court system, which includes issues such as bail reform, marijuana decriminalization and recovery court.

Whether it be in a courtroom, an administrative office, a courthouse training room, an IT office or in the field, our Judiciary workforce is improving the lives of countless individuals and families every day. We honor the dignity and individualism of each member of our organization while fostering professionalism and continuous improvement in our work.

The Judiciary offers a strong opportunity for growth.

The New Jersey Judiciary is seeking an individual to serve as the Judiciary Research Manager in the Data Analytics, Research and Statistics Division. Under the direction of the Chief of the Quantitative Research Unit, the Judiciary Research Manager will supervise three teams in criminal, civil, and family research.

The Research Manager will also perform a variety of senior level research functions relating to research study design and implementation. The selected candidate will develop and use appropriate and practical methodology to design and manage research projects; perform simple to moderately complex statistical analysis of court data sets utilizing SAS or SPSS, Tableau, Focus/WebFocus, Excel and other software; manage and clean data in SQL Management Studio, IBM Data Studio, or other data management software; and prepare, present and disseminate research findings.

Remote Work: The Judiciary currently offers a hybrid work schedule and this position may qualify for up to 3 days of work outside of Judiciary buildings. To participate in this program, you will be required to have high speed home internet access.

Example of Duties:

* Validate monthly and annual statistical reports using Excel, SPSS, SQL, SAS or other tools as appropriate.

* Translate requests for statistics and analyses into appropriate responses that may require designing research questions, understanding complex court data, discussion with internal stakeholders, and extraction of data from systems.

* Oversee the design and implementation of criminal, civil, and family research.

* Conduct high-level statistical analysis.

* Convert complex data into understandable charts, graphs, reports, and statistical presentations.

* Make oral presentations to judges, senior managers, and agencies and researchers outside of the Judiciary.

* Manage Quantitative Research’s research teams that include both research managers and statistical analysts.

* Collaborate with Automated Trial Court Services Unit on plans for data system updates from the data analysis perspective, as needed.

* Facilitate the reporting of New Jersey statistics and court organization information to external stakeholders.

Salary range is $96,989.82 - $145,172.94. For newly hired individuals, the starting salary will normally be at the minimum of the salary range.

Requirements: Master’s degree or higher in Statistics, Economics, Criminology, Criminal Justice, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology or other relevant discipline from an accredited college or university. A Doctorate is preferred.

Five years of experience conducting social science research including experience in regression modeling and predictive analytics. Experience conducting research in criminal justice, juvenile justice, or in other court areas is helpful.

Three years of supervision of staff is also required.

Intermediate to expert knowledge of Microsoft Excel and SPSS, or other statistical analysis software, is strongly preferred. Experience with software such as SAS, SQL, or Focus/WebFocus is helpful.

Substitution: Applicants who do not possess the required education may substitute additional professional experience in the areas listed above on a year-for-year basis with one year of such experience being equal to 30 semester hour credits. A Ph.D. may be substituted for two years of experience as indicated above.

Education Note: Degrees conferred outside of the United States must be evaluated by a recognized evaluation service. (See www.naces.org/members.html)

Residency Law: In accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14-7 (L. 2011, Chapter 70), the "New Jersey First Act," all persons newly hired by the Judiciary within one year must establish, and then maintain, principal residence in the State of New Jersey. Any person may request an exemption from that requirement from the Employee Residency Review Committee in the Department of Labor & Workforce Development on the basis of either hardship or employer critical need.

Driver's License: Appointee will be required to possess a driver's license valid in New Jersey only if the operation of a vehicle is necessary to perform essential duties of the position.

Authorization to Work: US citizenship is not required. Selected candidate must be authorized to work in the US according to Department of Homeland Security, US Citizenship and Immigration Services regulations.

Campus Description:

Stony Brook University, one of two flagships within the State University of New York (SUNY) system, is one of America’s most dynamic public universities, a center of academic excellence, and an internationally recognized research institution that is changing the world. After more than 60 years of existence, it is ranked among the top 100 universities in the nation and the top 25 public universities in the nation. It is a member of the prestigious invitation-only Association of American Universities, composed of the top 66 leading research institutions in North America. As Long Island’s largest single-site employer, Stony Brook has nearly 15,000 full- and part-time employees, including 2,800 faculty and nearly 27,000 students — including almost 18,000 undergraduates — and offers more than 200 majors, minors and combined-degree programs. Located approximately 60 miles east of Manhattan on Long Island’s beautiful North Shore, Stony Brook is situated on 1,454 wooded acres, encompassing 13 schools and colleges; a Research and Development Park; world-class athletics facilities, including an 8,300-seat stadium and a 4,000-seat arena; and Stony Brook Medicine, Long Island’s premier academic medical center. Also part of the University is a teaching and research campus in Southampton, New York, which offers graduate arts programs and is the site of the Marine Sciences Center. In addition, Stony Brook has a role in running, and performs joint research with, Brookhaven National Laboratory, the only Department of Energy Laboratory in the Northeast. Home to the Emerson String Quartet, the Pollock-Krasner House in East Hampton, NY, and the Humanities Institute, with endeavors that extend to the Turkana Basin Institute in Kenya and the Ranomafana National Park in Madagascar, Stony Brook sustains an international reputation that cuts across the arts, humanities, social sciences and natural sciences.

The department of sociology also is deeply involved in two major new initiatives at Stony Brook University: the University’s selection as the anchor institution to administrate New York City’s Climate Exchange (to be located on Governor’s Island in New York Harbor); and the endowed Center for Changing Systems of Power, which aims to invigorate Stony Brook’s focus on social, racial, gender, and other forms of inequality.

About the College:

About the College of Arts and Sciences:

As part of a great research university, the College of Arts and Sciences at Stony Brook University focuses on scholarly creativity, connecting our disciplines of fine arts; humanities; social, behavioral and natural sciences; and mathematics with medicine, technology, culture, education, business and environment. As the largest College for the campus, we help students and faculty begin a lifetime of learning and discovery by exploring new ideas that drive innovation and inspiration across all sectors of society.

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Latina/o Sociology

Salary Range: $60,000 - $69,999

Job Description:

The Latin American and Latinx Studies Program at Bates College invites applications for a full-time, non-renewable, Visiting Assistant Professor position in Latin American and Latinx Studies to begin in August of 2024. We welcome applicants from the social sciences with broad interdisciplinary teaching and research expertise in Latinx, Afro-Latinx, and/or Indigenous Latinx people and identities. The candidate’s academic home will be the Program in Latin American and Latinx Studies.

We are open to candidates from various social science disciplines and particularly interested in candidates who can enhance the disciplinary perspectives already represented in the program. Applicants should show a commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching and mentoring. Candidates who can contribute to the college’s ongoing commitment to social and cultural diversity and inclusion, and who are attentive to inclusive pedagogy, are especially welcome. Responsibilities include teaching five undergraduate courses in the 2024-2025 academic year. Courses include introductory, mid- as well as upper-level electives on topics related to the candidate’s fields of interest. The candidate will also participate in the Latin American and Latinx Studies Program faculty committee, and, if they choose, advise individual senior theses.

We strongly encourage applications from individuals with identities that have been historically marginalized in political science, individuals who have followed non-traditional pathways to higher education due to societal, economic, or academic disadvantages, and individuals with a demonstrated capacity to advance the college’s continuing commitments to equitable, inclusive, and anti-racist teaching.

About Bates

Bates College is a residential liberal arts college in Lewiston, Maine. Details about the college and its community can be found here. Lewiston is a diverse and growing city in Maine, two and a half hours north of Boston and 45 minutes from Portland, Maine’s largest city.

At Bates, Teaching is supported by a new Center for Inclusive Teaching and Learning, Community-engaged learning and study abroad are encouraged and robustly supported. Bates is committed to supporting educational access for all. Educational access and justice are central to Bates’ history and mission. That work is supported in a variety of ways, including an HHMI Inclusive Excellence grant to support transforming how we teach STEM, a Schuler Education Foundation Grant to support financial aid for Pell-eligible students, low income, and undocumented students, and a Mellon Foundation Curricular Transformation Grant. Read more about our faculty’s commitment to equity and inclusion here.

Qualifications

Candidates must be advanced ABD or have a completed Ph.D.

Application Instructions

Review of applications begins on April 10, 2024 and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy that addresses equity and inclusion. Applicants should also anticipate providing two letters of recommendation in the event that they are invited to an online interview. Employment is contingent upon successful completion of a background check.

Employer Description:

Bates College is committed to the principle of equal opportunity and providing an educational and work environment free from discrimination. The college prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, national or ethnic origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression, age, disability, genetic information or veteran status, and other legally protected statuses in the recruitment and admission of its students, in the administration of its education polcies and programs, or in the recruitment of its faculty and staff. Bates College adheres to all applicable state and federal equal opportunity laws and regulations. All college faculty, staff, students, contractors, visitors, and volunteers are responsible for understanding and complying with the Non-Discrimination Policy.

Job 19996: Assistant professor (tenure Track) in sociology - organisations and inequalities

Date Position is Available: Summer 2025
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 3/12/2024 to 5/11/2024
Institution: Sciences Po
Department: Centre for the Sociology of Organisations (CSO)
Region: Europe
Title: Assistant professor (tenure Track) in sociology - organisations and inequalities
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link: recruitment.cso@sciencespo.fr

Job Description:

General Profile

The contemporary increase in inequalities requires studying the organisational fabric of classification, hierarchies, and subordination. The recruitment of an assistant professor specialising in organisational approaches to inequalities is intended to strengthen the CSO's capacity to address these issues, which lie at the crossroads of economic, organisational, public action, social movement, labour, legal and expert sociology.

Responsibilities

Research

The new recruit will conduct in-depth empirical research based on the production of original data.

- Candidates may specialise in a particular social relationship (class, gender, race, sexuality, age, disability), while addressing its interdependence with other social relationships.
- They may work on different dimensions of inequality (economic, symbolic, cultural, etc.), and in different fields. Candidates working in one of the following fields are particularly welcome: health; higher education; environment; social movements; digital; law and courts.
- Their work could focus on the distribution of power within work organisations (public or private), on the contribution of organisations to inequalities concerning their recipients (clientele, patients, beneficiaries, users, etc.), or on inequalities between organisations (pertaining to the division of labour between administrations and/or associations, pertaining to systems of subcontracting between companies, etc.).
- They may also examine the processes of legitimacy and controversy surrounding inequalities, in the light of the knowledge and expertise that they give rise to.
- They could study the role of norms and public action in the institutionalisation and transformation of inequality dynamics, with particular reference to gender equality, the fight against discrimination, the promotion of 'diversity' and changes in social, fiscal and penal policies.
- Lastly, they may propose a historical analysis of the processes studied, or a comparison between several national contexts, so as not to overestimate the specificity of what is being observed here and now.

The new recruit's work will be able to contribute to the various collective initiatives at Sciences Po, in particular:
- LIEPP (Laboratory for interdisciplinary evaluation of public policies), in particular its Discrimination and Categorical Policies division,
- Sciences Po’s Gender studies programme (The Programme de Recherche et d'Enseignement des Savoirs sur le Genre - PRESAGE).

A sustained commitment to the collective life of the laboratory is also expected.

Teaching

The teaching service is 128 hours per year, i.e. 3 lectures of 24 hours and 56 hours of complementary pedagogical services, at both levels of teaching offered by Sciences Po: college and schools (including the PhD track). The service is reduced to 88 hours/year during the first three years of the tenure track (2 courses of 24 hours and 48 hours of complementary pedagogical service).

The future recruit is expected to teach college courses at one of the seven Sciences Po campuses, as well as master courses in one or several of the Sciences Po schools. Candidates are expected to teach general sociology as well as organizational approaches to inequalities.
Candidates' ability to teach in both English and French, and to teach in areas and on topics that go beyond the strict limits of their research interests, will be particularly appreciated.

Profile

Candidates should hold a PhD in sociology and have an excellent knowledge of one or more of the fields in which the CSO's research is conducted.

Their research should be characterized by a strong empirical foundation, using a combination of: qualitative methods (interviews, observation, documentary analysis); quantitative methods (general statistical methods, longitudinal analysis, dynamic network analysis or textual analysis); and digital methods.

The research must also demonstrate their ability to take part in more general debates in the sociology of capitalism, the state, markets, social movements, public policy, science and technology, or regulation.

Candidates must demonstrate a strong level of internationalization through their publications and their insertion in international scientific networks.

An excellent level in English is required, a good level in French is expected.

Sciences Po is an equal opportunity employer, and is committed to balanced gender, geographical, and minority representation. We particularly welcome applications from women.

Recruitment process

Candidates must have defended their PhD by the time they apply. They should submit their application in electronic form to recruitment.cso@sciencespo.fr, before September 2nd, 2024 with:

- a cover letter, which includes future research projects;
- CV and a list of publications;
- 3 major writing samples;
- a syllabus of a course for college or masters' level, and if available, evaluations of past courses.

Employer Description:

Sciences Po is an institution of higher education and research in the social sciences. Its permanent scientific community – 268 professors and researchers – is structured in 12 entities recognized at the international level, amongst which 6 research units co-governed with the National Center for Scientific Research (CNRS) and 3 research centers accredited for PhD Education, and 5 departments (sociology, political science, history, economics, and law).

A research unit funded by Sciences Po and the CNRS, the Center for the Sociology of Organizations was founded by Michel Crozier in 1964. The CSO works at the crossroads of the sociology of organizations, economic sociology, and the sociology of public policy, in order to rethink the combined transformations of states, markets, and organizations.

Today, the CSO brings together 80 members, including 29 tenured researchers and professors coming from different disciplines of the social and human sciences.

Its research is structured along five axes:

- Law, norms and regulation;
- Work, employment and professions;
- Governance and economic organizations;
- Knowledge, science and expertise;
- Public policy and state reconfigurations.

Job 19992: Assistant Professor of Law, Jurisprudence & Social Thought

Date Position is Available: Summer 2025

Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 3/11/2024 to 8/8/2024
Institution: Amherst College
Department: Dean of Faculty c/o LJST
Region: Northeast
Title: Assistant Professor of Law, Jurisprudence & Social Thought
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor, Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Racial and Ethnic Relations, Law and Society
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:
Amherst College's Department of Law, Jurisprudence and Social Thought invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the area of Race and American Law. The college is committed to cultivating an inclusive and critically engaged educational environment. Nearly one-quarter of Amherst’s students are Pell Grant recipients; close to half of our students are domestic students of color. The successful candidate will demonstrate competence and sensitivity in working in a department in which students are broadly diverse in matters of gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, socioeconomic status, sexual identity, political outlook, and religion.

In searching in the field of race and American law, we seek a colleague who sees the domain broadly through the light of theory, practice, and history. We are interested in candidates who conduct research into, for example: the legal construction of race; the moral and legal debates concerning race-based reparative and redistributive practices; the racial dimensions of carceral practices, understood both domestically and trans-nationally; the racial dimensions of the legal construction of space; the role that racial-thinking has played in the construction of immigration policy and the very idea of “Americanness”; how matters of race inform issues of environmental justice; and how the American legal response to the legacy of slavery compares and contrasts with that of other nations with a history of chattel slavery (eg. Brazil).

Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester and supervision of senior honors projects. We welcome applications from persons trained in the social sciences, the humanities, and/or law. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching are interdisciplinary. The position requires a Ph.D. (candidates must have the Ph.D. degree in hand or all requirements for the degree fulfilled by the start of the appointment) or a J.D. The start date for the position is July 1, 2025. To apply, candidates are asked to submit electronically (https://apply.interfolio.com/142507) a cover letter addressed to Professor Lawrence Douglas, a curriculum vitae, a sample of their scholarship, a teaching statement, and three confidential letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2024, and will continue until the position is filled. Amherst College is a private undergraduate liberal arts college with 1,800 students and more than 200 faculty members. Located in the Connecticut River Valley of western Massachusetts, Amherst participates with Hampshire, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts in the Five-College Consortium.

Job 19991: Visiting Assistant Professor of Sociolology

Date Position is Available: Fall 2024

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 3/11/2024 to 4/10/2024

Institution: Augsburg University
Department: Department of Sociology

Region: All US Regions

Title: Visiting Assistant Professor of Sociolology

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor

Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Tenure Track

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas, Criminology/Delinquency

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology at Augsburg University invites candidates to apply for a full-time visiting Assistant Professor of Sociology position. This one-year position will begin in August 2024.

The Sociology Department offers undergraduate majors and minors in the field and is affiliated with the Urban Studies Program. We are committed to excellence in teaching, as well as scholarship and service. The successful candidate will contribute to a diverse community of learners through excellence in teaching, conducting research, mentoring students, and by engaging with the Sociology Department, their profession, and the wider community.

We are searching for a faculty member who will teach Introduction to Sociology, as well as three electives that complement what we currently offer in the major, such as Introduction to Criminology, Juvenile Delinquency (upper-division), Protest and Social Change, Social Problems, Deviance and Social Control, etc. Applicants should provide examples of how their specialties will complement existing strengths in the Sociology Department and Urban Studies Program. The teaching load is seven courses over two semesters. There are no service expectations for visiting faculty, though the successful candidate will be expected to continue their scholarship and to contribute to student success through their work.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. (or international equivalent) in Sociology or related field, such as Criminology, is preferred, though ABD candidates will be considered. Strong candidates will have demonstrated an ability to teach undergraduate courses in Sociology and Criminology, a commitment to student-centered teaching practices, and research experience.

Application Instructions and Requirements

To apply for this position, please upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae (including a list of courses taught), unofficial copy of graduate school transcript, statement of teaching philosophy and approach, and a statement of research interests. The cover letter should address your ability to effectively teach a diverse student body and how your qualifications and experiences would contribute to advancing Augsburg University's Mission, and enhancing the Department of Sociology.

As part of the online application process, you will be asked to provide the names of three professional references, ideally at least one of whom can address your teaching or teaching potential. If your application advances, you will be notified prior to Augsburg contacting your references. We may also request additional materials at that stage. We will begin reviewing complete applications on March 18th, 2024. The position will remain open until filled. Official transcripts are required at the time of hire.

Employer Description:

Augsburg University is committed to providing equal employment opportunity to all applicants and employees regardless of their race, color, creed, religion, gender, age, national origin, familial status, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status or public assistance status, or any other characteristic protected by federal, state, or local law.

If you need a reasonable accommodation to complete our application process, please contact our Human Resources Department at phone number: 612-330-1098 or email: hr@augsburg.edu.

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Other, Academic Positions: Associate Professor, Academic Positions: Full Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenured
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas, Open to All Specialty Areas
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

The College of Arts & Sciences (COAS) at Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University–Worldwide Campus (ERAU-W) seeks a dynamic, nationally recognized academic leader who will serve as chair for the Department of Behavioral and Social Sciences (BSS). This is an on-site position at Embry-Riddle Worldwide Headquarters in Daytona Beach, FL. This position will include a tenured faculty appointment at the associate professor or professor rank. As a member of the dean’s leadership team and a tenured faculty member in the college, the successful candidate will teach one course per year and maintain an exemplary level of research and scholarly activity.

A Ph.D. degree in a behavioral or social sciences discipline clearly connected to the department’s programs and courses is required. Applicants should have a demonstrated record that will qualify them for appointment to a tenured faculty position at the Associate Professor or Professor rank, preferably with work that emphasizes the interdisciplinary nature of the behavioral and social sciences.

The ideal candidate will be a well-established scholar in a field relevant to the department with a clear vision for supporting the growth of the Master of Science in Human Factors, the Master of Science in Occupational Safety Management, and the Bachelor of Science in Safety Management programs.

The candidate will have demonstrated skills in leadership, project management, development of personnel, strategic planning, and budget management. The position also requires an ability to work collaboratively with internal and external constituents as a member of the department, college, and university. Additionally, candidates should have experience with a broad range of innovative methods of instruction and assessment. While this position will be based at Worldwide Headquarters in Daytona Beach, FL, department faculty are located around the world and work remotely. As such, candidates will be highly adept at digital communication and proficient at motivating and leading virtual teams.

Reporting to the dean, the BSS department chair’s responsibilities include but are not limited to the following:

- Represent departmental needs and issues on the dean’s leadership team and implement college priorities in the department
- Provide comprehensive leadership to and represent the department under the supervision of the dean
- Guide the development of the department according to the college’s Strategic Guidance that connects to the university’s Strategic Plan
- Manage faculty workload and travel budgets
- Offer mentorship, guidance, and recommendations in the faculty promotion and tenure process
- Serve as the intermediary between department faculty and college administration
- Evaluate teaching and performance for full-time faculty and a large pool of adjunct faculty
- Hire adjunct faculty
- Work with administrative specialists on course scheduling
- Ensure the quality of curriculum and courses
- Support the development and growth of programs

About the College of Arts & Sciences:

Based on its Strategic Guidance, the College of Arts & Sciences at ERAU-W develops and supports career-ready graduates and advances all students to be lifelong learners and leaders in their professional disciplines. The college’s vision is to be a destination for multidisciplinary studies and impactful collaborative research as well as continue to be a national leader in general education, developing opportunities for our diverse student population to fulfill their educational goals and become responsive, responsible global citizens.

The college comprises four departments: Behavioral and Social Sciences; Humanities and Communication; Mathematics, Science, and Technology; and Security and Emergency Services. The college delivers courses online as well as on several sites across the United States and around the world. Currently, four graduate and five undergraduate programs are offered, as well as several undergraduate minors.
The Department of Behavioral and Social Sciences serves as the home for the MS in Human Factors and Occupational Safety Management; the BS in Safety Management; Minors in Economics, Industrial/Organizational Psychology, and Occupational Safety and Health; and provides foundational economics, psychology, and safety courses that support general education requirements and prerequisites to other Worldwide degree programs.

The college also delivers the general education program to all Worldwide Campus students, providing over 2,000 sections annually, with a focus on developing students’ capacity in critical thinking, quantitative reasoning, information literacy, communication, scientific literacy, cultural literacy, technological literacy, and collaboration. The Worldwide Campus has an enrollment of more than 23,000 students, delivering courses globally online via Canvas, synchronously via EagleVision to both homes and classrooms, face-to-face at over 130 locations, and in a blended format.

Embry-Riddle's Worldwide Campus has earned a top five ranking during the past nine years for Best Online Bachelor’s programs from U.S. News & World Report.

About Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University:

Join our global community and embark on a journey of academic excellence and limitless possibilities. Employees working more than 30 hours a week can enjoy medical, dental and vision benefits, an amazing retirement plan with immediate vesting that includes a 6% gift and up to 4% match and free tuition for employees and their immediate family members. To find out more about our benefits and why ERAU has been named a “Great College to Work For” for 13 consecutive years, visit our careers page.

Required qualifications:

- An earned doctorate in a Behavioral or Social Sciences discipline clearly connected to the Department’s programs and courses.
- A demonstrated record that will qualify candidates for appointment to a tenured faculty position at the Associate Professor or Professor rank, preferably with work that emphasizes the interdisciplinary nature of the social sciences.
- Well-established scholar in a field relevant to the department with a clear vision for supporting the growth of the Master of Science in Human Factors, the Master of Science in Occupational Safety Management, and the Bachelor of Science in Safety Management programs.
- Demonstrated skills in leadership, project management, development of personnel, strategic planning, and budget management.
- Ability to work collaboratively with internal and external constituents as a member of the department, college, and university.
- Experience with a broad range of innovative methods of instruction and assessment.
- Must be highly adept at digital communication and proficient at motivating and leading virtual teams.

Application process:

Review of applications will begin on March 15, 2024, and will continue until the position is filled; the expected start date will be no later than August 1, 2024. Applications should include a current CV and a detailed letter discussing experience, academic qualifications, and background that demonstrate a fit with the college and the position. Selected candidates will be required to secure three professional references as part of the review process.

Job 19988: PRODiG+ Post-doctoral Fellow in Sociology

Date Position is Available: Fall 2024

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 3/7/2024 to 4/6/2024

Institution: Binghamton University
Department: Sociology
Region: Northeast

Title: PRODiG+ Post-doctoral Fellow in Sociology

Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: Post-doctoral Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Eligible

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Criminology/Delinquency

Salary Range: $70,000 - $79,999

Job Description:

The Sociology Department at Binghamton University is seeking applicants for a PRODiG+ Postdoctoral Fellowship. The Fellowship is for two years, with a teaching obligation of one course per year in the area of the Fellow's research and comes with a highly competitive compensation package. The preferred area of research specialization is Critical Carceral Studies and Race. The department will strongly support the fellow's research with the goal of converting their position to a tenure track assistant professor at the conclusion of the fellowship. The standard teaching load for tenured and tenure-track faculty in the Sociology Department is 2/2.

The Fellowship is part of the SUNY-wide PRODiG+ initiative which aims to: 1) increase the system's number and share of excellent diverse faculty committed to advancing the ideals of diversity, equity, and inclusion and 2) strengthen the retention and support for these faculty. Through the PRODiG+ program, SUNY expects to generate a pipeline of over 400 postdoctoral fellows to enter tenure-track faculty positions over the next 10 years. Eligible candidates should demonstrate personal, academic, and/or work experience engaging with diversity, equity, and inclusion and/or a commitment to facilitating and enhancing diversity, equity, and inclusion efforts in the campus community. Also, candidates must be eligible to work in the United States without a visa sponsorship, and expect to complete a Ph.D. in Sociology or related discipline from an accredited institution prior to the start date.

The Fellow would join a sociology department distinguished by its global breadth and historical bent. They would also join a growing cohort of scholars in the department and across Harpur College of Arts and Sciences who are committed to conducting research on race, racism, ethnicity, social justice, power and structures of inequality in their diverse fields of specialization. We welcome historical, mixed methods and/or quantitative approaches. We conceive critical carceral studies expansively to include carceral practices in the US and globally, past and present, and the abolition projects they have provoked. Some teaching experience is preferred.

Employer Description:

Binghamton University is a premier public R1 research institution in the State University of New York (SUNY) system that unites more than 130 broadly interdisciplinary educational programs with some of the most vibrant research in the nation. Our unique character - shaped by our mission, outstanding academics, facilities, and community life - promotes extraordinary student success, research, and service; Binghamton University is where our students, faculty and staff thrive.

Working at Binghamton University is more than about having a great job - it is about having the opportunity to flourish in an exciting, engaging environment. Our faculty and staff appreciate Binghamton's collegial and inclusive culture and its commitment to excellence, education, innovation and civic engagement. Our diverse campus community contributes to our success.
Binghamton merges rigorous academics, distinguished faculty, exceptional staff, and ultramodern facilities to engage and challenge its 18,000+ students. The high-achieving Binghamton student body also represents a great diversity of life experiences, from first-generation college-goers to international students. Beyond their talent, these classmates share a desire to shape the future through technology, insight, intellectual exploration, and community service.

We are an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer, and in keeping with this commitment, we welcome all to apply, including veterans and persons with disabilities.

Job Description:
The Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of Richmond invites applications for a full-time, one-year visiting assistant professorship in Sociology to begin August 2024. This is a non-tenure-track appointment, renewable annually for up to three years, contingent upon performance, budget, and continued need. We seek candidates with demonstrated teaching excellence and a strong commitment to pedagogy that values diversity and inclusivity. We seek applicants whose specializations complement those of existing faculty members in sociology and who are able to teach Introduction to Sociology and courses broadly within the field of Gender and Sexuality. The teaching load is six courses per year: three or four sections of Sociology 101 (“Foundations of Society: Introduction to Sociological Analysis”) and two or three advanced undergraduate courses.

Experience with instructional technologies is required. PhD is expected prior to appointment.

For more information on the Department of Sociology and Anthropology, please visit: https://socanth.richmond.edu/

Applicants should apply online and submit the following materials: a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, and a 2-3 page teaching statement. The teaching statement should articulate the candidate’s teaching philosophy, interests, experience, and performance, as well as involvement in and commitment to inclusive pedagogy. Candidates for this position may be asked, at a later date, to provide the names and contact information for three references who will be asked to submit letters of recommendation. Review of applications will commence on April 1, 2024 and continue until the position is filled. Questions about the position should be addressed to the Chair of the Search Committee, Dr. Jeffrey Hass (jhass@richmond.edu).

Employer Description:
The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With approximately 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and more than 90% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students “to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society.”

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment.

Job Description:
Washington, DC (Pew Research Center)

Position Summary
This is an opportunity for approximately eight weeks during the summer of 2024. Social science graduate students with an interest in religion, demography and/or international research are strongly encouraged to apply.

You will assist demography of religion team members on research related to the religious composition and demographic characteristics of religious groups in every nation for 2010 and 2020 (updating earlier work, such as http://www.pewforum.org/2012/12/18/global-religious-landscape-exec/).

Tasks may include making fertility estimates for religious groups, assessing how new estimates of religious change between 2010 and 2020 compare with recent projections (https://www.pewresearch.org/religion/2015/04/02/religious-projections-2010-2050/), as well as verifying estimates, source lists, and methodological descriptions.

You will estimate/verify religious composition and fertility data based on analysis of survey data and census micro-samples as well as from published data and customized tables from national statistical agencies. This research will be incorporated into new reports measuring religious change.

Geographical requirements
Pew Research Center offices in downtown, Washington DC will change locations during the summer and for a few weeks, all staff will work remotely. Coming into the office during other weeks is optional. Full-time Pew staff usually work in the office on Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

This position can be 100% remote. Candidates must be able to legally work in the United States and reside in one of the 17 places the Center is set up as an employer: Colorado, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Virginia or Wisconsin.

Compensation
Pay for this position is $25/hour for 300 hours (about 8 weeks at 37.5 hours/week).

Primary Responsibilities
• Analyze and extract data from demographic surveys, census datasets and general population surveys.
• Write up results.
• Assist in ongoing team projects.

Education/Training/Experience
• Training with descriptive statistics is required.
• Training in demography and/or the social scientific study of religion is desirable.
• Background in data management and analysis preferred.
• Experience analyzing census and survey data is desired.
• Experience with Stata, R, or other statistical software required.
• Current enrollment in a social science graduate program (such as sociology, demography, economics or political science) is preferred.

Knowledge & Skills Requirements
• Interest in international research.
• A "numbers person" with strong quantitative and statistical skills.
• Detail oriented with exacting standards to maintain accuracy and impartiality in all work products.
• Strong verbal and written communications skills.
• Interest in expanding skills to cover new analytical tools and methods.
• Ability to work well in a team setting.
• Ability to balance numerous tasks simultaneously and meet tight deadlines.
• Strong quantitative skills as well as the ability to write clearly and think critically.

FLSA Status: Non-exempt

Location

Pew Research Center staff may work virtually from remote locations up to three days in a standard work week. Staff are required to be present in the Center's Washington, D.C., office on two core days weekly (Tues. and Wed.). This internship may be 100% remote.

Application Procedure

Click on the Apply button, and complete required fields. Both cover letter and resume are required.

When requested, please upload a copy of your resume/cv, as well as a copy of your cover letter in the section labeled Resume/Cover Letter. If the documents have successfully uploaded, you should see 2 attached files beneath the "Drop files here" box. Please make sure you have uploaded a resume AND a cover letter before moving on to the next page.

EEO:

Pew Research Center makes employment decisions without regard to age, sex, ethnicity, religion, disability, marital status, sexual orientation or gender identity, military/veteran status, or any other basis prohibited by applicable law. We champion inclusion, diversity and equity, and we encourage applications from candidates who represent a variety of backgrounds, perspectives, and skills.

Salary Range: $60,000 - $69,999

Job Description:

Political Science/Legal Studies Lecturer

Job no: 522578
Work type: Faculty Full Time
Location: UMass Amherst
Department: Political Science
Union: MSP
Categories: Faculty, College of Social and Behavioral Sciences

About UMass Amherst

UMass Amherst, the Commonwealth's flagship campus, is a nationally ranked public research university offering a full range of undergraduate, graduate and professional degrees. The University sits on nearly 1,450-acres in the scenic Pioneer Valley of Western Massachusetts and offers a rich cultural environment in a bucolic setting close to major urban centers. In addition, the University is part of the Five Colleges (including Amherst College, Hampshire College, Mount Holyoke College, and Smith College), which adds to the intellectual energy of the region.

Job Description

The interdisciplinary Legal Studies Program of the Department of Political Science at the University of Massachusetts Amherst is accepting applications for a full-time (academic year) non-tenure track lecturer. We welcome applications from scholars whose teaching and research focuses on law and society in the Global South, specifically, Africa, Asia, Latin America, and/or the Middle East. The successful candidate will offer courses that take a regional approach to law and society (e.g., Law and Society in Africa), and/or courses that focus on a substantive area (e.g., gender, sexuality, punishment, Indigenous rights, property law, policing, etc.) with a focus on the Global South.

This is a one-year position, with the expectation of renewal based on programmatic needs, funding, and the candidate's performance. It is expected to start on September 1, 2024. The teaching load for the position is 3-3, including upper division classes of the successful candidate's choosing, as well as the potential for joining the Introduction to Legal Studies course rotation. Teaching decisions will be made in consultation with the Director of the Legal Studies Program.

The successful candidate may also participate in the New Directions in Law and Society Conference, to be held on the UMass Amherst Campus on September 27, 2024.

Requirements

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science, Sociology, Anthropology, Criminology, or other applicable discipline by the appointment start date.

Additional Information

Legal Studies at UMass is the oldest undergraduate liberal arts program for the study of law and society in the country, and the only one in New England at a public university. The Program is housed in the Department of Political Science and maintains its own distinct undergraduate major. The expanding Legal Studies Program is a center for ambitious intellectual activity and research that addresses important questions about the place of law in societies around the world while helping to produce the next generation of social science law and society scholars. The College of Social and Behavioral Sciences is the institutional home of the Law and Society Association, the world's premier interdisciplinary legal studies organization.
Application Instructions
Applicants should submit the following:

- a letter of interest
- curriculum vitae (CV)
- evidence of quality teaching (such as a teaching statement and/or summaries of teaching evaluations)
- names and contact information for three references who are willing to submit letters upon request through the UMass online application system.

Inquiries about the position can be addressed to Rebecca Hamlin, Director of Legal Studies (rhamlin@umass.edu). Review of applications will begin April 1, 2024, and will continue until the position is filled.

The University is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The University of Massachusetts Amherst is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Because broad diversity is essential to an inclusive climate and critical to the University's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will holistically assess the many qualifications of each applicant and favorably consider an individual's record working with students and colleagues with broadly diverse perspectives, experiences, and backgrounds in educational, research or other work activities. We will also favorably consider experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic career and degree.

Job 19983: Assistant Professor

Date Position is Available: Winter 2025

Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 3/4/2024 to 6/2/2024
Institution: National University of Singapore
Department: Southeast Asian Studies
Region: Asia
Title: Assistant Professor
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Religion, Science and Technology
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

The National University of Singapore is seeking to fill a tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor in the Department of Southeast Asian Studies. We are particularly interested in recruiting scholars who will enjoy the opportunity of working collaboratively with colleagues from different disciplines. The Department is the only Southeast Asian Studies department at a world-class university located in Southeast Asia itself, a distinction that provides faculty with unique research access as well as ensuring a highly diverse student body.

We seek a scholar who specialises in one or more of the following fields: digital and media studies (including digital humanities); science, technology, and society; economics (particularly with a focus on the political economy, ASEAN regionalism and/or China-Southeast Asia relations), and/or religious studies. The disciplinary focus is broad, as we are particularly interested in applicants whose research and teaching are multi- or inter-disciplinary. Priority will be given to applicants with a regional focus on Mainland Southeast Asia or the Philippines. Candidates should have expertise in Southeast Asian languages relevant to their research.

The successful applicant will be expected to take up the position by January 2025 at the earliest, or latest by August 2025.

Job Requirements and Responsibilities

Candidates should show evidence of strong teaching and publication records. In addition to teaching, the successful applicant will be expected to supervise undergraduate and graduate students.

Application Process

Interested applicants should submit an application dossier consisting of the following:

1. Cover letter explaining your interest in the position and how your qualifications and plans would contribute to the long-term development and enhancement of the Department of Southeast Asian Studies (maximum 2 pages)
2. Up to date Curriculum Vitae
3. Concise statement of your research trajectory thus far and publication plans (maximum 2 pages)
4. Concise statement of your teaching experience and interests, as well as possible courses you are able to offer that would enrich the teaching of the Department (maximum 2 pages)
5. Evidence of teaching experience (course reviews, sample syllabi, teaching awards)
6. A list of three referees, including the applicant’s main PhD supervisor/advisor (names, contact details and applicant’s relationship to them). Only referees of shortlisted applicants will be invited to submit reference letters.

Candidates should submit all application materials online via the NUS Careers Portal and addressed to:

Chair, Search Committee
Department of Southeast Asian Studies
Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences
National University of Singapore

Application Timeline
Candidates should submit all application materials by 15 June 2024. Shortlisted applicants will be invited for a campus visit from August 2024.

Other Information

Remuneration will be internationally competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. The successful candidate may also enjoy research funding, housing benefits, relocation allowance, and other benefits depending on the type and duration of appointment and citizenship.

Successful talented early career candidates with excellent research track records may be considered for the NUS Presidential Young Professorship (NUS PYP) award. For further details, please refer to the NUS PYP website.
