TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface
V

I. An Introduction to Assessment of Student Learning
   A. The Meaning of Assessment of Student Learning
   B. Forces Stimulating Assessment
   C. Primary Justifications for Assessment
   D. The Key Components of Assessment
   E. The Paramount Role of Faculty in Assessment
   F. Nine Principles of Good Practice For Assessing Student Learning

II. Creating an Effective Sociology Assessment Plan
   A. Step #1: The Mission Statement
   B. Step #2: Learning Goals and Learning Objectives
   C. Step #3: Assessment Mechanisms
      1. Direct Measures of Learning
         a. Capstone Courses
         b. Course-Embedded Assessment
         c. Departmentally-Developed or Nationally-Normed Tests
         d. Student Portfolios
         e. Research Papers/Major Projects
      2. Indirect Measures of Learning
         a. Surveys/Focus Groups of Current Students and Graduating Seniors
         b. Surveys/Focus Groups of Alumni
         c. Surveys of Graduate Schools and/or Employers
         d. Monitoring of Students’ Academic Honors, Awards, Grants, Publications, Presentations, and Other Indicators of Achievement
         e. External Reviews

III. Conducting Meaningful Assessment
   A. Model #1: The Nichols Model
      Stage #1: Identification of a learning goal from the department’s Assessment Plan
      Stage #2: Identification of one or more learning objectives associated with the learning goal in the department’s Assessment Plan
      Stage #3: Identification of at least two assessment mechanisms (from the department’s Assessment Plan) that will be used to examine the selected objective(s)
      Stage #4: Identification of the results of the application of the assessment mechanisms Stage #5: Identification of efforts that will be made to enhance student learning on this objective (“Closing the Loop”)
   B. The Relationship of Assessment to Department Goals

IV. Bibliography
26

V. Appendices-Sample Goals, Mission Statements, Processes from Sociology Departments
   1: Mission Statement, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Bucknell University
   2: Mission Statement, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, SUNY-Creating an Effective Assessment Plan for the Sociology Major ASA Task Force on the Undergraduate Major, 2005

Cortland
3: Mission Statement, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Denison University 33
4: Mission Statement, Department of Sociology, University of Minnesota 34
5: Useful Verbs in Writing Learning Objectives 36
6: A Classification of Learning Outcomes Dimensions 37
7: Learning Goals and Outcomes, Liberal Learning and the Sociology Major Updated [see also page 77] 41
8: Learning Goals and Objectives, California State University-Fresno 44
9: Learning Goals and Objectives, Central Michigan University 47
10: Learning Goals and Objectives, Roanoke College 49
11: Learning Goals and Objectives, Skidmore College 52
12: The Virginia Commonwealth University WEAVE Model 55

VI. Assessment Template for Student Learning Goals (goals from Liberal Learning and the Sociology Major 2004) 57