Public Sociologies

As mirror and conscience of society, sociology defines, promotes and informs public debate about class and racial inequalities, new gender regimes, environmental degradation, multiculturalism, technological revolutions, market fundamentalism, and state and non-state violence. More than ever the world needs public sociologies – sociologies that transcend the academy and engage wider audiences. Our potential publics are multiple, ranging from media audiences to policy makers, from think tanks to NGOs, from silenced minorities to social movements. Teaching is central to public sociology: students are our first public for they carry sociology into all walks of life. Academic sociology also needs the world. In stimulating debate about issues of the day, public sociologies inspire and revitalize our own discipline as it also connects us to other disciplines. While public sociologies charge the academy with mission and zeal, our professional competencies in theory and research give legitimacy, direction and substance to public sociologies.

Today, public sociologies face four daunting challenges.

- To defend the very idea of the public, increasingly threatened by privatization programs, multinational firms, mass media, unfettered commerce, and national security regimes.
- To harness sociology’s longstanding critical imagination, reminding us that the world could be different. As they turn private troubles into public issues, public sociologies should challenge the world as we know it, exposing the gap between what is and what could be.
- To be inclusive and democratic, building bridges open to all and without tolls, bridges that connect multiple communities within and outside sociology.
- To recognize, learn from, and engage with public sociologies in different countries. We should build bridges that span the world—level bridges with two-way traffic.

Annual Meeting Schedule

The official days of the 2004 ASA Annual Meeting are Saturday to Tuesday, August 14-17, 2004. Program sessions are scheduled on all four days of the meeting at both hotels. There are also pre-meeting activities scheduled on Friday, August 13, and the meeting will officially open with the Opening Plenary Session and Welcoming Reception that evening.

Most daytime program sessions are 1 hour and 40 minutes in length, followed by a 20-minute break. Exceptions are clearly noted in the detailed program schedule. The turnover schedule is as follows:

- 8:30 a.m.-10:10 a.m.
- 10:30 a.m.-12:10 p.m.
- 12:30 p.m.-2:10 p.m.
- 2:30 p.m.-4:10 p.m.
- 4:30 p.m.-6:10 p.m.

The 6:30 p.m. evening time slot is normally allocated for Section receptions, member-sponsored activities, and meetings of other groups. All sessions end by 4:10 p.m. on the fourth day.

Please refer to the Program Schedule for a daily listing of all sessions, meetings, and social events. Session presiders and committee chairs are requested to see that sessions and meetings end on time to avoid conflicts with subsequent activities scheduled into the same room and to allow participants time to transit between facilities.

Program Highlights

Greeting from the 2004 Program Committee

Dear Colleagues!

The Program Committee for the San Francisco Meetings knew it had an impossible task on its hands—to compete with the Tenderloin, China Town, sailing in the Bay, cruising through Marin County, swimming to Alcatraz, inspecting museums, picnicking in Golden Gate Park, being serenaded on the Lake Merritt Gondola, sipping through the wine country, and so much more. So we have planned a special feast to tempt you back into the hotel. Here are a few highlights from the menu.

For the first time, we will mark both the beginning and the end of our feast. We open with a co-sponsored plenary on W.E.B. Du Bois—Preeminent Public Sociologist of the 20th century. The idea is to establish the terms and questions of public sociology through African American interrogations of the extraordinary life of W.E. B. Du Bois. That’s how we begin.

We end four days later with New York Times columnist and Princeton economist, Paul Krugman, discussing the future of “neoliberalism” with two-term President of Brazil, Fernando Henrique Cardoso. It will be followed by a closing reception and fireside chat with President Cardoso – on the curious matter of being sociologist as President. On Saturday evening Mary Robinson, former President of Ireland, former High-Commissioner for Human Rights at the United Nations, now Director of the Ethical Globalization Initiative, will talk of pressing human rights here and elsewhere, and on Monday evening the acclaimed novelist and activist, Arundhati Roy, will be addressing the conference on “public power in the age of globalization.”

We have invited these distinguished figures to our feast in recognition of their engaging and challenging social visions.

Sandwiched in between we have two high-profile plenaries: the one on “Speaking to Powers: A Global Conversation,” with distinguished sociologists from around the world, and the other on “Speaking to Publics: Limits and Possibilities,” with a prominent array of American public sociologists. Throughout the conference we have striven to mix foreign and indigenous scholars in order to better understand the complexities and contradictions of public sociology, which looks entirely different in different countries. With the very generous support of the Ford Foundation, as well as from the Andrew W. Mellon Programs in Latin American Sociology and the Institute of International Studies at the University of California, Berkeley, we have been able to invite over thirty renowned sociologists from other lands, many of whom will appear on one of the seven featured Ford Panels on International Public Sociology. You might call it a mini-World Sociological Forum.

This year we have consolidated the thematic and special sessions into 60 thematic panels on “Public Sociologies,” that range from the very local to the global, that encompass examples from home and abroad. Perusing the list I hope you will agree that they cater to every taste—pro and con public sociology. California is said to be the bellwether of the nation, so pay attention to the Regional Spotlight Sessions and the Tours that bring together the most informed intellectuals, journalists and sociologists in the state to discuss matters of pressing local and national concern. And if your taste is for discussion and debate you might want to participate in one or more of the four Open Forums, dealing with Assessment of Undergraduate Sociology Programs, next year’s ASA Centennial Meeting, Same-Sex Marriage, and the War in Iraq. Each Open Forum will be led by experts in the field.

The main banquet, of course, will be the regular sessions, including the enormous range of workshops that the ASA puts on every year for academics and non-academics. Here we find all manner of participants, some on their first voyage, some old hands, others clamoring from the audience—each discovering the other, often for the first time. There is a home for all in one or more of our 43 sections, on one of the plethora of panels and roundtables. The sections are the heart-beat of our association, its high voltage core. Section membership has never been so high, total paper submissions were way up! We are expecting record participation with over 3,000 presentations and more than 4,500 participants.

In between courses, enjoy dancing in the San Francisco streets. And in the Hilton and Parc 55, you can dance to the rhythm of Public Sociology! Bring your family and your lovers! See you there!

Major Plenary Sessions

The Annual Meeting theme of “Public Sociologies” is being addressed from the Opening Plenary Session on August 13 to the Closing Plenary on August 17.

Session 5, Friday, August 13, 6:30-8:30 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A
Organizer and Presider: Michael Burawoy, University of California, Berkeley
Panel: Aldon D. Morris, Northwestern University
Patricia Hill Collins, University of Cincinnati
Gerald Horne, University of Houston
Manning Marable, Columbia University

Four distinguished scholars discuss the lessons to be extracted from W.E.B. Du Bois’s long career as a preeminent public sociologist—in and out of academia, editor and journalist, activist and politician, Marxist and Pan-African.

Speaking to Powers: A Global Conversation
Session 71, Saturday, August 14, 12:30-2:15 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Ballroom 5-6
Organizer and Presider: Immanuel Wallerstein, Yale University
Panel: Johan Galtung, Transcend, An International Peace and Development Organization
Pablo Gonzalez Casanova, National Autonomous University, Mexico
Paul E. Starr, Princeton University
Alain Touraine, Ecoles des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales, France

A conversation among four sociologists from different countries (France, Norway, United States and Mexico) who have tried in various ways, to use their knowledge to affect the wider political process and who will discuss what they have learned from this endeavor.

Speaking to Publics: Limits and Possibilities
Session 379, Monday, August 16, 12:30-2:15 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Ballroom 5-6
Organizer and Presider: Bernice A. Pescosolido, Indiana University
Presentation of the Decade of Behavior 2004 Research Award to David R. Williams, University of Michigan
Panel: Barbara Ehrenreich, Author
William Julius Wilson, Harvard University
Frances Fox Piven, City University of New York
Eric Wanner, Russell Sage Foundation

What publics can sociologists address? Are they disappearing? What are the ways of addressing them? Why should we bother to address them? Four commentators who straddle the boundaries of sociology from different directions discuss these questions and their own experiences with diverse publics.

The Future of Neoliberalism
Session 571, Tuesday, August 17, 5:00-7:00 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A
Presider: Juliet Schor, Boston College
Speakers: Paul Krugman, Princeton University and The New York Times
Fernando Henrique Cardoso, Former President of Brazil and Sao Paulo University

Both Paul Krugman and Fernando Henrique Cardoso built their academic reputations for contributions to the theory of the international economy—the one an economist of trade and the other a sociologist of dependency. Both became public figures in the era of neoliberal ascendency—the one a vitriolic columnist for The New York Times and the other Minister of Finance and then President of Brazil. In the light of their background in social science and their high profile political engagements, how do they view the future of politics and the market and, thus, of the world?

Address by President Burawoy

ASA Business Meeting

The ASA Business Meeting is an opportunity for members of the Association to discuss important issues facing the discipline and profession. Members are encouraged to attend this meeting convened by the ASA President.

Summary reports on the Association and its key activities this year will be given by President Michael Burawoy and Executive Officer Sally T. Hillsman. The agenda also includes a discussion on Institutionalizing Public Sociologies, the title of a new ASA Task Force. The Task Force seeks input from members about the issues it should address and is eager to learn from members engaged in public sociologies. The meeting concludes with the traditional transfer of the gavel, marking the transition of duties from President Burawoy to incoming President Troy Duster.

This open forum is an opportunity for members to share their insights, reactions, and suggestions. Please consult the flyer in your meeting folder for details on the Business Meeting agenda.

As noted in the May/June issue of Footnotes and the posting of meeting information on the ASA website, members seeking to present formal resolutions should be prepared to provide background materials on the issue to be discussed. Members who missed the August 1 submission deadline may bring their resolutions and supporting background documentation to the ASA Office in the California Room on the Ballroom Level at the Hilton San Francisco by 3:00 p.m. on Monday, August 16.

All meeting attendees are invited to join ASA officers, Council members, and staff for continental breakfast and discussion at the ASA Business Meeting on Tuesday, August 17, 7:00 - 8:15 a.m. in Continental Ballroom 4 at the Hilton San Francisco.

Ford Panels in International Public Sociology

The term “public sociology” was invented in the United States to criticize and counter mounting professionalization. In many countries of today the term public sociology is not necessary because sociology is presumed to be public. Where sociology is so public, however, it is also often vulnerable to political pressures and even banning. In virtually all countries the boundaries between public and professional sociologies are more fluid and permeable than in the United States. These seven panels bring representatives from different regions of the world to discuss the distinctive configuration of national public sociologies and the issues they take up.

Special Acknowledgment

The America Sociological Association wishes to acknowledge a generous grant from the Ford Foundation which paid for over 30 scholars from distant lands to join us in San Francisco.

In addition, financial contributions from the Mellon Foundation, the Institute of International Studies at the University of California, Berkeley, the Andrew W. Mellon Programs in Latin American Sociology, and Indiana University made possible special events and guest speakers.
Thematic Sessions

The 2004 Program Committee took a new approach to the development of Thematic Sessions. Rather than limit exploration of the meeting theme to the usual 16 invited panels (one per time slot), the umbrella was expanded to encompass the allocation for the standard invited Special Session component. As a result of this bold reorganization, all the invited panel sessions in each timeslot will be related in some manner to investigating the meeting theme. This plethora of theme-related sessions is summarized below in four categories which embrace important aspects of “Public Sociologies.”

Making a Difference

One aim of public sociology is to stimulate wide discussion about social policy and its effects. Here sociology enters public debate with its evaluation of policies, such as those designed to reduce economic inequality, environmental pollution, racial and gender discrimination, disease, crime, drug abuse, and so on. Public sociology makes a difference, however, not only by evaluating policy but also by proposing alternative policies in such areas as family, immigration, and education. Finally, public sociology expands the social imagination with more radical alternatives such as basic incomes grants, and experiments in participatory democracy.

25 Years after Love Canal: The Environmental Health and Justice Movements

Session 485, Tuesday, August 17, 10:30 a.m.-12:10 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A
The current valorization of the private and privatization, and the vogue of efficiency and effectiveness, suck the very lifeblood out of public and policy sociology. What are the effects of stripping the state of its public face in such areas as welfare, insurance, health care, industry, and, last but not least, what are the effects of the corporatization of the university? Does privatization also diminish civil society and weaken public arenas for opinion formation, social movements, democratic participation? Defenseless against new forms of public control what happens to private individuals – their bodies and their souls, their identities and their families? What are the implications of the privatization of the public for racial classification, popular culture, and the prosecution of war?

Sociology and Its Publics
What are sociology’s publics? Are there indeed any publics left for sociology — apart from students our first and most important public? Is sociology too “left” to promote debate and discussion beyond the academy? Can we, do we, should we create our own publics when, for example, we conduct intensive research, for example, on social movements? Should we constitute ourselves as a public and with what consequences for the profession? What is the sociology of reaching publics? What role does the media play in linking sociology to its publics? What are the disciplinary antecedents and consequences of engaging publics? Is public sociology necessary for a vital discipline, or, alternatively, does it spell the demise of the discipline? What are the dilemmas for public sociology in such controversial areas as reproductive rights, ethics of science, family policy, sexuality, and affirmative action? What do our founding fathers have to say about the public role of sociology — do they have any relevance for today?

Crossing Borders

As the traffic of people and things across national borders, some legal some illegal, becomes ever heavier, public sociology can no longer confine itself to national publics. Various panels investigate the effects of crossing borders on global publics, specifically the constitution of transnational identities (religious, citizenship, gender), transnational organizations (NGOs, multilateral agencies, corporations), transnational communities or diasporas, transnational social movements (labor, feminism). What are the consequences of violent incursions across borders (terrorism, colonialism, genocide)?

Regional Spotlight

The location of the Annual Meeting in San Francisco, offers attendees a unique perspective on the discipline from a regional standpoint. The location of the Annual Meeting in San Francisco affords meeting attendees a special opportunity to see interesting sites and discuss the diverse political and cultural issues by the Bay. President Michael Burawoy collaborated with Adele Clarke (University of California, San Francisco), Susan Garfin (Sonoma State University), and Steve Zavestoski (University of San Francisco), as a local support committee to propose special panels, develop a program of local tours, prepare a restaurant guide, and write special articles for ASA Footnotes.

To read the special feature articles about San Francisco which have appeared in Footnotes, look for the Public Sociologies booklet in your program tote bag, or visit the Annual Meeting website and click on the San Francisco Footnotes Articles link under the Regional Component. Information on the local tour program appears on page 28. And, don’t forget to look for the outstanding local restaurant guide prepared by Josh Lurie-Turrell and colleagues in the Bay area; each registrant receives a copy of that guide in the program tote bag distributed here in San Francisco.

Take a look below at the interesting Regional Spotlight Sessions on this year’s program.

California Politics, Recall and After: Rebuilding the California Labor Movement—Achievements and Prospects

Session 40, Saturday, August 14, 10:30 a.m.-12:10 p.m.

Renaissance Parc 55, Parc Ballroom II

Organizer and President: Troy Duster, New York University and University of California, Berkeley

Panel: Jackie Goldberg, California State Assembly, 45th District Mark Baldassare, Public Policy Institute of California Peter Schrag, Journalist/Author

In October, 2003, California’s voters recalled a Governor—the only time in a full century that such a major political figure has been successfully recalled from office. Even more striking, his replacement is among the most high-profile screen actors in the world. This panel will examine the social and political implications of these developments, and provide a unique California set of perspectives from a respected survey researcher and opinion pollster, a vigorously engaged politician, and one of the most esteemed political journalists in the state.

Homelessness in San Francisco

Session 121, Saturday, August 14, 4:30-6:10 p.m.

Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 14

Organizer: Teresa Gowan, University of Manchester and University of Minnesota

President: Mitchell Duneier, Princeton University and City University of New York Graduate Center

Punishment, Pathology, and Politics: Defining Homelessness in San Francisco. Teresa Gowan, University of Manchester and University of Minnesota

From “Camp Agnos” to “Care Not Cash”: The Politics of Homelessness in San Francisco. Paul Boden, San Francisco Coalition on Homelessness

A Community of Addicted Bodies: Homeless Heroin Injectors and Public Health in San Francisco. Philippe Bourgois and Jeff Schonberg, University of California, San Francisco

Homelessness in the Context of Changing Configurations of Class, Poverty, and the State. Ida Susser, City University of New York Graduate Center

This panel will use the case of San Francisco to explore the broader sociological significance of "homelessness" as both immediate material condition and administrative category. Under discussion will be the place of both literal street homelessness and "certified homelessness" within contemporary social policy, the changing politics of workfare and homeless activism, and the relationship between the War On Drugs and the marginality and physical disintegration of street addicts.

Multi-culturalism and Youth in the Bay Area: Emerging Identities and Movements

Session 150, Sunday, August 15, 8:30-10:10 a.m.

Renaissance Parc 55, Cervantes Room

Organizer and President: Christopher D. Rhomberg, Yale University

A Voice to Be Heard: Diverse Bay Area Youth Building Community through Arts Activism. Marissa Bloom and Marianne Cariaso, University of California, Santa Cruz

Southeast Asian Youth Doing Community Organizing in Urban Communities. Soo Ah Kwon, University of California, Berkeley

Medicine of Memory: Third World Radicalism in San Francisco and the Politics of Multiracial Unity. Jason Ferreira, University of California, Santa Cruz

This session explores how young people in the Bay Area are experiencing its racial and cultural diversity and what new identities, networks and political movements they are developing. Panelists will speak from a range of perspectives – academic research, grassroots activism and advocacy, and divergent life experiences.

Crime and the City: San Francisco as a Sociological Place in Mystery Novels

Session 192, Sunday, August 15, 10:30 a.m.-12:10 p.m.

Renaissance Parc 55, Barcelona I

Organizer and President: William A. Edwards, University of San Francisco

What can crime fiction writers tell us about the urban environment?

What can we learn about San Francisco as a setting for mystery and intrigue?

Discover San Francisco as a sociological place in crime fiction. Experience the City by the Bay through the sociological imagination of a panel of award winning mystery novelists (Robin Burcell, Joe Gores, John Lescroat, and Eddie Muller) and the mystery critic for the San Francisco Chronicle, David Lazarus.

Rebuilding the California Labor Movement: Achievements and Prospects

Session 270, Sunday, August 15, 2:30-4:10 p.m.

Renaissance Parc 55, DaVinci I

Organizer and President: Ruth Milkman, University of California, Los Angeles

California Labor and Corporate Accountability. Kristen Snow Spalding, California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO

Labor and Politics. Dean Tippis, California State Council, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO

Reinvigorating Our Communities, Renewing Democracy: Labor’s Call for Shared Prosperity. Amy B. Dean, Working Partnerships USA

Immigrant Worker Organizing in California. Renee Saucedo, La Raza Centro Legal

California is at the center of the recent wave of innovation within organized labor and union density is increasing in the state, defying the national trend. The panelists, all key participants in various segments of the new labor movement, will report on their work and share their insights into labor’s recent achievements as well as the challenges that the movement currently faces.

It’s Not Easy Being Green: Medical Marijuana and Community Health Care

Session 310, Monday, August 16, 8:30-10:10 a.m.

Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 3-4

Organizer and President: Keith Saunders, Northeastern University

A Holistic Approach to Healing with Medical Cannabis. Debby
Goldsberry, Americans for Safe Access
Rosenbaum, San Francisco Office, Drug Policy Alliance
WAMM and Patient/Provider Models for Medical Cannabis. Valerie Corral, Womenc’s Alliance for Medical Marijuana Bay Area sociologists and activists assemble to discuss political and cultural struggles over the status of medical marijuana in California, and the formation of patient and advocate communities. The medical marijuana issue encompasses competing visions of medical efficacy, health care delivery, and the roles of patients and caregivers.

The Fate of the Public University: The Case of California
Session 349, Monday, August 16, 10:30 a.m.-12:10 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 2
Organizer and Presider: James L. Wood, San Diego State University
Panel: Neil J. Smelser, University of California, Berkeley
Denise Moreno Ducheny, Senator, California State Senate
Dee Alpert, Senator, California State Senate
Gloria Romero, Senator, California State Senate
The presider will ask panelists to discuss the short- and long-term prospects of public higher education, with a special focus on California. How will political and economic factors affect the likelihood of California being able to continue the promise of the Master Plan of 1960 -- to provide affordable, accessible, quality higher education for every California citizen?

Community Organizing and Urban Development: Innovations in Oakland
Session 429, Monday, August 16, 4:30-6:10 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Mason Room
Organizer and Presider: Isaac W. Martin, University of California, Berkeley
New Organizing Approaches: Actions in Oakland. Gary Delgado, Applied Research Center
The Search for Common Ground: Community Organizers, Community
Builders, and Community Developers in Oakland. Victor Rubin,

Challenging the Market: Organizing and Economic Development in the East Bay. Amaha Kassa, East Bay Alliance for a Sustainable Economy
Organizing for Environmental and Economic Justice. Vivian Chang, Asian Pacific Environmental Network
Discussant: Christopher D. Rhomberg, Yale University
In recent years, local groups in Oakland, California, have pioneered new and innovative models for organizing multi-racial and labor-community alliances, and for combining grassroots activism with urban planning and policy development. In this panel, leading local participants and researchers discuss the ways in which Oaklanders are currently remaking urban community.

Community Empowerment and Sociology
Session 490, Tuesday, August 17, 10:30 a.m.-12:10 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 3-4
Organizer and Presider: Andrew Barlow, University of California, Berkeley
Bridging Cultures: The Skills Required to Cross Domains. Katherine McCafe, Rockefeller Foundation
Community Environmental Policing: New Forms of Public
Participation in Regulation. Dara O’Rourke, University of California, Berkeley
Dilemmas and Challenges in Community Organizing Against Youth Violence. Howard Pinderhughes, University of California Educational Challenges and Latino Community Empowerment. Denise
A. Segura, University of California, Santa Barbara
This session explores the work of sociologists studying and participating in social change organizations in California. Presentations focus on the dilemmas and challenges of community empowerment efforts in the context of legal reform, and how sociologists can inform such efforts. The presentations exemplify the issues being examined by the ASA Task Force on Bridges to the Real World.

Book Panels
These Author Meets Critics sessions and book panels are designed to bring authors of recent books deemed to be important contributions to the discipline together with discussants chosen to provide different viewpoints. The Program Committee selected eight books to be featured on this year’s program.

America’s Newcomers and the Dynamics of Diversity (Russell Sage Foundation, 2003) by Frank D. Bean and Gillian Stevens

13th Annual Research Support Forum
This year marks the 13th anniversary of the Research Support Forum, which features research funding information, data resources, and discussion of science policy issues throughout the Annual Meeting. The Forum begins on Saturday, August 14, with workshops on writing successful grant proposals and the ASA’s Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline small grants program, moves on Sunday, August 15, to sessions key to science policy issues and obtaining or developing sources of support, then turns to data resources and qualitative research proposals on Monday, August 16, concluding that afternoon with advice about funding from foundations.

At the first workshop on Saturday morning, representatives from the National Science Foundation, its regular research and dissertation review committees, and grantees will discuss the proposal development process, elements of a competitive proposal, proposal submission and review, and funding opportunities for graduate students and faculty. Whether seeking federal grants or not, this workshop will be invaluable to those involved in planning research, preparing a proposal, and trying to obtain support.
On Saturday afternoon, the focus shifts to the ASA’s Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline (FAD), which provides small grants for ground-breaking research initiatives and related activities. FAD is made possible through a matching grant to ASA from the National Science Foundation and administered by the ASA. Three award recipients and the program director will encourage open discussion of questions such as: What are the chances of winning? What kinds of proposals get funded? What makes research “cutting edge” and significant for sociology as a field? How do you emphasize the scientific, social, and educational impact of the proposal? And, how do you deal with suggestions and criticisms if you are going to revise and resubmit?

On Sunday, the day begins with what you should know about navigating Federal support for sociological research. Program representatives from leading federal science agencies will discuss funding goals and priorities, highlight patterns of support, and offer advice on how to best develop competitive research proposals. Potential research grant applicants—from novice to expert—will benefit from this overview.

Next is a special session that provides a forum to look at science policy and national priorities, and opportunities for the social sciences. Led by Sally T. Hillsman, ASA Executive Officer and past deputy director of the National Institute of Justice), a panel comprised of Virginia S. Cain (Office of Behavioral and Social Sciences, National Institutes of Health), Christine A. Bachrach (National Institute on Child Health and Human Development), and Paul Jennings (Department of Homeland Security) will provide a briefing on the current state of resources, the policy issues on the table, and the potential constraints on funding for sociology and other social science fields.

A key part of the Research Support Forum is a three-hour poster session on “Opportunities for Research Support,” scheduled for Sunday afternoon. This exhibit session includes public and private funding representatives who are available to talk individually with meeting attendees about funding priorities, application procedures, and other specific issues of concern. It is an important opportunity to obtain face-to-face advice and information. See pages 230-233 for a full listing of organizations and program descriptions.

On Monday morning, workshop panelists will share their experiences as peer reviewers and successful competitors for NSF funding to inform participants about effective grantsmanship for the conduct of qualitative research. Discussion will cover the mission and organization of the NSF, the peer review system and the review process, the criteria of evaluation and what they mean, and the distinctive challenges faced by qualitative researchers.

The Research Forum continues with a second three-hour poster session on “Data Resources.” This session provides meeting participants with an opportunity to meet principal investigators, researchers, and managers of large-scale data sets that are publicly available for use. Each exhibit showcases at least one major data set of significance for primary or secondary analysis. This event is an excellent way of learning about available data and their potential for a range of research and teaching uses. A complete listing of data sets with program descriptions may be found beginning on page 234.

The Forum concludes on Monday afternoon with a workshop on applying for foundation funding. Pamela Barnhouse Walters (Indiana University), current recipient of grants from the Spencer Foundation and the National Science Foundation, will speak to the needs of those seeking funding and suggest ways to appeal to foundations that offer funding to social scientists.

This year’s Annual Research Support Forum is designed to provide invaluable help, access, and consideration of important substantive and policy issues for new researchers and more experienced scholars. A chronological session summary is outlined below; please see the full session listings in the body of the Program Schedule for details.

From the opening workshop on Saturday to the closing session on Tuesday, attendees can count on plentiful access to funding experts and data sources during this Forum.

Professional Workshop. Writing a Successful Grant Proposal Session 45, Saturday, August 14, 10:30 a.m.-12:10 p.m. Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 16
Organizer and Presider: Patricia E. White, National Science Foundation
Panel: Joane Nagel, National Science Foundation and University of Kansas
Beth Rubin, University of North Carolina, Charlotte
Bruce Western, Princeton University

Professional Workshop. Winning Small Grants for “Cutting Edge” Sociological Research and Related Activities: The ASA Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline Session 125, Saturday, August 14, 4:30-6:10 p.m. Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 15
Organizer and Presider: Roberta M. Spalter-Roth, American Sociological Association
Panel: Elizabeth A. Armstrong, Indiana University
Regular Sessions

Regular Sessions are comprised of research papers submitted in response to the 2004 Call for Papers. The 2004 Program Committee appointed organizers for 124 general Regular Session topics and announced that topics were open to submissions from ASA members. Each Regular Session organizer received anywhere from 2 to 134 submissions for review. A total of 192 formal paper sessions were organized from the submitted papers. Please refer to the Program Schedule for details on each Regular Session.

Be sure to check the ASA website this fall for information on making your paper submission for the 2005 Annual Meeting.

Open Refereed Roundtables

The 2004 Program Committee has continued this open general roundtable component, which was added to the general program seven years ago to augment the specialized roundtables sponsored by many sections. Verna Keith and Mary Benin (Arizona State University) were invited to review submissions and organize roundtables using a “mini-session” format: a general topic identified for each table, two to five paper presentations, and a table presider to coordinate presentations and discussion.

One large roundtable session features the 20 tables that were created for this year’s program. Look for Open Refereed Roundtables (Session 280) on Sunday, August 15, at 2:30 p.m. in Continental Ballroom 4 at the Hilton San Francisco. Please note that since all roundtables presentations are held simultaneously in one large meeting room; neither audio-visual equipment nor recording devices may be used.

Informal Discussion Roundtables

This popular program component is designed to bring together small groups of people interested in discussing specific topics. The Program Committee invited Verna Keith and Mary Benin (Arizona State University) to receive proposals and coordinate topics and discussion leaders. Four informal discussion sessions have been created to enhance networking opportunities.
All roundtables discussions are held simultaneously in one large meeting room; neither audio-visual equipment nor recording devices may be used.

Poster Sessions
This program component features a series of display presentations that allow face-to-face conversation between authors and viewers. By facilitating informal discussions between presenters and “browsers,” Poster Sessions provide a more direct forum for information exchange than formal paper presentations.

Informational poster presentations provide information on resources, materials, and opportunities. The annual Research Support Forum includes two major poster sessions to highlight research funding opportunities and data resources. As part of the Graduate Education focus, a resource poster area will be available for browsing throughout the meeting, and there are two designated times when attendees can expect to meet representatives from participating graduate departments of sociology.

The varied roster of display presentations includes something of interest for every meeting attendee. Be sure to include some time in your schedule to visit this year’s poster displays, amidst the ASA Exhibits in the Grand Ballroom at the Hilton San Francisco.

Courses
This new educational component provides opportunities for attendees to get in-depth training in four special subject areas. These day-long intensive sessions are held pre-convention and led by expert faculty who have prepared a comprehensive curriculum to engage participants on all levels. Registrants will receive certificates documenting their participation and completion of these courses.

Attendance limits and fees are noted below, and prepaid registration was required. Attendees who preregistered should have received their tickets with their name badges when they picked up their program packets as ASA Preregistration. Course fees were non-refundable after July 15.

Reservations for courses were accepted in order of receipt in the ASA Executive Office. Those who did not make advance reservations may check for possible openings at the ASA Tickets counter in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco.

Seminars

Methodological Seminars are designed to keep sociologists abreast of recent scholarly trends and developments. Experts considered to be at the forefront of a given field are invited by the Program Committee to conduct these intensive sessions.

Seminar speakers will present materials to explain specialized developments within their topic areas. Seminars are scheduled for an hour and forty minutes or for three hours; please see the detailed listings below for session details and brief descriptions provided by the leaders.

Attendance at each seminar is limited to 50 registrants. Prepaid registration is required; fees are $30. Preregistrants should have received their tickets with their name badges when they picked up their program packets.

Seminars were accepted in order of receipt in the ASA Executive Office. Those who did not make advance reservations may check for possible openings at the ASA Tickets counter in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco.

Qualitative Software Tools: Basic to Advanced Functions of Major Commercial Packages – SOLD OUT

Session 41, Saturday, August 14, 10:30 a.m.-12:10 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 8
Ticket required for admission
Leaders: Raymond C. Maietta, ResearchTalk, Inc.
Sharlene J. Hesse-Biber, Boston College
Learn how features of major commercial qualitative software packages can supplement your qualitative analysis approach and/or current use of the program. The session will cover major features of qualitative software within the context of a discussion of careful qualitative analysis process.

Areas of focus include: Memo writing strategies and retrieval, code category review strategies, sorting and filtering, advanced question and answer facilities, use of network and theory mapping tools, qualitative/quantitative links, and use of multimedia data.

Qualitative Reasoning and the Internet: Problems, Progress, and Promise

Session 80, Saturday, August 14, 2:30-5:30 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 7
Ticket required for admission
Leaders: Ed Brent, University of Missouri and Idea Works, Inc.
Pavel Slozar, Idea Works, Inc.
This seminar is for sociologists interested in using computers to reason about qualitative and unstructured data in teaching, research, and practice, with particular emphasis on the Internet. It will show how recent advances improve the efficiency of qualitative coding, provide tools to help generalize and refine concepts, and can be adapted for diverse practical applications. Examples use the Internet, describing ongoing projects using Qualrus™ that analyze open-ended responses to questions in web surveys in both French and English; code multimedia (including HTML web pages, rich text, graphics, audio, and video); grade essay questions submitted by students via the Internet; perform literature reviews of abstracts, full-text documents, and references from e-journals and digital libraries; and interpret unstructured questions about census data submitted to a web site. Several of these projects also illustrate strategies for collaborating in team research via the Internet from geographically dispersed sites.

Session 151, Sunday, August 15, 8:30-10:10 a.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 8
Ticket required for admission
Leader: Michael W. Macy, Cornell University

What do flocks of birds, traffic jams, fads, drinking games, forest fires, riots, and residential segregation have in common? Traditionally, sociologists have tried to understand social life as a structured system of institutions and norms that shape individual behavior from the top down. In contrast, agent modelers suspect that much of social life emerges from the bottom up, more like improvisational jazz than a symphony. This seminar is intended for sociologists interested in learning how to model social life based on agent-level interaction, where an agent might be an individual, a firm, or a node in a network. The seminar will progress through a series of questions, from epistemological to methodological:

1. What are the theoretical and practical differences between modeling the interaction of factors (e.g., multivariate models) and the interaction of actors?
2. What are the strengths and weaknesses of agent-based models, compared to other model-building techniques (data-based, mathematical, and natural languages)?
3. Is the agent-based approach relevant for macro sociologists? How can “bottom-up” models be used to study structural influences on macrosocial dynamics?
4. How should we evaluate agent-based models? Should we strive for simplicity or for realism? If the outcomes depend on the assumptions, how can one have surprising results? How should agent-based models be tested empirically? Should the assumptions be realistic? Should models be calibrated for predictive accuracy? Or should models be used to search for clues about puzzling outcomes?

We will address these questions as we carefully inspect some very simple agent-based models, including Schelling’s “neighborhood segregation,” Axelrod’s “evolution of cooperation,” and a Bush-Mosteller stochastic learning model of Prisoner’s Dilemma.

HIPAA Guidelines and Research in Medical Sociology

Session 193, Sunday, August 15, 10:30 a.m.-12:10 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 8
Ticket required for admission
Leaders: Richard Wagner, University of California, San Francisco
Emily S. Kolker, Brandeis University

This seminar will discuss the practical implications for sociological research of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA), also known as “The Privacy Rule.” HIPAA regulates disclosures of patients’ health information. The provisions and terminology of HIPAA relating to use of health information in research will be explained. Variations in institutions’ implementation of HIPAA will be discussed, along with what sociologists must do to gain access to and protect information in different settings. We will consider how researchers may identify and contact potential subjects in compliance with HIPAA and human subject protection regulations and Institutional Review Board (IRB) approvals will be explored.

Conversation Analysis
Session 261, Sunday, August 15, 1:00-4:00 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan D
Ticket required for admission
Leaders: John Heritage, University of California, Los Angeles
Steven E. Clayman, University of California, Los Angeles

The seminar will focus on the design of questions and answers in ordinary conversation and in a variety of social institutions, with a particular— but by no means exclusive— focus on questioning in medicine. The seminar will begin with an overview of key conversation analysis findings on question-answer sequences (approximately one hour). It will be followed by two concurrent break-out sessions (conducted by Heritage and Clayman) focusing on a sequence of questioning in a medical visit (approximately 90 minutes). It will conclude with a discussion of how to move from the qualitative analysis of question-answer sequences to quantitative analysis which associates features of these sequences with participant characteristics, attitude and expectations data derived from surveys, and the outcomes of social interactions.

Multi-level Models – SOLD OUT
Session 271, Sunday, August 15, 2:30-4:10 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 8
Ticket required for admission
Leader: William Mason, University of California, Los Angeles

Integrating Quantitative and Qualitative Approaches – SOLD OUT
Session 311, Monday, August 16, 8:30-10:10 a.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 7
Ticket required for admission
Leader: Lisa D. Pearce, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

This seminar is for sociologists interested in designing research that incorporates a mix of survey and ethnographic methods. There will be a brief introduction about the theoretical motivations and assumptions of an integrative approach, but the session will quickly move forward on the pragmatic assumption that mixing methods is possible and beneficial. The session will largely focus on practical applications of mixed method research for studies ranging from individual dissertations to large-scale team research projects. Specific topics will include sample design strategies, analytical approaches, how to present and publish findings, and how to obtain funding for mixed method research.

An Overview of Structural Equation Models
Session 350, Monday, August 16, 10:30 a.m.-12:10 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 7
Ticket required for admission
Leader: Kenneth A. Bollen, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

The seminar provides an overview of Structural Equation Models (SEM). Sometimes called "LISREL," this general statistical model includes ANOVA, multiple regression, path analysis, factor analysis, and many other procedures as special cases. A distinguishing feature of the model is that it allows multiple indicators of latent variables (concepts) and it can estimate relationships that take account of measurement error. The seminar will examine the major subtypes of the model and the primary steps in applying it. We will discuss examples of programs and outputs from one or more of the major SEM packages. Participants should have a good background in multiple regression and should be familiar with matrix notation.

Event History Analysis
Session 385, Monday, August 16, 2:30-4:10 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 7
Ticket required for admission
Leaders: Lawrence L. Wu and Jui-Chung Allen Li, New York University

This seminar will provide a brief introduction to event history methods, with an emphasis on on continuous-time models and estimation techniques. Topics include the exploratory analysis of event history data, nonparametric methods, right censoring, maximum likelihood estimation, alternative specifications for a time dependent baseline hazard rate, time-varying covariates, multiple transition and competing risk models, and left truncation and left censoring.

Methodologies in Consumer Behavior Research
Session 386, Monday, August 16, 2:30-4:10 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 7
Ticket required for admission
Leader: Leora Lawton, TechSociety Research

Sociologists are well-suited to study consumer behavior. A read of a consumer behavior textbook reveals that the field is essentially applied social demography, social psychology, family sociology and a smattering of deviance. Nevertheless, few sociologists work in this area, perhaps due to underlying biases about working in the business sector, and perhaps due to lack of training. In this seminar, we will discuss the applications of qualitative and quantitative methods as applied to consumer behavior research, and go through two examples: customer satisfaction, and new product development. Participants will receive handouts.

Social Network Analysis
Session 453, Tuesday, August 17, 8:30-10:10 a.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 7
Ticket required for admission
Leader: James Moody, Ohio State University

This seminar introduces the basic concepts and procedures of social network analysis. The session will focus on measuring properties of complete (rather than ego-centric) social network data, including centrality, social cohesion, formal characteristics of global network structures and a brief introduction to statistical models for social networks. The seminar will cover sources for network data and draws examples from multiple substantive areas. Participants are encouraged to read Wasserman and Faust (1994) Social Network Analysis (Cambridge University Press), particularly chapters 1-3, and chapter 1 of Wellman and Berkowitz (1988) Social Structures: A Network Approach (JAI Press).

Workshops
One of the strengths of the educational component of the Annual Meeting is the breadth and variety of workshops offered. These sessions provide opportunities for attendees to update their knowledge and skills in a variety of professional areas. For 2004, workshop topics focus on careers and professional growth, academic department strategies, research skills and major datasets, teaching challenges, grant opportunities and grant writing. skills, enhanced teaching of standard courses, ethical issues, and more.

All workshops emphasize interaction between leaders and audience, and attendees are encouraged to bring questions or problems for discussion. Every workshop is open to all meeting registrants; there are no additional fees.

Workshop topics are outlined below for quick reference. Please see the full session listings in the body of the Program Schedule for details.

Making Sociology “Real”: Incorporating Popular Culture into Sociology Courses
Session 525, Tuesday, August 17, 12:30-2:10 p.m.
The theme of the eleventh annual ASA Chair Conference is “Department History and Department Futures.” Designed for new and current chairs at all types of institutions, the conference provides “briefings” on issues of critical importance for departmental leadership. Panels, roundtables, and informal conversation facilitate sharing information and advice. Attendees also meet with chairs from similar institutions to discuss common issues.

In addition, the ASA Research Program on the Discipline and Profession will present data on important trends.

The Chair Conference begins in Union Square 22 at the Hilton San Francisco on Friday, August 13, at 12:15 p.m. and concludes at 12:10 p.m. on Saturday, August 14.

The major briefing sessions will focus on:

How to Grow a Department in “Bad Times” and Plan for a Brighter Future

Creating a Positive Department Climate:
1. Integrating Senior Faculty to be Constructive Leaders
2. Integration and Support of New Faculty
3. Making Effective Hires?
4. Managing Faculty Conflict

Department Survey and Data Update

Issues Linked to the Institutional Context
1. AA and BA Granting Institutions
2. MA Granting Institutions
3. PhD Granting Institutions

A Briefing on Key ASA Projects
1. Rethinking the Sociology Major and Curriculum
2. The Core Library Collection Program
3. The Advanced Placement (AP) Course in Sociology in High Schools
4. Professional Masters Degree

Your Life as a Chair:
1. Surviving and Thriving in your First Years as Chair
2. Chairing a Joint Department
4. Working Well with Support Staff

Remembering and Honoring the Past
1. The ASA Centennial (2005): Maintaining Department Archives and Writing a Department History
2. ASA Archives and Data Resources

Connecting Your Department’s Future to the Higher Education Agenda: Where Are the Opportunities?

Preregistration and fee payments are required. Fees for the Chair Conference are $55 for chairs from Department Affiliate departments; $75 for chairs from non-affiliate departments. Chair Conference attendees must preregister for the Annual Meeting in order to register for this conference. The Chair Conference fee includes all conference materials and coffee/beverage breaks.

Attendees who preregistered should have received an advance mailing from APAP staff indicating where to go to sign in for the Chair Conference and pick up their tickets with their name badges and program materials. Those who did not make advance reservations may check for openings at the ASA Tickets counter in Yosemite Hall, Hilton San Francisco.
Directors of Graduate Study

Directors of Graduate Study (DGS) are important leaders in shaping department policies and opportunities for effective graduate programs. On Monday morning, August 16, ASA’s Academic and Professional Affairs Program (APAP) has planned a series of events for sociologists in the DGS role, focusing on such issues as data trends in graduate education, effective mentoring and professional development, preparing graduate students for the job market, professional MA programs, and more.

Fees are $30 for chairs from Department Affiliate departments, and $50 for Chairs from non-affiliate departments. DGS attendees must register for the Annual Meeting in order to register for this conference. The DGS registration fee includes continental breakfast and DGS meeting materials. Only departments that are renewed for the 2004-2005 Academic Year are eligible for the Affiliate price.

The DGS events begin in Union Square 17-18 at the Hilton San Francisco on Monday, August 16, at 8:00 a.m. The DGS agenda includes:

8:00 a.m., Get-acquainted continental breakfast
8:30-9:20 a.m., Data Trends in Graduate Education
9:20-10:10 a.m., Effective Mentoring and Advising of Graduate Students
10:30-11:15 a.m., Breakout Discussions:
   1) The Role of the Director of Graduate Studies
   2) Preparing Graduate Students for the Teaching-Oriented Job Market
   3) Making Effective Hires?
   4) The Professional MA Degree
   5) Getting Attention for Your Program’s Special Qualities
11:20 a.m.-12:10 p.m., The Graduate School Experience

Attendees who preregistered should have received their tickets with their name badges when they picked up their program materials at ASA Preregistration. Those who did not preregister may check for possible openings at the ASA Tickets counter in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco.

Undergraduate Advisers and Students Take Note!

Graduate Programs Poster/Resource Area

This dedicated display area features exhibits on graduate training from over 35 PhD programs. Participating graduate programs will display information and provide handouts describing their programs, special emphases, financial aid and admissions criteria, and opportunities to work with faculty researchers and instructors. Information and displays will be available throughout the Annual Meeting during hours that the ASA Exhibit Hall is open.

Department representatives will be available to answer questions from undergraduate students and their advisors, MA students looking to pursue a PhD, and other interested parties at two designated times: 2:30-4:10 p.m. on Sunday, August 15, and 2:30-4:10 p.m. on Monday, August 16.

This is an excellent opportunity for undergraduate advisors, undergraduate students, and MA-level students to see displays on graduate programs and meet directly with representatives. Graduate departments that responded to the invitations issued by the ASA Academic and Affairs Program are listed in the program schedule under Poster Sessions #279 and #394.

Pick an Open Forum

Four topics of current interest to sociologists are featured in an open forum format on this year’s program. All members are welcome to attend and participate in these discussion opportunities. Please see the full listings in the Program Schedule for more information about the intent and focus of each forum.

Section Activities

Looking for a way to find colleagues with similar research interests? Section activities offer one convenient avenue for connecting with like-minded scholars. These specialized sessions range in format from formal paper presentations to panels and discussion roundtables. Section-sponsored sessions are open to all meeting registrants.

Sections promote ongoing communication among their members by publishing newsletters, supporting cooperative research ventures, recognizing outstanding work by professionals and students in their specialties, and sponsoring program activities at each Annual Meeting. ASA members with interests in specialized areas of sociological inquiry may join any Section of the Association. Stop by the ASA Membership table in the ASA Registration area at the Hilton San Francisco to browse through recent section newsletters and pick up section membership information. Of course, if you join a section before September 30, your membership will help support that section’s program allocation for 2005.

The number of sessions allocated to each Section is based on the size of the Section membership. For the 44 sections, including two sections-in-formation (Ethnomethodology & Conversation Analysis, and Social Behavior & Evolution), there are a total of 171 sessions/meetings scheduled. Section activities are summarized below for quick reference. Meeting days are Saturday, August 14; Sunday, August 15; Monday, August 16; and Tuesday, August 17. Hotel Codes: H = Hilton San Francisco, P = Renaissance Parc 55

Student Forum

The ASA welcomes the attendance of undergraduate and graduate students at the Annual Meeting. Special arrangements for students include discounted registration fees, a special housing block, workshops oriented to issues of interest to students, student paper and roundtable sessions, and space for an informal Student Lounge.

Student Forum. To facilitate students’ engagement in the Association and the discipline, the ASA Council approved the formation of a Student Forum in 1998. Anyone who joins ASA as a student member automatically becomes a member of the Student Forum.

Students are encouraged to attend the Annual Meeting, meet with the Forum leadership, and participate in the formal and social events that will be held. The business meeting of the Student Forum will be held on Sunday, August 15, at 10:30 a.m.-12:10 p.m. in the Parc Ballroom I at the Renaissance Parc 55.

Orient Yourself to the Meeting. Plan to attend the Welcoming Party on Friday night and the Orientation for First Time Attendees on Saturday morning to kick off your Annual Meeting experience. Visit the exhibit area, the ASA Bookstore, and the ASA Information Desk to get acquainted with meeting service areas.

Student Reception. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting are invited to a special student reception on Monday, August 16, at 6:30-7:30 p.m. in Barcelona II at the Renaissance Parc 55.

Student Lounge. Located with the ASA Exhibits in the Grand Ballroom at the Hilton San Francisco, the Student Lounge is adjacent to the Graduate Programs in Sociology Resource displays. All students attending the Annual Meeting are welcome to take advantage of this general resource area. Several posterboards will be available for posting notices and announcements.

Graduate Programs in Sociology Displays. At 2:30-4:10 p.m. on Sunday and Monday, August 15 and 16, representatives from graduate departments will be available in the Graduate Programs in Sociology Resource area to talk with students and undergraduate advisers. Posters and handouts will be available throughout the meeting.

Data Resources and Funding Sessions. Be sure to attend poster sessions 262 and 342 to advance your work in sociology.

Student Sessions. The Program Committee reviews session proposals from Student Forum officers each year and allocates up to five slots for student sessions. From an open call for student papers, three paper sessions and one roundtable session were organized under Student Forum auspices. An additional undergraduate student roundtable session was sponsored by the ASA Minority Fellowship Program. For details on these student sessions, please see sessions 89, 159, 281, 356, and 530 in the Program Schedule.

Whether you are planning to attend graduate school, or are further along and look to employment in sociological practice or the academy, please take a look at the career, professional, and teaching workshops. Don’t let the huge program overwhelm you. Start by looking at the Student Forum sessions noted above and then check the Topic Index to identify other sessions in your particular areas of interest.

Student Discounts. Registration fees are substantially discounted for students. A special block of rooms was also arranged at the Renaissance Parc 55 hotel. Valid student IDs may be required at check-in to verify eligibility for student rates.

Film/Video Screenings

Ten films have been selected for inclusion on the 2004 film/video screening series, organized by Jean Beaman, ASA Academic and Professional Affairs Program. Union Square 8 at the Hilton San Francisco has been set aside for use as a Film/Video Screening room for showing these recent video and film releases throughout the Annual Meeting.

Videos and films to be shown include:

- Counting on Democracy: This documentary traces what happened in Florida during the 2000 Bush-Gore presidential race when several votes were uncounted. Narrated by actors Ossie Davis and Ruby Dee, Counting on Democracy asserts that a systematic pattern of behavior on the part of the state’s various election boards, overseen by a compromised elections department, resulted in a myriad of lost votes. 57 minutes, 2003. Directed by Danny Schlechter. Globalvision, Inc. and Bullfrog Films, www.bullfrogfilms.com.

- Dam/Age: A Film with Arundhati Roy: Dam/Age traces writer Arundhati Roy’s controversial campaign against the Narmada dam project in India, which will displace up to a million people. Roy, who is speaking at the Annual Meeting on Monday evening, chose to use her fame to stand up to powerful interests supported by multinational corporations and the Indian government. The story of the Narmada Valley illustrates the consequences of development and globalization and its effects on ordinary citizens. 50 minutes, 2002. Directed by Aradhana Seth. First Run/Icarus Films, www.frif.com.
Living among Ruins: Detroit (USA)/Komsomolsk-on-Amur (Russia): This film is a tale of two cities, both of them built on industrialization and both of them in serious decline – Detroit in the industrial Midwest of the USA and Komsomolsk-on-Amur in the far East of Russia. Detroit represents the ruins of industrial capitalism; Komsomolsk the ruins of communism. This film uses archive footage, recollections of old timers, and testimonies of those who still live in these cities for strategies for “living among ruins.” 70 minutes, 2004. Directed by George Steinmetz (University of Michigan, geostein@umich.edu) and Thomas Lahusen (University of Toronto, lahu08@sympatico.ca). Discussion with filmmaker following screening.

Ruthie and Connie: Every Room in the House: This documentary illustrates the lives of two married Jewish mothers who shocked their community when they left their husbands and moved in with each other. Twenty years later, Ruthie and Connie made history in a lawsuit winning domestic partner benefits for all New York City employees. Ruthie and Connie tell their story of love, family, and the price they paid to be themselves. 55 minutes, 2002. Directed by Deborah Dickson. Women Make Movies, www.wmm.com.

The Sixth Section: The Sixth Section follows the transnational organizing of a community of Mexican immigrants who live and work in Newburgh in upstate New York. This film profiles an organization called “Grupo Unión,” which is devoted to raising money in the United States to rebuild the Mexican town of Boqueron that they have left behind and is one of the many “hometown associations” formed by immigrants in the United States. This documentary is unlike others in that it profiles not only how immigration changes the United States but also how immigration changes the countries that people leave behind. 27 minutes, 2003. Directed by Alex Rivera. SubCine, www.subcine.com.

Standing on My Sisters’ Shoulders: In 1965 when three women walked into the U.S. House of Representatives in Washington D.C., they had come a long way to seek their civil rights. They were ordinary women from Mississippi and the first African-American women to be allowed in the Senate chambers in nearly 100 years. This documentary recounts the history of the Mississippi women who people a crucial role in the Civil Rights Movement. 61 minutes, 2002. Directed by Laura J. Lipson. Women Make Movies, www.wmm.com.

War Takes (Tomas de Guerra): This documentary follows the filmmakers’ existence in war-ravaged Colombia, a country infamous for drug barons, kidnapping, murders, and guerrilla warfare. War Takes allows the real lives of its heroes, forever changed by war, to break through the stereotypes, forcing us to rethink our own conceptions of the beliefs and values by which these Colombians live. 78 minutes, 2002. Directed by Alelaida Trujillo and Patricia Castaño. Women Make Movies, www.wmm.com.

What I Want My Words to Do to You: This PBS documentary offers a look into the minds and hearts of the women inmates of New York's Bedford Hills Correctional Facility. The film goes inside a writing workshop led by playwright and activist Eve Ensler, consisting of 15 women, most of whom were convicted of murder. Through a series of exercises and discussions, the women delve into their pasts and explore the nature of their crimes and the extent of their own culpability. The film culminates in an emotionally charged prison performance of the women's writing by acclaimed actors Mary Alice, Glenn Close, Hazelle Goodman, Rosie Perez and Marisa Tomei. What I Want My Words To Do To You documents both the wrenching personal journeys undertaken by the inmates to find the words that tell their own stories, and the power of those words to move the outside world. 87 minutes, 2003. By Eve Ensler, Carol Jenkins, and Judith Katz. PBS, American Documentary, Inc., www.pov.org.

Explore the Bay Area

One of the best ways to get a feel for the people and communities in the San Francisco Bay area is to take advantage of a tour. The schedule of tours is provided below, with descriptions and capacity limits. Reservations were mandatory. Those who are already enrolled in tours should have received their tickets in their badge envelopes.

There are a few tickets remaining for the Mural Walk and the Victorian Home Walk. Other tours have sold out or cancelled, as shown below. If you wish to buy a tour ticket or check on the status of a tour, please stop by the ASA Tickets desk in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco.

Most tour sites are accessible to persons with disabilities; however, tour buses are generally not accessible to attendees in wheelchairs unless arranged in advance. Attendees needing wheelchair-accessible transportation for a tour should contact the on-site ASA Office in the California Room at the Hilton San Francisco at least 24 hours in advance of the scheduled tour departure.

Fees are noted with the descriptions below and include all entrance fees. All fees go toward tour handling, entrance fees, and group transportation costs. Tour fees are non-refundable. If a tour has been cancelled due to insufficient enrollment, however, fees will be refunded in full.

The type of transportation involved is noted with each tour description. Attendees who opt to use an alternate mode of transportation, e.g., taking a cab instead of walking or riding the bus, will be completely responsible for the cost of that transportation.

All tour groups will depart from the Taylor Street entrance of the Hilton San Francisco. Attendees are asked to arrive promptly so that departure times may be observed. Keep in mind that the arrival times back to the hotel are to arrive promptly so that departure times may be observed.

Due to the requirements for advance security clearance, attendees had to attend the prison. The prison is located at San Quentin. This tour takes participants into the San Quentin to hear the historical perspective as well as learn the current operation of the facility.

Participants will see different areas of the prison as well as the execution area. The prison today includes a reception center for new commitments, a parole violator unit, general population units, and a minimum-security work crew unit. The state's only gas chamber and death row for all male condemned inmates are located at San Quentin. This tour takes participants into the San Quentin to hear the historical perspective as well as learn the current operation of the facility.

Due to the requirements for advance security clearance, attendees had to preregister for this tour by July 1. On the day of the tour, attendees must bring their PHOTO IDs with them. Anyone wearing blue jeans, gym clothes (sweatsuits, running/jogging attire), or a yellow jacket will not be allowed to enter the prison. Notices about these requirements were sent to tour preregistrants in late July. (Bus tour, limited to 40 participants) *Fee includes BART pass.

Tour 3: Mission Trail Public Mural Walks
Monday, August 16, 9:30 a.m. – 12:00 noon
Fee: $17
Leader: Jessica Fields, San Francisco State University
See the internationally famous murals of San Francisco's Historic Mission District in the company of a professional muralist! The tour is given by experienced muralists and is preceded by a brief slide show on the history of murals, contemporary examples in SF, and the process of painting of mural art. Participants view over 75 murals in a 6-block walk! (BART/Walking tour, limited to 30 participants) *Fee includes BART pass.

Tour 4: San Quentin State Prison – SOLD OUT
Monday, August 16, 8:00 a.m. – 12:15 p.m.
Leaders: Barbara Bloom, Professor of Criminal Justice Administration, Sanoma State University, and Vernell Crittendon, San Quentin Public Information Officer
San Quentin is California's oldest and best-known correctional institution. The prison today includes a reception center for new commitments, a parole violator unit, general population units, and a minimum-security work crew unit. The state's only gas chamber and death row for all male condemned inmates are located at San Quentin. This tour takes participants into the San Quentin to hear the historical perspective as well as learn the current operation of the facility.

Tour 5: Transformation of San Francisco – SOLD OUT
Sunday, August 15, 1:00 – 4:00 p.m.
Fee: $5
Leader: Richard Walker, University of California, Berkeley
The participants will look at the changes wrought in San Francisco over the last decade as a result of the boom and the bust, which hit the city like nowhere else. The walking tour will begin with the retail district and Union Square, then the massive makeover of the South of Market, starting with the Yerba Buena Center and then the dot-com world around Rincon Hill, and finishing with Mission Bay biotech fantasies. (Walking Tour, limited to 20 participants)

Tour 6: Victorian Home Walk
Monday, August 16, 9:30 a.m. – 12:00 noon
Fee: $22
Leader: Jay Gifford, Founder of Victorian Home Walk Tours
The Victorian Home Walk Tour offers insight on the City, its history, and attractions in a casual, personal pace. Take a trip back to San Francisco's rich Victorian past. Learn about the city's trademark architecture, lifestyle, and history of that fascinating era. The streets in the best Victorian neighborhoods are too narrow for tour buses, and as a result most visitors miss these local treasures. The walk is easy, the pace leisurely, and there are no hills to climb. (Walking tour, limited to 40 participants)
Special Events

Welcoming Party

All meeting registrants are invited to the Welcoming Party on Friday evening, August 13, that marks the opening of the 99th Annual Meeting. This social hour kicks off at 8:30 p.m., after the Opening Plenary, and provides opportunities to renew past acquaintances, chat with old friends, and find a newcomer to befriend. New members and first-time meeting attendees are particularly encouraged to come and have fun!

Orientation for First-Time Attendees

If this is the first time you have attended an ASA Annual Meeting, please plan to attend an orientation session at 10:30-11:30 a.m. on Saturday, August 14, prior to the mid-day Plenary on the first full day of program sessions. This special orientation hour provides the opportunity to meet Association officers and staff and begin networking with experienced colleagues. Advice from ASA Officers and experienced attendees will help you chart a course through the myriad activities and substantive attractions.

ASA Secretary Arne Kalleberg and Executive Officer Sally T. Hillsman host this orientation in the Da Vinci Room at the Renaissance Parc 55 hotel. Pointers on navigating the Annual Meeting will be shared in informal roundtable discussion. First-time attendees who pre-registered should look for a reminder ticket in their badge envelopes as soon as they pick up their program packets and come prepared to ask “What makes it work?”

Reception for International Scholars

Scholars from countries outside the U.S. are invited to meet U.S. sociologists interested in international collaboration at a reception for international scholars on Saturday, August 14, at 6:30-7:30 p.m. in Continental Parlors 8-9 at the Hilton San Francisco. A highlight of this year’s reception will be the opportunity to meet the contingent of international scholars whose attendance is being supported by the Ford Foundation.

Community College Faculty Breakfast

Colleagues teaching in community colleges are invited to a special bagel breakfast at 7:00 a.m. on Sunday, August 15, in Union Square 13 at the Hilton San Francisco. Please mark your schedule and remember to set your alarm for this early-bird event where you can meet other sociologists teaching at community colleges.

Honorary Reception

All meeting attendees are invited to attend the Honorary Reception at 6:30 p.m., Sunday, August 15, in Continental Ballroom 1-4 at the Hilton San Francisco to express appreciation, congratulations, and best wishes to President Burawoy and the major ASA award recipients on this festive occasion.

Since 1984, social science departments and regional societies have joined the American Sociological Association in co-sponsoring the annual Honorary Reception. The event is preceded by an address from ASA President Michael Burawoy. This year the Association is pleased to acknowledge the following co-hosts of the Honorary Reception.

California State University, Hayward
California University of Pennsylvania
University of California, Berkeley
University of California, Davis
University of California, Irvine
University of California, Santa Barbara
University of California, Santa Cruz
Harvard University
Howard University
Loyola Marymount University
Northwestern University
University of San Francisco
University of Southern California
St. Mary’s College
University of Texas, Austin
Wayne State University
University of Wisconsin, Madison

Student Reception

ASA welcomes the attendance of undergraduate and graduate students at the Annual Meeting. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting are invited to the open Student Reception on Monday, August 16, at 6:30-7:30 p.m., in Barcelona II at the Renaissance Parc 55.
Departmental Alumni Night (DAN)

The Departmental Alumni Night (DAN), now in its 31st year, is a social event held after the first full day of sessions, where attendees can connect with friends, colleagues, and foes to reminisce about graduate school days, create new coalitions, and catch up on the latest news.

This traditional gathering will begin at 9:30p.m. on Saturday, August 14, in Continental Ballroom 1-4 at the Hilton San Francisco, with conversation sets interspersed by the jazz offerings of sociologist-musicians and their colleagues, including Rob Faulkner, Howie Becker, Don Bennett, and Doug Mitchell.

Each graduate department of sociology in the United States and Canada was given the opportunity to sponsor a table to attract alumni and friends. Participating schools are listed on page 92 in the Program Schedule. Tables will also be provided for sociologists in business and industry as well as for international scholars and guests.

Just Desserts!
A Teaching Enhancement Fundraiser

Looking to escape the pressures of presenting papers, searching book displays, and participating in committee meetings? Come and relax with friends at this benefit event for the Teaching Enhancement Fund (TEF), “Just Desserts.” As the name implies, you should bring your sweet tooth along to enjoy special desserts, good coffee, stimulating conversation, and then smile that all this pleasure goes to a good cause.

Sunday, August 15, 2004
9:30-11:00 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, ASA Suite

$25—donor; $50—sponsor; $100—benefactor

Admission is by ticket only. All proceeds from ticket sales will go toward supporting the Teaching Enhancement Fund, a small grants program designed to support teaching-related projects that have long lasting and transferable impact.

Those who enrolled in advance should have received their tickets with their name badges. Others may purchase tickets at the ASA Tickets counter in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco. Ticket sales for this event will close at 1:00 p.m. on Sunday, August 15.

MFP Benefit Reception

Set aside time during the busy weekend to join good friends and supporters of the ASA’s Minority Fellowship Program (MFP). Plan to relax after dinner, satisfy your sweet tooth, and meet current Fellows and MFP alumni. Please attend this special event and reaffirm your commitment to the MFP Program.

Monday, August 16, 2004
9:30-11:00 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, ASA Suite

$25—donor; $50—sponsor; $100—benefactor

Admission is by ticket only. Ticket sales benefit the Minority Fellowship Program, which supports predoctoral training for students of color.

Those who enrolled in advance should have received their tickets with their name badges. Others may purchase tickets at the ASA Tickets counter in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco. Ticket sales for this event will close at 1:00 p.m. on Monday, August 16.

Section Receptions

In addition to sponsoring substantive program sessions, ASA Sections often host receptions for their section members during the Annual Meeting. These informal social events are primarily held in the evenings on the first and third days of the meeting, and all members of the sponsoring section are welcome to attend. Sometimes several sections will co-host a joint reception, which doubles or triples the fun!

Look for the following Section receptions during the Annual Meeting in San Francisco.

Registration Services

Registration confirmations were mailed for all meeting preregistrations received by the announced deadline. Attendees who sent materials after the deadline will find their paperwork held for registration processing at the ASA Situations counter in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco.

Preregistration Pickup. Attendees who preregistered may pick up badges, program packets, and special tickets at the Preregistration counters in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco. See registration service hours below.

On-Site Registration. Those who missed the July 19 preregistration deadline should go to the On-Site Registration counters in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco to register for the meeting.

Registration Services Hours:
- Friday, August 15 - 1:30-7:00 p.m.
- Saturday, August 16 - 8:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
- Sunday, August 17 - 8:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
- Monday, August 18 - 8:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
- Tuesday, August 19 - 8:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

Name Badges. Your name badge serves as your ticket and is required for admission to all conference functions including entry to the ASA Exhibits, Employment Service, and Child Care Service areas. Attendance at events which require fee payment (e.g., Courses, Seminars, Chair Conference, Director of Graduate Studies Series, TEF Just Desserts, MFP Benefit, Tours) is restricted to meeting registrants.

Refunds/Cancellations. All registration-related fees are non-refundable as of July 15, 2004. Unfortunately, under no circumstances can ASA issue refunds for no-shows. Program participant registration fees are non-refundable; cancellations will not be accepted nor refunds issued.

ASA Bookstore

The ASA Bookstore features works published by the Association. Located near ASA Registration in Yosemite Hall, Ballroom level, at the Hilton San Francisco, the Bookstore will be staffed by ASA Executive Office personnel and open throughout the four days of the Annual Meeting during the same hours as ASA Registration.

All attendees are welcome to browse through this area filled with recent journal issues, timely books, teaching resources and syllabi sets, career publications, sociological practice materials, directories, and reference volumes.

If you booked your hotel room through the ASA housing service, don’t forget to use your 10% discount coupon for the ASA Bookstore.

Exhibits

The ASA Exhibits are located in the Grand Ballroom, lower level, at the Hilton San Francisco. Exhibits will be open to meeting registrants on all four days of the meeting this year!

ASA Exhibit Hours:
Saturday, August 14  2:00 -6:00 p.m.
Sunday, August 15  9:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.
Monday, August 16  9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.
Tuesday, August 17  9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

The location of the Exhibits offers excellent accessibility to meeting attendees, due to its close proximity to escalators leading to the lobby level and 2nd floor. Always one of the most popular activities at the Annual Meeting, Exhibits offer variety, convenience, and an opportunity to discover current trends in sociological publishing, information processing, and services.

Meeting attendees are encouraged to schedule several visits to the Exhibit area so that ample time can be given to exploring the many offerings. Browse through the latest sociological publications, explore current computer software, chat with representatives of statistical resources and informational literature, and meet the editor of your next publication!

See the Directory of Exhibitors elsewhere in this Program for the names and booth numbers of all exhibitors. Don't forget to look through the Program for special ads too.

All persons wishing access to ASA Exhibits must be paid registrants for the Annual Meeting; badges are required for entrance into this area.

Café ASA

Where do you go when you have only an hour to visit exhibits and need a cup of coffee? Café ASA, of course. This convenient service near by the Cyber Café is the place to buy coffee, sodas, and light snacks, as well as meet friends and chat about the morning’s sessions. Café ASA is located in the Grand Ballroom at the Hilton San Francisco and open during posted Exhibit hours.

Cyber Café and Message Center

Electronic message centers are located at both facilities where sessions are being held. The primary ASA Message Center is at the Renaissance Parc 55 in the Parc Ballroom foyer. At the Hilton San Francisco, you will see a 10-station cyber café that offers access to your web and internet services as well as to the ASA Message Center.

The ASA message service enables the on-site exchange of messages as well as offers access to those not at the meeting site. Access to the cyber café and messaging stations is available during hours that exhibits are open.

ASA Information

The ASA Information desk is located in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco. This desk is staffed with ASA Executive Office personnel who will be able to assist attendees who have questions about meeting events, activities, and other events. Information hours correspond to hours for Registration Services.

Membership Desk

Information on ASA membership and subscriptions will be provided at the Membership tables in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco. The Membership desk will be staffed by ASA Executive Office personnel and will be open during the same hours as ASA Registration. Attendees may learn about current membership benefits and join the Association, sign up for Section memberships, and subscribe to ASA journals. Display copies of current journals will be available for reference.
Section Information

Looking for information about the ASA Sections and sections-in-formation, or copies of 2004 section newsletters? Check the Section Display Tables near the ASA Membership desk in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco.

Every Section was invited to designate representatives to staff the display table during each meeting day and provide information on special section activities. Staff from the ASA Executive Office will be nearby at the Membership Desk to answer questions about joining any and all sections.

Tickets for Events and Services

Registrants already signed up for seminars, courses, tours, employment or childcare services, and special events should have received tickets with their meeting packets. Those who did not make advance reservations may check at the ASA Tickets counter in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco for ticket availability. The Tickets counter will be open during posted On-Site Registration hours.

Event tickets are non-refundable and cancellations cannot be accepted. You may, however, sell your ticket to someone else if you are unable to attend.

Employment Service

The American Sociological Association assists sociologists and prospective employers by sponsoring an Employment Service during each year’s Annual Meeting. This service augments the monthly Employment Bulletin, now available in print and online as part of ASA’s home page (www.asanet.org).

During the Annual Meeting in Atlanta last year, 63 employers listed 85 positions, including 7 openings outside academia and 3 post-doctoral opportunities. 321 candidates registered with the service, and 1,089 interviews were scheduled.

Location and Hours. The 2004 Employment Service will be located at the Hilton San Francisco and open during the following hours.

Friday, August 13 - 1:30-5:30 p.m.
Saturday, August 14 - 8:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
Sunday, August 15 - 8:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
Monday, August 16 - 8:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
Tuesday, August 17 - 8:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

Fees. Fees for using the Employment Service are $150 for employers, $25 for candidates who are members of ASA, and $50 for non-member candidates. All employer listings must be prepaid (a valid purchase order will be accepted); post-meeting billing is not available.

Anyone using this service, whether as Candidate or Employer, must register for the Annual Meeting as well as with the Employment Service. Once registered, you will be issued a pass permitting your entrance to the Service any time it is open. No one will be admitted without a pass; “browsing” by non-registered attendees is not permitted.

Forms. Forms for listing positions (Employer Forms) and applications for individuals (Candidate Profile Forms) were printed in the May/June issue of Footnotes and the May and June issues of the Employment Bulletin, and also posted on the ASA website. Extra copies of these forms are available in the Employment Service Registration areas for those unable to preregister.

Facilities are available in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco for reviewing listings, exchanging messages, and interviewing. Position listings supplied by preregistered employers will be available for viewing by candidates when the Service opens on Friday afternoon, August 13. Listings supplied by employers who register on-site will be posted as the listings are received and processed.

Processes. Employment Service Candidates should report to Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco to pick up their badges and program packets, then proceed immediately to the Employment Service registration in Plaza A on the Lobby Level to activate their candidate profiles and deliver two copies, three-hole punched, of their complete resumes to the Service. These resumes will be used to create two supplemental resume reference books for use by registered employers during the meeting. If you were unable to preregister, it is recommended that you visit ASA On-Site Registration as early as possible upon arriving in San Francisco in order to start the required steps to registering for the service.

Representatives from organizations that are listing positions should check in at the Employer Registration area in Plaza B at the Hilton San Francisco to begin the candidate profile review—or update their early-bird profile book—and initiate the interview scheduling process.

Profiles of preregistered candidates received by July 10 were sent to pre-registered employers prior to the Annual Meeting. This allowed interviewers to review candidate information prior to arrival at the meeting site and should speed the process of setting up screening interviews with the Service on-site.
Candidate profiles received after July 10 will not be supplied to employers until the candidate files have been activated on-site.

Interview Scheduling. All initial interview appointments are to be scheduled through the Employment Service at the meeting site. Since employers need some time to review profiles, there will be a lag time between on-site activation of a candidate file and the scheduling of interviews. Because of this processing/review time, those intending to make full use of the Service should activate their files/listings on-site by 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, August 14. No new candidate files will be activated on the last day (Tuesday, August 17) of Employment Service operations.

Child Care
ASA is continuing the tradition of providing an innovative program of activities for children of Annual Meeting registrants. Arrangements have again been made with KiddieCorp to offer a full childcare program during daytime session hours for preregistered children between the ages of 6 months to 12 years.
KiddieCorp is dedicated to providing quality childcare services across the nation for meeting attendees. Staffing is based on a 1:2 ratio for children 6 months to 1 year, 1:3 ratios for children 1-2 years of age, and a 1:5 ratio for children 3-12 years of age. The program includes a customized hourly schedule of creative and educational activities, age-appropriate toys and games, popular arts and crafts projects, and child-pleasing movies and cartoon videos.
The Child Care Service registration is located in Suite 2-1620 at the Hilton San Francisco. This service is available to preregistrants only. The non-refundable preregistration deposit of $50 per child will be applied to the daily usage fees on-site. Daily use fees per preregistered child are $50 per full day, $30 per half day.
For children using the service for shorter periods, the half-day fee will apply to encourage stable populations. Fees include on-site activities and snacks; lunch is not included but meal arrangements can be made through KiddieCorp.
Service hours are 8:00 a.m. – 6:30 p.m. on Saturday-
Monday, August 14-16, and 8:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, August 17. Parents/guardians using these services must be registrants for the Annual Meeting.
There is no guarantee that non-preregistered families can be accommodated on-site. Child care providers reserve the right to refuse admittance to nonpreregistrants. If there are any openings, fees for children who were not preregistered will be $75 per day per child.
No half-day rates are available for non-preregistered children.

Accessibility Resources and Services
The ASA offers several services and oversight arrangements to facilitate attendance at the Annual Meeting. The ASA Office will coordinate resources during the meeting week for registrants with physical disabilities who are attending the Annual Meeting. Special services, which were arranged in advance, may be verified with ASA staff to ensure that you receive the assistance you need. Should you encounter any problems during the meeting or need any additional information while at the Annual Meeting, please contact Meeting Services staff in the on-site ASA Office.

Comfort Zone. Attendees coping with illness, meeting fatigue, or stress may use the small room set aside by ASA as a “safe haven” to escape briefly from the noise and bustle of meeting activities. The designated Comfort Zone is Union Square 25, 4th floor, at the Hilton San Francisco.

Sessions. ASA has made arrangements for sign language interpreters, sighted guides, and other communication avenues for meeting registrants who provided information in advance of the meeting.

Housing. Attendees who requested wheelchair accessible rooms, bathrooms with safety equipment (grab bars), amplified telephone receivers, TDD access, “shake awake” alarms, or other resources when making room reservations, and who have not received the desired equipment or accommodations, are asked to contact the ASA Office immediately.

Travel. Attendees with mobility impairments who are flying in and out of the San Francisco area are advised to notify their airline 24 hours before departure if they will need assistance in getting from their arrival gate to the baggage claim area. Airline and airport personnel will gladly assist any meeting attendee needing transportation aid. Super Shuttle (415-558-8500) offers licensed wheelchair-accessible (lift) van service on a reservation basis. For ramped minivan service, contact Town Taxi (415-546-1888, reservations accepted up to 24 hours in advance) or Yellow Taxicab (415-626-2345, no advance reservations) for rates and reservations.

Other Services. Registrants who did not make advance arrangements for services or equipment are requested to contact staff in the ASA Office in the California room on the Ballroom level at the Hilton San Francisco. Every reasonable effort will be made to assist registrants on-site. However, if you have a physical disability and need special services, equipment, or accommodations, and did not notify ASA in advance of your arrival at the meeting site, ASA may not be able to provide appropriate services due to the limited availability of some equipment and services.

Media Office

Media representatives are invited to check in at ASA’s on-site Media Office for registration packets and interview assistance. The Media Office is located in the Union Square 1-2 on the 4th floor at the Hilton San Francisco. Office hours are 1:30-5:30 p.m. on Friday, August 13, 8:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m. on Saturday-Monday, August 14-16, and 8:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m. on Tuesday, August 17.

Meeting attendees are also encouraged to drop by the on-site Media Office and provide information on their availability to discuss their work with the media while in San Francisco.

ASA Office

To support ASA activities at both hotels, there will be an ASA Office staffed with Executive Office personnel at the Hilton San Francisco. This office will be open at 1:00-6:00 p.m. on Friday afternoon, August 13, though staff may be intermittently unavailable that day due to setup demands. On Saturday-Monday, August 14-16, offices will be open from 8:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m. Hours on the last day of the meeting, Tuesday, August 17, will be 8:00 a.m.- 5:00 p.m.

Hotel Information

The 99th ASA Annual Meeting is being held at the Hilton San Francisco and the Renaissance Parc 55 hotels. Program sessions and social events are being held at both locations. The Hilton San Francisco is hosting ASA Registration, Bookstore, Employment Service, ASA Exhibits, Poster Sessions, Child Care Service, and Student Lounge.

Attendees with questions or reservation problems may consult the TTG representative at the ASA Housing Desk in Yosemite Hall at the Hilton San Francisco. The housing coordinator will have up-to-date reservation information and can provide assistance in resolving reservation discrepancies.

For the convenience of meeting attendees, a list of hotels is given below where registrants will be staying for the ASA Annual Meeting and for meetings of sister associations and societies. Designations are noted below for the headquarters hotels for the Association for the Sociology of Religion (ASR), the Association of Black Sociologists (ABS), the Society for the Study of Social Problems (SSSP), the Society for the Study of Symbolic Interaction (SSSI), Sociological Practice Association (SPA), and Sociologists for Women in Society (SWS).

Airport Transportation

San Francisco is served by two nearby airports, San Francisco International (approximately 14 miles from the Hilton San Francisco) and Oakland International (approximately 20 miles from downtown San Francisco). These airports are serviced by a number of shuttle companies, including SuperShuttle, SFO Airporter, and Airport Express. Shared-ride shuttle fares from San Francisco International Airport (SFO) are around $12-$16 per person; fares from Oakland (OAK) run approximately $25 per person. Meeting preregistrants received discount coupons from SuperShuttle with their registration confirmations in the mail. Please check at the ASA Information desk if you need an additional coupon.

Cab fare from SFO to downtown San Francisco ranges from $35-45, depending on traffic. Fares from Oakland International Airport range $55-65.

Those interested in using public transportation should look to the Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) system. Both the Hilton San Francisco and the Renaissance Parc 55 hotels are located 2-3 blocks from the Powell Street BART/MUNI Station. Attendees can ride the BART between downtown San Francisco and both airports. The closest San Francisco MUNI bus stop to the Hilton San Francisco and the Renaissance Parc 55 hotels is at the Powell Street BART/MUNI Station.

For more details about airport transportation options, visit www.flysfo.com or www.flyoakland.com.
ASA is pleased to acknowledge the support of four publishing partners for the inaugural Annual Meeting conference tote bag.

1. Course. Human Research Subject Protection in Sociology and Social Sciences (8:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.)
Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan A

Organizers: Felice J. Levine, American Educational Research Association; Richard T. Campbell, University of Illinois, Chicago

Panel: Felice J. Levine, American Educational Research Association
Virginia S. Cain, OBSSR/NIH
Richard T. Campbell, University of Illinois, Chicago
Elaine Wethington, Cornell University
Karen A. Hegtvedt, Emory University

This course addresses human research protection issues in the design, implementation, and review of research. It provides investigators with a richer understanding of key ethical concepts and the tools for assessing best ethical practices in the context of social science research. It also offers guidance on the preparation of protocols and effective communication with Institutional Review Boards (IRBs).

The course is comprised of three major units: understanding key concepts and ethical guidance in human subjects research, putting human research protections into practice in social science research, and comprehending the IRB process and the role of review. Participants will examine federal regulations and their underlying principles; ethical standards provided by social and behavioral science societies (e.g., ASA's code of ethics); and core concepts in human subjects protection with particular attention to research in the social sciences. Participants will receive hands-on training in a mock IRB session as they review and discuss case studies that raise relevant issues in human subjects protection. Emphasis will be placed on addressing issues and topics of concern to participants.

Participants will meet in general sessions and working groups during the course of the day; lunch for participants is included in the course fee.

2. Course. Teaching an AP-Level Course (9:00 a.m.-12:00 noon, 1:00-4:00 p.m.)
Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan C

Leader: Caroline Hodges Persell, New York University

This course is designed for current or future teachers of regular, honors, advanced, or AP-type sociology courses in high schools and for teachers of Introduction to Sociology courses in colleges and universities. It will focus on some of the key understandings students should gain as a result of studying sociology and explore ways of teaching those insights, including how a sociological perspective differs from that of other social sciences and humanities, the evidence needed to infer causality, the probabilistic and contingent nature of sociological knowledge, the power of demography, what sociologists do, how sociologists think about culture, socialization, social organization, deviance and conformity, social inequalities by class, race and gender, social institutions, and social change. The emphasis will be on active forms of learning-simulations, exercises, and research activities - although films and websites will be mentioned where relevant.

Participants in the course will leave with examples of exercises they can use in teaching sociology in high school or college courses, with information about web-based resources, and with some experience accessing social science data that are publicly available.

This course is scheduled in two segments, 9:00 a.m.-12:00 noon, and 1:00-4:00 p.m.; lunch is not included in the course fee.

3. Course. The Scholarship of Teaching and Learning Course (9:00 a.m.-12:00 noon, 1:00-4:00 p.m.)
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 3-4

Leader: Kathleen McKinney, Illinois State University

This six-hour, hands-on workshop will introduce participants to the scholarship of teaching and learning (SoTL) in higher education generally and sociology, more specifically. Participants will be provided with materials and information related to conceptualizing a teaching-learning problem to be studied, choosing appropriate methodologies, considering ethical issues, finding presentation and publication outlets, documenting SoTL work, and applying what is learned to improve teaching and learning. Opportunities will be provided for questions, and to work on and discuss participant ideas for SoTL projects.

This course is scheduled in two segments, 9:00 a.m.-12:00 noon, and 1:00-4:00 p.m.; lunch is not included in the course fee.

4. Course. Community-Based Research Course (10:00 a.m.-12:00 noon, 1:00-3:00 p.m.)
Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan B

Leaders: Kerry J. Strand, Hood College; Sam Marullo, Georgetown University

Community-based research (CBR) is an innovative and increasingly popular means to unite the three traditional academic missions of teaching, research, and service. This course provides participants with clear-cut guidelines for how to carry out this work—as sociological research and as pedagogy—along with rich descriptions of engaged scholarship in action. Using both didactic and interactive strategies, we will:

- Provide an overview of community-based research, including its origins, iterations, and basic features that distinguish it in important ways from conventional sociological research and from more conventional forms of community-based pedagogies;
- Share a wide-range of concrete guidelines and “best practices” for integrating CBR into our teaching and research in ways that will enrich student learning, deepen community partnerships, support faculty roles and rewards, and enhance the capacity of our institutions to address social problems.

This course is scheduled in two segments, 10:00 a.m.-12:00 noon, and 1:00-3:00 p.m.; lunch is not included in the course fee.

8:30 a.m. Sessions

6. Thematic Session. Public Sociology and Disciplinary Sociology
   Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 2
   Organizer and Presider: Donald Tomaskovic-Devey, North Carolina State University
   Panel: Raka Ray, University of California, Berkeley
       George Ritzer, University of Maryland
       Joey Sprague, University of Kansas
       Gregory D. Squires, George Washington University
   What implications does strengthening the public mission of sociology have for disciplinary training and careers? In what ways do current graduate training practices encourage and discourage the practice of public sociologies? What about early career and tenure processes? Panelists will comment on these issues, prior to extensive audience participation.

7. Thematic Session. Religious Discourse in Liberal Societies: Thriving, Dying, or Transforming? (co-sponsored by the Association for the Sociology of Religion)
   Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 3
   Organizer: John H. Evans, University of California, San Diego
   Beyond Beliefs: Religious Identity in American Civic Life. Paul R. Lichterman, University of Wisconsin, Madison
   Public Religions in Asia. Richard Madsen, University of California, San Diego
   The Shaping Power of American Culture: Liberalism, Religion, and Non-Christian Immigrants. Rhys H. Williams, University of Cincinnati
   Speaking in Different Tongues? Religious Discourse about Abortion in Germany and the US. Myra Marx Ferree, University of Wisconsin, Madison
   Critics have claimed that the public square has become “naked” in recent years due to the exclusion of religious voices in the name of reaching consensus on difficult topics. Is this really an accurate description of the public sphere? If so, how does this exclusion occur?

8. Thematic Session. The End of Welfare as We Knew It: What Now?
   Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 1
   Organizers: Kathleen Mullan Harris, University of North Carolina; Sheldon Danziger, University of Michigan
   Presider: Kathleen Mullan Harris, University of North Carolina
   What Realities Do Policy Makers Interested in Encouraging
9. Thematic Session. Who Defines the Reality of Feminized Migration in Asia?
Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A
Organizer: Keiko Yamanaka, University of California
Surrogate Family and Rejected Citizens: Migrant Contract Domestic Workers in Taiwan. Pei-Chia Lan, National Taiwan University

Migration and International Marriage in South Korea. Hye-Kyung Lee, Pai Chai University
Migrant Worker Activism in Asia-Transnational or Transethnic? Nicola Piper, Australian National University
Receivably, receiving states commonly lack a policy of incorporation for unskilled foreigners. As a result, their rights remain unprotected. Panelists will address how sociologists can define the reality of migrant women’s experience in order to generate gender-sensitive, equality-minded policies and publics.

10. Academic Workshop. Using Distance-Learning Education and Other Virtual Resources in Sociology Courses
Leaders: Meredith M. Redlin, South Dakota State University, Joan Morris, University of Central Florida
This workshop will address multiple forms of distance learning and curricula, including site-to-site or local broadcast delivery, web-based courses, and pedagogical combinations of traditional and distance-delivery curricula. Specifically, participants will see examples of syllabi, course assignments, and curriculum models that incorporate distance-learning in the traditional classroom, and that facilitate distance-delivery as a pedagogical method. It will be organized as a “real” workshop, and participants are encouraged to bring not only their questions but examples of their own curricula, where appropriate to the topic.

Orientation for First-Time Meeting Attendees — Renaissance Parc 55, DaVinci Room

If this is the first time you have attended an ASA Annual Meeting, please plan to attend an orientation session at 10:30-11:30 a.m. on Saturday, August 14, prior to the mid-day Plenary on the first full day of program sessions. This special orientation hour provides the opportunity to meet Association officers and staff and begin networking with experienced colleagues. Advice from ASA Officers and experienced attendees will help you chart a course through the myriad activities and substantive attractions. ASA Secretary Arne Kalleberg and Executive Officer Sally T. Hillsman host this orientation. Pointers on navigating the Annual Meeting will be shared in informal roundtable discussion. First-time attendees who pre-registered should look for a reminder ticket in their badge envelopes as soon as they pick up their program packets and come prepared to ask “What makes it work?”

10:30 a.m. Sessions

33. Ford Panel in International Public Sociology.
Public Sociology in Post-Communist Societies
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 3
Organizer and President: Ivan Szelenyi, Yale University
Intellectuals in Crisis: is the Intelligentsia Coming Back? Boris Kagarlitsky, Moscow
Structural Violence, Post-communism and Globalization. Jadwiga Staniszki, Polish Academy of Sciences
Role of Intellectuals in East Central European New Capitalism. Erzsébet Szalai, Hungarian Academy of Sciences
Experts or Mentors, the Shifting Roles of Social Scientists in New Democracies. Piotr Sztompka, Jagiellonian University and Krakow University
Intelligents in general and social scientists in particular played a key role in shaping public debates in Central and Eastern Europe. The panelist of this session were important actors in the emerging dissident discourse during the 1980s and in this session they reflect on changes they see in the role of intellectuals and social sciences in post-communist Europe.

34. Thematic Session, American Communities and the Public Good
Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A
Organizer and President: Michael Schudson, University of California, San Diego
From Membership to Management in American Civic Life. Theda Skocpol, Harvard University
The Darker Side of Communities. Amitai Etzioni, George Washington University
Why Americans Have Difficulty Understanding the Phrase “Common Good.” Robert N. Bellah, University of California, Berkeley
Discussant: Michael Schudson, University of California-San Diego
Do American individual have the moral stature, American communities the capacity to think beyond their own interests, and American political and social structures the wherewithal to nurture public-minded discussion and policy? Three scholars who have engaged these issues both inside sociology and in the wider public discourse will reflect on where we stand today.
35. Thematic Session. Being a Public Intellectual: Bringing Research to the People
Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan C
Organizer and Presider: Barbara Risman, North Carolina State University
Doing it in Public: Participation in Political Wars over the Body and the Heart. Pepper J. Schwartz, University of Washington
Community Activist as Sociologist. John H. Stanfield, Indiana University
The Contexts Experience. Claude S. Fischer, University of California, Berkeley
Ethnography, Theory, and Public Sociology. Diane Vaughan, Boston College
Can social scientists be effective intellectuals outside the academy? Each of the presenters will offer their own experiences to help define just what it means to be an academic and public intellectual. What is it that we have to offer in the public sphere and to what publics? Is there a moment when we cease to be public sociologists and simply become political or community leaders or media stars?

36. Thematic Session. Envisioning Real Utopias
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 1
Organizer and Presider: Erik Olin Wright, University of Wisconsin, Madison
Innovations in Empowered Participatory Governance. Archon Fung, Harvard University
Women and Utopias. Sheila Rowbotham, University of Manchester
The Civic Renewal Movement: Community Building and Democracy in the U.S. Carmen Sirianni, Brandeis University
Discussant: Maurice Zeitlin, University of California, Los Angeles
The idea of “envisioning real utopias” combines normative discussions of emancipatory alternatives to existing social arrangements with the pragmatic investigations of institutional feasibility. This session will first lay out the rationale for such an intellectual endeavor and then explore a range of more specific topics: participatory democracy, feminist visions in pre-WWI Britain, and youth empowerment.

Ramada Plaza International Hotel, Whitcomb Room
Organizer and Presider: Jerry G. Pankhurst, Wittenberg University
Panel: Said Amir Arjomand, State University of New York, Stony Brook
Mark Juergensmeyer, University of California
J. Craig Jenkins, Ohio State University
Roland Robertson, University of Aberdeen
A decade after Samuel Huntington originally outlined the argument of the “clash of civilizations,” many voices in the media and among policymakers seem to take the global condition of “the West against the rest” as a given. The panel will explore the theoretical and empirical validity of the notion of the clash of civilizations and weigh its value in understanding global dynamics.

38. Minority Fellowship Program (MFP) Session. Research by MFP Fellows

Panel: Jackie Goldberg, California State Assembly, 45th District
Mark Baldassare, Public Policy Institute of California

Peter Schrag, Journalist/Author
In October, 2003, California’s voters recalled a Governor—the only time in a full century that such a major political figure has been successfully recalled from office. Even more striking, his replacement is among the most high-profile screen actors in the world. This panel will examine the social and political implications of these developments, and provide a unique California set of perspectives from a respected survey researcher and opinion pollster, a vigorously engaged politician, and one of the most esteemed political journalists in the state.

41. Methodological Seminar: Qualitative Software Tools: Basic to Advanced Functions of Major Commercial Packages
Leaders: Raymond C. Maietta, ResearchTalk, Inc., Sharlene J. Hesse-Biber, Boston College
Learn how features of major commercial qualitative software packages can supplement your qualitative analysis approach and/or current use of the program. The session will cover major features of qualitative software within the context of a discussion of careful qualitative analysis process.
Areas of focus include:
- Memo writing strategies and retrieval
- Code category review strategies
- Sorting and Filtering
- Advanced question and answer facilities
- Use of network and theory mapping tools
- Qualitative/Quantitative links
- Use of multi-media data

42. Academic Workshop. Creating Institutional Change for Women Faculty in the Academy
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 13
Leader: Abby L. Ferber, University of Colorado, Colorado Springs
This workshop will provide tools for identifying issues and obstacles facing women faculty, and specific ideas and strategies for creating change on your campus.

43. Academic Workshop. How to Include Students in Community Activism or Research
Organizer and Presider: Judith R. Blau, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
Panel: Judith R. Blau, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
Angela J. Hattery, Wake Forest University
Earl Smith, Wake Forest University
Presenters will share their experiences about bringing active learning projects to undergraduate education. Active learning involves a range of approaches - community activism, campus activism, and community based projects. After the presenters describe case examples – projects that worked and a few that did not – attendees will be invited to share their experiences. The goal of the session will be to collectively develop some principles that will advance pedagogy of student activism.

44. Career Workshop. Surviving Graduate School
Renaissance Parc 55, Raphael Room
Organizers: Kathryn Linenber, Northwestern University; Steven Greg Hoffman, Northwestern University
Panel: Marcia D. Hernandez, University at Albany
Adair R. Crosley, University of Pennsylvania
Kathy Liddle, Emory University
Devah Pager, Princeton University
Jennifer A. Reich, University of California, San Francisco
Panelists will discuss how to survive and thrive in graduate school. Topics will include: 1) choosing a graduate that is right for you, 2) the importance of finding faculty mentors, 3) how to work strategically, 4) balancing school and a personal life, and 5) negotiating the discipline. There will be a sizable chunk of time devoted to answering questions from the audience.

45. Research Support Forum Professional Workshop. Writing a Successful Grant Proposal
Organizer and Presider: Patricia E. White, National Science Foundation
Panel: Joane Nagel, National Science Foundation and University of Kansas
Bruce Western, Princeton University
This workshop targets graduate student, faculty and researchers who are new at proposal writing and submission. Representatives from the National Science Foundation, its regular research and dissertation review committees, and grantees will discuss the proposal development process, elements of a competitive proposal, proposal submission and review, and funding opportunities for graduate students and faculty. The format will be interactive, allowing for audience questioning and participation.

Leaders: Robert M. Hauser, University of Wisconsin, Madison,
Taissa S. Hauser, University of Wisconsin, Madison
The purpose of this workshop is to introduce sociologists to the design and data resources of the Wisconsin Longitudinal Study, which is a rich resource of data for research and teaching about the life course, careers, gender, aging, and health. The first half of the workshop will be an overview of the design and content of the WLS from 1957 through the 2003/04 surveys and supplementary data collection activities. The second half of the workshop will be a guided tour of data and documentation.
available on the WLS web-site and a lecture-demonstration of web-based tools for designing and creating data extracts.

The Wisconsin Longitudinal Study (WLS) is a 45-year study of the social and economic life course among 10,000 men and women who graduated from Wisconsin high schools in 1957, and who have been followed up at ages 25, 36, 53-54, and 64-65. New surveys of graduates, selected siblings, and their spouses or widows began in mid-2003. Almost all data from the WLS are publicly available for research, either on the web or by special arrangement with the secure data analysis enclave (OLDR/WISA) at the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

47. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Qualitative Data Analysis
Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan D
Organizer: Marybeth C. Stalp, University of Northern Iowa
Panel: Elizabeth Montemurro, Pennsylvania State University, Abington
Charles M. Brown, Albright College
Marybeth C. Stalp, University of Northern Iowa
Alice V. Sampson, North Georgia College & State University
Participants will share their experiences as qualitative researchers and instructors, presenting information concerning a specific technique or techniques relevant to the analysis of qualitative data. Topics include qualitative computer programs and visual sociology, as well as the use of contemporary popular culture materials (e.g., reality television, personal ads, and internet websites) in teaching qualitative coding. Within individual presentations, participants will demonstrate and share teaching exercises that can be used in the classroom, at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The presider will ask panelists to address how organizers/organizations in three different regions of the world have mobilized as “local” and “global” movements for social change. Each panelist will be asked to draw on their own research to identify and discuss challenges and strategies used to build coherent political projects and constituencies across hierarchies and inequalities.

75. Thematic Session. Unfinished Business: Fifty Years after Brown v. Board of Education
Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A
Organizer and Presider: Bernice McNair Barnett, University of Illinois, Urbana/Champaign
Panel: Nancy Cantor, Syracuse University
Julius Chambers, Ferguson, Stein, and Chambers Law Firm
Joe R. Feagin, Texas A&M University
Thomas F. Pettigrew, University of California, Santa Cruz
May 17, 2004, marked the 50th anniversary of the Brown v. Board decision that struck down the racially “separate but equal” doctrine and promised equality for all. A landmark case in American constitutional law, civil rights struggles, and educational history, Brown illustrated the crucial roles that children, parents, lawyers, judges, social scientists, educators and public intellectuals play. It had a ripple effect beyond race and education and expanded the notion of civil rights to diverse groups in the U.S. as well as human rights around the world. Brown drew upon social science research that impacted public policy that led to successes/failures. The 2003 Supreme Court decision on the Michigan affirmative action cases, in which the ASA and other entities were involved, protected Brown’s promise and allowed that university administrators may use affirmative action to promote diversity and access. Where do we go from here? What is the unfinished business of Brown v. Board? Distinguished panelists assess past, current, and future challenges and opportunities for realizing Brown’s promise and hope.

76. Alpha Kappa Delta (AKD) 2004 Lecture
Hilton San Francisco, Lombard Room
Organizer and Presider: Joseph Healey, Christopher Newport University
Lecture. Randall Collins, University of Pennsylvania

Westin St. Francis Hotel
Organizer and Presider: Florence B. Bonner, Howard University
Panel: James S. Jackson, University of Michigan
Franklin D. Wilson, University of Wisconsin-Madison
Roderick Harrison, Howard University

Research is needed on the issue of whether a combined race Hispanic ethnicity question should be used instead of separate questions on race and Hispanic origin in 2010 census. There are three main reasons to focus on these issues: (1) Consistency with current use by the federal government, (2) High percentages of Hispanics selecting the “Some Other Race” (SOR) response category, (3) Researchers have recommended that “ethnicity” be used instead of “race” to include cultural aspects.

78. MFP Development Workshop
Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan D
Organizers: Tyrone A. Forman, University of Illinois, Chicago; Mercedes Rubio, American Sociological Association
Presider: Mercedes Rubio, American Sociological Association
Panel: Tyrone A. Forman, University of Illinois, Chicago
Nieves Rubio, Kern County Department of Mental Health
Carl V. Hill, University of Michigan
Nancy Mirabal, San Francisco State University
P. Rafael Hernandez-Arias, DePaul University

The MFP Development Workshop is designed to expose students to sociologists and other professionals who have been able to transition from their graduate programs into academic and non-academic positions. In this workshop we will expose graduate students and junior faculty to how to make use of their talents and training in a competitive job market; discuss the pros and cons of post-doctoral training; and discuss other career options for individuals with PhD’s.

79. Open Forum. The War in Iraq
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 9
Organizer: Michael Burawoy, University of California, Berkeley
Presider: Charles K. Derber, Boston College
Speakers: Medea Benjamin, Global Exchange

Jonathan Steele, The Guardian (Manchester and London)

The two distinguished speakers have been deeply engaged with the war in Iraq. Jonathan Steele is an eminent English journalist who has reported from all parts of the world as well as being the author of widely read books on South Africa, East Germany, Soviet Power, détente, and most recently Eternal Russia. He is the Senior Foreign Correspondent for the English newspaper, The Guardian. Since the toppling of Saddam Hussein he has spent 6 months in Iraq, completing his latest assignment just before coming to the ASA meetings. Medea Benjamin is a veteran of the peace movement, Director of Global Exchange, and co-founder of Code Pink, a women’s group organizing against the occupation of Iraq. She has traveled to Iraq on behalf of Occupation Watch and also with a delegation of military families.

The speakers will give short addresses on the situation in Iraq and then respond to questions and commentary from the floor.

80. Methodological Seminar. Qualitative Reasoning and the Internet: Problems, Progress, and Promise (to 5:30 p.m.)
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 7
Ticket required for admission

This seminar is for sociologists interested in using computers to reason about qualitative and unstructured data in teaching, research, and practice, with particular emphasis on the Internet. It will show how recent advances improve the efficiency of qualitative coding, provide tools to help generalize and refine concepts, and can be adapted for diverse practical applications. Examples focus on the Internet, describing ongoing projects using Qualrus™ that analyze open-ended responses to questions in web surveys in both French and English; code multimedia (including HTML web pages, rich text, graphics, audio, and video); grade essay questions submitted by students via the Internet; perform literature reviews of abstracts, full-text documents, and references from e-journals and digital libraries; and interpret unstructured questions about census data submitted to a web site. Several of these projects also illustrate strategies for collaborating in team research via the Internet from geographically dispersed sites.
81. Academic Workshop. Creating an Inclusive Climate for Persons with Disabilities
Leaders: Corinne Kirchner, American Foundation for the Blind
Tanis Doe, Royal Roads University and University of Victoria
Anthony Candela, American Foundation for the Blind
The presenters will overview the range of issues and resources (technology, advocacy, support, etc.) for sociologists with disabilities who are in, or preparing for, employment situations. They will discuss more than specific accommodations that serve the needs of individuals, addressing the greater challenge of ensuring employment environments that are enabling for all people, with and without disabilities. The spirit and specific provisions, including judicial interpretations, of the Americans with Disabilities Act and Sections 504, 508, etc. of the Rehabilitation Act, will be covered. The session is intended to be interactive, i.e., with questions and shared experiences from the audience.

82. Academic Workshop. Using Undergraduate Teaching Assistants
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 13
Leaders: Aaron B. Culley, Wingate University; Laura Fingerson, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee
Panel: Liahna Gordon, California State University-Chico
Jane C. Hood, University of New Mexico
Janice M. McCabe, Indiana University
Deborah Marie Plechner, University of Minnesota Duluth
Heather Sullivan-Catlin, State University of New York - Potsam
This workshop will explore the practical issues and pedagogical implications of using undergraduate teaching assistants (UTAs) in the classroom. Panelists will present their own models for using UTAs and invite discussion on a variety of issues such as: course credit vs. pay, power relations, students grading student work, developing a program at your institution, criteria that can be used to select good UTAs, ways to “train” UTAs, and how to evaluate your program for using them.

83. Career Workshop. The Non-Academic Job Search
Organizer: Leora Lawton, TechSociety Research
Presider: Cynthia L. Sipe, Youth Development Strategies, Inc.
Panel: Karin A. Mack, Centers for Disease Control
Melody Lawrence, Life Care Centers of America
Paul G. Aldo, Performance Solutions
Attendees of the panel can expect to gain an understanding of how to be more successful in various segments of the non-academic job market. In particular, we have asked each of the panelists to address the following topics as it relates to their area of expertise:
- Getting to the interview...networking, job ads, attitude, presentation of self
- Interviewing...getting them, behaving in them, following up after, the first, second, third...offers, negotiations
- Getting to the next job...networking on the job, getting recognition for work done, dealing with adversaries.
- Non-academic soft skills...being proactive, continuous education, getting it done...from calendars, to knowing MS office, to whatever.

84. Professional Workshop. Applying for NSF Funding for Educational Projects
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 15
Organizer and Presider: Lora Bex Lemper, The University of Michigan-Dearborn Panel: Myles Boylan, National Science Foundation
David Halle, University of California, Los Angeles
Andrew A. Beveridge, Queens College and Graduate Center, City University of New York
Ayse Pamuk, San Francisco State University
Mark A. Fossett, Texas A&M University
The panelists will share their experiences as veteran peer reviewers and/or as successful competitors for NSF funding. We will provide materials that will encourage participants to develop effective grants. We will discuss: CCLI; review criteria and what they mean; considerations when developing an educational project; and how to use program directors.

85. Research Workshop. Using Major National Data Sets: ICPSR and Maximizing the Use of Archives
Organizer: Myron P. Gutmann, University of Michigan
Panel: Henry Brady, University of California, Berkeley
Iona Einowski, University of California, Berkeley
Myron P. Gutmann, University of Michigan
Ron Nakao, Stanford University
Amy Pienta, University of Michigan
A group of data archivists, researchers, and data librarians will discuss how the ICPSR data archive operates, and how various members of the research community can contribute to and benefit from it. The workshop will include discussion of how data get archived, how archived data can be used, and how data creators and data users can get the most out of archives such as ICPSR. The workshop will also include information about innovative data sources at ICPSR and elsewhere, and about innovative technologies for finding and making use of data for research.

86. Teaching Workshop. Teaching about Inequality
Organizer: Scott Sernau, Indiana University South Bend
Leaders: Scott Sernau, Indiana University South Bend
Johnnie M. Griffin, Indiana University, South Bend
Inequality is at the core of the sociology curriculum, yet many instructors find a course on inequality challenging to teach and difficult to engage students in the concepts and material.
In this highly interactive workshop, we will begin with some of the challenges, including ever-shifting intersections of race, class, and gender, and the new faces of wealth and poverty. We will then look at innovative and effective ways to engage students in the learning process, including simulations, critical thinking exercises, community-based projects, problem-based activities, and the use of diverse literature. Insights and ideas will be drawn from instructors from around the country as well as the workshop participants themselves.

Participants are invited to bring syllabi, handouts and exercises to share; others will be provided.

87. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Organizational Theory
Hilton San Francisco, Taylor A
Organizer: Diane Pike, Augsburg College
Leaders: Diane Pike, Augsburg College
Lars Christiansen, Augsburg College
W. Michael Cushion, Aquinas College

As the challenges of living in an organizational society intensify, the practice of teaching organizational theory continues to develop and mature. Issues of effective strategies particular to this content, meaningful measures of student learning, and the sharing of useful ideas for learning about organizational crime and misconduct will be explored in this participatory workshop.

D. Angus Vail, Willamette University
This workshop will discuss innovative projects that engage undergraduate students in public sociologies. These projects move beyond traditional service learning to better integrate campus and community resources, encourage students to be active citizens, and allow students to apply the sociological imagination to real world issues. Panelists will present strategies for effectively integrating these projects into a variety of courses, including core sociology courses such as research methods and statistics as well as topical courses. This will be an interactive workshop, so participants will be encouraged to share their own experiences and strategies with the group.

123. Career Workshop. Careers or Interludes in Academic Administration
Renaissance Parc 55, Raphael Room
Organizer: Scott G. McNall, California State University, Chico
Panel: Scott G. McNall, California State University, Chico
Gary D. Sandefur, University of Wisconsin-Madison
Susan Elizabeth Wright, Drake University
Drawing on a wide range of administrative experience (interim president, provost, associate provost, chair) our panelists will discuss how to: 1) prepare for a higher-level administrative position; 2) draw on one’s background as a sociologist to succeed and help others; 3) balance a career as a sociologist with a career in administration.

The panelists will also answer the questions: “Does one stop being a teacher and scholar when they become an administrator?” “Would others see your administrative decisions as being determined by your discipline?” “What causes failure and burnout in administrative careers.” Attendees are welcome to join the panelists in an open discussion posing their own questions and answers.

Leader: Wendy Y. Carter, Arizona State University, West
This workshop is recommended for any graduate student who is required to write a master’s thesis and/or doctoral dissertation. This workshop is for students who just started, those working on a proposal and critical for students who are “all but done” (ABD). A range of issues related to the thesis and dissertation process will be covered, including:

- How to choose a topic
- What is the role of the advisor
- How to set a deadline
- How to keep working daily when you are tired and depressed
- Preparing for cost that you may not be aware of
- How to finish the document
- How to prepare for the dissertation defense
- How to proceed if your professor is out of town and you need his/her signature … And much more.

Panel: Elizabeth A. Armstrong, Indiana University Charis E. Kubrin, George Washington University Valentine M. Moghadam, Illinois State University
The American Sociological Association’s Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline (FAD) provides small grants up to $7,000 for ground-breaking research initiatives and related activities such as conferences. FAD is made possible through a matching grant to ASA from the National Science Foundation and administered by the ASA. Three recent award recipients and the program director will discuss the following issues. What are the chances of winning? What kinds of proposals get funded? What makes research “cutting edge” and significant for sociology as a field? How do you emphasize the scientific, social and educational impact of the proposal? How do you deal with suggestions and criticisms if you are going to revise and resubmit?

The purpose of this workshop is to encourage applications, especially from scholars in the early stages of their careers and who are not necessarily in “top 10” departments. Panelists will speak from their experiences and workshop participants will be encouraged to discuss proposal ideas.

126. Teaching Workshop. Successfully Teaching Statistics without Watering Down
Hilton San Francisco, Francisca D
Leaders: Ferris J. Ritchey, University of Alabama, Birmingham, Thomas A. Petee, Auburn University
This workshop presents an overall strategy and class-tested techniques that prevent a common dilemma experienced by statistics instructors: the perception that either class material must be oversimplified (i.e., “watered down”) or that math-challenged students must be rejected (i.e., “weed out”). This approach shows how undergraduate statistics courses can be taught without compromising depth of understanding, computational skill levels, or scope of material. Specific methods are offered for refuting abstract ideas, such as standard errors, sampling distributions, the null hypothesis, and degrees of freedom. Innovative graphics software and internet resources are presented. Attendees are encouraged to share experiences and challenges of teaching statistics.
127. Teaching Workshop. The ASA Centennial as a Teaching Resource (co-sponsored by the Section on the History of Sociology)

Organizers and Presiders: Patricia Madoo Lengermann, George Washington University; Jill M. Niebrugge-Brantley, American University
Panel: Andrea Malkin Brenner, American University
John P. Drysdale, University of Iowa
Peter R. Graham, Mount St. Mary’s College
Diane Pike, Augsburg College
Kathleen O. Slobin, North Dakota State University
Peter J. Stein, William Patterson University
Linda J. Rynbrandt, Grand Valley State University

This workshop presents a variety of strategies for incorporating the ASA Centennial (1905-2005) into courses at all levels of the sociology curriculum, offering participants (1) resource materials—bibliographies and chronologies—on the history of this period; (2) strategies for incorporating these materials into course work; (3) guidelines for students to do research on the history of their departments or on an area of specialization as represented by the ASA Section and Interest Areas, including construction of archives and protocols for interviews with faculty, staff and alumni; (4) resource materials for assessing the impact of sociology on American life—e.g., the use of sociology in government data collection, in legislation and in judicial opinions; the ways that sociological “best sellers” have added to the national vocabulary and shaped understandings and debates (case studies will be suggested).

Departmental Alumni Night (DAN) — Hilton San Francisco, Continental Ballroom 4
The 31st annual Departmental Alumni Night (DAN is the spot where attendees can connect with friends, colleagues, and foes to reminisce about graduate school days, create new coalitions, and catch up on the latest news. Each graduate department of sociology in the United States and Canada received an invitation to sponsor a table for alumni and friends. Departments that reserved tables are:

University at Albany, SUNY
University of Arizona
Baylor University
Boston College
Bowling Green State University
Brandeis University
Brown University
University of California, Davis
University of California, Irvine
University of California, Santa Cruz
Cornell University, Department of Development
Cornell University, Department of Sociology
City University of New York Graduate School
Duke University
Florida State University
Fordham University
University of Hawaii at Manoa
University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign
Indiana University
University of Iowa
Iowa State University
University of Kansas
University of Maryland
Michigan State University
University of Minnesota
University of Nebraska, Lincoln
University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
North Carolina State University
University of North Texas
Northwestern University
University of Notre Dame
Ohio State University
University of Oklahoma
University of Pennsylvania
Pennsylvania State University
Purdue University
Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey
Southern Illinois University, Carbondale
Stanford University
Stony Brook University
Syracuse University
University of Texas, Austin
Texas A&M University
University of Toronto
Vanderbilt University
University of Virginia
Virginia Tech
University of Washington

Home bases will also be provided for sociologists in business and industry, as well as for international scholars and guests. Table-hopping is a norm for this casual evening get-together. Conversation sets will be interspersed by the jazz offerings of sociologist-musicians and their colleagues, including Rob Faulkner, Howie Becker, Don Bennett, and Doug Mitchell.
Sunday, August 15

The length of each daytime session/meeting activity is one hour and forty minutes, unless noted otherwise. The usual turnover schedule is as follows:

- 8:30 a.m.-10:10 a.m.
- 10:30 a.m.-12:10 p.m.
- 12:30 p.m.-2:10 p.m.
- 2:30 p.m.-4:10 p.m.
- 4:30 p.m.-6:10 p.m.
- 6:30 p.m.-8:15 p.m.

Session presiders and committee chairs are requested to see that sessions and meetings end on time to avoid conflicts with subsequent activities scheduled into the same room and to allow participants time to transit between facilities.

8:30 a.m. Sessions

146. Thematic Session. GLBT Sociologies and Public Issues

Renaissance Parc 55, Parc Ballroom II
Organizer and Presider: Jennifer Eichstedt, Humboldt State University
Panel: Melissa S. Embser-Herbert, Hamline University
Steven Seidman, State University at Albany
Tomas Almaguer, San Francisco State University
This panel will discuss the relationships between the knowledge constructed within sociology and related disciplines and the politics of queerness that exist outside of the academy. Each participant will focus on how and where lesbian/gay/bi/transgendered sociologies have intersected with public knowledges in useful and problematic ways.

147. Thematic Session. Life Courses in the Globalization Process: Six Years of International Comparative Research

Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 1
Organizer and Presider: Heather A. Hofmeister, Otto-Friedrich University, Bamberg
The Losers of Globalization: Becoming an Adult in Uncertain Times. Heather A. Hofmeister, Otto-Friedrich University, Bamberg
The Winners of Globalization: Mid-Career Men in Uncertain Times. Daniela Grunow, Otto-Friedrich University of Bamberg
Career Exits under Globalization: Becoming Retired in Uncertain Times. Dirk Hofaecker, Otto-Friedrich University of Bamberg
Discussant: Hans-Peter Blossfeld, Otto-Friedrich University of Bamberg
The growing business of migrant smuggling and the trafficking of people into slavery has received much recent media attention. Yet, empirical sociological research on this topic remains underdeveloped. This panel assesses the state of research in this area; it also explores various local and global social forces in creating these two related social phenomena.

150. Regional Spotlight Session. Multiculturalism and Youth in the Bay Area: Emerging Identities and Movements

Hilton San Francisco, Renaissance Parc 55, Cervantes Room

Organizer and Presider: Christopher D. Rhomberg, Yale University

Southeast Asian Youth Doing Community Organizing in Urban Communities. Soo Ah Kwon, University of California, Berkeley

Medicine of Memory: Third World Radicalism in San Francisco and the Politics of Multiracial Unity. Jason Ferreira, University of California, Santa Cruz

This session explores how young people in the Bay Area are experiencing its racial and cultural diversity and what new identities, networks and political movements they are developing. Panelists will speak from a range of perspectives—academic research, grassroots activism and advocacy, and divergent life experiences.

151. Methodological Seminar. Simulations

Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 8

Leader: Michael W. Macy, Cornell University

What do flocks of birds, traffic jams, fads, drinking games, forest fires, riots, and residential segregation have in common? Traditionally, sociologists have tried to understand social life as a structured system of institutions and norms that shape individual behavior from the top down. In contrast, agent modelers suspect that much of social life emerges from the bottom up, more like improvisational jazz than a symphony. This seminar is intended for sociologists interested in learning how to model social life based on agent-level interaction, where an agent might be an individual, a firm, or a node in a network. The seminar will progress through a series of questions, from epistemological to methodological:

1. What are the theoretical and practical differences between modeling the interaction of factors (e.g., multivariate models) and the interaction of actors?
2. What are the strengths and weaknesses of agent-based models, compared to other model-building techniques (data-based, mathematical, and natural language)?
3. Is the agent-based approach relevant for macro sociologists? How can “bottom-up” models be used to study structural influences on macrosocial dynamics?

Globalization generates uncertainty, yet individuals still commit to careers, educational paths, and family. How? Do patterns of adaptation diffuse among modern societies, or do institutional differences such as welfare regimes, educational systems, and family traditions preserve national differences? We present core findings from the six-year GLOBALIFE Project on life courses in over 15 OECD-type countries under globalization.

148. Thematic Session. Making Public Sociology Out of What We Know about Inequality

Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A

Organizer and Presider: Michael Hout, University of California, Berkeley

Does Anybody Really Want to Know the Consequences of High Stakes Testing? Robert M. Hauser, University of Wisconsin, Madison

Labor Market Inequalities. Martina Morris, University of Washington

Incarceration and the Institutionalization of American Inequality. Bruce Western, Princeton University

Inequality and Chaos: How Many Little Effects Accumulate to Make a Big Difference. Susan P. Mayer, University of Chicago

Ebbs and flows of inequality affect the quality of social life. Academic sociology has addressed this link since the earliest days of the discipline, but our message is seldom heard outside professional settings. Four leading academics will discuss what they would tell the world about the importance of inequality to education, the labor market, prisons, and public policy and reflect on the obstacles they face in getting that message across.

149. Thematic Session. What Do We Know about Migrant Smuggling and Human Trafficking?

Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 2

Organizer: David Kyle, University of California, Davis

Presider: Kitty C. Calavita, University of California, Irvine

Mexican Migrant-Smuggling: A Cross-Border Cottage Industry. David Spener, Trinity College

The Evolution of Migrant Smuggling from Ecuador: A Ten-Year Follow-Up Study. David Kyle, University of California, Davis; Brad Jokisch, Ohio University

Shifting the Debate: Human Trafficking Reconsidered. Kamala Kempadoo, York University

From State Hands to Trafficking Hands? The Uneasy Case of Filipina Entertainers in Japan. Kristel Acacio, University of California, Berkeley

Discussant: Kitty C. Calavita, University of California, Irvine

The growing business of migrant smuggling and the trafficking of people into slavery has received much recent media attention. Yet, empirical sociological research on this topic remains underdeveloped. This panel assesses the state of research in this area; it also explores various local and global social forces in creating these two related social phenomena.
4. How should we evaluate agent-based models? Should we strive for simplicity or for realism? If the outcomes depend on the assumptions, how can one have surprising results? How should agent-based models be tested empirically? Should the assumptions be realistic? Should models be calibrated for predictive accuracy? Or should models be used to search for clues about puzzling outcomes?

We will address these questions as we carefully inspect some very simple agent-based models, including Schelling’s “neighborhood segregation,” Axelrod’s “evolution of cooperation,” and a Bush-Mosteller stochastic learning model of Prisoner’s Dilemma.

152. Academic Workshop. Building Strong Professional Master’s Degree Programs
Organizer: Carla B. Howery, American Sociological Association
Leaders: Carla B. Howery, American Sociological Association; Joyce Miller Iutcovich, Keystone University Research Corporation

The MA in sociology, is, or could be the most marketable degree in sociology. Undergraduate students who, for a host of reasons, may not choose to go on for the Ph.D., might find the MA a significant career investment. Some Ph.D. students might also find the MA a better fit (not just a consolation prize) in their career pursuits. The ASA is working with departments to develop quality MA programs that focus on skills for applied work and engage local employers as an important resource.

153. Career Workshop. Preparing Your Credentials for Teaching-Oriented Faculty Positions (designed for advanced graduate students)
Renaissance Parc 55, Raphael Room
Leader: Darcie Vandegrift, Drake University

Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 3
Organizers: Torrey S. Androski and K. Lee Herring, American Sociological Association
Presider: To be announced
Panel: Rebecca L. Clark, National Institute of Child Health and Human Development
Lawrence Fine, Office of Behavioral and Social Sciences, National Institutes of Health
Liz Malone, National Science Foundation

Program representatives from leading federal science agencies will discuss funding goals and priorities, highlight patterns of support, and offer advice on how to best develop competitive research proposals. Potential research grant applicants—from novice to expert—will benefit from this overview. Audience questions will be an integral aspect of this workshop.

155. Research Workshop. Using Major National Data Sets: Exploration of Data from the National Center on Education Statistics
Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan D
Leader: Carl Schmitt, National Center on Education Statistics

National Center on Education Statistics (NCES) researchers will provide an overview of NCES data files and information relevant for Sociology, along with an in-depth look at several data collections. NCES has the following new data that can be used for analysis:

- Schools and Staffing Survey 2000;
- The Common Core of Data (the public elementary secondary education data files have been newly integrated into an electronic data base and set up for public access via the web using a table building tool);
- The Early Childhood Longitudinal Survey data file;
- Educational Longitudinal Survey (2002 with the 04 follow-up and the student transcripts collection); and
- National Education Longitudinal Study (NELS:88) 2004 release of the most recent follow-up and a transcript collection.

156. Teaching Workshop. Teaching about Holocaust, Genocide, and Human Rights
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 21
Organizer and Presider: Christine Min Wotipka, University of California, Los Angeles
Panel: Christine Min Wotipka, University of California, Los Angeles
Joyce Apsel, New York University
Carlos E. Zeisel, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
Alex Alvarez, Northern Arizona University

Leaders will discuss new methods (including the Internet) and resources for teaching about holocaust, genocide, and human rights. The workshop will include examining patterns of human destructiveness within a genocide studies framework and explore psychological and pedagogical challenges of teaching about genocide and other gross human rights violations. Issues of human rights and the challenges of paradoxes of movements that attempt to address human wrongs will be explored, from non-violence to different types of humanitarian intervention, including non-governmental organizations.

157. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Sociology in the Community College
Organizer: David L. Levinson, Bergen Community College
Presider: Philip Dolce, Bergen Community College
Panel: Maria Isabel Bryant, College of Southern Maryland
Jacqueline Behn, Bergen Community College
Marcella Mazzarelli, Massachusetts Bay Community College
David L. Levinson, Bergen Community College
Philip Dolce, Bergen Community College
Teaching Sociology in the Community College is a workshop designed to explore issues impacting community colleges with a focus on teaching at those institutions. Among the topics to be discussed are: globalizing the college curriculum, service learning, teaching part-time versus full-time, use of case studies, impact of customer service initiatives on students and teaching, and other issues as suggested by our conversation with the participants. The organizers will make some general remarks and then will open the workshop for discussion with participants. Some handouts will be provided.

158. Informal Discussion Roundtables. Teaching, Research, Service, and Identity as a Sociologist

Renaissance Parc 55, Barcelona II
Organizers: Verna M. Keith, Arizona State University; Mary Benin, Arizona State University
1. What We Learn from Students and the Sociology They Bring to the Classroom. Leslie T.C. Wang, University of Toledo
2. Weaving the Tapestry: Teaching with Other Disciplines. Kristin Park, Westminster College

Can Global Ties Help Local Labor Organizations in Today’s China. Pun Ngai, Hong Kong University of Science and Technology and Chinese Working Women Network (CWVN)

Among the host of social movements challenging the current trajectory of neo-liberal globalization, only the transnational labor movement can claim can claim over 150 million members in over 150 countries, organized into local affiliates but connected by robust global organizational structures. How would this movement have to transform itself in order to push globalization onto a different path?

186. Thematic Session. Collaborating on a Public Issue: The Case of Family Leave

Organizer and Presider: Phyllis Moen, University of Minnesota

Panel: Ruth Milkman, University of California, Los Angeles

Eileen Applebaum, Rutgers University

Netsy Firestein, Labor Project for Working Families

Naomi Gerstel, University of Massachusetts, Amherst

This session will look at the Labor Project for Working Families and specifically, the case of family leave in California as a public issue that transcends disciplinary boundaries and divergent publics. How issues like family leave are framed, reframed, and legitimized is an ongoing political and sociological process related to questions of both inequality and social justice.
187. Thematic Session. Deepening Democracy through Faith-Based Citizen Activism: Strengths, Critiques, Alternatives (co-sponsored by the Association for the Sociology of Religion)

Ramada Plaza International Hotel, Whitcomb Room

Organizer and Presider: Richard L. Wood, University of New Mexico

Scholars will briefly present how they hope to impact the self-understanding and practice of organizing for social justice; practitioners will respond with critique, self-critique, or reports on how scholarly writing has influenced their own practice.

188. Thematic Session. Successful Failures: Contested Opportunity Policies in Higher Education

Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A

Organizer and Presider: David E. Lavin, City University of New York

The Higher Education System: Stratification and Opportunity Structures. Walter R. Allen, University of California, Los Angeles

Counter-Revolutionary Movements in Higher Education: The Case of the Alumni Revolts at Yale and Princeton. Jerome B. Karabel, University of California, Berkeley

Passing the Torch: An Intergenerational Perspective on Opportunity Policies for Poor and Disadvantaged Students. Paul A. Attewell, City University of New York Graduate Center

A paradox of educational success but political failure is evident among opportunity policies in higher education. Both affirmative action and “open admissions” policies are illustrative. Research suggests such programs have been generally successful. Nonetheless, political leaders have attacked and undermined them. Panel and audience will discuss processes of mobilization and countermobilization in relation to opportunity policies.

189. Open Forum. Assessment of Sociology Programs

Renaissance Parc 55, Rubens Room

Organizer and Presider: Janet Huber Lowry, Austin College

The ASA Task Force on Assessment seeks input from colleagues who have undertaken assessment strategies for the major (or sociology’s part in general education). What has worked? What can be shared? What are the pitfalls? How can we make assessment a useful tool to understand our programs and improve them? The Task Force is assembling promising practices, examples, and materials to share. Bring your comments, ideas, and materials to this forum.

The Task Force charge includes describing undergraduate assessment, identifying promising practices, reviewing pros and cons of standardized examination, preparing a report suggesting means or the how-to side of assessment, and creating model materials to undertake useful assessments. It considers its work as a companion volume to the recently revised version of Liberal Learning and the Sociology Major, a 1991 report in collaboration with the Association of American Colleges. Among other tasks, the task force reviewed available resources, conducted a survey of assessment needs and desired content and delivery systems, and developed descriptions of models. Those curious about assessment are encouraged to attend with their questions.

ASA Task Force members are: Janet Huber Lowry, chair (Austin College); Shirley A. Scritchfield (Rockhurst University); Diane Pike (Augustsburg College); Gregory L. Weiss (Roanoke College); Judith Ann Warner (Texas A&M International University); Barbara Trepagnier (Texas State University-San Marcos); Cynthia M. Siemsen (California State University-Chico); Harry Perlstadt (Michigan State University); John P. Myers, (Rowan University); Caroline Hodges Persell, ASA Council Liaison (New York University); and Carla B. Howery, ASA Executive Office Liaison.

190. Research Support Forum. Science Policy, National Priorities, and Opportunities for the Social Sciences

Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 3

Organizers: K. Lee Herring and Torrey S. Androski, American Sociological Association;

Presider: Sally T. Hillsman, American Sociological Association

Panel: Virginia S. Cain, Office of Behavioral and Social Sciences, National Institutes of Health

Christine A. Bachrach, National Institute on Child Health and Human Development

Paul Jennings, Department of Homeland Security

This special session provides a forum to consider opportunities for significant gains in the social sciences. Panelists will provide a briefing on the current state of resources, the policy issues on the table, and the potential constraints on funding for sociology and other social science fields. Bringing government and non-government experience, the speakers who comprise the panel will provide candid assessments of priorities and potential problems for federal support of the social sciences.

Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan C

Organizer and Presider: Jennifer L. Pierce, University of Minnesota
Critics: Roderick Ferguson, University of Minnesota
Bruce B. Williams, Mills College
Wendy Leo Moore, University of Minnesota
Author: Elizabeth Higginbotham, University of Delaware

192. Regional Spotlight Session. Crime and the City: San Francisco as a Sociological Place in Mystery Novels

Organizer and Presider: William A. Edwards, University of San Francisco

What can crime fiction writers tell us about the urban environment? What can we learn about San Francisco as a setting for mystery and intrigue? Discover San Francisco as a sociological place in crime fiction. Experience the City by the Bay through the sociological imagination of a panel of award winning mystery novelists (Robin Burcell, Joe Gores, John Lescroat, and Eddie Muller) and the mystery critic for the San Francisco Chronicle, David Lazarus.

193. Methodological Seminar. HIPAA Guidelines and Research in Medical Sociology

Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 8

Ticket required for admission

Leaders: Richard Wagner, University of California, San Francisco; Emily S. Kolker, Brandeis University

This seminar will discuss the practical implications for sociological research of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA), also known as “The Privacy Rule.” HIPAA regulates disclosures of patients’ health information. The provisions and terminology of HIPAA relating to use of health information in research will be explained. Variations in institutions’ implementation of HIPAA will be discussed, along with what sociologists must do to gain access to and protect information in different settings. We will consider how researchers may identify and contact potential subjects in compliance with HIPAA. The interface between HIPAA and human subject protection regulations and Institutional Review Board (IRB) approvals will be explored.

194. Academic Workshop. Creating an Inclusive Climate for Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, and Transgendered Students, Staff, and Faculty

Renaissance Parc 55, Raphael Room

Organizer and Presider: Betsy Lucal, Indiana University, South Bend

Panel: Christina Borel, Simmons College
Nancy A. Naples, University of Connecticut
Peter M. Nardi, Pitzer College
Beth E. Schneider, University of California

In this workshop, graduate students and faculty will discuss their experiences at colleges and universities with varying levels of inclusivity. Among the issues to be discussed are: being the “pink elephant” in the classroom and teaching about sexualities, negotiating the pitfalls and promise of being out on campus (including issues related to getting tenure), mentoring LGBT students, the meaning of being “genderqueer” within the context of a women’s college, and working with campus LGBT groups and university administrators. Workshop presenters will propose possible solutions and plans of action to create an inclusive climate.

195. Academic Workshop. Developing an Internship Program in Applied Sociology

Organizer and Presider: David E. Woolwine, Metropolitan College of New York
Panel: Sandra K. Gill, Gettysburg College
Pam Haldeman, Mount St. Mary’s College
Norma S. Wilcox, Wright State University
Joanna Hadjicostandi, University of Texas of the Permian Basin
Kathryn J. Fox, University of Vermont

Panelists will discuss various aspects of developing and administering programs in applied sociology. Issues to be addressed are: setting up an internship program, types of agencies and organizations contacted, contracting with agencies and evaluation, comparison of sociology internships with internships in women’s studies, student writing and internships.

Renaissance Parc 55, Cervantes Room

Organizer and Presider: Mary Gatta, Rutgers University
Panel: Terri Boyer, Rutgers University
Dianne Mills McKay, Rutgers University

The panelists will share their experiences as sociologists and social scientists working with state governments (in particular state departments of labor and education) to inform participants about available opportunities. Specifically the panel will discuss opportunities for research, technical assistance and advisory work that sociologists perform for state governments.

In addition, the panel will also focus on collaborations between state government and state universities. In doing so the panel will specifically focus on model collaborations in New Jersey between the Rutgers University Center for Women and the State Employment and Training Commission, and the Rutgers University Center for Women and Work and the State Department of Education.
197. Professional Workshop. How to Market Your Book
Panel: Pepper J. Schwartz, University of Washington
Kathleen Gerson, New York University
Virginia E. Rutter, University of Washington
John H. Gagnon, Emeritus State University of New York, Stony Brook
Carole A. Campbell
This workshop will be a practical discussion on how to translate sociological work into a trade or “crossover” book and then how to find an agent, publisher and marketing strategy since fewer and fewer publishing companies do significant promotion.

198. Teaching Workshop. Teaching about HIV and AIDS
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 13
Organizer: Michael Polgar, Penn State University
Panel: Michael Polgar, Penn State University
Carrie Elizabeth Foote-Ardah, Indiana University/Purdue University
Carole A. Campbell, California State University, Long Beach
This workshop helps instructors develop new curricula addressing HIV/AIDS and incorporate HIV and AIDS into existing curricula. This workshop provides guidelines and materials for including HIV/AIDS topics into general and introductory sociology courses, social problems courses, and medical sociology courses. It also provides examples of courses devoted to the study sociological study of HIV and AIDS, following national examples and using CDC-supported pedagogical examples.

199. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Research Ethics to Students
Renaissance Parc 55, Michelangelo Room
Organizer: Enrique S. Pumar, William Paterson University
Panel: Enrique S. Pumar, William Paterson University
Earl Babbie, Chapman University
The panelists will share insights from their considerable experiences teaching research ethics in research methods courses. The panel will discuss several effective approaches to integrating ethics into the research process and how the observance of ethic principles improves the overall execution of student research projects. We will discuss: relevant cases and professional research ethic controversies; highlights of the ASA Professional Code of Ethics; university IRBs and the approval of student research projects; useful strategies to integrate ethics into the research curriculum; and the politics of social research.

Status Characteristics and Reward Expectations: Test of a Model. M. Hamit Fisek, Bogazici University; Stuart J. Hysom, Emory University

Bayesian Inference from Continuously Arriving Informant Reports, with Application to Crisis Response. Carter T. Butts and Fabio Leite, University of California, Irvine

Social agents interact in and defect from social networks. Simulation of the defection process based on a payoff comparison predicts its effect on the social groups. Models are tested with friendly association network data. The network ties may have unequal values and collective social agents are considered. Individual social agents and their reward expectations under status characteristics theory are analyzed. Another general model considers Bayesian inference from continuously arriving informant reports.

218. Section on Political Sociology Invited Session. The Left and Politics: What’s Next?

Organizer: G. William Domhoff, University of California, Santa Cruz

Presider: Rhonda F. Levine, Colgate University

224. Ford Panel in International Public Sociology.
Public Sociology in East Asia
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 2
Organizer and Presider: John Lie, University of California, Berkeley
Feminism, Theory, and Politics in Japan. Chizuko Ueno, University of Tokyo
Science, Policy, and Politics in South Korea. Jeong-Ro Yoon, Korea Advanced Institute of Science and Technology
Discussant: Walden Bello, Chulalongkorn University Sociologists are remarkably active intellectually and politically in East Asia. These three women—though by no means representative of their national sociological tradition—have played significant roles in shaping gender politics in Japan (Ueno), environmental politics in China (Dai), and science and technology policy in South Korea (Yoon). They offer at once the achievements and promises of public sociology in East Asian societies, and the session will explore distinct modes of intellectual and political engagement.

225. Thematic Session. Border Crossing and Human Rights (in North America)
Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A
Organizer and Presider: Cecilia Menjívar,
Arizona State University
Safe to Cross, Unsafe to Work: Mexican Seasonal Workers in Canada. Tanya Basok, University of Windsor
The Church vs. the State: Nation-State Borders, Migrants, and Human Rights. Jacqueline M. Hagan and Nestor
Rodriguez, University of Houston
Human Rights and Border Crossings in the South of North America. Manuel Angel Castillo Garcia, Colegio de Mexico
Discussant: Gabriela Rodriguez Pizarro, United Nations
Commission on Immigrants
The presider asked the panelists to reflect on the meanings and experiences of crossing physical and legal borders for immigrants in Canada, the United States and Mexico. The panelists will address the role of national states in delimiting these borders in the context of an otherwise increasingly integrated region, as these actions undermine both the exercise and the protection of immigrants’ human rights.

226. Thematic Session. Culture, Politics and the Production of Disease: African Cases and Controversies
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 3
Organizer and Presider: Bernice A. Pescosolido, Indiana University
Africa’s AIDS Industry and the Public Consumption of the Epidemic. Victor Agadjanian, Arizona State University
Cultures of Governance: AIDS NGOs in Sub-Saharan Africa.
Ann Swidler, University of California
Mental Health and Politics: Torture in South Africa. David R.
Williams, University of Michigan
Sociological insights have traditionally been brought to understand the larger causes, consequences and societal response to health, illness and healing. This session examines critical global problems of health with new and classic sociological vision.

227. Thematic Session. Regulating the Corporation?
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 1
Organizer: Gerald F. Davis, University of Michigan
Antitrust as Industrial Policy. Frank Dobbin, Harvard University
Shareholder Crony Capitalism. Gerald F. Davis, University of Michigan
Why Law Can’t Regulate. Lauren B. Edelman, University of California, Berkeley

Can Economic Sociology Guide Regulation of the Corporation?
Neil Fligstein, University of California
Discussant: Mark Granovetter, Stanford University

Session Description: The globalization of labor, product, capital, and regulatory markets create challenges for regulating the contemporary corporation. This panel explores what recent work in economic sociology tells us about what corporate regulation can and should do in light of the evident failures of the de-regulatory Washington Consensus model.

228. Thematic Session. The Place of Values in Public Sociology: The Case of Family Policy
Renaissance Parc 55, Parc Ballroom II
Organizer and Presider: Scott Coltrane, University of California, Riverside Panel: Barbara Risman, North Carolina State University
Linda J. Waite, University of Chicago
Frank F. Furstenberg, University of Pennsylvania
Kristin Luker, University of California, Berkeley

Debates surrounding welfare reform, marriage promotion, and teenage sexuality have become overtly “political.” Although family policies and research have always been shaped by values, professional norms discouraged their public disclosure. More researchers now acknowledge values underlying their research and advocacy. Is this a good thing? What moral issues do sociologists face when their research findings are used to promote political and religious agendas?

229. Academic Workshop. Models for Connecting Sociology with Other Disciplines
Renaissance Parc 55, Raphael Room
Organizer and Presider: Michael D. Grimes, Louisiana State University Panel: Alan Acock, Oregon State University
Michael D. Grimes, Louisiana State University
Kyrillos Markides, University of Texas
James Quinn, University of North Texas

Multi-disciplinary departments and various forms of collaboration across disciplinary lines have increasingly become parts of contemporary academic reality. Panel members, who come from a variety of different academic settings, will present and discuss strategies for enhancing communication, cooperation, and collaboration among faculty from diverse disciplines.

230. Career Workshop. Preparing for Graduate School
Leader: Chris Golde, Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching

The workshop will draw on major research projects on the graduate school experience, and the similarities and differences in sociology. There is often a disconnection between what graduate students expect and what they experience in graduate school. How can the alignment improve? What advice would help graduate students prepare for this type of education? What are key characteristics in graduate programs that help or hinder students’ progress?

231. Professional Workshop. Communicating Research to the Media (co-sponsored by the ASA Spivack Program)
Organizer: Anne Boyle Cross, University of Wisconsin-Stout

This workshop will feature a panel of local and national journalists who will talk about their experiences and perspectives reporting news and feature stories. Advice on communicating sociological research to the media will be provided.

232. Research Workshop. Using Major National Data Sets: Sociological Societies’ Programs Database: How to Access This Information for Research and Planning Purposes
Renaissance Parc 55, Cervantes Room
Leader: Kenneth Nyberg, California State University, Bakersfield
Panel: Carol Cole, California State University, Bakersfield
Laura M. Hecht, California State University, Bakersfield
Patricia K. Jennings, California State University, Bakersfield
Alemseghed Kebede, California State University, Bakersfield
William Edward Wagner, California State University, Bakersfield

This workshop will acquaint scholars with the Sociology Annual Meeting Database, and provide examples of research questions and findings gleaned from the database. Twenty-five years from its initial inception, the Sociology Annual Meeting Database provides a complete record of the contents of Annual Meeting Programs for the ASA, 1960-2000. It also contains similar data for the four main regional associations: Pacific, Midwestern, Southern and Eastern. Issues to be examined and illustrated include Network Analysis, Gender Studies, and the Sociology of Science. Active collaboration will be invited.

233. Teaching Workshop. Teaching about Marxist Sociology
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 12
Organizer and Presider: Martha E. Gimenez, University of Colorado
Panel: Larry M. Miller, University of Massachusetts, Dartmouth
Walda Katz-Fishman, Howard University and Project South
David Fasenfest, Wayne State University

This teaching workshop is intended to explore how a theoretical commitment to marxist theory can affect out teaching practice. The workshop elaborates how our theoretical understanding of society informs, structures and transforms our pedagogy. Please attend not just to listen to the presenters but to share your own teaching practices and understanding of the relevance of marxist theory to teaching.

234. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Social Psychology
Renaissance Parc 55, Michelangelo Room
Presider: Robert E. Kettlitz, Hastings College
Panel: John D. DeLamater, University of Wisconsin
Anne F. Eisenberg, State University of New York, Geneseo
Keith Alan Roberts, Hanover College
David E. Rohall, Western Illinois University
Jan E. Stets, University of California, Riverside
The purpose of this workshop is to provide strategies for teaching sociological social psychological. Information to be presented will cover in and out of class assignments and exercises, selecting and using sociological social psychological texts and how to go about organizing a sociological social psychology course.

235. Regular Session. Biography, Pain, and Explaining Social Movement Activism

261. Methodological Seminar. Conversation Analysis (to 4:00 p.m.)
Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan D
Ticket required for admission
Leaders: John Heritage, University of California, Los Angeles; Steven E. Clayman, University of California, Los Angeles
The seminar will focus on the design of questions and answers in ordinary conversation and in a variety of social institutions, with a particular – but by no means exclusive – focus on questioning in medicine. The seminar will begin with an overview of key conversation analysis findings on question-answer sequences (approximately one hour). It will be followed by two concurrent break-out sessions (conducted by Heritage and Clayman) focusing on a sequence of questioning in a medical visit (approximately 90 minutes). It will conclude with a discussion of how to move from the qualitative analysis of question-answer sequences to quantitative analysis which associates features of these sequences with participant characteristics, attitude and expectations data derived from surveys, and the outcomes of social interactions.

They have brought sociological perspectives into public debates ranging from the character of democratic practice, to strategies for dealing with the legacies of apartheid, to challenges to neo-liberal orthodoxies. Each panelist is a prominent figure in South Africa today, whose intellectual insights have shaped South Africa’s fledgling democracy.

264. Thematic Session. America’s Incarceration Experiment: Its Costs and Consequences
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 3
Organizer and Presider: James Austin, The George Washington University
Panel: Frank Zimring, University of California, Berkeley
John Irwin, San Francisco State University
Barbara Owen, California State University, Fresno
Eddie Ellis, The Community Justice Center
This session will provide a reexamination of America’s use of imprisonment and its long-term effects on public safety, costs, and society. The past three decades have witnessed one of the nation’s most dramatic and historic public policies—the massive increase in the use of imprisonment. The audience will be encouraged to participate in open discussion and exchange.
265. Thematic Session. Conscience: Sociological Reconstruction and Deconstruction (co-sponsored by the Association for the Sociology of Religion)

Organizer and Presider: William H. Swatos, Jr., ASR/RRA Executive Office
Conscience, Individual and Collective, in Contemporary America. Robert N. Bellah, University of California, Berkeley
The Problem of Conscience in the Study of Ethics. Anthony J. Blasi, Tennessee State University
Conscience and Its Contexts in Late Modernity. John H. Simpson, University of Toronto
Discussant: Edward A. Tiryakian, Duke University
What is “conscience” at the beginning of the third millennium? Where did it come from? Where is it going? What role has sociology played in defining it over the past century? And what can be said about sociology-as-conscience vis-à-vis sociology-as-science in both historical and contemporary perspective?

266. Thematic Session. Globalization and Resistance: Past and Present

Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A
Organizer and Presider: Christopher Chase-Dunn, University of California, Riverside
Deglobalization: Democratizing the World Economy. Walden Bello, Chulalongkorn University
Changing the World: Patterns of Revolutions Since 1492. Terry Boswell, Emory University; April Linton and Joseph Nathan Cohen, Princeton University
Resistance to Globalization: Cycles and Evolutions in the Globalization Protest Movement. Bruce M. Podobnik, Lewis & Clark College
Democratizing Globalization? Impacts and Limitations of Transnational Social Movements. Jackie Smith, State University of New York, Stony Brook
Discussant: Peter B. Evans, University of California, Berkeley
This session presents comparative research and analysis of contemporary and historical movements of resistance to globalization and movements that try to democratize global governance. Papers will examine the relationships between transnational social movements, inequality and different kinds of resistance to globalization in comparative and world historical perspective.

267. Thematic Session. The Scholarship of Teaching and Learning: Meeting the Needs of Our Primary Public — Students

Renaissance Parc 55, Parc Ballroom I
Organizer and Presider: Kathleen McKinney, Illinois State University Panel: Pat Hutchings, Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching
R Eugene Rice, American Association for Higher Education
Dennis M. Rome, Indiana University
Panelists will address questions including, how do we make teaching a scholarly endeavor central to our lives as sociologists? What is meant by the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning (SoTL)? What is its relationship to traditional research? How does it enhance student learning? What is the future of the SoTL in sociology?

Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 14
Organizer: Troy Duster, New York University and University of California, Berkeley
Presider: Caroline Hodges Persell, New York University
One-hundred years is a good time for taking stock, and the 2005 Program Centennial Subcommittee has been planning several sessions that will feature specific themes relevant to (a) historical, (b) current and (c) future concerns of the ASA and the discipline of sociology. While the frame of these sessions is taking shape, there is still room for member suggestions, reactions, and ideas about content. We encourage members to come to this Open Forum to learn about current plans, and engage in an interactive session that will enhance the centennial meetings by broadening participation.

2005 Program Centennial Subcommittee members are: Caroline Hodges Persell, chair (New York University); Patricia Hill Collins (University of Cincinnati); Troy Duster (New York University); Jill S. Quadagno (Florida State University); Sally T. Hillsman (ASA). Representatives from the ASA Section on History of Sociology are Patricia Madoo Lengermann (George Washington University) and Susan Hoecker-Drysdale (University of Iowa).

Labor and Politics. Dean Tipps, California State Council, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO
Revitalizing Our Communities, Renewing Democracy: Labor’s Call for Shared Prosperity. Amy B. Dean, Working Partnerships USA
Immigrant Worker Organizing in California. Renee Saucedo, La Raza Centro Legal
California is at the center of the recent wave of innovation within organized labor and union density is increasing in the state, defying the national trend. The panelists, all key participants in various segments of the new labor movement, will report on their work and share their insights into labor’s recent achievements as well as the challenges that the movement currently faces.

271. Methodological Seminar. Multi-level Models

Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 8
Ticket required for admission
Leader: William Mason, University of California, Los Angeles

272. Academic Workshop. Implementing Public Sociology as a Department Framework

Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 12
Organizer and Presider: Marina Karides, Florida Atlantic University
Panel: Farshad A. Araghi, Florida Atlantic University
Ann Branaman, Florida Atlantic University
Trudie Coker, Florida Atlantic University
Mark Frezzo, Florida Atlantic University
Faculty from Florida Atlantic University’s Sociology Department will discuss the reorganization of their program around the theme of social change and social justice. The panelists will explore how the department agreed to embrace social change and social justice as a public sociology framework and as a strategy for situating the program within the university and regionally. The panel will focus on the department’s efforts towards revising both graduate and undergraduate curricula to encompass global sociology, social inequalities, and political economy and culture. The department’s restructuring, including the replacement of the vertical committee structure with flexible short-term departmental working groups and the formation of research working groups, will be considered as a means of realizing new objectives.

273. Career Workshop. Research Careers Inside and Outside Academia

Hilton San Francisco, Lombard Room
Organizer and Presider: Rita J. Kirshstein, American Institutes for Research Panel: Elham-Eid Alldredge, REDA International, Inc.
George Bohrnstedt, American Institutes for Research
Bliss C. Cartwright, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission
Cynthia M. Duncan, Carsey Institute for Families and Community
Kent W. Smith, Trinity College
The panelists in this workshop represent a number of different research settings, both currently and over the course of their careers. These settings include colleges and universities, both as faculty and researchers; state, local and federal government; private, not-for-profit and for-profit research firms; university affiliated research institutes; and foundations. Panelists will describe their range of jobs in which they have worked, discuss similarities and differences in doing research in academic and non-academic settings, and address the advantages and disadvantages of different types of employment for sociologists. Attendees will be encouraged to raise questions and share their experiences doing research in different sectors and settings.

274. Career Workshop. Transition from Graduate School to Faculty Job

Renaissance Parc 55, Raphael Room
Organizer: Kyle Crowder, Western Washington University
Panel: Robert M. Adelman, Georgia State University
Camille Zubrinsky Charles, University of Pennsylvania
Kelly A. Musick, University of Southern California

275. Professional Workshop. Public Policy: Methods and Applications

Organizer: Ross Koppel, University of Pennsylvania
Panel: Denise Lach, Oregon State University
Judith A. Cook, University of Illinois, Chicago
This workshop provides an overview of sociologists’ work in the formation or change of public policy. It is directed to those who may want to become participants in policy research and policy creation. Featuring a diverse group of sociologists involved in policy research and policy actions, the workshop will touch on: how policy research is done; how policy is formulated-passed-created-changed (which may be tangentially related to policy research); how policy research is funded; how to get a job doing policy research and what skills are needed to be effective (e.g., statistics, knowledge of politics, profound cynicism, impervious and abiding spirit, ability to live without sleep, good writing skills, good power point skills); and the occasional rewards of these efforts.
276. Professional Workshop. The Status of Institutional Review Boards (IRBs) (co-sponsored by the ASA Committee on Professional Ethics)

Organizer and Presider: Thomas L. Van Valey, Western Michigan University
Panel: Thomas L. Van Valey, Western Michigan University; Sally T. Hillsman, American Sociological Association; Felice J. Levine, American Educational Research Association

The panelists will discuss recent and impending developments in public policy related to institutional review boards (IRBs). In particular, the workshop will focus on interpretations of federal guidelines that have current and/or potential impact on research in the social, behavioral, and economic sciences.

277. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Social Theory to Undergraduates

Hilton San Francisco, Taylor A

Organizer: Diane Elizabeth Johnson, Kutztown University
Leaders: Diane Elizabeth Johnson, Kutztown University; David Allen, Georgia Southern University

This is an open, discussion-oriented session for individuals with an interest in teaching sociological theory. Topics include: the place of sociological theory in the liberal arts curriculum; the politics of sociological theory; necessary coverage— theorists, works, schools emphases; contribution of sociological theory to the major; relative advantages of various available texts; modes of evaluating student learning; preparation for social theory—how other courses contribute to a student’s readiness; student-centered approaches and teaching techniques. All sociological approaches welcome.

278. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Sociology to Nontraditional Students

Organizer: Patricia E. Erickson, Canisius College
Panel: Penelope Canan, University of Denver; Patricia B. Christian, Canisius College; Erin E. Robinson, Canisius College

The goals of this workshop are to discuss the challenges and benefits of teaching sociology to non-traditional students. Drawing on the humanistic tradition, the session will consider why teaching approaches that emphasize reflexivity and open dialogue are especially useful approaches to develop sociological insight among non-traditional students.

279. Poster Session. Graduate Programs in Sociology

Hilton San Francisco, Grand Ballroom A

Organizer and Presider: Jean Beaman, American Sociological Association

Graduate programs will display information describing their programs, special emphases, financial aid and admissions criteria, and opportunities to work with faculty researchers and instructors. Department representatives will be on hand to answer questions from undergraduate students and their advisors, MA students looking to pursue a PhD, and other interested parties. Some departments will bring information and admission packets to distribute to attendees.

8:30 a.m. Sessions

305. Ford Panel in International Public Sociology. Public Intellectuals and Critical Events: The Case of India
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 1
Organizer and Presider: Raka Ray, University of California, Berkeley
Panel: Veena Das, Johns Hopkins University
Dipankar Gupta, Jawaharlal Nehru University
Sujata Patel, University of Pune
K. Sivaramakrishnan, University of Washington
Indian intellectuals have long been engaged with critical events in the world. However the nature of that engagement is constantly contested. This panel will enter into discussions about the relationship between academics who intervene in ongoing crises and social movements – whether they be ethnic/religious violence, or the struggles around gender or the environment – and activism.

306. Thematic Session. Stigma, the Media and Mental Illness: Can Sociology and Telecommunications Collaborate on a Public Problem?
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 3
Organizer: Bernice A. Pescosolido, Indiana University
Presider: Jack K. Martin, Indiana University
Images of Mental Illness in the Media. Patricia A. Stout, University of Texas, Austin
What Can Sociological Research Do? The Backdrop of the Real World for Public Sociology Efforts. Barbara Denning Lurie, Mental Health Media Partnership
Stigma, Media and Research: Insights and Intuition from the Sociology of Culture. Karen A. Cerulo, Rutgers University
307. Thematic Session. The Role of NGOs in Social Movements: U.S. and European Contrasts
Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A
Organizers and Presiders: Margit Mayer, Free University Berlin; Silke Roth, University of Pennsylvania
NGOs Are Not Social Movements – at Least in Germany. Alex Demirovic, Frankfurt University
The Registration and Regulation of Organizations by States. John D. McCarthy, Pennsylvania State University
Whose Civil Society? On TNGOs, NGOs and SMOs, and Value Imperialism. Helena Flam, Institut für Soziologie, Universität Leipzig
International Women’s Conferences and the Origins of Transnational NGOs for Women’s Rights. Carol Mueller, Arizona State University
The recent proliferation of non-governmental organizations (NGOs) as well as the “NGOization” of social movements, though globally observable, has been analyzed from different perspectives. Unlike US social movement research, the European literature theorizes a distinction between NGOs and SMOs. This international panel explores both national variation in empirical phenomena as well as the differences in conceptuizing them.

308. Thematic Session. Uneven Development and Inequality: What Difference Have Public Policies Made?
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 2
Organizer: Giovanni Arrighi, Johns Hopkins University
Presider: Kathleen Schwartzman, University of Arizona, Tucson
Panel: Robert Brenner, University of California, Los Angeles
David Harvey, City University of New York Graduate Center
Alejandro Portes, Princeton University
Discussant: Giovanni Arrighi, Johns Hopkins University
The spatial and temporal unevenness of capitalist development has been one of the most powerful forces shaping inequality nationally and internationally. Whether and how public policies can accentuate or moderate such unevenness and its impact on inequality remains a controversial issue. Panelists will deal with the issue from the standpoint of their respective research programs.

309. Thematic Session. University, Inc.: The Corporatization of Academic Life
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 14
Organizer and Presider: Daniel Thomas Cook, University of Illinois, Champaign
Academic Capitalism in the New Economy. Gary D. Rhoades, University of Arizona
The Changing Institutional Environment for Public and Private Science. Jason D. Owen-Smith, University of Michigan
Empire, Corporatization, and Academic Freedom. Cary Nelson, University of Illinois
What Do We Need to Turn the Situation Around? Stanley Aronowitz, City University of New York Graduate Center
The corporatization of the university apparently is proceeding apace. The importation of business models and market approaches into higher education governance and research culture threaten the valued ability to engage in unfettered inquiry, free access and open forums for deliberation which historically have been definitive of university life.

310. Regional Spotlight Session. It’s Not Easy Being Green: Medical Marijuana and Community Health Care
Organizer and Presider: Keith Saunders, Northeastern University
Medical Cannabis Clubs, a Model for Drug Legalization? Dale Gieringer, California NORML
A Holistic Approach to Healing with Medical Cannabis. Debby Goldsberry, Americans for Safe Access
WAMM and Patient/Provider Models for Medical Cannabis. Valerie Corral, Wo/men’s Alliance for Medical Marijuana
Bay Area sociologists and activists assemble to discuss political and cultural struggles over the status of medical marijuana in California, and the formation of patient and advocate communities. The medical marijuana issue encompasses competing visions of medical efficacy, health care delivery, and the roles of patients and caregivers.

311. Methodological Seminar. Integrating Quantitative and Qualitative Approaches
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 7
Ticket required for admission
Leader: Lisa D. Pearce, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
This seminar is for sociologists interested in designing research that incorporates a mix of survey and ethnographic methods. There will be a brief introduction about the theoretical motivations and assumptions of an integrative approach, but the session will quickly move forward on the pragmatic assumption that mixing methods is possible and beneficial. The session will largely focus on practical applications of mixed method research for studies ranging from individual dissertations to large-scale team research projects. Specific topics will include sample design strategies, analytical approaches, how to present and publish findings, and how to obtain funding for mixed method research.
312. Academic Workshop. Program Assessment: The Current View
Renaissance Parc 55, Raphael Room
Leaders: Janet Huber Lowry, Austin College
Charles F. Hohm, San Diego State University

We want our students to learn about sociology and their world from our discipline’s perspective but we also need to show others that we are doing our job as teachers. These goals come together in any assessment of a program and sometimes they clash. As suggested by many, we can do assessment readily and well because it incorporates many of the tools of our discipline, but we can also bring a critical stance to assessment because of the potential misuse or misinterpretation of the information collected.

This workshop is designed to assist departments and faculty with assessment by: 1) sharing how to evaluate program goals; 2) beginning to see the on-going work of assessment and evaluation over time; 3) comparing direct (exams, documents of skill/attitudes/values) and indirect (alumni surveys) assessment; and 4) thinking about the political dimensions of assessment work. Throughout the workshop attention will be given to examples and to practical approaches for managing the assessment process in departments. Your leaders will draw on their work with the Task Force on Assessing the Major and perspectives as an administrator and recent assessment resource editor.

313. Academic Workshop. The ASA Centennial: Bringing in [Potentially] Excluded Voices (co-sponsored by the Section on the History of Sociology)
Organizers and Presiders: Patricia Madoo Lengermann, George Washington University; Jill M. Niebrugge-Brantley, American University
Problematizing the Exclusion of Women: Lessons from the Harriet Martineau Project. Susan Hoecker-Drysdale, University of Iowa
The Crisis of Black Masculinity in Sociology and the Academy. Anthony J. Lemelle, Jr., University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee
Let’s Talk about Sex...and Dead Sociologists. Betsy Luval, Indiana University, South Bend

Critical Pedagogy and Neo-Conservatism. Celine-Marie Pascale, American University

This workshop considers the issue of inclusion from a variety of perspectives, offering participants resources on: (1) the philosophic and practical problems posed by “inclusion” in the writing/rewriting of the history of sociology; (2) marginalized individual sociologists; (3) marginalized theories and schools; (4) groups marginalized by class, race, sexual orientation, academic location, and (5) the practices that lead to these marginalizations.

314. Career Workshop. Career Paths Outside the Academy
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 13
Organizer: Leora Lawton, TechSociety Research
Panel: Alice Kroliczak, Health Resources and Services Administration
Estelle Disch, University of Massachusetts, Boston
Melissa Marcello, Pursuant Research
Sheila Knight, Research Triangle Institute

The workshop will feature panelists who will discuss:
(1) their insights on what knowledge, skills, and abilities a sociologist needs which they may not have been exposed to in their sociological education.
(2) how could attendees could acquire those knowledge, skills, and abilities.
(3) what (from their experience) non-academic career paths would look like.

The panelists will provide attendees with a set of resources and/or references for attendees. After the workshop, attendees should have a better feel for what they need to do to enhance their non-academic employment potential and performance.

315. Career Workshop. Retirement Planning and Opportunities
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 12
Organizer: Arlene Kaplan Daniels, Professor Emerita
Panel: Fred H. Goldner, Professor Emeritus
Barbara Laslett, Professor Emerita
David Nasatir, Professor Emeritus California State University, Dominguez Hills
Arlene Kaplan Daniels, Professor Emerita

Assuming the choices available to relatively privileged members of the middle class at the time of retirement, there is a lot of possibility for what Hughes called “a running adjustment between a man (sic) and the various facts of life and his professional world (including) .. projections of himself into the future and the course of events.” We will show how the term career can usefully be applied to the patterns of retirement which evolve over time according to the interactions of the participants and the circumstances which arise in their lives.

316. Research Support Forum Professional Workshop. Scientific Foundations of Qualitative Research: Submitting Competitive Qualitative Projects to the National Science Foundation
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 21
Organizer and Presider: Michele Lamont, Harvard University
Panel: Mitchell Duneier, Princeton University and City University of New York Graduate Center
Joane Nagel, National Science Foundation and University of Kansas
Katherine Shelley Newman, Harvard University

Susan S. Silbey, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
David A. Snow, University of California, Irvine
Patricia E. White, National Science Foundation

The panelists will share their experience as peer reviewers and successful competitors for NSF funding to inform participants about effective grantsmanship for the conduct of qualitative research. We will discuss: the mission and organization of the NSF, the peer review system and the review process, the criteria of evaluation and what they mean, and the distinctive challenges faced by qualitative researchers. The organizer and panelists will summarize some of the ideas and recommendation that came out of a workshop on the funding of qualitative research that was organized by NSF in the summer of 2003.

317. Teaching Workshop. Teaching the Sociology of the Life Course

Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan D

Organizer: Eliza K. Pavalko, Indiana University; Panel: Deborah Carr, Rutgers University
Eliza K. Pavalko, Indiana University
Michael J. Shanahan, University of North Carolina,
Chapel Hill
Steven P. Wallace, University of California, Los Angeles
Janet M. Wilmeth, Syracuse University

The life course perspective provides a theoretical framework and concepts for examining the unfolding of lives in historical context. Students can be introduced to this perspective in a variety of classes as it provides unique conceptual tools for helping students “grasp history and biography and the relations between the two” – in other words, the essence of the sociological imagination (Mills 1959). In this workshop, leaders will discuss a variety of life course exercises, particularly life histories, used in their classes. Leaders will provide handouts of assignments and related materials and will reflect on strengths and weaknesses of the exercise. Workshop participants will be encouraged to share their experiences and/or plans for life history assignments.

318. Teaching Workshop. Teaching the Undergraduate Honors Seminar

Renaissance Parc 55, Michelangelo Room

Leader: Jane C. Hood, University of New Mexico

319. Regular Session. At-Risk Youth

Renaissance Parc 55, Aragon Room

Organizer and Presider: Lisa Marie Broidy, University of New Mexico

Divorce, Cohort Characteristics, and Changes in Youth Suicide Rates: A Multinational, Time-Series Analysis. Thoroddur Bjarnason, Steven F. Messner, Lawrence E. Raffalovich, and Bryan K. Robinson, State University of New York, Albany

School Activities, Athletic Participation, and Adolescent Drug Use. John P. Hoffmann, Brigham Young University

Teenage Mothers’ and Fathers’ Available Resources and Educational Attainment. Stefanie Bailey Mollborn, Stanford University

Discussant: Lisa Marie Broidy, University of New Mexico

The papers in this session explore the macro- and micro-level processes implicated in youth risk behaviors. Papers examine a broad range of risk and protective mechanisms as well as a diverse set of risk behaviors. All of the papers, however, suggest variation across gender in the correlates of youth risk behavior.

320. Regular Session. Consumers and Consumption II

Organizer: George Ritzer, University of Maryland
Presider: Robert D. Manning, Rochester Institute of Technology

The Politics of Consumption. Wendy Wiedenhoft, John Carroll University

Caring Text. Sam Binkley, Emerson College

Consumption as “Contested Terrain”: Bringing Consumption Back Into the Marxian Discourse. Christopher K. Andrews, University of Maryland

The Volatility of Stability: Emotion, Consumption, Imagination. Eva Illouz, Department of Sociology, Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Discussant: Peter Beilharz, Latrobe University

Papers examine the politics of consumption of the National Consumers’ League and the AFL in the Progressive era, the caring function of lifestyle texts from a Foucauldian perspective, a Marxian labor process approach to consumption, and the role of emotion in consumption.

321. Regular Session. Criminology: Mechanisms that Explain Criminal Offending and Its Patterning

Organizer: Ruth D. Peterson, Ohio State University
Presider: Robert D. Crutchfield, University of Washington

Danger and the Decision to Offend. Bill McCarthy, University of California, Davis; John Hagan, Northwestern University

Having a Kid Changes Everything? The Effects of Parenthood on Subsequent Crime. Sara Wakefield and Christopher

147

Uggen, University of Minnesota
Desistance or Displacement? The Changing Patterns of Offending from Adolescence to Young Adulthood.
Michael Massoglia, University of Minnesota

Discussant: Robert D. Crutchfield, University of Washington
The papers in this session address a variety of theoretical issues regarding the sources of criminal offending. Notably, each paper attempts to identify the mechanisms responsible for offending or changes in the patterns of offending.

322. Regular Session. Internet and Society
Renaissance Parc 55, Cervantes Room
Organizer and Presider: Barry Wellman, University of Toronto
Differences Between High and Low Internet Users in Well-Being Outcomes. Shelia R. Cotton and Shameeka Bowman, University of Maryland, Baltimore County
Strong Ties, Weak Ties, and ICT Ties - Results from the Pew Social Ties Survey. Jeffrey Boase, University of Toronto; John Horrigan and Lee Rainie, Pew Internet and American Life Study
Networks, Dilemmas, and Identities: Prospects for the Sociological Analysis of the Usenet. Marc A. Smith, Microsoft Corporation; Howard T. Welser, University of Washington
Electronic Governance: Locals and Cosmopolitans—in and as—a Virtual Academic Community. Lynn Mulkey, University of South Carolina, Beaufort; William Dougan, University of Wisconsin, Whitewater; Lala Steelman, University of South Carolina
The Internet has become more important in everyday life as it has become embedded in its routines. This session goes beyond sheer discovery of the Internet to considering the interplay between social structure, relationships, the internet, and other forms of information and communication technologies.

323. Regular Session. Media and Public Life: Structure, Content, and Change
Organizer and Presider: William Hoynes, Vassar College
On Television, and the Death of News (and why I am not in Mourning). Ronald N. Jacobs, University at Albany Concentration of Ownership and Concentration of Content in Rock Radio. Gabriel Hyman Rossman, Princeton University
The Free Radio Movement: How Alternative Media Facilitate Favorable Media Coverage of Social Movements. Peter Brinson, University of Wisconsin, Madison
Discussant: Laura J. Miller, Brandeis University

324. Regular Session. Narrative, Biography, and Culture II
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 24
Organizer and Presider: Catherine Kohler Riessman, Boston College
Relational Aggression: The Social Destruction of Self Narratives. Laura Martocci, Wagner College
Holocaust Narratives: Accounting for Immigrant Survival through Omission. Judith Gerson, Rutgers University
Outsider Art and Biography: The Social Construction of a Mystery. Kristin E. Espinosa, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee; Victor M. Espinosa, Northwestern University
Beyond Texts: Layers of Meaning in the Videodiary “A Healthy Baby Girl.” Susan Bell, Bowdoin College
Discussant: Marjorie L. DeVault, Syracuse University

325. Regular Session. Political Sociology: Democratization, Repression, and Civil Society
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 23
Organizer: Gregory Hooks, Washington State University
Marketization and Democracy in China: Two Regional Experiences. Jianjun Zhang, Peking University
Women, Islam, and the State in Pakistan. Afshan Jafar, University of Massachusetts
State, Intellectuals and Citizens in the Public Sphere and the Private Sphere. Eunhye Yoo, University of Minnesota
These papers examine civil society around the world with an emphasis on processes that expand the space for democracy as well as episodes of repression that shrink the space for democracy.

326. Regular Session. Rational Choice
Renaissance Parc 55, Rubens Room
Organizer: Ted Mouw, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
Rationality, Resistance, and Righteousness in Exchange Networks. Arnout van de Rijt, Cornell University

344. Thematic Session. Citizenship and Identity in Unifying Europe: Particularistic or Universalistic?
Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A
Organizer and Presider: Christian Joppke, International University Bremen
Why Does European Citizenship Lack Charisma? Yasemin Soysal, University of Essex
Citizenship, Legal Pluralism and Islam. Bryan S. Turner, Cambridge University
European Citizenship in Three Eurocities. Adrian Favell, University of California, Los Angeles
Re-Asserting the National: The Paradox of Populism in Transnational Europe. Mabel Berezin, Cornell University
Discussant: Saskia Sassen, University of Chicago
Citizenship and identity in unifying Europe are in the cross-fire between universalistic and particularistic trends and forces. Judged by the proposed constitution or the mindset of border-hopping Euro-elites, Europe is unlikely to be defined by religion or culture. Yet the universalistic core of emergent Europe is mightily counteracted by the resurgence of nationalisms in the majority populations, as well as by multicultural minorities that want their particular ways inscribed in law and policy.

345. Thematic Session. Human Rights Work as Public Sociology (co-sponsored by the International Human Rights Funders Group)
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 1
Organizer: Mona Younis, Human Rights Funders Group
Presider: Ronald R. Aminzade, University of Minnesota
Panel: Patrick Ball, The Benetech Initiative
Mayra Gomez, Centre for Housing Rights and Evictions (CORE)

Eduardo Gonzalez-Cueva, International Center for Transitional Justice
James Ron, McGill University
Sylvia Tamale, Makerere University
The moderator will interview a panel of sociologists who work on human rights, asking them how they frame issues, what policies are most effective, and the role of professional sociologists as agents of social change. The audience will be encouraged to comment on the issues and raise further questions throughout.

346. Thematic Session. Science and Politics: Classical Theories and Contemporary Dilemmas
Renaissance Parc 55, Parc Ballroom II
Organizer: Julia P. Adams, Yale University
Reconstructing, and Moving Beyond, Durkheim’s Theory of the Civil Sphere. Jeffrey C. Alexander, Yale University
Freud and Society. Christine L. Williams, University of Texas, Austin
Weber on Capitalism. Ivan Szelényi and Lawrence P. King, Yale University
Knowledge for our Times: DuBoisian Racial Theory and Race Research. Alford A. Young, Jr., University of Michigan
Theses on Marx. Maurice Zeitlin, University of California, Los Angeles
Sociologists and the discipline of sociology confront tough challenges as they address today’s complex, sometimes fraught, relationship between science and politics. How can classical theory help illuminate our questions and dilemmas? The premise of this panel is that the works of Durkheim, Freud, Weber, DuBois and Marx still have much to say to our contemporary projects and to sociology’s many publics.

347. Thematic Session. What’s the Problem? Is Privatization the Answer?
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 3

The Privatization of Care Work in the US. Madonna Harrington Meyer, Syracuse University
Social Security Reform: Does Partial Privatization Make Sense for China? John B. Williamson and Catherine Mary Sigworth, Boston College
The theme of privatization dominates current discussions about social security and health care, not only in the United States but in other nations as well. The papers in this session discuss the social construction
Organizer and Presider: Kim Voss, University of California, Berkeley
Critics: Huw Beynon, Cardiff University
Roberto P. Franzosi, University of Reading
Steven H. Lopez, Ohio State University
Ann Mische, Rutgers University

Author: Dan Clawson, University of Massachusetts

349. Regional Spotlight Session. Fate of the Public University: The Case of California
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 2
Organizer and Presider: James L. Wood, San Diego State University
Panel: Neil J. Smelser, University of California, Berkeley
Denise Moreno Ducheny, Senator, California State Senate
Dede Alpert, Senator, California State Senate
Gloria Romero, Senator, California State Senate

The presider will ask panelists to discuss the short- and long-term prospects of public higher education, with a special focus on California. How will political and economic factors affect the likelihood of California being able to continue the promise of the Master Plan of 1960 — to provide affordable, accessible, quality higher education for every California citizen?

Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 7

Leader: Kenneth A. Bollen, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

The seminar provides an overview of Structural Equation Models(SEMs). Sometimes called “LISREL,” this general statistical model includes ANOVA, multiple regression, path analysis, factor analysis, and many other procedures as special cases. A distinguishing feature of the model is that it allows multiple indicators of latent variables (concepts) and it can estimate relationships that take account of measurement error. The seminar will examine the major subtypes of the model and the primary steps in applying it. We will discuss examples of programs and outputs from one or more of the major SEM packages. Participants should have a good background in multiple regression and should be familiar with matrix notation.

Mercedes Rubio, American Sociological Association
Nancy Stoller, University of California, Santa Cruz

The purpose of this workshop is to develop a cross-institution mentoring program for lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgendered scholars. Despite the political and social gains of past decades, many lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgendered graduate students and faculty still feel isolated and lacking support in their home universities and departments. While many LGBT scholars have developed informal mentoring relationships over the years, there still remains a need for an institutionalized mentoring program. Representatives from the ASA Committee on the Status of Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgendered Persons in the Discipline and the SGLBT Caucus will be joined by representatives from Sociologists for Women in Society and ASA’s Minority Affairs Program to discuss effective strategies for developing a mentoring program.

352. Career Workshop. Life on the Smaller Side: Balancing Responsibilities and Preparing for Tenure and Promotion in Smaller Liberal Arts Colleges
Renaissance Parc 55, Rubens Room

Organizers: Susan M. Ross, Lycoming College; Sarah Hernandez, New College of Florida
Panel: Michael Donnelly, Bard College
Sarah Hernandez, New College of Florida
Susan M. Ross, Lycoming College
Debra Harvey Swanson, Hope College

Panelists will discuss 1) balancing teaching, research, and corporate service responsibilities in institutions where undergraduate excellence in teaching is clearly emphasized, 2) strategies for publications given limited resources of smaller colleges and universities, 3) suggestions for saying yes and no to the demands of corporate service, and 4) special considerations when teaching primarily small classes.

353. Professional Workshop. How to Do Activist Applied Sociology
Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan D

Organizer: Patricia M. Ulbrich, The Women and Girls Foundation of Southwest Pennsylvania;
Panel: Judith D. Auerbach, American Foundation for AIDS Research
Diana M. Pearce, University of Washington
Ronnie Steinberg, Vanderbilt University
Patricia M. Ulbrich, The Women and Girls Foundation of Southwest Pennsylvania
The panelists will share their experiences as feminist activists, challenging the world as we know it and exposing the gap between what is and what could be. They will discuss how their activism has challenged the world as we know it: how their professional competencies in theory and methods give legitimacy, direction and substance to their activism? Who is the subject of the activism? What social or system change is the desired outcome? How does our activist sociology contribute to social or system change?

Leader: James Downton, University of Colorado, Boulder
Creativity is where the adventure in teaching begins. This workshop will take you through experiential exercises to help you expand your creativity as a teacher. You will learn to think with a more playful mind, so novel ideas for teaching come quickly. You will develop the ability to design innovative approaches to any topic so your students’ interest deepens and their motivation to learn increases. As your students become more inspired to learn, your enjoyment and effectiveness as a teacher will grow.

355. Teaching Workshop. Data Resources for Undergraduate Teaching
Renaissance Parc 55, Michelangelo Room
Organizer: Walter F. Carroll, Bridgewater State College
Leaders: Walter F. Carroll, Bridgewater State College
Rebecca Kate Glauber, New York University
Robin L. Roth, Lesley University
This workshop is aimed at instructors who wish to integrate data and data based assignments into their undergraduate courses, but have not yet done so. Workshop leaders will discuss various ways to integrate data into the undergraduate curriculum, with special attention to the use of data sets for undergraduate research projects. Topics include the challenges and opportunities of each approach, data resources, and guidelines for successfully integrating data into undergraduate courses. Workshop leaders will share their own experiences in using data in their courses. Participants will have opportunities for questions and discussion with each other and with the workshop leaders. Workshop leaders will distribute materials on data resources and data sets.

Said Amir Arjomand, State University of New York, Stony Brook

In this decade’s unexpected “new international order” marked by waves of terrorism, civil wars, sectarian conflicts, US military interventions in South Asia and the Middle East, as well as anti-globalization protests and confrontations, what social science perspectives, from within and without the United States, can give us informed orientations? What are appropriate roles of mass media and their publics?

382. Thematic Session. Privatization and the State
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 3
Organizer and Presider: Doug Guthrie, New York University
Privatization and Schools: Political, Economic and Pedagogical Dimensions. Richard Arum, New York University
Public Housing and the Death of the Welfare State. Sudhir Alladi Venkatesh, Columbia University

The privatization of public goods stands to transform social institutions in fundamental ways. Panelists will draw on their own work around a given social institution to consider the ways that the process of privatization is shaping a critical public good and the ways that process has implications for citizenship and inequality in American society.

383. Thematic Session. Which Box Should Be Checked and Why Does It Matter?: The Consequences of Racial Classification in the U.S. and Brazil
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 1

385. Methodological Seminar. Event History Analysis
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 7
Ticket required for admission
Leaders: Lawrence L. Wu and Jui-Chung Allen Li, New York University

This seminar will provide a brief introduction to event history methods, with an emphasis on on continuous-time models and estimation techniques. Topics include the exploratory analysis of event history data, nonparametric methods, right censoring, maximum likelihood estimation, alternative specifications for a time dependent baseline hazard rate, time-varying covariates, multiple transition and competing risk models, and left truncation and left censoring.
386. Methodological Seminar. Methodologies in Consumer Behavior Research

Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 8

Ticket required for admission
Leader: Leora Lawton, TechSociety Research

Sociologists are well-suited to study consumer behavior. A read of a consumer behavior textbook reveals that the field is essentially applied social demography, social psychology, family sociology and a smattering of deviance. Nevertheless, few sociologists work in this area, perhaps due to underlying biases about working in the business sector, and perhaps due to lack of training. In this seminar, we will discuss the applications of qualitative and quantitative methods as applied to consumer behavior research, and go through two examples: customer satisfaction, and new product development. Participants will receive handouts.

387. Academic Workshop. Teaching Critical Thinking in Sociology

Renaissance Parc 55, Medici Room

Leader: Agnes I. Caldwell, Adrian College

There are two goals in this hands-on workshop on critical thinking in sociology. First, participants will familiarize themselves with various uses of critical thinking in the classroom. Secondly, participants will consider how to evaluate the use of critical thinking in the classroom. At the end of the workshop, participants will be able to create examples of assignments, group work activities and exams that incorporate critical thinking. They will also work on creating criteria to evaluate assignments, group work and exams. A workshop guide will be provided. Participants are asked to bring course syllabi or activities that they would like to use critical thinking in.

388. Career Workshop. Careers in Qualitative Market Research

Leaders: Hy Mariampolski, QualiData Research Inc.
Robert W. Kahle, Kahle Research Solutions Inc.

Qualitative Research Consultants (QRCs) have a major impact on programs, products, brands and promotional campaigns developed by major corporations, governments and not-for-profit organizations. Using a range of techniques and perspectives drawn largely from the social and behavioral sciences, QRCs address clients’ business-building questions with information-based strategic insights and plans. Techniques used by QRCs include focus groups and depth interviewing, ethnography, online bulletin boards, creative ideation, semiotics and more. Primary applications of qualitative research include brand and new product development and advertising creation and testing.

The workshop organizers, career practitioners with well over 30 years of combined experience, will provide an overview of the field, with examples drawn from their work for major clients, and describe how it fits with other forms of market research. They will also address attendees’ questions in relation to such areas as:

- Entry and advancement in the field
- Leveraging sociological training and skills
- Trends in qualitative research

Professional competencies of QRCs
- Resources available to QRCs
- Work-life and challenges of the career QRC

389. Research Support Forum Professional Workshop. Applying for Foundation Funding

Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan D

Leader: Pamela Barnhouse Walters, Indiana University

As a current recipient of grants from the Spencer Foundation and the National Science Foundation, Dr. Walters will speak to the needs of those seeking funding and suggest ways to appeal to foundations that offer funding to social scientists.

390. Professional Workshop. How to Write Op-Ed Pieces

Hilton San Francisco, Lombard Room

Leader: Michael L. Schwalbe, North Carolina State University

Participants will learn how to turn sociological observations into op-ed pieces for local and national newspapers. Topics to be discussed include newspaper writing style, dealing with editors, and submitting via the Internet. Participants should come to the workshop with ideas for op-eds they would like to write.

Renaissance Parc 55, Cervantes Room

Organizer and Presider: Kathleen Mullan Harris, University of North Carolina

432. Career Workshop. Navigating the Graduate Admission Process
Renaissance Parc 55, Taylor A
Organizers: William G. Roy, University of California, Los Angeles; Judith A. Howard, University of Washington
Panel: Khaya Delaine Clark, University of Oregon
Amon S. Emeka, University of Washington
Judith A. Howard, University of Washington
William G. Roy, University of California, Los Angeles
In this workshop graduate students and prospective graduate students will discuss the process of graduate admissions from applicant perspectives. We will emphasize: How to identify programs and students who are good matches for each other; how to identify departments for consideration; how to acquire as much relevant information as possible in selecting programs to enroll in; how to weigh information – how do students select programs; and what factors are most important in selecting a school, once admitted.
We also emphasize what factors are especially important in ensuring an education and professional training that entails excellent mentoring for a diverse range of students and about sociological issues of diversity. The presentations will answer questions that admissions decision-makers often have about how students select what graduate programs to attend.

433. Career Workshop. Portfolio Preparation
Renaissance Parc 55, Dante Room
Leaders: Idee Winfield, College of Charleston
Catherine Zimmer, University of North Carolina
The workshop on Constructing a Teaching Portfolio will cover the fundamentals of how to put together a teaching portfolio – from the Table of Contents, through the Teaching Philosophy, to the Appendices. We will cover the different types of teaching portfolios and why a teaching portfolio is worth doing. The workshop will provide examples of the different parts of teaching portfolios. Participants will leave with these examples and ideas of how to use existing evidence and how to gather additional evidence of teaching effectiveness.

434. Professional Workshop. How to Get Your Journal Article Published
Renaissance Parc 55, Cervantes Room
Organizer and Presider: Christine E. Bose, University at Albany, State University of New York
Panel: Robert Zussman, University of Massachusetts, Amherst
Christine E. Bose, University at Albany, State University of New York
Robert Max Jackson, New York University
Alexis J. Walker, Oregon State University

In this workshop, a panel of current and former journal editors will provide a behind-the-scenes view of the major components of journal publishing. These stages include the structure of a good paper, how to select a journal, understanding the peer review process, and how to respond to revise and resubmit or reject decisions.

Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 21

Leaders: Trent Alexander, Carolyn A. Liebler, and Matthew Sobek, University of Minnesota

Panelists will provide an overview and introduction to using the Integrated Public Use Microdata Samples Series database (IPUMS). The IPUMS-USA data files include 150 years of harmonized U.S. Census data. There are also parallel web sites providing integrated international census data (IPUMS-International) and integrated data from the March Current Population Survey (IPUMS-CPS). The session will focus on the U.S. census data, but questions on all of the different series are welcome.

In addition to demonstrating the interface, panelists will discuss the strengths and limitations of the data series, unique aspects of the 2000 samples, common user problems and questions, and plans for future improvements. Handouts will be provided, and discussion from new and established IPUMS data users is invited.

436. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Uncomfortable and Controversial Topics: Social Inequality, Race Relations, and more
Renaissance Par 55, Medici Room

Organizer and Presider: Lisa Jakubowski, Brescia University College

Leaders: Gina Johar, McMaster University
Kathleen Mistretta, Thames Valley District School Board
Tahirih Naylor, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Family Responsibility

Teaching about inequality and difference can often generate discomfort and controversy in the classroom. In this interactive workshop, participants will join the facilitators in discussing pedagogical strategies for addressing uncomfortable and controversial topics. The merits of utilizing “critically responsive” and community-based, experiential learning strategies will be considered. As we strive to collectively identify successful strategies for teaching about inequality and difference, participants will be invited to share examples of uncomfortable pedagogical moments that have occurred in their own courses. A recommended reading list will be provided.

437. Teaching Workshop. The Capstone Course in Sociology
Hilton San Francisco, Franciscaan D

Leaders: Catherine G. Valentine, Nazareth College
Theodore C. Wagenaar, Miami University

This workshop addresses the alternative arrangements that a sociology capstone course can take. We point out the advantages and disadvantages of each. We review the basic issues and questions to be considered in developing a capstone course, including institutional constraints and opportunities. We discuss alternative assignments for the course. Finally, we share our own syllabi and approaches to the course and share our successes and difficulties with teaching the course. Plenty of time will be allowed for discussion.

Violent Environments and the Changing Modes of Activism in Southeast Asia. Nancy L. Peluso, University of California, Berkeley
Between Academization and Engagement: Understanding the Transnational Politics of Genocide Engineering, Environment, and Development. Frederick H. Buttel, University of Wisconsin
Discussant: Anuradha Mittal, Food First/Institute for Food and Development Policy

How can we contribute to transnational debates and political struggles over environments and nature? Panelists will draw from their own rich experiences as public scholars engaged in policy, activism, and/or critical debate, to help us understand what is at stake, what publics are often ignored in scholarship, and how we can contribute to social and environmental justice.

452. Thematic Session. What Do Sociologists Have to Say about Terrorism?
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 2
Organizer and President: Margaret A. Zahn, North Carolina State University
Terrorism and Other Forms of Political Violence. Charles Tilly, Columbia University
Does Globalization Breed Ethnic Terrorism? Georgi M. Derluguian, Northwestern University
Economic, Political and Social Correlates of Global Terrorism. Gary LaFree, University of Maryland
The Micro and Macro Sociology of Terrorism. Randall Collins, University of Pennsylvania

This session will focus on ways that sociologists are contributing to understanding terrorism, including discussion of the behaviors included in this type of violence, new ethnographic and quantitative data bases developed for studying varying dimensions of terror activity, and the political and social consequences of the use of terror.

453. Methodological Seminar. Social Network Analysis
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 7

Ticket required for admission
Leader: James Moody, Ohio State University

This seminar introduces the basic concepts and procedures of social network analysis. The session will focus on measuring properties of complete (rather than ego-centric) social network data, including centrality, social cohesion, formal characteristics of global network structures and a brief introduction to statistical models for social networks. The seminar will cover sources for network data and draws examples from multiple substantive areas.

454. Academic Workshop. Improving Department “Culture”
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 15

Leaders: Christina M. Myers, Oklahoma State University
Jack Davis, Oklahoma State University

In this interactive workshop, participants will join in examining the concept of culture and its components as they relate to departmental and institutional functioning, considering how meaningful assessment of departmental values and culture can be accomplished, and identifying successful strategies for improving departmental culture (through organizational leadership, improving buy-in, mentorship). Workshop members are asked to bring their department mission and vision statements, if possible, and to be familiar with their department’s goals and objectives. Workshop participants will be provided with a source list for assessing and improving departmental culture.

455. Career Workshop. Searching for and Obtaining Academic Positions

Organizer: Shelia R. Cotten, University of Maryland, Baltimore
Panel: Shelia R. Cotten, University of Maryland, Baltimore
Janice E. Clifford-Wittkeind, Auburn University
Jammie Price, University of North Carolina, Wilmington

The purpose of this workshop is to demystify the academic job searching process for sociologists. We detail the academic job market in sociology, discuss how to find and decide which positions to apply for, and how to prepare application materials. Scheduling and preparing for telephone, conference, and campus interviews is also discussed. We detail the types of questions to expect during interviews, what questions you should ask (or not ask), and the types of information you should gather during interviews. Finally, we cover receiving and negotiating job offers, strategies to consider if you do not receive an offer, and how to begin the transition process once you’ve accepted an offer. This is a very “hands-on” workshop and involvement from participants is encouraged.

456. Professional Workshop. How to Talk in Public about Gender and Race Politics without Getting Burned

Organizer: Bette J. Dickerson, American University
Leaders: Bette J. Dickerson, American University
Donna Franklin, Council on Contemporary Families Senior Research Fellow

Historically, gender and race topics have resulted in some of the most acrimonious issues in the public arena. Whether it’s the Clarence Thomas hearings, O. J. Simpson trial, or challenges to classroom pedagogy from The Foundation for Individual Rights in Education or Students for Academic Freedom, the complex dynamics of race and gender politics play out repeatedly before the nation.
This workshop will focus on why the intersection of race and gender garners so much attention and why, in this age of acknowledging diverse standpoints, more public discussions are considered “a threat to freedom of both speech and conscience.” In the classroom, why are the social scientists, along with historians, most often labeled as “biased and opinionated” and viewed as “preaching not teaching”? Very importantly, successful strategies, and pitfalls to avoid, when speaking on race and gender issues in the public arena “without getting burned will be shared.

457. Workshop cancelled

458. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Graduate Seminars on Teaching

Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 24
Organizer: Marilyn Krogh, Loyola University, Chicago
Leaders: Marilyn Krogh, Loyola University, Chicago
Karen E. Campbell, Vanderbilt University
Sally K. Ward, University of New Hampshire

In this workshop, panelists will present resources for leading a graduate seminar on teaching and engage in a conversation about this topic with workshop participants. The panelists will discuss their overall approaches to their seminars, as well as explain some sample assignments and exercises. These examples will include the use of discussion strategies, peer reviews, and ethical reflection. The panelists will provide some inspiration and guidance to colleagues leading these seminars, as well as a variety of particular ideas that they can put to use in their own programs.

459. Regular Session. Advances in Content Analysis and the Sociology of Culture

Organizer: John Mohr, University of California, Santa Barbara
Presider: Ronald L. Breiger, University of Arizona

Gender, Complexion, and the Link between Aesthetic and Moral Boundaries: Content Analysis of Magazine Advertisements. Shyon S. Baumann, University of Toronto
Representing the Health of Nations in Cultural Terms. Jessica M. Fishman, University of Pennsylvania

A Quantitative Approach to the Study of Distinctiveness, Similarity, and Legitimacy in American Trademark Design. James I. Bowie, University of Arizona

Discussant: Ronald L. Breiger, University of Arizona

This session brings together a number of innovative papers that make use of systematic methods for analyzing texts — including both textual narratives and iconic images, suggesting several new and important pathways for empirical research in the sociology of culture.

460. Regular Session. Black Studies

Hilton San Francisco, Mason Room
Organizer: Benjamin Bowser, California State University, Hayward

Afrocentricity and Black Volunteer Involvement. Assata Nicole Richards, Pennsylvania State University

Keepin’ It REAL with Adolescents of Mexican Descent: Developing and Testing Evidenced-Based, Substance Use Prevention. Stephen S. Kulis and Flavio Marsiglia, Arizona State University

The papers in this panel each describes a study of the relationship between ethnic culture and some form of substance use or abuse. The panel is of particular interest in that it focuses on ethnic groups not always considered in this literature. A recent report (2003) by the National Institute of Justice and the National Institute on Drug Abuse suggests a need for research on substance use and abuse among ethnic and minority groups, so this is an important area for research. The papers fit together well in that they cover a range of topics related to ethnic culture, from ethnic identity to acculturation.

472. Regular Session. Voting and Electoral Processes
Organizer and Presider: Tom Guterbock, University of Virginia

Big City, Big Turnout? Participation in Recent U.S. Mayoral Elections. Neal Caren, New York University

484. Ford Panel in International Public Sociology. Public Sociology in the United States

Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 1

Organizer and Presider: Craig Calhoun, Social Science Research Council

Panel: Melvin L. Oliver, The Ford Foundation
Richard Sennett, London School of Economics
Judith Stacey, New York University
Alan Wolfe, Boston College

Discussant: Craig Calhoun, Social Science Research Council

Sociology has played a vital role in the US public sphere, but so far has developed neither a clear internal understanding of how this role figures in the discipline nor a well-focused external identity. Panelists will consider this history and the present state of public sociology in the US, offer suggestions for how sociology might do better, and ask what sorts of changes in the discipline these might entail.

485. Thematic Session. 25 Years after Love Canal: The Environmental Health and Justice Movements

Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A

Organizers: Phil Brown, Brown University; Robert Brulle, Drexel University; David Pellow, University of California, San Diego

Presider: Phil Brown, Brown University

25 Years after Love Canal: The Struggle for a Health Environment. Lois Gibbs, Center for Health, Environment, and Justice

The Environmental Justice Movement Since Warren County. Robert D. Bullard, Clark Atlanta University

Organizing For Healthy and Sustainable Communities. Ted Smith, Silicon Valley Toxics Coalition

Commentary on the Environmental Health and Environmental Justice Movements. Phil Brown, Brown University

This session focuses on the development, growth, and future prospects of the Environmental Health and Environmental Justice movements. The speakers will reflect on how our nation has handled toxic pollution since these movements took on a national focus with the citizen’s struggles over toxic waste at Love Canal New York, in Warren County, North Carolina and in the Silicon Valley of California.

486. Thematic Session. Black Popular Culture

Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 3

Organizer and Presider: S. Craig Watkins, University of Texas, Austin

Panel: Herman Gray, University of California, Santa Cruz
Darnell M. Hunt, University of California, Los Angeles
Nicole R. Fleetwood, University of California, Davis
Eithne Quinn, University of Manchester
Marcyliena Morgan, Harvard University

The panelists will address a wide range of issues concerning the state and study of black popular culture. Among the topics to be discussed includes the conditions of black cultural production, content trends and policy related matters regarding racial and ethnic diversity in U.S. television; black popular culture and everyday life; the global resonance of black popular culture; and the creation of the Hip Hop archives at Harvard University. The audience will be encouraged to participate in the discussion.

487. Thematic Session. Diasporas and Identities: The Global Jew in a Postmodern Age

Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 5-6

Organizer: Debra Kaufman, Northeastern University

Presider: Judith Gerson, Rutgers University

Towards a Methodological Cosmopolitanism: Revisiting Diaspora. Daniel Levy, State University of New York, Stony Brook

Collective Identity in a Post Modern Age: Narratives on Jewish Identity. Debra Kaufman, Northeastern University

The Role of Israel in the Identities of American Jews of Various Denominations. Harriet Hartman, Rowan University; Moshe Hartman, Ben-Gurion University

Israeli and Russian Jewish Migrants: Gendered Perspectives on Settlement and Return. Steven J. Gold, Michigan State University

Dismantling Diaspora: Jews Living in a Global World. Caryn Aviv and David Shneer, University of Denver

Discussant: Judith Gerson, Rutgers University

The ways in which Jews create communal identification patterns across time and space offer a microcosm for the study of other ethnic, religious, racial groups within transnational and Diaspora contexts. In ten-minute presentations, the panelists will investigate the ways in which gender, changing ethnic, religious, cultural, and national boundaries redefine and allow for more flexible and dynamic interpretations of collective identity and diaspora.
488. Thematic Session. The Media and the Making of a War Culture
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 2
Organizer and Presider: Clarence Y.H. Lo,
University of Missouri
9/11, Spectacles of Terror, and Media Manipulation: A Critique of Jihadist and Bush Media Politics. Douglas Kellner,

Dilemmas and Challenges in Community Organizing Against Youth Violence. Howard Pinderhughes, University of California
Educational Challenges and Latino Community Empowerment. Denise A. Segura, University of California, Santa Barbara
This session explores the work of sociologists studying and participating in social change organizations in California. Presentations focus on the dilemmas and challenges of community empowerment efforts in the context of legal reform, and how sociologists can inform such efforts. The presentations exemplify the issues being examined by the ASA Task Force on Bridges to the Real World.

491. Academic Workshop. Using the University of California Atlas of Global Inequality as a Teaching Tool
Renaissance Parc 55, Rubens Room
Organizer: Ben Crow, University of California, Santa Cruz
Leaders: Ben Crow, University of California, Santa Cruz
Richard P. Appelbaum, University of California, Santa Barbara
Brian Fullfrost, University of California, Santa Cruz
Sheryl Martin-Schultz, University of California, Santa Cruz
Patti Jazanoski, University of California, Santa Cruz
The UC Atlas of Global Inequality is an online teaching resource mapping global inequalities and how they are changing as the world is becoming more integrated. Innovations of this Atlas include: dynamic presentations showing changing global patterns of inequality over time; an interactive database incorporating data from several international agencies; on-demand mapping of variables in the database; printable maps; animated guides to reading graphs, using the Atlas, getting data; teaching activities using the Atlas; summaries of key debates and links to other literature; a glossary and bibliography. All of these features are online and freely available.

The Workshop will provide a multi-media guide to the Atlas, and to how it can be used in teaching about globalization and global inequality. A discussion on the possibilities and limits of online teaching using maps and graphics will follow. The workshop will be suitable both for new web users and as experienced internet users.

492. Career Workshop. Sociologists in Advocacy Organizations
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 13
Organizers: Amy S. Hubbard, Child Welfare League of America; Tracy Seftl, Democratic National Committee
Presider: Amy S. Hubbard, Child Welfare League of America
Panel: Judith D. Auerbach, American Foundation for AIDS Research
Eleanor J. Lyon, University of Connecticut
Tracy Seftl, Democratic National Committee
Sociology as a field often attracts people interested in advocacy work. Traditionally, most have pursued advocacy by combining it with an academic career—with varying amounts of success. This is not surprising...

since most graduate schools prepare students primarily for academic careers without highlighting other options. Other sociologists, however, have chosen to work directly for advocacy organizations. These panelists will talk about their experiences in the field, the advantages and disadvantages of working for advocacy organizations, and how the job market compares to the academic job market.

493. Professional Workshop. Bridges to Policy-Makers
Organizer and Presider: Gregory D. Squires, George Washington University Panel: Elijah Anderson, University of Pennsylvania
Xavier De Souza Briggs, Harvard University
John Goering, Baruch College, City University of New York
Audrey Singer, The Brookings Institution

The panelists will discuss how sociologists can more effectively communicate with, and influence, elected officials, administrative agencies, and others engaged in formulating and implementing public policy. Panelists will draw from their extensive experience in bringing sociological research to bear on public policy issues and in working with policymakers. The focus of their research and policy work have been in the areas of housing, urban and community development, and racial inequality but lessons for researchers and policymakers generally will be explored.

494. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Diversity Courses
Organizer: Norah D. Peters-Davis, Arcadia University
Presider: Jeffrey Shultz, Arcadia University
Panel: Ana Maria Garcia, Arcadia University
Janet Huber Lowry, Austin College
Helen A. Moore, University of Nebraska

Courses on diversity often give students the opportunity to examine their own beliefs and values. In this way, they contain the potential for students to have transformative experiences. While this potential exists, students themselves often respond by resisting engaging with them. For instructors, what is usually a detached pedagogical experience becomes personalized in ways that are at times disconcerting and uncomfortable. This workshop will explore the experience of teaching and taking these courses, from both student and faculty perspectives.

495. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Introductory Sociology for the First Time
Leaders: Nancy A. Greenwood, Indiana University, Kokomo; Edward L. Kain, Southwestern University

Teaching Introductory Sociology for the first time need not be a difficult or overwhelming task. Our aim is to provide resources for the instructor about content and pedagogy for this class. We will discuss syllabus construction, pedagogical styles of teaching and learning, assessment of learning outcomes, as well as class management techniques. Most importantly, we will look at introductory sociology and its functions as a course in the undergraduate general education core, as a diversity course, and as an introduction to the major. We will also offer examples of exercises and assignments as well as a bibliography of useful resources.

496. Regular Session. Animals and Society
Renaissance Parc 55, Michelangelo Room

“Too Scared to Get High”: In-Depth Interviews with Drug Users after 9/11. Jessie Daniels, Hunter College, City University of New York; Julie C. Netherland, New York Academy of Medicine
Discussant: Geoffrey Hunt, Institute for Scientific Analysis
The papers in this panel each looks at how substance use or abuse is related to social conditions that place a strain or stress on the individual. One nice thing about the mixture of papers is that two use quantitative methods, two qualitative, and one involves research in a country other than the U.S. Together they present a broad background against which to talk about and think about the relationship between substance use and abuse and social conditions.

509. Regular Session. Welfare Reform
Renaissance Parc 55, DaVinci II-III
Organizer and Presider: Daniel T. Lichter, Ohio State University

Globalization and the “Foreign Brides”: Structures and Resistance. Hsiao-Chuan Hsia, Shih Hsin University
Making National Friends and Making Friends National. Jon Edward Fox, University of California, San Diego
Sociologists Can’t Be Neutral on a Moving Train: Social Justice, Democratic Movements, and Pedagogy. Steven Rosenthal, Hampton University
Increasingly, over the past decade, the need to reconsider, reinvent, or simply re-imagine a better world has (at least implicitly) been part of dialogues both internal and external to the discipline and the academy. And whether we refer to this as the sociological imagination, a critical perspective, or just plain righteousness - it lies at the core of American democracy. As we wipe the dust off the graves from yet another war, as we look into the faces of another set of homeless children, as we seek another set of excuses why we cannot afford to do more for the “truly disadvantaged” perhaps its time - yet again to explore the basic premises of social justice.

518. Section on Sociology of Education Refereed Roundtables

Honors Program Advisory Panel — Renaissance Parc 55, Tuscany Room
Section on Collective Behavior and Social Movements Council Meeting (to 1:25 p.m.) — Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 15
Section on Sociology of Education Council Meeting (to 1:25 p.m.) — Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 22

12:30 p.m. Sessions

522. Thematic Session. Institutional Identities and the Public Realm
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 2
Organizer: James A. Holstein, Marquette University

Presider: Jaber F. Gubrium, University of Missouri

Lay and Institutional Identities in Making and Processing Complaints. Robert M. Emerson, University of California, Los Angeles

Constructing Institutional Identities through Narrative Editing. Amir B. Marvasti, Pennsylvania State University, Altoona

Institutional Selves and the Reproduction of Social Problem Consciousness. Donileen R. Loseke, University of South Florida
Agency as the Construction of Institutional Regimes. Dorothy E. Smith, University of Toronto

Individual identities traditionally have been viewed as forming within close relationships, called the “private realm.” Today, individual identity has moved decidedly into the “public realm.” Presenters will consider issues that arise in identity construction when institutions deploy the identities and related discourses they need to do their work.

523. Thematic Session. Public Sociologists in Pursuit of the PhD
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 3
Organizer and Presider: Jonathan D. VanAntwerpen, University of California, Berkeley
The Danger of Relevance: Potential Pitfalls of “Applied” Dissertation Research. Jennifer L. Bair, Yale University
Professional Too Soon: The Benefits of Being ABD. Kimberly DaCosta, Harvard University

Discussant: George J.A. Murray, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
The pathway to the PhD – and the structures, practices, norms, and institutions that shape it – is an essential rite in the life of nearly all would-be sociologists. As transformative producers of professional status, and key sites of disciplinary reproduction, how do graduate programs promote or subvert, enhance or inhibit, the development of public sociologies?

524. Thematic Session. The Shifting Transnational Boundaries of Carework: Caring Labor in International Conflict
Renaissance Parc 55, Parc Ballroom II
Organizer: Judith Wittner, Loyola University; Cameron Macdonald, University of Wisconsin, Madison
Presider: Judith Wittner, Loyola University
Domestic Violence, Garment Workers, and the War Against Terrorism in Bangladesh. Kathryn B. Ward, Southern Illinois University
Is Peacekeeping Carework? Joan C. Tronto, Hunter College, City University of New York
Until Johnny and Jane Come Marching Home: Management of the Front Left Behind. Joan L. Biddle
Conflict, Displacement, and Aid: Changing Borders between Sri Lanka and Canada. Jennifer Hyndman, Simon Fraser University

Discussant: Cameron Macdonald, University of Wisconsin, Madison
Caring labor once consigned to invisible and private domestic space and performed largely by unpaid female kin, has emerged as a public issue that addresses concerns grounded in war and conflict. While public policies designed to reaffirm carework’s private character shape public debates in the US, actual caring practice and ideologies surrounding care are moving into unexpected domains involving unanticipated groups and individuals.

525. Academic Workshop. Making Sociology “Real”: Incorporating Popular Culture into Sociology Courses
Organizers and Presiders: Joya Misra, University of Massachusetts, Amherst; Stephen J. Scanlan, University of Memphis
Panel: Jarl Ahlkvist, University of Colorado at Denver
Seth L. Feinberg, Montana State University
Donna King, University of North Carolina, Wilmington
Diana Papademas, State University of New York, Old Westbury

Popular culture in the form of movies, music, television and other media is an important pedagogical tool. Instructors can foster critical analysis of society by utilizing a medium that students already enjoy and are familiar with. Students are thus empowered to experience these media from a new perspective. In this workshop our experts discuss the challenges and successes that they have had incorporating popular culture into the sociological classroom. They will share their experiences and insights while offering practical considerations and advice, useful resources, and models for implementing popular culture into courses.

526. Career Workshop. Advice on Making the Transition from Associate to Full Professor
Hilton San Francisco, Union Square 13
Organizer: Patricia Yancey Martin, Florida State University
Panel: Ronald R. Aminzade, University of Minnesota
Lisa D. Brush, University of Pittsburgh
Scott Coltrane, University of California, Riverside
Cheryl Townsend Gilkes, Colby College
Mary Romero, Arizona State University
Vicki Smith, University of California, Davis
Donald Tomaskovic-Devey, North Carolina State University

Panelists will discuss: (1) understanding departmental and institutional criteria and practices that affect promotion from the rank of associate to full professor; (2) strategies for complying with these criteria and practices while retaining one’s personal agenda and goals; (3) changes in obligations and activities relative to teaching, research (including external funding), service (including administrative work), and work with graduate students that accompany promotion to full professor
527. Professional Workshop. Writing for Larger Audiences
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 7
Organizer: Leora Lawton, TechSociety Research
Presider: Kathryn L. Goldman Schuylor, Alliant International University
Panel: Lowndes F. Stephens, University of South Carolina
Laura M. Hecht, California State University, Bakersfield
Cristina Bodinger-deUriate, California State University, Los Angeles
If sociologists are going to be effective in demonstrating the value of sociological insight to other professionals, they need to know how to write in a way that is accessible for those not accustomed to reading peer-reviewed journal articles. This workshop covers writing styles and techniques when working with or for journalists, government officials, and business audiences. Examples, references and resources are given.

528. Teaching Workshop. Teaching about Peace, War, Military Institutions, and Social Conflict
Organizer and Presider: Morten G. Ender, United States Military Academy Leaders: Daniel Egan, University of Massachusetts, Lowell
Christine Rack, University of New Mexico
Mady Wechsler Segal, University of Maryland
Lynne M. Woehrle, Mount Mary College
Unfortunately, war remains in the forefront of the American and the global experience. Students and sociologists alike are looking for structured opportunities to discuss war, peace, terrorism, military institutions, and general social conflict in some meaningful, structured, and most significantly, a sociological way. Members of the Peace, War, and Social Conflict Section of the ASA have contributed to and published “Teaching the Sociology of Peace, War, and Social Conflict: A Curriculum Guide” (ASA, 2002). In this workshop we will represent four domains: Peace, War, Military Institutions, and Social Conflict with courses that represent each. Leaders will 1) talk in and around the course(s) they teach in terms of content; 2) the context in which they teach such as kinds of students; and 3) matters associated with the process and structure of their teaching to include texts and other instructional tools, resources, etc. Syllabi and other instructional materials will be made available.

529. Informal Discussion Roundtables. Family, Gender, Health, Education, Race, and Ethnicity
Hilton San Francisco, Franciscan A-B

549. Thematic Session. Is Parental Leave Good or Bad for Gender Equality?
Renaissance Parc 55, Da Vinci II-III
Organizer: Paula England, Northwestern University
Presider: Nancy Folbre, University of Massachusetts, Amherst
Janet Gornick, Baruch College, City University of New York
Barbara R. Bergmann, American University
Feminists disagree about whether the cause of gender equality is helped or harmed by policies (public or employer) that let parents take some months or years of leave for child rearing. Also at issue is whether parental leave or child-care are more important policy priorities. Janet Gornick and Barbara Bergmann take differing views on this issue. The debate will be moderated by another expert in this area, Nancy Folbre.

Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 3
Organizer and Presider: Loic Wacquant, New School for Social Research and Centre de sociologie européenne-Paris
Panel: Pierrette Hondagneu-Sotelo, University of Southern California
Omar McRoberts, University of Chicago
Nancy Scheper-Hughes, University of California, Berkeley
Loic Wacquant, New School for Social Research and Centre de sociologie européenne-Paris
Drawing on their own past and ongoing research, the panelists will engage the political and moral issues raised by conducting, writing, and disseminating ethnographic research on topics of urgent civic importance. They will consider the role of theory, policy, and practical engagement, as well as how the specificities of fieldwork as a mode of data production and analysis mitigate, exacerbate, or renovate the perennial ethical dilemmas faced by all social inquiry on a personal, intellectual, and professional levels.

551. Thematic Session. Public Religiosity and Transnational Space: A Question of Relevance
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 2

Discussant: Rhys H. Williams, University of Cincinnati
What influence does religion hold in relation to shifting public borders that defy or transcend expected alliances? The panel will discuss various Christian and Muslim perspectives that confront, challenge, and perhaps create different configurations of religiosity in relation to emerging changes in political, economic, and social space.
552. Academic Workshop. Effective Use of Discussion in the Undergraduate Classroom

Renaissance Parc 55, Raphael Room

Organizer and Presider: Jay R. Howard, Indiana University and Purdue University, Columbus

Tired of answering your own questions in the classroom? Wonder how to get students talking? Ever wonder how to stop certain students from dominating class discussions? This workshop will address such issues as which students are likely to participate in classroom discussion and which are not. We will also explore some of students’ reasons for their participation or lack thereof and finally, we share ideas for more effectively leading discussions in undergraduate classrooms of all sizes! Come prepared to discuss your success and failures with colleagues.

553. Career Workshop. Making the Most of Post-Doctoral Positions

Organizers: Carol A. Caronna, Towson University; Christopher Wellin, Miami University

Panel: Alison J. Bianchi, Kent State University
   Carol A. Caronna, Towson University
   Kecia Johnson, Ohio State University
   Christopher Wellin, Miami University

Panelists will share their experiences as postdoctoral scholars in a range of settings, identifying and discussing issues and tensions that those occupying such positions face. These include: 1) having to work in settings where, often, the sociological perspective is peripheral to local training and research networks; 2) finding and cultivating professional mentors, in situations in which time is short and norms of obligation, linking young scholars and faculty members are often ambiguous; and 3) how to reconcile longer-term research and publishing agendas with more immediate demands to meet and help organize training activities. Panelists will present brief remarks, followed by open discussion.

   Missing Pakistanis: Gendered Political Economy and the War on Terror. Ethel C. Brooks, Rutgers University
The Myth of Worker as Victim: Diversity and Agency within Maquilas. Daniel A. Long, University of Wisconsin, Madison
Overseas Nurses’ Motives for Working in the UK: Global Perspectives versus Local Prejudice. John Aggergaard Larsen, Helen T. Allan, Karen Bryan, and Pam A. Smith, University of Surrey

10. Racism and the Latina/o Experience
Presider: Tanya Maria Golash-Boza, University of North Carolina
Black Identity in Peru? Tanya Maria Golash-Boza, University of North Carolina
In Search for Accountability: the Role of Racism in Perú’s Truth and Reconciliation Commission Report. Sylvanna Martina Falcon, University of California, Santa Barbara

11. The Politics and Scholarship of Difference
Presider: Fred L. Pincus, University of Maryland, Baltimore County
The Many Faces of Diversity. Fred L. Pincus, University of Maryland, Baltimore County
The Politics of Race and Research. David Baronov, St. John Fisher College
Perceptions of Quality of Life: The Relative Influence of Race and Class. Matthew Green, University of Arizona

12. The Fluidity of Racial Identities at Home and Abroad
Presider: Wendy D. Roth, Harvard University
Welcome to America: You’ve been Racialized! Quinncy Thomas Stewart and Jeffrey C. Dixon, Indiana University
Returning the Tourist Gaze: Caribbean Gender and Racial Encounters. Mimi Sheller, Lancaster University
Understanding Race at Home and Abroad: The Impact of Migration on Dominican and Puerto Rican Identities. Wendy D. Roth, Harvard University

3:30-4:10 p.m., Section on Race, Gender, and Class Business Meeting

568. Section on Sociology of Education Miniconference on the No Child Left Behind Act (NCLB)
Organizer: Alan R. Sadovnik, Rutgers University; Kathryn Borman, University of South Florida; Kevin J. Dougherty, Columbia University
The No Child Left Behind Act (the latest re-authorization of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act) is landmark legislation with potentially far-reaching consequences for education. Given this, it is imperative that policy makers, educators and parents have data-driven information and analyses to guide their decision-making. The purpose of this mini-conference is to discuss how sociology can best illuminate NCLB’s impact and most effectively intervene in the policy discussion preceding the reauthorization of the ESEA in 2006 or 2007.

The mini-conference will consist of an introductory panel, where speakers will discuss the history of the achievement gap and efforts over the past 40 years to close it, the main features of NCLB, and the challenges it faces in closing the achievement gap. This panel will be followed by roundtable sessions analyzing the following issues related to NCLB: assessment and accountability; high quality teachers; curriculum, instruction, and school reform; and school choice.

The mini-conference will end with a planning session to develop a proposal for a full-day conference in conjunction with the 2005 ASA. The mini-conference is open to all ASA members, but priority will be given to members of the Sociology of Education section. Because of space limitations, attendance will be limited to 100. The deadline for applications was July 1st.

569. Section on Sociology of Emotions Paper Session.
Hilton San Francisco, Continental Parlor 1
Research on Emotions

Can You Feel the Love...or Not? Nonprofit Organizations and the Use of Emotion. Tiffany Guidry McKeon, University of Arizona
Emotion Display as a Cue in Restoring the Challenged Identity of Others. Christabel Rogalin, University of Iowa; Dawn T. Robinson, University of Georgia; Lynn Smith-Lovin, Duke University
Guilty Americans and Shameful Japanese? An Affect Control Test of Benedict’s Thesis. Herman W. Smith, University of Missouri
Affect and Health. Linda E. Francis, State University of New York, Stony Brook

570. Theory Section Miniconference on Theoretical Culture
Renaissance Pare 55, Barcelona 1
Invited Paper Session III. Analyzing Theoretical Cultures

Organizers: Michele Lamont, Harvard University; Neil L. Gross, University of Southern California
Presider: Neil L. Gross, University of Southern California
Session 570, continued

Northern Theory: On the Global Political Geography of Social Theory. Bob Connell, University of Sydney, Australia
Price and Prejudice: On the Practical Culture of Economics. Marion Fourcade-Gourinchas, University of California, Berkeley
Analyzing Postmodern Cultures. Karin D. Knorr Cetina, University of Chicago
How the Market Wins: Why All Theoretical Cultures Are Not Created Equal. Margaret R. Somers, University of Michigan
Discussant: Craig Calhoun, Social Science Research Council

3:30 p.m. Meetings

Section on Animals and Society Business Meeting (to 4:10 p.m.) — Renaissance Parc 55, Michelangelo Room
Section on Race, Gender, and Class Business Meeting (to 4:10 p.m.) — Renaissance Parc 55, Barcelona II

5:00 p.m. Sessions

571. Closing Plenary Session. The Future of Neoliberalism
Hilton San Francisco, Imperial A
Presider: Juliet Schor, Boston College
Fernando Henrique Cardoso, Former President of Brazil and Sao Paulo University

Both Paul Krugman and Fernando Henrique Cardoso built their academic reputations for contributions to the theory of the international economy — the one an economist of trade and the other a sociologist of dependency. Both became public figures in the era of neoliberal ascendancy—the one a vitriolic columnist for The New York Times and the other Minister of Finance and then President of Brazil. In the light of their background in social science and their high profile political engagements, how do they view the future of politics and the market and, thus, of the world?

7:30 p.m. Receptions

Closing Reception — Hilton San Francisco, Imperial B
Wednesday, August 18

8:30 a.m.  Meetings

2004-05 ASA Council (to 4:30 p.m.) — Hilton San Francisco, Plaza A

8:30 a.m.  Other Groups

Joint Mathematical Sociology/Rationality and Society

Informational Poster Session 262
Opportunities for Research Support

Organizer: Sally T. Hillsman, American Sociological Association
Presider: Torrey S. Androski, American Sociological Association
Sunday, August 15, 2004 ◊ 1:00 – 4:00 p.m.
Hilton San Francisco, Grand Ballroom

This poster/exhibit session is an important opportunity to meet program officers and representatives of major research funding institutions. Each exhibit provides a visual overview of research funding and the application process, materials for distribution, and time for direct individual discussion. All meeting participants, including students are encouraged to attend.

1. National Science Foundation
Division of Social and Economic Sciences
Presenter: Patricia White, Sociology Program, National Science Foundation, 4201 Wilson Boulevard, 995 SBE, Arlington, VA 22230; phone (703) 292-8762; fax (703) 292-9195 e-mail: pwhite@nsf.gov; homepage: http://www.nsf.gov/sbe/ses/sociol/.

The Sociology Program at the National Science Foundation (NSF) supports research on human social organization, demography, and processes of individual and institutional change. The Program encourages theoretically focused empirical investigations aimed at improving the explanation of fundamental social processes. Included is research on organizations and organizational behavior, population dynamics, social movements, social groups, labor force participation, stratification and mobility, family, social networks, socialization, gender roles, and the sociology of science and technology. The Sociology Program resides in NSF’s Division of Social and Economic Sciences. The Division supports disciplinary and multidisciplinary research, data collection, measurement, and methodological research. Its goal is to develop basic scientific knowledge of social, behavioral, and economic systems, organizations and institutions, and human interaction and decision-making. It also provides support for research conferences, doctoral dissertation research, international group travel, and data resource development.

2. Research and Fellowship Support for Sociologists
American Sociological Association

The American Sociological Association (ASA) provides funding for sociologists through two small grants programs and several fellowships programs. The ASA and the National Science Foundation jointly support the Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline (FAD). The goal of FAD is to nurture the development of scientific knowledge by funding ground breaking research initiatives and other important scientific research activities. FAD provides grant support (up to $5,000) for substantive and methodological breakthroughs that can advance knowledge and provide leverage for acquisition of additional research funds. Awards are limited to individuals with PhD degrees or the equivalent.

ASA makes awards (up to $1,000) through its Teaching Endowment Small Grants Program to support projects that extend the quality of teaching in the United States and Canada. Individuals, departments, and a program or a committee of a state or regional association are eligible to apply.

Through its Sydney S. Spivack Program in Applied Social Research and Social Policy, ASA supports a Congressional Fellowship, Community Action Research Fellowships, and a Mass Media Fellowship. The ASA Congressional Fellowship provides a PhD level sociologist with in-depth experience as a staff member of a Congressional Committee or in a Congressional Office or agency. The Community Action Research Fellowships provide support up to $2500 for sociological work with community organizations, local public interest groups, or community action projects.

3. Minority Fellowship Program

American Sociological Association

Presenter: Felicia Evans, American Sociological Association (ASA), 1307 New York Avenue, NW, Suite 700, Washington, DC 20005; phone (202) 383-9005 x 322; fax (202) 638-0882; email: minority.affairs@asanet.org; homepage: http://www.asanet.org/.

Through its Minority Fellowship Program (MFP), the American Sociological Association (ASA) supports the development and training of minority sociologists in mental health. Funded by a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH), the MFP seeks to attract talented minority students interested in mental health issues and to facilitate their placement, work, and success in an appropriate graduate program. In addition to providing financial support, the MFP works with Fellows and their faculty advisors at their home departments to help prepare Fellows in the sociology of mental health. Also, the MFP conducts symposia sessions at scholarly meetings, offers travel support to scientific conferences, and undertakes other initiatives that foster the development of formal and informal training for Fellows.

4. U.S. Department of Education

The Institute of Education Sciences

Presenter: Harold Himmelfarb, Institute of Education Sciences, U.S. Department of Education, Suite 510, 555 New Jersey Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20208; phone: (202) 219-2031; fax: (202) 219-2135; e-mail: harold.himmelfarb@ed.gov; funding information: www.ed.gov/offices/IES/funding.html

The Institute of Education Sciences (IES) is the U.S. Department of Education’s primary research arm. The IES supports rigorous research that contributes to the solution of education problems in the United States. Through its research initiatives and the national research and development centers, IES engages in research activities designed to improve the quality of education for all children, increase student academic achievement, and increase access to and opportunity for post-secondary education. IES research examines the effectiveness of education programs, practices, and policies, including the application of technology to instruction and assessment.

The goal of IES research programs is to provide scientific evidence of what works, for whom, and under what conditions. IES funds research through its education research grant programs, which support individual research projects, and through the national education research and development centers. Current programs and competitions focus on cognition and student learning; early childhood education; education finance, leadership, and management; education interventions in reading, mathematics, and the sciences; English language learners; teacher quality; and social and character development. IES is also competing new R&D centers that will contribute significantly to the solution of education problems in the United States by developing, testing, and disseminating new approaches to improve teaching and learning, and ultimately, student achievement.

In addition to funding research, IES provides support for training researchers in the education sciences through grants to universities and professional associations. Information on fiscal year 2004 research and training grant competitions is available on the Institute's funding page at http://www.ed.gov/programs/edresearch/applicant.html

5. U.S. Department of Justice

National Institute of Justice

Presenter: Henry H. Brownstein, Abt Associates, Inc. and Christine Crossland, National Institute of Justice Office of Research & Evaluation 810 7th Street, NW, Washington, DC 20531; phone (HB) (202) 305-8705 (CC) (202) 616-5166, fax (202) 305-8626; email: hbrownst@comcast.net; crosslan@ojp.usdoj.gov.

The National Institute of Justice (NIJ), a component of the Office of Justice Programs (OJP), is the research agency of the U.S. Department of Justice. Created by the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, as amended, NIJ is authorized to support research, evaluation, and demonstration programs, development of technology, and both national and international information dissemination for preventing and reducing crime and improving justice. In recent years, NIJ has expanded its research program, partly the result of the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 (the Crime Act), partnerships with other federal agencies and private foundations, advances in technology, and a new international focus. New research and evaluation is exploring key issues in: violence against women; child abuse and neglect; use of geographical systems; substance abuse; youth development and delinquency; comparative cross-national crime; sentencing and corrections; community policing; and innovative justice system efforts including drug courts, family treatment courts, in-prison residential drug treatment, and offender reintegration programming. Information will be provided on NIJ funding opportunities for research on crime and criminal justice, including NIJ fellowship programs.

6. National Institute on Aging
Behavioral and Social Research Program
Presenter: Sidney M. Stahl, Behavioral and Social Research Program, National Institute on Aging, 7201 Wisconsin Avenue, #533, Bethesda, MD 20892-9205; phone (301) 402-4156; fax (301) 402-0051; e-mail: sidney_stahl@nih.gov; homepage: http://www.nih.gov/nia/research/extramural/behavior/.

The Behavioral and Social Research (BSR) Program of the National Institute on Aging (NIA) supports basic social and behavioral research and research training on processes of aging at both the individual and societal level. It focuses on how people change over the adult life course, on the interrelationships between older people and social institutions, and on the societal impact of the changing age composition of the population. Emphasis is placed upon the dynamic interplay between the aging of individuals and their changing biomedical, social and physical environments and on multi-level interactions among psychological, physiological, social, and cultural levels. Collaboration and coordination with other NIA programs is emphasized.

7. National Institutes of Health
National Cancer Institute
Presenter: Meryl Sufian, PhD, Sociologist/Program Director, Office of Cancer Survivorship, Division of Cancer Control and Population Sciences, National Cancer Institute (NCI), 6130 Executive Boulevard, Bethesda, MD 20892; phone: 301 402-2964; fax 301 594-5070; email: sufianm@mail.nih.gov; homepage: http://cancercontrol.gov/ocs/

The Division of Cancer Control and Population Sciences (DCCPS) is the extramural research division in the National Cancer Institute (NCI) that mainly supports cancer-related behavioral and social science research. DCCPS consists of five broad program areas to which investigators may apply for funding: the Office of Cancer Survivorship, the Behavioral Research Program, the Surveillance Research Program, the Applied Research Program, and the Epidemiology and Genetics Research Program. These programs are interested in funding research that investigates the relationship between social factors and various aspects of cancer-related behaviors, such as behavioral risk, prevention, screening, treatment decision making, responses to treatment, and survivorship issues.

The scope of research supported by these programs include pilot and exploratory studies, qualitative research, secondary data analyses, descriptive studies, small and large-scale intervention studies, and studies that are focused on the development and testing of health behavior theories and methods. Special areas of interest include interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary research that examine sociocultural factors in health behavior and health disparities. The current research portfolio includes but is not limited to: the influence of social factors, attitudes, and belief systems on health risk and health-related behaviors as well as on quality of care and care delivery; cancer screening; decision making; health communication; interventions to improve the length and quality of survival post-diagnosis; and the burden of cancer on family members/caregivers.

There are several funding mechanisms through which investigators may apply to NCI which include smaller grants for new investigators, pilot and exploratory studies, and an investigator-initiated mechanism for more experienced investigators. A broad range of training and career development grants are supported at different career levels and NCI also offers educational opportunities at the postdoctoral level. In addition, a number of special training opportunities for minority scientists are available.

8. National Institutes of Health
National Institute of Child Health and Human Development
Presenter: Rebecca L. Clark and Lynne M. Casper, Demographic and Behavioral Science Branch, Center for Population Research, National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, 6100 Executive Boulevard,
The National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD), through its Center for Population Research, is the nation’s largest single source of funding for behavioral and social science research on population; most of this research is funded by the Demographic and Behavioral Sciences Branch. Program areas of interest include family and household structure and processes, fatherhood, children’s well-being, fertility and contraceptive behavior, sexual behavior related to risk of pregnancy, HIV infection, and other sexually transmitted diseases; immigration, migration, and population distribution; population and environment; the relationship between demographic factors and labor markets and labor force participation; child care; mortality, especially infant mortality and child health; and formal demographic and methodological research. Within NICHD, the Center for Research on Mothers and Children also supports behavioral and social research in the areas of child development, mental retardation, and nutrition and growth; and the National Center for Medical Rehabilitation Research supports work on the behavioral aspects of disability.

9. Behavioral and Social Sciences Working Group

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Presenters: Deborah Holtzman and Karin A. Mack, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, 4770 Buford Highway, NE, Mail Stop K-56, Atlanta, GA 30341; phone (770) 488-2593; fax (770) 488-8200; email: DHoltzman@cdc.gov; homepage: www.cdc.gov.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), based in Atlanta, Georgia, is the nation's primary agency responsible for disease and Injury prevention. It maintains a full prevention and health promotion agenda that tackles infectious diseases, chronic diseases, injuries and violence, workplace hazards, birth defects and disabilities, and environmental hazards such as lead and other toxic substances. It also promotes healthy behaviors and lifestyle choices. Information will be available regarding current job opportunities, postgraduate training, the Epidemic Intelligence Service (EIS), and funding opportunities such as cooperative agreements.

10. National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism

Presenter: Robert C. Freeman, Division of Epidemiology and Prevention Research, National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, 5635 Fishers Lane, Room 2088, MSC 9304, Bethesda, MD 20892-9304; phone (301) 443-8820; fax (301) 443-8614; e-mail: rfreeman@mail.nih.gov.

The National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAAA) supports basic applied research related to the causes, consequences, treatment, and prevention of alcohol-related problems. Most behavioral and social science research is funded through the Division of Epidemiology and Prevention Research. NIAAA’s research priorities include: sociocultural and environmental influences on drinking behaviors; safety, intentional, and unintentional injury (including violence and drunk driving); economic, socioeconomic and policy-related issues in the prevention and treatment of alcohol problems; the prevention and treatment of alcohol-related problems in children, adolescents, families, the disabled and elderly, and other at-risk populations; race/ethnic health disparities in the etiology, treatment, and prevention of alcohol-related problems; prevention of Fetal Alcohol Syndrome; interventions with persons at risk for HIV/AIDS; and alcohol-related health services studies, including research on the organization, management and financing of alcohol treatment and prevention services.
Informational Poster Session 342
Data Resources

Organizer: Sally T. Hillsman, American Sociological Association
Monday, August 16, 2004 ◊ 9:00 a.m. – 12:00 noon
Hilton San Francisco, Grand Ballroom

This poster/exhibit session provides a unique occasion to meet principal investigators, researchers, and managers of large-scale datasets that are publicly available for use. Representatives are available to talk about these datasets, their analytic potential, and issues relating to access and use, including state-of-the-art Internet services to access datasets. This is an opportunity for meeting attendees to learn about these datasets and their potential for research and teaching. All meeting participants, including students, are encouraged to attend.

1. The Panel Study of Income Dynamics
University of Michigan, Institute for Social Research
Presenter: Kate McGonagle, Institute for Social Research, University of Michigan, 426 Thompson St., Ann Arbor, MI 48109; phone (734) 936-1773; fax (734) 936-3809; email: psidhelp@isr.umich.edu; homepage: http://psidonline.isr.umich.edu.

With thirty-three waves of data collected, the Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID) is a longitudinal survey of a representative sample of U.S. men, women, and children and the families in which they reside. Data on employment, income, wealth, health, housing, and food expenditures, transfer income, and marital and fertility behavior have been collected annually since 1968. Recent additions include questions on mental health, and a supplement on philanthropic giving. From 5,000 families in 1968, the study has grown to include nearly 8,000 families and more than 60,000 individuals. The study has collected high quality intergenerational data on economic capacity, income and the transmission of wealth, as well as information on such issues as the long-term effects of life events (early childbearing, divorce, illness) on workers and their families, the relationship of business cycles to economic well-being, and the interaction of labor mobility and geographic mobility. In recent years, the value of the PSID has been further extended through matching PSID respondents to Census geocodes, permitting the addition of valuable neighborhood characteristics to individual files. The coverage of the PSID was expanded in 1997 with the addition of an immigrant refresher sample. A Child Development Supplement (CDS) was implemented in 1997 covering children in PSID families from birth through age 12, and again in 2002 for the same children who were then aged 5-18. All waves of data and documentation from the Panel Study of Income Dynamics are available to Internet users worldwide. The newly upgraded PSID Data Center is a user-friendly interface that allows the easy creation of customized data files and codebooks in a variety of formats.

2. The Child Development Supplement to the Panel Study of Income Dynamics
University of Michigan, Institute for Social Research
Presenter: Tina Mainieri, Institute for Social Research, University of Michigan, 426 Thompson St., Ann Arbor, MI 48106; phone (734) 615-2885; fax (734) 936-3809; email: psidhelp@isr.umich.edu; homepage: http://psidonline.isr.umich.edu/CDS.

The Child Development Supplement (CDS) is one research component of the PSID, a longitudinal study of a representative sample of U.S. individuals and the families in which they reside. Since 1968, the PSID has collected data on family composition changes, housing and food expenditures, marriage and fertility histories, employment, income wealth, time use, health, and more. In 1997, the PSID supplemented its core data collection with additional information on PSID parents and their 0-12 year-old children.
The objective of CDS is to provide researchers with a comprehensive, nationally representative, and longitudinal data base of children and their families with which to study the dynamic process of early human capital formation. In 2002, CDS re-contacted CDS-I children/adolescents (then aged 5-18 years) whose families remained active in the PSID panel as of 2001. Within the context of family, neighborhood, and school environments, CDS studies a broad array of developmental outcomes including physical health, emotional well-being, academic achievement, and social relationships with family and peers.

The CDS survey design is complex, relying on time diary methodology, cognitive assessments, height and weight measurements, computer-assisted personal self-interviews. CDS collects: (a) reliable, age-graded assessments of the cognitive, behavioral, and health status of the sample children/youth, obtained from the primary and secondary caregivers, teachers, and the sample children/youth themselves; (b) a comprehensive accounting of parental and caregiver time inputs to children/youth as well as other aspects of the way children and adolescents spend their time; and (c) other-than-time use measures of other resources for example, the learning environment in the home, data on school resources, and decennial-census-based measurement of neighborhood resources.

All data and documentation are available free of charge on the Internet for users worldwide. The newly upgraded PSID Data Center is a user-friendly interface that allows the easy creation of customized data files and codebooks in a variety of formats.

3. New Data Acquisitions at ICPSR

Inter-University Consortium for Political & Social Research, Institute for Social Research

Presenters: Amy Pienta, ICPSR, University of Michigan, PO Box 1248, Ann Arbor, MI 48103; Phone: (734) 615-7957; fax: (734) 647-8700; e-mail: apienta@umich.edu; homepage: http://www.icpsr.umich.edu/.

ICPSR is an organization of member institutions working together to acquire and preserve social science data, to provide open and equitable access to these data, and to promote effective data use. Since its inception in 1962, ICPSR has pursued a variety of practices and strategies for developing its collection and has acquired and received data from numerous sources. New data have been brought into the archive to accomplish several different purposes: among them, to fill substantive gaps in the holdings, to appeal to new constituencies, to round out existing subject area concentrations, to support new research techniques, and to rescue and preserve data that are in danger of being lost. The end result of these collection development efforts is a vast social science data archive with wide-ranging coverage in terms of subject matter and remarkable depth in some key disciplines. New data acquisitions and collection development policies will be described including information about strategic areas for new data acquisitions at ICPSR.

4. The Wisconsin Longitudinal Study

Center for Demography of Health & Aging, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Presenters: Robert M. Hauser and Taissa S. Hauser, Center for Demography of Health and Aging, University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1180 Observatory Drive, Madison, WI 53706; phone: (608) 262-4715; fax: (608) 262-8400; e-mail: wls@ssc.wisc.edu; homepage: <http://dpls.dacc.wisc.edu/WLS/wlsarch.htm/>.

The Wisconsin Longitudinal Study (WLS) is a 47 year-long study of the life course among 10,000 men and women who graduated from Wisconsin high schools in 1957, and who have been followed up at ages 25, 36, 53-54, and 64-65. Data from the original respondents or their parents from 1957 to 1975 cover social background, youthful and adult aspirations, schooling, military service, family formation, labor market experience, and social participation. The 1992-93 surveys cover occupational histories; income, assets, and economic transfers; social and economic characteristics of parents, siblings, and children; and mental and physical health and well-being. Parallel interviews were carried out with siblings in 1977 and 1993-94. A new round of survey data collection from graduates, siblings, and their spouses or widows began in mid-2003. Beyond repeated measures, the new surveys add more extensive data on health, health behaviors, health insurance, psychological and cognitive functioning, family relations, social and civic participation, religiosity, and preparation for retirement and for the end of life.

WLS data and documentation are available on the World Wide Web, and public 2003-04 data for graduates will be released early in 2005.
5. Children & Young Adults of the National Longitudinal Survey of Youth/79 Cohort
Center for Human Resource Research, Ohio State University
Presenter: Paula C. Baker; NLS User Services, Center for Human Resource Research, 921 Chatham, Lane, Suite 100, Columbus, OH 43221-2418; phone (614) 442-7375; fax: (614) 442-7329; e-mail: usersvc@postoffice.chrr.ohio-state.edu; homepage: www.bls.gov/nls/nlsy79ch.htm

The Children & Young Adults of the NLSY79 data focus on the development and achievement of the children of the mothers in the NLSY79. Sponsored by the U.S. Department of Labor, with support from NICHD, the NLSY79 Child & Young Adult (Child-YA) dataset is an outgrowth of the National Longitudinal Surveys of Youth/79 Cohort. Started in 1986 and repeated biennially, the NLSY79 Child-YA uses mother report and direct assessment to gauge the children's cognitive ability, temperament, motor and social development, behavior problems, perceived self-competence, and home environment. Linked with the child assessment information is an extensive series of questions addressed to the mothers of the children about pre- and post-natal care and the health of their children. Since 1988, children 10 and older have reported on: child-parent interaction, family decision-making, school attitudes, work activities, peer relationships, attitudes, religion, substance use, and sexual activity. Information on the children's school characteristics, policies, student performance, and experiences was gathered between 1994 and 1996. The 1994 survey round replaced, for children 15 and older, the child assessment series with an hour-long CAPI interview of these Young Adults on schooling, employment, training, family experiences, health and attitudes. The NLSY79 Young Adult component also includes self-report on substance use, sexual activity, non-normative behavior, computer use, and pro-social activities. The Child/YA sample ranges in age from birth to late twenties as of the current survey. The current Child-Young Adult file contains 1986-2002 assessment scores, all questionnaire items, and a number of constructed variables related to the family background, fertility, pregnancy history, childcare practices, and work experience of the mothers. Young Adult questionnaire information from 1994-2002 is accompanied by a set of created variables for each round. Any item from the complete record of the main NLSY79 (mother) file can be linked by respondent ID to the child and young adult files. The 2004 survey is currently in the field. The Center for Human Resource Research (CHRR) at Ohio State University issues the maternal and child data and documentation at nominal cost on CD-ROM. Data and documentation are also available on-line at http://www.bls.gov/nls/nlsorder.htm. Topical research bibliographies and reports are available at no charge. The complete, annotated, on-line NLS bibliography can be accessed at http://www.bls.gov/nls/nlsbib.htm

6. The National Survey of Families and Households (NSFH)
University of Wisconsin
Presenters: Larry Bumpass and James A. Sweet, Co-Directors. University of Wisconsin 1180 Observatory Drive, Madison, WI 53706; Phone: 608 262 2182; Fax: 608-262-8400; email: bumpass@ssc.wisc.edu; sweet@ssc.wisc.edu; homepage: http://www.ssc.wisc.edu/nsfh/home.htm

NSFH was designed to provide researchers with data covering many aspects of American family life. The 1987-88 national sample of 13,007 included a main cross-section of 9,367 households plus an oversampling of blacks, Puerto Ricans, Mexican Americans, single-parent families, families with step-children, cohabiting couples and recently married persons. A considerable amount of life-history information was collected including: the respondent's family living arrangements in childhood, departures and returns to the parental home, and histories of marriage, cohabitation, education, fertility, and employment.

The design permits the detailed description of past and current living arrangements and other characteristics and experiences, as well as the analysis of the consequences of earlier patterns on current states, marital and parenting relationships, kin contact, and economic and psychological well-being and family-related attitudes. A second wave of interviews was conducted in 1992-94, including main respondents, current and former spouses, and a focal child who was between ages 5 and 18 and living in the household at the first interview. A third wave of data, collected in 2000-2003 is now available. These data include interviews with the main respondent, the first interview spouse/partner, and the "focal child" now ages 18-32.
7. National Survey of Family Growth
Reproductive Statistics Branch, CDC
Presenter: Stephanie Willson, Reproductive Statistics Branch, National Center for Health Statistics, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, 3311 Toledo Rd., Rm. 7318, Hyattsville, MD 20782; phone (301) 458-4173; fax (301) 458-4033; email: zex8@cdc.gov; homepage: www.cdc.gov/nchs/nsfg.htm.

The National Survey of Family Growth (NSFG) has been conducted 6 times since 1973, resulting in a cross-sectional time-series for 1973, 1976, 1982, 1988, 1995, and 2002. The most recent cycle was administered in 2002-2003 and will be available for public use by the summer of 2004. While topical coverage may vary somewhat in different cycles, the NSFG has always included complete birth and pregnancy histories, as well as detailed information on contraceptive method use. Patterns of cohabitation, marriage and divorce have also become a primary focus of the survey. Beginning in 1995, computer-assisted personal interviews (CAPI) were implemented, along with Audio Computer Assisted Self Interview (ACASI) technology. In addition, a contextual data file and other supplementary files are available. In response to the growing need for understanding men’s roles in family formation and fertility, the 2002 NSFG included males for the first time. This effort resulted in 7643 interviews with women 15-44 years of age, and 4929 interviews with men 15-44 years of age, for a total sample size of over 12,500.

8. Reproductive Statistics Branch: Natality Data
National Center for Health Statistics, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Presenter: Stephanie J. Ventura, Reproductive Statistics Branch, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, National Center for Health Statistics, 3311 Toledo Road, Room 7318, Hyattsville, MD 20782-2003; phone (301) 458-4476; fax (301) 458-4032; email: SVentura@cdc.gov.

The National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS) collects and publishes information on a wide variety of demographic and health characteristics reported on the birth certificate for all births occurring in the United States. Information from birth certificates registered in the health departments of all states, New York City, the District of Columbia, and the territories, is provided to NCHS through the Vital Statistics Cooperative Program. Data are collected continuously. NCHS publishes preliminary and final data reports annually. Public-use data files are available beginning with the 1968 data year; a compressed data file is available on CD-ROMs for data years 1990-2002. A variety of special reports is available on specific topics, including most recently, rates of reproduction, pregnancy rates, state-specific demographic measures, and revised birth and fertility rates for the 1990s. Demographic characteristics available in the natality file include age, race, Hispanic origin, education, birthplace, marital status, residence, live-birth order, sex, and month and day of birth. Health information includes month prenatal care began, number of prenatal visits, medical risk factors, tobacco use, obstetric procedures, attendant at birth, place of delivery, method of delivery, complications of labor and/or delivery, period of gestation, birth weight, Apgar score, abnormal conditions of the newborn, congenital anomalies, and plurality. Currently underway is implementation of the 2003 revision of the birth certificate. The revised certificate collects new data on fertility therapy (drugs and ART separately), maternal infections during pregnancy, expanded information on tobacco use, receipt of WIC food during pregnancy, prepregnancy weight and height as well as weight at delivery, principal source of payment for the delivery, and breastfeeding, among other topics. Vital statistics systems are being re-engineered to improve data quality and timeliness through collection of data through worksheets from the best sources; ability to edit and query data at the source; and standardization of best practices across states.

9a. General Social Survey
National Opinion Research Center, University of Chicago
Presenter: Tom W. Smith, National Opinion Research Center, University of Chicago, 1155 East 60th Street, Chicago, IL 60637; phone (773) 256-6288; fax (773) 753-7886; email: smitht@norc.uchicago.edu; homepage: http://www.norc.uchicago.edu/.

The General Social Survey (GSS) of the National Opinion Research Center, University of Chicago, monitors social change in the United States. Since 1972, the GSS has gathered data on contemporary American society in order to monitor and explain trends and constants in attitudes, behaviors, and attributes of the adult population. These high quality data are easily accessible to a broad-based user community, including researchers, teachers in colleges and universities, students at undergraduate and graduate levels, business and corporate planners, journalists, and public officials who need to understand the pulse of our country in their work. The 24 national probability samples include interviews of over 43,000 respondents. Of the 4,220 items that have been asked, there are time trends for over 1,000 items. Two recent developments regarding the GSS are featured—the GSS Data and Information Retrieval System II (GSSDIRS) and the 2002 GSS. The GSSDIRS II is a new web product that links together code book, trends, bibliography, project reports, and other documentation; permits on-line analysis and data sub-setting; and provides the latest information via an announcement section, and contact with the GSS staff. The 2002 GSS contains supplements on religion, sexual behavior, internet and computer use, intergroup relations, transition to adulthood, quality of working life, worker compensation, and altruism and empathy.

9b. International Social Survey
National Opinion Research Center, University of Chicago

Presenter: Tom W. Smith, National Opinion Research Center, University of Chicago, 1155 East 60th Street, Chicago, IL 60637; phone (773) 256-6288; fax (773) 753-7886; email: smitht@norc.uchicago.edu; homepage: http://www.issp.org/.

The International Social Survey Program (ISSP) is the cross-between the General Social Survey (GSS) and its counterparts in other countries. Studies have been conducted annually since 1985 dealing with such topics as the role of government, social support and networks, social inequality, gender, family, work, the environment, national identity, and religion. Over 300 surveys with over 350,000 respondents have been conducted. Topics are repeated every 5-8 years. This means that both over time and cross-national comparisons are possible. There are now 39 member countries participating in the ISSP. It is a valuable resource for researchers undertaking comparative analysis or studying attitudes, behaviors, and attributes of adult populations in other countries.

10. The Minnesota Population Center
University of Minnesota

Presenters: Matt Sobek and Trent Alexander, University of Minnesota, 19th Ave South Minneapolis, MN 55455; phone (612) 624-5818; fax (612) 626-8375; email: jta@pop.umn.edu.

The Minnesota Population Center has undertaken several projects to create and disseminate harmonized census data for research and classroom use. These include the Integrated Public Use Microdata Series database (IPUMS-USA, IPUMS-International, and IPUMS-CPS) and the North Atlantic Population Project (NAPP). IPUMS-USA and IPUMS-International create uniform codes and documentation across 150 years of US census data and 40 years of census microdata from seven other countries. IPUMS-CPS does the same for 40 years of US Current Population Survey data. All data and documentation are available to researchers free of charge at <http://ipums.org/>. The NAPP project provides harmonized variables, codes, and documentation for 100% of the 1880-era populations of the US, Great Britain, Canada, Norway, and Iceland. All NAPP data are available free of charge at http://nappdata.org.

11. NCES School and Staffing Survey (SASS): An Overview
Educational Statistics Services Institute, American Institutes for Research

Presenters: Deanna Lyter and Erin E. Fox, Education Statistics Serves Institute for Research, 1990 K Street, NW, Suite 500, Washington, DC 20006; phone (202) 661-6165 or (202) 654-6550; fax (202) 737-4918; email: efox@air.org or dlyter@air.org; homepage: http://www.nces.ed.gov/survey/SASS.

The National Center for Education Statistics’ (NCES) Schools and Staffing Survey (SASS) is the nation’s largest sample of the characteristics and conditions of America’s elementary and secondary schools, principals, teachers, and library media centers. The 1999-2000 SASS, with data from over 120,000 respondents, provides national and state-representative estimated for public school and affiliation-reliable estimates fro private schools. The latest administration of the Survey also includes data from all schools operating by the Bureau of Indian Affair (BIA) and from all public charter schools in operation during the 1998-1999 school year.

Public Data Queries, Inc.

Presenter: Albert F. Anderson, Public Data Queries, Inc., 310 Depot Street, Suite C, Ann Arbor Michigan 48104; phone (734) 213-4964 x309; fax (734) 475-8160; email: afa@pdq.com; homepage: http://www.pdq.com/.

This exhibit will demonstrate the use of PDQ-Explore and PDQ-Expert to access and analyze large micro data files. These include, among others, the Public Use Micro data Samples (PUMS) from the U.S. Census Bureau and the Integrated Public Use Micro data Series (IPUMS) from the IPUMS project at the University of Minnesota Population Center. The U.S. census micro data encompassed in the IPUMS files can be accessed as a single data set spanning 1850-1990 with the 2000 files to be added when available. PDQ-Expert provides a natural language, case-based reasoning interface to PDQ-Explore. It is designed to allow persons unfamiliar with micro data and basic analytic procedures to extract meaningful information from large and complex data sets. PDQ-Explore and PDQ-Expert are commercial products developed by Public Data Queries, Inc., with small business research support from the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD) and the National Institute on Aging (NIA) of the National Institutes of Health (NIH).

13. Human Subject Protection and Disclosure Risk Assessment

Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research

Presenters: Myron Gutmann and JoAnne O'Rourke, Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research and Corey J. Colyer, University of Michigan, P.O. Box 1248, Ann Arbor, MI 48106-1248; phone: +1-734-647-5000; Fax: 1-734-647-8200; email: gutmann@icpsr.umich.edu

Sociology has a long tradition in sharing research data and materials. Making data available from large and expensive studies, ensures their maximum utility. However, as powerful computing technology becomes less expensive, these collections pose increased risks to respondent confidentiality. Researchers and data archivists employ a variety of techniques to measure and minimize disclosure risks in publicly available datasets. This poster presentation presents a new research program in disclosure risk assessment and limitation techniques at the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research.

14. Indicators of Social Justice

American Social Indicators

Presenter: Emanuel Smikun, AMINSO, 16A Old Hickory Drive, New York 12204; phone (518) 463-1489; email: esmik@socialindicators.org; homepage: http://www.socialindicators.org

Indicators of social justice give a faithful picture of social structure and an unbiased foundation for informed action. We have developed indicators of basic and visible lifestyle, ascribed and achieved status, deep and volatile attitudes, early and later socialization in four major institutional domains – family, cultural, economic, and political in regional, social-ecological, work, employment, as well as age and sex segmentation. Based on General Social Survey data, each of these indicators incorporates two or more raw GSS variables on five ordinally-scaled levels. These social indicators specify relative structural positions of social strata within salient aspects of social behavior. With the help of these indicators one can evaluate quantitatively unfair advantages or disadvantages that various statistical social groups have with respect to other groups of the same kind and segmentation. The indicators can further specify whether such advantages or disadvantages are stochastic and tolerable, or excessive and systemic. These indicators can be effective tools in the analysis of everyday social problems and in evaluating all forms of social intervention. By locating affected groups in elements of relatively dysfunctional social structures represented by these indicators, one can diagnose social problems in objective terms and propose viable solutions.

15. American Religion Data Archive

The Pennsylvania State University

Presenters: Roger Finke and Amy Adamczyk, The Pennsylvania State University, Department of Sociology, 211 Oswald Tower, University Park, PA 16802-6207; phone (814) 865-6258; fax (814) 863-7216; email: arda@pop.psu.edu; homepage: www.thearda.com

The American Religion Data Archive (ARDA) is an Internet-based data archive that stores and distributes quantitative data sets from the leading studies on American religion. Supported by the Lilly Endowment and housed at Pennsylvania State University's Population Research Institute, ARDA holds over 250 data files on American religion. The abundance of useful online features allows users to conduct basic data analysis, review codebooks, construct a survey instrument, download data and software, search for variables, principal investigators, or topics of interest, and create church membership reports, and maps of counties, states, and the nation. These features allow the ARDA to be used for research, teaching and general perusal.
16. Murray Research Center
Radcliff Institute for Advanced Study, Harvard University
Presenters: Matthew Kaliner, Murray Research Center, Radcliff Institute for Advanced Study, Harvard University, 10 Garden Street, Cambridge, MA 02138; phone (617) 495-8140; fax (617) 496-3663; email: kaliner@radcliffe.edu; homepage: http://www.radcliffe.edu/murray/.

The Henry A. Murray Research Center is a multidisciplinary research center focusing on the study of lives over time. It is a national repository for social and behavioral science data on human development and social change. The primary criteria for evaluating data sets for inclusion in the archive are the usefulness of the data for secondary analysis, replication or longitudinal follow-up. Issues of confidentiality and access are addressed for each data set as the study is acquired and processed. The data archive is unique in that it includes not only computer-accessible quantitative data, but also qualitative materials such as case histories, open-ended interviews, responses to projective tests, and video taped and audio taped data. The center is also unique in allowing new researchers to contact the subjects of existing data sets to obtain follow-up data. The resources of the Murray Center are available to researchers at all levels and from all disciplines and schools, free of charge. The Guide to the Data Resources provides an overview of the Murray Center's data holdings. The Guide is available on line at http://www.radcliffe.edu/murray. Hard copies of the Guide are also available.

17. Mexican Migration Project/ Latin American Migration Project
Population Studies Center, University of Pennsylvania
Presenter: Chiara Capoferro, Office of Population Research, Princeton University, Wallace Hall, Princeton, NJ 08544; phone (609) 258-8155; fax (609) 258-1039; email: capoferc@princeton.edu.

Founded in 1982, the Mexican Migration Project has annually administered ethnosurveys to randomly sampled households in various communities in Mexico since 1987. In 1998, its sister project, the Latin American Migration Project, was born with surveys in Puerto Rico. For both projects, each community yields approximately 200 surveyed households in the home country (fewer in some LAMP countries), as well as 10 to 20 households of community members living in the U.S. who are identified through snowball sampling. Responses are converted to electronic format and compiled to form five unique data sets. The PERS file contains general socioeconomic information for each household member (as well as those children of the head of household who no longer live at home), including basic measures of domestic and international migration. MIG file contains detailed border-crossing characteristics, measures of migratory experience of family of origin, extended family and friends, and the social and economic characteristics of the last U.S. trip for each head of household. The HOUSE file contains measures of household composition and amenities, and data of household holdings: businesses, land, property, vehicles and livestock. Finally, the LIFE and SPOUSE files are labor histories for the head of household (LIFE) and his/her spouse (SPOUSE) in which each record represents a person-year detailing labor force participation, family/household formation, and cumulative U.S. experience. In addition to the core database, supplemental data, useful for both cross-sectional and longitudinal analysis, are gathered at aggregate levels. At the community level, measures of infrastructure, social resources, public services, labor force participation, education, land use and (in the case of Mexico) ejido characteristics are compiled. Labor market-specific data corresponding to U.S. destinations include economic indicators, immigration measures and population counts. In addition, the MMP offers border-patrol statistics, Mexico-U.S. finance and trade measures, and Mexican labor force indicators. Currently, the MMP database contains 93 communities, while the LAMP includes multiple communities surveyed in Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Peru, Paraguay and Haiti. All data files, as well as qualitative materials (including oral histories of migrants and a retablo gallery) are accessible for download from the MMP and the LAMP websites: http://mmp.opr.princeton.edu/ and http://lamp.opr.princeton.edu/

18. Data Analyses on Latinos: Demographics, Economics, Education, & Identity
Pew Hispanic Center
Presenter: Margarita S. Studemeister, Associate Director, Pew Hispanic Center, USC Annenberg School for Communication, 1919 M Street NW Suite 460, Washington, D.C. 20036; phone (202) 452-1704; fax
The presentation will feature the Pew Hispanic Center/Kaiser Family Foundation 2002 National Survey of Latinos, designed to explore the attitudes and experiences of Latinos on a wide variety of topics, including perceptions about identity, views about life in the United States, experiences with discrimination, both from within the Hispanic community, and from non-Hispanic groups, language abilities and preferences, economic and financial conditions, and experiences with the health care system. Presenter will discuss major results of the survey and provide guidance about obtaining the data set. Furthermore, she will also provide information on other surveys, polls and research conducted by the Pew Hispanic Center.

19. Reducing or Eliminating Halo/Attractiveness Effects in Race-Based Image Vignettes
Saint Joseph's College
Presenter: Paul A. Magro, Saint Joseph's College, Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice, P.O. Box 922, U.S. Highway 231 South, Rensselaer, Indiana 47978; phone (219) 866-6233; email: pmagro@saintjoe.edu.

Use of images in vignettes and simulations are frequently used in attempts to measure racial bias, however, they are vulnerable to attractiveness bias/halo effects, and leave open to question whether it is actually the race or the appearance of the person in the scenario that is being judged. When preferences are shown toward those who are more physically attractive research results may be called into serious question. What is needed is a method in which the appearance of the persons in the vignette can somehow be equalized. For this session, I review the literature on attractiveness bias and halo effects and outline the potential shortcomings of most image-based vignettes and scenarios. I then demonstrate an emerging technology in which computer software is used to generate images that can be manipulated to appear either African American or Caucasian using identical facial features for each, thereby reducing or eliminating attractiveness bias and halo effects.

20. Using the ESRC Question Bank: An Online Resource Developed for the Social Survey Research Community
University of Surrey, UK
Presenter: Julie Lamb, CASS QB, Department of Sociology, University of Surrey, Guildford, Surrey GU2 7XH, UK; phone (+44) 1483 683762; fax (+44) 1483 689551; email: qb@soc.surrey.ac.uk; homepage: http://qb.soc.surrey.ac.uk/.

The Question Bank web site is an online tool developed for social survey researchers who wish to use the questionnaires from large-scale United Kingdom social surveys. Initially funded by the ESRC in 1995, the Qb has grown into a well-used and large resource. The Question Bank is based in the UK, but is a truly unique resource that can be of use to social researchers everywhere. Most survey questionnaires are held in the form of PDF files. Many recent CAPI surveys are based upon the program BLAISE, and display the questionnaire in modified coded format. The Question Bank does not itself hold data, which is accessible through the UK Data Archive at the University of Essex. The Question Bank is intended as a tool for survey researchers designing questionnaires, for secondary analysts in search of the original questionnaires used in a survey, and more generally for students of survey methods. It is gradually building up commentary material on the measurement of 21 social and socioeconomic variables, related to the surveys, which are held in the QB. Its longer-term objective is to try to achieve improvements in survey measurement. The Question Bank website is available to Internet browsers worldwide. The Question Bank is supported by a UK academic advisory board, which provides input on the commentary material that is put up on the site.

21. Electronic and Special Media Records Services Division
National Archives and Records Administration
Presenter: Nancy J. Melley, Electronic and Special Media Records Services Division, National Archives and Records Administration, 8601 Adelphi Road, College Park, MD 20740-6001; phone (301) 837-0470; fax (301) 837-3681; homepage: http://www.archives.gov.

The National Archives is the federal agency responsible for preservation of and access to the permanently valuable computerized records of the federal government. The Electronic and Special Media Records
Services Division has custody of the permanently valuable computerized records of federal agencies transferred to the National Archives for long-term preservation. The Division has approximately 100,000 computerized data files from over 100 federal agencies in all three branches of government. Topics reflected in the Division's holdings include agricultural data, attitudinal data, demographic data, economic and financial statistics, education data, environmental data, health and social services data, international data, military data, and scientific and technological data.

22. Archive of Computerized Data on Aging

Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research

Presenter: James W. McNally, Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research, P.O. Box 1248, Ann Arbor, MI 48106-1248; phone (734) 615-9250; fax (734) 998-9889; email: jmcnally@umich.edu; homepage: http://www.icpsr.umich.edu.

Established in 1962, the Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research (ICPSR) is a membership-based organization providing access to the world's largest archive of computer-based research and instructional data for the social sciences. ICPSR further serves social scientists around the world by offering training facilities in basic and advanced techniques of quantitative social analysis and other resources that facilitate secondary analysis. ICPSR provides facilities and services for international community of scholars that no one college or university could offer independently.

23. National Medical Expenditure Panel
Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality

Presenter: Gregg Taliaferro, Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, Center for Financing Access and Cost Trends, 540 Gaither Road, Rockville, MD 20850; phone (301) 427-1668; fax (301) 427-1276; email: gtaliafe@ahrq.gov; homepage: www.meps.ahcpr.gov.

Sponsored by the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ), the Medical Expenditure Panel Survey (MEPS) is a vital resource designed to continually provide policymakers, researchers, health care professionals, businesses and others with timely, comprehensive information about the United States population's health, health care utilization, and costs. MEPS collects data on the specific health care services that Americans use, how frequently they use them, the cost of those services and how they are paid, as well as data on the cost, scope, and breadth of private health insurance held by and available to the U.S. population. MEPS is unparalleled for the degree of detail in its data, as well as its ability to link health status and health care to the demographic, employment, economic, family and other characteristics of survey respondents. In addition, MEPS is the only national survey that provides a foundation for estimating the impact of changes in sources of payment, insurance coverage, and family status on different economic groups or special populations such as the poor, elderly, veterans, the uninsured, and racial and ethnic minorities. These data have been used to examine factors associated with access to health care, estimate eligibility for federal programs, assess racial and ethnic disparities in health, and quality and satisfaction with health care. The 1996-2000 full year data, as well as point in time population characteristics for 2001, is available on the Internet and on CD-ROM. The 2001 full year data will be available early in 2004.

24. Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Presenter: Michele Sussman Walsh, M.Ed., Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, 4770 Buford Highway NE, Mailstop K-66, Atlanta, GA 30341; phone (770) 488-5173; fax (770) 488-8150; email: zzk7@cdc.gov; homepage: http://www.cdc.gov/brfss.

This exhibit will present the Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System (BRFSS), a state-based system of health surveys, which operate with assistance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). As the usefulness of the BRFSS has increased, there has been a greater demand for local level data. Although the BRFSS was designed to produce state-level estimates, growth in the sample size has facilitated production of smaller area estimates. The need for prevalence estimates at the local level has led to SMART BRFSS (Selected Metropolitan/Micropolitan Areas Risk Trends from the BRFSS). Data from the 2002 BRFSS was used to calculate estimates for selected metro areas in the United States with at least 500 respondents. This new use of BRFSS data has yielded estimates for 98 metropolitan areas and some of their counties. Preliminary results showed that the prevalence of certain behaviors varied across metro areas and counties; not unlike the differences found across states. Variation in prevalence was also observed between metro areas and with the rest of the state. This new use of SMART BRFSS data fills a critical public health need for local area surveillance data to support targeted program implementation and evaluation; and these data should help cities and counties to better plan and direct their prevention efforts.

25. War and Children’s Life Chances Dataset
University of Cincinnati

Presenters: Steve Carlton-Ford, Department of Sociology, University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, OH; phone: 513-556-4716; fax: 513-556-0057; email: Steve.Carlton-Ford@uc.edu

The data set consists of country level records for approximately 200 countries spanning the period from 1980 to 2000, containing variables related directly to armed conflict and children’s well-being. The information related to armed conflict includes: country level indicators of the type of conflict, number of conflicts, and number of conflict locations, and numbers of refugees moving into and out of countries as well as numbers of internally displaced peoples. The information on children’s life chances includes rates or percentages of the relevant population for: births attended by trained health personnel, child mortality, primary and secondary school enrollment, immunization against major childhood diseases, low weight births, children’s stunting and wasting, children under weight, with limited information about HIV/AIDS. In addition, the data set contains country level information for indicators of general population well-being such as: daily calorie supply, access to safe water, access to health services, access to adequate sanitation, adult illiteracy, limited information on HIV/AIDS. Economic information is available for production per capita (GNP & GDP measures), national debt, militarization (military expenditures, military personnel), labor force participation (including for older children), energy use, and food production. Population and population density are also available. Data sources include: The Stockholm International Peace Research Institute (SIPRI) & the International Peace Research Institute of Oslo (PRIO), the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies, the World Bank, the World Health Organization, UNAIDS, and UNICEF. The creation of the data set was supported by an ASA grant from the Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline.

ASA Honors Program Students

The following undergraduate sociology students were accepted into the ASA Honors Program as of July 10, 2004. The program requires nearly a week of participation in professional events held concurrently with the Annual Meetings of the ASA. The students will receive full credit for participation only after completion of the program on August 17.

ASA and the 2004 Program Committee are pleased to highlight these students’ introduction to the profession of sociology. The Honors Program has a 30-year history of involving sociology students in the ASA Annual Meeting. This year’s students are wearing gold ribbons showing their Honors Program affiliation. Please welcome them to their national meeting!

ASA Minority Fellowship Program Fellows

The following MFP Fellows are participating in this year’s Annual Meeting Program. ASA and the 2004 Program Committee are pleased to highlight professional activities of current and former fellows. The ASA Minority Fellowship Program (MFP), in operation since 1974, has been a significant factor in recruiting minorities into Sociology. Fellows continue to make important contributions to the growth of the discipline. The Association takes great satisfaction in acknowledging this form of professional activity.

2004 Index of Session Participants

Numbers refer to Session numbers in the Program Schedule.

For roundtable sessions, table numbers are given after the session number. (For example, a presenter at the first table on session 376 will have “376-1” in this index.)
