Social Conflict: Multiple Dimensions and Arenas

Social conflict is constantly in the headlines, in the breaking news, but also under the surface of social life. Wherever there is change, struggle, or domination, there is conflict. Social conflict involves many dimensions, including not only economic and power struggles, movement dynamics, and violence, but also forms of inequality and domination latent with conflict, and practices which resolve conflict or which divert attention from it. Sociology is the only social science that takes conflict as a major topic, and the only field that throughout its existence has been crucially centered on class, race, and ethnicity. New fields focused on race, ethnicity, gender, and sexuality are also concerned with conflict, but the intellectual driving force in most of these fields is a sociological perspective. There is a reason why sociologists were heavily involved in the rebellious movements of the 1960s and 70s—sociologists are experts at understanding both power and group mobilization. This has continued to be sociology’s special strength.

For the 2011 ASA meeting, the Program Committee invites you to deepen our analysis of such topics as:

- Economic class inequality, its causes and dynamics including capitalism, labor, property, health care, and their comparative and international dimensions;
- Revolution, state breakdown, war, paramilitaries, terrorism and counter-terrorism, as well as non-violent forms of conflict;
- Social movements and their role in conflicts of all kinds; including movement-countermovement dynamics, policing movements and their activities, and generational legacies of movement mobilizations;
- Ethnic and racial conflicts, especially in examining comparisons and underlying commonalities across time and space; religious conflicts at multiple scales; conflicts over environmental changes and uses;
- Sexual politics, sexuality movements, sex workers; gender conflicts, including the gender component in violence where women are frequently targeted, such as serial and mass killings, rapes, domestic terrorism;
- Violence in its many forms: sexual violence; prison violence and torture; police violence; crowd violence; masculinity and violence; violent crime;
- Gangs and criminal organizations, including international ones;
- Children in conflicts; bullying; conflict and violence in schools and classrooms;
- New technologies of surveillance and social control; conflict in cyberspace;
- Political and organizational conflict; scandals;
- Conflict between institutional arenas, such as work/family conflict;
- Micro-interactional conflict;
- Theories of conflict per se including revisiting the sociological classics;
- Conflict within sociology; intellectual and ideological conflict; conflict in culture and the culture industries
- How conflicts of different kinds and levels are resolved or at least come to an end.

 Annual Meeting Schedule

The official days of the 2011 ASA Annual Meeting are Saturday to Tuesday, August 20–23, 2011. Program sessions are scheduled on all four days of the meeting at Caesars Palace Las Vegas. There are also pre-meeting activities scheduled on Friday, August 19, and the meeting will officially begin with the Opening Plenary Session and Welcoming Reception that evening.

Most daytime program sessions are 1 hour and 40 minutes in length, followed by a 20-minute break. Exceptions are clearly noted in the detailed program schedule. The turnover schedule is as follows:

8:30 am-10:10 am  10:30 am-12:10 pm  12:30 pm-2:10 pm  2:30 pm-4:10 pm  4:30 pm-6:10 pm

The 6:30 pm evening time slot is normally allocated for Section receptions, member-sponsored activities, and meetings of other groups. All sessions end by 4:10 pm on the fourth day.

Please refer to the Program Schedule for a daily listing of all sessions, meetings, and social events. Session presiders and committee chairs are requested to see that sessions and meetings end on time to avoid conflicts with subsequent activities scheduled into the same room and to allow participants time to transit between facilities.

Printed in the USA
Greetings from the ASA President

Dear Colleagues:

The 2011 ASA Annual Meeting promises to be an exciting occasion. The theme for the ASA meeting this year is “Social Conflict: Multiple Dimensions and Arenas.” The topic of social conflict is distinctive to sociology (and largely ignored by most other social sciences), along with our related concerns with inequality, action, and social change. The Program Committee has put together a menu to represent the best of the intellectual action, as well as the real-world dramatics of social conflict.

The ASA is excited to bring the Annual Meeting to Las Vegas for the first time! Not only is Las Vegas vibrant and fascinating from a sociological perspective, but it is also easily accessible for our members around the country. In addition, Caesars Palace affords ASA the unique opportunity to have all components of its meeting—including sessions, receptions, and housing—under one roof for the first time since 1990.

One of the grandest Las Vegas hotels, Caesars Palace, is famous worldwide for its beauty and impeccable service. This majestic Las Vegas hotel offers a 129,000 square-foot casino, 26 restaurants and cafes, sprawling gardens and pools, a world-class spa, and the renowned Coliseum spotlighting world-class stars.

Dubbed, “The Entertainment Capital of the World,” Las Vegas continues to build upon its reputation as a vibrant showcase for the extraordinary. The city attracts more than 36 million visitors a year by offering the grandest hotels, the biggest stars in entertainment, award-winning chefs and master sommeliers, a premium world-class shopping experience, the brightest lights, and, of course, gambling too.

Among the highlights of the program, are the three plenary sessions: (1) Walking the Walk and Talking the Talk: Working in Sociological Traditions, (2) The Changing Landscape of Sexual Politics, and (3) Fifty Years of Advances in Social Movement Research. The program also includes special presidential panels on the collapse of the Soviet Union, comparative mafias, and the future of Capitalism. In addition to the more than 550 individual sessions, the program also includes over 90 Thematic and Special Sessions that delve into important social and political issues, explore international and interdisciplinary viewpoints, and speculate on different visions of future possibilities.

As you know, the shift in our meeting site from Chicago to Las Vegas was the result of conflict—an unsettled labor union action against Chicago hotels, that many ASA members felt was important to honor. As a result, this year features an expanded local arrangements group representing the work of members from the Chicago and Las Vegas regional spotlight committees. The Chicago component, chaired by Stephen Warner (University of Illinois at Chicago), and the Las Vegas component, chaired by Dmitri Shalin (University of Nevada-Las Vegas), have developed a timely, stimulating, and vibrant roster of regional spotlight sessions and articles featured in ASA Footnotes for the Annual Meeting.

Whether you are attending to see your friends, renew your networks or see the city, welcome!

Major Plenary Sessions

The Annual Meeting theme of “Social Conflict: Multiple Dimensions and Arenas” is being addressed from the Opening Plenary Session on August 19 to the final Plenary on August 22.

Walking the Walk and Talking the Talk: Working in Sociological Traditions

Session 3, Friday August 19, 7:00-9:00pm
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Augustus III-VI, Emperors Level
Session Organizer: Andrew Abbott, University of Chicago
Presider: Craig Calhoun, Social Science Research Council
Doing the Chicago School. Andrew Abbott, University of Chicago
Revisioning Gender. Myra Marx Ferree, University of Wisconsin-Madison
Making the World Safe for Demography. Douglas S. Massey, Princeton University
Maxism after Communism. Michael Burawoy, University of California-Berkeley
In this session, four senior scholars will discuss the experience of working within particular sociological traditions. Given the diverse traditions involved and the differences of the speakers’ personalities, the papers will no doubt vary greatly. But they may cover topics like what traditions are in the first place, how and whether one gets associated with a tradition, what are the advantages and disadvantages, merging or shifting one’s tradition-identity, and so on. Beyond that loose agenda, the speakers are on their own. Our aim is to provide an entertaining but substantive opening to the meeting.

The Changing Landscape of Sexual Politics

Session 84, Saturday, August 20, 12:30-2:10pm
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Augustus III-VI, Emperors Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Elizabeth Bernstein, Columbia University
Panelists: Roger Lancaster, George Mason University
Salvador Vidal-Ortiz, American University
Mignon R. Moore, University of California-Los Angeles
Janice M. Irvine, University of Massachusetts
Three years into the Obama Administration and amidst new constellations of political power, the hot-button “culture wars” issues of gender and sexuality that characterized the Bush years have been assumed by some commentators to have largely subsided. With the rise of an economically driven Tea Party movement and the decline of the Religious Right as a political presence, it is possible to make the argument that some of the most heated dimensions of sexual politics in the last decade—including gay marriage, abortion, sexual diversity in the military, and the global spread of HIV/AIDS—are receding in importance as politically divisive issues. At the same time, the continued salience of abortion politics in debates around health care reform and the rise of right-wing “birther” and anti-immigration movements that pivot on intersections of race and reproduction have returned sexuality to the forefront of national politics through some surprising new channels. This panel invites distinguished sociologists, historians, and political theorists to assess the state of contemporary sexual politics as well as the challenges for progressive social movements going forward. In what ways have certain key features of U.S. sexual politics shifted in the age of Obama? Which facets of the contemporary political terrain are most deeply entrenched? In the face of complicated and contradictory trends, panelists will consider the changing landscape of sexual politics through an analysis of foreign and domestic policy and the broader configurations of power that shape erotic life, including political economy, war and peace, and intersecting forms of inequality.

Fifty Years of Advances in Social Movement Research

Session 390, Monday, August 22, 12:30-2:10pm
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Augustus III-VI, Emperors Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Mayer N. Zald, University of Michigan
From Copernicus to Ptolemy: On the Perils of Movement Centric Scholarship. Douglas McAdam, Stanford University
Top 10 Things Learned about Studying Social Movements: 5 Caveats and 5 Certainties. David A. Snow, University of California-Irvine
Social Movements and Emotions. Erika M. Summers-Effler, University of Notre Dame

Address by President Randall Collins and ASA Awards Ceremony

The Presidential Plenary featuring the formal address of ASA President Randall Collins will be held on Sunday, August 21, at 4:30 pm. The ASA Awards Ceremony, conferring the 2011 major ASA awards, will open this session. All registrants are invited to attend this plenary session and the Honorary Reception afterwards to honor President Randall Collins and the award recipients.

ASA Business Meeting

The ASA Business Meeting is an opportunity for members of the Association to discuss important issues facing the discipline and profession. Members are encouraged to attend this meeting convened by the ASA President Randall Collins.

Summary reports on the Association and its key activities this year will be given by President Randall Collins, Secretary Catherine White Berheide, and Executive Officer Sally T. Hillsman. The meeting concludes with the traditional transfer of the gavel, marking the transition of duties from President Randall Collins to incoming President Olin Wright.

This open forum is an opportunity for members to share their insights, reactions, and suggestions. Please consult the flyer in your convention tote bag for details on the Business Meeting agenda.

As noted in the May/June issue of Footnotes and the posting of meeting information on the ASA website, members seeking to present formal resolutions should be prepared to provide background materials on the issue to be discussed. Members who missed the July 1 submission deadline may bring their resolutions and supporting background documentation to the ASA Office in Office 4 on the Promenade Level of the hotel by 3:00 pm on Monday, August 22.

All meeting attendees are invited to join ASA officers, Council members, and staff for continental breakfast and discussion at the ASA Business Meeting on Tuesday, August 23, 7:00-8:15am, in Augustus I & II on the Emperors Level of the hotel.

Presidential Panels

This year the Program Committee created a category of sessions to highlight session topics of special interest to the ASA President. Three sessions dealing with crucial social and political issues were created under this umbrella.

The Collapse of the Soviet Union: Twenty Years Later

Session 45, Saturday, August 20, 10:30am–12:10pm
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Milano VIII, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Michael Burawoy, University of California-Berkeley

Regional Spotlight: Experience Las Vegas

The American Sociological Association is excited to bring the Annual Meeting to Las Vegas for the first time! Not only is Las Vegas vibrant and fascinating from a sociological perspective, but it is also easily accessible for our members around the country. In addition, Caesars Palace affords ASA the unique opportunity to have all components of its meeting—including sessions, receptions, and housing—under one roof for the first time since 1990.

One of the grandest Las Vegas hotels, Caesars Palace, is famous worldwide for its beauty and impeccable service. This majestic Las Vegas hotel offers a 129,000 square-foot casino, 26 restaurants and cafes, sprawling gardens and pools, a world-class spa, and the renowned Coliseum spotlighting world-class stars.

Las Vegas continues to build upon its reputation as a vibrant showcase for the extraordinary. The city attracts more than 36 million visitors a year by offering the grandest hotels, the biggest stars in entertainment, award-winning chefs and master sommeliers, a premium world-class shopping experience, the brightest lights, and, of course, gambling too.

Conveniently located McCarran International Airport is a short drive (one mile) from the Las Vegas Strip. Taxi and limousine services abound, while tour companies offer sightseeing trips to the surrounding areas such as the Grand Canyon, Hoover Dam, Valley of Fire, and Red Rock Canyon.
What Happens in Vegas (Besides Gambling)

Whether you are dancing under the lights of the Fremont Street Experience in Downtown Las Vegas or strolling the shops at Monte Lago Village at Lake Las Vegas, you are never far from a golf course. No longer the domain of women, the spa experience can take the stress out of presenting while in Vegas. Las Vegas resorts offer the most luxurious and varied spa experiences anywhere.

There are many reasons why Las Vegas commands the title as “The Entertainment Capital of the World.” Some of the world’s most exciting and versatile entertainers perform here including Celine Dion (performing at Caesars Palace during the Annual Meeting). Also, there are Broadway hits. When planning an evening of entertainment, attendees can look to the growing roster of gourmet restaurants and wine and food adventures in Las Vegas. After dinner, you can experience a variety of night spots, from elaborately themed clubs to the upscale “ultra lounges.” With hip surroundings, signature drinks and an “anything goes” attitude, ultra lounges have redesigned Vegas nightlife, providing a new way to party on the Strip.

The Annual Meeting moved from its original Chicago meeting site to Las Vegas. As a result, this year features an expanded local arrangements group representing the work of members from the Chicago and Las Vegas regional spotlight committees. The Chicago component, chaired by Stephen Warner (University of Illinois at Chicago), and the Las Vegas component, chaired by Dmitri Shalin (University of Nevada-Las Vegas), have developed a timely, stimulating, and vibrant roster of regional spotlight sessions and articles featured in ASA Footnotes for the Annual Meeting.

Research Support Forum
Now entering its 19th year, the annual ASA Research Support Forum features discussion of science policy issues, research funding information and guidance, and updates on data resources throughout the Annual Meeting. The forum is designed to provide invaluable help, access, and consideration of important substantive and policy issues for new researchers and more experienced scholars. From the opening professional workshop on Saturday to the closing academic workshop on Tuesday, attendees can count on plentiful access to funding experts and data sources.

The cornerstone of this year’s forum is a special session focusing on the new Census data, SBE program changes, and plans to keep these agencies robust and up-to-date, followed by the informal poster exhibits on data resources and research funding opportunities.
Highlights of all the sessions included in this year’s Forum are given below in alphabetical order. For complete information on all these sessions, please refer to the full session listings in the body of the Program Schedule.

This poster/exhibit session provides a unique occasion to meet representatives of major research funding institutions and principal investigators, researchers, and managers of large-scale datasets that are publicly available for use. Each display by a funding institution provides a visual overview of research funding and the application process, materials for distribution, and time for direct individual discussion. Data resource representatives are available to talk about the featured datasets, their analytic potential, and issues relating to access and use, including state-of-the-art Internet services to access datasets. This is an opportunity for meeting attendees to learn about these datasets and their potential for research and teaching. All meeting participants, including students, are encouraged to attend.

Participating institutions and their poster numbers are shown in the full session listing in the body of the Program Schedule. For additional information, please refer to the poster abstracts at the end of the daily schedule.

Special Sessions

The category of “Special Sessions” encompasses many of the suggestions submitted by ASA members for invited panels. These sessions may be on topics that further investigate the meeting theme, contribute to the review of the discipline, or focus attention on other timely and important issues. More than 28 sessions were constituted, including a set of sessions co-sponsored with sister sociological associations/organizations.

A summary of Special Session topics, organizers, and locations is compiled below (alphabetically by session title/topic); please refer to the body of the Program Schedule for complete details.

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Pompeian IV, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Judith Blau, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill

Regular Sessions
Regular Sessions are comprised of research papers submitted in response to the 2011 Call for Papers. The 2011 Program Committee appointed organizers for 129 general Regular Session topics and announced that topics were open to submissions from ASA members. Paper submissions were due in mid-January 2011.

Regular Session organizers received anywhere from 0 to 68 submissions for review. A total of 197 formal paper sessions were organized from over 3,200 papers submitted to Regular Session topics. Please refer to the Program Schedule for details on each Regular Session.

Be sure to check the ASA website this fall for information on making your paper submission for next year's Annual Meeting. The paper submission deadline will be January 11, 2012.

Open Refereed Roundtables
The 2011 Program Committee continued this open general roundtable component, which was added to the general program thirteen years ago to augment the specialized roundtables sponsored by many sections. John Stone (Boston University) was invited to review submissions and organize roundtables using a “mini-session” format: a general topic identified for each table, two to five paper presentations, and a table presider to coordinate presentations and discussion.

Three large roundtable sessions comprised of 23 tables each were created for this year’s program. Please note that all roundtable presentations listed on a session are held simultaneously at tables located inside one large meeting room; neither audio-visual equipment nor recording devices may be used.

Open Refereed Roundtable Session I
Session 98, Saturday, August 20, 2:30-4:10pm
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Augustus I & II, Emperors Level

Open Refereed Roundtable Session II
Session 282, Sunday, August 21, 2:30-4:10pm
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Augustus I & II, Emperors Level

Open Refereed Roundtable Session III
Session 361, Monday, August 22, 10:30am-12:10pm

Informal Discussion Roundtables
This popular program component is designed to bring together small groups of people interested in discussing specific topics. Informal roundtables offer opportunities for those who share conceptual, methodological, professional, or policy concerns to meet one another and to initiate and expand networks. These discussion tables also are particularly valuable for those who are developing new ideas or formulating issues in new ways and who would like to explore these ideas or issues with colleagues who have similar interests.

An Informal Discussion Roundtable Session is comprised of 15-20 tables, with a different discussion topic assigned to each table. Discussion proceeds simultaneously at all tables listed on each session. At each table the discussion leader will introduce the topic and facilitate discussion among all the participants at the table. No formal papers are to be presented, and neither audio-visual equipment nor recording devices may be used.
Catherine J. Corrigall-Brown (University of British Columbia) was invited to review the discussion topics and organize sessions. One informal roundtable session was created from the 18 proposals submitted in January by ASA members. Time and location of the discussion roundtables are noted below; please see the full session listing in the body of the Program Schedule for complete details.

Informal Roundtable Discussion Session
Session 207, Sunday, August 21, 10:30am-12:10pm

Poster Sessions
This program component features a series of display presentations that allow face-to-face conversation between authors and viewers. By facilitating informal discussions between presenters and “browsers,” Poster Sessions provide a more direct forum for information exchange than do formal paper presentations.

This year attendees are welcome to browse through the Research Poster area throughout the Annual Meeting. This year the poster sessions are conveniently located along with the book exhibits in the Octavius Ballroom, which permits more exposure for poster displays. Authors will be present to answer questions about the research displayed on their posters only during the formally designated Research Poster session times.

Informational poster presentations provide information on resources, materials, and opportunities. The annual Research Support Forum includes a major poster session also located in the Octavius Ballroom to highlight research funding opportunities and data resources. As part of the Graduate Education focus, a resource poster area will be open for browsing in the Octavius Ballroom and there is one designated time when attendees can expect to meet representatives from participating graduate departments of sociology. Both informational poster areas will be accessible throughout the Annual Meeting.

The varied roster of display presentations includes something of interest for every meeting attendee. Be sure to include some time in your schedule to visit this year’s poster displays.

Courses
This educational component provides opportunities for attendees to get in-depth training in special subject areas. Intensive four- to six-hour courses are held pre-convention and led by expert faculty who have prepared a comprehensive curriculum to engage participants on all levels. Registrants will receive certificates documenting their participation and completion of these courses.

Attendance at the course is limited to 50 registrants. Prepaid registration is required; fees are $60. Reservations for the course were accepted in order of receipt in the ASA Executive Office.

Attendees who preregistered should have received their tickets with their name badges when they picked up their program packets as ASA Preregistration. Course fees were non-refundable after July 13.

Service-Learning: Engaging Students and Community in Sociology and Social Change
Course 1, Friday, August 19, 9:00am-3:00pm
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Pompeian II, Promenade Level
Ticket required for admission
Session Organizer and Leader: Corey Dolgon, Stonehill College
Co-Leader: Jonathan Michael White, Bridgewater State College

This course will begin with introductions and evaluate expectations and levels of previous engagement with service-learning. The leaders will then present a brief history and overview of definitions and best practices, in part determined by audience expectations. We will then ask participants to quickly outline a service learning course design (either one they have taught already or one they are considering—in mapping out the course and projects, we want participants to consider the strengths and weaknesses and what they perceive as the opportunities and challenges they will face). At this point, we will choose at least one previously taught class and one new one to workshop as a group (more if time permits), discussing aspects of learning outcomes and assessment, community impact and sustainability, etc. We’ll conclude with a brief discussion about the “future” of service-learning and current debates and controversies about partnerships, student engagement, service versus research, and developing a social justice paradigm.

Working with Fuzzy Sets

Course 2, Friday, August 19, 10:00am-5:30pm

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Pompeian III, Promenade Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Charles C. Ragin, University of Arizona

Fuzzy set analysis is gaining popularity in the social sciences today because of the close connections it enables among verbal theory, substantive knowledge (especially in the assessment of degree of set membership), and the analysis of empirical evidence. Fuzzy sets are especially useful in case-oriented research, where the investigator has a degree of familiarity with the cases included in the investigation and seeks to understand cases configurationally—as specific combinations of aspects or elements. Using fuzzy-set methods, case outcomes can be examined in ways that allow for causal complexity, where different combinations of causally relevant conditions combine to generate the outcome in question. Also, with fuzzy-set methods it is possible to evaluate arguments that causal conditions are necessary or sufficient. Analyses of this type are outside the scope of conventional analytic methods. Specific topics addressed in the course include: the differences between set-theoretic and correlational methods; conventional crisp sets versus fuzzy sets; the calibration of fuzzy sets; how calibration differs from conventional forms of measurement; analyzing fuzzy set relations; the correspondence between concepts and fuzzy set membership scores; the correspondence between theoretical statements and the analysis of fuzzy set relations; using fuzzy sets to study cases as configurations; and using fuzzy sets to unravel causal complexity, with a special focus on the equifinality. In all phases of the course, participants will work with fsQCA, a free Windows software package designed for fuzzy set analysis and for Qualitative Comparative Analysis. fsQCA can be downloaded from www.fsqca.com.

Seminars

Didactic Seminars are designed to keep sociologists abreast of recent scholarly trends and developments. Experts considered to be at the forefront of a given field are invited by the Program Committee to conduct these intensive sessions.

Seminar speakers will present materials to explain specialized developments within their topic areas. Seminars are usually scheduled for an hour and forty minutes unless the leader has requested a longer time period. Please see the detailed listings below for seminar details and brief descriptions provided by the leaders.

Attendance at each seminar is limited to 50 registrants. Prepaid registration is required; fees are $40. Seminar preregistrants should have received their tickets with their name badges when they picked up their program packets. All seminars will take place in Classroom 1, located in the exhibit hall.

Seminar fees were non-refundable after July 13. However, if the required enrollment was not reached by the time preregistration closed and a seminar was cancelled, all fees will be fully refunded.

Reservations for seminars were accepted in order of receipt in the ASA Executive Office. Those who did not make advance reservations may check for possible openings at ASA On-Site Registration in the Milano Ballroom.

Climate Change Denial: Organized Counter-Movement and Public Apathy

Seminar 93, Saturday, August 20, 2:30-4:10pm

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Classroom I, ASA Exhibit Hall, Promenade Level

Ticket required for admission

Session Organizer and Leader: Riley E. Dunlap, Oklahoma State University

Co-Leaders: Aaron McCright, Michigan State University
Kari Marie Norgaard, Whitman College

Global warming poses major threats to both social and natural systems, but societal response has been minimal—especially in the USA—where the threat is met with widespread denial. Two forms of denial have emerged: an organized countermovement among corporate and conservative social actors and more general public apathy or failure to mobilize effectively by individual citizens and civil society. Organized climate change denial emerged in the late 1980s, spearheaded by the fossil fuels industry and corporate interests such as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce before becoming entrenched in the U.S. conservative movement. In the 1990s conservative think tanks and industry groups launched an anti-environmental countermovement, and a crucial strategy was undermining the scientific evidence for problems like global warming and thus the need for ameliorative action. Because of the regulatory implications posed by anthropogenic climate change, global warming became the leading target in these efforts to “manufacture uncertainty,” and today the entire field of climate science is under attack. Organized denial is flourishing, and having an obvious impact in the political domain. Yet, despite recent declines, a majority of the American public accepts the reality of global warming and expresses some degree of concern about it. Nonetheless, for most people climate change is not viewed as a pressing social or political priority. This “implicatory denial” helps account for the limited success experienced by those seeking to mobilize grass-roots action in support of climate change policy-making. The leaders of the seminar will provide an overview of these two distinct reactions to climate change: organized denial and the more generalized failure to citizens to mobilize or even engage with the problem. We will first examine organized denial, including its ideological roots, preferred tactics, ever-evolving set of critical actors (think tanks and corporate associations; front groups and astro-turf campaigns; and conservative politicians, media, and bloggers) and its impacts on policy-making and political culture. We will then describe implicatory denial or “climate apathy” as a more pervasive and everyday problem whereby people acknowledge having information about climate change but not thinking about, or acting on, it in their everyday lives. The threat of climate change is acknowledged in the abstract, but disconnected from and invisible within political, social, and private life. The two forms of denial, which are mutually reinforcing, contribute to the lack of societal response to the threat of climate change. A set of relevant readings by the seminar leaders and other social scientists investigating climate change denial will be made available prior to the seminar.

Workshops

One of the strengths of the educational component of the Annual Meeting is the breadth and variety of workshops offered. These sessions provide opportunities for attendees to update their knowledge and skills in a variety of professional areas. For 2011, workshop topics focus on careers and professional growth, academic department strategies, research skills and major datasets, teaching challenges, funding opportunities and grant writing skills, enhanced teaching of courses, publishing advice, and more.

All workshops emphasize interaction between leaders and audience, and attendees are encouraged to bring questions or problems for discussion. Every workshop is open to all meeting registrants.

An overview of workshop topics is listed below. Please see the full session listings in the body of the Program Schedule for details.

Hone a skill, push your career to the next level, strengthen your repertoire of teaching strategies, increase your knowledge: It’s all part of the learning curve at the Annual Meeting!

Section Activities
Looking for a way to find colleagues with similar research interests? Section activities offer one convenient avenue for connecting with like-minded scholars. These specialized sessions range in format from formal paper presentations to panels and discussion roundtables. Section-sponsored sessions are open to all meeting registrants.

Sections promote ongoing communication among their members by publishing newsletters, supporting cooperative research ventures, recognizing outstanding work by professionals and students in their specialties, and sponsoring program activities at each Annual Meeting. ASA members with interests in specialized areas of sociological inquiry may join any Section of the Association. Stop by the ASA Membership table in the Milano Ballroom on the Promenade Level to browse through recent section newsletters and pick up section membership information.

Of course, if you join a section before September 30, your membership will help support that section’s program allocation for next year’s Annual Meeting.

The number of sessions allocated to each Section is based on the size of the Section membership. For the 51 sections, including three sections-in-formation (Altruism and Social Solidarity, Inequality, Poverty, and Mobility; Sociology of Development) there are a total of 295 sessions/meetings scheduled. Section activities are summarized on the next page for quick reference.
Meeting days are Saturday, August 20; Sunday, August 21; Monday, August 22; and Tuesday, August 23. Check the daily schedule for reception locations.

Section Council Meetings

The total formal allocation of space for each section is comprised of two parts: (a) one "business" slot for holding a one-hour Council meeting followed by a 40-minute Business meeting; and (b) the earned program session allocation. ASA Council does permit Sections to use their Council meeting time (one hour) for other purposes. However, a Section that chooses to use this option forfeits the services of the ASA Office in the arrangement of an alternate Council meeting time and location. The Council meetings listed below are the extent of the information available at press time. Check at the ASA Information Desk in Milano Ballroom on the Promenade Level of the hotel for any updates provided by section chairs during the course of the convention.

18th Annual ASA Chair Conference

Social Conflict in Higher Education: Critical Implications and Effective Responses for Departments of Sociology

Based on their structural position within institutions, department chairs find themselves at the nexus of multiple lines of conflict. Some forms of conflict could be defined as "normal" components of the role: conflicts over personalities, promotions, grades, course schedules, and marginal changes in resource allocations. These are difficult to handle, but part and parcel of being department chair. Beyond these “normal” conflicts, conditions in high education today are creating an additional layer of contestation in many institutions, and as a result handling conflict as a department chair has become even more complicated. The economic down turn, combined with new rules for colleges and universities from the Department of Education, demands for greater access as well as higher completion rates, and increasing evidence of limited student learning in many colleges and universities all have profound implications for departments of sociology.

This year the Chairs Conference will focus on handling conflict as a department chair. The conference will open with a key note address by Mitchell Stevens (Stanford University) whose talk, “Organized Anarchies in an Age of Accountability,” will discuss the multiple currents of conflict in higher education today and their implications for sociology departments and their chairs. In addition to plenary presentations, the conference will also include three sessions of concurrent roundtables. Each roundtable will address aspects of the general theme, including how to protect threatened departments, how to handle inappropriate faculty conduct, and tips for setting course schedules with the least departmental friction and heat.

Post-conference evaluations suggest that for many participants, the Chairs Conference is a crucial opportunity to talk with their counterparts in similar departments facing similar challenges, and a valued source of professional renewal and strategic insight.

The entire conference will take place Friday August 19th 8:00 am-5:30 pm. The Conference will be held in Roman I on the Promenade Level of the hotel.

Preregistration and fee payments are required. Chair Conference attendees must preregister for the Annual Meeting in order to register for this conference. Fees for the Chair Conference are $130 for Chairs who are Department Affiliates of the ASA and $160 for chairs from non-affiliate departments. The Chair Conference fee includes all chair conference materials, continental breakfast and lunch.
Directors of Graduate Study
A Year in the Life of a DGS: Exploring Ways to Establish Effective Processes and Handle the Inevitable Conflicts

Directors of Graduate Studies are responsible for managing an annual cycle of activities that includes recruiting, admitting, funding, orienting, and advising first-year students; scheduling courses for graduate students and assigning graduate students to teaching and research assistantships; and preparing students for presenting and publishing their work and for searching for their next job. Success as a DGS depends on (at least) two key conditions: replicable and efficient processes for handling the annual cycle of activities, and an effective approach for handling the inevitable conflicts that arise even with the best systems in place.

Directors of Graduate Study (DGS) are important leaders in shaping department policies and opportunities for effective graduate programs. To assist sociologists in the DGS role, the ASA Academic and Professional Affairs Program has planned a series of events on Friday afternoon, August 19.

Fees are $40 for chairs from Department Affiliate departments, and $60 for Chairs from non-affiliate departments. DGS attendees had to preregister for the Annual Meeting in order to register for this conference. The DGS registration fee includes an afternoon beverage break and DGS meeting materials. Only departments that are renewed for the 2010-2011 Academic year are eligible for the Affiliate price. The DGS events begin at 1:30pm in Pompeian I on the Promenade Level of the hotel.

Undergraduate Advisers & Students
Visit the Graduate Programs Poster Area

This dedicated display area features exhibits on graduate training from over 40 graduate programs. Participating institutions will display information and provide handouts describing their programs, special emphases, financial aid and admissions criteria, and opportunities to work with faculty researchers and instructors. Information and displays will be available in the exhibit hall located in the Octavius Ballroom on the Promenade Level of Caesars Palace throughout the Annual Meeting.

Department representatives will be available to answer questions at 2:30-4:10 pm on Saturday, August 20. This is an excellent opportunity for undergraduate advisors, undergraduate students, and MA-level students to see displays on graduate programs and meet directly with representatives.

Graduate departments that responded to the invitations issued by the ASA Academic and Affairs Program are listed in the program schedule under Informational Poster Session #97.

Student Forum

The ASA welcomes undergraduate and graduate students at the Annual Meeting. All students who join ASA as student members automatically become members of the Student Forum. Special arrangements for students include discounted registration fees, workshops oriented to issues of interest to students, student paper and roundtable sessions, a reception for students, and admission to the book give-away at the end of the meeting.

Student Forum. This year, for the first time, the Student Forum is pleased to offer a Professional Development Certificate for its members, based on attendance at a number of particular sessions, events, or workshops. Please visit the ASA Information desk near the ASA Registration area for more details, including the necessary forms and instructions. In addition, the business meeting of the Student Forum will be held on Sunday, August 21, at 2:30 – 4:10 pm in Octavius 23 on the Promenade Level of the hotel.

Orient Yourself to the Meeting. Plan to attend the Welcoming Reception on Friday night and the Orientation for First Time Attendees on Saturday morning to kick off your Annual Meeting experience. Browse thoroughly through the exhibits, posters, and the ASA Bookstore. Don’t be shy about asking staff at the ASA Information Desk for assistance in finding various activities.

Student Reception. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting are invited to an open student reception on Saturday, August 20, at 6:30-7:30 pm in Augustus I & 2 on the Emperors Level of the hotel.

Graduate Programs in Sociology Displays. At 2:30-4:10 pm on Saturday, August 20, representatives from graduate departments will be available in the Graduate Programs in Sociology Resource area in the Octavius Ballroom on the Promenade Level of the hotel to talk with students and undergraduate advisers. See the listing for Session 97 to find out which schools are participating. The resource area will be available for browsing throughout the meeting.

Data Resources and Funding Sessions. Be sure to attend poster session 271 and familiarize yourself with the various funding opportunities and data resources which can advance your work in sociology.

Student Book Give-Away. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting will receive a ticket to the special book give-away sponsored by ASA exhibitors on Tuesday, August 23, after the exhibit hall has closed.

Student Sessions. The Program Committee allocates five session slots each year for student sessions. Two paper sessions, two workshops and one roundtable session were organized under Student Forum auspices. For details on these student sessions, locate the listings for sessions 14, 56, 242, 405 and 523 in the Program Schedule.

Whether you are planning to attend graduate school, or are further along and look to employment in sociological practice or the academy, please take a look at the career, professional, and teaching workshops.

Don’t let the huge program overwhelm you. Start by looking at the Student Forum sessions noted above and then check the Session Topic Index to identify other sessions in your particular areas of interest.

Film/Video Screenings

Twenty-one films have been selected for inclusion in the 2011 film/video screening series, organized by Valerie Jiggetts, ASA Academic and Professional Affairs Program. Modena, on the Promenade Level, has been set aside for use as a Film/Video Screening room for showing these recent video and film releases throughout the Annual Meeting. The films and videos selected to be shown during the daily schedule have been selected based on their relevance to sociology as well as their potential as a teaching resource for sociology courses. All films selected to be screened are closed captioned.

Films and Videos to be shown include in the daily screening schedule are:

Blacking Up Hip-Hop: Hip-Hop was created by urban youth of color more than 30 years ago amidst racial oppression and economic marginalization. It has moved beyond that specific community and embraced by young people worldwide, elevating it to a global youth culture. This ambitious hard-hitting documentary looks at the popularity of hip-hop among America’s white youth. It asks whether white identification is rooted in admiration and desire to transcend race or if it is merely a new chapter in the long continuum of stereotyping, mimicry and cultural appropriation?

Key Concepts: Race, Commodification, Cultural Appropriation, Hip-hop

Brighton Bandits documents the Brighton Bandits 2006 British Gay Soccer league Champions and their quest to retain their title. This film debunked the myth that gay men don’t play soccer a major sport in Brighton and many other parts of the world. This film promotes discussion about gender identity in general and homosexuality and masculinity in sport in particular

Key Concepts: Sexuality, Athletics

The Business of Being Born is a miracle, a rite of passage, a natural part of life. But birth is also big business. Compelled to explore the subject after the delivery of her first child, actress Ricki Lake recruits filmmaker Abby Epstein to question the way American women have babies. The film interlaces intimate birth stories with surprising historical, political and scientific insights and shocking statistics about the current maternity care system. When director Epstein discovers she is pregnant during the making of the film, the journey becomes even more personal. Should most births be viewed as a natural life process, or should every delivery be treated as a potentially catastrophic medical emergency?

Key Concepts: Health, Economics

Concrete Steel & Paint: When men in a state prison, join with victims of crime to create a mural about healing, their views on punishment, remorse and forgiveness collide. Finding consensus is not easy - but as the participants move through the creative process, mistrust gives way to surprising moments of human contact and common purpose. The film raises important questions about crime, justice and reconciliation - and dramatically illustrates how art can facilitate dialogue about difficult issues.

Key Concepts: Reconciliation, Crime, Community, Justice

DISCO and ATOMIC WAR: This witty, charming and provocative film recounts how in the mid 1980’s, as illicit television antennas sprung up in Northern Estonia, a nation that at the time laid firmly in the grip of the Soviet Union, Teenagers went to their school dances and imitated the disco moves they saw on television, clothing and hairstyles began to change radically, and things would never be the same. The government controlled media scrambled to create western-style soap operas and disco-saturated television programming that vaguely reinforced communist values, but it was far to little, and much to late.

Key Concepts: Media, Socialization, Communism, Americanization, Culture

Human Terrain: Facing long wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, the U.S. military initiates ‘Human Terrain Systems,’ a controversial program that seeks to make cultural awareness the centerpiece of the new counterinsurgency strategy. Designed to embed social scientists with combat troops, the program swiftly comes under attack as a misguided and unethical effort to gather intelligence and target enemies. Gaining rare access to war games in the Mojave Desert and training exercises at Quantico and Fort Leavenworth, Human Terrain takes the viewer into the heart of the war Machine and a shadowy collaboration between American academics and the military. War becomes academic, academics go to war, and the personal tragically merges with the political, raising new questions about the ethics, effectiveness, and high costs of counterinsurgency. Bullfrogfilms, 2010. Film by Jaak Kilmi and Kiur Aarma.

Key Concepts: War Games, Socialization, Communism, Americanization, Academics

Justin: Justin Fashanu, the only openly gay professional soccer player, committed suicide in 1998. Justin, who has been seen as a troubling figure to the gay community, an embarrassing figure to the black community and a ridiculed figure in the soccer community for nearly 10 years, in 2008 became the launching pad for a campaign that asks the question, “Why Justin Fashanu remains the only openly gay professional soccer player”.

Key Concepts: Sexuality, Sports, Soccer, Activism

Killing US Softly 4: In this new, highly anticipated update of her pioneering Killing US softly series, the first in more than a decade, Jean Kilbourne takes a fresh look at how advertising traffics in distorted and destructive ideals of femininity. The film marshals a range of new print and television advertisements to lay bare a stunning pattern of damaging gender stereotypes—images and messages that to often reinforce unrealistic, and unhealthy, perceptions of beauty, perfection, and sexuality. Media Education Foundation 2010

Key Concepts: Gender, Media, Beautification Industry

The Line: This film is returning to the ASA film screening for a second year in a row. In The Line, A young woman is raped when a one-night stand from home goes terribly wrong. In the aftermath, as she struggles to make sense of what happened, she decides to make a film about the relationship between her own experience and the tangle of political, legal, and cultural questions that surround issues of sex and consent. Using a hidden camera, filmmaker Nancy Schwartzman goes head-to-head with the man who assaulted her, recording their conversation in an attempt to move through the trauma of her experience and achieve a better understanding of the sometimes ambiguous line between consent and coercion. The result is a powerful documentary about the terrible personal reality of rape and sexual violence — and the more complicated and ambivalent ways sexual assault is often framed and understood in the wider culture.

Key Concepts: Sexual Violence, Gender, Body Politics

Maid in LA: A Brief glimpse at immigrant domestic workers in Los Angeles, this film captures the thoughts and feelings of two women in the middle of their long days. Right in the very homes that they clean and manage, each discusses the reasons she came to the US—leaving behind husbands and children, to take grueling jobs for meager wages in America—and the limited opportunities afforded them, both here and in their home countries.

Key Concepts: Immigration, Class

PLAY AGAIN: At a time when children play more behind screens than outside, PLAY AGAIN explores the changing balance between the virtual and natural worlds. Is our connection to nature disappearing down the digital rabbit hole? The documentary follows six teenagers who, like the “average American child” spend five to fifteen hours a day behind screens. PLAY AGAIN unplugs these teens on their first wilderness adventure—no electricity, no cell phone coverage, no virtual reality. Through the voices of children and leading experts, PLAY AGAIN introduces new perspectives and encourages action for a sustainable future. bullfrogfilms, 2010. Film by Ground Productions.

Key Concepts: Youth, Technology

Not Just a Game: Power, Politics & American Sports: We’ve been told again and again that sport and politics don’t mix; that games are just games and athletes should just “shut up and play.” But according to Nation magazine sports editor Dave Zirin, this notion is just flat-out wrong. In Not Just a Game, Zirin argues that far from providing merely escapist entertainment, American sports have long been at the center of some of the major political debates and struggles of our time. Media Education Foundation 2010.

Key Concepts: Sports, Politics, Culture, Nationalism, America

Phakathi: Soweto’s Middling Class: is a research documentary that considers the question: “Why do 66% of people in the largely poor South African township of Soweto consider themselves to be middle class? It follows five individuals representing different social positions, and find very little in common between them. It discovers however, that when people describe themselves as ‘middle class’ they are very often translating form Zulu, which doesn’t have the directly equivalent concept, but does have the word ‘Phakathi’ which has a meaning closer to ‘in the middle’. University of Johannesburg Research Chair and Eyelight Productions 2010. Film by Mosa Phadi.

Key Concepts: Class, Perceptions of Class, Upward Mobility, Research Methods

Raging Grannies: Raging Grannies is a lively and thought provoking documentary that tells a story of the Action League of San Francisco Bay Area Peninsula. In ostrich Feathers, Crazy Hats and Boas these women protest all over the Bay Area with sense of outrage, a sense of humor and a commitment to non-violence. The Raging Grannies’ efforts to change the world are simultaneously changing what it means to be an older woman. Pam Walton Productions 2010. Film by Pam Walton

Key Concepts: Social Movements, Activism, Age

Sidewalk: It has been a Decade and a Half since a street corner book vendor and intellectual named Hakim Hasan introduced Mitchell Duneier to the people he came to write about in the book Sidewalk (1999). This film updates the stories of Ron, Mudrick, Ishmael, Butterroll, and other un-housed vendors on Sixth Avenue in Greenwich Village, showing what happened as they struggled in the wake of new economic and political realities, including those associated with September 11, 2001. It also contains footage from an interview Duneier did with Jane Jacobs, her last before she died in 2006. National Science Foundation, film by Mitchell Duneier

Key Concepts: Homelessness, Economics

Silent Choices: is about abortion and its impact on the lives of African American women. The film is a “hybrid” documentary: part historical piece, part social and religious analysis and part first-person narrative. From African Americans’ cautious involvement with Margaret Sanger during the early birth control movement to black nationalists and civil rights activists who staunchly opposed abortion (or stayed silent on the issue), Silent Choices examines the juxtaposition of racial and reproductive politics. Three black women also share their stories of the abortions they had, including a woman’s wrenching tale of the illegal procedure she endured. New Day Films, 2007. Film by Faith Pennick.

Key Concepts: African-American Women, Reproductive Rights, Religion, Body Politics

Straight Laced: How Gender’s Got Us All Tied Up: With a fearless look at a highly charged subject, Straightlaced unearths how popular pressures around gender and sexuality are confining American teens. From girls confronting media messages about body image to boys who are sexually active just to prove they aren’t gay. This fascinating array of students opens up with brave and intimate honesty about the toll that deeply held stereotypes and rigid gender policing have on all of our lives. Groundspark films. Film by Debra Chasnoff. www.newday.com

Key Concepts: Gender, Sexuality, Media, Stereotyping, Youth

Tapped: Is access to clean drinking water a basic human right, or a commodity that should be bought and sold like any other article of commerce? This film is an unflinching examination of the big business of bottled water. Atlas Films

Key Concepts: Commodification, Environment, Water, Access

This land is Our land: For more than three decades, transnational corporations have been busy buying up what used to be known as commons —everything from our forests and our oceans to our broadcast airwaves and our most important intellectual and cultural works. In This Land is Our Land acclaimed author David Bollier, a leading figure in global movements to reclaim the commons, sjows how a bold new international movement steeped in democratic principles is trying to reclaim our common wealth by molding practical alternatives to the restrictive monopoly powers of corporate elites. Media Education Foundation 2010.

Key Concepts: Commodification, Environment, Free-trade

Understanding Hook-up Culture: When it comes to intimacy and sex, young people today are apparently doing away with the old rules of romance and cutting straight to the chase. This lecture by Stanford University’s Paula England, a leading research in the sociology gender, aims to clarify what’s actually going on. England mobilizes a wealth of data to begin to chart whether the phenomenon of hooking up represents some kind of fundamental change, or whether we’re simply seeing age-old gender patterns dressed up in new social forms. Media Education Foundation 2010.

Key Concepts: Youth, Dating, Sex, Culture
Wo Ai Ni Mommy: In the last decade China was the leading country for U.S. international adoptions. Now there are over 70,000 Chinese children being raised by American families. This film explores for the first time what it feels like to be adopted from the child's perspective. This story told by Faith Sadowsky, aka Fang Sui Yong, as she tearfully parts ways with her birth culture, and language. Wo Ai Ni Mommy documents her struggle to adapt to her new life in America and offers a rare glimpse into the resocialization process she goes through in order to become accepted.

Special Events

 Welcoming Reception

All meeting registrants are invited to the Welcoming Reception on Friday, August 19, 9:00–10:30 pm, in Augustus I & II, on the Emperors Level of the hotel to celebrate the opening of the 106th Annual Meeting. This social hour kicks off at the conclusion of the Opening Plenary and provides opportunities to renew past acquaintances, chat with old friends, and find a newcomer to befriend. New members and first-time meeting attendees are particularly encouraged to come and have fun!

Orientation for First-Time Attendees

If this is the first time you have attended an ASA Annual Meeting, please plan to attend an orientation session at 10:30 am–12:10 pm on Saturday, August 20, prior to the mid-day Plenary on the first full day of program sessions. This special orientation hour provides the opportunity to meet Association officers and staff and begin networking with professional colleagues. Advice from ASA Officers and experienced attendees will help you chart a course through the myriad activities and substantive attractions.

ASA Secretary Catherine White Berheide and Executive Officer Sally T. Hillsman host this orientation in Roman I-II on the Promenade Level of the hotel. Pointers on navigating the Annual Meeting will be shared in informal roundtable discussion. First-time attendees who pre-registered should look for a reminder ticket in their badge envelopes as soon as they pick up their program packets and come prepared to ask “What makes it work?”

Student Reception

ASA welcomes the attendance of undergraduate and graduate students at the Annual Meeting. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting are invited to the Student Reception on Saturday, August 20, at 6:30-7:30 pm, in August I & II on the Emperors Level of the hotel.

Reception for International Scholars

All meeting participants interested in international scholarly collaborations, or in meeting colleagues from other countries and learning about sociology globally, are invited to attend a reception in honor of our international colleagues on Saturday, August 20 at 6:30-7:30 pm in Pisa room on the Promenade Level of the hotel.
Departmental Alumni Night (DAN)

The Departmental Alumni Night (DAN), now in its 38th year, is a social event held after the first full day of sessions, where attendees can connect with friends and colleagues to reminisce about graduate school days, create new coalitions, and catch up on the latest news.

This traditional gathering will begin at 9:30 pm on Saturday, August 20, in Augustus I & II on the Emperors Level of the Caesars Palace Las Vegas. All meeting attendees are invited to attend this event.

Each graduate department of sociology in the United States and Canada was given the opportunity to sponsor a table to attract alumni and friends. Participating schools are listed below. Tables will also be provided for sociologists in business and industry as well as for international scholars and guests.

Participating departments are:

- Fordham University
- George Mason University
- Howard University
- Indiana University
- State University of New Jersey-Rutgers
- State University of New York-Albany
- State University of New York-Buffalo
- State University of New York-Stony Brook
- Texas Women's University
- University of California-Santa Barbara
- University of California-Santa Cruz
- University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
- University of Massachusetts
- University of Minnesota
- University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill
- University of North Texas
- University of Texas-Austin
- University of Washington
- Washington State University
- Yale University

Community College Faculty Breakfast

Colleagues teaching in community colleges are invited to a special bagel breakfast at 7:00 am on Sunday, August 21, in the Salerno room on the Promenade level of the hotel. Join colleagues in a series of ice breaker activities and a conversation. Mark your calendar for this early bird event where you can meet other colleagues teaching at community colleges.

In Remembrance

At the beginning of the Presidential Plenary (Sunday, August 21, 4:30-6:30 pm), there will be a Moment of Remembrance to honor those members of the profession, and those close to them, who died during the past year. Names submitted to Footnotes since last year’s Annual Meeting are listed below. If you know of others who should be on this list but whose names do not appear below, please contact ASA Meeting Services staff in Office 4 on the Promenade Level of the hotel by 5:00 pm on Saturday, August 20.

Honorary Reception

After the conclusion of the 2011 Presidential Address, all meeting attendees are invited to attend the Honorary Reception at 6:30 pm, Sunday, August 21, in Augustus I & II on the Emperors Level of the hotel to express appreciation and congratulations to President Randall Collins and the major ASA award recipients.

Since 1984, social science departments and regional societies have joined the American Sociological Association in co-sponsoring the annual Honorary Reception. The Association is pleased to acknowledge the following co-hosts of the Honorary Reception.

Columbia University
Duke University
University of Pennsylvania
MFP Benefit Reception

Set aside time on Sunday evening, August 21, to join good friends and supporters of the ASA’s Minority Fellowship Program (MFP). Plan to relax after dinner, meet current Fellows and MFP alumni, and reaffirm your commitment to the MFP Program.

Sunday, August 21
9:30-11:30 pm
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Roman III & IV (Promenade Level)

$25 donor, $50 sponsor, $100 benefactor

Admission is by ticket only. Proceeds from each ticket will go to the Minority Fellowship Program, which supports predoctoral training for students of color.

Those who enrolled in advance should have received their tickets with their name badges. Others may buy tickets at ASA On-Site Registration in the Milano Ballroom on the Promenade Level of the hotel until 1:00 pm on Sunday, August 21.

Just Desserts!

A Carla B. Howery Teaching Enhancement Grant Program Fundraiser

Looking to escape the pressures of presenting papers, searching book displays, and participating in committee meetings? Come enjoy some dessert and coffee, look at poster presentations covering the research projects funded in the past two years, and engage in informal conversations with previous award winners. This event is a great opportunity to have some fun, and get ideas for your own submission for the 2012 Howery Teaching Enhancement Grants funding cycle!

Monday, August 22
9:30-11:00 pm
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Pompeian III (Promenade Level)

$25 donor, $50 sponsor, $100 benefactor

Admission is by ticket only. Proceeds from each ticket will go toward supporting the Teaching Enhancement Fund, a small grants program designed to support teaching-related projects that have long lasting and transferable impact.

Those who enrolled in advance should have received their tickets with their name badges. Others may purchase tickets at ASA On-Site Registration in the Milano Ballroom on the Promenade Level of the hotel until 5:00 pm on Monday, August 22.

Section Receptions

In addition to sponsoring substantive program sessions, ASA Sections often host receptions for their section members during the Annual Meeting. These informal social events are primarily held in the evenings on the first and third days of the meeting, and all members of the sponsoring section are welcome to attend. Sometimes several sections will co-host a joint reception, which doubles or triples the fun!

Look for the following Section receptions during this Annual Meeting.

Activities of Other Groups

The wide-ranging interests of ASA members generate meetings of special interest groups during each year's Annual Meeting. Space is assigned as available to these groups to hold their meetings and/or sessions in evening time slots when no formal program sessions or other ASA activities are scheduled.

Some groups will also have membership information and publications on display in the Octavius Ballroom Foyer (outside of the ASA Exhibit Hall) on the Promenade Level of the hotel.

Registration Services

Continuing our commitment to a more environmentally sustainable meeting, we no longer print and mail confirmations to those who registered online. Please save the e-mailed confirmation as your record. Those who registered via fax and mail should have received a printed confirmation by mail. Attendees who sent materials after the deadline will find their paperwork held for registration processing at the ASA Situations counters in Milano Ballroom on the Promenade Level of the hotel.

Preregistration Pickup. Attendees who preregistered may pick up badges, program packets, and special tickets at the Preregistration counters in Milano Ballroom. See registration service hours below.

On-Site Registration. Those who missed the July 13 preregistration deadline should go to the On-Site Registration counters in Milano Ballroom to register for the meeting.

Registration Services Hours:
Friday, August 19 1:30-7:00 pm
Saturday, August 20 8:00 am-5:30 pm
Sunday, August 21 8:00 am-5:30 pm
Monday, August 22 8:00 am-5:30 pm
Tuesday, August 23 8:00 am-1:00 pm

On-Site Fees. Rates for Members and Non-members are shown below. Forms are available in the ASA Registration area. Registration for the Annual Meeting is on a flat fee basis; no “day rates” are available.

Rates for Members:
- Regular/Associate: $240
- Student: $140
- Retired sociologist: $140
- Unemployed sociologist: $140
- Secondary school teacher: $140

Rates for Non-Members:
- General: $450
- Outside the U.S.: $240
- Non-sociologist: $240
- Student: $175
- Secondary school teacher: $140

Name Badges. Your name badge is required for admission to all convention functions including entry to the ASA Exhibits, Employment Service, and Child Care Service areas. Attendance at events which require fee payment (e.g., Courses, Seminars, Chair Conference, Director of Graduate Studies Conference, TEF Just Desserts, MFP Benefit, Tours) is restricted to meeting registrants.

A general registrant may sign up for one guest pass ($40 onsite) to provide a courtesy badge for a spouse, partner, family member, or other guest. This guest pass provides only a name badge; the Final Program packet is not supplied. Information printed on a guest badge is restricted to the name of the guest; affiliations will not be printed. Individuals attending the meeting in a professional capacity are expected to register in one of the full registration categories listed above.

Refunds/Cancellations. All registration-related fees are non-refundable as of July 13, 2011. Unfortunately, under no circumstances can ASA issue refunds for no-shows. Program participant registration fees are non-refundable; cancellations will not be accepted nor refunds issued.
Tickets for Events and Services

Registrants already signed up for seminars, courses, tours, employment, child care services, and/or special events should have received tickets with their meeting packets. Those who did not make advance reservations may check at the ASA On-Site registration counters in the Milano Ballroom on the Promenade Level for ticket availability. Event tickets are non-refundable and cancellations cannot be accepted. You may, however, sell your ticket to someone else if you are unable to attend.

Membership Desk

Information on ASA membership and subscriptions will be provided at the Membership tables in the Milano Ballroom on the Promenade Level of the hotel. The Membership desk will be staffed by ASA Executive Office personnel and will be open during the same hours as ASA Registration. Attendees may learn about current membership benefits and join the Association, sign up for Section memberships, and subscribe to ASA journals. Display copies of current journals will be available for reference.

Section Information

Looking for information about the ASA Sections and sections-in-formation, or copies of 2011 section newsletters? Check the Section Display Tables near the ASA Membership desk in the Milano Ballroom on the Promenade Level of the hotel. Every Section was invited to designate representatives to staff the display table during each meeting day and provide information on special section activities. Staff from the ASA Executive Office will be nearby at the Membership Desk to answer questions about joining any and all sections.

Stay Connected!: Internet Access

Attendees are welcome to utilize the Cybercafe located in the exhibit hall in Octavius Ballroom and in the registration area in Milano Ballroom, both on the Promenade Level of the hotel. These stations offer access to your web and internet services. Attendees are also encouraged to bring their own laptops and PDAs to utilize the complimentary WiFi internet access available in the exhibit hall in Octavius Ballroom and in the registration area in Milano Ballroom, both on the Promenade Level of the hotel. The Cybercafe and complimentary WiFi access in Octavius Ballroom are only available during exhibit hall hours. Guests who have booked within the ASA Housing block also receive Internet access in their guestrooms for a flat rate of $15.00.

ASA Bookstore

The ASA Bookstore features works published by the Association. Located in the Octavius Ballroom on the Promenade Level of the hotel, the Bookstore will be staffed by ASA Executive Office personnel and open throughout the four days of the Annual Meeting during the same hours as ASA Exhibits (see page 43).

All attendees are welcome to browse through this area filled with recent journal issues, teaching resources and syllabi sets, career publications, sociological practice materials, directories, and reference volumes. The online ASA Bookstore will be available at a kiosk located in the Bookstore to complete online orders for those who’d rather not purchase and carry materials home. Items purchased through the online ASA Bookstore will be shipped after the Annual Meeting.

Exhibits

The ASA Exhibits are located in the Octavius Ballroom on the Promenade Level of the hotel. Exhibits will be open to meeting registrants on all four days of the meeting.

ASA Exhibit Hours:
Saturday, August 20 2:00-6:00 pm
Sunday, August 21 9:00 am-4:00 pm
Monday, August 22 9:00 am-5:00 pm
Tuesday, August 23 9:00 am-1:00 pm

The location of the Exhibits offers excellent accessibility to meeting attendees, due to its close proximity to poster sessions, the ASA Bookstore and the cybercafe. Always one of the most popular activities at the Annual Meeting, Exhibits offer variety, convenience, and an opportunity to discover current trends in sociological publishing, information processing, and services. Meeting attendees are encouraged to schedule several visits to the Exhibit area so that ample time can be given to exploring the many offerings. Browse through the latest sociological publications, explore current computer software, chat with representatives of statistical resources and informational literature, and meet the editor of your next publication!

See the Directory of Exhibitors in this Program for the names and booth numbers of all exhibitors. Don't forget to look through the Program for special ads too.
All persons wishing access to ASA Exhibits must be paid registrants for the Annual Meeting; badges are required for entrance into this area.

Employment Service

The annual ASA Employment Service assists sociologists and prospective employers by providing convenient opportunities for employers and job seekers to meet in a neutral, monitored environment for initial short interviews during the Annual Meeting.

Employers and preregistered job seekers are able to enter their information in an online module and use an interactive scheduling calendar to set up interview appointments during the Annual Meeting.

All service users were urged to preregister by July 13 in order to take full advantage of the pre-convention communication opportunities that the new online Employment Service (ES) offers. Interviewers and candidates were also encouraged to bring their own laptops (equipped with wireless cards) with them so that they can more easily maintain communications during the Annual Meeting. The on-site service desk in the Employment Service areas will provide a few computer terminals for use by registered ES users.

Location and Hours. The Employment Service will be open in Forum 12 on the Pool Level of the hotel during the hours listed below.

- Friday, August 19, 1:30 – 6:30 pm
- Saturday, August 20, 8:00 am – 5:30 pm
- Sunday, August 21, 8:00 am – 5:30 pm
- Monday, August 22, 8:00 am – 5:30 pm
- Tuesday, August 23, 8:00 am – 1:00 pm

Preregistrants should first pick up their ASA badges in the Milano Ballroom on the Promenade Level of the hotel and have their ES ticket in hand before proceeding to the Employment Service.

Employers. Employers (organizations) enter the online ES to pay the registration fee and post job listings. All individuals conducting interviews on-site must be registered for the Annual Meeting and subsequently designated as interviewers by their employers in order to use the online service to search candidate information and set up interview appointments.

Candidates. Those who are looking for positions should have preregistered for the Annual Meeting and for the Employment Service before the July 13 preregistration deadline. Those who preregistered may log into the online ES module and fill out the Candidate Profile Form, upload a full resume, view jobs posted by Employers, mark their ES calendars to show their availability for interviews, and respond to interview requests.

Interview Scheduling. All initial interview appointments are to be scheduled through the online Employment Service. Interviewers and candidates are encouraged to bring their own laptops (equipped with wireless cards) with them so that they can more easily maintain communications about interview appointments during the Annual Meeting. The Interview Room provides one table per employer where designated interviewers may meet with candidates at the agreed-upon appointment times. On-site staff will assist with reminders of the 20-minute appointment intervals so that appointment schedules stay on-time throughout the day.

On-Site Registration. Individuals who did not preregister and now want to use the Employment Service, whether as Candidate or Interviewer, must register first for the Annual Meeting. Please see “Registration Services” for on-site registration rates. Fees for candidates to use the Employment Service, which may be paid during your meeting registration process at the On-Site Registration desks, are $40 for ASA members, $75 for non-members. There is no additional service fee for Interviewers. Employers may go directly online to pay the registration fee ($285), post their job listings, and designate the on-site interviewers.

When fully registered, your next step is to visit the Employment Service help desks in Forum 12 on the Pool Level of the hotel, where you will be given a brief orientation to the new service procedures and issued a pass permitting your entrance to the Interview Room any time it is open. No one will be admitted without a pass; “browsing by non-registered attendees is not permitted.”

After the Meeting. The online Employment Service site will remain open after the Annual Meeting is over to permit registered candidates and interviewers to reference information posted there. Users may create pdf files of job listings or candidate profiles for future reference, if they wish. The online 2011 Employment Service will close to registered users at the end of September 2011.

Child Care

ASA is continuing the tradition of providing an innovative program of activities for children of Annual Meeting registrants. Arrangements have again been made with KiddieCorp to offer a full childcare program during daytime session hours for preregistered children between the ages of 6 months to 12 years.

KiddieCorp is dedicated to providing quality childcare services across the nation for meeting attendees. Staffing is based on a 1:2 ratio for children 6 months to 1 year, facilities. The Child Care Service is located in Milano 4 on the Promenade Level of the hotel. This service is available to preregistrants only. The non-refundable preregistration deposit of $50 per child will be applied to the daily usage fees on-site. Daily use fees per preregistered child are $50 per full day, $30 per half day. For children using the service for shorter periods, the half-day fee will apply to encourage stable populations. Fees include on-site activities and snacks; lunch is not included but meal arrangements can be made through the hotel.

Service hours are 8:00 am – 6:30 pm on Saturday-Monday, August 20-22, and 8:00 am – 4:30 pm on Tuesday, August 23. Parents/guardians using these services must be registrants for the Annual Meeting.

There is no guarantee that non-preregistered families can be accommodated on-site. Child care providers reserve the right to refuse admittance to non-preregistrants. If there are any openings, fees for children who were not preregistered will be $75 per day per child. No half-day rates are available for non-preregistered children; no exceptions.

Accessibility Resources and Services

The ASA offers several services and oversight arrangements to facilitate attendance at the Annual Meeting. The ASA Office will coordinate resources during the meeting week for registrants with physical disabilities who are attending the Annual Meeting. Special services, which were arranged in advance, may be verified with ASA staff to ensure that you receive the assistance you need. Should you encounter any problems during the meeting or need any additional information while at the Annual Meeting, please contact Meeting Services staff in the on-site ASA Office.

Comfort Zone. Attendees coping with illness, meeting fatigue, or stress may use the small room set aside by ASA as a “safe haven” to escape briefly from the noise and bustle of meeting activities. The designated Comfort Zone is located in the Genoa room on the Promenade Level of the hotel.

Lactation/Nursing Facilities. Families with lactation/nursing needs should stop by the ASA Office in Office 4 on the Promenade Level of the hotel for access to the private facilities.

Unisex/Gender Non-Specified Restrooms. The ASA will designate restroom facilities on the Promenade Level of meeting rooms as “uni-sex/gender-neutral.” Other restroom facilities designated “women” and “men” are also available on this level.

Sessions. ASA has made arrangements for sign language interpreters, sighted guides, and other communication avenues for meeting registrants who provided information in advance of the meeting.

Travel. The McCarran International Airport in Las Vegas (LAS), website: www.mccarran.com. Wheelchair service is provided free of charge by calling 702-261-5475 or dialing 5475 on any white courtesy phone. C Gate passengers should call 702-261-6376 from outside the airport or 6376 from any white courtesy phone. Please allow 30-45 minutes for assistance to arrive, unless you have made advance arrangements with your airline. Extra time may be required during peak travel periods.

Restrooms. All restroom facilities at the airport are fully equipped for wheelchair access.

Shuttle Service. Showtime Tours (www.showtimetourslv.com) offers shuttle service to the Las Vegas strip hotels. From Baggage Claim, proceed out of Door 12 and purchase a ticket from the Showtime booth or show your receipt to the Showtime greeter. From Terminal 2, proceed to Showtime Tours Desk in baggage claim. A greeter will direct you to the appropriate vehicle and a driver will provide you with a ticket for your return from the hotel to the airport. For reservations (optional), call 702-895-9976. Shuttlse leave the airport every 15-30 minutes.

Regional Transportation Commission (RTC). The Las Vegas busses are all equipped with a wheelchair lift. For disabled travelers not able to use the busses, contact the RTC in advance to inquire about utilizing the Las Vegas Paratransit service. For more information, call 702-228-4800.

TTY/TDD Telephone Locations. Airport telephone booths are designed to accommodate passengers with special needs and are located throughout the concourses. TDD telephones with LED computer screens are available to assist the hearing impaired. Companion care/unisex restrooms are available throughout the airport. Staff located at airport information booths provides language translation services. When on site assistance is not available, a foreign language translation phone service can be accessed for a fee. For assistance after hours, dial “0” on any white courtesy phone.

Other Services. Registrants who did not make advance arrangements for services or equipment are requested to contact staff at the ASA Office in Office 4 on the Promenade Level of the hotel. Every reasonable effort will be made to assist registrants on-site. However, if you have a physical disability and need special services, equipment, or accommodations, and did not notify ASA in advance of your arrival at the meeting site, ASA may not be able to provide appropriate services due to the limited availability of some equipment and services.

For more than twenty years, ASA has provided special services and oversight arrangements to facilitate attendance at the Annual Meeting. For an overview, please read the article on “Committee and Executive Office Collaborate to Make Annual Meeting Accessible,” published in the April 2007 issue of ASA’s newsletter Footnotes.

Press Office

Press and media representatives are invited to check in at the on-site ASA Press Office for program information and interview assistance. The Press Office is located in the Sorrento room on the Promenade Level of the hotel. Office hours are 5:00-7:00 pm on August 19, 8:00 am-5:00 pm on August 20-22, and 8:00 am-1:00 pm on August 23.

Meeting attendees are also encouraged to drop by the on-site Press Office and provide information on their availability to discuss their work with the media while in Las Vegas.

Course

1. Course. Service-Learning: Engaging Students and Community in Sociology and Social Change (9:00am-3:00pm)
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Pompeian II, Promenade Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Corey Dolgon, Stonehill College
Co-Leader: Jonathan Michael White, Bridgewater State College

This course will begin with introductions and evaluate expectations and levels of previous engagement with service-learning. The leaders will then present a brief history and overview of definitions and best practices, in part determined by audience expectations. We will then ask participants to quickly outline a service learning course design (either one they have taught already or one they are considering)—in mapping out the course and projects, we want participants to consider the strengths and weaknesses and what they perceive as the opportunities and challenges they will face). At this point, we will choose at least one previously taught class and one new one to workshop as a group (more if time permits), discussing aspects of learning outcomes and assessment, community impact and sustainability, etc. We’ll conclude with a brief discussion about the “future” of service-learning and current debates and controversies about partnerships, student engagement, service versus research, and developing a social justice paradigm.

2. Course. Working with Fuzzy Sets (10:00am-5:30pm)
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Pompeian III, Promenade Level

Fuzzy set analysis is gaining popularity in the social sciences today because of the close connections it enables among verbal theory, substantive knowledge (especially in the assessment of degree of set membership), and the analysis of empirical evidence. Fuzzy sets are especially useful in case-oriented research, where the investigator has a degree of familiarity with the cases included in the investigation and seeks to understand cases configurationally—as specific combinations of aspects or elements. Using fuzzy-set methods, case outcomes can be examined in ways that allow for causal complexity, where different combinations of causally relevant conditions combine to generate the outcome in question. Also, with fuzzy-set methods it is a possible to evaluate arguments that causal conditions are necessary or sufficient. Analyses of this type are outside the scope of conventional analytic methods. Specific topics addressed in the course include: the differences between set-theoretic and correlational methods; conventional crisp sets versus fuzzy sets; the calibration of fuzzy sets; how calibration differs from conventional forms of measurement; analyzing fuzzy set relations; the correspondence between concepts and fuzzy set membership scores; the correspondence between theoretical statements and the analysis of fuzzy set relations; using fuzzy sets to study cases as configurations; and using fuzzy sets to unravel causal complexity, with a special focus on the equifinality. In all phases of the course, participants will work with fsQCA, a free Windows software package designed for fuzzy set analysis and for Qualitative

3. Opening Plenary Session. Walking the Walk and Talking the Talk: Working in Sociological Traditions
Presider: Craig Calhoun, Social Science Research Council
Doing the Chicago School. Andrew Abbott, University of Chicago
Marxism after Communism. Michael Burawoy, University of California-Berkeley
In this session, four senior scholars will discuss the experience of working within particular sociological traditions. Given the diverse traditions involved and the differences of the speakers’ personalities, the papers will no doubt vary greatly. But they may cover topics like what traditions are in the first place, how and whether one gets associated with a tradition, what are the advantages and disadvantages, merging or shifting one’s tradition-identity, and so on. Beyond that loose agenda, the speakers are on their own. Our aim is to provide an entertaining but substantive opening to the meeting.

9:00 pm   Receptions

Welcome Reception (to 10:30am)–Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Augustus I & II, Emperors Level
All meeting registrants are invited to the Welcome Reception which follows the Opening Plenary Session on Friday evening, August 19, and celebrates the opening of the 106th Annual Meeting.

Saturday, August 20

The length of each daytime session/meeting activity is one hour and forty minutes, unless noted otherwise. The usual turnover is as follows:

8:30 am – 10:10 am
10:30 am – 12:10 pm
12:30 pm – 2:10 pm
2:30 pm – 4:10 pm
4:30 pm – 6:10 pm

Session presiders and committee chairs are requested to see that sessions and meetings end on time to avoid conflicts with subsequent activities scheduled into the same room.

4. Thematic Session. Conflict and Cooperation in Social Networks
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan II, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Michael W. Macy, Cornell University Panel: Mario Diani, Universitat Pompeu Fabra
Elisa Jayne Bienvenu Stock, Georgetown University and National Security Innovations Inc.
Discussant: Harrison C. White, Columbia University
This session will be an opportunity for an exchange of ideas and findings among researchers studying the effects of network structure and dynamics on conflict and cooperation. Topics include mobilization of collective action, intergroup conflict, trust, and social norms. The common thread will be network analysis, including network structure, homophily, Discussant: cooperation.

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Florentine IV, Promenade Level

Session Organizer: Cameron Macdonald, University of Wisconsin-Madison

President: Renee R. Anspach, University of Michigan-Ann Arbor

Panel: Donald W. Light, University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey and Center for Migration and Development

Cameron Macdonald, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Discussant: Renee R. Anspach, University of Michigan-Ann Arbor

The session will address critical battles between system-level demands and individual needs in health care provision in the US and abroad. Institutional actors (such as physician’s groups, pharmaceutical companies, health insurers) make demands for efficiency, effectiveness and profits. These demands conflict in multiple arenas with the needs of patients and their families. The proposed session brings together a panel of experts from inside and outside of the discipline to address the most critical junctures of individual/institutional conflict for the practice of medicine today.

6. Thematic Session. Crisis and Conflict in American Housing

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan III, Promenade Level

Session Organizers: Rachel E. Dwyer, The Ohio State University and Barrett Lee, Pennsylvania State University

President: Rachel E. Dwyer, The Ohio State University

Panel: Gregory D. Squires, George Washington University

Chenoa Flippen, University of Pennsylvania

Kenneth J. LoBene, Department of Housing and Urban Development-Las Vegas

Located at the intersection of multiple dimensions of inequality, the housing arena is understandably rife with conflict. A house may be at once a basic necessity, a source of personal meaning, a commodity, and a gateway—shaping access to education, health care, social networks, and labor markets. Conflict arises between constituencies with competing claims to housing spaces and opposing interests in the use and exchange of housing. There is conflict between residents and the myriad institutions that regulate housing. Housing is a prime domain of domination and resistance for groups divided by class, race, ethnicity, nativity, gender, family structure, and other statuses. The recent financial crisis highlights the range of conflicts that influence the housing arena. Instances of struggle and confrontation are manifested in foreclosures, evictions, squatting, public housing, residential segregation, discriminatory real estate and lending practices, gentrification, and suburban poverty, to give but a few examples. This session brings together academic and policy experts to explore diverse forms of housing conflict in a time of economic uncertainty.

7. Thematic Session. Is a Sociology of War Feasible and/or Desirable?

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan IV, Promenade Level

Session Organizer: Andreas Wimmer, University of California-Los Angeles

Organized Violence and Social Order: Towards Micro and Macro Sociology of War. Sinisa Malesevic, National University of Ireland-Galway

Sociology of War/Conflict: Assessing Sociology’s Potential Contributions. Susan Olzak, Stanford University

Panelists discuss whether there is, and if not, whether there should be a specifically sociological approach to the study of war. The current disciplinary division of labor assigns sociology the role of understanding the consequences of war (for state-building, revolutions etc.), while political science focuses on explaining wars as an outcome in itself. Is this a satisfactory division of labor? Or is there a particular empirical point of view or even theoretical approach that differentiates sociological from the dominant political science approaches to the study of war? What would the contours of such an approach (or approaches) look like?

8. Thematic Session. Nation-building and Peace Building in Post-Conflict Africa: Gender and Justice

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan I, Promenade Level

Session Organizer and President: Oyeronke Oyewumi, State University of New York-Stony Brook

Rethinking the Nation-building Project in Africa: Social Conflict, Social Change and Social Policy. Jimi O. Adesina, Rhodes University

Women and Peace Building in Conflict and Post Conflict Liberia and Uganda. Cassandra Veney, Loyola Marymount University

Postcolonial Africa has been wracked by conflict. Labels such as “failed states” and “uncivil societies” dominate the Africanist literature as the tone of much scholarly writings have grown ever more pessimistic. More recently however, the activism and increasing power and representation of women in political institutions in a number of post-conflict societies provide a welcome counter narrative. The panelists will examine the economic, social and political conditions of conflict and violence from the perspective of the degrading of the nation-building project. The gendered experiences of war and post conflict transformation will provide another template as the panelists examine the prominent role of women in peace and nation building in Sierra Leone, Liberia and Uganda. The gendered experiences of children at war and its implications for international human rights and Justice projects are some of the issues to be examined.
9. Special Session. Climate Change: Reconfiguring Global Authority, Resources, Ideas, and Bodies
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Florentine I, Promenade Level
Session Organizer: Simone Pulver, University of California-Santa Barbara
Presider: Dana R. Fisher, University of Maryland-College Park
Panel: JoAnn Carmin, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Anna-Liisa Aunio, Université de Montréal
J. Timmons Roberts, Brown University
Simone Pulver, University of California-Santa Barbara
Lori M. Hunter, University of Colorado-Boulder
Discussant: George M. Thomas, Arizona State University

Master globalization narratives depict its consequences as exacerbating global inequalities or as rationalizing a new world system. Global integration due to climate change—which links factory workers in China with coastal communities in the Gulf of Mexico and carbon finance experts in London with slum activist in Cape Town—challenges such master narratives. On the one hand, current management processes in the global climate regime reveal its capacity to mask and reinforce inequalities in contributions to climate change, exposure to adverse affects, and participation (as well as capacity to participate) in international environmental politics. On the other hand, emerging climate governance processes have also created new venues to challenge asymmetric linkages and new opportunities to promote equitable development. The goal of this session is to investigate the specific linkages and organizational forms through which global climate governance is being constituted and challenged. Speakers will highlight the various arenas—from local cities to transnational negotiations—in which governments, international organizations, NGOs, and social movements are navigating both cooperation and conflict in the expansion of climate change governance. In so doing, speakers will examine the actual conditions, mechanisms and channels through which various actors are shaping the global climate regime as well as what consequences their actions have for how authority, resources, ideas and bodies are organized and distributed in an increasingly global society.

10. Special Session. Globalization and the Transformation of Sexuality
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Pompeian I, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Elizabeth A. Armstrong, University of Michigan-Ann Arbor
Panel: Hector Carrillo, Northwestern University
Jyoti Puri, Simmons College
Amy T. Schalet, University of Massachusetts-Amherst
Discussant: Barry D. Adam, University of Windsor

Money, people, goods, ideas, practices, and social movements—including those related to sexuality—move across national boundaries ever more readily. To what extent and through what processes are sexual cultures and practices travelling across national boundaries? What does this migration mean for social justice? Are processes of globalization creating more space for sexual autonomy? Or are these processes creating more ways to exploit and abuse vulnerable populations? This panel asks scholars doing work in this area to address these questions.

11. Special Session. Nature or Nurture? Gender Theory, Social Constructionism and Biology
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Pompeian II, Promenade Level
Session Organizer: Kristen Schilt, University of Chicago
Panel: Bernice A. Pescosolido, Indiana University
Sarah Burgard, University of Michigan-Ann Arbor
Catherine J. Taylor, Columbia University
Discussant: Barbara Jane Risman, University of Illinois-Chicago

The source of differences and disparities between men and women has long been contested terrain within sociology. Many gender scholars have argued against using biological sex differences as an explanation for patterns of inequality, arguing that these differences are products of society. Yet, social constructionist arguments about gender inequality have been critiqued for leaving the body and biology out of their theory and research. The increasing trend toward including “bio-markers” in health research has re-sparked long-standing debates about the role of nature and nurture in accounting for gender differences and gender disparities. This panel brings together scholars who hold a variety of positions on this biological turn in an effort to consider both the benefits and risks of bringing biology back into the sociology of gender.

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Livorno, Promenade Level
Session Organize and Leader: Betsy Lucal, Indiana University-South Bend
Co-Leaders: Sara L. Crawley, University of South Florida
Tey Meadow, New York University
Carla A. Pfeffer, Purdue University North Central
Salvador Vidal-Ortiz, American University

What is a “lavender vita”? What are the trials and tribulations associated with getting a job when one’s vita is marked in this way? Might there ever be an advantage to going on the market with a lavender CV? Does the lavender vita cease to matter once you have secured a position? In this workshop, sociologists at various points in their careers will talk about how they have navigated the challenges of the lavender vita.

13. Policy and Research Workshop. Panel Study of Income Dynamics
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 1, Pool Level
Session Organizer and Leader: Wei-Jun Jean Yeung, National University of Singapore
Co-Leader: Frank Stafford, University of Michigan-Ann Arbor

This workshop will introduce to potential PSID users available data collected recently in the Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID) for examining attitudes and behavior of youth and of those transitioning to adulthood. Available data include time use, civic engagement, peer influence, health status, work/career trajectories, expectation to work and education, experiences of discrimination, and more.

It is exactly 20 years since Boris Yeltsin dramatically climbed onto the tank that prefigured the collapse of the Soviet Union by the end of 1991. How did this mighty empire collapse with hardly a whimper? What has happened to post-Soviet Russia over the last 20 years? These two questions are addressed by four scholars -- a historian, an anthropologist and two sociologists -- who have devoted their lives to unraveling the mysteries of the most fateful event of the late 20th century.

Cultivating the Religious Child: Class, Race, and Childrearing in the Religious Setting. Elliot Weininger, State University of New York-Brockport; Annette Lareau, University of Pennsylvania; Melissa Velez, New York University
Discussant: Michael O. Emerson, Rice University
Research on the intersections of race, class and gender has changed the way that sociologists study stratification. However, despite religion's self-stratifying nature and the ways in which race, class and gender are thus implicated in the study of religion, few researchers have attempted to examine the ways in which race, class, gender and religion intersect in meaningful ways. This panel is first attempt at remediying this situation.

Political Islam and Global Civil Society: Competing Visions. Zeynep Atalay, University of Maryland
The Inflation of Religion in the Contemporary Global Arena. Roland Robertson, University of Pittsburgh
Discussant: George M. Thomas, Arizona State University
This session will bring together sociologists who analyze and promelatize the secular nature of global civil society. The session will address the following key questions: What are the ways in which religious civic groups or fair-based organizations make religion relevant to the organization of global civil society? What is their impact on negotiations and contentions and on social conflict generally? How do religion civil society organizations compare to their secular counterparts in terms of agendas, strategies, outcomes, funding opportunities, accreditation, and credibility? How do these organizations negotiate across the secular-religious and global-local divide? What implications does religion in global civil society have for our theories of global political processes and for our research agendas?

51. Special Session. New Directions in Globalization Research
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Pompeian II, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Presider: David John Frank, University of California-Irvine Panel: David Brady, Duke University
Zsuzsa Gille, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
Evan Schofer, University of California-Irvine
Jackie Smith, University of Pittsburgh
Ho-fung Hung, The Johns Hopkins University
Discussant: David John Frank, University of California-Irvine
This panel focuses on new and expanded ways of researching globalization. Accordingly, this panel showcases the research of four up-and-coming scholars who represent a variety of approaches to globalization. Each scholar will present a piece of current research, and each will reflect on the ways his or her work builds on and departs from the standard world society/world-systems frameworks.

52. Author Meets Critics Session. The Unfinished Revolution: How A New Generation is Reshaping Family, Work and Gender in America (Oxford University Press, 2009) by Kathleen Gerson
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Florentine IV, Promenade Level
Session Organizer: Daniel F. Chambliss, Hamilton College
Presider: Barbara Jane Risman, University of Illinois-Chicago
Critics: Myra Marx Ferree, University of Wisconsin-Madison
Brian Powell, Indiana University
Michael J. Rosenfeld, Stanford University
Author: Kathleen Gerson, New York University

53. Regional Spotlight Session. Still Learning from Las Vegas: The Paradoxical Culture of an All-American City
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Pompeian I, Promenade Level
Session Organizers and Presiders: Michael Ian Borer and Simon Gottschalk, University of Nevada-Las Vegas
Panel: Kirsten Swenson, University of Nevada-Las Vegas
Rick Lax, Las Vegas Weekly
Jarret Keene, City Life
David R. Dickens, University of Nevada-Las Vegas
Las Vegas is famous, and infamous, for repeatedly reinventing itself by appropriating styles and practices from other places. The continual changes in tourism, architecture, and population, however, do not occur by the fiat of an invisible (neon) hand. Instead, the people who live, work, and play in Las Vegas constitute a dynamic and paradoxical culture that is entrepreneurial and nostalgic, liberal and conservative, honest and illusory. Panelists – comprised of local academics and “culture makers” – will address the often contradictory characteristics of everyday life in Las Vegas and explain why the city remains “an exaggerated example from which to derive lessons for the typical” (Venturi, Brown, and Izenour, Learning from Las Vegas, 1977). Discussions will focus on the ways that Las Vegas, glittered warts and all, is emblematic of American cultural ideals, beliefs, and values. Crowd participation is welcomed and encouraged.
54. Professional Workshop. Managing the Margins: Professional Development within the Sociology of Disability

_Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Livorno, Promenade Level_

Session Organizer and Leader: Jeffrey A. Houser, University of Northern Colorado
Co-Leaders: Sharon N. Barnartt, Gallaudet University; Richard K. Scotch, University of Texas at Dallas

Disability is an emerging field of interest to sociologists. The newly established Disability and Society section was made possible by the support of nearly one hundred graduate students from across the discipline. Yet there are few resources available to sociologists interested in researching disability, publishing on disability, and teaching about disability. This workshop will offer strategies for building or enhancing a career in the sociology of disability. Topics will include: finding funding sources on disability; making journals choices; including disability in a curriculum; developing syllabi and designing a sociology of disability course; and service opportunities at the local, regional, and national levels.

55. Policy and Research Workshop. NSF Funding Opportunities, Merit Review Criteria and Proposal Preparation for Professional Sociologists and Graduate Studies

_Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 1, Pool Level_

Session Organizer and Leader: Regina E. Werum, National Science Foundation
Co-Leaders: Jennifer Earl, University of California-Santa Barbara and Kevin Fox Gotham, Tulane University Panel: Katherine Meyer, National Science Foundation

This session targets graduate students, faculty, and researchers who are new at proposal writing and submission. Representatives from the National Science Foundation (NSF) will discuss the proposal development process, elements of a competitive proposal, proposal submission and review, and funding opportunities for researchers. The format will be interactive, allowing for audience questions and participation.

Janice M. Irvine, University of Massachusetts

Three years into the Obama Administration and amidst new constellations of political power, the hot-button “culture wars” issues of gender and sexuality that characterized the Bush years have been assumed by some commentators to have largely subsided. With the rise of an economically driven Tea Party movement and the decline of the Religious Right as a political presence, it is possible to make the argument that some of the most heated dimensions of sexual politics in the last decade—including gay marriage, abortion, sexual diversity in the military, and the global spread of HIV/AIDS—are receding in importance as politically divisive issues. At the same time, the continued salience of abortion politics in debates around health care reform and the rise of right-wing “birther” and anti-immigration movements that pivot on intersections of race and reproduction have returned sexuality to the forefront of national politics through some surprising new channels. This panel invites distinguished sociologists, historians, and political theorists to assess the state of contemporary sexual politics as well as the challenges for progressive social movements going forward. In what ways have certain key features of U.S. sexual politics shifted in the age of Obama? Which facets of the contemporary political terrain are most deeply entrenched? In the face of complicated and contradictory trends, panelists will consider the changing landscape of sexual politics through an analysis of foreign and domestic policy and the broader configurations of power that shape erotic life, including political economy, war and peace, and intersecting forms of inequality.

A recurrent subtext underlying social conflict in the Middle East is contested conceptions of the nation. The ideology of the nation only developed in the region in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, yet national identities have become so powerfully entrenched that they are often taken for granted, both by Middle Easterners and by social-scientific observers. This panel explores the taken-for-grantedness of nationality through the study of headline-grabbing conflicts that often appear, on the surface, to revolve around something else. In each of these instances, political movements attempt to construct a unified sense of nationality, and suppress dissident images of the nation, through mobilization against an enemy. Turkish-Armenian conflicts, for example, use the bloodshed of 1915 to justify homogenizing visions of the nation-states that emerged from the Ottoman and Russian/Soviet empires in the 20th century. Neoliberalism in the region sublimes conflict through religious imagery of the nation. The Iranian reform movement and its authoritarian opponents invoke distinct conceptions of the nature of the Iranian nation, under the guise of disputes over religion and politics. Palestinian-Israeli conflicts are transparently “national,” not just disputes between Israelis and Palestinians but also among Israelis and Palestinians, with sometimes violent clashes on each side over the nature and territorial birthright of the nation. This panel presents research by leading scholars exploring the ways in which the “nation” has become the site of contestation in each of these cases.

A recurrent subtext underlying social conflict in the Middle East is contested conceptions of the nation. The ideology of the nation only developed in the region in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, yet national identities have become so powerfully entrenched that they are often taken for granted, both by Middle Easterners and by social-scientific observers. This panel explores the taken-for-grantedness of nationality through the study of headline-grabbing conflicts that often appear, on the surface, to revolve around something else. In each of these instances, political movements attempt to construct a unified sense of nationality, and suppress dissident images of the nation, through mobilization against an enemy. Turkish-Armenian conflicts, for example, use the bloodshed of 1915 to justify homogenizing visions of the nation-states that emerged from the Ottoman and Russian/Soviet empires in the 20th century. Neoliberalism in the region sublimes conflict through religious imagery of the nation. The Iranian reform movement and its authoritarian opponents invoke distinct conceptions of the nature of the Iranian nation, under the guise of disputes over religion and politics. Palestinian-Israeli conflicts are transparently “national,” not just disputes between Israelis and Palestinians but also among Israelis and Palestinians, with sometimes violent clashes on each side over the nature and territorial birthright of the nation. This panel presents research by leading scholars exploring the ways in which the “nation” has become the site of contestation in each of these cases.

86. Thematic Session. Conflicting Visions of the American Family
Session Organizer and Presider: Sharon L. Sassler, Cornell University Panel: Kathleen Gerson, New York University

Discussant: Melissa A. Milkie, University of Maryland

Over the past few decades there has been considerable discord regarding the form and functions of the American family, and the roles constituent members should play. Demographic change (the increasing prevalence of cohabitation, marital delay, high levels of female labor force participation) and economic challenges (wage stagnation, unemployment) have resulted in substantial proportions of Americans of all ages who must grapple with different family realities than they were raised with. While the American media often portrays the situations resulting from these changes in an amusing light (alpha wives and cougars; men fleeing commitment or grappling clumsily with being fathers), they generally fail to adequately address the tensions inherent in men’s and women’s beliefs of what the family is supposed to be. This panel examines flashpoints in heterosexual intimate relationships and the factors challenging their formation, stability, and quality. Among the issues panelists will address are: How much trust do women have in the men in their lives and the institution of the family? What do men think about the static expectation often imposed on them to be providers, and do they view that as a desirable or attainable goal? Given that the majority of women now work outside the home for pay, what are men’s (and women’s) expectations regarding domestic labor in the home, or childcare? In other words, what makes the family difficult to sustain?

87. Thematic Session. Legacies of 1886: US Class Formation and Class Conflict in Historical Perspective
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan IV, Promenade Level
Session Organizers: Kim Voss and Barry Eidlin, University of California-Berkeley
Panel: Kim Voss, University of California-Berkeley
Robin Archer, London School of Economics
Michael Biggs, University of Oxford

The year 1886 marked a pivotal moment in the history of U.S. class conflict. In that year, a massive strike wave known as The Great Upsurge not only challenged emerging structures of industry and management, but also raised critical issues regarding the form and mission of working class organization, as well as working class political representation. As the ASA gathers in Chicago, an epicenter of the 1886 upsurge, 125 years later, this thematic session not only commemorates the historical events of that year, but also uses them as a starting point to address crucial issues relating to enduring questions of “American exceptionalism,” political culture and protest, class formation, social movement emergence/organization, and more.

Investigating the Inverse Relationship between Armed Conflict and Women’s Empowerment. Mary Caprioli, University of Minnesota-Duluth

We explore the inverse relationship between men’s conflict/violence and women’s empowerment, especially economic empowerment. This increasingly consequential relationship hasn’t yet become a major focus of public policy debates. Using the tug-of-war metaphor, panelists examine the groups and trends pushing toward violent patriarchy vs. the more peaceful, gender-egalitarian direction. Though historically (for ~7,000 years), the violent side has dominated, today conflict-prone states/groups are less developed and generally grow at lower rates than the less bellicose. The outcome of this tug-of-war remains unknown. Although armed conflicts have declined since 1992, asymmetric violence still has global repercussions. Moreover, the causal direction of the men’s violence/women's empowerment interrelationship is unclear and the association of violence with men alone remains controversial. Mixing panelists who speak to both ends—and macro vs. micro aspects—of the male conflict/violence and female empowerment continuum, from different disciplinary and policy perspectives, should create an illuminating session—with, perhaps, some sparks.

Session Organizer: Peter V. Marsden, Harvard University
In 1971, sociologist James A. Davis submitted a research proposal arguing that 20 survey questions of general social science interest should be asked of a random sample of adult Americans, and that these data should be disseminated widely and freely for use by researchers and instructors. From these modest beginnings, the General Social Survey (GSS) project developed. To date, it has conducted 27 sample surveys to measure hundreds of variables repeatedly for over 53,000 U.S. adults, and thousands more at least once. Through its participation in and leadership of the International Social Survey Program (ISSP), the GSS has developed important data resources for international comparative survey research. The project has documented more than 16,000 social science publications that draw on GSS data, and hundreds of thousands of undergraduate students have made use of it in social science courses. It is the second most widely-used data source in social science, trailing only the Current Population Survey. In 2011, the GSS will turn 40 and enter its fifth decade. Its data now provide information on aggregate social trends over two generations, spanning a period including many remarkable societal changes. The session will call attention to some prominent substantive contributions to social science that have emerged out of the GSS project.

The Decline of Corporate Management. Mark S. Mizruchi, University of Michigan
This session takes a contemporary look at classic sociological questions about the professions. It analyzes the professions of law, medicine, and science and technology alongside changes in corporate management to assess the meanings and sources of professional autonomy today and the extent to which this autonomy is constrained (or enabled) by corporate and governmental bureaucracies, market competition, and market ideologies. The session also analyzes how variation in the type of control affects gender and race inequality within and across professional groups. The session makes contributions to our understanding of professional culture, social inequality, economic sociology, and organizational theory.

92. Regional Spotlight Session. The Globalization of Gambling: Lessons from Nevada and Beyond

Session Organizer and Presider: Bo Bernhard, University of Nevada-Las Vegas
Panel: Lorne Tepperman, University of Toronto
Gerda Reith, University of Glasgow-Scotland
Jeffrey J. Sallaz, University of Arizona
Gary Smith, University of Alberta
James F. Cosgrave, Trent University
Never before in human history have more of us had more (and more diverse) opportunities to wager money than we do today. The sociological implications of this development are complex, as groups, communities, governments, and cultures each develop unique relationships with the gambling act. In this session, panelists will explore shifts in gambling discourses, implications for new work/leisure distinctions, and the impacts of the globalization of this rapidly growing industry. Presenters will bring these analyses "home" to the sociological laboratory of Las Vegas, which often serves as a symbolic capital of gambling and behavioral excess.

Global warming poses major threats to both social and natural systems, but societal response has been minimal—especially in the USA—where the threat is met with widespread denial. Two forms of denial have emerged: an organized countermovement among corporate and conservative social actors and more general public apathy or failure to mobilize effectively by individual citizens and civil society. Organized climate change denial emerged in the late 1980s, spear-headed by the fossil fuels industry and corporate interests such as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce before becoming entrenched in the U.S. conservative movement. In the 1990s conservative think tanks and industry groups launched an anti-environmental countermovement, and a crucial strategy was undermining the scientific evidence for problems like global warming and thus the need for ameliorative action. Because of the regulatory implications posed by anthropogenic climate change, global warming became the leading target in these efforts to “manufacture uncertainty,” and today the entire field of climate science is under attack. Organized denial is flourishing, and having an obvious impact in the political domain. Yet, despite recent declines, a majority of the American public accepts the reality of global warming and expresses some degree of concern about it. Nonetheless, for most people climate change is not viewed as a pressing social or political priority. This “implicatory denial” helps account for the limited success experienced by those seeking to mobilize grassroots action in support of climate change policy-making. The leaders of the seminar will provide an overview of these two distinct reactions to climate change: organized denial and the more generalized failure to citizens to mobilize or even engage with the problem. We will first examine organized denial, including its ideological roots, preferred tactics, ever-evolving set of critical actors (think tanks and corporate associations; front groups and astro-turf campaigns; and conservative politicians, media, and bloggers) and its impacts on policy-making and political culture. We will then describe implicatory denial or “climate apathy” as a more pervasive and everyday problem whereby people acknowledge having information about climate change but not thinking about, or acting on, it in their everyday lives. The threat of climate change is acknowledged in the abstract, but disconnected from and invisible within political, social, and private life. The two forms of denial, which are mutually reinforcing, contribute to the lack of societal response to the threat of climate change. A set of relevant readings by the seminar leaders and other social scientists investigating climate change denial will be made available prior to the seminar.

Session Organizer and Leader: Carol A. Jenkins, Glendale Community College - Arizona

This didactic and interactive session explores the complex nature of academic integrity, factors contributing to the rising rates of plagiarism, the role of culture in defining the ownership of knowledge, the influence of culture in the development of critical reasoning and writing skills, the importance of developing culturally responsive pedagogies, and ways we can develop and expand culturally sensitive responses to detected plagiarism. The session is intended to increase faculty awareness and understanding of the emergent norm of intellectual dishonesty in general, but more specifically, perceived plagiarism among students from diverse socio-cultural and language backgrounds.

127. Thematic Session. Adjustment and Reintegration of Combat Veterans
Session Organizers: David R. Segal and Meredith A. Kleykamp, University of Maryland
The UK Deployments to Iraq and Afghanistan: Decompression and Adjustment after Combat for Regular and Reserve Forces. Christopher Dandeker and Charlotte Woodhead, King’s Centre for Military Health Research
Evaluating the Effectiveness of Deployment Reintegration Programs for the National Guard and Reserves. Bradford Booth, Suzanne Lederer, and Amy E. Falcone, ICF International
The Societal Context of Reception for Veterans. Meredith A. Kleykamp, University of Maryland
Discussant: Ryan D. Kelty, Washington College
The long wars in Iraq and Afghanistan have required the largest deployment of both active duty and reserve military personnel by the United States and its allies since World War II. The durations of the wars and the multiple deployments of personnel they have required, the relatively low lethality of the weapons used by the insurgencies in these countries, coupled with major advances in protective equipment and in battlefield medicine, have resulted in few fatalities relative to past wars, but large numbers of combat veterans, significant percentage of whom bear physical and psychological scars of their experience. This panel will present research by leading scholars on the decompression and post-service integration of personnel who have served in the regular and reserve armed forces of the United States and the United Kingdom in either Iraq or Afghanistan. It will address both negative consequences of such deployments such as post-traumatic stress and post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) and positive consequences such as resilience and post-traumatic growth. The discussion will focus on the experience of coming home, differences between regular and reserve forces, changes over time, the effectiveness of reintegration programs, and the use of medical and non-medical services.

128. Thematic Session. Conflict at Work
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan III, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Vincent J. Roscigno, The Ohio State University
We Can’t Win This on Our Own: Unions, Firms, and the Mobilization of External Allies in Labor Disputes. Marc Dixon, Dartmouth College

Changing Terrains of Contestation in Advanced Economies. Paul Edwards, University of Warwick
Discussant: Alexandra Kalev, University of Arizona
This session takes on central questions surrounding conflict at work and in the labor process, highlighting key axes of contestation and their causes. Equally noteworthy and important for scholars in the field, the panelists will also delve into historical, economic, and legal changes that have shifted the terms and character of contemporary workplace struggles and conflict.

129. Thematic Session. Economic Utopias and Dystopias: Possible Trajectories from the Financial Crisis
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan I, Promenade Level
Session Organizers: Greta R. Krippner and Gerald F. Davis, University of Michigan
Presider: Erik Olin Wright, University of Wisconsin-Madison
Reviving the Non-utopian Utopia: Prospects for a New Social Democracy. Fred Block, University of California-Davis
Toward a Diversified American Capitalism: Cooperatives, Mutuals and Local State-owned Enterprise. Marc Schneiberg, Reed College
Building with the Ruins of the Past: Opportunities for Social Organization Created by the Collapse of Shareholder Capitalism. Gerald F. Davis, University of Michigan

Economic Categories in Neoliberal Society. Marion Fourcade, University of California-Berkeley, and Kieran Healy, Duke University

It is widely recognized that periods of economic crisis are also periods of transformation in the social and political structures which organize the economy. The Great Depression gave rise to the regulated economy of the “Golden Age” of postwar capitalism, characterized by an active state, corporations that offered significant social protection to workers, and a sustained period of relative peace between capital and labor that supported widely shared prosperity. The economic crisis of the 1970s brought a swing in the other direction as markets were unshackled from regulatory constraints, the state retreated from its active role in guiding the economy, and corporations lost the organizational coherence that had characterized firms in preceding decades, chasing after the elixir of quarterly profit reports rather than making longer-term investments in communities and workers. What kind of economic future does the current crisis portend? Rather than offering yet another post-mortem on the financial crisis of 2007-2008, this thematic session takes a step back to consider the various possibilities for social, economic, and political transformation presented by the financial crisis and whether these possibilities are likely to be realized. Thus, this session would invite presenters to consider the crisis as a possible turning point in financial capitalism, with the goal of discerning what kinds of new organizational forms, new popular movements, new regulatory strategies, and new modes of economic discourse we might see emerging in the future (or the obstacles to their emergence).

130. Thematic Session. Pinking Latin American Politics: Feminism and the Left

Session Organizer: Myra Marx Ferree, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Presider: Christine E. Bose, State University of New York-Albany

Multiple Exclusion: Indigenous Women under the Concertación in Chile. Patricia Richards, University of Georgia

There have always been tensions between feminism and the Left. With the recent renaissance of leftist politics in Latin America, have old conflicts been overcome, or are they reappearing under new guises? This panel addresses the relationship between the current leftist parties and feminism, asking whether “radical” or “social democratic” Leftist parties are more congenial to feminist ideas, how policies such as reproductive rights or women’s poverty alleviation are variously integrated into their agendas, and what role gender equality plays in relation to competing demands, such as for indigenous recognition or class-based redistribution?

Women and the Social Protests in the Middle East/North Africa: Reform, Revolution, and the Hegemon. Valentine M. Moghadam, Purdue University

The Revolutionary Motivations of Torture and Repression. Lisa Hajjar, University of California-Santa Barbara

This panel will explore the rapid succession of revolutionary uprisings in the Arab world over the last year. Presenters will focus on: 1) the local, regional, and global contexts of discontent; 2) the forms of rule and social control; and 3) the hidden histories of resistance and organizing that made possible the extraordinary transformations in the Middle East since December 2010. The papers will also address the contours of the emerging political landscapes and the broader prospects for social change in the region.

133. Regional Spotlight Session. Lake Michigan: Protecting a Regional Asset—CANCELLED

134. Professional Workshop. Thinking about the Job Market: Academic and Practice Opportunities

Session Organizer and Leader: Chloe E. Bird, RAND Corporation

Panel: Jerry Jacobs, University of Pennsylvania
Sarah Meadows, RAND Corporation
Karen Lutfey, New England Research Institutes

We will examine the nature and prevalence of sociology jobs outside of traditional sociology departments and what opportunities such positions offer for pursuing meaningful sociological work. The workshop facilitator is Dr. Chloe E. Bird (Senior Sociologist, RAND Corporation and Professor of Sociology at Pardee RAND Graduate School). The panelists are Dr. Jerry Jacobs (Professor of Sociology, University of Pennsylvania) and Dr. Sarah Meadows (Full Social Scientist, RAND Corporation); Karen Lutfey (Senior Research Scientist and Director of the Center on Patient-Provider Relationships and the Center for Qualitative Research, at New England Research Institutes (NERI), and adjunct faculty in the Department of Sociology at Boston University); and Henry J. Steadman (President, Policy Research Associates). Participants will discuss career paths and research opportunities as well as movement between academic sociology positions, positions elsewhere in the university, and those outside the university setting.
135. Policy and Research Workshop. How You Can Link Qualitative and Census Data
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 1, Pool Level
Session Organizer and Leader: Rae Lesser Blumberg, University of Virginia
Co-Leader: Laurie Schwede, US Census Bureau
Would you like to learn a free and easy way to access the new 2010 Census data to create custom tables on topics and/or geographical areas or groups of particular interest to you? Would you like to learn how to combine both qualitative and Census data in your research? This workshop provides step-by-step instructions on how social scientists can link qualitative data and newly released 2010 Census data in mixed-methods research projects. We show these linkages of qualitative and quantitative data using our current 2010 Census evaluation study. Laurie Schwede manages a comparative ethnographic program to explore census coverage in different race and ethnic groups. Rae Blumberg conducted one of the qualitative field observation studies in the larger project. First, Laurie Schwede describes the overall study, the methodology and the use of Census data. She presents slides with step-by-step "screen-shot" instructions on how to use the newly restructured, automated American FactFinder system at www.census.gov to generate custom tables with new 2010 Census data on race/ethnicity and household and family structure. She focuses on the site where Rae Blumberg conducted her fieldwork. Second, Rae Blumberg briefly describes some of her preliminary qualitative fieldwork findings, as well as very low-cost rapid appraisal methods she developed in her research in international development; these combine well with Census data. Workshop participants can use the PowerPoint handouts as their guide to creating their own customized data tables, using the newly emerging 2010 Census data in the American FactFinder system. Voila – original research on a shoestring!

Session Organizer and Leader: Stephen A. Sweet, Ithaca College
Co-Leaders: Susan J. Ferguson, Grinnell College
Margaret L. Usdansky, Syracuse University
Carrie L. Yodanis, University of British Columbia
This interactive workshop presents pedagogical strategies that help students understand the diversity of contexts in which families form and develop. We consider issues of such as family structure, race, economic status, sexual orientation, disability, nationality, transnational mobility, labor force attachment, and the life course. Curricular materials will be shared, along with perspectives on ways to integrate diversity as a central theme in courses that focus on the family.

Discussants: Michael Lynch, Cornell University, and Diane Vaughan, Columbia University
Scientific work is driven with competition, and rivalry often turns to open dispute. Conflict among working scientists is well worthy of study and discussion. But this session takes intra-scientific conflict as a starting point to ask how practice and the contents of scientific knowledge are shaped by engagement with controversies and disputes in other domains. The often technical products of research in many fields serve as tools in and targets for larger social battles. Scientific claims about the reality and sources of global warming, for instance, are front and center in debates about economic policy, international cooperation and competition, and lasting inequities between the developed and developing world. Working scientists are active on both sides of the climate debate, raising the stakes of more mundane conflicts involving peer review, credit, and the distribution of resources in a field. Closer to home, social scientific research on the effects different family structures have on the health and well-being of children have played important roles in legal cases, ballot measures and public debates about the legality and morality of gay marriage. Almost every domain of public policy, from education reform to the regulation of financial markets involves competing scientific claims and conflicts over their validity and implications. It is difficult to imagine a contemporary controversy in which scientific research findings are not implicated. This session focuses on the science and politics of several hotly contested research areas in the natural and social sciences to begin a discussion about the relationship between scientific knowledge and social conflict.

Interaction can fail in a number of ways: requests can be refused, etiquette can fail, violence can erupt. Panelists will illustrate the study of failure using different methods, including video and audio recording, ethnography, and statistical modeling.
159. Thematic Session. The Middle Class at the Bottom: How the Recession Harmed Average Americans

Session Organizer and Presider: Deborah Thorne, Ohio University

Panel: Kevin T. Leicht, University of Iowa

Erik Scherpf, United States Department of Agriculture
Katherine Porter, Harvard University
Gregory D. Squires, George Washington University

The Recession of 2008 drew back the curtain on the financial nightmare that millions of middle-class American households were living—a paycheck-to-paycheck and debt-burdened existence. Join scholars from sociology, law, and economics to discuss some of the most crucial causes and consequences of the financial struggles that so many middle-class Americans continually confront: consumer debt, consumer bankruptcy, mortgage lending and home foreclosure, and strained familial relationships. The panelists will discuss their research specifically and the issues more generally.

Stories of Trouble: The Provision of Reasons, Blame and Trust in Contentious Performances. Marc W. Steinberg, Smith College

Discussant: Jeff Goodwin, New York University

The analysis of conflict and social change was at the heart of work by Charles Tilly. This session examines the dynamics of contention approach and various concepts (e.g., repertoires of contention and networks) that Charles Tilly left scholars to explore. Two key themes are: 1) to demonstrate how the dynamics of contention approach is useful to bridge, and thus, understand social phenomena traditionally categorized as separate areas of study; and 2) to explore how the synthesizing impulses (e.g., structure and culture, top-down and bottom-up citizen interactions) in the final body of Tilly’s work might be extended. Tilly’s work is characterized as historically grounded in nature, international and interdisciplinary in scope, and socially current. Furthermore, he sought to synthesize qualitative and quantitative data including applications of cutting edge technology. This panel explores linkages among democracy, war/terrorism and contentious repertoires by taking up some of the intriguing leads Tilly left behind.

162. Regional Spotlight Session. Multiple Dimensions and Arenas of Latinos in the Western States

Session Organizers: Andrew James Clarno and Nilda Flores-Gonzalez, University of Illinois-Chicago

Presider: Nilda Flores-Gonzalez, University of Illinois-Chicago

Immigration Politics and Policies: Differing Perceptions and Attitudes by Latino Ethnicity, Nationality. Ed A. Munoz, University of Wyoming, and Adriana Magaña, Congressional Aide for Congresswoman Diana DeGette

Latina/o Immigrant Construction Workers and Gendered Patterns of Exploitation and Resistance in Sin City. Maria Cristina Morales, University of Texas-El Paso

Las Vegas Activist Crew and the Immigrant Rights Movement: How We Transformed Sin City. Anita Revilla, University of Nevada-Las Vegas

As the fastest growing racial/ethnic group, Latinos have expanded from places where they have traditionally concentrated to new destinations across the nation. Most research on new Latino destinations focuses on the U.S. South and rural Midwest, and little is known about new destinations in the U.S. Western States (except for the southwestern states of CA, AZ and NM) where Latinos now comprise over 25% of the population. This panel brings together the latest research on Latinos in the Western Region, especially in the states of Nevada, Washington and Wyoming. The panel discusses the multiple dimensions and arenas that shape, and are in turn shaped by, Latinos in the Western states. The panel includes an exploration of attitudes towards Latinos, an examination of the work and housing experiences of Latinos, and an analysis of Latino activism.

163. Policy and Research Workshop. Research Opportunities Using the Medical Expenditure Panel Survey (MEPS)

Session Organizer and Leader: Jeffrey Rhoades, Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality

The purpose of this Workshop is to facilitate the use of the Medical Expenditure Panel Survey Household Component (MEPS HC) public use data files by the sociological research community. To meet this objective, participants are provided with a general overview of the MEPS, a description of available data files, information about on-line data tools, and some examples of the type of research projects the MEPS data can support. The Nation’s health care system has undergone major changes over the last decade; most notable is the recent passage of the Health Care Affordability Act. The MEPS is a vital national data resource designed to continually provide social science researchers, health service researchers, policymakers, and others with timely, comprehensive information about access to care, health care disparities, health care use and costs in the United States. Newly released MEPS public use files provide social science analysts with opportunities to create unique analytic files for social and policy relevant analysis in such areas of interest as access to care and health disparities. In order to capture the unparalleled scope and detail of 164. Teaching Workshop. Designing Courses and Curricula that Lead to Real Student Learning: A Fractal Approach

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Palermo, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Leader: Jeaneen H. Ballantine, Wright State University
Co-Leader: Margaret Weigers Vitullo, American Sociological Association

A fractal is an object composed of a recursive repeating pattern that occurs on a gradually changing scale, such that each of the split parts of the object is a reduced-sized copy of the whole. We use the metaphor of a fractal to describe the characteristics of curriculum and courses that are inter-related in a way that has been shown to lead to effective student learning outcomes (Diamond 2008). This workshop will take participants through the process of developing a sociology curriculum and courses from beginning conceptualization to end product and evaluation using a recursive scaling pattern that supports demonstrable student learning.

165. Minority Fellowship Program (MFP) Professional Workshop. Mentoring and Networks for Under-represented Minorities in the Sociology Pipeline

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Octavius 23, Promenade Level
Session Organizers: Jean H. Shin and Beth Moran-Floyd, American Sociological Association
Co-Leaders: Roberta M. Slater-Roth and Olga V. Mayorova, American Sociological Association; Patricia E. White, National Science Foundation

How do the race and gender of mentors affect the career trajectories of ASA Minority Fellowship Program (MFP) fellows? This workshop introduces findings from a National Science Foundation (NSF)-funded research project on the relationships among cross-race mentoring and early career productivity, placement, and retention of minority PhD recipients. The research project compares recent alumni of MFP, the NSF Dissertation Improvement Grant Program in sociology, and a group of randomly selected PhD recipients, all of whom earned the PhD between 1997 and 2009. The project asks if minority scholars, compared to whites, are mentored similarly into what the academic profession regards as “ideal” careers. If not, are they tracked into alternative career paths, or do they choose these paths? Participants in the workshop will discuss the ways in which professional development and socialization in graduate school and the early faculty career may differ according to the race/ethnicity and/or gender of mentors and mentees, the relative advantages of different data collection methods in capturing these experiences, and desirable next steps for this research.

197. Thematic Session. Conflicting Views on Childhood Gender Non-Conformity
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan IV, Promenade Level
Session Organizers: Kristen Schilt, University of Chicago; Eve Ilana Shapiro, Westfield State College
Panel: Tonya D. Lindsey, University of California-Santa Barbara
Glenn Cartman Loury, Brown University
Loïc Wacquant, University of California-Berkeley
Discussant: Victor M. Rios, University of California-Santa Barbara
Children who do not conform to normative gender expectations for their biological sex have long been a center of debate. Some psychologists offer behavioral modification for these children in an attempt to discourage atypical behaviors and identities. Such therapies often fall prey to critiques of homophobia. Gender identity organizations have argued, in contrast, that childhood gender non-conformity is benign human variation, and that the real focus of work should be teaching those around the child acceptance and support. Parenting groups have offered strategies for dealing with such behaviors in children that range from punishment to support. Underlying these contrasting views are ideas about the relationships (or lack of relationships) among gender identity, sexual identity, and biological sex. This panel will highlight divergent views on childhood gender non-conformity as a lens into a deeper discussion of the interplay between genders and sexualities, as well as cultural anxieties about transgenderism and homosexuality.

198. Thematic Session. Race and Race Relations in Mass Incarceration
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan I, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Victor M. Rios, University of California-Santa Barbara
Panel: Tonya D. Lindsey, University of California-Santa Barbara
Glenn Cartman Loury, Brown University
Discussant: Victor M. Rios, University of California-Santa Barbara
This session examines the ways in which mass incarceration impacts race and race relations. The over-policing, surveillance, and disproportionate incarceration of marginalized populations has an impact on families, children, everyday social relations, and neighborhood settings. This session adds race relations to the analytical mix, deepening our knowledge on the effects of mass incarceration on race and race relations among marginalized populations.

199. Thematic Session. The Cultural War and Red/Blue Divide: Re-examining the Debate Demographically and Behaviorally
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan II, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Presider: David A. Snow, University of California-Irvine
Panel: Ron Lesthaeghe, University of Michigan
Lisa Neidert, University of Michigan
Mark D. Regnerus, University of Texas-Austin
Pennyl Edell, University of Minnesota
June Carbone, University of Missouri-Kansas City
With each recent national election there is renewed debate as to whether there is something akin to a “cultural war” in the U.S. that...
manifests itself electorally in a “red states/blue states” divide. If approached primarily from the standpoint of public opinion survey data on political attitudes and values, it appears that assertions of a cultural war and consequential red state/blue state divide are empirically unfounded. As the political scientist Morris Fiorina argues in his Cultural Wars: The Myth of a Polarized America, the cultural war claim is essentially a journalistically promulgated mythology. “The simple truth,” he exclaims, “is that there is no cultural war in the United States.” Politically, he continues, “it is not voters who have become polarized, but the candidates they are asked to choose between….polarized alternatives can produce the appearance of polarized citizens.” But is the presumed divide that appears to assert itself during elections really just an appearance and journalistically contrived mythology? Or is there empirical substance to the state, and even community, divide that manifests itself demographically and behaviorally (e.g., what people do as well as what they believe or profess)? This question and some of the implications of the answers for understanding the cultural and political landscape of the U.S. will be examined and discussed in this session.

200. Special Session. Census Bureau and NSF SBE 2010 and Beyond (par of the Research Support Forum)
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Florentine I, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Bradley Smith, American Sociological Association
Panel: Robert M Groves, U.S. Census Bureau
Myron P Gutmann, National Science Foundation
The U.S. Census Bureau and the Social, Behavioral and Economic Sciences (SBE) Directorate of the National Science Foundation are integral in our understanding of American society. Recently released 2010 Census Data shows significant changes in U.S. population, trends that will need to be examined further. SBE supports tens of millions of dollars’ worth of sociological research and provides dissertation support. Like the rest of the federal government both the NSF and Census Bureau are facing budgetary pressures. In this session you will learn from the top-level agencies robust and up-to-date sources about new Census data, SBE program changes, and plans to keep these agencies robust and up-to-date.

201. Special Session. Challenging toward Utopia: Education Reform in the Contemporary United States

Session Organizer and Presider: Amy J. Binder, University of California-San Diego
Charter Schools Are Not Superman: The Possibilities and Limitations of Local Educational Control. Hugh Mehan, University of California-San Diego
Accountability as an Inhabited Institution: Contested Meanings and the Symbolic Politics of Reform. Tim Hallett, Indiana University
Jurisdictional Competition and the State: The Prospects for Tipping the Education Sector. Jal D. Mehta, Harvard University, and Steven Teles, Johns Hopkins University
Discussant: John B. Diamond, Harvard University
The first decade of the 21st Century has been a period in which an enormous amount of energy has been devoted to K-12 education reform. The federal-level No Child Left Behind has introduced greater accountability structures that affect state-, district-, and school-level practices; new organizational forms (Teach for America, charter management organizations) have arisen to ameliorate social inequalities; new actors (foundations, venture capital firms, business school-trained entrepreneurs) have emerged to change the educational landscape. None of this intended change has come without conflict. This panel looks at several different models of reform and the challenges and conflicts that they have faced.

202. Special Session. Revisiting Chicago Ethnographies—CANCELLED

Session Organizer: Naomi Rosenthal, State University of New York-Stony Brook
President: Gilda Zwerman, State University of New York-Old Westbury
Critics: Charis E. Kubrin, University of California-Irvine
Ramiro Martinez, Florida International University
Tyrone A. Forman, Emory University
Authors: Ruth D. Peterson, The Ohio State University
Lauren Krivo, State University of New Jersey-Rutgers
Divergent Social Worlds by Lauren J. Krivo and Ruth Peterson provides the most complete picture of the social conditions underlying neighborhood crime patterns currently available. Based on the authors’ groundbreaking National Neighborhood Crime Study (which includes economic, social, and local investment data for nearly nine thousand neighborhoods in eighty-seven cities), the findings reveal a pattern across neighborhoods of racialized separation among unequal groups. Residential segregation reproduces existing privilege or disadvantage in neighborhoods—such as adequate or inadequate schools, political representation, and local business—increasing the potential for crime and instability in impoverished non-white areas yet providing few opportunities for residents to improve conditions or leave. Krivo and Peterson show clearly that the reality of crime inequality in urban neighborhoods is no less alarming than the generally accepted view that persistently high crime rates in impoverished, non-white neighborhoods are merely the result of individual pathologies or, worse, inherent group criminality. Separate, the book emphasizes, is inherently unequal. Divergent Social Worlds lays the groundwork for closing the gap—and for next steps among organizers, policymakers, and future researchers.

Session Organizer and Presider: Andrew Lawrence Spivak, University of Nevada-Las Vegas
Panel: Sharon S. Oselin, California State University-Los Angeles
Ronald Weitzer, George Washington University
205. Professional Workshop. Serving as an Expert Witness in Courts
Session Organizer and Leader: Pamela Jean Jenkins, University of New Orleans

This session examines the legalities and illegals of prostitution and brings together different perspectives on the emergence of the modern sex industry, the extent to which prostitution engages in victimization and social harm, and the policy challenges implicit in criminalizing or regulating paid sex activity. Notable scholars who study various aspects of prostitution including the legal brothel industry, trafficking and coercion, and underage involvement, will present their findings and explore implications for the way that social and political institutions can address these issues.

206. Teaching Workshop. Promoting Quantitative Literacy in the Undergraduate Sociology Curriculum
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 2, Pool Level
Session Organizer and Leader: William H. Frey, Brookings Institution
Co-Leaders: Lynette F. Hoelter, University of Michigan
John Paul DeWitt, University of Michigan
Dana M. Greene, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill

This workshop will introduce teachers to tools and approaches toward integrating "hands on" data analysis into lower level undergraduate courses. It will feature resources available with the Social Science Data Analysis Network (http://www.SSDAN.net) from the University of Michigan's Population Studies Center and from the Online Learning Center at the Inter-university Consortium of Political and Social Research. The former makes available new data from the Census Bureau's American Community Survey while the latter provides teaching resources from several ICPSR surveys. Participants will learn about how to use the resources and adopt them in their courses. They will also be given information on how to become part of a network of faculty who will share data, classroom exercises and experiences with quantitative reasoning. Materials will be provided to assist adoption.

232. Thematic Session. Bread and Roses: Dignity and Respect as a Dimension of Labor and Working Class Struggles
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan IV, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Robert J.S. Ross, Clark University
Panel: Carolina Bank Munoz, City University of New York-Brooklyn College and Graduate Center
Gene Bruskin, American Federation of Teachers
Janice Loux, Local 26, Unite Here, Boston
Discussant: Jennifer J. Chun, University of British Columbia
This session probes the reality and symbolic meaning of the "Bread and Roses" image. The theme ("Our lives shall not be sweated, from birth until life closes; Hearts starve as well as bodies; Give us bread and give us roses.") has come to symbolize labor and working class demands for dignity and respect. "Roses" ("... art and love and beauty...") may be a dimension of social conflict overlooked or overshadowed by the demand for material decency. The concept stands as sign and symbol of the multidimensional nature of working class needs and workers' claims for full enfranchisement. The panel addresses three aspects of this matter; the duality of the struggle for material decency and social respect or dignity; the role of memory in constructing and framing struggles in the present; and the theme of inclusion of women and immigrants in past and present labor struggles.

Protest, Legitimacy, and the State in Latin America: Lessons from Nicaragua, Mexico, and Ecuador. Jon Shefner, University of Tennessee
The period of democratic transitions in Latin America was marked by high hopes that the end of authoritarian military regimes would help bring economic development, social justice, and respect for human rights to the region. Yet in the new millennium, persistent inequalities and social violence hint at the gap between progressive laws and the actualities of people's lives in contemporary electoral democracies. In the context of deep-seated inequalities—such as those based on class, gender, and race-ethnicity—this panel will probe the conditions of access to democratic citizenship in Latin America. Presenters will illuminate how conflict around a variety of social problems has created openings, presented impediments, or resulted in contradictory effects with respect to the practice of citizenship. The panel will particularly draw on ethnographic work that engages issues of exclusion, development, empowerment, and social transformation through the lens of people's lived experiences and resistance.

234. Thematic Session. Drug Trafficking, Cartels and Gangs and their Socioeconomic Impact Within and Across Borders
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan I, Promenade Level
Session Organizer: David A. Snow, University of California-Irvine
Panel: Cristian Alarcón, Argentinian Journalist
Andrew V. Papachristos, University of Massachusetts-Amherst
Tony Payan, University of Texas-Ern Paso
The general theme of this session will be on the on the socioeconomic impact of the drug trafficking associated with drug cartels and gangs. Since the tentacles of the cartels and their drug trafficking extend way beyond border communities, the session will examine and discuss drug trafficking and its socioeconomic impacts in both border cities and communities and in large major cities far removed from the borders, such as Chicago and Boston. The drug trafficking business is a global, dangerous, and consequential one, thus meriting broader scholarly examination and discussion, which this session will hopefully generate.

Global Health Governance as Shared Health Governance. Jennifer Prah Ruger, Yale University
Although sociologists have done a good deal of research on HIV/AIDS, they have mostly focused on questions about the distribution, impact, and experience of the disease and have given less attention to institutional matters. This panel, in contrast, will explore the global governance of HIV/AIDS, the institutional changes in health governance over the last 30 years, and the impact these change have had on countries in the global South. The HIV/AIDS pandemic (in its relatively short history) has initiated fundamental conflicts and important global debates about: free trade, patent protection, and access to live-saving medications; for-profit health care provision and basic human rights; poverty as a fundamental cause of ill health; the ability and/or willingness of the world to address global poverty and inequality; and equity and rights in clinical research. This panel explores these debates while discussing the important role of various global actors in attempting to govern global health, stop the spread of HIV, and address the needs of those already infected.

The Civic Foundations of Fascism in Europe: Italy, Spain and Romania, 1870-1945. Dylan John Riley, University of California-Berkeley
The Contemporary American Conservative Movement. Neil L. Gross, University of British Columbia
Discussant: David Art, Tufts University
The rise of the Tea Party movement in the US, the continuing reign of Silvio Berlusconi in Italy and of Hugo Chavez in Venezuela, or the sudden return of right-wing populism in Eastern Europe show that populism remains a powerful, global and expanding force in contemporary political life. At the same time, even though populism addresses many sociologically central themes including the construction of charisma and national identity, the social critique of capitalism and elites, as well as social movements and mass mobilization, sociologists have devoted surprisingly little attention to explaining the phenomenon. The handful of political sociologists who have studied populism tended to focus on one or only a few societies within the same geopolitical region. By contrast, the objective of this panel is to demonstrate the value of a global and comparative approach to populism as a characteristic mode of political practice at the turn of the millennium. Panelists will examine political populism in Europe, Latin America and South East Asia with the intention of identifying similarities and differences among varieties of populism and with respect to its effect on democracy. They will use the country case studies towards constructing typologies and refining the notion of populism as an analytically rigorous and useful category for comparative sociological analysis.

240. Department Workshop. Preparing for Program Review
Session Organizer and Leader: Rebecca G. Adams, University of North Carolina-Greensboro
At most colleges and universities, academic programs are reviewed on a regular cycle, generally every five-to-seven years. This workshop will be useful to departments anticipating such a routine program review. This workshop will also be useful to faculty of departments in colleges or universities where it is likely that an institution-wide program review will be undertaken in response to the current fiscal crisis in order to identify programs to be discontinued, curtailed, combined with other programs, etc. The workshop leader has had experience as an external evaluator for routine program reviews, in overseeing the preparation of the undergraduate component of a program review in the sociology department at her own university, and in facilitating the development of the process for a university-wide program review that will be ongoing at her institution during the ASA meeting. Topics to be addressed include: how to work in advance to position a program for successful review, a summary of the literature and higher education news that higher-level administrators are reading about program review, criteria commonly considered during program reviews, documentation generally required as part of program reviews, and relevant resources available through ASA and otherwise. Participants are encouraged to bring a copy of the program review guidelines currently used by their institutions to consult during the workshop.

241. Policy and Research Workshop. Opportunities for Funding Sociological Research in Education through IES
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 1, Pool Level
Session Organizer and Leader: Hiromi Ono, Washington State University
Co-Leaders: Harold S. Himmelfarb, US Department of Education
Karl Alexander, Johns Hopkins University
Mark A. Berends, University of Notre Dame

In this workshop, funders, reviewers, and grantees will discuss strategies for integrating sociological interests and methodologies with IES grant application requirements. We do so through short presentations by IES program officers (Ono and Himmelfarb), and education researchers/sociologists (Karl Alexander, Mark Berends, Barbara Schneider, and Rob Warren) who have IES grants and have been peer reviewers, followed by a Q&A discussion.

273. Thematic Session. Race, Class, Gender and Sexual Violence

Caeasars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan III, Promenade Level

Panel: Nikki Jones, University of California-Santa Barbara

Jennifer S. Barber, University of Michigan

Jocelyn Hollander, University of Oregon

Discussant: Patricia Yancey Martin, Florida State University

Sexual assault continues to be common in American society. Yet despite the impact of sexual violence on victims and their families, sociologists have neglected it as a topic of study. Race, class, gender, and sexual orientation intersect in complex ways to shape the risk of sexual victimization and its consequences. For example, both affluent white women on American college campuses and poor minority women living in inner-city areas experience sexual violence at higher rates than other groups. Recent survey data suggests that gay men may be sexually victimized at higher rates than most other groups, while lesbians experience lower risk. This panel will highlight new research on sexual violence that contributes to our collective understanding of the ways that race, class, gender, and sexual orientation shape sexual violence — in terms of levels and types of vulnerability, experiences and the meanings of victimization, strategies deployed to avoid, resist, and survive, and consequences, including unintended pregnancy or likelihood of redress.

274. Thematic Session. The Politics of Technology: Towards a Conflict Theory of Technological Emergence and Change

Caeasars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan I, Promenade Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Paul J. DiMaggio, Princeton University

Health Activism and the Sexualization of New Medical Technologies. Steven Epstein, Northwestern University

Disaster Science and Technology in the Gulf of Mexico. Scott Frickel, Washington State University

Doing Science on Saturn and Mars: The Micro-politics of Robotic Space Exploration. Janet Vertesi, Cornell University

This session highlights new work in the sociology of technology, a field of increasing vitality in light of the rise of new digital communications and information technologies and new biomedical technologies, the development of the social construction of technology and social studies of technology perspectives, and an efflorescence of historical sociological studies of technology. A distinctive contribution of the sociological perspective on technology is that it calls attention to the ways in which political conflict shapes both the construction and use of new technologies, often in ways that influence the distribution of those technologies’ benefits and risks. The 2011 Meeting Theme provides an opportunity for a comparative exploration of politics in several technical fields.
275. Thematic Session. Understanding American Race Riots

Session Organizer: Christopher Mele, State University of New York-Buffalo
Presiders: Christopher Mele, State University of New York-Buffalo; Jan C. Lin, Occidental College
Panel: Darnell M. Hunt, University of California-Los Angeles
          Jennifer Lee, University of California-Irvine
          Christopher Mele, State University of New York-Buffalo
          Daniel J. Myers, University of Notre Dame
Discussant: Jan C. Lin, Occidental College

Race riots in US cities in the twentieth century are manifestations of underlying conflict and tensions within society. As historical moments, they offer the potential to reveal “social structure in action”—how parties to the conflict act, react, and adjust to crises and how the media, the public and local social groups perceive and respond as well. This panel presents a variety of sociological perspectives on race riots and their aftermath in the US.

276. Special Session. Sociology’s Contributions to the Fight Against HIV/AIDS: Reflections from Winners of the Sociologists’ AIDS Network Career Award (co-sponsored with Sociologist AIDS Network)

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 5, Pool Level

Session Organizer and President: Teresa G. Labov, University of Pennsylvania
Panel: Judith D. Auerbach, San Francisco AIDS Foundation
          Samuel R. Friedman, National Development and Research Institute
          Catherine Campbell, London School of Economics
          Bronwen Lichtenstein, University of Alabama
Discussant: Matt G. Mutchler, California State University-Dominguez Hills

Sociologists AIDS Network (SAN) honors outstanding contributions to the Sociology of HIV/AIDS with its Career Contribution to the Sociology of HIV/AIDS award. This award recognizes work that has significantly advanced our understanding of the social aspects of the pandemic, or that has contributed to prevention, treatment, or policy interventions. Winners have pursued substantial research and/or applied work related to HIV/AIDS. These panelists are most recent winners of the competition. Each award winner will share reflections about the current and future state of the Sociology of AIDS in an area in which s/he has specialized.

277. Special Session. The ASA and the Human Rights Statement (co-sponsored with the Sociologists without Borders)

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Pompeian IV, Promenade Level

Session Organizer and President: Judith Blau, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill Panel: Louis Edgar Esparza, University of Denver
          Davita Silfen Glasberg, University of Connecticut
          Rogello Saenz, University of Texas-San Antonio
          Margaret Weigers Vitullo, American Sociological Association
Discussant: Mark Frezzo, University of Mississippi

We will highlight the August 2009 American Sociological Association statement, "Affirming and Expanding the Commitment of the American Sociological Association to Human Rights." It reads in part, "These principles include respecting the rights, dignity, and worth of all peoples and striving to serve the public good, including the advancement of human rights and freedoms." To be sure this statement captures the prevailing consensus in our discipline that, for example, racism and sexism are wrong, but it also advances principles derived from international human rights principles about socioeconomic rights and the public good. Is this an epistemological rupture? What is its significance for sociological research, practices, and theory?

278. Special Session. Visual Ethnography

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Verona, Promenade Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Scott N. Brooks, University of California-Riverside Panel: Scott Patrick Murphy, University of South Florida
          Kenneth H Laundra, University of Portland
Discussant: Douglas Harper, Duquesne University

279. Regional Spotlight Session.

Chicago’s Got a New Mayor! Race, Class, and Neighborhoods Post-Daley—CANCELLED

Session Organizer and Leader: Jan Marie Fritz, University of Cincinnati

The state of the field will be discussed, in terms of employment, at the B.A., M.A. and Ph.D levels. Participants in this workshop will discuss department approaches to the employment of sociology majors. Ideas will be presented that have been used by programs in different fields and workshop participants will design possible enhancements for their own or other programs. The workshop facilitator is Dr. Jan Marie Fritz (Professor at the University of Cincinnati, Senior Research Fellow with the Sociological Research Centre at the University of Johannesburg (South Africa) and President of the Clinical Sociology division of the International Sociological Association). The co-leaders of the workshop are Dr. China Spalter-Roth (Director of the ASA Research and Development Department and author of “Launching Majors into Satisfying Careers,” “From Programs to Careers: Continuing to Pay Attention to the Master's Degree in Sociology,” “Still a Down Market: Findings from the 2010 Job Bank Survey” and “Beyond the Ivory Tower: Professionalism, Skills Match, and Job Satisfaction in Sociology”) and Dr. Melodye Lehnerer (a faculty member with the Department of Human Behavior at the College of Southern Nevada and current Vice Chair and a former Chair of the Commission on the Accreditation of Programs in Applied and Clinical Sociology).
281. Professional Workshop. The Feminist Teaching Portfolio: Gendered Aspects of Teaching Evaluations and Course Content
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 1, Pool Level
Session Organizer and Leader: Carolyn Corrado, State University of New York-Albany
Co-Leaders: Marcia Hernandez, University of the Pacific
Tamara Lynn Smith, Westfield State College
Laura West Steck, York College-Pennsylvania
In this workshop, panelists will discuss the elements of a strong feminist teaching portfolio for job seekers and faculty going through reviews and promotions. The panel will address the components of a successful teaching portfolio, as well as the particular issues feminist teachers may wish to address. Panelists will also offer strategies for framing course content that challenges students’ stereotypic assumptions and interpreting reactionary student comments as evidence of quality teaching.

312. Thematic Session. Bullying, Harassment, and School Violence
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan II, Promenade Level

- Flirting, Teasing or Harming? Gendered and Sexualized Dimensions of Bullying and Harassment in High School. C.J. Pascoe, Colorado College
- Cyberbullying: A New Form of Harassment in Schools of Just another Moral Panic? Linda M. Waldron, Christopher Newport University
- School Bullying Experiences: LBGT Youth and the Intersections of Race and Gender. George L. Wimberly, American Educational Research Association
- Taking Sides: How Do Urban and Suburban Schools Respond to the Bullying and Harassment of Vulnerable or Marginalized Students? Paul Hirschfield, State University of New Jersey-Rutgers
- Discussant: Amy L. Best, George Mason University

This session will showcase new sociological research on bullying, harassment, and school violence. While bullying in school has long been identified as a problem, research on the topic has tended to focus on psychological aspects rather than on social dimensions. More recently, however, sociologists have identified the role that bullying and harassment play in creating and maintaining social conflicts and inequalities along lines of race, gender, and sexual orientation. The media of harassment—physical, verbal, and virtual—have also come under scrutiny by sociologists. Moreover, schools’ differential responses to various forms of violence may exacerbate inequalities, as offenses involving weapons are treated with zero tolerance (sometimes to absurd degrees, as when students are suspended for plastic knives) while harassment that does not involve weapons may be unseen or ignored by authority figures.

- Executive Pay and Perceptions of Inequality and Opportunity. Leslie McCall, Northwestern University
- Worker Advocacy in Freelance Occupational Labor Markets. Daniel B. Cornfield, Vanderbilt University
- Power, Workers, and Inequality. David Brady, Duke University

Earnings inequality has grown in the U.S. over the past quarter century for many reasons. While inequality trends respond to changes in the distribution of skills and returns to skill, these factors are themselves shaped by social and institutional forces involving employment relations, partisan politics, labor unions and collective bargaining, the gendered division of labor within households, and racial discrimination. The papers in this session will explore the connection between these factors and the current structure of earnings inequality in the U.S., and may also compare the strength and impact of these forces in America and other industrialized countries.

Session Organizer and Presider: Jack A. Goldstone, George Mason University
The Sociology of Civil War and the Changing Character of 21st Century Conflict. Stathis Kalyvas, Yale University
Old Revolutions, New Revolutions: Paths toward 21st Century Radical Social Change. John Foran, University of California-Santa Barbara
Global Trends in State Fragility and Conflict. Monty Marshall and Jack A. Goldstone, George Mason University
The Regulation of Violence in Non-state Armed Actors: Ideology, Discipline, and Organizational Structure. Elisabeth Jean Wood, Yale University
One of the more striking and still as of yet not explained, trends in global conflict is the stunning fall in civil wars and battle deaths worldwide since 1999. For example, between 1999 and 2005, the number of conflicts in Africa fell by 56%, and the number of annual battle deaths fell by 98%. Great Revolutions have been replaced by Color Revolutions, and low-casualty irregular warfare and terrorism has largely replaced conventional war. For example, in the 8-year war in Afghanistan between NATO coalition forces and the Taliban, deaths have totalled only 1,700, or about 17 per month. If this is war, it marks a radical change in what we think of as war, with displaced peoples in the millions but battle deaths only in the thousands. What factors -- global, technological, strategic -- account for this change in the nature and volume of conflicts?

316. Special Session. Achievement Gap Research for the 21st Century

Session Organizer and Presider: Angel Luis Harris, Princeton University Panel: Meredith Phillips, University of California-Los Angeles
Karolyn Tyson, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill
Keith O. Robinson, University of Michigan
Grace Kao, University of Pennsylvania
The racial achievement gap should be considered a national crisis and among the biggest social problems facing the United States during this century. With the advent of the school voucher movement and the push to end affirmative-action programs over the past decade, the issue of race-based and ethnicity-based test score gaps has garnered increased attention from policy makers and the general public. Further contributing to a sense of urgency is that 2010 marks the birth year for the first cohort of youth who will enter college in 2028, the final year of the 25-year span allotted by the 2003 Supreme Court ruling for the use of affirmative action. With the advent of the school voucher movement and the push to end affirmative-action programs over the past decade, the issue of race-based and ethnicity-based test score gaps has garnered increased attention from policy makers and the general public. Further contributing to a sense of urgency is that 2010 marks the birth year for the first cohort of youth who will enter college in 2028, the final year of the 25-year span allotted by the 2003 Supreme Court ruling for the use of affirmative action. The purpose of the panel is to bring together sociologists who study education to discuss the racial achievement gap. Specifically, each panelist will discuss 1) the state of what we currently know about the achievement gap (e.g., trends and causes), 2) the direction education researchers should take during the next decade, 3) and potential solutions to the problem.

317. Special Session. Conflicting Notions of Personhood: Theoretical Implications

Session Organizer: Stephen Vaisey, University of California-Berkeley
Panel: Jonathan H. Turner, University of California-Riverside
Lynn Smith-Lovin, Duke University
Neil L. Gross, University of British Columbia
Christine Horne, Washington State University
The central purpose is to draw attention to the importance of implicit models of persons in sociological theory, to spell out areas of conflict about them, and to think critically about the alternative options and opportunities for future work. The session will entail a panel of theorists to speak from particular perspectives on the nature of human personhood presupposed and/or advocated by their perspective, and then two respondents who discuss the presentations before opening up to general discussion.

318. Regional Spotlight Session (Las Vegas). Growth in the Mountain West: Perspectives from Brookings Institution

Session Organizer and Presider: Robert Lang, Brookings Institute and University of Nevada-Las Vegas
Panel: William H. Frey, Brookings Institute
Audrey Singer, Brookings Institute
Robert Lang, Brookings Institute and University of Nevada-Las Vegas
Christina Nicholas, University of Nevada-Las Vegas
The Mountain West—Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico, and Utah—have experienced some of the fastest population growth, demographic shift and urban transformation. Thus, the region has grown nearly three times faster than the United States as a whole over the past two decades, with majority of the growth occurring in six metropolitan areas. And while the region remains primarily white, it has experienced an increase in Hispanic population growth. The panel will use 2010 census data to examine population change, Hispanic population growth, and metropolitan expansion in the Mountain West. The panelists will then discuss the economic, social and political impacts and implications as evident of the 2010 census.

319. Policy and Research Workshop. Social Science Data Infrastructure

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 1, Pool Level
Session Organizer and Leader: Regina E. Werum, National Science Foundation
Co-Leader: Katherine Meyer, National Science Foundation
Panel: Tom W. Smith, National Opinion Research Center
Stephanie Moller, University of North Carolina-Charlotte
Salvatore Saporito, College of William and Mary
Sheela Kennedy, University of Minnesota
The Sociology Program at the National Science Foundation (NSF) supports large-scale data resources and participates in the review and funding of interdisciplinary research with other NSF programs. These include the Science, Technology and Society (STS), Innovation and Organizational Sciences (IOS), Methodology, Measurement and Statistics (MMS) and Law and Social Science (LSS), and Science of Innovation Science of Science and Innovation Policy (SciSIP) programs. In 2009 the Sociology Program renewed support for the General Social Survey (GSS);
it also supports the Luxembourg Income Study (LIS) and the International Integrated Public Micro-Data Series (IPUMS-International), and it has funded a new data resource, School Attendance Boundary Information System (SABINS). All comprise publicly available social science data that can be used by sociologists to complete comparative research, assess trends in public attitudes, and examine educational outcomes in more precise geographical locations. NSF program officers along with representatives from major NSF-supported data infrastructure projects will provide information on publicly available tools, instrumentation, shared databases and cyberinfrastructure for disciplinary and interdisciplinary research. The session is interactive; audience participation is encouraged.

Micrositualional Antecedents and Time-dynamics/morphologies of Violent Atrocities. Stefan Klusemann, University of Pennsylvania

Discussant: J. Scott Lewis, Pennsylvania State University-Harrisburg

This thematic session focuses on the crucial issue of human violence in its various forms, especially homicide, war, terrorism, and genocide. Panelists will offer contrasting perspectives on the biological, social, cultural, economic, and political conditions that produce the types and levels of violence that we observe in social life. How common is violence across the range of societies? Do humans have an innate tendency toward violence? If so, what kinds of social conditions are most likely to interact with such a tendency to elicit violence? Do the conditions that produce violence vary according to the specific type of violence, e.g., are the causal factors involved in homicide different from or similar to the factors most likely to produce war or genocide? These and other questions will be the focus of the session.

353. Thematic Session. Engaging War: Sociologists Confront National Conflict

Conceptualizations of Gender vis-à-vis Sport Hunting: Growing Conflict in the Context of National Elections. Amy J. Fitzgerald, University of Windsor

Role Conflict in the Enforcement and Prosecution of Anti-Cruelty Statutes. Eric Madris and Arnold Arluke, Northeastern University

Humans and animals are in conflict over access to resources throughout the planet. This session will focus on human/animal conflict on at least three levels. First, on a societal level, modern corporate capitalism has converted agriculture into unidimensional factory farming in which mass production of food at low cost and maximum profit causes enormous suffering to animals. Second, on an organizational level, advocacy groups seek to demonstrate the costs of this system and develop legal, social and cultural/normative strategies of resistance. Third, on a role level, inspectors, forest rangers, humane officers, and shelter workers attempt to enforce new laws and regulations governing human/animal interactions in the face of opposition from factory farmers, hunters, judges, and regular police. In this way, we hope to contribute to an increased understanding of the dynamics of human/animal conflict.

355. Thematic Session. Money as Conflict: Special Monies, Generalized Currencies and the Struggle for Financial Power

Session Organizer: Simone Polillo, University of Virginia

Sisyphus and the Sirens: Financial Innovation, Regulatory Constraints, and Polanyi’s Limits. Bruce G. Carruthers, Northwestern University

Financial Power: Then and Now. Mark S. Mizruchi, University of Michigan

Is the 2007-8 financial meltdown a crisis of financialization and government interference with the market process, or is it the result of social processes that constitute the structure of the banking system itself? This session aims to analyze the multiple dimensions of the crisis (the rise and fall of financial innovation, the articulation of projects of financial inclusion and their realization through practices of predatory lending, the rapid creation of new credit markets and their equally sudden disappearance) as the outcome of elite struggles for the acquisition of financial power.
and education are stressed, inequalities are sharpening, social cohesion is tenuous, and water and energy supplies are overextended. Las Vegas offers a microcosm of sustainability issues facing urban areas across the nation. This panel will use Las Vegas as a springboard for broader reflection on questions of environmental, social, and economic sustainability in the 21st century. Panelists will (a) discuss what urban sustainability means in the 21st century; (b) review social, environmental, and economic dimensions of sustainability; and (c) offer regional comparisons of sustainability problems throughout the United States.

356. Special Session. Postindustrial Culture and the Flexible Self: Beyond the Cubicle

Session Organizer: Allison Pugh, University of Virginia
Panel: Richard Sennett, London School of Economics
Wounded, Fragmented and Flexible: Stories of Exiles and Refugees from the Glass Cage. Yiannis Gabriel, University of Bath
Affect, Authenticity, and the Commerce of Sex. Elizabeth Bernstein, Columbia University
Betrayal Magnets, Commitment Heroes, Abandonment Entrepreneurs, and Other Symptoms of an Insecure Age. Allison Pugh, University of Virginia
Discussant: Christine L. Williams, University of Texas-Austin
This session will spotlight work by scholars who attend to the ways in which contemporary trends in work culture affect the self and intimacy and vice versa. The panel will help break through the intra-disciplinary boundaries to encourage new insights and new cross-fertilizations.

357. Author Meets Critics Session.

358. Regional Spotlight Session. Sustainable Las Vegas? Environment, Quality of Life, and Urban Living in the 21st Century

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Messina, Promenade Level

Session Organizers and Presiders: Christie D. Batson, Jennifer Keene, and Robert Futrell, University of Nevada Las Vegas
Panel: Kevin Fox Gotham, Tulane University
Sharon L. Harlan, Arizona State University
Christine L. Himes, Syracuse University
From Chicago to Las Vegas? The Housing Bubble, Ethnic Communities, Social Class and the Effects of Mortgage Foreclosures. Andrew A. Beveridge, City University of New York-Queens College and Graduate Center; Elena Vesselinov, City University of New York-Queens College
During the last two decades, vast numbers of people migrated to Las Vegas, drawn by an illusion of plenty – plenty of water, jobs, and a high quality of life. Beginning in late 2007, population and economic growth severely declined. Two decades of a surging economy and rapid population growth created massive social, economic, and ecological strains in the Las Vegas Metro region. Social services such as healthcare

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Octavius 23, Promenade Level

Session Organizer and Leader: Roberta M. Spalter-Roth, American Sociological Association
Co-Leader: Nicole M. Van Vooren, American Sociological Association
Panel: Joanna Dreby, Kent State University
Sharon Zukin, City University of New York-Brooklyn College and Graduate Center
Andrew S. London, Syracuse University
Janet M. Wilmoth, Syracuse University
Erin E. Ruel, Georgia State University
The American Sociological Association’s Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline (FAD) provides small awards up to $7,000 for groundbreaking research initiatives and related activities such as conferences. FAD is made possible through a grant to ASA from the National Science Foundation that is matched and administered by the ASA. The NSF program officer (Patricia White) will talk about the Foundation’s goals for the program and the FAD Principal Investigator (Roberta Spalter-Roth) will give an overview of the program and the grant winners. Four recent award recipients and the FAD PI will discuss the following issues: What are the chances of winning? What kinds of proposals get funded? What makes research “cutting edge” and significant for sociology as a field? How do you emphasize the scientific, social and educational impact of the proposal? How do you deal with suggestions and criticisms if you are going to revise and resubmit? The purpose of this workshop is to encourage applications, especially from scholars in the early stages of their careers and who are not necessarily in “top 10” departments. Panelists will speak from their experiences and workshop participants will be encouraged to discuss proposal ideas.

360. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Sociology Online

Session Organizer and Leader: Shondrah Tarrezz Nash, Morehead State University
Co-Leader: Anna Hall, Delgado Community College-City Park
In the workshop, “Teaching Sociology Online,” attendees are exposed to simulations of online learning exercises in sociology and web-based teaching resources. Suitable for new and experienced teachers, facilitators will demonstrate hybrid modules, wiki-based environments (Amy Traver, City University of New York at Queensborough), and gaming software (Danielle MacCartney, Webster University), which promote students’ understanding and application of sociological constructs. Challenges associated with group participation in online vs. conventional course settings (Shaunna Scott, University of Kentucky), online writing tasks, and a review of e-learning ancillaries are also explored.

391. Thematic Session. Myths of 9/11
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan II, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and President: Jeff Goodwin, New York University Panel: Diane Vaughan, Columbia University
Richard Jackson, Aberystwyth University
Albert J. Bergesen, University of Arizona
Robin E. Wagner-Pacifi, The New School for Social Research
Panelists will discuss what we actually know about the events of 9/11 as opposed to what political elites, the media, and/or the public selectively remember or claim to know about 9/11 a decade late. Panelists will discuss how 9/11 is broadly misunderstood, misremembered, and/or intentionally misrepresented for partisan purposes. The broader social and political implications of misunderstanding 9/11 versus “getting it right” will also be addressed.

392. Thematic Session. New Social Conservatism: From Family Values to the Tea Parties

Another American Exceptionalism? Contrasting Conservatism. Mabel Berezin, Cornell University
Discussant: Rhys H. Williams, Loyola University-Chicago
In the late 1980s and 1990s social politics in the U.S. was often dubbed to be a “culture war” fought largely over issues of sex, gender, and family. While those issues remain significant in American life, since the election of President Barack Obama some of the issues, and the tenor and rhetoric in which they are debated, seem to have shifted. “Tea Party” activists (originally an acronym for “taxed enough already”) began their protests with populist economic themes, although the repertoire has expanded to involve issues of race, religion, immigration, and national identity, as well as a general libertarianism. At the same time, many of the most prominent spokespersons for the Religious Right have either died or are in the background as conservative movement leaders. So have economic tea parties replaced family values? Contrary to what is often claimed, economic issues have always been an important aspect of American political life. While those issues remain significant in American life, since the election of President Barack Obama some of the issues, and the tenor and rhetoric in which they are debated, seem to have shifted. “Tea Party” activists (originally an acronym for “taxed enough already”) began their protests with populist economic themes, although the repertoire has expanded to involve issues of race, religion, immigration, and national identity, as well as a general libertarianism. At the same time, many of the most prominent spokespersons for the Religious Right have either died or are in the background as conservative movement leaders. So have economic tea parties replaced family values? Nonetheless, public opinion data have found that those with most sympathy for Tea Partiers are in other ways basically conservative Republicans – raising doubts as to whether there is really a “new social conservatism” at all. This panel will explore the current conservative politics in the U.S. through a comparative angle – comparing right-wing nationalism over time, comparing conservative mobilization to that by progressive groups, comparing European and American right politics, and examining the shifting issue formations of American public discourse.

393. Thematic Session. Scandal
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan IV, Promenade Level
Session Organizer: Ari Adut, University of Texas-Austin
Presider: Ivan Ermakoff, University of Wisconsin-Madison

394. Thematic Session. Sex, Secularism and Religion
Session Organizer and Presider: Dawn Moon, Marquette University Panel: Bernadette Barton, Morehead State University
Jason J. Hopkins, University of California-Santa Barbara
Lynne Gerber, University of California-Berkeley
Orit Avishai, Fordham University
This panel explores how the tensions between religiosity and secularism play themselves out through discourses about sexuality. The panel will begin with a presentation of quantitative data on attitudes about homosexuality, which will engage with the secularization debate. The remainder of the presentations will consider qualitative data from studies at the nexus of sexuality, religion and secularism, including such topics as how religious and secular discourses are used by rural gay men and lesbians to engage the religious right and how evangelical marriage counseling uses religious discourses to contend with secular trends.

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Pisa, Promenade Level
Session Organizer: Omar A. Lizardo, University of Notre Dame
Panel: Karen A. Cerulo, State University of New Jersey-Rutgers
Stephen Vaisey, University of California-Berkeley
Matthew Desmond, Harvard University
Daniel A. Winchester, University of Missouri-Columbia
Research in cognitive neuroscience has so not had much of an impact on the ways in which sociologists go about gathering empirical data. Nevertheless some recent theoretical statements as well as empirical projects in cultural sociology and the ethnographic study of concrete social settings suggest that taking into account insights from the cognitive neurosciences has important implications for the way in which sociological data are collected. This session to brings together sociologists from a wide spectrum of methodological specialties, quantitative and qualitative, to explore the implications of Cognitive Neuroscience in particular and Cognitive Science more broadly for current methodological practice in the social sciences.

396. Special Session. Racial and Sexual Politics: Examining Trends and Meanings of Interracial Relationships
Session Organizer: Rebecca E. Klatch, University of California-San Diego

398. Regional Spotlight Session. Local Faith Activists on Justice, Community Revitalization, and Intergroup Reconciliation
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Milano VIII, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Omar M. McRoberts, University of Chicago
Panel: Jane Ramsey, Jewish Council on Urban Affairs
Noel Castellanos, Christian Community Development Corporation
Reverend Calvin Morris, Community Renewal Society
Zalmay Gulzad, Harold Washington College-Chicago
Chicago is known as a city of lively and contentious politics, but the religious dimensions of this political culture are rarely highlighted. This regional spotlight panel features distinguished faith activists working for social and economic justice, community revitalization, or reconciliation across religious and racial/ethnic lines in Chicago. Panelists will discuss their work within particular regions of Chicago's religious landscape, and reflect on the way religious institutions, populations, and identities shape patterns of public engagement in Chicago's unique political milieu.

Session Organizers: Roberta M. Spalter-Roth and Janene Scelza, American Sociological Association
Leader: Jerry A. Jacobs, University of Pennsylvania
As with other professional associations we are concerned about the future of our discipline and profession. If there are no jobs for new PhDs the discipline will not renew itself and ultimately its perspectives, understandings and modes of analyses will fade or be usurped by other disciplines. The purpose of this workshop is to provide information about the status of the job market to faculty members, to director’s of graduate studies, and to recent PhDs or to PhD candidates who are concerned about their futures. We’ll present the findings from the 2010 survey of 2010-2011 jobs. We can’t paint too rosy a picture of the academic job market, but there may be some reasons for optimism. We’ll provide information about the prime time for hiring, most advertised specialties, and departments in which jobs are located. We would like workshop participants to discuss the following issues: faculty or candidate activities or strategies that will increase the competitiveness of PhD candidates; views of applied, policy, and research positions; and what additional information would be useful.

402. Policy and Research Workshop. NSF Interdisciplinary Funding Opportunities
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 1, Pool Level
Session Organizer and Leader: Regina E. Werum, National Science Foundation
Co-Leaders: Katherine Meyer, National Science Foundation
R. Saylor Brekenridge, Wake Forest University
James R. Elliott, University of Oregon
This session targets graduate students, faculty, and researchers who are interested in submitting proposals that take an interdisciplinary approach and/or are aimed at an interdisciplinary audience. Representatives from the National Science Foundation (NSF), its research review committees and grantees will discuss the various interdisciplinary funding opportunities at NSF; elements of a competitive proposal, and the proposal submission and review process. The format will be interactive, allowing for audience questions and participation.

403. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Introduction to Sociology
Session Organizer and Leader: Susan J. Ferguson, Grinnell College
This teaching workshop focuses on the development of and different pedagogical approaches to creating introductory courses in sociology. Workshop participants will actively discuss and share ideas about how to design an Introduction to Sociology course. We will begin with a discussion of our learning goals and objectives before analyzing examples of syllabi and assignments that emphasize different objectives. Participants in this workshop will also look at diverse types of readings, texts, and films that are currently used in Introduction to Sociology courses. As time permits, we will discuss methods of assessing student learning at the introductory level and challenges to teaching this course.

Session Organizer: Isaac A. Reed, University of Colorado-Boulder
Getting Real: A Case for Standpoint Epistemology. Joey Sprague, University of Kansas Tolerant Knowledge. Andrew Abbott, University of Chicago
Macro-Phenomenology and Modernity: Toward a New Dispensation for General Social Theory. John R. Hall, University of California-Davis
Theory in Ethnography: Notes Towards a Relational Case Method. Paul R. Lichterman, University of Southern California
Discussant: Claire Laurier Decoteau, University of Illinois-Chicago
In the last 15-20 years, shifts in theory and epistemology have combined with innovative research techniques to reorient debates about knowledge of social life. To name a few: the advent of scientific and critical realism as philosophies of social science, the claims made by cultural sociology to give sociological explanations, new thinking on causality in comparative-historical sociology, the development of network theory, and the emergence of new objects of study (e.g. “Empire”). This session would reflect this reorientation—away from postmodernism vs. scientism, and towards new, positive models of social knowledge which are indeed in conflict, but which also push debate forward.

431. Thematic Session. Learning from Intractable Social Conflict

Conflicts of Values, Conflicts of Visions: Some Examples from Climate and Environmental Struggles Exploring the Dynamics of Interests versus Altruism. Nicola Bullard, Focus on the Global South
How We Remember to Forget: Collective Memory and America’s Forever Wars. John Hagan, Northwestern University
Discussant: Calvin Morrill, University of California-Berkeley
Social conflicts that are deeply rooted, destructive, and persist despite repeated attempts at resolution are often defined as “intractable.” Cases of intractable conflict can be found in virtually every region of the world, involving a variety of social, cultural, economic, governmental, climatological, and population dynamics. Although sociologists have long been interested in social conflict, few scholars in the discipline have devoted themselves to understanding intractable social conflict. What can we learn sociologically from cases of escalating and de-escalated intractable social conflict? What insights can sociology, other social sciences, and those working on the front lines of these conflicts offer toward understanding how to think about intractable social conflict, the potential for social justice, and the conditions under which such conflicts escalate and de-escalate? Why haven’t intractable social conflicts occupied the theoretical imaginations, if not the empirical and policy foci, of more sociologists and social scientists, more generally?

432. Thematic Session. Political Conflicts over Same-sex Marriage

Session Organizer: Amy L. Stone, Trinity University
Presider: Verta A. Taylor, Univ. of California - Santa Barbara
Altered States: Legal Structuring and Relationship Recognition in the United States and Australia. Mary Bernstein and Nancy A. Naples, University of Connecticut
Same-Sex Marriage Politics in Sub-Saharan Africa. Ashley Currier, Texas A&M University, and Tara A McKay, University of California-Los Angeles
Losing Same-Sex Marriage at the Ballot Box. Amy L. Stone, Trinity University
It Seemed Like There Were Droves of Lesbians*: Explaining the Gender Gap in Same-Sex Marriage. Katrina E. Kimport, University of California-San Francisco
Discussant: Verta A. Taylor, University of California-Santa Barbara
Whether or not same-sex couples can access the social institution of marriage is one of the most divisive social conflicts of our time. This conflict has resulted in political outcomes such as national legislation to restrict the federal definition of marriage and the repeal of same-sex marriage at the ballot box recently in states like California and Maine. This thematic session will explore same-sex marriage in the electoral and legislative arenas, contextualizing these conflicts within a larger history of social injustice in the United States and elsewhere.

433. Thematic Session. The Politics of Punitiveness: Race, Class, and Partisanship
Session Organizer and Presider: Pamela E. Oliver, University of Wisconsin-Madison
Unpacking the Punitive Turn in the American States: Race, Politics and Incarceration, 1977-2004. Kecia Johnson, State University of New York-Albany; Karen Heimer, University of Iowa; Andres Felipe Rengifo, University of Missouri-St. Louis; Joseph Lang, University of Iowa
Strange Fruit Incorporated: Toward and Understanding of Historical African American Persecution from 1800-2010. Christian Davenport, University of Notre Dame
This session brings together scholars to assess the state of thinking on the interplay between politics and punitiveness, both for the period of rising incarceration and disparity 1970-1995 and the more complex patterns of the past decade. One question underlying the session is whether political ideas of repression are relevant to the politics of crime control.

434. Special Session. Current Perspectives on Altruism, Morality, and Social Solidarity
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Trevi, Promenade Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Vincent Jeffries, California State University-Northridge
Civil and Uncivil Solidarities. Jeffrey C. Alexander, Yale University

Social Solidarity, Altruism, and Mutual Aid: Sociological Concepts of Piotr Kropotkin and Pitirim Sorokin Revised. Nikita Pokrovsky, State University-Higher School of Economics-Moscow
Discussant: Edward A. Tiryakian, Duke University
Papers in this session examine current research and theoretical development in the study of altruism, morality, and social solidarity. In the most general sense, this subject matter consists of intentions and actions to benefit the welfare of others. Examples are generosity, benevolence, philanthropy, intergroup cooperation, and universalizing solidarity. The subject matter also consists of ideas about good and evil and right and wrong. Both these interrelated phenomena span the micro-macro continuum, ranging from individuals, to forms and norms of interaction, to organizations and their normative cultures, and to the global social and cultural systems. This session introduces the study of altruism, morality, and social solidarity as a distinct field of sociological practice. The comprehensive nature and diversity of the field is reflected in the papers.

435. Special Session. The China Century?
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 4, Pool Level
Session Organizer: Feng Wang, University of California-Irvine
Presider: Yang Su, University of California-Irvine
Panel: Xueguang Zhou, Stanford University; Andrew G. Walder, Stanford University; Saskia Sassen, Columbia University
Discussant: Neil Fligstein, University of California
The twenty-first century may well be called “the China Century.” China’s global economic power, relatively minuscule only three decades ago, is now becoming the most powerful in the world (China’s GDP as the world’s total was only 5 percent in 1979 and reached 17 percent in 2006). With its rising economic power, continental geographic size, and the world’s largest population, China is well poised to be the most consequential force reshaping the world political economic order in the next fifty years if not longer. Just as the twenty-century Chinese revolutions that shook the world and provided rich materials for sociological imaginings and understanding, China’s “peaceful rise” in the twenty-first century poses similarly if not more challenging questions. This thematic session brings together a unique mix of prominent scholars, some have studied China from “within” and others have observed from “a far,” but all have a common interest to put China within a comparative, historical, and global context. The aim of the session therefore is not so much about what has been happening within China, but the broad sociological and political economy implications of China’s ascendance on the global scene, and the questions they raise for sociological research.

436. Regional Spotlight Session (Las Vegas). Racial Conflict and Harmony in Las Vegas: Historical and Contemporary Struggles
Session Organizer and Presider: Shannon M. Monnat, University of Nevada-Las Vegas
Panel: Robert Joseph McKee, University of Nevada-Las Vegas; Trish Geran, F-Street Coalition; Earnest Bracey, College of Southern Nevada; Jacob Avery, University of Michigan
The panelists in this session will explore the history of racial conflict in Las Vegas, from discrimination against and segregation of black entertainers in the 1940s to the recent F Street closure that effectively blocked a predominantly black community from the business and tourist districts in the city. Panelists will compare strategies employed for racial harmony and solidarity in Las Vegas and Atlantic City with an emphasis on the role of casinos in desegregation and race relations among the city’s poorest and most disadvantaged citizens – the homeless.
437. Department Workshop. Peer Review of Teaching: Moving Beyond Student Evaluations
Session Organizer and Leader: Thomas L. Van Valey, Western Michigan University
Recent trends in higher education have called for new emphasis on the peer review of teaching. In the peer review of research, reviewers see only a final product, usually after several drafts and revisions have been carefully completed. In contrast, peers who review teaching typically see elements of the entire process. Moreover, this may include samples of student work and both positive and negative student responses, as well as a range of materials dealing with different dimensions of the instructor’s experience. It is, therefore, no surprise that many faculty find the peer review of their teaching to be threatening. This workshop will offer a rationale for the peer review of teaching, suggest strategies for starting the conversation about peer review, describe some of the techniques available for peers to refine their colleagues’ teaching, and provide resources. In addition, it will offer participants an opportunity to discuss local issues and devise strategies for dealing with them.

438. Professional Workshop. Negotiating Motherhood in the Academy
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 2, Pool Level
Session Organizer and Leader: Adina Nack, California Lutheran University
Co-Leaders: Jaya Misra, University of Massachusetts
Marjukka Ollilainen, Weber State University
Catherine Richards Solomon, Quinnipiac University
The co-leaders of this workshop will provide insight and information about trends in family-leave policies in colleges and universities, as well as the particular challenges that mothers face when navigating academic careers. While no papers will be presented, several of the co-leaders have research family-leave policies in higher education and the range of social factors that shape work-life issues for faculty parents. Findings consistently reveal the ways in which faculty fathers are often privileged over faculty mothers. Discussion will center on individual and collective strategies that can be employed to improve policies, reform professional norms, and better promote mothers’ career satisfaction and success in academia.

439. Policy and Research Workshop. Self and Social Identities: Implications for Research and Teaching
Session Organizer and Leader: Linda P. Rouse, University of Texas-Arlington
A major area in social psychology, exploring self and social identities has wide appeal to researchers, teachers, clinical practitioners, policy makers, and the general public. Accordingly, it provides sociologists with an instructive vehicle for considering how our work is best shared with others, both within and outside our own discipline. In keeping with the theme of this year’s meeting, the social construction of self and identities is understood as occurring individually, interactionally, and societally— at each level, with its own distinctive tensions, conflicts, resolutions, and changes.

440. Teaching Workshop. The Art and Science of Selecting Textbooks
Session Organizer and Leader: Nancy A. Greenwood, Indiana University-Kokomo
How often do we put the cart before the horse and select our textbooks before we have done our homework? Do textbooks drive the organization and content of your courses? In this workshop we will discuss the textbook/book selection process for any sociology course. We will consider the critical information needed before the selection process begins including knowledge of student characteristics, campus mission, course goals, course design issues, and pedagogy. We will look at using traditional textbooks, edited readers, supplemental trade books, primary sources (such as journal articles and research monographs) as well as books written for a nonacademic audience including nonfiction books written for the general population and fiction. While we will not provide specific recommendations for any course, we will provide a checklist of items to consider when choosing reading materials to better ensure good fit. Participants should come with questions related to textbooks or reading material. Ample time will be provided for discussion and interaction with others in the session.

7:00 am Meetings

ASA Business Meeting—Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Augustus I & II, Emperors Level

The ASA Business Meeting is an opportunity for members of the Association to discuss important issues facing the discipline and profession. Members are encouraged to attend this meeting convened by the ASA President, Randall Collins.

Summary reports on the Association and its key activities this year will be given by President Randall Collins, Secretary Catheine White Berheide, and Executive Officer Sally T. Hillsman. The meeting concludes with the traditional transfer of the gavel, marking the transition of duties from President Randall Collins to incoming President Erik Olin Wright.

This open forum is an opportunity for members to share their insights, reactions, and suggestions. Please consult the flyer in your convention tote bag for details on the Business Meeting agenda.

As noted in the May/June issue of Footnotes and the posting of meeting information on the ASA website, members seeking to present formal resolutions should be prepared to provide background materials on the issue to be discussed. Members who missed the July 1 submission deadline may bring their resolutions and supporting background documentation to the ASA Office in Office 4 on the Promenade Level of the hotel by 3:00 pm on Monday, August 22.

460. Thematic Session. New Immigrants vs. Blacks Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan III, Promenade Level

Session Organizer: Robert E. Washington, Bryn Mawr College

The Impact of Immigration on the Black American Working Class. Gerald Jaynes, Yale University

Caste Complexities in a Southern Town: Some Hypotheses on Blacks and New Immigrants. Elijah Anderson, Duke W. Austin, Craig Holloway, and Vani Kulkarni, Yale University

Blacks, Immigration, and the New Configurations of Racial Identity

In American Society. Robert E. Washington, Bryn Mawr College

This session examines the ways in which recent immigration has affected the black American community and the structure of American race relations. It focuses on several interrelated issues—the ways in which the presence of recent immigrants in the South has complicated the caste structure produced by the legacy white supremacy; the economic impact of immigration on the black working class; and the broader effects of upward black mobility and immigration in creating new configurations of racial identity in American society.

Session Organizer: David A. Snow, University of California-Irvine

Presider: Francesca Polletta, University of California-Irvine

The 2008 Presidential Election and New Digital Technologies: Grassroots Empowerment or Elite Control? Victoria L. Carty, Chapman University

From Twitter to Online Petitioning: Comparing Styles of Online Protest Mobilization. Jennifer Earl, University of California-Santa Barbara

Form, Feeling, and Force in Digital Activism. Guobin Yang, Barnard College

Discussant: Francesca Polletta, University of California-Irvine

Recent political events, such as the Obama campaign and election and the ongoing mobilizations in Iran in protest to the reelection of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, have focused increasing attention on the role of the Internet and new communication technologies, such as texting and twittering, in protest and political mobilization. This session will explore and discuss that connection, focusing on the extent to which and ways in which recent advances in communication technologies facilitate political mobilization, whether these technologies can generate long-term as well as short-term mobilization, state responses to the use of these communicative advances in challenging the state, and whether these new technologies are giving rise to a new repertoire of contention.
462. Thematic Session. The Future of Academia: Political Conflict

Session Organizer and Presider: Steven G. Brint, University of California-Riverside Panel: Craig Calhoun, Social Science Research Council
Jerry A. Jacobs, University of Pennsylvania
Josipa Roksa, University of Virginia
Edward St. John, University of Michigan
Mitchell L. Stevens, Stanford University

The "Great Recession" of 2008-9 led to sharp drops in endowments at private universities and dramatic cutbacks in state funding of public universities. State disinvestment from public universities accelerated a trend noticeable since the 1980s. As a result of these changes, many private universities have abandoned need-blind admission and become more sensitive to students' ability to pay. Many public universities have enrolled large proportions of out-of-state students, who pay higher tuitions. UC-Berkeley, for example, expects to move from 11 percent out of state students to over 20 percent out of state students in just one year. Class sizes have grown, even as the numbers of students enrolled have decreased on many campuses. Six years has become the norm for graduation, not four, and increasing numbers of students have become discouraged by large classes and the difficulties of registering for the classes they need. Many institutions have frozen or cut faculty salaries, and the long-term contraction of arts and sciences disciplines has accelerated. Although the conflict over scarce resources has led to an overall loss in human capital creation and the weakening of many disciplines and institutions, it has also strengthened the position of some, including students from high-income families, faculty who bring large amounts of grant money, interdisciplinary fields, disciplines closely connected to occupations in high demand, and flagship public universities capable of enrolling large numbers of out-of-state and international students.

463. Special Session. Nonviolent Strategies and Tactics

Session Organizer and Presider: Lester R. Kurtz, George Mason University Panel: Stephen Zunes, University of San Francisco
Erica Chenoweth, Wesleyan University
Sharon Erickson Nepstad, University of New Mexico
Discussant: Lester R. Kurtz, George Mason University

This special session explores the use of nonviolent strategies and tactics for pursuing group and societal interests. The discussion will include the use of nonviolent strategies and tactics by the military and social movements; the relationship between the military and civil society; and effective processes for formulating and evaluating alternatives to organized violence.

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 4, Pool Level

Session Organizers and Presiders: Jennifer Keene, Christie D. Batson, and Barbara G. Brents, University of Nevada-Las Vegas
Panel: Miliann Kang, University of Massachusetts-Amherst
Anastasia H. Prokos, Iowa State University
Rhacel Salazar Parrenas, University of Southern California
Jennifer Keene, University of Nevada-Las Vegas
Christie D. Batson, University of Nevada-Las Vegas

Labor and labor organization has changed dramatically in a globalized economy. In recent decades tourism has become the world's largest employer; migration is changing traditional patterns of employment, and the sex industry is growing and increasingly mainstream. Las Vegas has been severely impacted by the recent recession, with a 15% unemployment rate, the highest foreclosure rates in the country, and a virtual standstill of construction industry that drove growth in the past 20 years. Yet, the Strip is still "working" as one of the largest tourist economies in the world. This panel will use Las Vegas as a foil to examine labor relations and evolving forms of service work in the context of racial, class and gender inequality. In this dynamic tourist economy, local unions have been highly influential, sex work and sexualized labor has remained a major force, and the local labor force composition has been transformed. Panelists will discuss labor force trends in Las Vegas and explore the place of service work, sex work, and labor unions in one of America's favorite desert resort cities.

Session Organizer and Leader: Katie Genadek, University of Minnesota

The Integrated Public Use Microdata Samples (IPUMS) team will host a workshop focusing on how to use the IPUMS database for research. The session will cover the data available, explain how the datasets were created and integrated, demonstrate how they can be obtained free of charge through the web-based extraction system, and give examples of using the data for sociological research.

A Perfect Storm: Drugs, Guns and Dangerous Masculinity on the U.S./Mexican Border. Carol Elizabeth Mueller, Arizona State University-West
Discussant: Mangala Subramaniam, Purdue University
This panel explores the linkages between various types of insecurity related to conflict and violence. Although conventional notions of security have tended to focus on protecting states from external attack, the concept of human security looks at a broader range of insecurities that individuals and communities face in the context of war and civil conflict. The concept of human security is an alternative frame to human rights for considering the variety of crises facing people in conflict situations. While rights frames tend to focus on harms done to individuals after the fact, security frames are argued to have the potential of being more collective and preventive ways of thinking about the implications of violence and conflict. The panel will mix theoretical and practical perspectives on human security, considering this framing both in the abstract and in particular applications.

We Are the Ones We Have Been Waiting For: Experience, Identity, and Community in Post-Racial Discourse. Emily Noelle Ignacio, University of Washington-Tacoma
What’s New about New Racial Studies? Howard Winant, University of California-Santa Barbara
Current racial dynamics—and racial conflicts—are the product of the partial and contradictory victories of racial justice movements themselves. The “politicization of the social,” in particular, both empowered new voices and generated new forms of reaction and repression. “Living race,” and perforce engaging in racial politics in the wake of the racial upheavals of the late 20th century, is the subject of this panel.

490. Thematic Session. Violence in Sports
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Neopolitan IV, Promenade Level
Session Organizer: Eric Dunning, University of Leicester
Panel: Eric Dunning, University of Leicester
Discussant: Jay Coakley, University of Leicester
The issue of violence in and around sports is best approached from a developmental or historical perspective. More particularly, it is widely believed that sports are currently becoming, world-wide, more and more violent at both the player and the spectator levels. The overwhelming body of available empirical evidence, however, suggests that modern sports grew out of older forms (such as those found in Ancient Greece and Rome and Feudal Europe) that were considerably wilder emotionally and physically more violent. In a word, modern sports seem to have developed as part of what the late Norbert Elias (1897 – 1990) called a ‘civilising process’. The core values that emerged in that connection and which remain stressed at an ideological level in sport today emphasise(d) as desirable such traits as 'fair play', don't hit an opponent when he or she is down etc'. As this last sentence suggests, modern sports may have started as a male preserve but they are now played by women and girls as well as men and boys, a fact which is suggestive of an equalising trend as part of the wider trend towards greater 'civilisation'. The contrast between the Ancient Greek Olympics and their counterpart today provides further corroboration of this putative body of facts. However, there is a growing body of evidence which suggests that violence in and around sports has been on the increase world-wide since the 1960s as part of a wider 'decivilising process' throughout the West.

493. Policy and Research Workshop. Public Sociology and the Challenges of Studying Controversial Topics

Session Organizer and Leader: Orit Avishai, Fordham University
Co-Leaders: Lynne Gerber, University of California-Berkeley
Jennifer A. Reich, University of Denver
Harel Shapira, Columbia University

Public sociology instructs us to leverage our empirical findings and expertise to engage in political activism, promote social justice, shape debates about public policy, and generally engage audiences outside academia. Yet, not all spaces and topics can be easily enlisted to further progressive social change, and some research topics are so controversial that researchers who disseminate their research prematurely jeopardize access to sensitive research sites and subjects. This workshop brings together sociologists who have grappled with the tension between the public sociology mandate and the realities of studying controversial and sensitive topics and groups. Panelists will share practical solutions and suggest workable guidelines for all stages of research and reflect on sociological practice and the public sociology vision more generally.

494. Teaching Workshop. Getting Published in TRAILS: Teaching Resources and Innovations Library for Sociology

Session Organizer and Leader: Margaret Weigers Vitullo, American Sociological Association

TRAILS is the first ever interactive, on-line digital library of peer-reviewed teaching materials for sociology. In addition to providing thousands of teaching resources in over 70 subject areas, it also provides a new way for faculty to demonstrate their teaching excellence for promotion and tenure committees. The first part of the workshop will include a brief history of the ASA's Teaching Resource Center (TRC) and explain how TRAILS fits into and extends the TRC tradition. Next, participants will be introduced to TRAILS and learn how to navigate the site as a user. The third part of the workshop will include a detailed discussion of the criteria that TRAILS area editors use when evaluating new submissions, and provide a step-by-step demonstration of the TRAILS online submission system.

The crossroads of racial identity, racism, and citizenship are at well documented historical significance and contestation in North America. In our current moment, the intersection of racial membership and national belonging remains no less a central and polemic theme: from the election of the United States’ first black (or multi-racial) president, to the discourse that frames select racial groups as either biologically or culturally deficient in their ability to carry out their “proper” roles as citizens. Accordingly, this session hopes to tease out how the concepts of citizenship, racial identity, and racism collide and eddy off one another in diverse registers—from how people make meaning of rising non-white immigration via old and new understandings of Anglo-conformity, melting-pot, and pluralist ideologies; how policy and law is constructed for and against the interests of some racial groups under supposedly “colorblind” auspices; and how the boundaries of racial identity are in flux due to a growing amount of people claiming a multi-racial and multi-national heritage and consciousness.

Discussant: Robert L. Nelson, American Bar Foundation
Careers are a lens through which to examine changes in the organizational structure of work that suggest an increase in within-group inequality on the one hand and changes in gender disparities at different points in the occupational hierarchy on the other. To what extent is the economic advancement of women facilitated or inhibited by changes in the earnings and organizational structure of the economy and, conversely, to what extent are changes in the supply side of the market – women's market attachment – shaping broader economic and organizational dynamics? How do these dynamics differ for job paths and careers at the top, middle, and bottom of the economy? The goal of this panel is to bridge the study of gender disparities in careers – including those at the top of the job ladder as well as those lower down – with the in-depth study of organizational and economic change.

516. Thematic Session. The New Surveillance Ages: A Retrospective
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Milano VIII, Promenade Level
Session Organizer: Gary T. Marx, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Presider: Susan S. Silbey, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Panel: Jim Rule, Center for the Study of Law and Society
Gary T. Marx, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
David Lyon, Queen's University
Discussants: Margaret K. Nelson, Middlebury College; William G. Staples, University of Kansas
The New Surveillance Ages: A Retrospective
in 1974 James Rule wrote Private Lives and Public Surveillance, in 1988 Gary T. Marx wrote Undercover: Police Surveillance in America and in 1994 David Lyon wrote The Electronic Eye: The Rise of Surveillance Society. These books helped define the emerging interdisciplinary field of surveillance studies (see for example http://www-surveillance-and-society.org/ojs/index.php/journal). In this session the authors will reflect on questions such as: what developments have most surprised you in the subsequent years? if you were to rewrite your book today what major changes would you make? Have the basic issues changed or only the details? When do quantitative changes become qualitative changes? Is differential access to information the new social stratification? Is there need for a distinctly sociological perspective on the issues, if so what differentiates it from the views of so many related social science fields studying the topic? What are the most important social research and policy questions the field faces now? Imagine writing an equivalent book a decade hence, what new issues will likely appear?

Daily Job Stressors and the Crossover Stress Responses in Children. David Almeida, Pennsylvania State University
Discussant: Rosalind Berkowitz King, National Institute of Child Health and Human Development
Both research and public attention to work-family conflicts have flourished as women's labor force participation rates have increased, men's involvement in daily family tasks have shifted (with changes in family structure and changes in gender roles), and the social contract undergirding even “good jobs” has frayed. The last decade has seen the development of two streams of research that have deliberately portrayed work-family conflicts as a public concern with implications beyond individual well-being or family decision-making. The first stream of research focuses on gender equity and discrimination claims. Sociologists and economists have investigated the “motherhood penalty” as an important source of the gender wage gap, while social psychologists and legal scholars have examined cognitive bias towards mothers in the workplace and related legal claims. Some work documents the limited benefits of employers’ family-friendly policies and the often negative effects career consequences for those employees who take advantage of these options. The second stream of research emphasizes the health consequences of work-family conflict for employees, their families, and the broader public. “Non-standard work hours,” unpredictable work schedules, and unsupportive supervisors have now been associated with work-family conflict and with health outcomes and behaviors (including psychological distress, cardiovascular risk, sleep disruption, and healthy meals). Although there are important exceptions, the gender research has seemed most relevant to those in the middle-class and above while the health research has increasingly documented the work-family challenges and related health consequences of workers in lower status and low-income jobs. This session will highlight recent empirical work in this area and foster dialogue between scholars who have framed their work-family research as primarily a gender or a health issue.

This session will bring together a variety of research agendas whose focus is on the response of local governments to a growing immigrant (including non-citizen and undocumented) population. While federal governments (in the U.S. and abroad) set the agenda for immigration policy, state and local governments have begun to craft their own immigrant policies, some of which are testing legal limits (Rodriguez et al. 2007). Emerging research from political sociology has indicated two emerging trends: On the one hand, some local governments are enacting more restrictive policies, such as empowering local law enforcement to carry out federal immigration mandates, restricting landlords from renting to undocumented residents, and deputizing state workers to report undocumented clients. On the other hand, some cities and counties have opted to stretch the boundaries of membership, and have spurred policies such as expanded healthcare for undocumented residents, non-citizen voting, and municipal IDs. Papers in this session will explore the contested political and bureaucratic processes that local governments undergo to enact these immigrant policies as well as the impacts on immigrant communities. While significant research is emerging in U.S. sites, the panel would welcome examples from international research as well.

521. Professional Workshop. Successful Management of State Sociological Associations

Session Organizers: Alan G. Hill, Delta College; Vinetta Goodwin Witt, Newberry College; Xiao-Qing Wang, Cottey College
Leader: Alan G. Hill, Delta College

This workshop will discuss strategies of how to successfully manage state sociological associations, how to get more sociologists involved in state sociological conferences, and how to foster good working relationships with regional and national organizations. At the 2010 annual meeting of the National Council of Sociological Associations (NCSA), there was a consensus that one main focus of state sociological associations should be teaching and involving undergraduate students in research, especially undergraduates from community colleges, which often are a neglected large population of sociology students. Strategies include providing teaching workshops and training of how to use on-line resources for sociologists teaching sociology and involving undergraduates in annual conferences of state sociological associations, by encouraging them to present academic papers and posters. Everyone interested in state sociological associations is welcome to attend the workshop. Officers of state associations can also share their successful experience of managing state sociological associations and give suggestions and advice on how to make a good use of state sociological associations to serve the purposes of teaching and learning sociology.

522. Policy and Research Workshop. Using Data from the Wisconsin Longitudinal Study

Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 1, Pool Level

Session Organizer: Robert M. Hauser, University of Wisconsin-Madison
Leader: Carol Lynn Roan, University of Wisconsin-Madison

The Wisconsin Longitudinal Study (WLS) is a long-term study of a random sample of 10,317 men and women who graduated from Wisconsin high schools in 1957. It has been supported by the National Institute on Aging since 1991. The WLS provides an opportunity to study the life course, intergenerational transfers and relationships, family functioning, physical and mental health and well-being, and morbidity and mortality from late adolescence through age 65. WLS data also cover social background, youthful aspirations, schooling, military service, labor market experiences, family characteristics and events, social participation, psychological characteristics, and retirement. Survey data have been collected from the graduates or their parents in 1957, 1964, 1975, 1992, and 2004; from a selected sibling in 1977, 1994, and 2005; from the spouse of the original respondent in 2004; from the spouse of the selected sibling in 2006; and from widow(er)s of the graduates and siblings in 2006-07. Public data are currently available from all collection rounds except the widows. In addition we are currently processing DNA samples from graduates and randomly selected siblings. Almost 85 percent of surviving graduates continue to participate in the WLS. Public data, documentation, and publications are available online at http://www.ssc.wisc.edu/wlsresearch/.

Anti-Immigrant Backlash in the Wake of Immigrant Rights Marches and the Recession. Monica McDermott, Stanford University
Reexamining Immigrants as Threats: Analyzing Local Responses to Newcomers. Kim Ebert, North Carolina State University, and Dina G. Okamoto, University of California-Davis Explaining Xenophobia in Switzerland. Andreas Wimmer, University of California-Los Angeles

The session will focus on sources of ethnic conflict, immigration, and the challenges these issues pose to national identity. In the face of rising immigration, multicultural policies that once received broad support in industrialized countries now face the very real possibility of being abandoned with continuing collective violence against newcomers in most industrial nations, some have claimed that the integrity of existing nation-states is being challenged by ongoing conflict. Sociology contributes directly to this debate by analyzing how immigration can produce ethnic social movements aimed at defending national identity. Consider a few recent examples. In 2009-2010, U.S., anti-immigrant legislation and restrictive laws regarding immigrant health care have been introduced in multiple states. Vigilante activity along the Mexican-US border has continued, despite the declining rate of illegal migrants coming across the border. In July 2008, France's highest court denied citizenship to a Moroccan-born woman, because she wore a Burqa. In late 2009, minarets atop Mosques were banned in Switzerland. Fierce anti-immigrant riots erupted in mid-January of 2010, in Calabria. While anti-foreigner violence is certainly not new, the rising number of violent attacks in many settings seems to be increasing. However, we know little about the causal patterns producing these movements. Because the issue of ethnic conflict and national identity is a critical source of conflict worldwide, this session will take an international perspective and identify the major causal factors producing these events.
544. Thematic Session. Terrorism and Countering Terrorism: Micro and Macro-Level Dynamics
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Milano VIII, Promenade Level
Session Organizers and Presiders: Gary LaFree and Brandon Behlendorf, University of Maryland
The Birth and Death of Terrorist Organizations. J. Craig Jenkins, and Kristopher K. Robison, The Ohio State University

Organizational Characteristics and Relationships: A Social Network Assessment of Terrorist Associations. Victor Asal, R. Karl Rethemeyer, and Hyun Hee Park, State University of New York-Albany
Discussant: Jack A. Goldstone, George Mason University
While social and behavioral research on terrorism has expanded dramatically in recent years, theoretical perspectives which incorporate terrorism and the collection of valid data on terrorism have lagged behind other research specializations. Especially absent have been empirical evaluations of the dynamic context of terrorist organizations and events, contributing to theoretical gaps in understanding how terrorist groups form, organize, operate, and eventually end. Considerations of both the internal complexity of terrorist organizations and their interconnectivity with other violent groups have important implications in the formation of effective and efficient counterterrorism policy. In this session, we focus on the life-course of the dynamics within, and the relational patterns between terrorist organizations, as well as the situational context of violent events which contribute to their escalation or inhibition.

545. Special Session. New Evidences of Interaction: Visualizing Everyday Life
Session Organizer: Iddo Tavor, New School for Social Research
The session will center on the new kinds of evidence that technology makes available to sociologists to substantiate claims relating to experience and interaction in everyday life. The session will present methodological developments that complement fieldnote taking and interviews, ways to study moments of interactions and experience are crucial both in the formation and patterning of everyday life and in the construction of more macro-level patterns of sociality. As this includes a vast array of methods and people, the session will focus on the use of photography and video for substantiating and developing theoretical claims regarding interaction and its relation to more macro-level social phenomena.

546. Policy and Research Workshop. NIH Funding Opportunities: OppNet, the Basic Behavioral and Social Science Opportunity Network
Caesars Palace Las Vegas, Forum 1, Pool Level
Session Organizer and Leader: William N. Elwood, National Institute of Health
Co-Leader: Rosalind Berkowitz King, National Institute of Child Health and Human Development
National Institutes of Health Director Francis Collins, M.D., Ph.D., initiated the Basic Behavioral and Social Science Opportunity Network (OppNet) in November 2009 to expand the agency’s funding of basic behavioral and social sciences research. Abbreviated as b-BSSR, this area of scientific inquiry explains the mechanisms and processes within and among individuals and groups that influence health-related behaviors. Results from b-BSSR inform new approaches to ensure adherence, increase adoption of healthier practices, and reduce risky behaviors. By December 2010, OppNet funded $10,434,380 through 60 extramural research projects. This workshop will provide: • NIH-specific definitions and perspectives on b-BSSR, • an overview of OppNet’s accomplishments to date, • explanations of available OppNet funding opportunities, and, • answers to workshop participants’ questions.

1. Fellowship Support for Sociologists
American Sociological Association
Presenter(s): Roberta Spalter-Roth, Nicole Van Vooren, Janene Scelza, Olga Mayorova; 1430 K St. NW Suite 600, Washington, DC, 20005; phone: 202-383-9005; fax: 202-638-0882; email: research@asanet.org; webpage: www.asanet.org

The American Sociological Association (ASA) provides funding to its members through several small awards and fellowship programs. These include the Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline small awards program, Teaching Endowment grants, and the Spivack fellowship program for applied and policy research.

ASA provides awards (up to $2,000) through its Howery Teaching Enhancement Grants Program to support projects that extend the quality of teaching in the United States and Canada. Individuals, departments, and a program or committee of a state or regional association are eligible to apply.

Through its Sydney S. Spivack Program in Applied Social Research and Social Policy, ASA supports a Congressional Fellowship and Community Action Research Fellowships. The ASA Congressional Fellowship provides PhD level sociologists with in-depth experience as a staff member of a Congressional Committee or in a Congressional Office or agency. The Community Action Research Fellowships provide support up to $2,500 for sociological work with community organizations, local public interest groups, or community action projects.

2. Minority Affairs Program
American Sociological Association
Presenter(s): Jean Shin, Beth Moran; 1430 K St. NW Suite 600, Washington, DC, 20005; phone: 202-383-9005; fax: 202-638-0882; email: minority.affairs@asanet.org; webpage: www.asanet.org

The ASA Minority Fellowship Program (MFP) has existed since 1974 and just celebrated its 35th anniversary year (and cohort of trainees) with special events and sessions in both Boston and San Francisco. For the 2011-2012 MFP Fellowship year, MFP is generously supported by annual contributions from Alpha Kappa Delta, Sociologists for Women in Society, the Midwest Sociological Society, the Association of Black Sociologists, the Southwestern Sociological Association, and numerous individual ASA members. MFP applicants can be new or continuing graduate students in sociology, who are enrolled in a program that grants the Ph.D. Applicants must be members of an underrepresented minority group in the U.S. (e.g. Blacks/African-Americans, Hispanics/Latinos, Asians or Pacific Islanders, or American Indians/Alaska Natives). Applicants must also be U.S. citizens, non-citizen nationals of the U.S., or have been lawfully admitted to the U.S. for permanent residence. Application deadline is January 31; notifications are made by April 30. Fellowships are awarded for 12 months and may be renewable. Tuition and fees are arranged with the home department. MFP Fellows are selected each year by the MFP Advisory Panel, a rotating, appointed group of scholars in sociology.

3. Policy and Global Affairs Division
National Academies, Fellowships Office
Presenter(s): Christine O’Brien; 500 Fifth Street, NW, Washington, DC, 20001; phone: 202-334-2860; fax: 202-334-3419; email: CObrien@nas.edu; webpage: http://sites.nationalacademies.org/pga/fordfellowships/

The Fellowships Office of the National Academies administers predoctoral, dissertation, and postdoctoral fellowships. Ford Foundation Fellowships, at all three levels, are administered and annual competitions open in early September for a mid-November deadline of submission. The National Research Council (NRC) Research Associateship Programs are administered by the Fellowships Office. There are opportunities to apply for these postdoctoral appointments at federal laboratories four times during the year. The National Academies also administers the Christine Mirzayan Fellowships. These opportunities afford experience in the field of science policy. Mirzayan Fellows visit Capitol Hill and work with program officers and other experts in the field of science policy during their appointments. Jefferson Science Fellowships, also administered by the Fellowships Office, offer unique opportunities for mid-career scientists and engineers to work at the State Department or at USAID (DC) on issues of national and international importance. Information on these, and other fellowships, are available at the National Academies’ Fellowships Office display area.

4. Wisconsin Longitudinal Study
Presenter(s): Pamela Herd, Robert Hauser, Tess Hauser, Carol Roan; 1180 Observatory Drive, Madison, WI, 53706; phone: 608 265-6196; fax: 608 262-8400; email: wls@ssc.wisc.edu; webpage: http://www.ssc.wisc.edu/wlsresearch/

The WLS is a long-term study of a random sample of 10,317 men and women who graduated from Wisconsin high schools in 1957 and of their randomly selected brothers and sisters. Survey data were collected from the original respondents or their parents in 1957, 1964, 1975, 1992, and 2003, and from a selected sibling in 1977, 1993, and 2004. Survey data was collected from the spouses of the graduates in 2004 and the spouses of the siblings in 2005. A new wave, consisting of in-person interviews of both graduate and sibling respondents began in March 2010. These data provide a full record of social background, youthful aspirations, schooling, military service, family formation, labor market experiences, and social participation of the original respondents. The survey data from earlier years have been supplemented by mental ability tests (of primary respondents and 2000 of their siblings), measures of school performance, and characteristics of communities of residence, schools and colleges, employers, and industries. The WLS records for primary respondents are also linked to those of three same-sex high school friends within the study population.

Visitors to the poster session will be able to talk to project leaders about the current round of data collection and the availability of genetic data.

- What’s new in the 2010 round
  - in-person physical measures
  - link to social security benefits and earnings
  - Medicare record waiver
  - new measures of health literacy
  - new measures of financial literacy
  - Genetic data
  - Currently available DNA SNPs
  - current collection effort and future analysis plans

The WLS sample is broadly representative of white, non-Hispanic American men and women who have completed at least a high school education. Almost 85 percent of surviving graduates continue to participate in the WLS. Public data, documentation, and publications are available online.

5. National Academy of Education
Presenter(s): Patricia White, Regina Werum; 4201 Wilson Boulevard, Arlington, VA, 22230; phone: 703-292-8762; fax: 703-292-9195; email: pwhite@nsf.gov; webpage: www.nsf.gov/funding/pgm_summ.jsp?pims_id=5369&org=SES&from=home

The National Academy of Education advances the highest quality education research and its use in policy formation and practice.

The National Academy of Education/Spencer Postdoctoral Fellowship Program supports early career scholars working in critical areas of education research. The $55,000 postdoctoral fellowship is awarded to proposals that make significant scholarly contributions to the field of education, and the program also develops the careers of its recipients through professional development activities.

The National Academy of Education/Spencer Dissertation Fellowship Program seeks to encourage a new generation of scholars from a wide range of disciplines and professional fields to undertake research relevant to the improvement of education. The $25,000 dissertation fellowship supports individuals whose dissertations show potential for bringing fresh and constructive perspectives to the history, theory, or practice of formal or informal education anywhere in the world. This highly competitive program also aims to identify the most talented researchers conducting dissertation research related to education and support their career trajectories though professional development activities.

6. Sociology Program
National Science Foundation
Presenter(s): Patricia White, Regina Werum; 4201 Wilson Boulevard, Arlington, VA, 22230; phone: 703-292-8762; fax: 703-292-9195; email: pwhite@nsf.gov; webpage: www.nsf.gov/funding/pgm_summ.jsp?pims_id=5369&org=SES&from=home

The Sociology Program at the National Science Foundation (NSF) supports basic research on all forms of human social organization — societies, institutions, groups and demography — and processes of individual and institutional change. The Program encourages theoretically focused empirical investigations aimed at improving the explanation of fundamental social processes. Included is research on organizations and organizational behavior, population dynamics, social movements, social groups, labor force participation, stratification and mobility, family, social networks, socialization, gender roles, and the sociology of science and technology. The Program supports both original data collections and secondary data analysis that use the full range of quantitative and qualitative methodological tools. Theoretically grounded projects that offer methodological innovations and improvements for data collection and analysis are also welcomed. The Sociology Program also funds doctoral dissertation research to defray direct costs associated with conducting research, for example, dataset acquisition, additional statistical or methodological training, meeting with scholars associated with original datasets, and fieldwork away from the student’s home campus.

The Program resides in NSF’s Division of Social and Economic Sciences. The Division supports disciplinary and interdisciplinary research, data collection, and studies to improve measurements and methods. Its goal is to develop basic scientific knowledge of social, behavioral and economic systems, organizations and institutions, and human interaction and decision-making. It also provides support for research conferences, doctoral dissertation projects, international group travel, and the development data resources and infrastructure.

7. Social Explorer, Inc.

Presenter(s): Andrew A. Beveridge; 50 Merriam Ave, Bronxville, NY, 10708; phone: 914-337-6237; fax: 914-337-8210; email: andy@socialexplorer.com; webpage: www.socialexplorer.com

Social Explorer is a powerful online demographic research and visualization tool. It allows users to explore local and national census data from 1790 to the present, including the 2010 Census and the 2005-2009 ACS. Based on decades of demographic and programming expertise, Social Explorer enables users to conduct research related to the social sciences, history, business and more with ease.

Last year over 100,000 Social Explorer users created more than 4 million maps and 300 reports. Social Explorer is used at 16 of the top 20 universities, as ranked by US News, seven out of eight of the Ivy League and is in use on the campuses of 19 of the 34 university-based population centers. It has been a go-to resource for the New York Times, with Social Explorer and its president Andrew Beveridge, Professor of Sociology at Queens College and the Graduate Center, having been cited in over 300 articles.

Whether you are a GIS master or have never used a mapping program before, Social Explorer will guide you to the data resources you need in just a few simple clicks. And when you’re ready to show off your maps and reports, Social Explorer’s slide show tool and Power Point downloads make it easy to impress.

Social Explorer was named an “Outstanding Reference Source” by the Reference and User Services Association (RUSA), a division of the American Library Association in 2010. Social Explorer is the only online-only research tool featured among 2010s awardees.

Social Explorer and the University of Illinois at Chicago have been awarded a collaborative grant from the National Science Foundation for “Creating and Disseminating Tools to Teach with Demographic Data Maps and Materials,” a project to improve undergraduate science skills. Partnering with the Association of Religious Data Archives, Social Explorer includes current and historical data on congregations in the United States.

Social Explorer comes in three editions: A Free Edition, which has a limited set of variables, maps and features; A Student Edition, which is similar to the free edition, and is licensed to Pearson Publishing for use in over a dozen Sociology texts, including the best sellers by Henslin and macisnais, and a Professional Edition with many times the data and many more features, which is licensed to colleges, universities and other institutions. The Professional Edition is distributed by Oxford University Press Online, and is available for individual or institutional subscription.

8. The Association of Religion Data Archives

Presenter(s): Gail Johnston Ulmer, Stephen Merino, Robert Martin; 211 Oswald Tower, University Park, PA, 16802; phone: 814-865-6258; fax: 814-863-7216; email: gmj101@psu.edu; webpage: http://www.thearda.com

The Association of Religion Data Archives (ARDA) provides free access to the highest quality data on religion. The ARDA allows you to interactively explore American and international data using online features for generating national profiles, maps, church membership overviews, GIS mapping, QuickStats, QuickLists, denominational heritage trees, tables, charts, and other summary reports. Over 550 data files are available for online preview (including multiple years of the General Social Survey) and virtually all can be downloaded free of charge. The ARDA continues to add new features. Two of the most recent features are GIS U.S. Maps and a Learning Center. Partnering with Social Explorer, the ARDA now allows you to pinpoint congregations and demographic data on a new interactive map. The expanded Learning Center contains many new Learning Modules for classroom use as well as an online survey allowing students to compare their responses to others their same age and religion. Housed in the Social Science Research Institute at the Pennsylvania State University, the ARDA is funded by the Lilly Endowment and the John Templeton Foundation.

9. Federal Statistical Program

American Institutes for Research

Presenter(s): Leslie Scott, Susan Lapham, Sandy Eyster; 2000 K St. NW, Washington, DC, 20006; phone: 202/403-6418; email: lscott@air.org; webpage: http://www.air.org and http://www.projecttalent.org

The American Institutes for Research (AIR) announces the availability of the Project TALENT public-use data set. Launched in 1960, Project TALENT followed a nationally representative sample of approximately 440,000 9th-12th graders. The study was originally designed to inventory the talents of America’s youth and track students’ transition from high school to adulthood until age 30. Over 400 articles based on the original intent of the study have been written to date. The age of the cohorts now—65 to 69 years old as of 2010—has renewed researchers’ interests in Project TALENT because of its potential for studying the aging process. Currently, AIR is developing a 50 year follow-up of Project TALENT participants and has linked a mortality indicator to the original data set. To coincide with ASA’s Annual Conference, AIR is making available to graduate students and faculty researchers the original Project TALENT base year and follow-up data with the new mortality indicator. Collected baseline data include measures of general knowledge, aptitudes and abilities, personality traits, interests, and health, along with background data on sample members and their families (e.g., race, socioeconomic status). Follow-up data were collected at one, five and 11 years after cohort members’ expected data of graduation from high school. Follow-up survey data include measures of education attainment, employment, health, and family formation. During this poster session, interested researchers can learn more about the contents of the Project TALENT public-use data set and how to obtain it for their own program of research.
10. New Immigrant Survey
Princeton University - Office of Population Research

Presenter(s): Monica Espinoza Higgins, Sofya Aptekar, Kimberly Torres; 187 Wallace Hall, Princeton, NJ, 8544; phone: 609-258-0081; fax: 609-258-1039; email: espinoza@princeton.edu; webpage: http://n尼斯.princeton.edu

The New Immigrant Survey (NIS) is a multi-cohort prospective-retrospective panel survey of new legal immigrants to the United States based on probability samples of administrative records from the U.S. Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services. Two rounds of interviewing have now been completed. A survey pilot project (NIS-P) was carried out in 1996 to test sampling procedures, questionnaire design, and tracking procedures to inform the implementation of the full NIS.

The first full cohort (NIS-2003-1) was sampled during May through November of 2003, yielding data on 8,573 Adult Sample respondents, 810 sponsor-parent (“child proxy”) of the Sampled Child, 4,915 spouses, and 1,072 children aged 8-12. The baseline survey was conducted from June 2003 to June 2004. The geographic sampling design takes advantage of the natural clustering of immigrants. It includes all top 85 Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSAs) and all top 38 counties, plus a random sample of MSAs and counties.

A follow-up interview with 2003 cohort was conducted from June 2007 to October 2009 (NIS-2003-2). Round 2 instruments were designed to track changes from the baseline and also included new questions. As with the Round 1 questionnaire, questions that were used in social-demographic-migration surveys around the world as well as the major U.S. longitudinal surveys were reviewed in order to achieve comparability.

The NIS is a new plan for nationally representative, longitudinal studies of immigrants and their children that promises to provide new kinds of data that will help answer many of the important questions about immigration and concomitantly shed light on basic aspects of human development. The main objective is to provide a public-use database on new legal immigrants to the United States and their children that will be useful for addressing scientific and policy questions about migration behavior and the impacts of migration.

The NIS content includes the following information: demographic, health and insurance, migration history, living conditions, transfers, employment history, income, assets, social networks, religion, housing environment, and child assessment tests. Interviews were conducted in the respondents’ language of choice.

Mexican Migration Project and Latin American Migration Project

Presenter(s): Karen A Pren; 237 Wallace Hall, Princeton, NJ 08544; phone: 609-258-8155; fax: 609-258-1039; email: mmp@opr.princeton.edu / lamp@opr.princeton.edu; webpage: http://mmp.opr.princeton.edu/ and http://lamp.opr.princeton.edu/

Founded in 1982, the Mexican Migration Project (MMP) has annually administered ethnoversveys to randomly sampled households in various communities in Mexico since 1987. In 1998, the Latin American Migration Project (LAMP) was born. For both projects, each community yields approximately 200 surveyed households in the home country, as well as 10 to 20 households of community members living in the U.S. Responses are converted to electronic format and compiled to form five unique data sets. PERS file contains socioeconomic information for each household member, including basic measures of domestic and international migration. MIG file contains detailed border-crossing, measures of migratory experience of family of origin, extended family and friends, and the social and economic characteristics of the last U.S. trip for each household head. HOUSE file contains measures of household composition and amenities, as well as data about businesses, land, property, vehicles, and livestock. LIFE and SPOUSE files are labor histories, and each record represents a person-year detailing labor force, family/household formation, and cumulative U.S. experience. In addition, we offer the community file with measures of infrastructure, social resources, public services, labor force participation, and education. Currently, the MMP contains 128 communities, while the LAMP includes multiple communities surveyed in Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Colombia, Peru, Paraguay, Haiti, El Salvador, and Guatemala.

12. General Social Survey
NORC/University of Chicago

Presenter(s): Tom W. Smith; 1155 East 60th St., Chicago, IL, 60637; phone: 773-256-6288; fax: none; email: GSS@norc.org; webpage: http://www.norc.org/GSS+Website

The National Data Program for the Social Sciences has conducted the US General Social Survey (GSS) since 1972 and founded the International Social Survey Program (ISSP) in 1984. The GSS now employs a rolling, panel design. The new, 2010 GSS will be out and highlighted. The ISSP now has 48 countries and has conducted an annual survey each year since 1985. Results from the ISSP will also be featured.

13. American Time Use Survey
U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics

Presenter(s): Laura Wronski; 2 Massachusetts Ave, Washington, DC, 20910; phone: 202-691-5160; fax: 202-691-6426; email: woods.rose.a@bls.gov; webpage: www.bls.gov/tus

The poster presented will provide data users with information on the American Time Use Survey (ATUS) and the ATUS Well-being and Leave modules. The ATUS provides nationally representative estimates of how, where, and with whom Americans age 15 and over spend their time. It is the only federal survey providing data on the full range of nonmarket activities, from childcare to volunteering. ATUS data files are used by researchers to study a broad range of issues; these data files include information collected from over 105,000 interviews conducted from 2003 to 2010. The ATUS Well-being Module, which was fielded in 2010, uses the ATUS time diary to capture how people felt during various activities; this information can be used to better understand the quality. of life in the United States and to develop a measure of society’s well-being. The ATUS Leave Module, which is being fielded in 2011, collects information about workers’ access to and use of paid and unpaid leave. This information can be used to evaluate how well the workplace supports the needs of working men and women, and how leave and leave policy affect workers’ decisions about use of leave and time use. ATUS and module data files can be linked to data files from the Current Population Survey (CPS). This expands the context in which time-use data can be analyzed.

14. Minnesota Population Center, University of Minnesota

Integrated Health Interview Series

Presenter(s): Ryan Moltz; 50 Willey Hall, 225 19th Ave. South, Minneapolis, MN, 55455; phone: 612-624-5818; fax: 612-626-8375; email: ihis@pop.umn.edu; webpage: www.ihis.us

Integrated Health Interview Series (IHIS): Free Data and Documentation on a Half Century of U.S. Health Status, Health Care, and Health Behavior

The Integrated Health Interview Series (IHIS) simplifies cross-temporal analysis of population health data collected in the U.S. National Health Interview Survey (NHIS), the main source of information on the health of the U.S. population. IHIS is a Web-based system that provides integrated data and documentation covering over 7,000 sociodemographic and health-related variables from the 1960s to the present. IHIS allows researchers to create tailored data extracts containing the variables and years relevant to their own projects or to tabulate data online. Extensive online documentation highlights comparability issues and specifies variable availability and universes, appropriate weights, codes and frequencies, and question wording. Funded by NICHD, IHIS helps researchers make consistent comparisons across 5 decades of dramatic changes in health status, health behavior, and healthcare. IHIS data on more than 4 million persons are available for free over the Internet (at www.ihis.us) to researchers, educators, and the general public.

15. Center for Finance, Access and Cost Trends, Division of Social and Economic Research

Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality

Presenter(s): Terceira A. Berdahl, Jim Kirby; 540 Gaither Road, Rockville, MD, 20850; phone: 301-427-1687; email: terceira.berdahl@ahrq.hhs.gov

Sponsored by the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ), the Medical Expenditure Panel Survey (MEPS) is a vital resource designed to continually provide policymakers, researchers, health care professionals, businesses and others with timely, comprehensive information about the United States population’s health, health care utilization, and costs. The MEPS is a continuous on-going nationally representative survey initiated in 1996. MEPS collects data on the specific health care services that Americans use, how frequently they use them, the cost of those services and how they are paid, as well as data on the cost, scope, and breadth of private health insurance held by and available to the U.S. civilian non-institutionalized population. MEPS is unparalleled for the degree of detail in its data, as well as its ability to link health status and health care to the demographic, employment, economic, family and other characteristics of survey respondents. In addition, MEPS is the only national survey that provides a foundation for estimating the impact of changes in sources of payment, insurance coverage, and family status on different economic groups or special populations such as the poor, elderly, veterans, the uninsured, and racial and ethnic minorities. These data have been used to examine factors associated with access to health care, estimates of eligibility for federal programs, racial and ethnic disparities in health, and issues related to the quality and satisfaction with health care. The MEPS is useful for monitoring the effects of social policy on population health, healthcare access, utilization, and quality across time and policy relevant subgroups. All MEPS public use data files are available for downloading free of charge from the MEPS website: www.meps.ahrq.gov.

The National Institutes of Health are a major supporter of the social and behavioral sciences, providing an estimated $3 billion in fiscal year 2007. In addition to funding both large and small research projects, NIH also funds fellowships for graduate students, post-doctoral researchers, and senior fellows, career development grants for recent Ph.D.s and more established researchers, supplements to existing research projects to promote diversity in science, center grants, and special grants to support scientific research at educational institutions that have not been major recipients of NIH funds. Substantive areas of interest are broad, and include research in the well-being of human beings across the life course; population studies/demography; the role of education, human capital, and socioeconomic status on health and well-being; physical and mental disability; substance abuse etiology, prevention, and treatment; HIV/AIDS; mental health; health disparities; nursing research; and other research on the role that behavioral and social factors play in health, health care, and well-being.

19. Division of Viral Hepatitis
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Presenter(s): Virginia S. Cain; 3311 Toledo Rd. Rm. 7208, Hyattsville, MD, 20782; phone: 301-458-4395; fax: 301-458-4020; email: vcain@cdc.gov; webpage: http://www.cdc.gov/nchs/

The CDC’s National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS) is the nation’s principal health statistics agency, providing data to identify and address health issues. Data sets available from NCHS include: the National Health Interview Survey (NHIS), the National Health Examination and Nutrition Survey (NHANES); the National Health Care Surveys including the National Ambulatory Medical Care Survey (NAMCS), the National Hospital Ambulatory Medical Care Survey (NHAMCS), the National Hospital Discharge Survey (NHDS) and National Survey of Ambulatory Surgery (NSAS), National Home and Hospice Care Survey (NHHCS), National Nursing Home Survey (NNHIS), National Employer Health Insurance Survey (NEHIS); the National Vital Statistics System including birth data, mortality data, fetal death data, linked births/infant deaths, the National Mortality Followback Survey, the National Maternal and Infant Health Survey; and the National Survey of Family Growth (NSFG). These health data sets can be used to: document the health status of the U.S. population and selected subgroups; identify disparities in health status and use of health care by race/ethnicity, socio-economic status, region, and other population characteristics; document access to the health care system; monitor trends in health status and health care delivery; identify health behaviors and associated risk factors; support biomedical and health services research; provide data to support public policies and programs; evaluate the impact and effectiveness of health policies and programs and address many other research questions.

20. National Center for Health Statistics
CDC

Presenter(s): Karin Mack, Deborah Holtzman; 1600 Clifton Road, NE, Mailstop G-37, Atlanta, GA, 30333; phone: 404-718-8555; fax: 404-718-8555; email: dxh4@cdc.gov; webpage: www.cdc.gov

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), based in Atlanta, Georgia, is the nation’s lead public health agency. Its mission is to prevent and control disease, injury, and disability and to prepare for emerging health threats. CDC seeks to accomplish its mission in partnership, both domestically and globally, by monitoring health, detecting and investigating health problems, conducting research to enhance prevention, developing and advocating sound public health policies, implementing prevention strategies, promoting healthy behaviors, fostering safe and healthful environments, and providing leadership and training. The agency maintains a full research and practice agenda that includes the prevention of infectious diseases, chronic diseases, injuries, workplace hazards, birth defects, and disabilities, in addition to protection from environmental hazards such as lead and other toxic substances. CDC employs scientists from a variety of disciplines including those from the social and behavioral sciences. Each of these disciplines brings a unique perspective to the conduct of public health research and practice which significantly contributes to CDC’s mission overall. Information will be available regarding job opportunities, postgraduate training, the Epidemic Intelligence Service (EIS), and funding opportunities.

21. Division of Vital Statistics
National Center for Health Statistics

Presenter(s): Jonathan Vespa; 3311 Toledo Rd, Hyattsville, MD, 20782; phone: 301-458-4637; email: jhq8@cdc.gov; webpage: http://www.cdc.gov/nchs/nsfg.htm

This poster shows how to use the National Survey of Family Growth (NSFG) data files for social and reproductive health research. Seven public-use files are available at no charge and contextual data files can be accessed through special arrangement. For most of its history, the NSFG has been a survey of women 15–44 years old. Since 2002, the NSFG has included independent national samples of men and women. The latest public data from 2006–2010 contain over 22,000 respondents. Social scientists can use the NSFG to study a variety of topics including: (1) pregnancy histories, birth rates, infertility, and contraception use; (2) marriage, divorce, and cohabitation; (3) sexual activity; (4) behaviors related to drug use and HIV and STD risk; (5) father involvement and parenting; and (6) attitudes about family, children, marriage, and sexual activity. The poster also includes information on how to obtain the data, its documentation and related web resources including key statistics on the survey’s substantive areas that can be readily used in the classroom, reports, and research.

National Survey of Fertility Barriers

Presenter(s): David R. Johnson, Julia McQuillan, Arthur L. Greil, Karina M. Shreffler; 211 Oswald Tower, University Park, PA, 16802; phone: 814.865.9564; email: djr10@psu.edu; webpage: http://sodapop.pop.psu.edu/data-collections/nsfb

The National Survey of Fertility Barriers (NSFB) is a nationally representative telephone survey of women ages 25 to 45. This study was funded by grant R01-HD044144 from the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD) entitled “Infertility: Pathways and Psychological Outcomes.” The data were collected by the Survey Research Center at The Pennsylvania State University and the Bureau of Sociological Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. The first wave of the survey was conducted between 2004 and 2007 and includes completed interviews with 4,787 women ages 25 to 45 and 936 of their partners.

The response rate to the screener was 53.7%, and 47% of the partners completed the partner interview. The sample design included an over-sample from Census tracts with more than 40% minorities, childless women and women who desired a(nother) child. Weights were developed for use with the sample to yield a representative national sample of women age 25–45. To reduce respondent burden, the NSFB employs a “planned-missing” design in which each respondent was given a random two-thirds of the items on each scale. To facilitate use of the items in the main survey instrument which contain missing values, the dataset includes a version all scales with the missing values imputed. Data from the first wave are now available at http://sodapop.pop.psu.edu/data-collections/nsfb/dnd. The second wave of data was collected between 2008 and 2010 and will be publicly available soon.

The NSFB is the only longitudinal study of fertility and biomedical fertility barriers among women of reproductive age. It contains information on infertility, pregnancy loss, health conditions that preclude childbearing and sterilization regret. The NSFB includes background data on respondents, detailed pregnancy histories, fertility and adoption desires and plans, detailed fertility helpseeking behaviors, attitudes and psychological variables (e.g., scales measuring general distress, fertility-specific distress, self-esteem, life satisfaction, relationship satisfaction, social support, religiosity, importance of parenthood, medical locus of control, and ethical concerns about assisted reproductive technology). This rich dataset has produced over ten publications, and there are possibilities for many more.

The National Longitudinal Study of Adolescent Health (Add Health) is a study of a nationally representative sample of more than 20,000 individuals that began with in-school questionnaires administered to adolescents in grades 7-12 in the United States in 1994-1995. Since then, the Add Health cohort has been followed into young adulthood with four waves of in-home interviews, the most recent in 2008, when the sample was aged 24-32 years. Add Health combines longitudinal survey data on respondents’ social, economic, psychological and physical well-being with contextual data on their family, neighborhood, community, school, friendships, peer groups, and romantic relationships, providing unique opportunities to study how social environments and behaviors in adolescence are linked to health and achievement outcomes in young adulthood. The expanded collection of biological data at Wave IV (2008), including anthropometric, cardiovascular, metabolic, immune function and genetic measures, provides new opportunities to examine the social, behavioral, and biological linkages in health trajectories as the Add Health cohort ages through adulthood. In this poster presentation, we provide an overview of the Add Health study design and sampling structure; discuss the various public-use and restricted-use contractual data sets available for study; and present new findings from the Wave IV data (released in October 2009). We present descriptive data on the health status of Add Health adults aged 24-32 years, including measures based on biomarkers collected at Wave IV. Using longitudinal data, we trace health trajectories from adolescence into adulthood for key indicators such as hypertension, obesity, smoking, and physical activity and show their relationship with health outcomes in adulthood measured by new biological data from Wave IV. Add Health has been funded since 1994 by a program project grant from the Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, with co-funding from 23 other federal agencies and foundations. For more information, please visit the Add Health web site: http://www.cpc.unc.edu/projects/addhealth.

Children of the National Longitudinal Survey of Youth

The Children of the NLSY79 data set profiles the development, achievement, and ability of the children born to mothers in the National Longitudinal Surveys of Youth/79 Cohort. Started in 1986 and repeated biennially, the Child surveys are sponsored by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics with support from NICHD. The current public release provides Child data collected over a span of more than 20 years and maternal histories that date back to when the mothers were age 14-21. The ongoing Child surveys use mother report, direct assessment, and child self-report to gauge the children’s health, abilities, problems, activities, attitudes, school progress, and home environment. Starting in 1994, children 15 and older are no longer assessed but interviewed as Young Adults on schooling, employment, training, family experiences, health, and attitudes. The Child/YA sample ranges in age from birth to thirties and contains significant numbers of minority and economically disadvantaged respondents. More than 7,500 children and young adults were assessed and interviewed in 2008 and an equal number in 2010. While maternal information is included on the Child-YA data file, the NLSY79 Child-Young Adult files can also be merged with any item from the complete longitudinal record of their NLSY79 mothers. The NLSY79 main Youth file contains histories of employment, education, income, training, health, marriage, fertility, household composition, and residence. Information is also available from the mother’s interviews about her childcare practices, substance use, illegal activities, aptitude, aspirations, and attitudes. The current public release, available at no cost at http://www.nlsinfo.org/web-investigator/, represents 12 rounds of NLSY79 Child and Young Adult survey data as well as the complete histories of their mothers. A searchable, annotated listing of NLS research can be accessed at: http://www.nlsbibliography.org/. Details on the NLSY79 Child and Young Adult surveys can be found online at: http://www.bls.gov/nls/nlsy79ch.htm

ASA Minority Fellowship Program Fellows

The following current and former MFP Fellows are participating in this year’s Annual Meeting Program. ASA and the 2011 Program Committee are pleased to highlight professional activities of these fellows. The ASA Minority Fellowship Program (MFP), in operation since 1974, has been a significant factor in recruiting minorities into Sociology. Fellows continue to make important contributions to the growth of the discipline. The Association takes great satisfaction in acknowledging this form of professional activity.

ASA Honors Program Students

The following undergraduate sociology students were accepted into the ASA Honors Program for 2011. This program requires nearly a week of participation in professional events held concurrently with the Annual Meeting. Students receive full credit for participation only after completion of the program on August 23.

ASA and the 2011 Program Committee are pleased to highlight these students’ introduction to the profession of sociology. The Honors Program has a 37-year history of involving sociology students in the ASA Annual Meeting. This year’s students are wearing gold ribbons showing their Honors Program affiliation. Please welcome them to their first national meeting!

Social Forces
International Journal of Social Research
Editor: Arne L. Kalleberg

Published in partnership with the Department of Sociology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Social Forces is recognized as a global leader among social research journals. Though it highlights sociological inquiry, the journal also explores realms shared with social psychology, anthropology, political science, history, and economics.

A national study of socioeconomics and health over lifetimes and across generations

• 37 waves of data collected on a nationally representative sample of nearly 9,000 U.S. families, allowing the study of the full life-course, including: Gen Yers and Gen Xers, Baby Boomers, Retirees

• Demographic, economic, sociological, and psychological data including fertility, marriage, birth histories, adult and childhood health conditions, poverty indicators, income, wealth, expenditures, food security, housing, mortgage distress and foreclosures

• Health and aging data, including retirement transitions, onset and duration of chronic health conditions, activities of daily living, instrumental activities of daily living, mortality, health care expenditures, pensions and wealth accumulation

• Freely accessible, web-based Data Center provides customized datasets in a variety of formats including SAS, Stata, SPSS, Excel, and Text

• Create Intergenerational datasets by linking multiple waves of PSID Data (e.g., multiple generations of family members including elderly parents and adult children)

Child Development Supplement (CDS)

• Three waves of data on 3,500 children aged 0-12 from PSID families who were first interviewed in 1997, reinterviewed in 2002 at ages 5-18, and again in 2007 at ages 10-18

• Re-interview in 2005, 2007, 2009, and 2011 for CDS young adults aged 18 years and older during Transition into Adulthood Study

• Measures of child/adolescent cognitive, social and behavioral development, as well as details on extra-curricular activities, sports and community groups

• Rich information about family process and home environment

• Unique comprehensive national time-use information on children and youth of all ages

• Data from all waves of CDS and Transition into Adulthood 2005 and 2007, now available at the PSID website

The Immigrant Advantage: Why Newcomers to America Are Happier and Healthier and What We Can Learn from Them
By Claudia Kolker
Claudia Kolker has discovered that many immigrant populations in the U.S. have brought with them customs that greatly enhance their lives. In The Immigrant Advantage, she interweaves interviews with immigrants who practice these customs with stories about her (mostly successful) attempts at integrating them into her life—and how adopting them can enrich ours, too.
9781416586821 $26.00, hardcover

Babel No More: The Search for the World’s Most Extraordinary Language Learners
By Michael Erard
A fascinating look at polyglots who push past the normal limits of language learning and human memory to illuminate the intellectual potential in everyone.

Index of Session Participants

Numbers refer to Session Numbers (not pages) in the Program Schedule.

For roundtable sessions, table numbers are given after the session number. (For example, a presenter at the tenth table on session 350 will have “350-10” in this index.) Please note that this index also includes session organizers.
