Sexualities in the Social World

Sex usually occurs in private and is seen as deeply personal, yet it is also profoundly social. Cultural norms and social institutions such as religion, education, mass media, law, and the military all affect what we do sexually with whom. These social forces also affect what is seen as beyond the bounds of legitimacy. Indeed, contemporary politics are full of contentious debates about abortion, sex education, same-sex marriage, pornography, sex work, sexual harassment, systematic rape as a weapon in wars, and female genital cutting. Given the importance of sexuality in people's lives, and its relevance to many areas of sociology, I selected it as the theme for the 2015 annual meeting of the ASA. Let us gather to discuss a broad set of questions, including the following:

- Why has there been more progress toward gender equality in education and jobs than in heterosexual relations, where men still typically propose marriage, and women are more stigmatized than men for casual sex?
- How are race and class inequalities affected by marriage markets in which preferences and segregation steer us toward intimate relationships, and thus economic sharing, with partners similar to ourselves?
- Why have nonmarital births increased for 50 years, as much in good economic times as in the hard times that make men less marriageable?
- To what extent is bias against gay men and lesbians really a bias against gender nonconformity?
- Why has public opinion on gay marriage shifted so quickly?
- Why do typical parents believe that their own children are sexually naïve but that other children are hypersexual?
- How are notions of sexual propriety marshaled in social movements, anti-colonial revolutions, state formation, and ethnic cleansing?
- How are cultural schema about sexuality reflected in the design of consumer goods such as movies, music, clothing, and drugs for sexual performance?
- Has concern about the dangers of sex kept researchers from studying sexual pleasure as a stratification outcome?
- How do patterns of the transmission of HIV illuminate network principles?
- How do gene/environment interactions affect sexual behavior?
- What new data collection do we need for research on sexualities?
- What theoretical perspectives are most useful in making sense of sexuality?
- Can studying sexuality inform general social theories?

Annual Meeting Schedule

The official days of the 2015 ASA Annual Meeting are Saturday to Tuesday, August 22-25, 2015. Program sessions are scheduled on all four days of the meeting at the Hilton Chicago and Palmer House Hilton. There are also pre-meeting activities scheduled on Friday, August 21, and the meeting will officially begin with the Opening Plenary Session and Welcoming Reception that evening.

Most daytime program sessions are 1 hour and 40 minutes in length, followed by a 20-minute break. Exceptions are clearly noted in the detailed program schedule. The turnover schedule is as follows:

8:30 am-10:10 am
10:30 am-12:10 pm
12:30 pm-2:10 pm
2:30 pm-4:10 pm
4:30 pm-6:10 pm

The 6:30 pm evening time slot is normally allocated for Section receptions, member-sponsored activities, and meetings of other groups. All sessions end by 4:10 pm on the fourth day.

Please refer to the Program Schedule for a daily listing of all sessions, meetings, and social events. Session presiders and committee chairs are requested to see that sessions and meetings end on time to avoid conflicts with subsequent activities scheduled into the same room and to allow participants time to transit between facilities.

Ethical Conduct during the Annual Meeting:
It is unethical in any professional setting, including the Annual Meeting of the American Sociological Association, for sociologists to use the inequalities of power which characterize many professional relationships to obtain personal, sexual, economic or professional advantages.

Sexual, sexual identity or racial/ethnic harassment is also unethical behavior under the American Sociological Association Code of Ethics.

Attendees are encouraged to immediately report instances of harassment during the Annual Meeting to the ASA Executive Officer at Hillsman@asanet.org or through the ASA Annual Meeting Office.

To read the American Sociological Association Code of Ethics in its entirety, visit www.ASAnet.org and follow the link to “Ethics.”
Greetings from the ASA President

Dear Colleagues:

Our program, “Sexualities in the Social World,” recognizes the deeply social nature of sexuality, celebrates scholars who have sometimes risked their careers to do ground-breaking research on sexualities, and showcases diverse research. Here are some highlights of the program:

Abortion, Contraception, Nonmarital Births:
- Our Friday, August 21 opening plenary at 7:00pm features an address by Dr. Willie Parker, M.D., the only doctor left performing abortions in Mississippi. He is joined for discussion by sociologists Phil Morgan, Zakiya Luna, and Sarah Cowan.
- A 10:30am Saturday, August 22, Presidential Panel on Birth Control in America features economist Martha Bailey and sociologists Kathryn Edin and Jennifer Barber.
- At a 12:30pm plenary on Monday, August 24, Larry Wu, Andrew Cherlin, and Marcia Carlson discuss “The Rise of Nonmarital Births” and their causes and consequences.

Mating and Dating Today:
- Saturday, August 22, at 8:00pm our Plenary gathers smart, entertaining voices from outside the academy to talk about “Modern Romance.” Sociologist Eric Klinenberg presides over a session showcasing comedian Aziz Ansari, the OK Cupid founder Christian Rudder, and psychologist and popular author Helen Fisher.
- Monday, August 24, 8:00pm Plenary, Elizabeth Bruch, Jennifer Lundquist, and Michael Rosenfeld present research on “Internet Dating.”

Same-sex and Heterosexual Marriages:
- Our Saturday, August 22, 12:30pm plenary grapples with the politics of same-sex marriage. Gregory Lewis and Brian Powell will dissect public opinion, Verta Taylor analyzes social movements for and against same-sex marriage, and Michael Dorf of Cornell Law School provides an up-to-the-minute report on court decisions.
- A Presidential Panel on Monday, August 24 at 2:30pm considers the controversial claim that heterosexual couples eschew female superiority and even eroticize traditional roles; economist Marianne Bertrand and sociologists Sabino Kornrich and Christine Schwartz engage in the debate.

Black Lives Matter: Policing, DuBois, Voting Rights, Sexualities:
- Events in the world made it imperative to organize sessions regarding police violence in black communities; I highlight these and other sessions on race here.
  - A Special Session Monday, August 24, at 8:30am, “Race and Policing Post-Ferguson,” features psychologist Jennifer Eberhardt and sociologists Lawrence Sherman and Nikki Jones.
  - Putting Chicago in the spotlight; “Policing De-Industrial Chicago: Racial Violence and the Struggle for Police Accountability” has presentations by Simon Balto, Peter Pihos, and John Hagedorn.
  - On Monday, August 24, at 8:30am, a Special Session on the 50th Anniversary of the Voting Rights Act presents analysis by Francis Piven, Ellen Katz, Kareem Crayton, and Pamela Karlan.
  - The lineup for a Thematic Session on “Sex and Sexuality in Black Communities” is Averil Clarke, Celeste Watkins-Hayes, Jeffrey McCune, and Mignon Moore.

There’s much more on many sociological topics. I hope you’ll find sessions intellectually stimulating and I trust that others will benefit from the unique ideas you bring to the meetings.

Save some time for seeing Chicago and relaxing with old and new friends! Wonderful tours of the historic Bronzeville neighborhood and the Hull House were organized by Local Arrangements Chair, Bill Bielby. Bill and his band, Thin Vitae, will play at the Welcome Reception at 9:00pm following Friday night’s Opening Plenary. Rumor has it that other sociologists will perform as well, and that your president may be invited to move from the dance floor to the microphone to sing at one point. I hope to see you there.

Section Information

Looking for information about the ASA Sections and sections-in-formation, or copies of 2015 section newsletters? Check the Section Display Tables near the ASA Membership desk in Stevens Salon C on the lower level of the Hilton Chicago.

Every Section was invited to designate representatives to staff the display table during each meeting day and provide information on special section activities. Staff from the ASA Executive Office will be nearby at the Membership Desk to answer questions about joining any and all sections.

Staying Connected during the Annual Meeting!

The ASA Annual Meeting App includes the full program schedule; note-taking features allowing users to save and send notes to a preferred e-mail account; maps and floor plans for the facilities, information on hours and locations for various Annual Meeting services. Corrections that were received too late for the printed Final Program are reflected in the online program schedule and the Annual Meeting App. Both of these offerings include the most current updates to the program listings. The online program schedule and Annual Meeting App replace the paper copy of the Convention Bulletin handed out onsite at previous Annual Meetings.

Complimentary WiFi Access at the Meeting

ASA provides 40MBps bandwidth WiFi in all ASA meeting rooms, both at the Hilton Chicago and the Palmer House Hilton. The WiFi access facilitates the full use of the online program schedule, the Annual Meeting App and webcasting of the plenary sessions and the connections among attendees. Please Note: Requests for hard-wired Internet lines in session rooms for presentations will not be honored. For those of you considering streaming videos in your presentations, the bandwidth is sufficient to allow web browsing and email. However, streaming data on the network is not advised.

The “Hub” and Social Media Lounge

Since 2012, the ASA has offered “The Hub,” a social media lounge and resource center, to Annual Meeting attendees. But what’s The Hub? It is a social media networking space located in the ASA Exhibit Hall. While tweeting and blogging can be done throughout the ASA-held meeting spaces (with complimentary WiFi access), this particular area offers seating areas and power outlets for charging electronic devices. The complex includes the ASA Bookstore; a series of computer terminals available for meeting attendees, and social media and tech-issue demos led by ASA Executive Office personnel with significant experience working in that area.

ASA Council Policy Statement on Social Media during the Annual Meeting:

In ASA sessions, some members of the audience may use twitter or other forms of social media to share the results of papers presented. In rare instances people will record sessions; if you prefer that audio recordings or video recordings not occur, please share your request with the audience. ASA encourages all program participants to be sensitive to the requests of others.

During the Annual Meeting, the ASA Press Office shares results from the meeting with the media. ASA encourages presenters to notify their university press offices to ask them to share sociological research results which they believe are newsworthy.
ASA Bookstore

The ASA Bookstore features works published by the Association. Located in Stevens Salon D of the Hilton Chicago, the Bookstore will be staffed by ASA Executive Office personnel and open throughout the four days of the Annual Meeting (see page 45).

All attendees are welcome to browse through this area filled with recent journal issues, teaching resources and syllabi sets, career publications, sociological practice materials, directories, and reference volumes. The online ASA Bookstore will be available at a kiosk located in the Bookstore to complete online orders for those who’d rather not purchase and carry materials home. Items purchased through the online ASA Bookstore will be shipped after the Annual Meeting.

Exhibits

ASA Exhibits are located in Stevens Salon D on the lower level of the Hilton Chicago. Exhibits will be open to meeting registrants on all four days of the meeting.

ASA Exhibit Hours:
- Saturday, August 22: 2:00 - 6:00 pm
- Sunday, August 23: 9:00 am - 4:00 pm
- Monday, August 24: 9:00 am - 5:00 pm
- Tuesday, August 25: 9:00 am - 1:00 pm

The location of the Exhibits offers excellent accessibility to meeting attendees, due to its close proximity to the Hub and the ASA Bookstore. Always one of the most popular activities at the Annual Meeting, Exhibits offer variety, convenience, and an opportunity to discover current trends in sociological publishing, information processing, and services.

Meeting attendees are encouraged to schedule several visits to the Exhibit area so that ample time can be given to exploring the many offerings. Browse through the latest sociological publications, explore current computer software, chat with representatives of statistical resources and informational literature, and meet the editor of your next publication!

See the Directory of Exhibitors in this Program for the names and booth numbers of all exhibitors. Don’t forget to look through the Program for special ads too.

All persons wishing access to ASA Exhibits must be paid registrants for the Annual Meeting; badges are required for entrance into this area.

Employment Service

The annual ASA Employment Service assists sociologists and prospective employers by providing convenient opportunities for employers and job seekers to meet in a neutral, monitored environment for initial short interviews during the Annual Meeting.

Employers and preregistered job seekers are able to enter their information in an online module and use an interactive scheduling calendar to set up interview appointments during the Annual Meeting.

All service users were urged to preregister by July 8 in order to take full advantage of the pre-convention communication opportunities that the online Employment Service (ES) offers. Interviewers and candidates were also encouraged to bring their own laptops (equipped with wireless capability) and tablets with them so that they can more easily maintain communications during the Annual Meeting. The on-site Employment Service areas will provide a few computer terminals for use by registered ES users.

Location and Hours. The Employment Service will be open in Stevens Salon C of the Hilton Chicago during the hours listed below.

- Friday, August 21: 1:30 – 6:30 pm
- Saturday, August 22: 8:00 am – 5:30 pm
- Sunday, August 23: 8:00 am – 5:30 pm
- Monday, August 24: 8:00 am – 5:30 pm
- Tuesday, August 25: 8:00 am – 1:00 pm

Preregistrants should first pick up their ASA badges in Stevens Salon C of the Hilton Chicago before proceeding to the Employment Service areas.

Employers. Employers (organizations) enter the online ES to pay the registration fee and post job listings. All individuals conducting interviews on-site must be registered for the Annual Meeting and subsequently designated as interviewers by their employers in order to use the online service to search candidate information and set up interview appointments.

Candidates. Those who are looking for positions should have preregistered for the Annual Meeting and for the Employment Service before the July 8 preregistration deadline. Those who preregistered may log into the online ES module and fill out the Candidate Information Form, upload a full resume, view jobs posted by Employers, mark their ES calendars to show their availability for interviews, and respond to interview invitations.

Interview Scheduling. All initial interview appointments are to be scheduled through the online Employment Service. Interviewers and candidates are encouraged to bring their own laptops (equipped with wireless capability) with them so that they can more easily maintain communications about interview appointments during the Annual Meeting. The Interview Room provides one table per employer where designated interviewers may meet with candidates at the agreed-upon appointment times. On-site staff will assist with reminders of the 20-minute appointment intervals so that appointment schedules stay on-time throughout the day.
On-Site Registration. Individuals who did not preregister and now want to use the Employment Service, whether as Candidate or Interviewer, must first register for the Annual Meeting. Please see “Registration Services” for on-site registration rates. Fees for candidates to use the Employment Service, which may be paid during your meeting registration process at the On-Site Registration desks, are $55 for ASA members, $90 for non-members. There is no additional service fee for Interviewers. Employers may go directly online to pay the registration fee ($300), post their job listings, and designate the on-site interviewers.

When fully registered, your next step is to visit the Employment Service help desks in Stevens Salon C of the Hilton Chicago, where you will be given a brief orientation to the service procedures and issued a pass permitting your entrance to the Interview Room. No one will be admitted without a pass; “browsing” by non-registered attendees is not permitted.

After the Meeting. The online Employment Service site will remain open after the Annual Meeting is over to permit registered candidates and interviewers to reference information posted there. Users may download files of job listings or candidate resumes for future reference, if they wish. The online 2015 Employment Service will close to registered users at the end of September 2015.

Child Care

ASA is continuing the tradition of providing an innovative program of activities for children of Annual Meeting registrants. Arrangements have again been made with KiddieCorp to offer a full childcare program during daytime session hours for preregistered children between the ages of 6 months to 12 years.

KiddieCorp is dedicated to providing quality childcare services across the nation for meeting attendees. Staffing is based on a 1:2 ratio for children 6 months to 1 year, 1:3 ratios for children 1-2 years of age and a 1:5 ratio for children 3-12 years of age. The program includes a customized hourly schedule of creative and educational activities, age-appropriate toys and games, popular arts and crafts projects, and child-pleasing movies and cartoon videos.

The Child Care Service is located in the Mobley Room on the lower level of the Hilton Chicago. This service is available to preregistrants only. The non-refundable preregistration deposit of $55 per child will be applied to the daily usage fees on-site. Daily use fees per preregistered child are $55 per full day, $35 per half day. For children using the service for shorter periods, the half-day fee will apply to encourage stable populations. Fees include on-site activities and snacks; lunch is not included but meal arrangements can be made through the hotel.

Service hours are 8:00 am – 6:30 pm on Saturday-Monday, August 22-24, and 8:00 am – 4:30 pm on Tuesday, August 25. Parents/guardians using these services must be registrants for the Annual Meeting.

There is no guarantee that non-preregistered families can be accommodated on-site. Child care providers reserve the right to refuse admittance to non-preregistrants. If there are any openings, fees for children who were not preregistered will be $75 per day per child. No half-day rates are available for non-preregistered children; no exceptions.

Access for All: Accessibility Resources and Services

The ASA offers several services and oversight arrangements to facilitate attendance at the Annual Meeting. ASA staff at the Meeting Information & Housing Desk will coordinate resources during the meeting week for registrants with physical disabilities who are attending the Annual Meeting. Special services, which were arranged in advance, may be verified with ASA staff to ensure that you receive the assistance you need. Should you encounter any problems during the meeting or need any additional information while at the Annual Meeting, please contact Meeting Services staff on-site at the Meeting Information & Housing Desk located in the foyer on the lower level of the Hilton Chicago.

Comfort Zone. Attendees coping with illness, meeting fatigue, or stress may use the small room set aside by ASA as a “safe haven” to escape briefly from the noise and bustle of meeting activities. The designated Comfort Zone is located in PDR 7 on the third floor of the Hilton Chicago.

Nursing Facilities. Families with lactation/nursing needs should stop by the ASA Office in Boulevard Room A on the second floor of the Hilton Chicago for access to the private facilities.

Gender-neutral/Companion Care Restrooms. The ASA has designated the restroom facilities on the Third Floor of the Hilton Chicago and the Third Floor in the Palmer House Hilton as “gender-neutral.”

Plenary Sessions. All Plenary Sessions are available as live simulcasts over the web. In addition, the webcast will allow users to access real-time transcription of the plenary session delivered through their mobile device.

Arrangements for sign language interpreters, in-person real-time captioners (CART) may be provided for meeting registrants who have requested these services for plenary sessions in advance of the meeting.

Sessions. ASA has made arrangements for sign language interpreters, sighted guides, and other communication avenues for meeting registrants who provided information in advance of the meeting.
Other Services. Registrants who did not make advance arrangements for services or equipment are requested to contact staff at the Meeting Information & Housing Desk in the foyer on the lower level of the Hilton Chicago. Every reasonable effort will be made to assist registrants on-site. However, if you have a physical disability and need special services, equipment, or accommodations, and did not notify ASA in advance of your arrival at the meeting site, ASA may not be able to provide appropriate services due to the limited availability of some equipment and services.

For more than twenty years, ASA has provided special services and arrangements to facilitate attendance at the Annual Meeting. For an overview, please read the article on “Committee and Executive Office Collaborate to Make Annual Meeting Accessible,” published in the April 2007 issue of ASA's newsletter Footnotes.

Chicago’s “Summer” Climate

Chicago’s climate on a typical summer day, humidity is usually moderately high and temperatures ordinarily reach anywhere between 78 and 92°F (26 and 33°C). Overnight temperatures in the summer usually drop to around 65–70°F (18–21°C), although even in July and August there are usually several nights where the temperature drops below 60°F (16°C). Conversely, on the other extreme, temperatures can, on a rare basis, remain above 80°F (27 °C) overnight. Chicago’s yearly precipitation comes in at an average of about 36 inches (910 mm), but during the summer, rain arises from short-lived hit-or-miss rain rather than actual prolonged rainfalls, and thunderstorms also occur with regularity at night. Summer is both the rainiest and sunniest season here; only the three months of June thru August experience more than 65% of possible sunshine. Visitors are most comfortable with a light jacket or in a suit. An all-weather coat will keep the chill off on cool evenings. Lightweight summer clothes and an umbrella are seldom practical in Chicago. Comfortable walking shoes are also a wise fashion choice.
Airport & Transportation

O’Hare International Airport (ORD). ORD is located 17 miles south of Chicago. It is the largest hub of United Airlines and the second-largest hub of American Airlines. <www.airport-ohare.com>

Chicago Midway International Airport (MDW). Midway Airport is smaller than ORD and is dominated by low-cost carrier Southwest Airlines. Both the Stevenson Expressway and Chicago Transit Authority’s Orange Line provide passengers access to downtown Chicago. <www.airport-midway.com>

Ground Transportation

Taxi: Expect to spend approximately $35 to $40 for a taxicab ride to downtown Chicago.

Shuttle: Expect to spend approximately $15 to $25 for a one-way ride to/from downtown Chicago.

There is ‘L’ (train) service directly from both O’Hare and Midway airports. The CTA Blue Line provides service directly into O’Hare Airport. The fully-accessible O’Hare station is situated in the lower level concourse, which connects Airline Terminals 1, 2 and 3, and is conveniently accessed from Terminal 5 by free, frequent airport shuttle trains. The CTA Orange Line provides service directly to Midway Airport.

The fully-accessible Midway station is right next to the airport terminal building, and connected by an enclosed walkway.

ASA Business Meeting

Summary reports on the Association and its key activities this year will be given by President Paula England, Secretary Mary Romero, and Executive Officer Sally T. Hillsman. The meeting concludes with the traditional transfer of the gavel, marking the transition of duties from President Paula England to incoming President Ruth Milkman.

This open forum is an opportunity for members to share their insights, reactions, and suggestions. Please consult the flyer in your convention tote bag for details on the Business Meeting agenda.

As noted in the May/June issue of Footnotes and the posting of meeting information on the ASA website, members seeking to present formal resolutions should be prepared to provide background materials on the issue to be discussed. Members who missed the July 10 submission deadline may bring their resolutions and supporting background documentation to the ASA Office in Boulevard Room A on the second floor of the Hilton Chicago by 3:00 pm on Monday, August 24.

Major Plenary Sessions

The Annual Meeting theme of “Sexualities in the Social World” is being addressed from the Opening Plenary Session on August 21 to the final Plenary on August 24. Access live webcasts (with real-time transcription) of the Plenary Sessions via the app.

Abortion in America: A Discussion with the Only Doctor Providing Abortions in Mississippi and Three Sociologists
Session 13, Friday August 21, 7:00-9:00pm
Hilton Chicago, International Ballroom North, Second Floor

Session Organizer and Presider: Paula England, New York University
Panelists: Willie Parker, M.D., Jackson Women’s Health Organization
S. Philip Morgan, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill
Sarah K. Cowan, New York University

Abortion was enshrined as a legal right with the Supreme Court’s 1973 decision. Yet legislatures pass and courts permit some restrictions, large geographical areas have no abortion providers, and political conflict rages. After a brief introduction to relevant trends by demographer Phil Morgan, the featured speaker will be Dr. Willie Parker, the only doctor providing abortions in Mississippi. He will discuss the struggles entailed in doing this work, and what he has learned about the lives of the women that seek abortions. Following his talk, two sociologists will provide brief accounts of their relevant research. Zakiya Luna will discuss the reproductive justice movement, which engages in cross-movement organizing to achieve a world where people have access to abortion as well as support for having children and parenting with dignity. Sarah K. Cowan will highlight how abortions are discussed—or kept secret—in social networks, and how this can affect political opinion. Audience members will then join in a discussion with Dr. Parker and the panelists.

The Politics of Same-Sex Marriage: Public Opinion and the Courts
Session 71, Saturday August 22, 12:30-2:10pm

Session Organizer and Presider: Paula England, New York University
Panelists: Gregory B. Lewis, Georgia State University
Brian Powell, Indiana University-Bloomington
Verta A. Taylor, University of California-Santa Barbara
Michael C. Dorf, Cornell University

For better or worse, same-sex marriage has dominated discussions of gay rights in recent years. Public opinion has shifted in a direction favorable to marriage equality, significant social movement resources have focused on preventing or attaining the right of same-sex couples to marry, and an avalanche of court decisions have come down. Panelists will consider public opinion shifts, which social groups favor and oppose same-sex marriage, how social movements have mobilized for and against same sex marriage, and the import of recent court decisions.

Modern Romance: Dating, Mating, and Marriage
Session 136, Saturday August 22, 8:00-9:30pm

Session Organizer and Presider: Eric Klinenberg, New York University
Panelists: Aziz Ansari, Actor and Comedian
Christian Rudder, OK Cupid
Helen Fisher, State University of New Jersey-Rutgers
Eli Finkel, Northwestern University

When American sociologists initially studied modern romance about a century ago, they discovered that most people were fiercely parochial. Americans generally dated and mated within their hometowns, and in big cities they often married someone who lived within a few blocks. This session explores the transformation of modern romance over the past century, paying particular attention to recent changes related to the Internet, globalization, the rising status of women, the acceptance of non-conventional sexual relationships, and the search for a soul mate. The panelists, who come from inside and outside the academy, will assess how singles manage the expanded options available to them today, and examine emerging attitudes about and experiences in committed relationships and marriages.
The Rise of Nonmarital Births
Session 397, Monday August 24, 12:30-2:10pm

Session Organizer and Presider: Paula England, New York University
Panelists: Lawrence L. Wu, New York University
Andrew J. Cherlin, Johns Hopkins University
Marcia J. Carlson, University of Wisconsin-Madison

An increasing proportion of American women and men have their first child, and sometimes subsequent children, outside of marriage. The upward trend began more than a half century ago, and is more pronounced among those who are less privileged. For example, there is almost no such trend among white college graduates. Nonmarital births are typically to couples in relationships or cohabiting unions that break up within a few years, leading to substantial complexity and instability in family patterns. Panelists will consider the trends, social forces encouraging nonmarital births, and their consequences for adults and children.

Internet Dating
Session 482, Monday August 24, 8:00-9:30pm
Hilton Chicago, International Ballroom North, Second Floor

Session Organizer and Presider: Paula England, New York University
Panelists: Elizabeth Bruch, University of Michigan
Jennifer Hickes Lundquist, University of Massachusetts-Amherst
Michael J. Rosenfeld, Stanford University

Using internet dating sites to find partners is now completely mainstream. Panelists will consider the sociology of how this system works. Two panelists will use their access to data from internet dating sites revealing what groups are on the site and who contacts and responds to whom. One panelist will show how race affects who is contacted or responded to among those seeking same-sex or other-sex partners. Another panelist will use new methods to uncover what people are looking for in partners, and how market constraints shape people’s search and contact strategies. Another panelist will report on a survey ascertaining which groups are more likely to have used the internet to find partners, and will put internet dating into a broader historical perspective focusing on macrosocial trends affecting mate choice and family formation.

Birth Control in America
Session 39, Saturday, August 22, 10:30am-12:10pm
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom A, Lobby Level
Session Organizer: Paula England, New York University
Presider: Sarah R. Hayford, Arizona State University
Panelists: Jennifer S. Barber, University of Michigan
Kathryn J. Edin, Johns Hopkins University
Martha Bailey, University of Michigan
Prior to the 1960s, neither abortion nor hormonal contraception was available in the U.S. for most women. Changes in state laws and US Supreme Court decisions brought greater availability, though unevenly by state and year. Today most women have access to and have used birth control, yet nearly half of pregnancies are unintended according to the women. Unintended pregnancies are concentrated among women with low income and education. Bailey considers the effects that the availability of birth control has had on women’s education and careers since the 1960s—and, by implication, on gender inequality. Barber shares findings from a survey that elicited weekly reports from women 18-21 years of age on their relationship status, desire to have or avoid a pregnancy, and contraceptive use, considering which young single women want a pregnancy, and what predicts getting pregnant whether or not it is wanted. Edin explores how cultural meanings of babies, condoms, abortion, and pregnancy testing affect contraception and pregnancy among poor women.

Do Heterosexual Couples Avoid Female Superiority and Eroticize Traditionally?
Session 398, Monday August 24, 2:30-4:10pm
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom A, Lobby Level
Session Organizer: Maria Charles, University of California-Santa Barbara
Presider: Marianne Bertrand, University of Chicago
Sabina Kornrich, Emory University
Christien Renee Schwartz, University of Wisconsin-Madison
The gender revolution has arguably degendered education and careers more than family roles and sexuality. Three panelists present differing views on whether, among heterosexuals, more egalitarian or more traditional gender arrangements encourage couples to get married, stay together, and have more frequent sex. What is the evidence that partners do gender by avoiding marriages in which women earn more, and divorcing when women’s relative status is too high? How do egalitarian or traditional roles affect how often married couples have sex? Is all this changing as women’s superior educational attainment leads more and more couples to feature a wife who is better educated than her husband?

Women on the Battlefield: Integrating Women into the U.S. Military
Session 72, Saturday August 22, 2:30-4:10pm
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom A, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: David R. Segal, University of Maryland
Keynote Address: General Robert Cone, United States Army (retired)
The armed forces have been the only sector of the economy that has been allowed to exclude women from occupations and positions solely on the basis of gender. Two years before the Secretary of Defense instructed the services to gender integrate combat units, General Cone started the Army down that road, and oversaw the process of developing valid and gender-free standards for assignment until his retirement last year. General Cone is a graduate of West Point (where he also served on the faculty), holds an M.A. in Sociology from the University of Texas, and has spent his career in command and staff positions, the latter largely in the area of education and training. In this session, General Cone will make a presentation on the process of gender integration in the military, and answer questions from the audience.

Regional Spotlight: Chicago

Chicago is one of the most populous cities in the United States and it is the most populous city in both the state of Illinois and the Midwestern United States. Its metropolitan area is sometimes called “Chicagoland.”

Chicago was incorporated as a city in 1837, near a portage between the Great Lakes and the Mississippi River watershed, and experienced rapid growth in the mid-19th century. Today, the city is an international hub for finance, commerce, industry, technology, telecommunications, and transportation, with O’Hare International Airport being one of the busiest airports in the world; it also has the largest number of U.S. highways and railroad freight entering its region.

There are a million places to visit and things to do in Chicago: Explore the depths of the ocean at the Shedd Aquarium, catch a flyball at Wrigley Field, take in a show at The Chicago Theatre, or ride the Ferris Wheel at Navy Pier. Chicago boasts some of the best cuisine, attractions, and entertainment in the United States, including several of the top 100 restaurants in the country, and one of the best orchestras in the world in the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. From shopaholics and sports enthusiasts to thrill seekers and foodies, Chicago has something for everyone. What U.S. city is known as both the birthplace of deep dish pizza and much of American Sociology? You guessed it! Chicago, a “sociologist’s Mecca.”

This year’s program features an exciting roster of local arrangements representing the work of members from the Chicago and greater Chicagoland-area. The local arrangements committee, chaired by William T. Bielby (University of Illinois at Chicago), has developed a timely, stimulating, and vibrant roster of regional spotlight sessions, tours, and articles for Footnotes.

Spotlight Tours

One of the best ways to see the Chicago area through sociological lenses is to take advantage of one or more of this year’s local tours. The schedule of tours is provided below, with descriptions and capacity limits. Reservations were mandatory. Those who are already enrolled in tours should have received their tickets in their badge envelopes.

Tours that have already sold out are shown below. If you wish to buy tickets for one of the remaining tours or check on the status of a tour, please stop by ASA On-Site Registration in Stevens Salon C of the Hilton Chicago.

Every effort has been made to ensure the tours are accessible to those with disabilities. Participants on “walking tours” who might require assistance may opt to use a motorized scooter provided by the ASA. If assistance is needed, contact the on-site ASA Office in Boulevard Room A on the second floor of the Hilton Chicago at least 24 hours in advance of the scheduled tour departure.

Fees are noted with the descriptions below and include all entrance fees. All fees go toward tour handling, entrance fees, handouts (if any), and group transportation costs. Tour fees are non-refundable.

The type of transportation involved is noted with each tour description. Attendees who opt to use an alternate mode of transportation, e.g., taking a cab instead of using the subway, will be completely responsible for the cost of transportation.

Attendees are advised to arrive promptly in the departure areas; there are no refunds for missing the group departures coordinated by the tour leaders.

Keep in mind that the arrival times back are estimates only and may vary somewhat due to traffic conditions.

Saturday, August 22, 10:30am-1:00pm
Departure Area: Hilton Chicago, Stevens Salon C
Fee: $35
Tour Leader: José Guerro
At Museum, there will be a 45 minute guided tour of the permanent exhibit, “Our Stories.” This will be followed by a 60-minute long mural walk in the historic Pilsen neighborhood. Regional Spotlight Tour 02. The Hull House Museum (co-sponsored with Society for the Study of Social Problems)
Saturday, August 22, 2:00-5:00pm
Departure Area: Hilton Chicago, Stevens Salon C
Tour Leader: Amy Terpstra, Heartland Alliance
During the tour, visitors will learn about the conditions immigrants faced in the 19th Ward of Chicago, the unique work of the Hull-House residents, the life and work of Jane Addams, and the lasting impact of the Hull-House Settlement.

Regional Spotlight Tour 03. Baseball Game: Atlanta Braves vs. Chicago Cubs
Saturday, August 22, 2:00-7:00pm
Departure Area: Hilton Chicago, Stevens Salon C
Tour Organizers & Leaders: James J. Gramlich, William Rainey Harper College
The Atlanta Braves come to historic Wrigley Field to play the Chicago Cubs. The Cubs were 73-89 last season (fifth place in NL Central). The Braves were 79-83 (tied for second place in the NL East). Sports writers are favorably impressed by Cubs' off-season trades and by new manager Joe Maddon. Could this be the year the Cubs take it all? Does it really matter? After all, the game is being played at the friendly confines of one of the last old-school ballparks in the major leagues.

Regional Spotlight Tour 04. Urban Gorillas: A Tour of the Regenstein Center for African Apes at Lincoln Park Zoo (co-sponsored with Society for the Study of Social Problems)
Sunday, August 23, 9:30am-12:30pm
Departure Area: Hilton Chicago, Stevens Salon C
Tour Organizer & Leader: Christina Nippert-Eng, Illinois Institute of Technology
The Regenstein Center for African Apes is one of the world's leading centers for primate research. The 29,000 square foot center, which opened in 2004, is a living space designed to incorporate natural features of the habitats of two species of African apes—the common chimpanzee and the western lowland gorilla. The tour will be conducted by sociologist Christena Nippert-Eng of the Illinois Institute of Technology. Nippert-Eng teaches a course on behavioral observation in which students study and design for LPZ's gorillas. She is the author of two books based on this course, to be published in 2015: an exercise-based methods book with Oxford University Press, Watching Closely: A Guide to Ethnographic Observation and Gorillas Up Close (Henry Holt Books for Young Readers), a middle grade picture book on the social structure, individual biographies, and daily lives of these gorillas, co-authored with former students.

Regular Sessions
Regular Sessions are comprised of research papers submitted in response to the 2015 Call for Papers. The 2015 Program Committee appointed organizers for 125 general Regular Session topics and announced that topics were open to submissions from ASA members. Paper submissions were due in mid-January 2015.

Regular Session organizers received anywhere from 0 to 300 submissions for review. A total of 192 formal paper sessions were organized from over 2,400 papers submitted to Regular Session topics. Please refer to the Program Schedule for details on each Regular Session.

Be sure to check the ASA website this fall for information on making your paper submission for next year’s Annual Meeting. The paper submission deadline will be January 6, 2016.

Informal Discussion Roundtables
This popular program component is designed to bring together small groups of people interested in discussing specific topics. Informal roundtables offer opportunities for those who share conceptual, methodological, professional, or policy concerns to meet one another and to initiate and expand networks. These discussion tables also are particularly valuable for those who are developing new ideas or formulating issues in new ways and who would like to explore these ideas or issues with colleagues who have similar interests.

An Informal Discussion Roundtable Session is comprised of 15-20 tables, with a different discussion topic assigned to each table. Discussion proceeds simultaneously at all tables listed on each session. At each table the discussion leader will introduce the topic and facilitate discussion among all the participants at the table. No formal papers are to be presented, and neither audio-visual equipment nor recording devices may be used.

Amy Blackstone (University of Maine) was invited to review the discussion topics and organize sessions. One informal roundtable session was created from the 28 proposals submitted in January by ASA members. Time and location of the discussion roundtables are noted below; please see the full session listing in the body of the Program Schedule for complete details.

Poster Sessions
This program component features a series of display presentations that allow face-to-face conversation between authors and viewers. By facilitating informal discussions between presenters and “browsers,” Poster Sessions provide a more direct forum for information exchange than do formal paper presentations.

This year attendees are welcome to browse through the Research Poster area throughout the Annual Meeting. This year the poster sessions are conveniently located in the Hilton Chicago, Stevens Salon B on the Lower Level, which permits more exposure for poster displays. Authors will be present to answer questions about the research displayed on their posters only during the formally designated Research Poster session times.
Informational poster presentations provide information on resources, materials, and opportunities. The annual Research Support Forum includes a major poster session also located in Stevens Salon B to highlight research funding opportunities and data resources. As part of the Graduate Education focus, a resource poster area will be open for browsing in the Stevens Salon B and there is one designated time when attendees can expect to meet representatives from participating graduate departments of sociology. The varied roster of display presentations includes something of interest for every meeting attendee. Be sure to include some time in your schedule to visit this year’s poster displays.

Courses
This educational component provides opportunities for attendees to get in-depth training in special subject areas. Intensive four- to six-hour courses are held pre-convention and led by expert faculty who have prepared a comprehensive curriculum to engage participants on all levels. Registrants will receive certificates documenting their participation and completion of these courses.

Attendance at Course #2 is limited to 15 registrants. Prepaid registration is required; fees are $75. Reservations for the course were accepted in order of receipt in the ASA Executive Office.

Attendees who preregistered should have received their tickets with their name badges when they picked up their program packets as ASA Preregistration. Course fees were non-refundable after July 8.

Course 2, Friday, August 21, 1:30-5:30pm
Hilton Chicago, PDR 4, Third Floor
Ticket required for admission; limited to 15 registrants
Session Organizer and Leader: Stephanie Coontz, Evergreen State College

This 4-hour course offers hands-on interactive training in how to frame work for a general audience, write for the larger public, and deal with the press and media. I will discuss how to become a news source (and when not to be one), how to get quoted, and how to minimize the chances of being misquoted.

Participants will work on identifying what parts of their work will most interest a broader audience (this is often not what interests fellow specialists). We will practice developing clear take-away points and constructing a clear narrative frame. We will also discuss how to find broader news hooks for people’s research results and how to pitch a story to a journalist.

For this course we will pay particular attention to crafting op ed pieces, which are an excellent way to carry scholarly research into the public arena and establish a scholar or researcher as a news source. But we will also examine the differing needs and constraints of print media, radio shows, and television, and explore strategies for staying on message in each venue. I will offer tips on how to pass the secret audition lurking behind every pre-interview, how to answer questions effectively, and the importance of body language (even over the phone). I will also pose questions to course participants, record their answers, and ask the group as a whole to help each member figure out how to answer them more persuasively.

Workshops
One of the strengths of the educational component of the Annual Meeting is the breadth and variety of workshops offered. These sessions provide opportunities for attendees to update their knowledge and skills in a variety of professional areas. For 2015, workshop topics focus on careers and professional growth, academic department strategies, research skills and major datasets, teaching challenges, funding opportunities and grant writing skills, and enhanced teaching of courses, publishing advice, and more.

All workshops emphasize interaction between leaders and audience, and attendees are encouraged to bring questions or problems for discussion. Every workshop is open to all meeting registrants.

An overview of workshop topics is listed below. Please see the full session listings in the body of the Program Schedule for details.

Hone a skill, push your career to the next level, strengthen your repertoire of teaching strategies, and increase your knowledge: It’s all part of the learning curve at the Annual Meeting!

Section Activities

Looking for a way to find colleagues with similar research interests? Section activities offer one convenient avenue for connecting with like-minded scholars. These specialized sessions range in format from formal paper presentations to panels and discussion roundtables. Section-sponsored sessions are open to all meeting registrants.

Sections promote ongoing communication among their members by publishing newsletters, supporting cooperative research ventures, recognizing outstanding work by professionals and students in their specialties, and sponsoring program activities at each Annual Meeting. ASA members with interests in specialized areas of sociological inquiry may join any Section of the Association. Stop by the ASA Membership table in Stevens Salon C of the Hilton Chicago to browse through recent section newsletters and pick up section membership information. Of course, if you join a section before September 30, your membership will help support that section’s program allocation for next year’s Annual Meeting.

The number of sessions allocated to each Section is based on the size of the Section membership. For the 52 sections there are a total of 221 sessions/meetings scheduled. Section activities are summarized on the next page for quick reference.
Meeting days are Saturday, August 22; Sunday, August 23; Monday, August 24; and Tuesday, August 25. Check the daily schedule for reception locations.

Section Council Meetings

The total formal allocation of space for each section is comprised of two parts: (a) one “business” slot for holding a one-hour Council meeting followed by a 40-minute Business meeting; and (b) the earned program session allocation. ASA Council does permit Sections to use their Council meeting time (one hour) for other purposes. However, a Section that chooses to use this option forfeits the services of the ASA Office in the arrangement of an alternate Council meeting time and location. The Council meetings listed below are the extent of the information available at press time. Check at the ASA Meeting Information Desk in the foyer on the lower level of the Hilton Chicago for any updates provided by section chairs during the course of the convention.

22nd Annual ASA Chair Conference

Sex and Gender in Sociology Departments: Policy and Management Issues in the Context of Intimate Relationships and Core Identities

2015 ASA President Paula England begins her Annual Meeting theme in this way:

Sex usually occurs in private and is seen as deeply personal, yet it is also profoundly social. Cultural norms and social institutions such as religion, education, mass media, law, and the military all affect what we do sexually with whom. These social forces also affect what is seen as beyond the bounds of legitimacy. Indeed, contemporary politics are full of contentious debates about abortion, sex education, same-sex marriage, pornography, sex work, sexual harassment, systematic rape as a weapon in wars, and female genital cutting. Given the importance of sexuality in people’s lives, and its relevance to many areas of sociology, I selected it as the theme for the 2015 annual meeting of the ASA.

Contentious debates around sex, sexuality and gender take place within sociology departments as well as society more generally, and raise profound questions for department chairs. Does it matter if faculty members close their office doors when meeting with students? Should there be a policy on faculty dating students? When/how should a chair respond to a rumored faculty-student liaison? Do faculty know what to do if a student discloses sexual assault?
Do department practices support faculty who are pregnant or have young children? What about graduate students? Are there policies and practices regarding trailing spouses—same-sex or otherwise—in faculty hires? How best to handle service requirements for faculty who commute long distances in order live in urban areas they see as more conducive to finding a life partner, or distant suburbs perceived to be more affordable and family friendly? Do LGBTI faculty and students feel safe and welcomed in the department? What about young women in burqas?

This year the ASA Department Chairs Conference will examine these and related questions, helping participants think through a potentially fraught terrain in order to develop policies and practices that support student, faculty, and department success. Participants will also learn new skills to support their work in core areas of responsibility such as department budgeting, assessment and essential learning outcomes, curriculum development, responding to MCAT 2015, strategies for improving department climate, course scheduling and completion ladders, supporting scholarly success for assistant professors, evaluating non-traditional scholarship, assuring quality in online courses and programs, connecting majors to employment, and time management for department chairs. Concurrent roundtable sessions during the conference are designed to allow Chairs from the full range of academic institutions—from PhD-granting to BA-liberal arts—to find topics in each session that respond to their context.

The entire conference will take place on Friday August 21, 8:00am-5:00pm. The conference will be held in Stevens Salon A-3 on the lower level of the Hilton Chicago.

Preregistration and fee payments are required. Chair Conference attendees must preregister for the Annual Meeting in order to register for this conference. Fees for the Chair Conference are $150 for Chairs of Department Affiliates and $180 for chairs from non-Affiliate departments. The Chair Conference fee includes all Chair Conference materials, continental breakfast and lunch.

Directors of Graduate Study
When Just ‘Doing the Right Thing’ Isn’t Enough: Confronting Ethical Challenges in Graduate Education

The ASA Director of Graduate Studies (DGS) Conference is designed to help new and continuing Directors of Graduate Studies Programs gain insights and knowledge that will help them respond to the day-to-day responsibilities of their position, as well as the broader challenges of the changing higher education landscape.

You know it’s a difficult day in the life of a DGS when:

- A promising graduate student’s term paper includes three paragraphs from a published article.
- A colleague complains about “these millennials’ overblown sense of entitlement,” explaining that when he told a research assistant on his project that he would include a detailed footnote acknowledging her role in the work she replied by saying she should be a co-author.
- You learn that a graduate student has hired a data analyst to “run the numbers” for his dissertation research.
- A graduate student complains that her advisor is not reading her dissertation chapters; you know the advisor is suffering from severe depression.
- The dean has stated that all departments will be required to demonstrate how their curricula satisfies the Council of Graduate Schools recommendation that programs provide comprehensive training in research and scholarly integrity. You know the faculty who teach the graduate methods sequence talk about research ethics and IRBs and your colleagues are all decent people and good role models; beyond that, you are not sure what to say.

Using a scenario-based approach, this year’s DGS Conference will give participants the chance to collaborate with peers in thinking through ethical challenges that can arise in contexts such as advising, facilitating students’ committees, and evaluating satisfactory academic progress. It will also examine the place of responsible conduct of research (RCR) and IRB training in the graduate curriculum. The relevant parts of the ASA Code of Ethics will be highlighted, unpacking what is for many a rarely (if ever) consulted document and highlighting elements that can provide helpful guidance for professional training and administration of graduate programs.

The conference will include plenary presentations, panel discussions, and roundtable sessions, and will give DGS from all department types the opportunity to gather with peers from similar departments, with ample time for discussion among participants. Additionally, participants will gain insights on handling the regular business of being the DGS, from time management to administration of exams and grad student socialization to career advising.

Directors of Graduate Study (DGS) are important leaders in shaping department policies and opportunities for effective graduate programs. To assist sociologists in the DGS role, the ASA Academic and Professional Affairs Program has planned a series of events on Friday afternoon, August 21.
Fees are $60 for chairs from Department Affiliate departments, and $80 for Chairs from non-affiliate departments. DGS attendees had to preregister for the Annual Meeting in order to register for this conference. The DGS registration fee includes an afternoon beverage break and DGS meeting materials. Only departments that are renewed for the 2014-2015 Academic year are eligible for the Affiliate price. The DGS events begin at 1:30 pm in Stevens Salon A-4 on the lower level of the Hilton Chicago.

Undergraduate Advisers & Students
Visit the Graduate Programs Poster Area

This dedicated display area features exhibits on graduate training from 40 graduate programs. Participating institutions will display information and provide handouts describing their programs, special emphases, financial aid and admissions criteria, and opportunities to work with faculty researchers and instructors. Information and displays will be available in Stevens Salon B located on the lower level of the Hilton Chicago throughout the Annual Meeting.

Department representatives will be available to answer questions 2:30-4:10 pm on Saturday, August 22. This is an excellent opportunity for undergraduate advisors, undergraduate students, and MA-level students to see displays on graduate programs and meet directly with representatives.

Graduate departments that responded to the invitations issued by the ASA Academic and Affairs Program are listed in the program schedule under Informational Poster Session #81.

Student Forum

The ASA welcomes undergraduate and graduate students at the Annual Meeting. All students who join ASA as student members automatically become members of the Student Forum. Special arrangements for students include discounted registration fees, workshops oriented to issues of interest to students, student paper and roundtable sessions, a reception for students, and admission to the book give-away at the end of the meeting.

Graduate Programs in Sociology Displays. At 2:30-4:10 pm on Saturday, August 22, representatives from graduate departments will be available in the Graduate Programs in Sociology Resource area of Stevens Salon B on the lower level of the Hilton Chicago to talk with students and undergraduate advisers. See the listing for Session 81 to find out which schools are participating. The resource area will be available for browsing throughout the meeting.

Data Resources and Funding Sessions. Be sure to attend poster session 265 and familiarize yourself with the various funding opportunities and data resources which can advance your work in sociology.

Student Book Give-Away. All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting will receive a ticket to the special book give-away sponsored by ASA exhibitors on Tuesday, August 25, after the exhibit hall has closed.

Student Sessions. The Program Committee allocates up to five session slots each year for student sessions. This year, two paper sessions, two workshops and one roundtable session were organized under Student Forum auspices. For details on these student sessions, locate the listings for sessions 22, 84, 321, 448, and 588, in the Program Schedule.

Whether you are planning to attend graduate school, or are further along and look to employment in sociological practice or the academy, please take a look at the career, professional, and teaching workshops.

Don't let the huge program overwhelm you. Start by looking at the Student Forum sessions noted above and then check the Session Topic Index to identify other sessions in your particular areas of interest.

ASA Opportunities in Retirement Network

This new ASA network for pre-retired and retired sociologists was launched followed action by ASA Council in March 2014. ASA emeritus/retired members are automatically part of the network and may vote in its elections; others interested in the experiences and challenges of retirement are invited to participate in activities and to help shape its future development.

The Opportunities in Retirement Network (ORN) maintains a list of retirement resources including an opt-in listserv. ORN produces a semi-annual electronic newsletter, and will have regular features on retirement issues in editions of Footnotes.

Beginning in 2015, at each Annual Meeting, the Opportunities in Retirement Network will host a Regular Session as part of the Call for Papers; a workshop on retirement planning; and “A Life in Sociology” guest lecture to be presented by an eminent retired sociologist.

An overview of this year’s program is listed below. Please see the full session listings in the body of the Program Schedule for details

Film/Video Screenings

Sixteen films have been selected for inclusion in the 2015 film screenings, organized by Jaime Hecht of ASA’s Academic and Professional Affairs Program. The films and videos were selected based on their relevance to sociology as well their potential a teaching resource for sociology classes. All selected films are closed captioned and no longer than 80 minutes. The Film/Video Room is located in PDR 5 of the Hilton Chicago on the Third Floor.

Films and Videos to be shown in the daily screening schedule include:

The Age of Love
The Age of Love follows the humorous and poignant adventures of thirty seniors in Rochester, NY who sign up for a first-of-its-kind speed dating event exclusively for 70- to 90-year-olds. From anxious anticipation through the dates that follow, it’s an unexpected tale of intrepid seniors who lay their hearts on the line, and discover how dreams and desires change—or don’t change—from first love to the far reaches of life.

American Revolutionary: The Evolution of Grace Lee Boggs
What does it mean to be an American revolutionary today? This film traces the life of Grace Lee Boggs, a 98-year-old Chinese American woman from Detroit whose vision of revolution will surprise you. A writer, activist, and philosopher rooted for more than 70 years in the African American movement, she has devoted her life to an evolving revolution that encompasses the contradictions of America's past and its potentially radical future. The film plunges us into Boggs’s lifetime of vital thinking and action, traversing the major U.S. social movements of the last century; from labor to civil rights, to Black Power, feminism, the Asian American and environmental justice movements and beyond. The film's website offers a classroom discussion guide.

Code Black
In his vivid and thought-provoking filmmaking debut, physician Ryan McGarry gives us unprecedented access to America's busiest Emergency Department. Amidst real life-and-death situations, McGarry follows a dedicated team of charismatic, young doctors-in-training as they wrestle openly with both their ideals and with the realities of saving lives in a complex and overburdened system. Their training ground and source of inspiration is “C-Booth,” Los Angeles County Hospital’s legendary trauma bay, the birthplace of Emergency Medicine, where “more people have died and more people have been saved than in any other square footage in the United States.”

Consumerism & the Limits to Imagination
Consumer capitalism dominates our economy, our politics, and our culture, even though a growing body of research suggests it may be well past its sell-by date. In this illustrated presentation based on his latest critically acclaimed book, media scholar Justin Lewis makes a compelling case that consumer capitalism can no longer deliver on its promise of enhancing quality of life, and argues that changing direction will require changing our media system and our cultural environment. After showing how consumer capitalism has become economically and environmentally unsustainable, Lewis explores how our cultural and information industries make it difficult to envision other forms of human progress by limiting critical thinking and keeping us locked in a cycle of consumption. And he argues that change will only be possible if we take culture seriously and transform the very way we organize our media and communications systems.

Earth Water Woman
This film tells the inspiring story of a sustainable agro-forestry community in Trinidad & Tobago West Indies, called Fondes Amandes, led by a charismatic Rastafarian woman, Akilah Jaramogi. Three decades ago Akilah settled on a barren, deforested hillside, blighted with floods in the rainy season and fires in the dry season. Together with her late husband, Tacuma, they started a family and reforested over 125 acres, restoring health to the hills and the watershed just outside the capital city of Port-of-Spain. When her husband died, Akilah continued this great work, initiating the Fondes Amandes Community Reforestation Project (FACRP), training community members as stewards of the forests and waters. Today Fondes Amandes is a thriving village atop a flourishing forest where residents have planted over 60,000 seedlings during the past thirty years. The community is regularly visited by international dignitaries and Akilah is heralded as the Wangari Maathai of Trinidad & Tobago.

Fire in the Blood
An intricate tale of “medicine, monopoly and malice,” this film tells the story of how Western pharmaceutical companies and governments aggressively blocked access to low-cost AIDS drugs for the countries of Africa and the global south in the years after 1996 (causing ten million or more unnecessary deaths) and the improbable group of people who decided to fight back. Shot on four continents and including contributions from global figures such as Bill Clinton, Desmond Tutu and Joseph Stiglitz, Fire in the Blood is the never-before-told true story of the remarkable coalition which came together to stop these crimes and save millions of lives in the process.
60 minutes

Groundswell Rising: Protecting our Children’s Air and Water
Brings us into the lives of people from all walks of life and all sides of the political spectrum who are dedicating themselves to resisting, slowing down or stopping fracking. We meet parents, scientists, artists, teachers, clergy, community organizers and business leaders who are convinced that this unproven form of gas extraction is a serious health and environmental risk. Driven by a deep moral conviction, we see how they are standing up to one of the world’s most powerful industries.

The Homestretch
Follows three homeless teens as they fight to stay in school, graduate, and build a future. Each of these smart, ambitious teenagers will surprise, inspire, and challenge audiences to rethink stereotypes of homelessness as they work to complete their education while facing the trauma of being alone and abandoned at an early age. As their stories unfold, the film connects us deeply with larger issues of poverty, race, juvenile justice, immigration, foster care and LGBTQ rights.

In Our Son’s Name: A Documentary about Reconciliation Special Screening and Discussion with Orlando Rodriguez and Filmmaker
In Our Son’s Name follows Phyllis and Orlando Rodriguez over more a decade as they struggle with grief and search for meaning after their son, Greg, is killed in the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001. Their remarkable transformative journey challenges conventional concepts of justice and healing. Dr. Rodriguez and filmmaker, Gayla Jamison, will be present for the screening.

Pornland: How the Porn Industry has Hijacked Our Sexuality
Pornography has moved from the margins of society into the very mainstream of American culture. From Internet pornography to MTV, pop culture industries bombard us with sexualized images of idealized women and men that jump off the screen and into our lives, shaping our gender identities, our body image, and especially our intimate relationships. In this multimedia presentation based on her acclaimed book, leading anti-porn feminist and scholar Gail Dines argues that the dominant images and stories disseminated by the multibillion-dollar pornography industry produce and reproduce a gender system that undermines equality and encourages violence against women.

Romeo Romeo
All Lexy has ever wanted is to be a mother. After meeting the woman of her dreams and having a big white wedding, Lexy and her new wife Jessica decide to spend their life savings to buy sperm on line. But having a baby becomes a complicated, heartrending quest for Lexy and Jessica. Over six and a half million American women struggle with infertility. Lexy and Jessica’s story echoes that of so many couples - both gay and straight - who are grappling with the medical, financial, physical, and emotional challenges of infertility. Romeo Romeo is an intimate portrait of a modern marriage. Their struggle is at once heartbreaking and funny, landing them in circumstances they never could have imagined. The outcome surprises us all.

STRONG!
Cheryl Haworth is an Olympic weightlifter who has competed in three Olympic Games, winning the bronze medal in Sydney in 2000. She held the title of National Champion for 11 consecutive years. Weighing close to 300 pounds, Cheryl uses her size to her competitive advantage in a sport that has traditionally been the province of men. STRONG! is the story of Cheryl’s weightlifting career, the rigors of training for competition, and her personal experience of being big in a culture that values women who are small.

Tough Guise 2: Violence, Manhood and American Culture
In this highly anticipated update of the influential and widely acclaimed Tough Guise, pioneering anti-violence educator and cultural theorist Jackson Katz argues that the ongoing epidemic of men’s violence in America is rooted in our inability as a society to move beyond outmoded ideals of manhood. In a sweeping analysis that cuts across racial, ethnic, and class lines, Katz examines mass shootings, day-to-day gun violence, violence against women, bullying, gay-bashing, and American militarism against the backdrop of a culture that has normalized violent and regressive forms of masculinity in the face of challenges to traditional male power and authority. Along the way, the film provides a stunning look at the violent, sexist, and homophobic messages boys and young men routinely receive from virtually every corner of the culture, from television, movies, video games, and advertising to pornography, the sports culture, and U.S. political culture.

Wounded Places: Confronting Childhood PTSD in America’s Shell Shocked Cities

PTSD isn’t only about combat vets and survivors of natural disasters. Many of our children, especially children of color living in neighborhoods of concentrated poverty, show the effects of unrelenting structural racism, street violence, domestic instability and other adversities. And their symptoms look a lot like post-traumatic stress disorder. Except for many, there is no “post.” This film looks not at “what’s wrong with you” but “what happened to you” and “How can traumatized children and neighborhoods heal?”

1. ASA Social Media Pre-Conference Workshop 1. The Integrative Use of Social Media to Reach Publics

Hilton Chicago, Stevens Salon A-1, Lower Level
Session Organizer: Dustin Kidd, Temple University
Leader: Lester H. Andrist, University of Maryland
This workshop will examine how to use multiple social media sites in a more integrated fashion. The workshop would include simple points about how to simultaneously post onto multiple social media sites, as well as tips on how to encourage your audience to find and follow you on all your platforms. A second point worth making is what type of content can be posted (images, videos, quotes, etc.). Finally, a more interesting part of the workshop would examine why it is important to have multiple social media sites. 1) There is an issue of format to consider. Different sites are simply better suited for displaying different types of media. 2) Different sites are better suited for dispersing different types of media. The fact that different algorithms are utilized by different social media platforms means that there is no single type of post that will go viral. 3) Different audiences use different social media platforms, so it is necessary to use multiple platforms to engage different publics.

2. ASA Social Media Pre-Conference Workshop 2. Sociological Blogs on WordPress

Session Organizer: Dustin Kidd, Temple University
Leader: Nathan Scott Palmer, Georgia Southern University
This workshop takes academic attendees through the basic steps of establishing a blog — an online space to highlight their research and accomplishments. Participants will consider the merits of various free plug-and-play blogging platforms like WordPress.com and Tumblr. While each has its merits, we’ll delve into WordPress.com during this session, including the following skills: • Creating a WordPress.com account • Writing a post, title and excerpt for each entry • Uploading and/or embedding media (photographs and PDFs) • Hyperlinking to your work • Changing design themes; and updating or editing posts (Space is limited to 20 participants.)

3. ASA Social Media Pre-Conference Workshop 3. Facebook Groups and Pages for Research and Teaching

Session Organizer: Dustin Kidd, Temple University
Leader: Tristan Bridges, State University of New York-Brockport
This workshop explores how we can better integrate Facebook into our sociological practice. It is the most widely used social media platform by far. In this workshop, we will explore the merits of using Facebook Group for sharing research and teaching, Facebook personal profiles, Facebook organizational profiles, and Facebook book pages. These Facebook services can be incorporated into learning environments and collaborative research.

5. ASA Social Media Pre-Conference Workshop 4.
Generating and Engaging an Audience
Hilton Chicago, Stevens Salon A-1, Lower Level
Session Organizer and Leader: Dustin Kidd, Temple University
How do you get people to pay attention to your posts? Good content is key but there is more to it than that. This workshop explores the best methods for reaching a wide audience that includes journalists, social activists, and policy makers. We will discuss the role that following others plays in building your own following, and the appropriate ways to create interaction with others through social media.

6. ASA Social Media Pre-Conference Workshop 5.
Sharing Sociology with Pinterest
Hilton Chicago, Stevens Salon A-2, Lower Level
Session Organizer: Dustin Kidd, Temple University
Co-Leaders: Lester H. Andrist, University of Maryland
Valerie L. Chepp, Hamline University
How can we teach and share sociology through Pinterest? This workshop will briefly cover how to navigate the technical features Pinterest offers. It will also discuss best practices in terms of building and participating in a sociological community with Pinterest. There are downsides and competencies that the platform offers, all of which will be discussed.

7. ASA Social Media Pre-Conference Workshop 6.
Twitter for Academics
Hilton Chicago, Stevens Salon A-5, Lower Level
Session Organizer: Dustin Kidd, Temple University
Leader: Jessie Daniels, City University of New York-Graduate Center
In this hands-on workshop, we'll work with Twitter, taking the steps necessary to establish your academic brand presence on this social media platform. 8. Course. Taking Sociological Research Public: How to Become a News Source (and When Not To)
Session Organizer and Leader: Stephanie Coontz, Evergreen State College
This 4-hour course offers hands-on interactive training in how to frame work for a general audience, write for the larger public, and deal with the press and media. I will discuss how to become a news source (and when not to be one), how to get quoted, and how to minimize the chances of being misquoted. Participants will work on identifying what parts of their work will most interest a broader audience (this is often not what interests fellow specialists). We will practice developing clear take-away points and constructing a clear narrative frame. We will also discuss how to find broader news hooks for people's research results and how to pitch a story to a journalist. For this course we will pay particular attention to crafting op-eds, which are an excellent way to carry scholarly research into the public arena and establish a scholar or researcher as a news source. But we will also examine the differing needs and constraints of print media, radio shows, and television, and explore strategies for staying on message in each venue. I will offer tips on how to pass the secret audition lurking behind every pre-interview, how to answer questions effectively, and the importance of body language (even over the phone). I will also pose questions to course participants, record their answers, and ask the group as a whole to help each member figure out how to answer them more persuasively.

10. ASA Social Media Pre-Conference Workshop 7.
Collaborative Blogging
Hilton Chicago, Stevens Salon A-1, Lower Level
Session Organizer: Dustin Kidd, Temple University
Leader: Tristan Bridges, State University of New York-Brockport
A number of academics now collaborate in blogging communities. In this workshop, Tristan Bridges will share his experiences with both Girl with Pen and Feminist Reflections. How do you set up and manage an online blogging community? Who is the audience for these communities and how to effectively reach that audience.

11. ASA Social Media Pre-Conference Workshop 8.
Social Media Practices in the Classroom
Session Organizer and Leader: Dustin Kidd, Temple University
This workshop focuses on the pedagogy of social media with a focus on the issue of digital literacy. Despite claims to the contrary, evidence shows that our students are not digital natives. How can we teach them the best practices for effectively communicating through social media? How can social media impact their studies, their social activism, and their careers? We will focus on Twitter, Tumblr, Pinterest, and LinkedIn.
12. ASA Social Media Pre-Conference Workshop

9. Framing Sociological Research for Social Media

Session Organizer: Dustin Kidd, Temple University
Leader: Nathan Scott Palmer, Georgia Southern University

This workshop explores the process of telling stories with our data that the public wants to read and can easily understand. This workshop presents the best practices identified in the literature (for instance see Pinker’s (2014) The Sense of Style). Any professional academic can learn how to tweet, but learning how to translate your research written in academese into a human readable format is exceptionally hard. This style of writing is not taught in grad school and opportunities for this style of writing are not structured into most academic careers.

7:00 pm  Sessions

13. Opening Plenary Session. Abortion in America: A Discussion with the Only Doctor Providing Abortions in Mississippi and Three Sociologists

Session Organizer and Presider: Paula England, New York University
Panel: Willie Parker, M.D., Jackson Women’s Health Organization
S. Philip Morgan, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill
Sarah K. Cowan, New York University

Abortion was enshrined as a legal right with the Supreme Court’s 1973 decision. Yet legislatures pass and courts permit some restrictions, large geographical areas have no abortion providers, and political conflict rages. After a brief introduction to relevant trends by demographer Phil Morgan, the featured speaker will be Dr. Willie Parker, the only doctor providing abortions in Mississippi. He will discuss the struggles entailed in doing this work, and what he has learned about the lives of the women that seek abortions. Following his talk, two sociologists will provide brief accounts of their relevant research. Zakiya Luna will discuss the reproductive justice movement, which engages in cross-movement organizing to achieve a world where people have access to abortion as well as support for having children and parenting with dignity. Sarah K. Cowan will highlight how abortions are discussed—or kept secret—in social networks, and how this can affect political opinion. Audience members will then join in a discussion with Dr. Parker and the panelists.

Welcome Reception -- Hilton Chicago, International Ballroom South, Second Floor

All meeting registrants are invited to the Welcoming Reception, which follows the Opening Plenary Session on Friday evening, August 21, and celebrate the opening of the 110th Annual Meeting.

Race, Class, and Gender in the United States
An Integrated Study
Tenth Edition
Paula S. Rothenberg

Like no other text, this best-selling anthology effectively introduces students to the complexity of race, class, gender, and sexuality in the United States and illustrates how these categories operate and interact in society. The combination of thoughtfully selected readings, deftly written introductions, and careful organization make Race, Class, and Gender in the United States, Tenth Edition, the most engaging and balanced presentation of these issues available.

White Privilege
Fifth Edition
Paula S. Rothenberg

Vital, eye-opening, and powerful, this unique anthology expertly presents the significance and complexity of whiteness today and illuminates the nature of privilege and power in our society. White Privilege leads students through the ubiquity and corresponding invisibility of whiteness; the historical development of whiteness and its role in race relations over time; the real everyday effects of privilege and its opposite, oppression; and finally, how our system of privilege can be changed.

Hollywood Goes to High School
Second Edition
Robert C. Bulman (Saint Mary’s College of California)

What do films such as The Breakfast Club, Dead Poet’s Society, and Freedom Writers have to teach us about American culture? Skillfully blending sociological theory and film analysis, Robert Bulman takes the reader on a fascinating journey through the high school film genre. Suitable for the beginning and advanced student, Hollywood Goes to High School is an essential piece of reading for a variety of courses in sociology, education, communication, anthropology, American studies, and film studies.
Sociology at SESYNC

Sociologists are uniquely positioned to examine the deeply interconnected relationships between humans and the ecosystems in which they live. The sociological perspective provides insights into how social institutions and cultural practices influence behavior, environmental quality, and human well-being.

SESYNC supports synthesis efforts that address fundamental questions on the social, political-economic, and cultural processes that underlie society’s most critical environmental problems. Examples of SESYNC projects include:

- A first-of-its-kind quantitative analysis linking a nationwide inventory of toxic releases and the socio-economic status of surrounding communities, revealing disproportionate distributions of environmental harm that have implications for environmental justice.
- An investigation of the institutional drivers and governance conditions of virtual freshwater appropriation associated with large-scale global land acquisitions.
- Research on how the structure and dynamics of inter-organizational networks affect policy change, and how the structure and dynamics of belief networks affect behavioral change.

Postdoctoral Fellowships

SESYNC’s postdoctoral fellowship program builds the capacity of outstanding early career researchers to conduct socio-environmental synthesis research. Our fellows undertake independent synthesis projects and engage with a vibrant community of postdoctoral researchers, visiting scholars, and staff scientists. SESYNC also supports fellows through the coordination of outreach and instructional opportunities, as well as a specialized professional development program.

We accept proposals for independent postdoctoral fellowships each fall. Visit http://sesync.us/fellow for details.

Team-Based Research Projects

SESYNC supports new interdisciplinary collaborations that pursue data-driven solutions to pressing socio-environmental problems. Our center features a range of services from project inception through results dissemination, including supporting the team science process, meeting planning and facilitation, travel and logistical support, and cyberinfrastructure resources.

We accept proposals for collaborative and interdisciplinary team-based research projects under two programs (Pursuits and Workshops) biannually. Visit http://sesync.us/team for details.

8:30 am Sessions

14. Thematic Session. Children and Sexuality
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom A, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Karin A. Martin, University of Michigan
Panel: Karin A. Martin, University of Michigan
C. Shawn McGuffey, Boston College
Amy T. Schalet, University of Massachusetts-Amherst
While the study of sexuality is a robust field, the sociological study of the relationship of children to sexuality is small. In this session, presenters explore three areas of research in childhood sexuality. C. Shawn McGuffey will examine how gender, sexuality, and race shape parental responses to child sexual abuse and discuss findings from his forthcoming book, Blaming Mothers: Gender, Race, and Male Child Sexual Abuse. Amy Schalet will examine how culture shapes children's sexuality. Karin Martin has studied gender and sexuality in childhood for nearly two decades. She has established a line of scholarship on young children's sexual socialization and will discuss understandings of sexuality among preschoolers.

15. Thematic Session. Organizational Responsibility, Culpability and Gender Inequality
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom C, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Vincent J. Roscigno, The Ohio State University Panel: Laura Beth Nielsen, American Bar Foundation and Northwestern University
Robin J. Ely, Harvard University
Reginald Anthony Byron, Southwestern University
Alexandra Kalev, Tel Aviv University
From high visibility sexual harassment and abuse scandals in higher education and the military, to ongoing gender discrimination in workplaces, to efforts aimed at negotiating a more reasonable and fair work-family balance, it is clear that social science accounts require much more attention to the ways in which organizational structures and processes often play a pivotal role in exacerbating or mitigating gender power differentials and inequalities. This session brings together four leading scholars who have undertaken important and cutting-edge theoretical and empirical work on gender and organizational dynamics with implications across a host of institutional domains. Building on their own work, they will discuss the ways in which organizations themselves are actors in the making or undoing of hierarchical gender relations.
16. Thematic Session. Sexual Fluidity
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom B, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Verta A. Taylor, University of California-Santa Barbara Panel: Lisa Diamond, University of Utah
Leila J. Rupp, University of California-Santa Barbara
E. Patrick Johnson, Northwestern University
Jane Ward, University of California-Riverside
For a sizable number of people, love, desire, and sexual behavior are not rigidly homosexual or heterosexual but fluid, changing as they move through different stages of life, various social groups, and, most important, intimate relationships. Panels will discuss gendered and racialized forms of sexual fluidity and the relationship between sexual fluidity and non-binary sexual identities, such as bisexual, bi-curious, heteroflexible, and queer.

17. Thematic Session. Social Movements and the Politics of Reproductive Justice
Hilton Chicago, Williford C, Third Floor
Session Organizer and Presider: Zakiya T. Luna, University of California-Santa Barbara Panelists: Emily S. Mann, University of South Carolina
Sujatha Jesudason, University of California-San Francisco and CoreAlign
Dorothy E. Roberts, University of Pennsylvania
Zakiya T. Luna, University of California-Santa Barbara
How does considering the interactional effects of race, age, class, sexuality, and ability shift our understanding of reproduction? Continuing political and legal attacks on reproductive rights have myriad effects and responses besides those most visible in the media. This panel will examine how the historically constraining legal and social movement emphasis on reproductive rights and health is shifting to a holistic reproductive justice, which draws on multiple social justice movements and centers intersecting inequalities. Panels will highlight various examples of communities innovatively challenging reproductive inequality and the meaning for the future of reproductive rights, health and justice.

18. Thematic Session. The Military and Sexuality
Hilton Chicago, Waldorf Room, Third Floor
Session Organizer and Presider: David R. Segal, University of Maryland
Life Course Perspectives on Military Serve, Gender, and Extramarital Sex. Andrew S. London and Janet M. Wilmeth, Syracuse University
Sexual Assault Reporting at United States Service Academies. Judith E. Rosenstein, United States Naval Academy; Karin Modesto De Angelis, United States Air Force Academy
Open Gender Transition in the U.S. Military: A Revelatory Case Study. James E. Parco, Colorado College; David A. Levy, United States Air Force Academy; Sarah R. Spears, American Civil Liberties Union
Same Sex Families in the United States Military. Karin Modesto De Angelis, United States Air Force Academy; David Smith, United States Naval Academy
Some issues at the intersection of the military and sexuality have been longstanding, such as infidelity among deployed troops and their spouses. Others are in the current news almost daily, such as sexual assault (particularly at the service academies) and the integration of women in combat units (which is the subject of a separate presidential session). There is an emerging literature on the impact of the recent lifting of the ban on gays serving openly, but there remain unresolved issues, such as the adaptation of the military to same sex families.

19. Special Session. The Complex Relationships between Gender and Economic Inequality
Hilton Chicago, Williford A, Third Floor
Session Organizer and Presider: Stephanie Coontz, Evergreen State College
Panel: Philip N. Cohen, University of Maryland-College Park
John Schmitt, Center for Economic and Policy Research
Leslie McCall, Northwestern University
Shawn Fremstad, Center for American Progress
This session investigates the interaction and interplay between gender and economic inequality. Sociologist Philip Cohen examines trends in the 50 largest labor markets to see how changes in overall earnings inequality affect changes in inequality between men and women. Economist John Schmitt discusses how the fall in employment rates for men and rise for women are related to different treatment of men and women by such institutions as the military, incarceration, the EITC, AFDC/TANF, and post-secondary education. Sociologist Leslie McCall discusses class and racial differences in marriage benefits and marriage burdens for women. Economist Shawn Fremstad investigates the interactions between gender and class changes in their impact on family structure, stability and child outcomes.

20. Policy and Research Workshop. Advancing Sexual Self-Advocacy for People with Disabilities
Hilton Chicago, Conference Room 4K, Fourth Floor
Session Organizer: Thomas P. Horejes, DEAF Inc.
Co-Leaders: Katie Arnold and Linda Sandman, University of Illinois at Chicago; Cathy Saunders, Illinois Imagines
Many people with disabilities experience profound marginalization in multiple human rights domains, including disparities in sexual and reproductive health. There are a number of ethical considerations that have shaped how the sexuality of people with disabilities has been viewed. This workshop, in collaboration between the Sexuality & Disability Consortium of the Institute on Disability and Human Development (IDHD) and the University of Illinois at Chicago, will address the rights to sexual citizenship of people with disabilities and ways to advance sexual self-advocacy. Sexual citizenship is a concept that challenges us to expand our idea of sexuality to include marginalized and disenfranchised groups. While the United States has a strong tradition of disability rights, existing sexual policies and practices with regards to people with disabilities remain inadequate, underfunded and under researched. There are four goals for this workshop: 1) To understand the concept of sexual citizenship and how it applies to the disability community, 2) to identify unique barriers that marginalize people with disabilities regarding their sexual health, 3) to identify strategies to empower people with disabilities through sexual self-advocacy and to begin breaking down barriers such as stigma and oppression, and 4) to identify at least three resources for promoting sexual health among people with disabilities that can be incorporated into an action plan developed by participants.
Session Organizer and Leader: Nancy A. Greenwood, Indiana University-Kokomo
Co-Leader: Stephanie Medley-Rath, Indiana University-Kokomo
The goal of this workshop is to help new instructors who are teaching introductory sociology explore ways of designing and adapting this course to better fit with student needs, their school’s sociology program goals, as well as the ASA recommended Learning Goals for the Major. We will discuss ideas from the SoTL literature about both content and pedagogies for this course. We will examine how introductory sociology can function as a course in the general education core, as a diversity course, and as an introduction to the major in sociology. We will also discuss course design and fit with instructor and program course goals as well as assessment of student learning. Participants are encouraged to share and bring issues or questions they would like to discuss.

39. Presidential Panel. Birth Control in America
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom A, Lobby Level
Session Organizer: Paula England, New York University
Presider: Sarah R. Hayford, Arizona State University
Panel: Jennifer S. Barber, University of Michigan
Kathryn J. Edin, Johns Hopkins University
Martha Bailey, University of Michigan
Prior to the 1960s, neither abortion nor hormonal contraception was available in the U.S. for most women. Changes in state laws and US Supreme Court decisions brought greater availability, though unevenly by state and year. Today most women have access to and have used birth control, yet nearly half of pregnancies are unintended according to the women. Unintended pregnancies are concentrated among women with low income and education. Bailey considers the effects that the availability of birth control has had on women's education and careers since the 1960s—and, by implication, on gender inequality. Barber shares findings from a survey that elicited weekly reports from women 18-21 years of age on their relationship status, desire to have or avoid a pregnancy, and contraceptive use, considering which young single women want a pregnancy, and what predicts getting pregnant whether or not it is wanted. Edin explores how cultural meanings of babies, condoms, abortion, and pregnancy testing affect contraception and pregnancy among poor women.

40. Thematic Session. At the Frontier of Knowledge about Sexuality
Hilton Chicago, Waldorf Room, Third Floor
Session Organizer and Presider: Guillermina Jasso, New York University
Panel: Elizabeth A. Armstrong, University of Michigan
David F. Greenberg and Guillermina Jasso, New York University
This panel examines foundational questions about human sexuality, exploring not only the questions themselves but also the obstacles to theoretical development and empirical testing together with new ways to overcome the obstacles. The questions considered include: What shapes sexual desires, sex drive, sexual behavior, and what is their connection to human development, social inequality, and social development? What are the sources of norms of sexual behavior? And what accounts for variability in all these things across persons and societies as well as within persons and societies over time? The obstacles to the advancement of knowledge about sexuality include: the focus on risk and demographic concerns, the social identities of sexuality researchers, and data deficiencies. New ways to overcome the obstacles include new kinds of data and new models of human sexuality.

41. Thematic Session. Masculinities and Sexuality
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom C, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Tristan Bridges, State University of New York-Brockport Bros, Bronies, and Bullies: Contemporary Relationships between Masculinity and Homophobia. C.J. Pascoe, University of Oregon
Average Frustrated Chumps: The Nexus of Misogyny and Male Suffering in the Global Pickup Artist Industry. Jane Ward, University of California-Riverside
Manning Up to Being Gay: Considering Gay Masculinities Intersectionally. Anthony Christian Ocampo, California State Polytechnic University
Discussant: Peter M. Hennen, The Ohio State University
Research and theory continue to investigate the ways that sexual identities, behaviors, desires, and discourses are mobilized in constructing masculine gender identities and in shaping contemporary systems of power and inequality. Conversely, research also considers the ways that masculinities are relied upon to enact sexual identities, behaviors, desires, and embodiments. This panel will address the new research and cutting-edge theoretical approaches to understanding the complex interplay between masculinity and sexuality. Panelists will address the interrelated processes by which gender and sexuality reciprocally reproduce one another, with a focus on masculinity. The topic is intentionally broad, allowing us to consider scholars working on vastly different projects, but whose work draws on new theoretical frameworks outside of existing sociological investigations of masculinity.
42. Thematic Session. Sex and Sexuality in Black Communities
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom B, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Mignon R. Moore, Columbia University
Panel: Averil Y. Clarke, Suffolk University
Celeste M. Watkins-Hayes, Northwestern University
Jeffrey McCune, Washington University-St. Louis
Mignon R. Moore, Columbia University
Sex and sexuality are used to represent multiple images and ideologies of African Americans. Issues of respectability, racial stereotyping, risk-taking and taboo behavior all rise to the fore when analyzing perceptions of and experiences with black sexuality and sexual behavior. The papers in this session examine some of the ways sexuality is understood by individuals and social groups in African American communities. Averil Clarke presents on female sexuality and male gender performance in heterosexual relationships; Celeste Watkins-Hayes analyzes the ways early adulthood relationship experiences of black women shape HIV risk; Jeffrey McCune explores how black men negotiate traditional codes of masculinity while engaging in virtual spaces of same-sex desire, and Mignon Moore examines the intersection of race and gender in the historical development of black LGBT social spaces.

43. Thematic Session. Sexuality in the Workplace
Hilton Chicago, Williford C, Third Floor
Session Organizer: Christine L. Williams, University of Texas-Austin
Panelists: Adia M. Harvey Wingfield, Georgia State University
Kristen Schilt, University of Chicago
Catherine Connell, Boston University
The workplace is a key site for the reproduction of sexual identities and sexual inequalities. Through routine social interactions, managers as well as workers police the boundaries of acceptable sexual expression. This panel will bring together scholars studying sexuality in a variety of employment settings to explore: how sexual identities and sexual inequalities are created in a variety of work organizations; how gender, race, and class inflect the sexual norms of workplaces; and how increasing legal protections for LGBT people is transforming work organizations.

44. Special Session. Is Social Mobility Declining?
Palmer House Hilton, Wabash, Third Floor
Session Organizer and Presider: Yu Xie, University of Michigan
Panelists: Raj Chetty, Harvard University
Joseph Ferrie, Northwestern University
Pablo Andres Mitnik, Stanford University
Bruce Western, Harvard University
Yu Xie, University of Michigan
There are growing concerns that social mobility may be declining as economic inequality increases and as deindustrialization and the Great Recession hollow out the middle class by reducing demand for skilled manufacturing jobs. As the number of skilled middle-class jobs decline, opportunities for upward mobility for those from low social origins may decline as well. Have these and other developments indeed led to a decline in social mobility? Or are the fears trumped up? A panel of distinguished sociologists and economists present the latest evidence.

47. Regional Spotlight Session. Social Inequality, Racial Isolation and the Windy City
Hilton Chicago, Marquette Room, Third Floor
Session Organizers: Black Hawk Hancock and Roberta T. Garner, DePaul University
Presider: Black Hawk Hancock, DePaul University
Presenters: Eric Klinenberg, New York University
Mario Luis Small, Harvard University
Bryan L. Sykes, University of California-Irvine
Douglas S. Massey, Princeton University
Discussant: Sudhir A. Venkatesh, Columbia University
How are we to think about the social inequality and racial isolation that has refined the topography of Chicago in the last 30-40 years? What can empirical research (quantitative data, selected urban case studies, ethnographic, and meso- and micro-level research) tell us about these dynamics and how can theory organize these empirical findings? This session explores these questions through a multiplicity of perspectives—immigration, growing cultural diversity, gentrification of the central zones of the city, residential shifts in housing, exacerbating levels of racial and economic isolation, and new modes of policing and social control. While patterns of social inequality and racial isolation are taking place in other cities, panelists will discuss their work and ideas on how the Chicago experience teaches us broader lessons about social inequality relating to continuity and change.
48. Professional Development Workshop.
   Navigating Your First Academic Job:
   Flourishing in the Early Years
Hilton Chicago, PDR 1, Third Floor
Session Organizer and Leader: Kate Linnenberg, Beloit College
Panel: Celso M. Villegas, Kenyon College
   Marina Zaloznaya, University of Iowa
Graduate school concentrates on preparing us to be researchers. However, when you begin that first job, you realize that there’s a lot more to getting tenure than just publishing. How do you balance research with teaching? What are expectations about service and college citizenship? How do you demonstrate that you are an effective advisor? How can you suss out what it means to be a “productive scholar” and an “effective teacher” at your place of work? Questions abound about how to achieve success, and it doesn’t make it easier that expectations in areas of evaluation vary by institutional type, and even by institution. In this workshop, panelists will share insights and give advice on figuring out how to flourish in a first job. We will also leave plenty of time for questions from the audience.

49. Policy and Research Workshop.
   Interdisciplinary Research and Funding Opportunities and “Big Data” Social Science Opportunities at the National Science Foundation
Hilton Chicago, Conference Room 4A, Fourth Floor
Session Organizer and Leader: Kevin T. Leicht, University of Iowa
Co-Leaders: Katherine Meyer and R. Saylor Breckenridge, National Science Foundation
This workshop targets graduate students, faculty, and researchers who are interested in interdisciplinary and/or methodologically innovative proposals involving “Big Data.” Representatives from the National Science Foundation (NSF), its research review committees, and grantees will discuss current and new interdisciplinary initiatives at NSF as well as new initiatives for dealing with new data sources popularly associated with the concept of “Big Data.” During the workshop we will also discuss the proposal development process for these initiatives, elements of a competitive proposal, proposal submission and review, and funding opportunities that are especially relevant for sociologists thinking about or conducting interdisciplinary work. The format will be interactive, allowing for audience questions and participation. Attend the Research Opportunities and Data Resources poster session for one-on-one discussions with NSF Program Officers.

50. Teaching Workshop. GIFTS: Good Ideas for Teaching Sociology and for Publishing in TRAILS
Session Organizer and Leader: Diane L. Pike, Augsburg College
Co-Leaders: Margaret Weigers Vitullo and Jaime Hecht, American Sociological Association
Join TRAILS staff for a workshop experience designed to help deepen participants’ appreciation of the value of publishing in TRAILS for both professional development and improved teaching practice. Walk away with new concrete ideas. Drawing from the expertise of TRAILS authors and subject Area Editors, advice will be shared on how to construct a strong submission—that is, a submission more likely to be published as a resource with relatively little revision. Participants will then collaborate to apply this advice to their particular teaching activities and pedagogical ideas. We hope to spur your follow through with trial subscriptions and specific guidance.

Panel: Gregory B. Lewis, Georgia State University
Brian Powell, Indiana University
Verta A. Taylor, University of California-Santa Barbara

For better or worse, same-sex marriage has dominated discussions of gay rights in recent years. Public opinion has shifted in a direction favorable to marriage equality, significant social movement resources have focused on preventing or attaining the right of same-sex couples to marry, and an avalanche of court decisions have come down. Panelists will consider public opinion shifts, which social groups favor and oppose same-sex marriage, how social movements have mobilized for and against same-sex marriage, and the import of recent court decisions.

72. Presidential Panel. Women on the Battlefield: Integrating Women into the U.S. Military

Session Organizer and Presider: David R. Segal, University of Maryland

Panelist: General Robert Cone, United States Army (retired)

The armed forces have been the only sector of the economy that has been allowed to exclude women from occupations and positions solely on the basis of gender. Two years before the Secretary of Defense instructed the services to gender integrate combat units, General Cone started the Army down that road, and oversaw the process of developing valid and gender-free standards for assignment until his retirement last year. General Cone is a graduate of West Point (where he also served on the faculty), holds an M.A. in Sociology from the University of Texas, and has spent his career in command and staff positions, the latter largely in the area of education and training. In this session, General Cone will make a presentation on the process of gender integration in the military, and answer questions from the audience.

73. Thematic Session. Biology and Sexual Behavior

Session Organizer: Paula England, New York University

Presider: Guang Guo, University of North Carolina

Panel: Guang Guo, University of North Carolina
Martha McClintock, University of Chicago
Lisa Diamond, University of Utah

Sociologists are increasingly learning from and engaged in debates with biologists. Drawing on recent advances in molecular genetics relevant to human sexuality, Guo will review findings and views of geneticists regarding sexual behaviors of males and females, sex differences, and sexual orientation. McClintock will distinguish five distinct components of sexual motivation: sensorimotor function, sexual attractiveness, sexual salience, sexual receptivity and proactive sexual desire. The roles of biology and social context are different for each. Diamond will take a social neuroendocrinological approach, reviewing research on estrogen-related menstrual cycle changes in desires for same-sex and other-sex partners, and discuss how it offers a new perspective on biological aspects of female sexual orientation.

74. Thematic Session. Networks and Sexual Behaviors
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom C, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: M. Giovanna Merli, Duke University
Interdependent Effects of Cohesion and Concurrency for Epidemic Potential. James Moody, Duke University; Richard Benton, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
Measuring Sexual Networks using Sampled Data. Tyler McCormick, University of Washington
Discussant: Andrew V. Papachristos, Yale University
Sociologists have been developing novel approaches to studying the relationship between social networks and sexual behaviors. These efforts have spanned topics as varied as partnership networks and disease diffusion, statistical models leveraging social network structure to understand sexual behaviors, network-based approaches to recruit samples of hidden and marginalized at-risk populations, and the uses of the internet to collect and analyze social networks data to understand the multiple forms patterns of sexual behaviors. Participants in this session will present cutting-edge research and innovative approaches in the measurement, collection and modeling of social network data to better understand the transmission of STIs and HIV, partnership formation, adolescent sexual behaviors and the study of sexuality in the digital age.

75. Thematic Session. Sex Scandals and their Consequences: Changing Sheets and Changing Paths
Session Organizer: Gary Alan Fine, Northwestern University
President: Thomas DeGloMa, City University of New York-Hunter College
Weiners Galore: Notes on Scandals in the Age of Sexting. Joshua Gamson, University of San Francisco
Explaining the Scandal Stream. Michael Schudson, Columbia University
Politics, Finance, Scandals - and Sex. Mark D. Jacobs, George Mason University
Signaling Perversion: The Politics of Euphemism and Dysphemism. Gary Alan Fine and Clare Forstie, Northwestern University
Sex Scandals, both those recent (Monicagate) and those distant (the scandalous Queen Catherine), have the capacity to shape the direction of history. They may redirect the paths on which social order is assumed to operate. When the hidden becomes known, deviance must be tamed in the name of consensual morality. In this session, we examine how sexual scandals, both at the national political level and at more local levels, change discourse, reveal faultlines in society, and potentially alter social arrangements. Even though sexual actions might seem to be private matters, once publicized they have the potential for the reconceiving social and political relations.

76. Special Session. No Fracking Way! Risk, Resistance, and the Mobilization of Protest against Hydraulic Fracking in U.S. Shale Regions
Palmer House Hilton, Adams Ballroom, Sixth Floor
Session Organizer and President: Anthony E. Ladd, Loyola University-New Orleans
Mobilizing Against Fracking: The Origins and Maintenance of Marcellus Shale Protest in Pittsburgh. Suzanne Staggenborg, University of Pittsburgh
Fracking as a Double-Edged Sword: Differential Responses to Unconventional Energy Development in the Haynesville and Tuscaloosa Shale Communities. Anthony E. Ladd, Loyola University-New Orleans
Fracking on Public Lands: Trickle-Down Neoliberalism in the Utica Shale Region. Sherry Cable, University of Tennessee
The rapid development of unconventional shale oil and natural gas reserves in the U.S. involving horizontal drilling and hydraulic fracturing ("fracking") has ignited a growing anti-fracking movement that has gained political and cultural clout nationwide since 2008. In shale regions across the country, citizens have mobilized to protest the negative socio-environmental impacts of fracking on their communities, particularly its threats to ground and surface water, roads, air quality, farms, and public health. This thematic session features current research on local resistance, as well as adaptation, to hydraulic fracking in three prominent shale regions of the U.S.

This workshop targets graduate students, faculty, and researchers who are new at proposal writing and submission. Representatives from the National Science Foundation (NSF), its research review committees, and grantees will discuss the proposal development process, elements of a competitive proposal, proposal submission and review, and funding opportunities for sociological research. The format will be interactive, allowing for audience questions and participation. Time is allotted for providing advice on how to prepare competitive doctoral dissertation proposals. Attend the Research Opportunities and Data Resources poster session for one-on-one discussions with NSF Program Officers.

Session Organizer and Leader: John W. Curtis, American Sociological Association
Panel: Hannah Brueckner, New York University-Abu Dhabi and Monica Gaughan, Arizona State University

80. Teaching Workshop. Ethical Issues in Teaching
Hilton Chicago, PDR 3, Third Floor
Session Organizer and Leader: Thomas L. Van Valey, Western Michigan University
Co-Leader: Lissa J. Yogan, Valparaiso University
The basic assumption of this Teaching Workshop is that many sociologists have far more experience with the subject of research ethics than they do the ethics of teaching. Indeed, the ASA Code of Ethics does not have a great deal to say directly about teaching. In contrast, the Society for Teaching and Learning in Higher Education (from Canada) does have a nice statement on the ethics of teaching – “Ethical Principles in University Teaching.” Many American sociologists are not likely to be aware of it. The presenters, Tom Van Valey (Western Michigan University) and Lissa Yogan (Valparaiso University), will compare the two statements as a starting point for discussion. In addition, some cases dealing with specific ethical issues in teaching will be presented for examination. Other examples from the participants are welcome. Participants should expect an active session plus resources for further exploration.

106. Thematic Session. Pioneers in the Sociological Study of Sexuality

Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom C, Lobby Level

Session Organizer and Presider: John D. DeLamater, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Panel: John D. DeLamater, University of Wisconsin-Madison

- Edward O. Laumann, University of Chicago
- Ira L. Reiss, University of Minnesota
- Pepper J. Schwartz, University of Washington
- Martin S. Weinberg, Indiana University

This panel explores the ways in which queer theory has been taken up by sociologists in the study of sexuality. While sociologists have been quick to incorporate insights about the normative and non-normative alignments of sex, gender, and sexuality from queer theory into their work, we still seem reluctant to seriously engage other aspects of the queer theoretical framework such as the discursive nature of power and its relationship to identity and social subjectivity. At the same time, sociologists of sexuality and gender have challenged queer theory for its inattention to materiality and its silences about race, ethnicity, and transnational processes. The panelists will discuss the ways they have actually utilized queer theory in their work and how it nourishes as well as limits their understandings of the sociological study of sexuality moving in the near future.

107. Thematic Session. Queer Theory (co-sponsored with the Caucus on Transnational Approaches to Gender and Sexuality)

Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom B, Lobby Level

Over the last several decades, cultural battles over sexuality increasingly have been fought in the health care realm. Drug manufacturers, doctors, consumers, and others now “sell” medical diagnoses such as Testosterone Deficit Syndrome and Premenstrual Dysphoric Disorder and medical interventions such as HPV vaccination and circumcision. Others, meanwhile, fight to demedicalize these and other behaviors and conditions. This panel explores the sources, nature, and consequences of the medicalization and demedicalization of sexuality.

112. Special Session. Open Forum on the Shifting Landscape of Higher Education: Envisioning Effective Responses at Individual, Department and Disciplinary Levels (sponsored by the ASA Task Force on Liberal Learning)

Hilton Chicago, Conference Room 4M, Fourth Floor
Session Organizer and Presider: Margaret Weigers Vitullo, American Sociological Association
Panel: Jeffrey Chin, Le Moyne College
Susan J. Ferguson, Grinnell College
Melinda Jo Messineo, Ball State University
The higher education environment is undergoing a period of rapid change along multiple dimensions. Three specific contextual changes are examined in this workshop: the proliferation of online courses and programs; the increasing scrutiny of employment outcomes in the liberal arts; and the pressure to establish shared essential learning outcomes for undergraduate majors. Developing effective responses to this shifting landscape is vital for institutional well-being and future of the discipline. This open forum will provide an overview of these trends by members of the Liberal Learning Task Force, followed by an active discussion with participants regarding how faculty, departments, and professional associations are currently, or could in the future, address these issues. At the end of the workshop we will have generated lists of potential responses to these changes that will be transcribed and shared with forum participants, as well as help inform the work of the Liberal Learning Task Force.

These plans could involve techniques for onboarding, mentoring, departmental inclusion, creation of faculty liaison positions, awards/ recognition, etc.

115. Professional Development Workshop. From Dissertation to Book

Session Organizer and Leader: Gayle A. Sulik, State University of New York-Albany
Co-Leaders: Dawn R. Norris, University of Wisconsin-La Crosse
Tristan Bridges, State University of New York-Brockport
In writing an unpublished dissertation, graduate students use a clear methodology to learn about a topic and explain it in a way that advisers will understand and validate. The purpose is to demonstrate skills and abilities to a specific scholarly community. A published book is different. It needs to tell the story of research differently, with fresh insight, clarity, and a new readership in mind. This workshop focuses on how to do that. It outlines: (1) the differences between the dissertation and the book manuscript; (2) the intermediate stages in transforming dissertation research into a full-length manuscript; (3) common barriers to this transformation and strategies to overcome them; and (4) elements of a book prospectus. The workshop will provide informational materials and will include audience Q&A and breakout discussion.

116. Policy and Research Workshop. Discovering How to Get Research Used in the Policy Process

Session Organizer: Patricia E. White, National Science Foundation
Co-Leaders: Roberta M. Spalter-Roth, American Sociological Association
Amy L. Best, George Mason University
Kelly A. Joyce, Drexel University
How does evidence-based sociological research influence policy-making either directly or indirectly? A recent New York Times article remarking on the overall importance of social science research in the policy process noted, “most striking is the poor showing of sociology, whose relevance to policy makers appears to be minimal, even though it focuses on many of our most pressing problems, including families, crime, education, aging, religion, community, inequality and poverty.” According to the study cited in the article, over the last decade, economists were cited in the Congressional Record, 4.7 thousand times, historians 2.6 thousand times, psychologists 996 times, and sociologist 233 times. Despite this limited identified numerical indicator of the influence of sociologists in the policy realm, many sociologists conduct research that has direct policy relevance and are committed to using that research to inform solutions to societal problems. A 2014 National Science Foundation-sponsored Workshop on Social Science Research and Public Policy organized by George Mason and Drexel Universities explored the contexts, networks, and strategies that can result in the use of social science research in the policy arena. Workshop co-leaders will present a conceptual framework of research utilization and the relationships that facilitate social science research usage in both policy and practice. They will also discuss the pathways that lead to the use of social science research in the policy process, the conditions which enable and constrain the use of social science research, the networks that aid in policy use, and the dissemination strategies that are necessary. The intent of the workshop discussion is present a more realistic interactive model of research use by answering the following questions: 1. What are the usages of social science research in the policy process? 2. Through what strategies, relationships, contexts, or processes does social science research enter the public policy and practice? and 3. Are there relational strategies that are effective in communicating policy-relevant findings?

136. Plenary Session. Modern Romance: Dating, Mating, and Marriage
Session Organizer and Presider: Eric Klinenberg, New York University
Panel: Aziz Ansari, Actor and Comedian
Christian Rudder, OK Cupid
Eli Finkel, Northwestern University
When American sociologists initially studied modern romance about a century ago, they discovered that most people were fiercely parochial. Americans generally dated and mated within their hometowns, and in big cities they often married someone who lived within a few blocks. This session explores the transformation of modern romance over the past century, paying particular attention to recent changes related to the Internet, globalization, the rising status of women, the acceptance of non-conventional sexual relationships, and the search for a soul mate. The panelists, who come from inside and outside the academy, will assess how singles manage the expanded options available to them today, and examine emerging attitudes about and experiences in committed relationships and marriages.

The Horowitz Foundation provides grants to researchers doing policy research in all areas of the social sciences. Grants are limited only to aspiring PhD students at the dissertation level whose project has received approval from their appropriate department head/university. Approximately fifteen grants are approved each year, in the amount of $7,500 per grant, with additional amounts awarded for certain research areas and a $5,000 additional amount for the best overall project.

Targeted grants for policy research are awarded in fields including anthropology, area studies, economics, political science, psychology, sociology, and urban studies, as well as newer areas such as evaluation research. At the discretion of the trustees, special awards are made in criminal justice, communication, health and welfare, international relations, social theory and policy, scientific and technical research, and ethical issues.

Men, Masculinity and Infertility. Liberty Walther Barnes, University of Cambridge Discussant: Susan Markens, City University of New York-Lehman College
Advances in medications and medical techniques in the 20th century have made human reproduction without sex a routinized and widely accepted practice. The first “test tube baby,” Louise Brown, was born in 1978. In 2012, over 61,000 babies were born with the help of IVF. This session will address issues such as reluctance to admit the need for medical help to conceive a child, the impact of infertility treatment on men’s and women’s sexuality and sexual relationships, religious views on procreation without sex, and attitudes toward sexuality as the underlying link between views on contraception, abortion, and assisted reproductive technologies. It will also touch on views of sexuality, aging, and menopause through the topic of upper age limits on the use of donor eggs and reproductive technologies.

138. Thematic Session. Sexual Minority Intimate Relationships and Health
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom B, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Corinne Reczek, The Ohio State University Panel: Debra Umberson, University of Texas
Ilan H. Meyer, University of California-Los Angeles
Stephen T. Russell, University of Arizona
Discussant: Allen J. LeBlanc, San Francisco State University
The relationship between intimate relationships and health has long been studied in sociology—with a body of research demonstrating that marriage and even cohabitation is associated with enhanced health. However, the relationship between sexual minority intimate relationships and health is in its nascent stages. This thematic session panel will provide a view of the emergent literature on sexual minority intimate ties and health. This panel will provide insight into the challenges and future directions of this research area. The focus of the panelists will be on marriage, cohabitation, and other intimate relationships among sexual minorities (e.g., LGB or T identified intimate ties, same-sex unions) and will cover general health outcomes including physical health, mental well-being, and health behavior. The goal of the session is to encourage and expand efforts and innovations in determining the relationship between sexual minority intimate relationships and health.

Sexuality and Right-Wing Activism: A Historical Perspective. Tina Fetter, McMaster University
Movements against Sexual Violence: Feminists, Conservatives, and the Shaping of Institutional Interventions. Nancy E. Whittier, Smith College
Regulating Multiple Relationships: Future Directions for Sexuality Movements. Melanie Heath, McMaster University
The social landscape that sexuality movements encounter has changed dramatically in recent decades. Public opinion on lesbian and gay rights, especially same-sex marriage has improved. Exclusionary institutions such as the U.S. military have new inclusive policies. But at the same time, abortion rights are being chipped away by state legislatures, and sexual violence and rape continue to be prevalent in institutions like the military and universities. This panel will consider what is new in the contemporary landscape of sexuality movements, their ability to generate legal and social change, and the social consequences of the ferocious opposition they have faced.

141. Special Session. Recent Trends in Mass Incarceration
Hilton Chicago, Williford B, Third Floor
Session Organizer and Presider: Becky Pettit, University of Texas
Panel: Bruce Western, Harvard University
Hedwig Eugenie Lee, University of Washington
Tyler McCormick, University of Washington
Megan Lee Comfort, RTI International
Emily Wang, Yale University
A panel devoted to making sense of new developments in mass incarceration. The American criminal justice system has grown so dramatically over the past 40 years that one in 100 adults now resides behind bars and one in three black men can expect to spend at least a year in prison during his lifetime. This panel highlights research on the broad effects of criminal justice expansion with a focus on how the criminal justice system has infiltrated the lives of people who themselves have not been incarcerated and how such exposure is stratified by race and ethnicity, gender, and social class.

Disparities in Recovery from Hurricane Katrina: The KATRINA@10 Program. Mark J. VanLandingham, Tulane University
Discussant: Kathleen J. Tierney, University of Colorado-Boulder
This session will take place within a few days of the tenth anniversary of the disaster we call “Katrina.” It is widely appreciated by now that Katrina is probably the most telling disaster in modern American experience, not simply because of the number of people it killed or the amount of damage it did but because it revealed so much about ourselves as a people, the workings of our society, and the times we live in. The presentations and the discussion to follow will review findings from research on Katrina conducted thus far, consider what those findings suggest for the sociological study of disaster more generally, and reflect on the methodological implications both of studies that have been underway for some time and projects now under consideration.

The workshop will include short briefings by panelists and then a focused discussion about the primary challenges that scholars conducting research with children/youth increasingly face in dealing with Institutional Review Boards (IRBs) and other institutional gatekeepers. IRBs are sometimes leery of permitting such research on the grounds that children are “vulnerable subjects.” These bodies thus (sometimes unintentionally) impede children’s participation in research, even that which is ethically constructed, and thereby inhibit the contribution of children’s perspectives.
to knowledge. This discussion is a continuation of a conversation from the 2014 ASA annual meetings. We will also pass around for comment working drafts of three briefing memos prepared in the wake of the 2014 conversation that are intended to guide IRBs, schools and early career researchers. Attendees will then exchange information about their own experiences, common justifications that IRBs have used for their actions, any strategies that have worked and other actions that the scholarly community might take to ameliorate the situation.

145. Teaching Workshop. Why Won’t They Talk? Using Discussion and Active Engagement to Facilitate Student Learning

Session Organizer and Leader: Jay R. Howard, Butler University

Faculty often wish to engage students in class discussion, but sometimes our efforts fall flat and we give up the effort. Why should we seek to engage students? What classroom norms sometimes undermine students’ participation? Which students are most likely to participate and to choose not to participate? How can an instructor manage both the dominant talkers and the non-talkers? We will engage each of these questions utilizing a review of the research to identify ways to structure class discussion to engage students and maximize learning. This workshop will help faculty recognize classroom norms related to participation in discussion and how to redefine the classroom in ways that facilitate students’ active engagement and thereby enhance learning.

Being counted in federal data systems is an important statement of public recognition and acknowledgement of the need for accurate information for all population subgroups. Such data can help document disparities in health, well-being, and the equitable provision of government services. Data can also improve the ability of community service providers working with specific population subgroups to access government funds by enabling providers to document service needs. Members of sexual minority groups have been fighting to be counted in federal surveys for the past few decades. Due to recent legislative changes and court rulings, especially those related to marriage, the need for information has increased in importance over the most recent years. This session will present recent advances in efforts by federal statistical agencies to modify their data collection efforts to have the data needed to evaluate the implications of changing public policies regarding the LGBT population.

180. Thematic Session. Feminist Debates about Sexuality: Body Modifications as Capitulation or Empowerment?

Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom C, Lobby Level

Session Organizer: Barbara Jane Risman, University of Illinois at Chicago
Presider: Pepper J. Schwartz, University of Washington
Panel: Victoria L. Pitts-Taylor, City University of New York-Graduate Center
Abigail T. Brooks, Providence College
Samantha Kwan, University of Houston

Discussant: Pepper J. Schwartz, University of Washington

Feminists are often critical of sexist beauty standards. Some have argued that women’s capitulation to changing their bodies is evidence of continued power of patriarchal norms. Others write about body modifications as empowerment, as aspects of liberating the presentation of the self. There has been a flowering of research on a variety of means of body manipulation from cosmetic surgery, to tattoos, to female body building. This session explores the broader issues of body manipulation, internalized oppression and empowerment.

181. Thematic Session. Sex Work and Regulation

Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom A, Lobby Level

Session Organizer and Presider: Rhacel Salazar Parrenas, University of Southern California

The Anti-Trafficking Rehabilitation Complex: Redemptive Labor and Carceral Consumption of Global Sex Work. Elena Shih, Brown University

What’s Wrong with NGOs and What’s Right with the Johns? How Sex Workers Got their Johns into the Business of Rescue. Kimberly Kay Hoang, Boston College

Discussant: Kamala Kempadoo, York University

The conflation of “human trafficking” and “prostitution” has resulted in the heightened regulation of sex work with most regulation directed towards the barring of sex work. This stance is illustrated in the U.S. Trafficking in Persons Report and its call “to end the demand for commercial sexual exploitation” as a solution to trafficking. It is likewise reflected in the passage of anti-prostitution laws as an anti-trafficking measure across a variety of states including Canada and Sweden. This panel examines the regulation of sex work, exploring the option of not an end to regulation but of the development of regulations that lead to the greater control of sex workers over their labor. The panel examines “regulation” by analyzing the feminist principles underlying dominant forms of regulation, interrogating the impacts of various regulations, and presenting empirically-based discussions on pro-worker forms of regulation.

Why Can’t I Be a Professional Jane and Fincher? Social Geographies of Sexuality Education in Diverse Divided Cities. Lance Trevor McCready, University of Toronto

Sexuality education is a perennial site of controversy in U.S. politics. Through debates over abstinence-only education, the place of LGBTQ sexuality in instruction, and the rights of LGBTQ students and teachers, communities, advocates, and policy makers articulate their visions of sexual intimacy, well-being, and justice. These visions consistently intersect with stakeholders’ ideas about youth, race, gender, and class. Their arguments invoke and incite both emotional passions and the presumed dispassion of science. Thus, political debates about how we teach and learn about sexuality are affective and discursive contests about much more than education. In these debates, communities narrate possibilities for themselves and others—lives and desires worth pursuing and supporting. This session will bring together four social researchers—senior, midcareer, and rising scholars—whose work interrogates contemporary debates and discourse surrounding sexuality and education. Panelists will address the following questions, among others: “How are science, rights, and emotion deployed in debates over sexuality and education? “What potential do digital storytelling and other new narrative media have to interrupt entrenched understandings of sexuality and education? “How might sociologists intervene in political debates to redirect their focus and tenor?”
183. Special Session. ASA Science Policy. Capitol Hill and Executive Branch Fellowships: Bringing Sociology Expertise to the Policy Arena
Hilton Chicago, Boulevard C, Second Floor
Session Organizer and Presider: Brad Smith, American Sociological Association
Panel: Heather D. Gautney, Fordham University
Salaeha Shariff, American Association for the Advancement of Science
Each year the ASA, in partnership with the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS), sponsors one Congressional fellow. The fellows bring their PhD-level sociological expertise to Washington, DC, to work as a staff member on a congressional committee or in a congressional office. This intensive twelve month (September to September) experience reveals the intricacies of the policy making process to the sociological fellow, and shows the usefulness of sociological data and concepts to policy issues. This science policy session will examine this successful program and exciting opportunity.

Migration, Womenomics, and Nationalism: The Challenges for Japan and the Implications for Asia. Nana Oishi, University of Melbourne
Fixing Femininity: Culture and Privilege in Transnational IT. Smitha Radhakrishnan, Wellesley College
The relationship between sending states and their emigrants is being redefined. Contemporary emigrants leave countries at more advanced stages of nation-building and with a strong sense of both national identity and obligation to their home country than in previous eras of migration. Sending states ask emigrants, increasingly constructed as “heroes of the nation,” to take responsibility for the economic development of their homelands. Yet the simultaneous feminization of migration poses particular challenges to sending states and nation-building projects because women are constructed as cultural bearers of the nation, women’s sexuality represents national morality and “ethnic purity,” and how a nation treats its women is used by the international community as an indicator of modernity. The papers in this panel explore this evolving relationship between the nation-building projects of both sending and receiving states and the gendered dynamics of migration and development.

The Impact of a Faux Universal Healthcare Coverage in the Incorporation of Low-Income Latino Immigrants. Rocio Calvo, Boston College
Discussant: Tiffany D. Joseph, State University of New York-Stony Brook
When President Obama and Congress passed the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA) in 2010, it was heralded an historic victory for increasing access to health insurance coverage for millions of uninsured Americans. However, given that undocumented (and some documented) immigrants were excluded from the policy and select states refused to expand Medicaid and establish health exchanges, many of the nation’s most vulnerable populations will not benefit from the PPACA. This panel will discuss the implications of the PPACA for immigrants and ethnoracial minorities two years into implementation. Specifically, the panel raises key issues about ongoing barriers to care at the national level and examines the challenges of reaching various subgroups in different locales. Overall, this session addresses how the PPACA, as a major social policy, may not improve health insurance coverage or access to care for certain populations, which has implications for social and health disparities.

Two EMCA scholars who are known for the quality of their teaching will share useful teaching exercises and strategies they have developed, as well as effective modes of assessment, helpful readings, and web-based resources. Workshop attendees will be encouraged to reflect upon and share their own teaching strategies as well. Attendees will learn new practices for enhancing the effectiveness of their own teaching and ideas for putting together new EMCA courses and modules. The goals of the workshop are: (1) to articulate and share experiences of those who teach EMCA at the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to provide resources to those who would like to begin doing so; (2) to provide a forum for discussing the challenges of and strategies for introducing EMCA to new audiences; and (3) to introduce specific resources related to course design, modalities of delivery, and assessment strategies in EMCA modules and courses.

221. Thematic Session. Ideologies, Sexualities, and Reproduction in the Global South
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom C, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Victor Agadjanian, Arizona State University Panel: Jennifer Hirsch, Columbia University
Susan Newcomer, National Institute of Child Health and Human Development
Alison Norris, The Ohio State University
Victor Agadjanian, Arizona State University
Rapid socioeconomic change and globalization erase some normative boundaries, transform others, and create new ones in the developing world. Sexualities and fertility are at the fore of continuous production, appropriation, and contestation of sociocultural norms, expressions, and practices. The session will explore the ideological, political, and cultural construction and negotiation of sexuality and fertility in rapidly changing developing contexts. Specifically, it will examine how these processes are shaped by gender ideologies and hierarchies, population policies and politics, and the discourse on reproductive rights. The panelists will reflect on the contribution of social inquiry to disentangling these complex contingencies and on the role of funding agencies in enhancing this contribution.
222. Thematic Session. Race, Class, Gender, and Sexuality in College
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom B, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Sinikka Elliott, North Carolina State University Panel: Laura Theresa Hamilton, University of California-Merced
Anthony Christian Ocampo, California State Polytechnic University
Rashawn Ray, University of Maryland
Discussant: Amy C. Wilkins, University of Colorado-Boulder
College represents a transition to young adulthood with implications for young adult sexualities. Collegiate “erotic marketplaces” may perpetuate race, class, gender, and sexual hierarchies. At the same time, students may challenge these hierarchies as they navigate the sexual and intimate terrain of college. Panelists will explore college students’ interactions and meaning making at the intersections of race, class, gender, and sexuality to examine these tensions and possibilities as well as their implications for social inequality.

223. Thematic Session. Sexual Harassment in the Social World
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom A, Lobby Level
Session Organizer: Elizabeth A. Hoffmann, Purdue University
Presider: Anna-Maria Marshall, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
Panel: Heather McLaughlin, Oklahoma State University
Sandy Welsh, University of Toronto
Abigail C. Saguy, University of California-Los Angeles
Mary Thierry Texeira, California State University-San Bernardino
Sexual harassment has become a key social problem, affecting both how targeted victims function as well as permeating the environments of those witnessing the harassment. This panel brings together prominent sociologists who will draw on their own empirical research and theoretical insights to address such issues as: How does sexual harassment intersect with racial harassment? What structural and cultural processes enable sexual harassment to occur and continue? In what ways do cultural understandings of body weight affect sexual harassment? As more interpersonal exchanges use electronic communications, how is sexual harassment mediated, intensified, or diffused by the internet? In what ways has the discipline of sociology changed how it has studied and understood sexual harassment and how do we as sociologists need to reconsider our own theoretical formulations, emphases, and empirical foci?

Discussant: Salvador Vidal-Ortiz, American University
The groundbreaking publication, “Chicano Men: A Cartography of Homosexual Identity and Behavior” by senior sociologist Tomás Almaguer, was what broke the silence when it was first published in 1991 to pave the road, validate, and inspire, in the years to come, the intellectual concerns and curiosity of an emerging generation of Latina and Latino sociologists looking for answers to crucial research questions. By exploring topics such as sexuality and immigration, sex education and family life, and relationships and intimacy in same-sex couples, Latina and Latino sociologists have made a contribution to the scholarship that is weaving together Latinidad as more than a minority, and making sexuality as a non-taboo issue. This panel will reunite some of these scholars in order to engage in a critical dialogue about the past, present, and future of sociological research examining different and contrasting aspects of the sex lives of U.S. Latina and Latino populations.

225. Special Session. Framing Success: Immigrants and the New Second Generation
Palmer House Hilton, Wabash, Third Floor
Session Organizer: Jennifer Lee, University of California-Irvine
Panel: Richard D. Alba, City University of New York-Graduate Center
Nancy Foner, City University of New York-Hunter College and Graduate Center
Tomas R. Jimenez, Stanford University
Grace Kao, University of Pennsylvania
Jennifer Lee, University of California-Irvine
Mary C. Waters, Harvard University
Min Zhou, University of California-Los Angeles
In this special session, the panelists will draw on their research to discuss how immigrants, their second-generation children, and the native host society frame “success.” The panelists will address how these groups define success, and the ways in which immigrant selectivity, group resources, immigrant optimism, contexts of reception, culture, and the racialization of ethnicity affect the framing and meaning of success in contemporary America.

226. Special Session. New Developments in Residential Income Segregation
Hilton Chicago, Astoria Room, Third Floor
Session Organizer and Presider: Kendra Bischoff, Cornell University Panel: Kendra Bischoff, Cornell University
Elizabeth Bruch, University of Michigan
Patrick T. Sharkey, New York University
Richard Kahlenberg, The Century Foundation
As income inequality in the United States has grown in recent decades, so too has residential sorting by income. The increasing spatial separation of families and households by income has diminished the share of middle-income neighborhoods while creating more communities at the extremes of the income distribution. By extension, children’s environments are becoming more disparate as local institutions such as schools, and local public amenities, such as libraries and recreation facilities, often depend on local resources. This panel lays out the latest evidence on the segregative turn.
Hilton Chicago, Waldorf Room, Third Floor
Session Organizer and Presider: Aldon D. Morris, Northwestern University Panel: Cheryl Townsend Gilkes, Colby College
Lawrence D. Bobo, Harvard University
Tukufu Zuberi, University of Pennsylvania
Marcus Anthony Hunter, University of California-Los Angeles
This special session will explore Du Bois' pioneering role as a founder of American sociology and the continuing significance of his scholarship in understanding race globally. The panel will investigate Du Bois' theoretical analyses of the nature of race and white supremacy. Attention will focus on Du Bois' analysis of the interactions among race, class, power, and gender dynamics. These scholars will focus on the pioneering multi-methods Du Bois employed in his groundbreaking studies and how he articulated the triangulation approach widely used in contemporary empirical work. The panelists will discuss the relevancy of Du Bois' sociology for contemporary work on race and social inequality especially as it relates to intersectionality, whiteness studies, and the social constructionist perspective.

229. Regional Spotlight Session. Public Education in Chicago in the Neoliberal Era
Session Organizers: Christopher Poulos and William T. Bielby, University of Illinois at Chicago
Presider: William T. Bielby, University of Illinois at Chicago
Presenters: Jess Sharkey, Chicago Teachers Union
Todd Connor, The Bunker Incubator
Pauline Lipman, University of Illinois at Chicago
These are turbulent times for the Chicago Public Schools system, the third-largest in the nation. In 2012 the Chicago Teachers Union went on an eight-day strike over wages, merit pay, job security, teacher assessment, class size, and accountability issues. This was the first strike in twenty-five years and occurred under the new leadership of Karen Lewis. Lewis' reputation as a fierce critic of Mayor Rahm Emanuel's education policies led to the formation of a Mayoral exploratory committee in the fall of 2014, and before falling ill she was widely viewed as having a very good chance of successfully challenging Emanuel in the 2015 mayoral election. The 2015 elections and Lewis' exploratory committee came on the heels of unprecedented school closures in Chicago. In May 2013, with Mayor Emanuel's support, the CPS board voted to close 49 elementary schools, mostly in impoverished neighborhoods in Chicago's South and West Sides, a move fiercely opposed by many parents and community activists. This panel brings together the Vice President of the CTU, a former top executive of CPS, and the leading scholar on educational policy issues in Chicago to discuss the future of public education in Chicago and implications for education nationally.

230. Professional Development Workshop. Thriving at Teaching Focused Institutions
Hilton Chicago, Conference Room 4C, Fourth Floor
Session Organizer and Leader: Alison S. Better, City University of New York-Kingsborough Community College
Co-Leaders: Matthew T. Loveland, Le Moyne College
Todd Schoepflin, Niagara University
What is it like to thrive in a teaching focused institution? Based on conversations we’ve been having at ASA and regional conferences, over social media, in the hallways, and elsewhere, it seems like teaching is on the forefront of many of our minds. For many, we enter the profession with a range of experiences and respect (or lack thereof) around our teaching from our training in graduate school. But what do you do when you (finally) land a job that expects you to be dynamic and excellent in the classroom? We would like to share our experiences as a way to strengthen sociologists love of and confidence around teaching at institutions where our teaching agenda might be equal or greater than our research. We will also offer practical advice for preparing to work at a teaching focused institution.

231. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Bodies and Embodiment: New Approaches to Fat Studies, Gendered Embodiment, and the Body throughout the Life Course
Hilton Chicago, Conference Room 4A, Fourth Floor
Session Organizer and Leader: Sharon Preves, Hamline University
Co-Leaders: David J. Hutson, Whitman College
Jessica MacNamara, State University of New York-Buffalo
Michaela A. Nowell, University of Wisconsin-Fond du Lac
Carla A. Pfeffer, University of South Carolina
Erica L. Toothman, University of South Florida
This teaching workshop features five scholars who have a wealth of experience teaching about bodies and embodiment in various academic environments. The presenters will cover topics including theorizing fatness throughout the life course; teaching from a “critical obesity” perspective, using data to challenge assumptions about healthiness and appearance; gender, sexuality, and the body; and gendered bodily privilege. The workshop is intended to give participants practical ideas and tools to apply to their own teaching. Objectives include building networks among scholars who teach about the body and embodiment and providing a forum for discussing pedagogical challenges in and strategies for teaching this subject. The workshop is intended for sociologists with broad interests and experiences in teaching bodies and embodiment. The theme of the 2015 annual meeting is “Sexualities in the Social World.” One of the most central aspects of sexualities is bodies and embodiment. Whether critically exploring how people “do” gender or sexuality in an embodied way or how perceptions of body size, weight, and health impact one’s sense of self or others as sexual beings, bodies are at the core of sexual attitudes, behaviors, and fantasies. Theorizing the body and embodiment is of increasing interest to sociologists both in and out of the classroom. This can be witnessed in the growing literature on critical fat studies and growing course offerings and enrollment in courses that focus on the body as a primary locus of study.

266. Thematic Session. Contemporary Gender/Sexual Politics in Latin America
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom B, Lobby Level
Session Organizer: Barbara Sutton, State University of New York-Albany
Presider: Erynn Masi de Casanova, University of Cincinnati
Toward a Representative Bureaucracy? Sexual Rights and the Politics of Healthcare in Brazil. Rafael de la Dehesa, City University of New York-College of Staten Island and Graduate Center
I Knew My Sister was Next: Gender and Sexuality in Incestuous Families in Mexico. Gloria Gonzalez-Lopez, University of Texas-Austin
Abortion and Human Rights for Women in Argentina. Barbara Sutton, State University of New York-Albany; Elizabeth Borland, College of New Jersey
States and societies in Latin America continue to grapple with the region's recent history of political violence, state terror, and authoritarianism. The imprint of this history is apparent in contemporary social problems and political developments in various Latin American countries. One area in which we can see these linkages between past and present is the field of gender and sexual politics: from initiatives to create accountability for sexual violence perpetrated in the context of armed conflict and state terror, to human rights discourse applied to ongoing abortion and sexuality rights struggles, to activist strategies to stop rampant violence against women. Applying insights from feminist and LGBTQ studies, this panel explores the varied and specific ways in which legacies of political and state violence, including the emergence of human rights and other social movements, have informed present gender and sexual politics in Latin America.

267. Thematic Session. Feminist Debates about Sexuality: “Hooking Up” as Capitulation or Empowerment?
Session Organizer: Barbara J. Risman, University of Illinois at Chicago
Presider: Rachel Catherine Allison, Mississippi State University Panel: Kathleen Bogle, LaSalle University
Leslie Catherine Bell, Independent Scholar
Discussant: Rachel Catherine Allison, Mississippi State University
Feminist debates about sexuality in the 20th Century focused on danger versus pleasure, pornography and violence. Those debates continue today, but the “hooking up” culture on today’s college campuses has led to a series of new questions. Is “hooking up” submitting to male desire, empowering female pleasure, or about sexual exploration? To do today’s young women have to engage in casual sex instead of the relationships they would prefer because men have won the war of the sexes? Or do young women now feel empowered to seek sexual pleasure for its own sake, outside of the confines of relationships? What’s the meaning of the sometimes very public same-sex erotic experiences of young women with heterosexual identities? Are they performing for the male gaze or exploring their own sexual boundaries?

268. Thematic Session. HIV/AIDS, Politics, and Social Movements
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom A, Lobby Level
Session Organizer: Celeste M. Watkins-Hayes, Northwestern University
Presider: Deborah B. Gould, University of California-Santa Cruz
Panel: Trevor Alexander Hoppe, University of California-Irvine
Benita Roth, State University of New York-Binghamton
Shari Lee Dworkin, University of California-San Francisco
Discussant: Deborah B. Gould, University of California-Santa Cruz
Since the first reported cases over 30 years ago, HIV/AIDS continues to be fraught in the public imagination in part because of its relationship to weighty and contentious social issues such as sex, sexuality, drugs, class, race, gender, and the persistent inequalities that disparately shape individuals’ exposure to harm. Several groups have mobilized during the epidemic’s history to not only fight the medical condition but also its stigmatized associations that limited funding for research, prevention, education, and treatment in the early years. In this session, participants will analyze the evolving study of AIDS politics and discuss some of the latest political and legal issues facing those living with, or at higher risk of contracting, HIV/AIDS infection. Special attention will be paid to the rise and fall of AIDS organizations, cross-national differences in AIDS politics, and the latest developments in the legal sphere, including HIV disclosure laws, that seek to regulate sex.
269. Thematic Session. Social Psychology, Emotions, and Sexuality
Session Organizer and Presider: Robin W. Simon, Wake Forest University
Panel: Shelley J. Correll, Stanford University
Janice McCabe, Dartmouth College
Lynn Smith-Lovin, Duke University
Amy C. Wilkins, University of Colorado-Boulder
In recent years, sociologists have increasingly been exploring the social dimensions of sexuality, including how individuals develop, navigate and present their sexual identities in social interaction, the meaning of sexual identities to individuals, the ways in which sexual minorities cope with stigma and discrimination (including emotion management), the emotional well-being of sexual minorities, the emergence of social movements organized around the concerns of sexual minorities as well as the ways in which individuals’ sexual identity intersects with their other social statuses (e.g., gender, age, race, and socioeconomic status). This session draws together reflections from leading social psychologists and emotions scholars on the various ways in which social psychological and emotions theory and research can and do inform the sociological study of sexualities in society and how in turn the sociological study of sexualities can and does inform social psychological and emotions theory and research.

Guns, Men, and Intimacy. Michael A. Messner, University of Southern California
The Underground Market for Guns. Sudhir A. Venkatesh, Columbia University Discussant: Harel Shapira, University of Texas-Austin
With more guns circulating in private hands than any other industrialized country, guns are a critical feature of American life. The purpose of this session is to bring together some leading scholars to examine various ways that guns shape the American experience, and by extension, the different ways that people experience guns. Each of the presenters examines a different aspect of how guns shape American life -- from their place in familial relations, to how class and race inform gun politics, to the circulation of guns in the underground economy, to the experiences of shooting victims. This broad framing seeks to capture the significant ways that legal and illegal guns as well as legitimate and illegitimate use permeates American life and to see a range of sociological approaches to the topic.

Discussant: Peter Stamatov, Yale University
The literature on globalization describes cosmopolitanism as a sociocultural condition, a political orientation, a set of skills and practices, or a philosophical world-view. Individuals, NGOs, nation-states, and international frameworks acquire “cosmopolitan properties” or embody “cosmopolitan values.” But cosmopolitanism has never been a neutral project, nor do we know much about where and how cosmopolitan sensibilities are acquired. Cultural institutions provide many of the building blocks with which the tensions between nationalism and cosmopolitanism play out. By investigating where and how a cosmopolitan ethos and aspirations, skills and competencies, and political orientations are produced, and identifying the role of material culture in this process, authors on this panel explore the extent to which a variety of cultural institutions create national and global citizens at once.

272. Special Session. Vaccinations: An Emerging Area of Sociological and Cross-Disciplinary Inquiry
Session Organizer: Richard M. Carpiano, University of British Columbia
Presider: Andrea N. Polonijo, University of British Columbia
Social Determinants of Childhood Immunization Status in India: Networks and Norms. William T. Story, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill
Discussant: Laura M. Carpenter, Vanderbilt University
Within the past decade, vaccination practices and policies have received increased attention and, at times, scrutiny. Sociologists have focused on a range of policy-relevant vaccinations issues—including ethics debates over state-mandated vaccination, disparities in vaccine uptake, and the resurgence of the anti-vaccine movement. This session builds on emerging scholarship by bringing together a cross-disciplinary panel to: (1) present work on diverse topics pertaining to vaccination, and (2) generate consideration of how these distinct lines of inquiry are informed by and, in turn, illuminate broader theoretical and substantive areas of sociology—such as medical and family sociology, social movements, sexuality, and social inequality.

274. Departmental Management and Leadership Workshop. Getting Your Dean’s Attention: AKD as a Tool for Helping Your Department Thrive and Survive

Session Organizer and Leader: Jeffrey Chin, Le Moyne College
At a time when many departments are under pressure to demonstrate that sociology is an important part of a liberal arts curriculum, Alpha Kappa Delta (AKD), the international honor society for sociology can help. Join us for a workshop that discusses ways that AKD adds value to your department by: - highlighting academic excellence and helping to recruit students to the major - helping with student retention - providing students with a focal point that will enhance their identity as sociology majors - supporting student research initiatives (AKD research symposium grant program; AKD undergraduate/graduate student paper competition) - supporting the professional socialization of students by providing avenues for displaying their best work (AKD student travel grants to regional sociology meetings, AKD mentor/mentee program) - benefits of membership for students (e.g., two-step raise to GS7 pay scale for federal employment) - supporting initiatives by the Association of College Honor Societies (the parent organization of AKD and all other honor societies) to demonstrate the relevance of honor societies on campuses On hand will be representatives from AKD including officers, staff of the executive office, faculty of successful chapters, graduate and undergraduate student members of AKD including the current year paper competition winners and others who will give short presentations. There will be ample time set aside for questions and answers and time to consult with workshop leaders.

275. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Students How (Not) to Lie with Statistics: Quantitative Literacy throughout the Curriculum

Session Organizer and Leader: Lynette F. Hoelter, University of Michigan
Sifting through the many megabytes of data with which we are bombarded each day takes practice. This workshop will focus on teaching students how to evaluate the data with which they come in daily contact (think Joel Best’s books). Examples numbers being misused or misrepresented can be the trigger students need to begin to think critically about the specific arguments being made and the nature of empirical evidence in general. We will present a variety of sources for numbers and exercises that can be used in teaching and examples of their use. Most of the examples will be geared toward “substantive” classes rather than research methods or statistics because those “content courses” provide a gentle entre for students into the world of data (and they tend to reach more students). Because working with numerical evidence is as much or more a mindset as it is a set of mathematical skills, the content should be especially helpful for faculty who might otherwise consider themselves “non-quantitative.” Time will also be left for attendees to share what has worked in their classes and their favorite sources of data or exercises.

309. Thematic Session. Adolescent Sexualities in Context
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom A, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Peggy C. Giordano, Bowling Green State University Panel: Ann Meier, University of Minnesota
   Peggy C. Giordano, Bowling Green State University
   Lorena Garcia, University of Illinois at Chicago
Recognizing limits of the “problem behavior” perspective on adolescent sexuality, panel members explore individual, relationship, and broader contextual (school, neighborhood) influences on sexual experiences and their impact on well-being. One panelist explores how these contextual factors matter for understanding later mental health, while another focuses on variability in the character of these experiences (casual sexual experience, involvement in concurrent relationships) as influences on young adult relationship dynamics (including relationship satisfaction, intimate partner violence). Two panelists draw more explicit links to policy: one suggests the need to move beyond the focus on issues of identity and family support to consider how structural conditions (of schools, but also political climate) make a difference for understanding LGBTQ health and well-being. A fourth panelist uses the example of Chicago’s new school-based sex education initiative to highlight ways in which intersections of race/ethnicity, gender, and sexuality necessarily complicate the successful implementation of a broad-based curriculum.
310. Thematic Session. Sexualities in the Penal World
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom B, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Megan Lee Comfort, RTI International Panel: Jessica Fields, San Francisco State University
Valerie Jenness, University of California-Irvine
Erin M. Kerrison, University of Pennsylvania
Laura Beth Nielsen, American Bar Foundation and Northwestern University
Jay W. Borchert, University of Michigan
Discussant: Megan Lee Comfort, RTI International
In correctional facilities in the United States, the expression of sexuality is framed as problematic and requiring heavy censorship, and sexual behavior is prohibited and considered as grounds for further punishment. This Thematic Session delves into this repressive environment to illuminate how incarcerated people think about, enact, and manage sexuality. Presenters will explore the questions and insights that arise when conducting participatory sexuality research with women in jail; the challenges facing transgender prisoners as they navigate a highly binary, genitalia-based classification system; how the Prison Rape Elimination Act has in turn eliminated possibilities for consensual sex among prisoners; and the repercussions of formerly incarcerated queer women constructing heteronormative households in an effort to conform to parole officers’ expectations.

311. Thematic Session. Sexuality and Space or Place
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom C, Lobby Level
Session Organizer: Amy L. Stone, Trinity University
Presider: Eve Ilana Shapiro, University of California-Santa Barbara Panel: Japonica Brown-Saracino, Boston University
Amin Ghaziani, University of British Columbia
Amy L. Stone, Trinity University
Katherine McFarland Bruce, Elon University
Discussant: Eve Ilana Shapiro, University of California-Santa Barbara
This panel reflects on the organization of sexualities within different kinds of spaces and places, including ephemeral and transformed spaces. From the Pride parade to the gay neighborhood, this panel considers the role of different spaces in supporting and cultivating sexual cultures. This panel engages with questions of sexuality and space with attention to the ephemerality of some queer spaces.

312. Thematic Session. Where is the Sex in Sexuality Studies?
Session Organizer and Presider: Juan J. Battle, City University of New York-Graduate Center
Panel: Gloria Gonzalez-Lopez, University of Texas-Austin
Angeline Harris, Marquette University
Antonio (Jay) Pastrana, City University of New York-John Jay College
Tanya Saunders, The Ohio State University
This session will explore the question of whether and how we inquire and write about sexual practices in sociological research. Beyond identity and attractionality, how does behavior – sex – enter into this particular dialogue of sexuality studies? Special attention will be paid to how researchers have studied and can study the intersection(s) of sexuality and race. More specifically, when dealing with these issues, how has the field interrogated experiences of racial and sexual minorities? What are ways that these unique populations are being empowered, pathologized, or both? What populations are not being considered? What are the unexplored questions? In this session, leading scholars in the field will examine how these questions (and answers) can be better incorporated into our research, teaching, and (professional) service.

313. Special Session. Audits and Field Experiments
Session Organizer and Presider: S. Michael Gaddis, University of Michigan
Résumé Audits in Unconventional Contexts: Auditing Chinese State-Owned Enterprises and Elite U.S. Law Firms. András Tilcsik, University of Toronto
The Stigma of Place: Choosing a Socially Relevant Definition of Neighborhood in an Experimental Audit Study. Max Besbris, Jacob William Faber, and Peter M. Rich, New York University
By Any Other Name: Two Experiments to Examine Perceptions of Race and Social Class from Names. S. Michael Gaddis, University of Michigan
Discussant: Raj Andrew Ghoshal, Goucher College
Audit studies and other field experiments allow researchers to make strong causal claims and explore questions that are often difficult to answer with observational data. These experiments have grown in popularity, particularly to examine different types of discrimination, with the rise of online applications for housing and employment. In recent years, sociologists, economists, and political scientists have implemented creative and influential computerized field experiments. However, the learning curve for designing and implementing these experiments online can be quite steep, despite appearing to be a simple and cheap alternative to traditional experiments. In this panel, experienced scholars will share insights from both their success and failures in designing and implementing audits and other field experiments. In addition, the scholars will discuss new techniques and cutting-edge methods in this area.
314. Special Session. Patriarchy Revisited

Session Organizer: Paula England, New York University
Presider: Nancy Folbre, University of Massachusetts
Panel: Sylvia Walby, Lancaster University
  Heidi I. Hartmann, Institute for Women's Policy Research
  Nancy Folbre, University of Massachusetts

The concept of patriarchy played a central role in the resurgence of feminist theory in the 1970s and 1980s. Since then, however, use of the concept has waned, discouraged by post-modernist critiques and displaced by new waves of more empirically oriented gender analysis. Panelists will discuss these questions: What does it mean to describe some aspects of economic and social structure as patriarchal? Is the overarching concept of patriarchy still useful for understanding gender inequality? If so, what aspects of patriarchy have the most important effects today and what does this suggest feminist activists and policy makers should focus on? How can scholars analyze differences across space and over time in patriarchal systems embedded in a global capitalist economy?

315. Special Session. Race and Policing Post-Ferguson

Session Organizer: Devah Pager, Harvard University
Panel: Lawrence W. Sherman, University of Pennsylvania
  Nikki Jones, University of California-Berkeley
  Jennifer Eberhardt, Stanford University

This session grapples with the issues of race and policing in the post-Ferguson era. How can we understand the individual and organizational processes that lead to fatal encounters between the police and civilians, and how can we explain the disproportionate policing of young black men? How do young men and women of color experience policing in their communities and how do these interactions shape their outlook and sense of opportunity? Drawing on perspectives from criminology, ethnography, and social psychology, our panelists will open a conversation about these pressing social concerns.

316. Special Session. The 50th Anniversary of the Voting Rights Act and the Future of American Democracy
Hilton Chicago, Waldorf Room, Third Floor

Session Organizer and Presider: Jeff Manza, New York University Panel: Frances Fox Piven, City University of New York
  Ellen Katz, University of Michigan
  Kareem Crayton, Duke University
  Pamela Karlan, Stanford University

The right to vote is fundamental in a democratic society, one which gives meaning and power to all other rights. The Voting Rights Act (VRA) of 1965 was a crowning achievement of the civil rights movement, finally establishing the right to vote for all American citizens. Yet the VRA has had a tortured history in the hands of federal courts, partisan legislators and district gerrymandering. More recently, campaigns to restrict access to the ballot for minority and poor citizens have been widespread across America, suggesting that 50 years after its passage the VRA and the right to vote still continues to be a contested question. This panel will discuss the future of the VRA and voting rights in America.

Hilton Chicago, Williford A, Third Floor

Session Organizer: Tomas R. Jimenez, Stanford University
Critics: Dina G. Okamoto, Indiana University
  Edward E. Telles, Princeton University
  John Strentny, University of California-San Diego
Author: G. Cristina Mora, University of California-Berkeley

318. Policy and Research Workshop. Conducting Community-Based Participatory Research (CBPR) to Address Health Inequities

Session Organizer and Leader: Ethel G. Nicdao, University of the Pacific

CBPR is an approach to research that involves community-academic partnerships. One of the main tenets of CBPR is that community partners are active contributors to the research process. The purpose of the workshop is to provide a brief overview of CBPR, and discuss the application of CBPR in social science research. Panelists (Sonia Bettez & Julie Lucero, University of New Mexico; Michael Muhammad, University of Michigan; and Maya Magarati, University of Washington) will share their insights on the rewards, challenges, and limitations of CBPR; considerations of qualitative and quantitative methods; and the role of sociologists in framing the social contexts that emerge in addressing health disparities, improving health status, and health equity. Finally, to encourage audience participation, the workshop will include a small group exercise on using CBPR to define the policy objective related to a specific social problem.
319. Teaching Workshop. Incorporating Disability in Intersectional Pedagogy
Session Organizers: Heather Powers Albanesi and Abby L. Ferber, University of Colorado-Colorado Springs
Leader: Heather Powers Albanesi, University of Colorado-Colorado Springs
Co-Leader: Abby L. Ferber, University of Colorado-Colorado Springs
The teaching workshop is designed for faculty and future faculty who teach about inequalities through an intersectional lens. Disabilities are often the most tangential and marginalized system of oppression and privilege in intersectional courses. As experienced faculty who have long taught about these subjects and value an intersectional perspective, we have engaged in a multi-year process of incorporating disabilities into our own, and our colleagues’, pedagogy. We will discuss the process of curriculum transformation we organized on our campus, insights gained from working with a leading expert in the field of disabilities studies, the development of a graduate certificate in disability studies, and the ways in which we have brought disability studies into our own courses, especially our sexuality classes. Afraid you don’t have the expertise, experience or medical knowledge to incorporate disability into your own intersectional pedagogy? This interactive workshop will offer tips and strategies for getting started.

320. Minority Fellowship Program (MFP)
Professional Development Workshop. Getting a Grant When You Study Diversity-Related Topics
Session Organizers: Jean H. Shin and Beth Floyd, American Sociological Association
Co-Leaders: Jean H. Shin and Roberta M. Spalter-Roth, American Sociological Association
This workshop focuses on the grant-getting process, based on ten+ years of successful and unsuccessful proposals analyzing under-represented minority (URM) career trajectories in sociology including issues such as mentoring, inclusion, and publishing. The workshop will discuss steps in the grant process—the statement of the problem, the need for a compelling concept, and the use of data to bolster arguments. Hints will be given on proposal styles, and when to use emotion. Workshop participants will be encouraged to discuss their on-going proposals and to receive feedback.

Sex for Silver: Internet Dating, Playfairs and Erotic Capital. Catherine Hakim, Civitas
Although most research on sexuality focuses on adolescents, young adults and those in the childbearing years, a substantial majority of those in middle age and older ages are sexually active. Both the probability of and the behaviors included in sex change with age, as older adults—especially women—often outlive their partners and rarely report sex outside marriage or cohabitation. But even among married and cohabiting adults, the chances of being sexually active decline with age and the health of the partners. The development of chronic diseases, such as hypertension or cardiovascular disease, affects sexuality in ways that we are just beginning to understand. And aging sexuality can be especially fraught for gay men and lesbians. This session will address sexuality in middle and older ages, with a focus on recent perspectives and findings and some international comparisons.

Cohabitation in Europe. Teresa Castro-Martin, Spanish National Research Council
Cohabitation has been increasing at a rapid pace across the life span. Key recent trends in the U.S. include the following: the majority of young adults have cohabited; two-thirds of marriages today are preceded by cohabitation; growth in serial cohabitation; the increase in nonmarital childbearing is driven by births to cohabiting parents; and a doubling of cohabitation among adults over age 50. The panelists will help unravel these recent changes in cohabitation patterns and reflect on the future of cohabitation in the U.S. and Europe. Panelists will discuss the meaning of cohabitation and ties to marriage as well as the precursors to cohabitation. Cohabitation among young as well as older adults will be showcased. Cohabitation patterns in Europe will be presented providing important insights into varying family systems. Crosscutting the presentations will be a consideration of social class and race/ethnic variation in cohabitation.

Discussant: Allison C. Carey, Shippensburg University
While those who fit the heteronormative able-bodied norm may enjoy the illusion of privacy and experience freedom from state and social censure in their sexual expression, many people with disabilities viscerally feel the nexus of the public and private spheres as their identities, intimate relationships, and personal choices are stripped away and their personhood denied. This panel connects the challenges of intimate and sexual citizenships directly with the social construct and lived experience of disability. In doing so, we explore, on the macro level, the ways in which “disabled sex” is erased, eroticized, made deviant, and shunned. Further, we explore, on the micro level, the ways that people with disabilities negotiate ablest assumptions and socio-political structures as they develop a sexual identity through their life course.

356. Thematic Session. Transgendering Sexual Rights: Lessons from Latin America
Session Organizer and President: Salvador Vidal-Ortiz, American University Panel: Alberto Roque Guerra, Cuban Multidisciplinary Association for Sexuality Studies
Gloria Caragea, National Autonomous University of Mexico
Carlos Figari, Buenos Aires University
Discussant: Salvador Vidal-Ortiz, American University
In 2012, Argentina became the first country to legally offer gender identity recognition, based on a person’s self-identification, to transgender people. This did not happen in the global, presumably developed North, but in the chaotic, financially struggling South. Social activists in countries such as Colombia, Cuba, Mexico and Brazil have fought for rights and recognition for transgendered people. Yet this region faces structural forces that lead many transgender women, in particular, to engage in survival prostitution, and give troubling invisibility to transgender men. Transgender people face structural vulnerabilities enacted through everyday violence; at the same time, some countries have developed degree completion schools, textile and non-street economies, alternative housing, and centers that train on basic employment skills. Traditional sociological approaches to transgender scholarship can be rethought based on these experiences; the advancements and challenges we see in Latin America are important lessons for an interested US American audience.
357. Special Session. Crossing the Scholar-Activist Line
Hilton Chicago, Waldorf Room, Third Floor
Session Organizer: Jose Zapata Calderon, Pitzer College
Presider: Gregory D. Squires, George Washington University
Panel: Mark R. Warren, University of Massachusetts-Boston Patricia Hill Collins, University of Maryland-College Park
Jose Zapata Calderon, Pitzer College
Veronica Terrizue, University of Southern California
A panel of activist sociologists will present on how activist sociologists can maintain a passion for social justice while ensuring the demands of academia. The presenters will draw on lessons from their roles as scholar-activists with a focus on the arenas in which they work (labor, immigrant rights, community development, global social movement, feminist, communities of color, LGBT communities). Panelists will address new models of research, learning, and practice that are engaging faculty, students, and partners in problem solving to find solutions to community problems; lessons in fulfilling professional academic objectives (e.g. publishing in scholarly journals, getting tenure) while engaging in community-based research; research and practices of developing the classroom as part of the civic realm and that encourage the interconnections between the local and global.

358. Special Session. Gender, Family, and Sexuality in Comparative Perspective
Session Organizer: Janeen H. Baxter, University of Queensland
Work Flexibility and Work-Family Life of Men and Women in European Countries. Tanja Van der Lippe, Utrecht University
Women’s Labor Market Status, Gender Empowerment and Family Well-Being: Evidence from 1994-2012. Leah Ruppanner, University of Melbourne; Belinda Hewitt, University of Queensland; Tsui-o Tai, National Taipei University
Continuity and Change in Gender Roles: The Case of China. Jean Yeung Wei-Jun and Hu Shu, National University-Singapore
Sexual Orientation and Social Disadvantage over the Life Course in Australia and the United Kingdom. Janeen H. Baxter and Francisco Perales, University of Queensland; Tsui-o Tai, National Taipei University
This session features research papers on comparative research on gender, family and sexuality. Two main themes unite them. First, all papers focus on the importance of the institutional environment in shaping individual outcomes in interpersonal relationships, work and family life. Second, the papers are concerned with links between employment and family life as ongoing sources of gender inequality. Van Der Lippe uses recent European data to examine variations in patterns of work flexibility and their impact on family arrangements. Ruppanner investigates whether women’s labor market position and gender empowerment at the country-level have differential effects on gender role expectations, gender gaps in housework and work-family strain over time. Wei-Jun provides evidence of changes over time in the level and determinants of gender inequality with reference to China. Finally, Baxter et al. examine whether sexual identity is associated with labor market performance, wellbeing and family relationships in the UK and Australia.

John Hagedorn and Bart Kmiecik, University of Illinois at Chicago
Like most big cities, crime is lower now in Chicago than it has been in decades. But violent crime is still endemic to impoverished neighborhoods, as are issues of trust and concerns about lack of police accountability. Chicago also struggles with the legacy of the damage done by notorious police commander Jon Burge and his subordinates, who used torture to elicit confessions from over 100 African American men in the 70s and 80s. This session brings together historians and social scientists who have done path breaking work on police-community relations in Chicago who will discuss their work and implications for policing and race relations more broadly.
362. Professional Development Workshop. Reviewing for Medical Sociology and Mental Health Journals
Session Organizers: Susan E. Bell, Bowdoin College and Virginia Aldige Hiday, North Carolina State University
Co-Leaders: Gilbert C. Gee, University of California-Los Angeles
Gareth Williams, Cardiff University
Elaine Wethington, Cornell University
This workshop is designed for young sociologists to assist them in the important and essential task of professional sociologists, writing manuscript reviews for journals. Editors of three medical sociology and mental health journals will provide suggestions for writing well crafted, informative, critical and helpful reviews (Society and Mental Health, Journal of Health and Social Behavior, Sociology of Health & Illness). The editors will discuss objectivity, criteria for revision recommendations, helpful considerations for authors, time allocations, timely submissions, conflict of interests, and ethics. Sociologists at more advanced stages and in other areas are welcome.

363. Social Media Workshop. Promoting Social Science with Social Media
Session Organizer and Leader: Dustin Kidd, Temple University
How can you build and engage an audience for your social science scholarship using social media? This workshop will step through the top social media platforms for sharing your research and promoting your department. We will explore the value of Twitter, Facebook, Google +, WordPress, Tumblr, LinkedIn, Academia.edu, Pinterest, YouTube, and Instagram. We will study the best practices for using social media to reach a wide audience that includes journalists, activists, and policy makers. We also discuss ways that you can incorporate social media into research and teaching practices. Participants can also learn from each other's experiences during the discussion period.

364. Policy and Research Workshop. How to Write a Successful Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline (FAD) Proposal
Session Organizer: Nicole V. Amaya, American Sociological Association
Presider: John W. Curtis, American Sociological Association
Panel: Amy L. Stone, Trinity University
James Michael Thomas, University of Mississippi
Wendy D. Roth, University of British Columbia
The Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline (FAD) program is supported by the American Sociological Association through a matching grant from the National Science Foundation. The goal of the FAD program is to advance the discipline of sociology by funding small (up to $8,000), groundbreaking research initiatives and innovative research conferences. The ASA FAD PI and program manager will give an overview of the program, including its history and what to expect from the funding application and review processes. Three recent FAD program recipients make up the panel and will discuss how they wrote their proposals, what was emphasized, how they built the argument that their research or conference would advance the discipline, and how they incorporated evaluations received from the FAD committee. The purpose of this workshop is to encourage applications, especially from scholars in the early stages of their careers and those in departments without extensive research support. Workshop attendees are encouraged to bring questions regarding their own proposals and about the program more broadly.

365. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Race, Gender, and Colonialism within Environmental Sociology
Session Organizer and Leader: Kari Marie Norgaard, University of Oregon
Co-Leaders: Emily Huddart Kennedy, Washington State University
Julie Bacon, University of Oregon
While environmental justice has key origins within sociology, and a nod to gender and race is almost universal in environmental sociology courses, we contend that the topics of gender, race and colonialism remain under-theorized within both the scholarly sub-discipline and the classroom. A review of environmental sociology syllabi at the graduate and undergraduate level reveals that 1) discussion of gender, race and colonialism/decolonization are generally brief, 2) when included, concepts of gender, race and colonialism/decolonization are rarely addressed in ways that incorporate the leading theory from these fields, 3) large majorities of the authors assigned for course readings at both graduate and undergraduate levels are white and male, 4) especially when it comes to gender, we notice periodic postings to the Environment and Technology listserv requesting teaching resources. Indeed, while gender and race are at least present, sociological engagement with indigenous experiences or the concepts of colonialism and decolonization are only just beginning. This workshop will provide examples of 3 classroom modules that incorporate key sociological theory with hands on activities. Teaching resources and reading lists on each topic will be included. While this workshop is focused around courses in environmental sociology, material and resources will be presented in a manner to facilitate those teaching courses in gender, race or indigenous perspectives who wish to learn more about how their courses can include the environment.

Session Organizer and Presider: Paula England, New York University
Panel: Lawrence L. Wu, New York University
Andrew J. Cherlin, Johns Hopkins University
Marcia J. Carlson, University of Wisconsin-Madison
An increasing proportion of American women and men have their first child, and sometimes subsequent children, outside of marriage. The upward trend began more than a half century ago, and is more pronounced among those who are less privileged. For example, there is almost no such trend among white college graduates. Nonmarital births are typically to couples in relationships or cohabiting unions that break up within a few years, leading to substantial complexity and instability in family patterns. Panelists will consider the trends, social forces encouraging nonmarital births, and their consequences for adults and children.

398. Presidential Panel. Do Heterosexual Couples Avoid Female Superiority and Eroticize Traditionality?
Session Organizer: Paula England, New York University
Presider: Maria Charles, University of California-Santa Barbara
Panel: Marianne Bertrand, University of Chicago
Sabino Kornrich, Emory University
Christine Renee Schwartz, University of Wisconsin-Madison
The gender revolution has arguably degendered education and careers more than family roles and sexuality. Three panelists present differing views on whether, among heterosexuals, more egalitarian or more traditional gender arrangements encourage couples to get married, stay together, and have more frequent sex. What is the evidence that partners do gender by avoiding marriages in which women earn more, and divorcing when women’s relative status is too high? How do egalitarian or traditional roles affect how often married couples have sex? Is all this changing as women’s superior educational attainment leads more and more couples to feature a wife who is better educated than her husband?

399. Thematic Session. Comparative-Historical Approaches to Sexuality
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom B, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Greggor Mattson, Oberlin College
Panelists: David John Frank, University of California-Irvine
Jyoti Puri, Simmons College
Greggor Mattson, Oberlin College
If the disciplines of history and anthropology are associated with the variation in sexual meanings over time and in different cultures, sociology offers a specific competence in attending to comparisons in the contexts of states, markets and other institutions. David John Frank studies the changing cultural infrastructure of world society through criminal laws regulating incest, rape, adultery, and sodomy for 100+ countries. Jyoti Puri is an expert on sexualities, nationalisms and transnational feminisms in India and beyond, in her books Woman, Body, Desire in Post-colonial India, Encountering Nationalism, and the forthcoming Sexuality/State: Decriminalizing Homosexuality in India. Amy Schalet is the author of Not Under My Roof: Parents, Teens and the Culture of Sex, a comparison of Dutch and American conceptions of selfhood. Greggor Mattson is the author of forthcoming pieces on the diverging meanings of prostitution in the European Union through the lens of welfare states and transnational feminisms.

400. Thematic Session. Former ASA Presidents Reflect on the Study of Sexuality
Hilton Chicago, Waldorf Room, Third Floor
Session Organizer and Presider: Jerry A. Jacobs, University of Pennsylvania
Panel: Cecilia L. Ridgeway, University of California-Berkeley
Evelyn Nakano Glenn, University of California-Berkeley
Randall Collins, University of Pennsylvania
This session will examine how sexuality scholarship and other fields of sociology can learn from each other. Specifically, what insights from sexuality research might inform our understanding of culture, interaction, evolution, gender, diversity, political movements, social stratification, family, the internet and other important areas of society? And what broad social theories and social trends from outside sexuality research might fruitfully inform sexuality studies? Four former ASA Presidents will take on these broad issues.

401. Thematic Session. Sexuality and Religion
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom C, Lobby Level
Session Organizer: Elizabeth A. Armstrong, University of Michigan
Presider: Orit Avishai, Fordham University
Panel: Melissa J. Wilde, University of Pennsylvania
Bernadette Barton, Morehead State University
Roger Friedland, University of California-Santa Barbara
Janet Afary, University of California-Los Angeles
This panel will explore some of the diverse ways that religious traditions understand, shape and attempt to monitor sexuality. Melissa Wilde examines the ways in which early divisions in the American religious field that seemed connected to sex and gender (e.g. birth control) were really about race and class. Bernadette Barton will discuss the ways in which Conservative Christian attitudes slow the progress of gay rights. In particular, she will discuss the gap between those states with institutional protections for gay people, including marriage, and those that do not even have a state- wide fairness ordinance. Roger Friedland and Janet Afary will discuss Islam, gender and intimacy.

Aquí Estamos y No Nos Vamos: Latin@ Placemaking in Rural Iowa. Marta Maria Maldonado, Oregon State University
New Destinations within an Old Gateway. Jorge Ortiz, University of Illinois at Chicago

Given historical patterns of settlement, the social science literature on Latino/a migration and incorporation has tended to focus on large urban centers. In the context of the Midwest, specifically, much scholarship on Latino/a experiences has focused on the city of Chicago. Yet, we know that Latinos have long been present in many other communities across the region. Furthermore, the Midwest is a broadly constituted and contested space, a site of ongoing and new migrations from established areas of Latino settlement in other parts of the country, and from Latin America and the Caribbean. Chicago, and a host of other Midwestern cities of various sizes, continue to be configured and reconfigured by the Latino/a presence. Additionally, for the past three decades, growing numbers of Latinos have settled in a variety of suburban and rural communities across the region. This paper session features work on the dynamic landscapes constituted by Latinas/Latinos in the Midwest. We offer work of sociological significance presented within a historical and comparative framework, as a way to deepen our understanding of Latino/a experiences in the Midwest. The Midwest and Chicago are the perfect setting for this conversation, which will highlight: new and persisting challenges, like gentrification, and the challenges (though also opportunities) associated with a growingly heterogeneous Latin@ population • remarkable Latin@ growth in a range of small and mid-size cities across the region (e.g., Omaha, Minneapolis, Des Moines) • the browning of the suburbs, and specifically the emergence of Latin@ suburbs • growth of Latin@ populations as a driver for rural population growth throughout the Midwest, and the emergence of and conditions of Latino communities in a range of rural new gateways.

404. Departmental Management and Leadership Workshop. Lessons for Departments and Faculty from the Bachelors and Beyond Surveys: Suggestions for Enhancing Labor Market and Non-Labor Market Outcomes
Session Organizer and Leader: Mary Scheuer Senter, Central Michigan University
Co-Leaders: Roberta M. Spalter-Roth and Nicole V. Amaya, American Sociological Association

Data gathering for the second NSF-funded, longitudinal Bachelor’s and Beyond surveys – tracing the experiences of a national cohort of 2012 sociology majors during and after their baccalaureate experience – has been completed. In this workshop we review key findings regarding the jobs sociology majors have obtained 18 months after their graduation and the strategies that are most likely to lead to career-type employment. In addition, we move beyond a discussion of the labor market outcomes of a college education to explore other ways in which college experiences affect graduates’ lives – including graduates’ satisfaction with their major, their living arrangements, and their civic participation. Workshop participants will be asked to share their experiences working with undergraduates to prepare them both for career success and for the development of meaningful personal and civic lives. We hope both to broaden the discussion of the impact of college on graduates and to prompt a useful exchange on the ways in which faculty and departments have been innovative in preparing students for a full range of meaningful adult experiences.

406. Policy and Research Workshop. Grant Writing for Sociology Students: Disciplinary and Interdisciplinary Opportunities and Strategies
Session Organizer and Leader: Dana M. Britton, State University of New Jersey-Rutgers
Co-Leader: Laura Kramer, Montclair State University

This workshop will focus on effective practices for preparing proposals for funding. We will review recognized strategies for identifying potential funding sources appropriate for various career stages. We will provide an overview of how funding organizations work, discuss how to read calls for proposals or solicitations, how to work on proposals, and how to work on revisions. We will help participants to understand the role of reviewers and decision makers and to bring all of these elements together in crafting the strongest possible proposals.

407. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Sexuality: Beyond Fundamental Issues
Hilton Chicago, PDR 3, Third Floor
Session Organizers and Leaders: Amanda May Jungels, United States Army and Elroi J. Windsor, Salem College
Panel: Mindy Stombler, Georgia State University
Chong-suk Han, Middlebury College
Jason Ronald Orne, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Teaching topics related to sexuality can be challenging for even the most experienced instructors. Students may resist sociological approaches to commonly associated topics and issues, and instructors often deal with complex and sensitive subjects. Past workshops offered at ASA were designed to introduce instructors to teaching sexuality independently or within a general course. This workshop addresses the need for discussion and guidance on advanced issues related to teaching sexuality, including handling sensitive/controversial topics; dealing with student... reluctance; managing disclosures in the classroom; creating a sex-positive environment; garnering administrative support; and handling media exposure. Panelists will include a diverse set of experienced instructors with a variety of perspectives and approaches to the subject. The workshop is designed for experienced sexualities instructors who wish to improve their skills, discuss challenges, and share innovations and techniques.

439. Thematic Session. Consensual Non-Monogamies
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom B, Lobby Level
Session Organizer: Elisabeth Sheff, Sheff Consulting Group
Presider: Corie Hammers, Macalester College
Is Monogamy Optimal? Reconsidering Assumptions about the Primacy of Monogamy in Relationship Processes. Terri Conley, University of Michigan
Polyqueer Sexualities: A Feminist and Queer Call for a Sociology of Polyamory. Mimi Schippers, Tulane University
Polyamorous Families with Children. Elisabeth Sheff, Sheff Consulting Group
Discussant: Corie Hammers, Macalester College
In this session we will explore consensual non-monogamies, a range of relationship styles that allow their participants to construct relationships with varied degrees of extra-dyadic romantic and/or sexual interaction. Dr. Terri Conley will critically examine monogamy as “the” ideal relationship configuration, considering how effective monogamy is in structuring family benefits, sexual benefits, relationship satisfaction, and prevention of sexually transmitted infections. Dr. Mimi Schippers will discuss the feminist and queer implications of nonmonogamy and explain the social and political implications of compulsory monogamy and polyamory. Dr. Elisabeth Sheff will provide an overview of the findings of her 15-year study of polyamorous families with children. Pioneers in their field, these researchers have established a solid theoretical and empirical base of information about consensual non-monogamies. Conley’s work on the transmission of sexually transmitted infections reveals that not all forms of non-monogamy are equal, and consensual nonmonogamists have lower rates of transmission and higher rates of barrier use than do cheaters. Schippers’s book Polyqueer: Compulsory Monogamy and the Queer Potential of Plural Sexualities (2015) establishes a theoretical framework for identifying how compulsory monogamy reinforces hetero-masculine dominance and the potential for non-monogamies to undermine race, class, and gender inequality. Sheff’s books look at polyamorous families, with The Polyamorists Next Door: Inside Multiple-Partner Relationships and Families (2014) providing a summary of her 15 year study of polyamorous families with children and Stories from the Polycule: Real Life in Polyamorous Families (2015) compiling polyamorists’ writings in an edited anthology.

440. Thematic Session. Gender and Sexuality in East Asia
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom C, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Travis Kong, University of Hong Kong
Panel: Stevi Jackson, University of York-United Kingdom
Travis Kong, University of Hong Kong
Pei-Chia Lan, National Taiwan University
Lee Na-Young, Chung-Ang University
A profound transformation in personal lives has taken place in East Asia in the past few decades. This panel takes a critical stance to understand the changes of sexuality, gender, marriage, and/or family in Hong Kong, China, Taiwan, and Korea. Stevi Jackson will challenge the hegemony of Western theoretical perspectives on gender, sexuality, and intimate relationships and urge for the need of East Asian alternatives. Travis Kong will discuss the changing sexual scripts of Chinese masculinity through men who buy commercial sex in Hong Kong and China. Lan Peichia will discuss how the changing scripts of cultivating middle-class children in Taiwan have intensified the gender division of parenting labour across the divergent practices of childrearing. Lee Nayoung will focus on the newly emerged debates around anti-prostitution laws in South Korea by mapping out the dynamics of women’s movements and the changes in government policy.

441. Thematic Session. Sexual Fields
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom A, Lobby Level
Session Organizer: Adam Isaiah Green, University of Toronto
Presider: Lisa Renee Miller, Indiana University–Bloomington
Panel: Adam Isaiah Green, University of Toronto
Omar A. Lizardo, University of Notre Dame
Margaret Frye, Princeton University
John Levi Martin, University of Chicago
Recently, scholars of sexuality have turned to Bourdieu and field theory to make sense of collective sexual life and its unique social organization. In this stream of research, the specialized arenas of modern sexual life—from the neighborhood coffee shop to the global Internet dating site—are conceived as sexual fields, each possessing its own particular socio-demographic composition and status order. This thematic session will explore the turn to sexual field theory, including its theoretical underpinnings and its capacity to illuminate the social foundations of sexual desire and desirability. Here, panelists will consider what field theory has to offer the study of sexuality, including how the structures of race, class, gender and nationality materialize in systems of sexual stratification but, also, how the study of sexuality may shed light on Bourdieusian field theory.
442. Thematic Session. The Impact of Agnes: Reflections on Garfinkel’s Notion of the Managed Achievement of Sex and Gender
Session Organizer: Thomas DeGloma, City University of New York-Hunter College
Presider: Robert Dingwall, Nottingham Trent University
The Turn from What to How: Garfinkel's Reach Beyond Description.
Sarah Fenstermaker, University of Michigan
Transcribing Gender. Jodi O'Brien, Seattle University
Imagining Agnes. Kristen Schilt, University of Chicago
Discussant: Robert Dingwall, Nottingham Trent University
Harold Garfinkel’s (1967) influential study, “Passing and the Managed Achievement of Sex Status in an ‘Intersexed Person,’” provides one of the earliest sociological interpretations of sex and gender as products of collaborative social interaction. This study has influenced scholars working in a variety of traditions including symbolic interaction, cultural and cognitive sociology, the sociological analysis of autobiography, conversation analysis, the sociology of the body, and the interdisciplinary field of sex/gender/sexuality studies. This session will illustrate the influence of Garfinkel’s study of Agnes. Participants will discuss the impact of Garfinkel’s ideas on notions of sex/gender performance, issues pertaining to sexuality and sexual orientation, the social construction of sex/gender, and the achievement of sex and gender in symbolic, social interaction. Participants will highlight areas of their own research that advance Garfinkel's ideas. They will also highlight new areas of research inspired by the study of sex, sexuality, and gender as everyday accomplishments.

444. Regional Spotlight Session. Urban Culture and Public Life in Chicago
Session Organizer and Presider: David Grazian, University of Pennsylvania
Panel: Nicole Gonzalez Van Cleve, Temple University
Japonica Brown-Saracino, Boston University
Black Hawk Hancock, DePaul University
Chicago has long served as a central site for the sociological study of urban culture and public life. In this Spotlight Session, we will discuss how race relations unfold in Chicago’s public spaces; neighborhood gentrification and the ecological landscape of the LGBT community; and the city’s vibrant scenes of urban entertainment, nightlife, and cultural consumption. In doing so, we will emphasize Chicago’s distinctiveness as well as its persistent ability to highlight larger social forces operating in American metropolitan life more generally.

445. Professional Development Workshop. Before and After Retirement
Hilton Chicago, PDR 1, Third Floor
Session Organizer: Scott G. McNall, California State University-Chico
Leader: Thomas L. Van Valey, Western Michigan University
Co-Leaders: Scott G. McNall, California State University-Chico
Susan B. Prager, City University of New York-Brooklyn College Emeritus
Retirement can be a rewarding experience; however, people need to plan on what they are retiring TO as well as what they are retiring FROM. Both pre- and post-retirement issues such as partner expectations, community and intellectual engagement, and lessons learned will be engaged. The results of two membership surveys conducted prior to the annual meeting will be incorporated into and discussed during the workshop.

446. Policy and Research Workshop. Introduction to the German Socio-Economic Panel Study (SOEP) – Practice, Problems and Analytical Potentials of Longitudinal Household Surveys
Hilton Chicago, Conference Room 4A, Fourth Floor
Session Organizers: Marco Giesselmann and Juergen Schupp, German Institute for Economic Research
Leader: Marco Giesselmann, German Institute for Economic Research
This Workshop responds to the raising relevance of longitudinal data in empirical sociological practice. This relevance largely stems from ongoing debates on causality and the increasing interest in empirical life-course approaches. The workshop is directed at researchers, who currently carry out studies with longitudinal data, are planning to do so, or are involved in methodological discourses. Thereby, the workshop focuses on one of the most important and longest running household panel surveys; the German Socio-Economic Panel Study (SOEP). The workshop starts with an introduction into the SOEP. The main focus here is on the content, structure, organization and documentation of the data. In the second, major part of the workshop, we want to discuss with some invited experts and the auditorium about the current empirical practice of household panel data and recent methodological developments. Concretely, we will discuss - how data from socio-economic household panels is actually (re-)used in sociological practice - what we can and cannot do in the context of international comparisons on the basis of existing and similar, country-specific household panels (like the SOEP, PSID, HILDA and Understanding Society) - how the usage and methods of panel data can be motivated and taught to students.
447. Teaching Workshop. A Little Sex: Teaching about Sexualities Across the Curriculum
Session Organizer and Leader: Rebecca F. Plante, Ithaca College
Co-Leader: Cedrick-Michael Simmons, Boston College
This workshop addresses how to teach about sexualities beyond the ‘Sociology of Sexuality’ class. Such courses fill with students keen to learn a lot about sexualities. But non-specialists may wonder how to incorporate sexualities modules or units into other courses (e.g., introductory sociology; family; social psychology; research methods; media; culture; youth cultures; social movements). Current, relevant issues abound, such as hooking up (‘casual’ sex), online pornography, and sexting. Media courses could include global ads using sex to sell, or a module on sexting, technology, and consent. Introductory courses could include a module on hooking up, heterosexuality, and gender. This workshop will enable participants to include current sociologically relevant sexualities topics in ways that expand students’ sociological imaginations. Participants will: (1) receive resources and links for teaching about sexualities; (2) learn specific techniques for discussing sexualities in non-sexualities courses; (3) discuss content, techniques, and approaches; (4) gather and share creative ideas about which kinds of topics are most applicable for which kinds of courses. For example, sexuality content/modules in a research methods course would differ from those in a media course. The intended audience is professors at all levels who wish to learn more about how to include sexualities in other sociology courses.

482. Plenary Session. Internet Dating

Session Organizer and Presider: Paula England, New York University
Panel: Elizabeth Bruch, University of Michigan
Jennifer Hickes Lundquist, University of Massachusetts-Amherst
Michael J. Rosenfeld, Stanford University

Using internet dating sites to find partners is now completely mainstream. Panelists will consider the sociology of how this system works. Two panelists will use their access to data from internet dating sites revealing what groups are on the site and who contacts and responds to whom. One panelist will show how race affects who is contacted or responded to among those seeking same-sex or other-sex partners. Another panelist will use new methods to uncover what people are looking for in partners, and how market constraints shape people's search and contact strategies. Another panelist will report on a survey ascertaining which groups are more likely to have used the internet to find partners, and will put internet dating into a broader historical perspective focusing on macrosocial trends affecting mate choice and family formation.
CLIMATE CHANGE AND SOCIETY
Sociological Perspectives

Edited by RILEY E. DUNLAP, Oklahoma State University,
and ROBERT J. BRULLE,
Drexel University

This collection of essays summarizes the existing approaches to understanding the social, economic, political, and cultural dimensions of climate change. From the factors that drive carbon emissions to the forces which influence societal responses to climate change, the book provides a comprehensive overview of the social dimensions behind climate change. An understanding of the relationship between climate change and human behavior is a critical element in developing a more sustainable future, changing human habits and behaviors for the better, and creating just and effective environmental policies. As such, Climate Change and Society is a useful tool in the crucial movement to integrate social science research, natural science research, and policy in the context of climate change and sustainability.

Praise for Climate Change and Society

"Climate Change and Society provides a superb overview of our knowledge of the social causes and consequences of climate change, and of the social obstacles to an effective response. It is essential reading."

—Erik Olin Wright, Vilas Distinguished Professor, University of Wisconsin and Past President of the American Sociological Association

"As the evidence for anthropogenic global warming accumulates, social scientists have been largely missing in action when it comes to research on the human activities responsible for climate change. In this welcome volume, Brulle, Dunlap, and their colleagues critically review what we know about the issue, setting a clear agenda for further sociological research on this most pressing of problems."

—Doug McAdam, Stanford University

"For a crisis that demands a profound re-thinking of our most fundamental, socially-rooted systems, sociological perspectives are far too seldom part of the climate conversation. I have learned so much from the impressive list of contributors to this book, which is filled with highly useful analyses and startling insights. It is that rare volume that will be an invaluable resource for anyone engaged in the climate fight: scholars, activists, and concerned citizens alike."

—Naomi Klein, author of This Changes Everything and The Shock Doctrine

"Though more work always remains, the physical sciences have accomplished their core task when it comes to climate change. We know what we need to know about the causes and consequences of our actions. What we don't know is how to stop ourselves, which is why this book—and the social sciences—are so important from here on out."

—Bill McKibben, author of The End of Nature and Schumann Distinguished Scholar, Middlebury College

In 2005 Hurricane Katrina crashed into the Gulf Coast and precipitated the flooding of New Orleans. It was a towering catastrophe by any standard. Some 1,800 persons were killed outright. More than a million were forced to relocate, many for the remainder of their lives. A city of five hundred thousand was nearly emptied of life. The storm stripped away the surface of our social structure and showed us what lies beneath—a grim picture of race, class, and gender in these United States.

It is crucial to get this story straight so that we may learn from it and be ready for that stark inevitability, the next time. When seen through a social science lens, Katrina informs us of the real human costs of a disaster and helps prepare us for the events that we know are lurking just over the horizon. The Katrina Bookshelf is the result of a national effort to bring experts together in a collaborative program of research on the human costs of the disaster. The program was supported by the Ford, Gates, MacArthur, Rockefeller, and Russell Sage Foundations and sponsored by the Social Science Research Council. This is the most comprehensive social science coverage of a disaster to be found anywhere in the literature.

More and more employers are seeking candidates with project management knowledge and skills. By offering coursework in this area, colleges and universities can equip students for success. Project Management Institute (PMI) has collaborated with faculty around the globe to develop project management curriculum guidelines along with a foundational course and supplementary teaching materials. Qualified faculty members are now able to introduce a project management course more expeditiously at their institution by drawing on this newly available body of information.

What do the guidelines offer?

- Instructional materials for one comprehensive undergraduate course in project management, including a syllabus, mini-case studies, course projects, and activities
- 30 essential knowledge modules
- Instructional outlines for additional courses in project management with specific learning outcomes
- Guidance for enhancing existing courses
- An online open-source forum for faculty to share relevant content

How can faculty use the guidelines?

- To create a new foundational project management course at your academic institution
- To enhance an existing course in an allied discipline
- To create a sequence of project management courses
- To augment or benchmark an existing project management course

Materials are available to university educators who register through PMITeach.org. Email PMcurriculum@pmi.org for more information.

Panelists will discuss the role of the rental housing market in creating both opportunities and disadvantages for different populations. In this session, leading scholars will explore issues around femininity, masculinity, race, representation, and pleasure in the creation and consumption of pornography. This will include critical examinations of popular claims about the content, consumption, and outcomes of exposure to pornography on consumers and the wider society. Drawing on theories in the fields of sociology, gender studies, and critical race studies, these scholars will offer innovative ideas to analyze the complexities of pornography.
485. Thematic Session. Sexuality and Body Size

Panel: Jeannine A. Gailey, Texas Christian University
Jason Andrew Whitesel, Pace University
Amy Shuman, The Ohio State University
Sabrina A. Strings, University of California-Berkeley
Lynne Gerber, University of California-Berkeley
Sarah Quinn, University of Washington
Discussant: Carla A. Pfeffer, University of South Carolina
Research on human sexuality has been thriving for at least four decades. Yet, scholars have paid scant attention to how body size shapes experiences with sexuality. In an effort to remedy this silence, this panel brings together cutting-edge research on the way in which body size shapes people’s sexual experiences, as well as their understandings of themselves as sexual beings. It takes an intersectional approach, examining how experiences of body size and sexuality vary by gender, sexual orientation and race. Specific paper topics include the (in)visibility of fat women’s sexuality, the experiences of fat gay men, and the racial and sexual biopolitics of yoga.

486. Thematic Session. The Career Consequences of Studying Sexuality
Hilton Chicago, Williford C, Third Floor
Session Organizer: Elizabeth A. Armstrong, University of Michigan
Presider: Janice M. Irvine, University of Massachusetts
Panel: Janice M. Irvine, University of Massachusetts
Beth E. Schneider, University of California-Santa Barbara
Susana Peña, Bowling Green State University
“Don’t study sex if you want a job!” This ASA theme would not be possible if that advice had not been ignored. Yet it has been ignored at a cost. The panelists discuss the career consequences of studying sexuality. Janice Irvine has surveyed sexuality scholars about experiences of discrimination in the field. Beth Schneider has studied sexuality for decades, was Special Features Editor of Sexualities for 10 years, and mentored many young sexuality scholars as they have entered the field (many of which are now tenured)! Susana Peña offers the perspective of someone who entered the field more recently, and who combines a focus on sexuality with the study of race and ethnicity. Her faculty appointment in an Ethnic Studies department. She will consider the ways in which studying sexuality – particularly in intersection with race or class – leads scholars to find positions outside of Sociology departments.

488. Policy and Research Workshop. The Wisconsin Longitudinal Study: Over 50 Years of Social Data Combined with Genetic and Microbiome Data
Session Organizer: Carol Lynn Roan, University of Wisconsin-Madison
Leader: Huey-Chi Vicky Chang, University of Wisconsin-Madison
The Wisconsin Longitudinal Study is a panel study covering nearly sixty years, making it an excellent data source for researchers interested in linking early-life factors to later-life outcomes. The study is a sample of one in three Wisconsin high school graduates, and a selected sibling, from the class of 1957. WLS is unique among social scientific resources for the length with which it has followed a large population-based cohort sample and the inclusion of siblings. The most recent round of data was collected between March of 2010 and December of 2012. The data cover nearly every aspect of the participants’ lives from early life socioeconomic background, schooling, family and work to health, social participation, civic engagement, well-being, and cognition. The study also has a wealth of unique data including examples such as administrative IQ scores from high school, information collected from high school yearbooks that include measures of attractiveness, proxy measures for obesity, anthropometric and functioning, and complete lists of student activities for all respondents. Currently, the survey data can be merged with genetic data on ~90 SNPs. Shortly GWAS data will be available. We collected ~300 stool samples from the graduate and sibling participants and ~100 samples from their spouses. We are using these samples to measure participants’ gut microbiome. Administrative data include Medicare records, Social Security records, and resource data on primary and secondary schools attended by participants. This workshop will introduce the study to researchers and attendees will be provided with a USB containing the data.
489. Teaching Workshop. Teaching Introductory Sociology to Premeds: Moving from “Is it on the MCAT®?” to Developing the Sociological Imagination
Hilton Chicago, Conference Room 4D, Fourth Floor
Session Organizer and Leader: Edward L. Kain, Southwestern University
Co-Leaders: Elizabeth Borland, College of New Jersey
Liam Swiss and Mitchell Petersen, Southwestern University
Julie Goolsby, Association of American Medical Colleges
Starting in the spring of 2015, students who take the Medical College Admission Test® (MCAT®) need to know introductory sociology concepts and apply that knowledge to solving problems. The revised exam assesses competencies that combine knowledge and scientific inquiry and reasoning skills in the natural sciences and the behavioral and social sciences. Join this hands-on workshop to: Find out which sociology content is covered on the revised MCAT exam; Explore sample MCAT questions and how they assess competencies in solving real-world, interdisciplinary problems; Learn about an online community for sharing teaching resources that can be used as an instructional aid; Discuss the opportunities and challenges that the revised test presents for your courses and departments. Having pre-meds in your sociology course doesn’t mean you’ll be stuck with students asking “is that on the test.” Together, let’s investigate the opportunities it presents for improving student learning outcomes.

The Rise of Networked Anti-Sexual Violence Student Activism. Sofie Karasek, End Rape on Campus
Confronting Campus Rape: Research and Public Sociology. Danielle Dirks, Occidental College
Sexual harassment and sexual assault on campus were formally prohibited by TITLE IX in 1972, but the struggle over enforcement continues. While activism in the 1970s and 80s gained procedures and changed consciousness, activism has resurfaced in 2014, creating a watershed moment in the awareness of sexual violence on campus. Young women's grassroots leadership brought a surge of complaints and the Obama Administration reacted with increased scrutiny of the nation's largest research universities. Members of our panel will represent different perspectives on this movement: Andrea Press will present research on campus cultures of feminism, post-feminism, and sexual violence. Danielle Dirks will discuss the ties between research and public sociology; Sofie Karasek will share her experience as an activist in anti-sexual-violence campus and national campaigns.

Sexuality and Sexual Science Under State Socialism: The Case of Czechoslovakia. Katerina Liskova, Masaryk University

The papers in this session offer conceptual and empirical reflections on how sexualities are shaped by and experienced in different political regimes. In a variety of national and historical contexts, panelists ask how sexualities form and reflect key aspects of a political regime—and how the laws, science, ideologies, and religions propagated by these regimes embody distinct sexual prescriptions and identifications.

518. Thematic Session. Sexual Violence
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom B, Lobby Level
Session Organizer: Michael Kimmel, State University of New York-Stony Brook
Panel: Walter DeKeseredy, University of Ontario
Sharon Hayes, Queensland University of Technology
Bethany Coston, Albion College
Beth E. Richie, University of Illinois at Chicago

“Stop using sex as a weapon,” 80s rocker Pat Benatar famously sang. But for many, sexuality and violence are deeply entangled. Recent research on sexual violence explores how interpersonal violence is used to constitute sexual relationships, not only between women and men, but also among different minority and LGBT communities. In this session, leading scholars in the field will present some of the most empirically grounded and analytically sensitive research on sexual assault, interpersonal violence, and sexuality.

519. Thematic Session. The Scripting of Sexuality: Developments and Prospects
Hilton Chicago, Williford C, Third Floor
Session Organizer and Presider: Anthony Paik, University of Massachusetts-Amherst
Panel: David John Frank, University of California-Irvine
Janice M. Irvine, University of Massachusetts
Rebecca F. Plante, Ithaca College
John H. Gagnon, State University of New York-Stony Brook

More than forty years after the publication of Sexual Conduct, the concept of sexual scripts remains central in the study of sexualities. This panel will examine the significance of scripting theory, recent developments in the field, and its prospects for the future. Specifically, this panel will reflect on the position of scripting theory in the study of sexualities, new avenues for theoretical and empirical work, and connections with emerging theoretical approaches.

520. Special Session. Gender Equality at Work: Persistent Barriers and Potential Solutions
Session Organizer and Presider: Shelley J. Correll, Stanford University Panel: Youngjoo Cha, Indiana University
Erin Kelly, University of Minnesota
Erin A. Cech, Rice University
Shelley J. Correll, Stanford University

Progress towards gender equality in paid work has stalled in recent years. The convergence of the gender gap in wages has been slow, women's advancement into top leadership positions has remained low, and the gender segregation of jobs and college majors has remained relatively constant. What are the barriers to gender equality? What policies and organizational changes might jump start progress to equality? Panelists will discuss recent research that illuminates both barriers and also potential solutions.

522. Professional Development Workshop. Applying Sociology to Careers Outside Academia: Association, Government, and Non-Profit Opportunities (Panel Discussion)
Session Organizer and Leader: Margaret Weigers Vitullo, American Sociological Association
In this workshop, sociologists who have successful careers outside of academia will describe their own career paths and their suggestions for current job-seekers. Some of the questions that will be addressed include: What unique satisfactions can be found in sociological work outside the academy? Where are jobs outside of the academy posted? What specific skills sets are the most valuable outside of academia? What are the key differences between an applied curriculum vitae and an academic one? What three things should PhD sociologists preparing for an applied job interview keep in mind? Do applied sociologists ever teach? Immediately following this workshop, the panelists will be participating in the “Applying Sociology to Careers Outside Academia: Job Fair,” where interested participants can go table to table and ask the panelists for additional insights and suggestions about how to market their particular sociological skills in the applied workforce. Depending on the number of participants, panels may have time to review CVs and/or cover letters and make suggestions. Participants are encouraged to attend both the workshop and the job fair that follows it.

523. Policy and Research Workshop. Panel Study of Income Dynamics Workshop
Session Organizer: Fabian T. Pfeffer, University of Michigan
Leader: Noura E. Insolera, Panel Study of Income Dynamics
This interactive workshop is geared toward current and prospective users of the Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID, psid.org); the world’s longest running longitudinal household panel survey. The second half of the workshop includes a detailed walk-through of the PSID website, documentation, and data center as well as a question and answer session related to participant specific inquiries. The PSID has collected data on a wide range of sociologically relevant topics from a nationally representative sample of US families and their descendants since 1968. 549. Thematic Session. How Race Affects Finding Partners for Sex, Romance, or Marriage
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom A, Lobby Level
Session Organizer: Paula England, New York University
Presider: Cynthia Feliciano, University of California-Irvine
Panel: Reuben J. Thomas, University of New Mexico
Florence Torche, New York University
Hector Carrillo, Northwestern University
Grace Kao, University of Pennsylvania
Who we form intimate partnerships with, for sex, romance, or marriage, is affected by race. Four panelists use diverse styles of analysis to illuminate partnering processes. Thomas considers how race and gender intersect to affect the settings where U.S. heterosexual partners meet and who introduces them. Torche considers whether blacks in the U.S. and other countries “need” more education to marry a white, and how trends in such exchange of education for racial status in U.S. marriages inform us about trends in racism and the color-blindness of marital preferences. Carrillo uses ethnographically-based analysis to illuminate the racialized stereotypes, objectification, and cross-cultural affinities at play in gay partnerships between white American men and Mexican or Mexican-American men near the U.S./Mexican border. Kao uses survey data showing the marginalization of Asian men in youth and young adult dating markets, which is surprising given their high education and earnings potential.

550. Thematic Session. Sexual Orientation in the Workplace: How Much Discrimination is There?
Session Organizer and Presider: Andras Tilcsik, University of Toronto
Panel: William T. Bielby, University of Illinois at Chicago
David Pedulla, University of Texas-Austin
Tamar Kricheli-Katz, Tel Aviv University
M.V. Lee Badgett, University of Massachusetts-Amherst
Andras Tilcsik, University of Toronto
A discussion of the best and latest evidence on the scope and implications of discrimination based on sexual orientation. Although public opinion on the Employment Non-Discrimination Act (ENDA) has been evolving rapidly, workplace discrimination against lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender workers remains persistent and pervasive. Panelists will offer perspectives on the nature and consequences of sexual orientation discrimination in the workplace and discuss next steps for sociological research on the topic.

551. Thematic Session. Sexualities and Popular Culture
Hilton Chicago, Continental Ballroom B, Lobby Level
Session Organizer and Presider: Joshua Gamson, University of San Francisco Panel: Andreana L. Clay, San Francisco State University
Dustin Kidd, Temple University
Suzanna Danuta Walters, Northeastern University
Cultural representations of sexualities, as well as the industry structures in which those representations take shape, have undergone rapid and complex change in the early 21st century. Among others, scholars and commentators have pointed to the mainstreaming of gay and lesbian, and to an increasing degree also bisexual and transgender, populations in popular culture; the “pornification” of popular culture; the globalization of sexual cultures through popular culture; the increased importance of online media for the circulation of sexual imagery and identities, as well as for movement organizing around sexualities. This Thematic Session brings together four scholars of popular culture and sexualities to consider these changes and how best to make sense of them. Questions we may consider include: How have popular representations of sexual nonconformity—and of heteronormativity—changed as cultural visibility has increased for LGBT populations, and with what consequences for sexuality politics? How have popular representations of women’s and girls’ sexuality changed, and with what consequences for feminist politics? How have structural changes in the production of popular culture (including the globalization of media industries and the rise of digital media) generated new opportunities and constraints for sexual representation? How have sexuality-based movements adapted their strategies as popular culture marketplaces have fragmented and new media technologies have become useful organizing tools?

552. Thematic Session. Social Class and Sexuality
Hilton Chicago, Williford C, Third Floor
Session Organizer: Elizabeth A. Armstrong, University of Michigan
Presider: Julie Bettie, University of California-Santa Cruz
Panel: Shamus Rahman Khan, Columbia University
Margaret Frye, Princeton University
Barbara J. Risman, University of Illinois at Chicago
Discussant: Julie Bettie, University of California-Santa Cruz

Sexuality is deeply implicated in social stratification. Social class location shapes sexual partnering in a variety of ways. Those with few resources may not be able to decline less attractive partners, while those with lots of resources may be selective about partners and typically have access to desirable partners. Sexual partnering—as it is often linked to marriage—is thus critical to the transmission of class advantage from one generation to the next. Shamus Khan, Margaret Frye, and Barbara Risman will compare and contrasting different class locations (from the working class to the upper class) and different national contexts (the United States and Malawi). We hope that these juxtapositions will help us arrive at deeper understandings of the way that social class shapes sexuality and the ways in which sexual partnering shapes social reproduction.

554. Professional Development Workshop. Applying Sociology to Careers Outside Academia: Association, Government, and Non-Profit Opportunities (Job Fair)
Session Organizer and Leader: Margaret Weigers Vitullo, American Sociological Association

During this session, PhD sociologists who have experience working outside of the academy will be available to talk one on one with individuals who are interested in exploring applied careers. Job Fair participants can go table to table and ask the speakers for insights and suggestions about how to market their particular sociological skills in the applied workforce. Depending on the number of participants, speakers may have time to review CVs and/or cover letters and make suggestions. Note that the Job Fair is immediately preceded by a panel discussion entitled “Applying Sociology to Careers Outside Academia: Association, Government, and Non-Profit Opportunities.” In the panel discussion the speakers will be describing their own career paths and their suggestions for current job-seekers. Some of the questions that will be addressed include: What unique satisfactions can be found in sociological work outside the academy? Where are jobs outside of the academy posted? What specific skills sets are the most valuable outside of academia? What are the key differences between an applied curriculum vitae and an academic one? What three things should PhD sociologists preparing for an applied job interview keep in mind? Do applied sociologists ever teach? Participants are encouraged to attend both the job fair and the workshop that precedes it.

555. Policy and Research Workshop. Research Opportunities Using the Medical Expenditure Panel Survey (MEPS)
Session Organizer and Leader: Jeffrey Rhoades, Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality

The purpose of this workshop is to facilitate the use of the Medical Expenditure Panel Survey Household Component (MEPS HC) public use data files by the sociological research community. To meet this objective participants will be provided with an overview of the MEPS, a description of available data files, information about online data tools, and examples of the type of research projects the MEPS data can support. In order to capture the unparalleled scope and detail of the MEPS, analysts need to understand the complexities of MEPS data files and data file linkages. This workshop is designed for social science researchers who have a background or interest in using national health surveys for the purpose of analyses pertaining to disparities in health, access to care, health care utilization and expenditures.

Sexual privilege includes high levels of sexual subjectivity (or a feeling of ownership over one's sexuality and access to personal desires), freedom to have wanted sexual activity without stigma or negative repercussions, access to health care, freedom from violence, coercion, or harassment, and the ability to connect with desired sexual partners in safe, private places. Michelle Fine and Sara McClelland will address the role of institutions such as schools and health-care play in reducing, or potentially fostering, sexual subjectivity among young women. Rosalind Chou, author of Asian American Sexual Politics: The Construction of Race, Gender, and Sexuality (2012), will address the negative cultural frames that constitute sexualized oppression of young Asian Americans. Averil Clarke, author of Inequalities of Love: College-Educated Black Women and the Barriers to Romance and Family (2011), will discuss the toll of decades of racial inequality and discrimination on Black women's intimate lives.

Session Organizer and Presider: Elizabeth A. Armstrong, University of Michigan Panel: Eva Illouz, Hebrew University
Allison Pugh, University of Virginia
Andrew J. Cherlin, Johns Hopkins University
Discussant: Elizabeth A. Armstrong, University of Michigan
For many people, sex ideally occurs in the context of a secure, committed relationship. Some view marriage as the only appropriate site for sexual expression. Yet in the United States and other countries, marriage is thought to be undergoing a process of “de-institutionalization.” People are marrying later, divorcing frequently, and spending less of their adult lives in marriage. This panel will generate a conversation among scholars who have thought about how economic and marital instability influences how people experience sexuality. Speakers will include Eva Illouz, author of Why Love Hurts, Allison Pugh, author of The Tumbleweed Society, and Andrew Cherlin, author of the highly influential article “The Deinstitutionalization of American Marriage” and of the recently published Labor’s Love Lost: The Rise and Fall of the Working Class Family in America. The panelists will be prompted with a set of provocative questions.
In particular, the creative use of curriculum maps and VALUE rubrics to facilitate co-creation of ILO assessment processes and tools is essential. Those beyond classroom instruction. Faculty development designed beyond disciplinary content knowledge and evaluation skills can be used as evidence of critical thinking demands knowledge to easily and systematically demonstrate how and where students have demonstrated quantitative reasoning. Moreover, some faculty members are painfully oral communication skills, information competency, critical thinking, and to articulate student learning outcomes (SLOs), including the five WASC (Western Association of Senior Colleges) core competencies (written and oral communication skills, information competency, critical thinking, and quantitative reasoning). Moreover, some faculty members are painfully underprepared to move from these broad institution level outcomes (ILO) to easily and systematically demonstrate how and where students have learned these skills across the graduate and undergraduate curriculum. For example, examining the complex and diverse types of student work that can be used as evidence of critical thinking demands knowledge beyond disciplinary content knowledge and evaluation skills beyond those used in classroom instruction. Faculty development designed to facilitate co-creation of ILO assessment processes and tools is essential. In particular, the creative use of curriculum maps and VALUE rubrics to explicitly demonstrate where learning, assessment, and improvement occur throughout the baccalaureate and master curriculum for each ILO can form the foundation for this work. This paper will use a sociology graduate program from CSU (California State University) system to show how curriculum maps and VALUE rubrics can be used to define, assess, and improve critical thinking in sociology graduate program.

They will also address how capitalist, colonialist, and racist systems of domination have influenced the paths taken by defenders of gender and sexual dissidence in different nations.

Session Organizer and Leader: Amy Liu, California State University-Sacramento
It is very difficult for many universities and/or sociology programs to articulate student learning outcomes (SLOS), including the five WASC (Western Association of Senior Colleges) core competencies (written and oral communication skills, information competency, critical thinking, and quantitative reasoning). Moreover, some faculty members are painfully underprepared to move from these broad institution level outcomes (ILO) to easily and systematically demonstrate how and where students have learned these skills across the graduate and undergraduate curriculum. 587. Policy and Research Workshop. Using the Add Health Longitudinal Data Set: The Largest, Most Comprehensive Longitudinal Study of Adolescents Ever Undertaken
Session Organizer and Leader: Kathleen Mullan Harris, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill
Co-Leaders: Sarah Dean, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill and Ashley Sorgi, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill
Description (250 words or less): The National Longitudinal Study of Adolescent to Adult Health (Add Health) is a longitudinal study of a nationally representative sample of adolescents in grades 7-12 in the United States during the 1994-1995 school year. The Add Health cohort has been followed into young adulthood with four in-home interviews from 1995-2009. Add Health will conduct a fifth wave of interviews in 2015-18 that will collect social and biological data on the respondents when they are age 31-42. This workshop will provide an overview of the Add Health design and data collection across all waves, from the In-School Administration in 1994 to the 2008-09 Wave IV follow-up. The overview will highlight key features of Add Health, questionnaire content across waves, the study’s sampling design, and innovative plans for Wave V data collection. Presenters will also highlight illustrative research findings and opportunities. The Add Health data dissemination coordinator, responsible for dissemination of the public use and restricted-use data from all four waves of Add Health, will present information on the current data structures, data file descriptions, and data discovery tools and discuss how to find and explore metadata for all parts of the Add Health data system. The coordinator will demonstrate a new online codebook tool designed to help users learn how similar questions were administered across the different waves. Attendees will learn how to access the Add Health restricted-use data and receive a public use data CD. This session is intended for researchers who have never used Add Health, are thinking about using Add Health, or are new to the study.

This poster/exhibit session provides a unique occasion to meet representatives of major research funding institutions and principal investigators, researchers, and managers of large-scale datasets that are publicly available for use. Each display by a funding institution provides a visual overview of research funding and the application process, materials for distribution, and time for direct individual discussion. Data resource representatives are available to talk about the featured datasets, their analytic potential, and issues relating to access and use, including state-of-the-art Internet services to access datasets. This is an opportunity for meeting attendees to learn about these datasets and their potential for research and teaching. All meeting participants, including students, are encouraged to attend.

1. Research Support for Sociologists
American Sociological Association

Presenter(s): John Curtis, Nicole V. Amaya, Michael Kisielewski; 1430 K St. NW Suite 600, Washington, DC 20005; phone: 202-383-9005; fax: 202-638-0882; email: research@asanet.org; webpage: www.asanet.org

The American Sociological Association (ASA) provides funding to sociologists through several small awards and fellowship programs. These include the Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline small grants program, Teaching Enhancement grants, and the Spivack program for applied and policy research.

The ASA and the National Science Foundation jointly support the Fund for the Advancement for the Discipline (FAD). The goal of FAD is to nurture the development of sociological knowledge by funding innovative research. FAD provides support (up to $8,000) toward research projects or conferences that can advance knowledge and lead to the acquisition of additional funds. Awards are limited to individuals with PhD degrees or the equivalent.

ASA provides awards (up to $2,000) through its Howery Teaching Enhancement Grants Program to support projects that extend the quality of sociology teaching in the United States and Canada. Individuals, departments, and a program or committee of a state or regional association are eligible to apply.

Through its Sydney S. Spivack Program in Applied Social Research and Social Policy, ASA supports a Congressional Fellowship and Community Action Research Initiative grants. The ASA Congressional Fellowship provides PhD level sociologists with in-depth experience as a staff member of a Congressional Committee or in a Congressional Office or agency. The Community Action Research Initiative grants provide support, ranging from $1,000 to $3,000 for sociological work with community organizations, local public interest groups, or community action projects.

Social Explorer is a powerful online research and visualization tool. It allows users to explore local and national census data from 1790 to the present, as well as election data, crime data, economic data, the Irish Census from 1863 to near the present, and soon the General Social Survey and the American National Election Survey, as well as other new data sources. Based on decades of demographic and programming expertise, Social Explorer enables users to conduct research related to the social sciences, history, business and more with ease. Working with the Census Bureau several visualizations tool were developed http://census.gov/censusexplorer that has been visited by over 500,000 users who have made over 1 million maps. Last year over 850,000 Social Explorer users created more than 16 million maps and 300,000 reports. Social Explorer is used at hundreds of universities and by instructors in thousands of classes.

Social Explorer was named an “Outstanding Reference Source” by the Reference and User Services Association (RUSA) in 2010 a division of the American Library Association. Social Explorer was the only online-only research tool featured among that year’s awardees. Social Explorer was named an Outstanding Website by the Webmarketing Association in 2012, and by the Interactive Media Association in 2013, was a Webby Honoree in 2014, and was recently named at Modern Library Award gold level winner. Social Explorer and the University of Illinois at Chicago have been awarded several collaborative NSF grants.

Roper Center for Public Opinion Research

Presenter(s): Lois Timms-Ferrara; 369 Fairfield Way, Unit 1164, Storrs, CT 06269-1164; phone: 860-486-4440; fax: 860-486-6308; email: lois@ropercenter.org; webpage: www.RoperCenter.org

Public opinion survey data is critical when studying the attitudes and behaviors of people in the aggregate. And the Roper Center is the largest archives of public opinion survey information in existence anywhere in the world. The polls date back to the 1930s right up to present and there are more than 20,000 survey datasets available representing over 100 countries. The Center's mission is both to preserve and provide access to the rich survey data entrusted to its care. As such, this live demo-poster will permit participants to search the holdings using various tools to identify studies rich in the subject area of their interest.

The iPOLL database maintains over 600,000 questions and responses from surveys conducted in the US since 1935 and as current as last week. Every major polling organization in the country is represented and the questions are indexed by keyword, topic, field dates and survey firm. About one-sixth of the questions in iPOLL are presented with demographic banner tables, so without programming; see how key groups responded to the items. Furthermore, links are provided to download complete datasets and to an online analysis tool that permits running crosstabs without programming.

A broad array of social issues are covered in this collection, including nearly every major social, political policy issue and most behaviors. Be sure to visit this poster, you won't be disappointed.

5. Mexican and Latin American Migration Projects

Princeton University

Presenter(s): Karen Alyde Pren; 237 Wallace Hall, Princeton, NJ 8544; phone: 609-258-8155; fax: 609-258-1039; email: mmp-lamp@princeton.edu; webpage: http://mmp.opr.princeton.edu/ and http://lamp.opr.princeton.edu/

Founded in 1982, the Mexican Migration Project (MMP) has annually administered ethnosurveys to randomly sampled households in various communities in Mexico since 1987. In 1998, the Latin American Migration Project was born. For both projects, each community yields approximately 200 surveyed households in the home country, as well as 10 to 20 households of community members living in the U.S. Responses are converted to electronic format and compiled to form five unique data sets. PERS file contains socioeconomic information for each household member, including basic measures of domestic and international migration. MIG file contains detailed for each household head regarding detailed border-crossing, measures of migration experience of family of origin, extended family and friends, and the social and economic characteristics of last international trip. HOUSE file contains measures of household composition and amenities, as well as data about businesses, land, property, vehicles, and livestock. LIFE and SPOUSE files are detailed life histories of the household head and spouse; each record represents a person-year detailing information about labor force, family/household formation, and cumulative international experience. In addition, we offer the community file with measures of infrastructure, social resources, public services, labor force participation, and education. Currently, available to the public, the MMP contains 150 communities, while the LAMP include multiple communities surveyed in Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic, Haiti, Guatemala, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, and Paraguay.

6. New Immigrant Survey

Princeton University

Presenter(s): Monica Espinoza Higgins; 187 Wallace Hall, Princeton, NJ 8540; phone: 609-258-0081; fax: 609-258-1039; email: espinoza@princeton.edu; webpage: http://nis.princeton.edu

The New Immigrant Survey (NIS) is a multi-cohort prospective-retrospective panel survey of new legal immigrants to the United States based on probability samples of administrative records from the U.S. Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services. The NIS provides new kinds of data that will help answer many of the important questions about immigration and concomitantly shed light on basic aspects of human development. The main objective is to provide a public-use database on new legal immigrants to the United States and their children that will be useful for addressing scientific and policy questions about migration behavior and the impacts of migration. Two rounds of interviewing have now been completed.

The first full cohort (NIS-2003-1) was sampled during May through November of 2003, yielding data on 8,573 Adult Sample respondents, 810 sponsor-parent of the Sampled Child, 4,915 spouses, and 1,072 children aged 8-12. The baseline survey was conducted from June 2003 to June 2004. The geographic sampling design takes advantage of the natural clustering of immigrants. It includes all top 85 Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSAs) and all top 38 counties, plus a random sample of MSAs and counties. A follow-up interview with 2003 cohort was conducted from June 2007 to October 2009 (NIS-2003-2). The number of completed interviews with main sampled immigrants in the Adult Sample was 3,902, there were 351 parents of sampled child immigrants, 41 now-adult main child, and 1,771 spouses. Data from the first full cohort and follow-up interviews are publicly available from the project website:

Interviews were conducted in the respondents’ language of choice. Round 2 instruments were designed to track changes from the baseline and also included new questions. As with the Round 1 questionnaire, questions that were used in social-demographic-migration surveys around the world as well as the major U.S. longitudinal surveys were reviewed in order to achieve comparability. The NIS content includes the following information: demographic, health and insurance, migration history, living conditions, transfers, employment history, income, assets, social networks, religion, housing environment, and child assessment tests.

7. Wisconsin Longitudinal Study

University of Wisconsin-Madison

Presenter(s): Pamela Herd, Huey-Chi Vicky Chang, Carol Roan; 1180 Observatory Drive, Madison, WI 53706; phone: 608 265-6196; fax: 608 262-8400; email: wls@ssc.wisc.edu; webpage: http://www.ssc.wisc.edu/wlsresearch/

The WLS is a long-term study of a random sample of 10,317 men and women who graduated from Wisconsin high schools in 1957 and of their randomly selected brothers or sisters. The WLS sample is broadly representative of white, non-Hispanic American men and women who have completed at least a high school education. Almost 85 percent of surviving graduates continue to participate in the WLS. Public data, documentation, and publications are available online. Survey data were collected from the original respondents or their parents in 1957, 1964, 1975, 1992, 2003, and 2011, and from a selected sibling in 1977, 1993, 2004, and 2011. Survey data were collected from the spouses of the graduates in 2004 and the spouses of the siblings in 2005. The data cover nearly every aspect of the participants’ lives from early life socioeconomic background, schooling, family and work to health, social participation, civic engagement, well-being, and cognition. The study also has a wealth of unique data including examples such as administrative IQ scores from high school, information collected from high school yearbooks that include measures of attractiveness, proxy measures for obesity, and complete lists of student activities for all respondents. Examples of administrative data include Medicare records, Social Security records (forthcoming), and resource data on primary and secondary schools attended by participants. The WLS also collected saliva samples from which we have created a DNA file with 90 SNPs. Data from GEne The most recent data include anthropometric and functioning measures which add yet a new dimension to the many types of WLS data.

Visitors to the poster session can learn more about the project and ask specific questions to project leaders.

8. The Integrated Demographic and Health Series (IDHS)

University of Minnesota

Presenter(s): Elizabeth Boyle; 909 Social Sciences, 267 19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55455; phone: 612-624-4300; fax: 612-624-7020; email: boyle014@umn.edu; webpage: www.idhsdata.org

The Integrated Demographic and Health Series (IDHS) project harmonizes Demographic and Health Survey (DHS) data and documentation for Africa and India to facilitate comparative research across time and countries. With data from 18 countries and 76 surveys from the 1980s to the present, and with over 2000 variables relating to women of childbearing age and children under age 5, IDHS provides free online data that are consistently coded across samples without loss of information. The user-friendly website indicates at a glance which variables are available for each country and year; variable-specific online documentation provides codes and frequencies, universe statements, relevant survey text, and comparability discussions with a single click; and the extract system creates customized datasets with the samples and variables specified by the researcher in a variety of formats, including the major statistical packages. Topics covered include: demographics, work and education of women and their male partners, household possessions and utilities, family size desires, contraceptive knowledge and use, HIV/AIDS and other sexually transmitted infections, fistula, female genital cutting, sex practices and attitudes, condom use and access, domestic violence, women’s status and household decision-making, tuberculosis, tobacco and alcohol use, maternal and infant health, insurance coverage, child and maternal nutrition, child vaccination, and treatment of diarrheal, respiratory, parasitic, and malarial diseases in children. The following countries are included: Benin, Burkina Faso, Cote d’Ivoire, Egypt, Ethiopia, Ghana, Guinea, India, Kenya, Malawi, Mali, Mozambique, Niger, Nigeria, Tanzania, Uganda, Zambia, and Zimbabwe. The IDHS project at the Minnesota Population Center plans to eventually include data from all publicly available samples from The Demographic and Health Surveys Program, which covers over 300 surveys in more than 90 countries.
9. Newly Available Historical Census Microdata from IPUMS-USA

University of Minnesota

Presenter(s): Katie Genadek; 50 Willey Hall 219th Ave S, Minneapolis, MN 55406; phone: 612-626-3932; email: mpc.umn.edu; webpage: www.popdata.org

IPUMS-USA is in the process of creating and releasing complete count U.S. decennial census microdata from 1790-1940. This project is only possible because of donations of digitized data from Ancestry.com and FamilySearch.org, and when the project is complete, this will be our largest microdata collection. Researchers can currently obtain coded and harmonized complete count data for 1850, 1880, and 1940 from the IPUMS extract system. To access this data and additional information about the IPUMS data, go to usa.ipums.org.

The American Time Use Survey (ATUS) provides nationally representative estimates of how, where, and with whom Americans spend their time, and is the only federal survey providing data on the full range of nonmarket activities, including childcare, eldercare and volunteering. Data collected in 2014 were published in June 2015. All ATUS data files are available for free from the Bureau of Labor Statistics website. Research using ATUS data has been conducted in a variety of fields, on a variety of topics. Some examples are: human capital investments in children, household divisions of labor, time use by socioeconomic status, and physical and emotional well-being.

NATIONAL LONGITUDINAL SURVEYS OF YOUTH, 1979 AND 1997 COHORTS. The NLSY79 and NLSY97 are two cohorts of the NLS program, a set of surveys sponsored by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Currently in its 26th round, the NLSY79 started annual interviewing in 1979 with 12,686 youth age 14 to 22, and switched to biennial interviewing after the 1994 survey. Data are currently available through 2012.

The NLSY97 Cohort follows a sample of American youth born between 1980-1984; 8,984 respondents were ages 12-17 when first interviewed in 1997. This ongoing cohort has been surveyed 15 times to date and is now interviewed biennially. Data are available from Round 1 (1997-1998) to Round 15 (2011-2012).

The NLSY surveys include oversamples of black and Hispanic respondents. While both the 1979 and 1997 NLSY cohorts initially focused on the school-to-work transition, survey content has evolved over time to reflect later life stages. Topics covered include job characteristics, labor market status, education, training, health and physical condition, marital and family relations, fertility, income and assets, attitudes, environmental characteristics, and military experiences. Scores on the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery are available for 94% of NLSY79 respondents and 80% of NLSY97 respondents. The wide range of data in each survey support research in a number of topical areas, while the overlapping content of the two surveys provides opportunities for cross-cohort analysis.

The current NLSY97 data release includes new variables about childhood health, financial literacy, and business ownership. Postsecondary transcript data files now available for the NLSY97 cohort as well as arrest and incarceration variables updated for rounds 14 and 15. NLSY97 main Youth mothers’ data can also be merged with the Children of the NLSY97 surveys, which track children of women in the NLSY from birth to adulthood.

NLS public-use data are available at no cost at www.nslsinfo.org/webinvestigator; detailed geographic data can be obtained through an application process supervised by BLS. A searchable, annotated listing of NLS research can be accessed at www.nlsbibliography.org. More information about the NLSY79 and NLSY97 is available at www.bls.gov/nls.

12. Children of the NLSY79

Presenter(s): Paula Baker; 921 Chatham Lane, Suite 200, Columbus, OH 43210; phone: 614-442-7375; fax: 614-442-7329

The CHILDREN/ YOUNG ADULTS OF THE NLSY79 data set profiles the development and achievement of the children of the mothers in the National Longitudinal Surveys of Youth/1979 Cohort. The surveys are sponsored by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) with support from the Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD).

The biennial NLSY79 Child surveys, initiated in 1986, use mother interviews, direct child assessment, and self-report to gauge the children’s health, physical and social development, activities, attitudes, behaviors, relationships, school progress, and home environment from birth through adolescence. Starting at age 15, NLSY79 young adult children are interviewed about schooling, employment, training, family experiences, health, behaviors, and attitudes. The Child/Young Adult sample, which ranges in age from birth to early forties, contains significant numbers of minority and economically disadvantaged respondents. The current data release represents 14 survey rounds (1986-2012) of Child data, 10 Young Adult survey rounds (1994-2012) and the complete histories of the NLSY79 mothers (1979-2012).

THE NATIONAL LONGITUDINAL SURVEY OF YOUTH (NLSY79) is a multipurpose survey of more than 12,600 individuals age 14-21, when first interviewed in 1979. The design and content of the NLSY79 enable users to study the social, economic, health, and demographic experiences of the respondents and their families over more than a 30-year period. CHRR at The Ohio State University and NORC at the University of Chicago are responsible for the design, collection, and distribution of the NLSY data and documentation. NLSY data and documentation are available, at no cost, for online search and extraction at http://www.nlsinfo.org/. The NLSY79 Child & Young Adult data have been used in more than 2000 publications. A searchable, annotated listing of NLS research can be accessed at: http://www.nlsbibliography.org/. More information about the NLSY is available online at www.bls.gov/nls.

The National Data Program for the Social Sciences (NDPSS) is a vital component of the social-science infrastructure. The NDPSS has been described as a “national resource” a “core database” in both sociology and political science, a “gold standard,” the “best available,” the “ premier academic sociology survey,” “the most comprehensive national monitoring of public opinion,” and “the highest-quality omnibus survey done in the United States.” The two major components of the NDPSS are the General Social Survey (GSS) and the International Social Survey Program (ISSP). The GSS is currently conducting its 30th round since starting in 1972 and has interviewed over 59,500 respondents. The ISSP has done a cross-national survey each year since 1985 and has involved 57 countries. It has interviewed over a million respondents around the world.

The East Asian Social Survey (EASS) is a collaboration of four East Asian societies: China, Japan, Korea, and Taiwan. Modeled after the US General Social Survey, each EASS participating team has conducted its own version of the General Social Survey (Chinese General Social Survey, National Survey Research Center at the Renmin University of China, Japanese General Social Survey, JGSS Research Center at Osaka University of Commerce; Korean General Social Survey, Sungkyunkwan University; and Taiwan Social Change Survey, Institute of Sociology, Academia Sinica). Every two years, each society's General Social Survey includes an EASS module: Family in 2006, Culture and Globalization in 2008, Health and Society in 2010, Network Social Capital in 2012, and Work Life in 2014. The EASS has become an important social science data source to understand social life in East Asia. For more information about the EASS, please see http://www.eassda.org.

The Sociology Program at the National Science Foundation (NSF) supports research on human social organization, demography, and processes of individual and institutional change. The Program encourages theoretically focused empirical investigations aimed at improving the explanation of fundamental social processes. Included is research on organizations and organizational behavior, population dynamics, social movements, social groups, labor force participation, stratification and mobility, family, social networks, socialization, gender roles, and the sociology of science and technology. The Sociology Program resides in NSF's Division of Social and Economic Sciences. The Division supports disciplinary and multidisciplinary research, data collection, measurement, and methodological research. Its goal is to develop basic scientific knowledge of social, behavioral, and economic systems, organizations and institutions, and human interaction and decision-making. It also provides support for research conferences, doctoral dissertation research, international group travel, and data resource development.

NIH's mission is to seek fundamental knowledge about the nature and behavior of living systems and the application of that knowledge to enhance living, lengthen life, and reduce illness and disability. The goals of the agency are: to foster fundamental creative discoveries, innovative research strategies, and their applications as a basis for ultimately protecting and improving health; to develop, maintain, and renew scientific human and physical resources that will ensure the Nation's capability to prevent disease; to expand the knowledge base in medical and associated sciences in order to enhance the Nation's economic well-being and ensure a continued high return on the public investment in research; and to exemplify and promote the highest level of scientific integrity, public accountability, and social responsibility in the conduct of science.

In realizing these goals, the NIH provides leadership and direction to programs designed to improve the health of the Nation by conducting and supporting research: in the causes, diagnosis, prevention, and cure of human diseases; in the processes of human growth and development; in the biological effects of environmental contaminants; in the understanding of mental, addictive and physical disorders; and in directing programs for the collection, dissemination, and exchange of information in medicine and health, including the development and support of medical libraries and the training of medical librarians and other health information specialists.

The National Institutes of Health is made up of 27 different components called Institutes and Centers. Each has its own specific research agenda.

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), based in Atlanta, Georgia, is the nation’s lead public health agency. Its mission is to prevent and control disease, injury, and disability and to prepare for emerging health threats. CDC seeks to accomplish its mission in partnership, both domestically and globally, by monitoring health, detecting and investigating health problems, conducting research to enhance prevention, developing and advocating sound public health policies, implementing prevention strategies, promoting healthy behaviors, fostering safe and healthful environments, and providing leadership and training. The agency maintains a full research and practice agenda that includes the prevention of infectious diseases, chronic diseases, injuries, workplace hazards, birth defects, and disabilities, in addition to protection from environmental hazards such as lead and other toxic substances. CDC employs scientists from a variety of disciplines including those from the social and behavioral sciences. Each of these disciplines brings a unique perspective to the conduct of public health research and practice which significantly contributes to CDC’s mission overall. Information will be available regarding job opportunities, postgraduate training, the Epidemic Intelligence Service (EIS), and funding opportunities.

These health data sets can be used to: document the health status of the U.S. population and selected subgroups; identify disparities in health status and use of health care by race/ethnicity, socio-economic status, region, and other population characteristics; document access to the health care system; monitor trends in health status and health care delivery; identify health behaviors and associated risk factors; support biomedical and health services research; provide data to support public policies and programs; evaluate the impact and effectiveness of health policies and programs and address many other research questions.
20. The Medical Expenditure Panel Survey: A Resource for Sociological Research

Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality

Presenter(s): Terceira Ann Berdahl, James B. Kirby; 540 Gaither road, rockville, MD 20850; phone: 301-427-1687; email: terceira.berdahl@ahrq.hhs.gov; webpage: www.meps.ahrq.gov

Sponsored by the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ), the Medical Expenditure Panel Survey (MEPS) is a vital resource designed to continually provide policymakers, researchers, health care professionals, businesses and others with timely, comprehensive information about the United States population's health, health care utilization, and costs. The MEPS is a continuous on-going nationally representative survey initiated in 1996. MEPS collects data on the specific health care services that Americans use, how frequently they use them, the cost of those services and how they are paid, as well as data on the cost, scope, and breadth of private health insurance held by and available to the U. S. civilian non-institutionalized population. MEPS is unparalleled for the degree of detail in its data, as well as its ability to link health status and health care to the demographic, employment, economic, family and other characteristics of survey respondents. In addition, MEPS is the only national survey that provides a foundation for estimating the impact of changes in sources of payment, insurance coverage, and family status on different economic groups or special populations such as the poor, elderly, veterans, the uninsured, and racial and ethnic minorities. These data have been used to examine factors associated with access to health care, estimates of eligibility for federal programs, racial and ethnic disparities in health, and issues related to the quality and satisfaction with health care. The MEPS is useful for monitoring the effects of social policy on population health, healthcare access, utilization, and quality across time and policy relevant subgroups. All MEPS public use data files are available for down-loading free of charge from the MEPS website: www.meps.ahrq.gov.

Index of Session Participants

For roundtable sessions, table numbers are given after the session number. (For example, a presenter at the fifth table on session 254 will have “254-5” in this index.) Please note that this index also includes "session organizers”, which may increase the number of sessions associated with names listed in this index.
