The publication policy of the American Sociological Association includes a system of voluntary page charges for authors of articles in ASA journals. This policy is designed to help offset the mounting publication costs for the Association. The rate of $20 per standard journal page (approximately 6” x 9”) is to be paid entirely at the discretion of the author(s) and presumably out of funds provided for this purpose in research grants.

The question of payment is not to be raised until after an article has been accepted for publication. Payment will have no bearing whatsoever on the editorial process or the publication schedule. Since this is a matter between the author(s) and the ASA Executive Office, the editor will not be informed of the outcome.

If you are able to assume these costs, or make a contribution toward defraying publication costs, please complete and return the form below. If you are not able to assume these costs, you do not need to return the form. Invoices will be sent via email.
