Region: All US Regions

Title: Irving May Endowed Chair in Sociology

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Associate Professor, Academic Positions: Full Professor

Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenured

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Art/Music , Racial and Ethnic Relations

Salary Range: Negotiable

Submission Link:

Job Description:

Irving May Endowed Chair in Sociology

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology invites applications for a sociologist with a focus on critical race theory for a tenured position at the level of Associate or Full Professor. We are looking for a scholar whose research and teaching engage the social sciences and expressive culture -- ideally music -- and who can contribute to the development of programs in racial and ethnic studies. While this position is not limited by geographical or thematic areas, we are interested in work that focuses on African-American, Afro-Brazilian, Afro-Caribbean and/or Latinx creative expression and experiences. The successful candidate will be housed within the Department of Sociology and Anthropology and their teaching may include courses cross-listed in the Department of Music (contingent upon disciplinary expertise). The teaching load is five units per year. We strongly encourage applications from people of color, women, first-generation scholars, LGBTQ people, and members of other marginalized populations. PhD in sociology preferred though the search committee will consider candidates with an MA/MS in Sociology and PhD in an interdisciplinary field such as African-American Studies, American Studies, Latinx Studies, or Latin American Studies.

Applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.richmond.edu> and submit the following materials: a cover letter containing teaching and research statements, a diversity statement that highlights the candidate's accomplishments in promoting diversity and equity, relevant course syllabi, and a current curriculum vitae. Please provide the names and contact information for three references. One of these references must be able to speak to the candidate's record of excellence in teaching. Questions about the search as well as any documents that cannot be submitted electronically should be addressed to Miguel Díaz-Barriga (mdiazbar@richmond.edu), Professor and Chair of Sociology and Anthropology, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, 302G Weinstein Hall, 231 Richmond Way, Richmond, VA 23173. Review of applications will begin September 20, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

Employer Description:

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With nearly 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and 92% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students “to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society.”

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment. The School of Arts and Sciences, the liberal arts core of the University, is a thriving community of 230 faculty, twenty-two departments and ten interdisciplinary programs. We offer distinctive and engaging learning opportunities to students and outstanding resources to support the scholarly, creative and pedagogical activities of the faculty. For information about the foundations, goals and initiatives of the School of Arts and Sciences, see the Concept 30 Strategic Plan <https://as.richmond.edu/concept30/about/index.html>. For more information about the Department of Sociology and Anthropology see, <https://socanth.richmond.edu/>; for the Department of Music see, <https://music.richmond.edu/>.

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology at the University of Central Florida (UCF) invites applications for a non-tenure earning, visiting instructor position, anticipated to begin in August 2019. This position may be renewed up to an additional three years. We seek a generalist with a wide undergraduate teaching portfolio and a commitment to effective teaching.

An M.A. in Sociology from an accredited institution at the time of application. Preference will be given to candidates who highlight a wide variety of courses they have taught as independent instructors and who provide evidence of teaching excellence. Preference will also be given to candidates who can contribute to one of the department's undergraduate minors (medical sociology; crime, law, and deviance; diversity and social inequality; mass culture and collective behavior), have experience teaching online, and/or can teach research methods/statistics.

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents to be submitted electronically through the Human Resources website, www.ucf.edu/jobs 497119. In addition to the online application, interested candidates should upload the following: (1) a letter of application describing qualifications for the position, including teaching interests, philosophy, and evidence of excellence; (2) a curriculum vitae; and (3) contact information for three professional references. The selected candidate will be required to provide official transcripts within thirty days of the hire date.

Completed applications must be received by May 30, 2019, in order to be considered for the position. For questions about the position, please contact Dr. Libby Mustaine, Chair of the Sociology Department, at libby@ucf.edu.

Employer Description:

The University of Central Florida is a thriving pre-eminent research university located in metropolitan Orlando. The university benefits from a diverse faculty and staff who create a welcoming environment, a high quality of life, and opportunities to grow, learn and succeed. UCF is adjacent to one of the top research parks in the nation and has a fully accredited College of Medicine. With a diverse student body of more than 68,000 students, UCF is the largest university by enrollment in Florida and one of the largest universities in the country. The university offers 93 bachelor's, 86 master's, 27 research doctorates, 3 professional doctorates, and 3 specialist degree programs. UCF is committed to innovative community partnerships, world-class research with regional impact, and the integration of technology and learning.

The University of Central Florida is committed to diversity and was recently named as a Hispanic Serving Institution. The Department of Sociology's strong involvement with diversity initiatives is especially reflected in the composition of its students; of 443 undergraduate majors, 43% are White, 22% are Black/African American, and 26% are Hispanic/Latinx. Of 61 students in our graduate programs, 56% are White, 15% are Black/African American, and 23% are Hispanic/Latinx. There is a departmental commitment to further expanding diversity, and applicants with records reflecting interest in underrepresented racial, ethnic, gender, and/or sexual minorities are especially encouraged to apply.

Job Description:

The Curb Center for Art, Enterprise & Public Policy at Vanderbilt

Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Public Policy

The Curb Center at Vanderbilt invites applications for a Postdoctoral Research Fellowship in Arts & Public Policy as part of the Curb Center at Vanderbilt's Public Policy program, to begin August 1, 2019.

The Curb Center at Vanderbilt is a national policy center committed to research and learning that challenge leaders to rethink the role of creative and cultural expression in contemporary society. The successful candidate will work closely with the Associate Director of Public Policy on various arts-related research projects, primarily focused on the educational and career pathways of creative workers. The role provides an opportunity for an early-career academic professional to develop national and international policy research on a broad range of cultural policy issues. The successful applicant will also support the Assistant Director of Creative Enterprise and Public Leadership in the activities of the Creative Campus and Curb Scholars programs. There is no teaching associated with this appointment. Approximately half (50%) of the candidate's time will be dedicated to their own research and scholarship.

This is a non-faculty, non-tenure track, one-year term appointment, with the possibility of a yearly extension contingent on funding and satisfactory performance. The fellow will join a cohort of other postdoctoral fellows across Vanderbilt University and have access to the professional development support of the Office of Postdoctoral Affairs.

The position is full time and carries a competitive salary, commensurate with the applicant's experience and qualifications, plus health insurance coverage as specified by Vanderbilt University guidelines. The Postdoctoral Research Fellow's primary appointment will be in the Department of Sociology, with all funding for the position coming from Curb Center resources.

The successful applicant will have the following qualifications:

1. A Ph.D. in Sociology or a field relevant to the broad aims of the program (i.e., social sciences, arts, humanities, law, information science, etc.) by start date.
2. Research expertise relevant to cultural policy, broadly construed (including cultural production and consumption, work and careers, creative cities, etc.).

To apply for the Postdoctoral Research Fellowship, submit the following materials in digital format:

1. A cover letter expressing interest in the position;
2. A current curriculum vitae;
3. A transcript of graduate work (unofficial is acceptable);
4. Two writing samples;
5. The names and contact information for three references.

Review of applications will begin immediately. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Applications and inquiries should be sent to Kimberly Kane (kimberly.kane@vanderbilt.edu).

Vanderbilt University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, people with disabilities and protected veterans are encouraged to apply.

Employer Description:

The Curb Center for Art, Enterprise & Public Policy at Vanderbilt University is a national policy center committed to research and learning that challenge leaders to rethink the place of creative and cultural expression in contemporary society.

Working at the intersection of research, policy, and practice, the Curb Center seeks to:

- build capacity and knowledge for policy-makers, cultural producers, administrators, funders, and researchers.
- inform debates around the challenges and opportunities facing creative and cultural expression in matters of public policy, civic engagement, and enterprise.
- advance public dialogue on issues, policies, and organizational structures affecting artists, creative endeavors, and individuals' expressive lives.

Our signature Creative Campus Initiative applies research on creative expression through co-curricular learning opportunities and trans-disciplinary programs integrating creativity and cultural engagement into the experience of all Vanderbilt University students, staff, and faculty. The Curb Scholars Program develops creative leaders, offering students resources and mentorship in initiating and implementing projects applying creative and entrepreneurial methodologies to problems, challenges, and opportunities on campus and beyond.

Job Description:

The School for International Studies at Simon Fraser University (Vancouver campus) invites applications for a continuing research faculty position at the level of full professor or associate professor, to begin in July 2020. We are particularly interested in candidates with research that is grounded in one or more regions of the world. Applicants should have a PhD in a social science discipline, with demonstrated excellence in research and teaching. Preference will be given to candidates with a proven record of leadership and program administration.

The School for International Studies is an interdisciplinary unit with research and teaching programs focused on peace and security; international development; human rights and international law; and governance and civil society. The normal teaching load for this full-time position is four courses per year, taught in two of three terms, with the third for research. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to the leadership and administration of the School.

Simon Fraser University is a leading Canadian public research university (consistently ranked #1 by Maclean's Magazine for best comprehensive university in Canada). We earn top marks for our world-class social science research, award-winning students and faculty, and new library acquisitions.

Applications will be treated in confidence and should include: a letter of application, a statement of research and teaching, and a curriculum vitae. Letters of reference will be requested of applicants who are long-listed for the position. Applications will be reviewed beginning September 1, 2019 until the position is filled. This position is subject to the availability of funding and approval by the Board of Governors.

Materials should be sent in a single pdf file via email to intst@sfu.ca. Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Tamir Moustafa, at tmoustafa@sfu.ca.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. SFU is an equity employer and encourages applications from all qualified individuals including women, persons with disabilities, visible minorities, Indigenous Peoples, people of all sexual orientations and gender identities, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of the university.

Under the authority of the University Act personal information that is required by the University for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see:

Job Description:

The Work and Organization Studies (WOS) group at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) Sloan School is seeking to hire a faculty member at the associate or full professor level to start July 1, 2020, or as soon thereafter as possible, whose teaching and research focus on communication and organizational issues. We are particularly interested in broad aspects of communication, including digital media and organizational communication.

Faculty responsibilities include teaching related to communication and organization studies and liaising with the Managerial Communication unit.

WOS is a relatively new group that merged two former groups at Sloan, the Organization Studies Group and the Institute for Work and Employment Research. As such the WOS faculty is interdisciplinary and the new hire's background is open and might include communication, sociology, organizational behavior, industrial relations, social psychology, political science, or economics. Candidates must possess a Ph.D. in one of these, or another closely related field by the start of employment.

We are open to a variety of styles of research (quantitative, ethnographic, field based, and lab based). (For more information about our group, go to: <http://mitsloan.mit.edu/faculty-and-research/academic-groups/work-and-organization-studies/>).

The WOS group is part of the Behavioral and Policy Sciences Area, one of three major academic areas at Sloan. We encourage multidisciplinary work with colleagues in other parts of the School, and several members of the group are also members of other groups in the School (Communication; Economic Sociology; Technological Innovation, Entrepreneurship, and Strategy Management; System Dynamics; Global Economics and Management; and Information Technology).

Please submit applications electronically at <http://apply.interfolio.com/63035> providing a cover letter outlining interests and experience, a current CV, and one or two papers that indicate your research focus and capabilities. Applicants should also arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted via Interfolio. Applications will be reviewed as received but are due no later than August 30, 2019.

MIT is an equal opportunity employer committed to building a culturally diverse and pluralistic intellectual community and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities.

Job Description:

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint several Post-Doctoral Researchers starting September 2019. Later start dates are also possible. Applicants must have received a Ph.D. in the last three years or be within a few months from completion. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

We encourage applications from very promising candidates with a capacity to conduct innovative, high-quality scholarly research in the fields of Economics, Political Science, Sociology and Public Policy. Successful candidates are expected to develop a well-defined research program and to forge productive collaborations with faculty at NYUAD. The terms of employment are competitive.

Applications are now open and we will consider candidates on a rolling basis. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, and a research sample, to: <https://apply.interfolio.com/51369>.

To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Please visit our website at <https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/postdoctoral-and-research.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

Note: We are considering candidates as applications are submitted. We will continue to consider applicants until all positions are filled.

Employer Description:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University, a multi-site, organically connected network encompassing key global cities and idea capitals. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complimented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global.

Faculty and students will circulate within this global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.
