Job Description:

The American Assembly at Columbia University invites applications from PhD holders for a postdoctoral position, which will last for a period of one academic year beginning on May 1, 2020, and has the possibility of renewal for an additional year.

Under the direction of the Principal Investigators (Prof. Adam Reich and Prof. Hana Shepherd of Rutgers), and working closely with our partner organization United for Respect, the successful candidate will play an integral role on an innovative Robert Wood Johnson Foundation-funded experimental study of the impact of online organizing on the health and well-being of low-wage workers. The primary task will be to support both researchers and United for Respect staff in the design, implementation, and analysis of the experiment. The candidate will need to attend regular meetings in New York City.

Candidates must have expertise in facilitating large research projects and experience with research-community partnerships. Ideal candidates will also have experience in online survey design and/or the design of field experiments, and a background in research pertaining to social media. Strong background in statistics, documented experience analyzing large data sets, familiarity with natural language processing software and data visualization, and a record of peer-reviewed publications are preferred, but not essential.

A PhD in Sociology, social sciences, or a related field is required. The degree must have been (or be) awarded between 05-31-2018 and 5-31-2020. Please submit the following:

Cover Letter: Describe what you consider to be your areas of expertise among those listed above and provide specific examples of your experience in those areas (other than research project management experience, which will be covered below.)

Curriculum Vitae.

Research Project Management Description. Provide a 2-3 page, single-spaced document that describes your experience in detail. Describe a challenge you had as part of your experience and describe what you did to address that challenge.

Writing Sample: One sample equivalent to a single journal article, book chapter, or dissertation chapter. The writing sample... may be published or unpublished. It must be in English (maximum 50 pages).

Names and contact details for at least three referees familiar with your work. All materials should be sent to incite.admin@columbia.edu.

Job Description:
The Society Hub of Hong Kong University of Science and Technology (Guangzhou Campus) now invites applications or nominations for faculty openings at all levels of Professor, Associate Professor and Assistant Professor in the Thrust Area Urban Governance and Design. We welcome applicants who employ quantitative methods to conduct transdisciplinary research on social and economic issues (e.g., education/human capital, health and aging, inequality/poverty, population and migration, transportation and communication networks, smart city, etc.).

Applicants must have a PhD degree in relevant fields. Senior academics should have proven teaching commitment and performance, experience and readiness in cross disciplinary curriculum and program design, and demonstrated service to the academic community and/or the public. Successful candidates will contribute to a post-graduate training program focusing on urban research and policy.

Salary is highly competitive of international standard and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Start-up research funds and excellent research equipment and support will be provided.

English is the medium of instruction and administration at HKUST (GZ) campus. HKUST (GZ) is committed to diversity in recruitment and equal opportunity employment and we strongly encourage suitable candidates of diverse backgrounds to submit their applications.

Application Procedure
Applications/Nominations should be sent to gzrecruitsoc@ust.hk together with (i) full CV; (ii) a statement of research, teaching, and service, if any; (iii) three most representative samples of research, all in PDF formats; (iv) records of teaching performance, if any. Junior and mid-career applicants should arrange for 3 letters of recommendation to be sent.

Deadline: Review of applications will commence on March 2nd 2020 and will continue until the positions are filled.

Employer Description:
The Hong Kong University of Science and Technology (HKUST) is a world-renowned international research university. The Ministry of Education of People's Republic of China officially approved the preparatory status of HKUST (GZ) in September.
2019. The Guangzhou campus covers 1.13 square kilometers and the first phase of construction is expected to be completed in 2022. At steady state, the number of undergraduate and postgraduate students will reach a total of 10,000. The intended areas of focus in the GZ Campus will be thematic and cross-disciplinary in nature, synergistic with HKUST without overlapping academic degrees or structures. 4 Academic Hubs (equivalent to school) with 16 Thrust Areas (equivalent to department) are being planned.

As one of the four transdisciplinary hubs at GZ campus, the Society Hub, aims to conduct cutting-edging research and disseminate knowledges to assist in the economic and social development of the Greater Bay Area (GBA) and beyond.

5. SARAH LAWRENCE COLLEGE

Job 16353: Public Humanities Fellowship

Date Position is Available: Fall 2020
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 2/27/2020 to 3/28/2020
Institution: SARAH LAWRENCE COLLEGE
Department: OFFICE OF THE PROVOST
Region: All US Regions
Title: Public Humanities Fellowship
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: All, Open
Tenure/Tenure Track:
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Communication and Information Technologies
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

Sarah Lawrence College in partnership with the Yonkers Public Library invites applications for a Public Humanities Fellow starting in August 2020. This three-year fellowship is funded by our recently awarded grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation (https://www.sarahlawrence.edu/news-events/news/2019-09-26-sarah-lawrence-awarded-1.2-million-mellon-foundation-grant-to-advance-civic-engagement-in-westchester-county-nr.html)

This position will both enhance the work at the Yonkers Public Library and extend curricular and pedagogical innovation for the college.

The Public Humanities Fellow will lead an initiative to help tell the story of the Yonkers Public Library—a central hub for many different communities throughout Yonkers, the fourth largest city in the state of NY. This intimate look at the history of the Library will both delve into the past and be a springboard into the future. The Library has been working hard over time to understand what matters most to those they serve and in this project, the past may inform the future. The Public Humanities Fellow will work closely with the library staff and a group of teen artists that meet weekly at the library gallery to gain information through archival and community research and interviews. The format to tell the Yonkers Public Library story will be a multi-media platform.

The Public Humanities Fellow will also teach courses at the College that will build on this work. While the Fellow’s area of specialty is open, we envision courses based in history and/or some aspects of the social sciences (urban studies, library/museum studies, sociology, anthropology, public policy, psychology) that will involve our undergraduates in oral history projects and/or archival and community research.

The successful candidate will combine a Ph.D. or equivalent professional accomplishment in a relevant field with experience in community engagement. The candidate will enjoy working with teens and create an equitable and respectful environment for teens and other community members from various constituencies. Understanding the evolving role of public institutions, like the library, in the evolution of society in urban areas will be important for a successful candidate. We invite interested candidates to submit a statement of interest and possible directions that they might take the Fellowship along with a CV, three letters of recommendation, relevant evidence of teaching (such as syllabi or a statement of teaching philosophy), and a sample of their work either in print or in a multi-media format. Consideration of applications will begin on March 15, 2020.

Employer Description:

Sarah Lawrence College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and has as one of its goals the recruitment and retention of a racially and culturally diverse administration, staff and faculty. To that end, every job opening is seen as an opportunity to increase diversity and every effort will be made to expand the applicant pool in accordance with these goals.

The Yonkers Public Library (Library) is an equal opportunity employer that does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, age, national origin, alien or citizenship status, religion, gender (Including gender identity), sexual orientation, disability, arrest or conviction record, marital status, military status, partnership status, or status as a victim of domestic violence, stalking or sex offenses, genetic information or any other characteristic protected by federal, state or local law.

Sarah Lawrence College is located in southern Westchester County, 25 minutes by train from midtown Manhattan, NYC. For information on Sarah Lawrence College, our curriculum, teaching methods, and philosophy of education, please see our website at https://www.sarahlawrence.edu/.

The Yonkers Public Library was established in 1893 to serve the citizens of the City of Yonkers. There are currently three branches; the Riverfront Branch in downtown Yonkers, the Grinton I. Job 16354: Post Doctoral Researcher, Sociology

As part of the University of Delaware’s commitment to enhancing diversity among its faculty, the Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice (https://www.soc.udel.edu/) invites applications for a Postdoctoral Scholar in justice, law and social control to begin Fall 2020. We are especially interested in scholars whose work furthers our understanding of law, justice, or social control among minority populations. Field of study is open but candidates conducting research in areas that build upon the strength of SOCI/CJ faculty and/or current funded projects in the Center for Drug and Health Studies (CDHS; https://www.cdhs.udel.edu/) are especially welcome. We strongly encourage applications from members of groups that have been historically underrepresented in faculty positions in higher education.

Postdoctoral scholars will be expected to teach two courses per academic year, engage with faculty and graduate students in a collaborative research environment, and participate fully in academic life of the department. The time in residence will consist of mentoring experiences, which include establishing collaborative research partnerships with SOCI/CJ faculty, producing peer-review publications, developing strong teaching skills, seeking funding opportunities, and other professional development opportunities. While these activities are important, enhancing the department’s commitment to diversity is a core aspect of this post-doctoral fellowship (https://www.soc.udel.edu/people/diversity-and-inclusion).

The two-year term for this position extends from August 16, 2020 until July 31, 2022. A Ph.D. at the time of appointment is required; the doctorate must have been completed within three years before the date of appointment. Postdoctoral scholars will receive all university employee benefits, full access to the University’s Morris Library and IT resources and modest support for research and/or travel expenses, as well as an office and computer. Selected candidates must not have another employment obligation.

For inquiries only, contact Professor Tammy Anderson, Chair, Sociology and Criminal Justice Search Committee; Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice; University of Delaware; Newark, DE 19716-2580, e-mail:
Application Instructions:
Applicants should submit the following to: http://www.udel.edu/udjobs; Job ID 494854.
1. Cover letter;
2. Curriculum vitae;
2. Scholarly paper (or dissertation chapter) written in the past three years;
3. Statement of no more than 1,500 words outlining your research interests and describing the proposed project(s) to be completed while in residency, including how the candidate meets the criteria listed above and enhances the university’s commitment to diversity; and
4. Three contact references (letters of recommendation may be requested)
The committee will begin reviewing applications on April 1, and the position will remain open until filled

The Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice offers undergraduate and graduate programs. The Department offers degrees at the undergraduate (Sociology; Criminal Justice), masters (Sociology; Criminology), and doctoral (Sociology; Criminology) levels. The Department is a growing department with award winning faculty and a highly ranked PhD program in Criminology as shown in the latest USNWR ranking.

The University of Delaware (www.udel.edu) is one of the oldest land-grant institutions in the nation, one of 19 sea-grant institutions, and one of only 13 space-grant institutions. UD is designated as a high research activity university (Carnegie rated) and with external funding exceeding $200 million, the University ranks among the top 100 universities in federal R&D support for science and engineering. With 23 academic departments, 27 interdisciplinary programs and centers, and more than 10,000 students, the College of Arts and Sciences is the largest college on campus (www.cas.udel.edu). Additionally, UD is located in Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

The University of Delaware is an equal opportunity employer that strongly encourages applications from minorities and women.

Equal Employment Opportunity
The University of Delaware is an Equal Opportunity Employer which encourages applications from minority group members, women, individuals with a disability and veterans. The University's Notice of Non-Discrimination can be found at http://www.udel.edu/aboutus/legalnotices.html. Employment offers will be conditioned upon successful completion of a criminal background check. A conviction will not necessarily exclude you from employment. The Associate Director also develops and manages planning and schedules in order to produce collaborative research reports and other deliverables. Further, the Associate Director participates actively in cross-Center research and organizational activities, working with members of other teams on a regular basis, sometimes leading multidisciplinary teams, sometimes supporting leaders of those teams from other parts of the Center.

The Associate Director is an accomplished project manager with strong skills in data analysis and writing using public opinion survey data and other data sources. The Associate Director also has a demonstrated capacity to lead others in conducting, analyzing and disseminating the program's work and is an accomplished speaker on these subjects to the stakeholder audiences in this area, including the press and policymakers. The Associate Director reports to the Director of Science and Society Research.

Position Details

The Associate Director demonstrates strategic vision in helping to plan and execute the Pew Research Center's research agenda in the area of science and society. They work to safeguard the Center's reputation by ensuring high standards for data analysis and methodological innovation. The Associate Director works in coordination with the Director to establish and strengthen relationships with Pew Research Center's key... stakeholders and contributes to the development of new research initiatives and grant proposals.

Responsibilities

I. Project Planning and Staff Management

- The Associate Director is expected to coordinate Pew Research Center's science and society research agenda, in conjunction with the Director and other senior staff responsible, including those assigned to cross-cutting teams.
- The Associate Director will assist in the planning of the Center's annual and long-term research agenda. They will help identify research priorities and develop annual and multiyear goals and objectives. The Associate Director will assist in drafting proposals to senior management and potential philanthropic partners.
- The Associate Director will assist in directing the work of the research team, delegate appropriate responsibilities, mentor team members and provide for their professional development.
- In conjunction with the Director and other senior staff, the Associate Director will ensure that Pew Research Center's staff is adequately trained and prepared to support the Center's data science research agenda.
- They will help identify opportunities for cross-team collaboration, including use of multiple methods and data sources. Additionally, they will work to align methods, analysis and reporting schedules of various projects to achieve maximum impact.
- They will facilitate communication between senior management, managing directors and staff teams assigned to specific projects as well as communication with outside experts, advisers and consultants.

II. Research design and data analysis

- The Associate Director is expected to provide research design, questionnaire design, methodological and analytic support to research projects.
- In addition, the Associate Director is expected to support development of new research initiatives, including providing research design and methodological advice.

III. Writing, Editing and Dissemination

- The Associate Director will take a lead role overseeing data analysis, writing and editing of survey data, qualitative interviews and other data for reports and other research products.
- They will participate in the dissemination of research findings through media interviews, presentations, and other activities coordinated with the communications department.
- They will serve as a recognized expert on science and society at internal and external forums, demonstrating Pew Research Center standards for impartial analysis.

Education/Training/Experience

- Doctorate-level research design experience is preferred
- Minimum 12 years experience in social science research and analysis
- Experience overseeing research staff
- Experience writing and speaking for informed public audiences outside of academia
- Proven experience using multiple statistical techniques and research designs
- Significant experience and working knowledge of key issues related to the science and technology enterprise

Qualifications

- Strong background in social science research
- Demonstrated interest in public attitudes and trends related to science and society
- Strong quantitative analysis skills, including an ability to use statistical package programs to organize and analyze large amounts of data
- Interest and experience with mixed-method research is a plus
- Excellent writing and editing skills translating quantitative data findings into prose for a non-academic, informed public

This position aims to foster sociological, inter-disciplinary and collaborative research, education and outreach by building on Indigenous knowledges, cultures, traditions and experiences developed among, and in partnership with, First Nations, Inuit and Métis. Area of specialization is open. Preference will be given to those who have an established relationship with Indigenous people. The anticipated start date is July 1, 2020.

The Department of Sociology is a research-intensive department with high standards in teaching. We offer undergraduate, MA and PhD degrees in Sociology and an undergraduate degree in Law and Society. We value interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary approaches to research and training, and strongly encourage collaboration both within the academy and with community partners. For more information about the Department, please visit: http://soci.ucalgary.ca/.

The successful candidate will establish and maintain an active research program in sociology and/or Law and Society, teach graduate and undergraduate courses in the department and potentially in the Faculty of Arts’ International Indigenous Studies Program, engage in graduate supervision, participate in the affairs of the department and faculty, and engage with the wider community.

The position requires a PhD in Sociology or in a closely related discipline. All But Dissertation (ABD) applicants will be considered if the candidate is close to completion. The successful candidate should demonstrate a capacity to carry out research informed by Indigenous epistemologies, ontologies, pedagogies, methodologies and knowledges. The successful candidate will show evidence of using these approaches in teaching and research. Candidates may demonstrate research excellence in Indigenous Studies through research directed by and for Indigenous people and/or through community-engaged research. The impact of research can be demonstrated through knowledge dissemination with Indigenous communities, peer-reviewed publications, or other forms of knowledge mobilization.
The candidate should also demonstrate a capacity for successfully securing research grants. Evidence of excellence in teaching should be demonstrated via a teaching dossier (see below). Applicants should also identify potential Sociology and/or Law and Society courses that they could teach. Preference may be given to candidates who have experience in advancing projects with Canadian Indigenous communities.

All applications must be received by April 13, 2020.

Interested individuals are encouraged to submit an application online via UCalgary Careers (https://careers.ucalgary.ca/). Please be aware that the application process allows for only four attachments. Your four application attachments must be organized to contain the following (which may require you to merge documents):

- Letter of interest detailing why you meet the requirements of the position
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae
- A teaching dossier including evidence of teaching experience with Indigenous content and learners, a summary of the candidate’s approach to student mentorship and graduate supervision, teaching evaluations if available, and two sample syllabi.
- A statement of research interests
- Two samples of scholarly work
- Names and contact information for three referees, along with the written permission of the applicant for the Chair of the Selection Committee to contact the referees for letters of reference which will be shared with the members of the hiring committee.
- Evidence of the applicant's connection to an Indigenous community

These materials should be addressed to:

Job 16341: Lecturer in Criminal Justice

Date Position is Available: Fall 2020
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 2/18/2020 to 3/19/2020
Institution: University of The Pacific
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: West
Title: Lecturer in Criminal Justice
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Lecturer
Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Criminal Justice, Criminology/Delinquency
Salary Range: $70,000 - $79,999

Job Description:

The University of the Pacific invites applications for a full-time, three-year position as a Lecturer specializing in Criminal Justice. This position will entail teaching and curriculum development responsibilities in two new Criminal Justice concentrations – one in a degree completion program in Organizational Leadership in Benerd College, and the other in the Departments of Sociology and Political Science in the College of the Pacific. The teaching requirements are six courses per year, split between the two programs, with primary service responsibility in Benerd College. A Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, Criminology, Sociology, Political Science, or related disciplines is required. Candidates nearing completion of their doctorate will be considered; however, all requirements for conferral of the degree are expected to be met no later than August 17, 2020. The appointment for this position may be renewable.

Both programs in which the lecturer will teach consist of many non-traditional students who are returning to school after a gap in their education and we expect the candidate to have some experience or interest in teaching this population. To offer flexibility to these students, many of whom work full-time, courses in the Organizational Leadership program are offered in a hybrid format, with a significant online component and evening or weekend class meetings. Thus, the candidate should ideally have experience teaching in an online environment, though training for quality online teaching is available. The successful candidate should also provide evidence of their commitment to or experience promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of individuals from diverse backgrounds.

University of the Pacific is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer dedicated to workforce diversity. In compliance with applicable law and its own policy, Pacific is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty and staff and does not discriminate in its hiring of faculty and staff, or in the provision of its employment benefits to its faculty and staff on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, age, genetic information, sex/gender, marital status, veteran status, sexual orientation, medical condition, pregnancy, gender identity, gender expression or mental or physical disability.

Applicants will be required to upload the following documents to their online application:
1. Cover Letter that includes a statement of teaching experience and interests
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. One Sample Syllabus (please upload under “Other Document”)

Additionally, applicants are required to provide complete contact information (name, email and phone #) for at least three references, who will receive an email request to upload their letters of recommendation via PeopleAdmin.

Employer Description:

Pacific was California's first chartered institution of higher education in 1851. It is a comprehensive university with campuses in Stockton, Sacramento and San Francisco. This position is located on the university's Stockton Campus. Stockton is ranked the 13th largest city in California and is the 4th largest city in the Central Valley. It has a dynamic, multi-ethnic and multi-cultural population of more than 290,000 residents.

Job 16337: Postdoctoral Fellow

Date Position is Available: Fall 2020

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 2/16/2020 to 3/15/2020

Institution: Indiana University-Bloomington
Department: The Kinsey Institute and Department of Sociology

Region: Midwest

Title: Postdoctoral Fellow

Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: All

Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Tenure Track

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas, Open to All Specialty Areas

Salary Range: $50,000 - $59,999

Job Description:
The Kinsey Institute and the Department of Sociology at Indiana University, Bloomington seek a postdoctoral fellow in the research lab of Dr. Jennifer Barber. Fellowship activities will focus on intimate relationships during the transition to adulthood using data from the Relationship Dynamics and Social Life (RDSL) project. The RDSL is a study of variation and change in attitudes and behaviors related to pregnancy and family formation during the transition to adulthood in a county in Michigan. Data and codebooks are available through the Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research (icpsr.ist.umich.edu). The project includes data from surveys and semi-structured interviews, merged census data about neighborhoods, as well as some individual- and contextual-level data about the pharmacies, clinics, and schools. (Additional information about bus service, employers, etc. could be appended to the dataset relatively easy.) The specific substantive focus and the analytic methods to be used in the fellowship are flexible.

The candidate will work closely with Dr. Barber to author and/or co-author a series of papers using the RDSL dataset. The candidate will also work closely with Dr. Barber to submit a grant proposal to NIH or another appropriate funder. In addition to these activities, the fellow will deliver one or two methods workshops in the IU Social Science Research Commons, in collaboration with Dr. Barber or independently.

This is a one-year appointment, and is potentially renewable for a second year depending on the availability of funding. It includes an annual stipend of $54,000 and $6,000 per year in research and professional development expenses (e.g., workshops, conference travel), health benefits effective the first day of employment, office space at The Kinsey Institute, and administrative support.

This position will begin in August, 2020; for best consideration apply by March 29, 2020.

Position Requirements:
Postdoctoral Fellows are expected to be in residence for the academic year and participate fully in the intellectual life of both the Institute and the Department. Applicants should hold a PhD or equivalent in a social science discipline, and be no more than five years past the PhD.

A complete application includes a cover letter, curriculum vita, and contact information for three references with your online application. In addition to a brief cover letter, please submit a one-page proposal including (i) a set of two to three inter-related research questions, (ii) the corresponding RDSL measures, and (iii) methods to analyze those measures to answer the research question. Interested candidates should review the application requirements and submit their application at: http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/9266. Questions regarding the position can be sent to: Dr. Jennifer Barber, The Kinsey Institute, Indiana University, 150 S Woodlawn Ave, Lindley Hall 428, Bloomington, IN 47405 at jenbarb@iu.edu.

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

Lead Survey Researcher and Consultant

University of Notre Dame

The University of Notre Dame (<https://jobs.nd.edu>) is accepting applications for a Lead Survey Researcher and Consultant.

Applications will be accepted until 3/4/2020.

Who We Are:

The Office of Strategic Planning and Institutional Research (OSPIR) provides strategic insight to the university's senior leaders. We have a dedicated team, our work is highly sought-after, and our impact on the university is significant. There are a number of new opportunities on the horizon. The university's leadership has asked us to pursue the hard questions - what should Notre Dame be thinking about today to ensure we achieve our vision? Through our partnership with the university's Business Intelligence team, we are bringing greater transparency and access to the university's data. This is an exciting time to join our team!

What You'll Do:

As the university's primary survey expert, you will make a substantial impact on the university, influencing strategic decisions by designing and administering surveys to gain insights and by sharing the findings from your analyses.

As such, you will:
- Develop institutional level surveys in partnership with members of the university's senior leadership team
- Represent the university in consortia to facilitate survey research
- Leverage comparative information to provide context to Notre Dame's survey data
- Develop survey reports and analyses for the university community
- Collaborate with your colleagues in OSPIR to bring survey data to bear in a variety of initiatives
- Partner with university leaders to understand their goals and challenges and then to use your expertise to help them achieve their objectives

Why We’re Excited About You:
- You think creatively and propose innovative ways to answer strategic questions
- You have experience using survey data to inform decision makers
- You are able to communicate your findings clearly to broad audiences
- You identify opportunities for continuous improvement
- You are a self-starter who takes initiative and is capable of learning on the job
- You are able to build strong relationships and are a collaborative team player
- You have experience owning complex projects from start to finish
- You possess an intellectual curiosity and are constantly adding to your professional skillset
- You have an advanced degree, preferably terminal and with emphasis on social research methods

Minimum Qualifications:

The following special knowledge, abilities, or skills are required:
- Desire to change, adapt, and continuously improve the university’s survey design, administration, reporting, and analytic efforts
- Highly developed ability to design and execute sophisticated survey research efforts utilizing appropriate methodologies
- Commitment to confidentiality and ethical data practices
- Ability to prioritize and manage multiple tasks simultaneously
- Demonstrated ability to lead cross-disciplinary teams on complex projects
- Proven working knowledge of Qualtrics or another comprehensive survey administration platform
- Expertise in R, Python, or SPSS for data management and analysis
- Tableau Desktop Certified Associate, or ability to obtain certification within one year of hire

Preferred Qualifications:

- PhD and/or advanced degree with emphasis on research methods highly desirable.
- Knowledge of, exposure to, and deep interest in higher education.
- At least 4 years of experience with the following, preferred:
- Principal investigator on a sizable survey research project from start to finish, including design, data collection, troubleshooting, analysis, and reporting.
- Experience in consultative and advising relationships with leaders in higher education

ABOUT NOTRE DAME:
The University of Notre Dame, founded in 1842 by Rev. Edward F. Sorin, C.S.C., of the Congregation of Holy Cross, is an independent, national Catholic university located in Notre Dame, Ind. For the fifth consecutive year, the University of Notre Dame has received Honor Roll distinctions as one of the top 10 higher education workplaces in the country in the Chronicle of Higher Education’s annual “Great Colleges to Work For” survey...and we are proud of it!

This appointment is contingent upon the successful completion of a background check. Applicants will be asked to identify all felony convictions and/or pending felony charges. Felony convictions do not automatically bar an individual from employment. Each case will be examined separately to determine the appropriateness of employment in the particular position. Failure to be forthcoming or dishonesty with respect to felony disclosures can result in the disqualification of a candidate. The full procedure can be viewed at https://facultyhandbook.nd.edu/?id=link-73597.

Equal Opportunity Employment Statement
The University of Notre Dame seeks to attract, develop, and retain the highest quality faculty, staff and administration. The University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and is committed to building a culturally diverse workplace. We strongly encourage applications from female and minority candidates and those candidates attracted to a university with a Catholic identity. Moreover, Notre Dame prohibits discrimination against veterans or disabled qualified individuals, and requires affirmative action by covered contractors to employ and advance veterans and qualified individuals with disabilities in compliance with 41 CFR 60-741.5(a) and 41 CFR 60-300.5(a).

APPLICATION PROCESS:
Please apply online at https://apptrkr.com/1822908. For additional information about working at the University of Notre Dame and various benefits available to employees, please visit http://hr.nd.edu/why-nd. The University of Notre Dame supports the needs of dual career couples and has a Dual Career Assistance Program in place to assist relocating spouses and significant others with their job search.

Job Description:

Director of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion
American Sociological Association

The American Sociological Association (ASA) invites applications for the position of Director of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion. This is an exciting opportunity to fundamentally influence the discipline of sociology. ASA has a membership of over 11,000 sociologists who are scholars, teachers, and practitioners. Its mission is to serve sociologists in their work, advance sociology as a discipline and profession, and promote the contributions and use of sociology to society. ASA's office is in Washington, DC.

Essential Functions:

- Conceptualize and operationalize strategic direction for the association’s diversity, equity, and inclusion efforts focused on both the association and the discipline.
- Manage the 46 year old Minority Fellowship Program,
- Support the launch and ongoing development of “identity-based communities” centered on providing opportunities for engagement, leadership, connection, networking and professional development for sociologists within the broader ASA framework.
- Develop and implement relevant programming for departments and for sociologists in a variety of professional contexts that integrates and complements the efforts of the Research, Professional Development and Academic Affairs Department.
- Collaborate with organizational committees and other volunteer leadership groups in the interest of supporting relevant activities.
- Partner with external organizations to develop and/or participate in cross-disciplinary initiatives.
- Work with the communications department to develop and distribute relevant information through channels such as newsletters, website, and social media.
- Manage a departmental operating budget.
- Respond to relevant requests for assistance from members and staff.
- Serve as a member of the staff leadership team and manage additional responsibilities as assigned by the Executive Director.
Job Classification: Exempt

Preferred Qualifications: It is important to note that these qualifications are preferred. We recognize that there are several professional profiles that could be well suited to this position. Should your profile vary in some ways from the qualifications listed and you think you can be successful in this endeavor, please do not hesitate to apply. Additionally, this position could be filled on an ongoing employment basis or as a two-year temporary position.

- PhD in sociology or closely related discipline.
- At least five years of relevant professional experience or equivalent.
- Familiarity with current discussions regarding diversity, equity, and inclusion in higher education and other professional contexts relevant for sociologists.
- Project management experience; a good ability to choose among alternatives and identify key priorities for work; ability to successfully manage multiple projects at once.
- Strong work ethic; maturity and organizational savvy; ability to work independently and in collaboration with teams; excellent interpersonal skills; excellent communication skills.

Compensation: Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience. A full benefits package is provided.

To apply: Please submit a substantive cover letter and a resume to Nancy Kidd, Executive Director, at nkidd@asanet.org. Your letter should indicate if you are applying for an ongoing position or a two-year temporary post. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until someone has been hired.

ASA is an equal opportunity employer.

Employer Description:
The American Sociological Association (ASA), founded in 1905, is a non-profit membership association dedicated to advancing sociology as a scientific discipline and profession serving the public good. With over 11,000 members, ASA encompasses sociologists who are faculty members at colleges and universities, researchers, practitioners, and students. About 20 percent of the members work in government, business, or non-profit organizations.

As the national organization for sociologists, the American Sociological Association, through its Executive Office, is well positioned to provide a unique set of services to its members and to promote the vitality, visibility, and diversity of the discipline. Working at the national and international levels, the Association aims to articulate policy and implement programs likely to have the broadest possible impact for sociology now and in the future.

Job 16329: Director of African and African American Studies

WCU seeks a dynamic scholar at either the senior assistant (tenure-track) or associate professor (tenure-track or tenured) level to direct and contribute to the development of its new interdisciplinary minor in African and African American studies beginning in August of 2020. This is a nine-month position. Employment in this position is contingent upon final budgetary approval. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until a successful candidate has been identified.

The director will build the intellectual identity of the program, and will assure an exciting and collegial environment for faculty, students, and staff by fostering interdisciplinary campus, regional, and national collaboration and help shape the curriculum, mission, and community outreach of the program. Proposed by students at WCU as a necessary part of creating a diverse campus community and supported by faculty, this minor is part of an effort to encourage students to develop their analytic, research, and literary skills. The director will have a disciplinary home in one of the following departments: Anthropology and Sociology, English, History, Philosophy and Religion, or Political Science and Public Affairs.

The director’s duties will include:

- Teaching course(s) for student in the minor and in their discipline that support the minor and other majors on campus and conducting research.
- Designing curriculum appropriate for an African and African American studies minor and facilitating the development of relevant courses across campus.
- Establishing a program board of supportive faculty, students, and community members to guide the minor.
- Developing signature programming associated with the minor that showcases faculty scholarship, student work, and community engagement.

- Recruiting and advising students in the minor.
- Managing a budget for the program.
- Developing and implementing an assessment plan for the minor.
- Other duties could include:
  - Developing a growth plan.
  - Coordinating with cultural programs in partnership with university units and departments.
  - Bringing in outside scholars or speakers.

The successful applicant will join the appropriate disciplinary department in the College of Arts and Sciences and will develop, in conjunction with the Dean of Arts and Sciences and their home department head, a service load reflective of the interdisciplinary mission of the program. The director will work with a board of interested faculty, students, and community members who will aid in supporting, developing, and promoting programming.

Knowledge, Skills, & Abilities Required for this Position

Minimum Qualifications

- A terminal degree (PhD or M.F.A) in a discipline that would fit in one of the following departments: Anthropology and Sociology, English, History, Philosophy and Religion, or Political Science and Public Affairs.
- A scholarly record that demonstrates academic contributions related to fields in African American, African Diaspora or Africana studies, broadly conceived.
- Ability to teach an introductory interdisciplinary course on African/African American studies.
- 2-5 years of higher education teaching experience at a college or University.

Preferred Qualifications

- Administrative experience in curriculum development or program development.
- Experience in community-based participatory research or community outreach.
- Experience in developing service learning or internship opportunities for students.

Employer Description:

Located in Cullowhee, NC, the campus is about one hour west of Asheville and less than twenty miles from the Eastern Band of the Cherokee Indians. WCU is in the Southern Appalachian Mountains and adjacent to several thriving communities, including nearby Sylva. The area has a mild climate, tremendous recreational opportunities, and natural beauty.

Western Carolina University is committed to a diverse and inclusive workforce by ensuring all our students, faculty, and staff work in an environment of openness and acceptance. We strive to foster a community where people of all backgrounds, identities, and perspectives can feel secure and welcome. We also value the well-being of each of our employees and are dedicated to creating a healthy place to work, learn and live. We believe in transparency and encourage you to visit our “Diversity at WCU” website. As an Equal Opportunity Employer, we strongly encourage veterans, individuals with disabilities, women, and all minorities to consider our employment opportunities.
Carnegie statement

WCU embraces its role as a regionally engaged university and is designated by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching as a community engaged university. Preference will be given to candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to public engagement through their teaching and service.
