Job 18304: Faculty Director/ Research Professor

Date Position is Available: Winter 2023
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/31/2022 to 9/30/2022
Institution: Duke University
Department: Sanford School of Public Policy
Region: Southeast
Title: Faculty Director/ Research Professor
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Other, Sociological Practice/Applied/Other: Director
Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Tenure Track
Salary Range: Negotiable
Job Description:
The Sanford School of Public Policy at Duke University seeks a regular-rank professor (non-tenured research professor track at the Assistant, Associate, or Full level) to become Faculty Director of the North Carolina Education Research Data Center within the Duke Center for Child and Family Policy beginning January 1, 2023.
Qualifications include a doctoral degree in a relevant social science field, experience in managing large data files, and a published record of education research. A track record of external funding would be a strength. The position involves financial and managerial leadership of the Data Center, teaching one course per year in the Sanford School of Public Policy, and an ongoing program of research.
This position has two years of guaranteed funding, although candidates are welcome to bring their own grants to the position to fund a percent of their salary, even in these first two years. As of year three, candidates for this position must have a secure source of external funding that can be used to support the costs of approximately 70% of their salary and fringe benefits.
Applications can be submitted online at https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/22531. A cover letter, updated CV, and contact information for three references will be required before any interviews and should be submitted in the application. Applications will be reviewed as they are received, and the position will be filled as soon as possible. Applications received by November 1, 2022, will be guaranteed full consideration.
The Sanford School includes a full-time faculty of almost 70 and offers an undergraduate major, four Masters programs, and a Ph.D. program. Current faculty members have degrees in a variety of disciplines including demography, economics, history, law, medicine, philosophy, political science, psychology, public policy, public health/health policy, and sociology. The Sanford School houses several interdisciplinary research centers, and offers degree-related programs and opportunities in Washington, China, Scotland, London and Geneva. More information on the Sanford School can be found at https://www.sanford.duke.edu.
The Center for Child and Family Policy within the Sanford School is dedicated to improving the well-being of children and families through research, education, and engagement. We study factors that influence child outcomes, develop and test promising interventions, and advance evidence-based practices and policies that can inform change and unlock opportunities for all children and their families.

Job 18308: Postdoctoral Research Fellow-Alliance for Identity-Inclusive Computing Education (AiiCE)

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/31/2022 to 9/30/2022
Institution: Duke University
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: South
Title: Postdoctoral Research Fellow-Alliance for Identity-Inclusive Computing Education (AiiCE)
Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: Post-doctoral
Salary Range: $50,000 - $59,999
Submission Link: https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/22490

Job Description:

Position ID:#22490
Postdoctoral Research Fellow-Alliance for Identity-Inclusive Computing Education (AiiCE)
Department of Computer Science
Duke University
Durham, NC
Schedule: Full-time, 12-month

Program Information
The Alliance for Identity-Inclusive Computing Education (AiiCE (https://identityincs.org/) aims to increase the entry, retention, and course/degree completion rates of high-school and undergraduate students from groups that are historically underrepresented in computing through evidence-based, identity-inclusive interventions. AiiCE is founded upon evidence that student-focused (and often deficit-based) strategies do not adequately address institutional cultures, policies, and practices that have marginalized people from non-dominant identities.

The AiiCE-Postdoctoral Research Fellowship (AiiCE-PRF) aims to increase the number of postdoctoral researchers (postdocs) from groups that are historically underrepresented (i.e., Black, Indigenous, Latinx, women, LGBTQ+, disabled, first-generation college graduates, and their intersections) and the number of postdocs performing identity-inclusive computing education research.

Job Description Summary
The Alliance seeks three (3) candidates from various disciplines to perform research at the intersection of identity and computing at the postsecondary level. Successful candidates will work with scholars from Duke University, the University of Oregon, Bard College, the Kapor Center, Georgia Tech, ABET/CSAB, Reboot Representation, Northeastern University’s Center for Inclusive Computing, and more.

Qualifications
This position demands self-motivated, organized, deadline-oriented, and independent researchers who meet the following requirements.

Minimum Qualifications
1. Ph.D. with completion date no later than May 2023 in CS/Engineering/STEM Education, Sociology, and other related disciplines.
2. Experience performing quantitative, qualitative, and/or mixed-methods research.
3. Alignment with the goals of AiiCE.
4. Proficiency in oral and written communication.
5. Evidence of research experience in the aforementioned areas, as demonstrated by publications, works in progress, and/or presentations.
6. Current eligibility to work in the U.S.
Candidates are expected to work on all facets of projects (including instrument development, data collection and, manuscript writing, and publishing/presenting findings), as well as mentor student researchers.

All positions are for two (2) years. A background check will be required of successful candidates.

Application Instructions

Applicants must submit the following documents as attachments:

1. Cover letter and CV.
2. Brief statement identifying prior research projects and current interests.
3. Brief statement on how applicant’s prior and potential contributions to creating equitable and inclusive environments will advance the Alliance’s mission.
4. Unofficial university transcript.
5. Professional writing sample.
6. References from three (3) people who can speak to the applicant’s professional experience and potential as a postdoctoral researcher.

Application reviews will begin January 1, 2023, and they will continue until all positions are filled.

Inquiries regarding these positions can be made to Dr. Nicki Washington at nicki@cs.duke.edu.

NOTE: Applicants will not be sponsored for work visas. In compliance with federal law, all persons hired will be required to verify identity and eligibility to work in the United States and complete the required employment eligibility verification document form upon hire.

Details on benefits, including health insurance, provided by Duke University for postdoctoral researchers can be found at: https://postdoc.duke.edu/resources.

Duke University is situated in the vibrant Research Triangle Area of North Carolina, which is frequently ranked among the best places in the country to live and work.

COVID-19 Vaccine Information

In accordance with Duke University policy, all University faculty, and staff members, regardless of work location, must receive and show documentation of full COVID-19 and flu vaccination status. People are considered fully vaccinated two weeks after receiving their last shot in a vaccine series. University faculty and staff may apply for a medical or religious exemption, but anyone approved for an exemption will be subject to daily symptom monitoring, weekly surveillance testing, continued masking, and other protocols applicable to those who have not been vaccinated.

Duke University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual’s age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Duke aspires to create a community built on collaboration, innovation, creativity, and belonging. Our collective success depends on the robust exchange of ideas-an exchange that is best when the rich diversity of our perspectives, backgrounds, and experiences flourishes. To achieve this exchange, it is essential that all members of the community feel secure and welcome, that the contributions of all individuals are respected, and that all voices are heard. All members of our community have a responsibility to uphold these values.

Application Materials Required:

Submit the following items online at this website to complete your application:

- Cover letter
- Curriculum Vitae
- Research statement
- Statement on creating equitable/inclusive environments
- Unofficial University transcript
- Professional writing sample
- Three references (no actual letters, just names and email addresses. Applicants need to add all their writers on standard coversheet.)

And anything else requested in the position description.

Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: Post-doctoral

Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Applicable

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Education

Salary Range: $60,000 - $69,999

Job Description:

The Population Studies and Training Center at Brown University is seeking a Postdoctoral Research Associate with training in education and qualitative or mixed methods to work with Associate Professor Emily Rauscher and Professor Susanna Loeb on a sponsored project funded by the Gilead Foundation. Using near-random funding increases, mixed methods, and rigorous analyses to assess impact on education and health, the study will identify which types of spending are most beneficial for student well-being, particularly among Black and Latinx students and schools. The goal is to identify targeted funding strategies that build on local strengths and increase wellbeing through equity.

The Postdoctoral Research Associate will participate in collection and analysis of interviews and survey data, to gather information from superintendents, principals, teachers, and parents in 9 California high schools. The Postdoctoral Research Associate will assist with community engagement, literature reviews, manuscript production for publication in peer-reviewed journals, and presentations at scientific conferences. Publications stemming from the project will be co-authored with Professors Rauscher and Loeb. The Postdoctoral Research Associate is encouraged to lead at least one paper, to publish their independent research, and to participate in the active communities at the PSTC and the Annenberg Institute for School Reform.

Job Description:
Associate/Full Professor - Understanding (Non)Citizenship Cluster - Department of Political Science

Position overview
Anticipated start: 07/01/2023

Application Window
Open August 16, 2022 through Friday, Sep 23, 2022 at 11:59pm (Pacific Time)

If you apply to this recruitment by September 23, 2022, you will have until October 7, 2022 to complete your application.

Position description
The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science in the College of Letters and Science at the University of California, Berkeley invites applications for a full-time tenured Associate or Full Professor faculty position in political science.

Applicants to this position will be appointed in Political Science, however successful candidates' scholarship must speak to and advance the goals of the "Understanding (Non)Citizenship" initiative at the University of California, Berkeley, which aims to hire an interdisciplinary cluster of faculty on this topic over two years. The cluster tackles three overarching themes: issues of justice, fairness and equality as related to (non)citizenship; the determinants and content of (non)citizenship; and the consequences of (non)citizenship. The cluster considers citizenship broadly, as a legal, social and cultural status that combines civil, political and social rights with a sense of identity, encompassing those who lack formal citizenship but also those who experience “second-class” citizenship through differential rights and treatment. Fully understanding (non)citizenship requires an interdisciplinary approach: claims for citizenship and equality are invariably normative, while the consequences and drivers of (non)citizenship must be studied empirically to understand change and effects. For this reason, this innovative cluster of faculty hiring will bring together diverse units in the social sciences, humanities and professional schools across UC-Berkeley. Faculty hired through the Understanding (Non)Citizenship cluster will hold positions in Philosophy, Political Science, Public Policy, Sociology and Law. In 2022-23, the University seeks applicants for an Assistant Professor position in Philosophy and a tenured (Associate or Full Professor) position in Political Science.

Considering the significant disruptions caused by the Covid-19 pandemic, particularly for disadvantaged groups, in our evaluation of applicants, dips in productivity in otherwise strong records occurring with the onset of the pandemic will be evaluated with the context of the pandemic in mind.

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science is committed to fostering an environment in which all members of the Berkeley community feel empowered to pursue their educational goals in a welcoming environment. We believe that every individual must be treated with equality and dignity as we work together to ensure the success of students, staff, and faculty. For more information, please visit the department website: https://polisci.berkeley.edu. Additional information about programs and resources supporting the advancement of diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging is available at: https://ls.berkeley.edu/about/diversity-equity-and-inclusion https://ls.berkeley.edu/ls-divisions/social-sciences/diversity-equity-and-inclusion

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. We are also interested in candidates who have had non-traditional career paths or who have taken time off for family reasons, or who have achieved excellence in careers outside academia. For information about potential relocation to Berkeley, or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty.

Job Description:

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF SOCIOLOGY & ANTHROPOLOGY

Kalamazoo College invites applications for a tenure track position at the assistant professor level in the Anthropology and Sociology Department. We invite applications from anthropologists, sociologists, or geographers with expertise in qualitative and/or quantitative research methods. The area of research is open, but an international focus is desired. As a blended department, all courses blur disciplinary boundaries.

A Ph.D. is required in Anthropology, Sociology, Geography, or a related discipline (or evidence it will be completed by September 1, 2023). The position also requires advising senior theses, contributing to the College’s “Shared Passages” core curriculum (first-year, sophomore, and senior seminars), and a commitment to the liberal arts. Kalamazoo College is committed to inclusive excellence. We especially encourage applications from candidates whose intellectual and pedagogical approaches will be effective in attracting and retaining historically underrepresented students. The successful applicant will demonstrate a strong commitment to working with students, faculty, and staff from diverse social, cultural, and economic backgrounds. They will also demonstrate a high aptitude for and interest in undergraduate teaching, a commitment to the liberal arts, and the ability to establish an ongoing research record. Salary is competitive and consistent with the level of experience. Kalamazoo College is on the trimester system, and the teaching load is two courses per trimester.

Completed applications received by September 1, 2022 will receive full consideration, with later applications reviewed as needed until the position is filled. Please electronically submit to application materials in pdf format: cover letter, curriculum vitae, a statement on equity and inclusion, a statement of teaching philosophy, a statement of research interests. Please also have three letters of recommendation submitted to AnsoSearch@kzoo.edu with ‘Tenure Track’ in the subject line. Prior to Zoom interviews, a 10-page writing sample and sample syllabi of a course the candidate has taught, or may teach in the future will be requested. Please direct all correspondence and questions regarding this position to Dr. Espelencia Baptiste: espelencia.baptiste@kzoo.edu

Kalamazoo College encourages candidates who will contribute to the cultural diversity of the College to apply and identify themselves if they wish. Equal Opportunity Employer.

Employer Description:
Kalamazoo College is a highly selective liberal arts college offering an integrated undergraduate experience that weaves a traditional liberal arts curriculum with educational experiences and civic engagement in domestic and international settings. As such, it attracts students from diverse backgrounds. The College is a member of the Posse Program and home to the Arcus Center for Social Justice Leadership. It is located in Kalamazoo, Mi, a diverse and vibrant city in western Michigan and home of the first nationwide city-based college tuition remission program, the Kalamazoo Promise. Sitting halfway between Detroit and Chicago, Kalamazoo is also home to a large research university that shares many of its resources with the Kalamazoo College community. Thirty-five miles from the beautiful beaches and coastal towns of Lake Michigan, the area also offers many opportunities for outdoor activities.

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology at the University of Washington invites applications for a tenure track Associate Professor position with tenure. Positive factors for consideration include, but are not limited to: a strong record of scholarly accomplishment; research interests that complement areas of departmental and university strength; effective undergraduate teaching and graduate training; demonstrated leadership in departmental service; active engagement in professional, university, and community life; and demonstrated commitment to the promotion of diversity, equity, and inclusion. The position will begin on September 16, 2023, and is full time with a 9-month service period.

All University of Washington faculty engage in teaching, research, and service. Both the University of Washington and the Department of Sociology are committed to creating a community that embraces and benefits from the diversity of its faculty, staff and students. Successful applicants should be able to thrive in, and contribute to, this environment. Therefore, application materials must include a separate statement that describes how you will contribute to creating an inclusive, equitable and diverse department.

The Department of Sociology is located on the Seattle campus of the University of Washington. We are a collaborative and generous scholarly community with an outstanding track record of mentoring junior scholars and a strong commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion. Both our undergraduate and graduate student bodies include many first-generation students, immigrants, and people of color. Members of the department are involved in numerous successful cross-department and interdisciplinary initiatives and research activities, and we have durable ties to the Department of Law, Societies and Justice, the West Coast Poverty Center, UW’s NIH-funded center for population studies (CSDE), the Center for Statistics and the Social Sciences, the eScience Institute, UW’s Population Health Initiative, the Jackson School of International Studies, the QUAL Initiative, the Department of Statistics, and the Schools of Nursing, Medicine, and Public Health.

Qualifications

The successful candidate should have a PhD or foreign equivalent in Sociology or a related field by the start of the appointment.

Application Instructions

Complete applications will include: 1) curriculum vita; 2) cover letter; 3) a description of research plans; 4) a statement of teaching, including a description of teaching approach and evidence of teaching effectiveness; 5) a statement of diversity contributions; and 6) three samples of recent scholarly work. Candidates selected during the initial round of review will be contacted to provide a list of three professional references.

All material should be submitted to http://apply.interfolio.com/111604. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2022. However, the position will remain open, and applications may be considered, until the position is filled.

Please contact Fatema Mookhtiar (fatemakm@uw.edu) for any questions about this search.

Job 18235: Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Sociology

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023

Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/29/2022 to 9/28/2022

Institution: Nuffield College
Department: Sociology
Region: Europe
Title: Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Sociology
Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: Post-doctoral
Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas
Salary Range: $40,000 - $49,999

Submission Link:
Job Description:
Nuffield College intends to appoint with effect from 1 September 2023 or as soon as possible thereafter, two Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellows (PPRFs) in Sociology, broadly construed to include sociology, demography, criminology, social and medical statistics, public policy, and social policy. The College particularly welcomes applications from candidates who work or plan to work in the field of one or more of the College’s Sociology Fellows, but this is not a requirement.

The key responsibilities of the Research Fellows are to engage in advanced study and independent scholarly research in sociology broadly construed (as above); to disseminate research findings through publication and participation in conferences and seminars; and to take part in the intellectual life of the College by organising seminars, workshops, or conferences. Research Fellows may also undertake ad hoc paid teaching or supervision within the collegiate University in Oxford, up to a maximum of 48 hours per year.

To be eligible, candidates should have completed, or be close to completing, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant field. Candidates must be within three years of the defence date (viva voce examination date) of their doctorate at the time of application. Allowances will be made for career breaks (for example, family-related leave) and candidates are asked to provide relevant information. Preference will be given to candidates who have not previously held a research fellowship similar to that advertised for more than one year at the time of taking up the fellowship. Prospective candidates should also have experience of carrying out independent research and a track record of excellent quality papers appropriate for and commensurate with their career level. They should have the willingness to contribute to the intellectual life of the College, and excellent oral and written communication skills.

The Fellowships are full-time, fixed-term posts and are to be taken up on 1 September 2023 or as soon as possible thereafter. The post end date will normally be 31 August 2026. Candidates who have not yet completed their doctorate at the time of application should note that to take up the Fellowship in September 2023, it may be necessary for them to have submitted their doctoral dissertation for examination by the end of May 2023. The posts will be based at Nuffield College. The salary offered is GBP 36,411 per annum (salary for 2021/22; the salary to be adjusted with effect from August 2022 following the agreement of the 2022/23 pay award). Subject to availability, Research Fellows may opt to rent single accommodation in College. Benefits include a research allowance and free lunch and dinner in College.

Further particulars, including information on how to apply, are available from the College website at https://www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/5226/socpprf2023-jd.pdf

The deadline for applications is Monday 26 September 2022.

Employer Description:
Nuffield College exists to promote excellence in education and research, and is an equal opportunities employer committed to equality and valuing diversity. Applications are particularly welcome from women, from disabled people, and from black and minority ethnic candidates, who are currently under-represented in posts in the College.

Job Description:
The Hong Kong University of Science and Technology
Department of Management

Open Rank Tenured and Tenure-track Faculty Positions
Applications and nominations are now invited for multiple faculty positions at all ranks (tenured and tenure-track) in the macro (e.g., corporate social responsibilities and sustainability, entrepreneurship, family business, innovation, international management, organization theory, and strategy) and the micro areas (e.g., business ethics, entrepreneurship, family business, human resource management, and organizational behavior). Applicants for assistant professor positions should have an earned doctorate in a relevant discipline (upon appointment) and a record of publishing or the potential to publish in premium management journals (e.g., Academy of Management Journal, Academy of Management Review, Administrative Science Quarterly, Journal of Applied Psychology, Organization Science, and Strategic Management Journal). Demonstrated capacity for quality teaching is also required. For fresh assistant professors, the teaching load is 2-0 in the first year and 3-0 afterwards. For senior positions, a strong record of published research in premier management journals and a record of teaching in MBA/EMBA programs are required. Appointment with tenure requires a formal review. The language of instruction at HKUST is English.

Interested candidates are invited to send the required materials (a cover letter, curriculum vitae, list of references, research statement, dissertation proposal summary, three representative writing samples, teaching statement, and teaching records) electronically via Interfolio (http://apply.interfolio.com/107653). Review of applications begins on August 25, 2022 and will continue until the positions are filled.

Employer Description:
Established in 1991, the HKUST Business School is recognized globally as one of the world’s best business schools. Our Executive MBA Program, offered jointly with the Kellogg School of Management, has been ranked No. 2 in the world by the Financial Times in its 2021 EMBA global rankings. Our MBA program has been ranked among the world top 22 for 14 consecutive years.

The Department of Management at HKUST aims to continue as a leading intellectual center for management research and education. The University provides a supportive research and teaching environment with attractive research funding, strong teaching support staff and leading-edge facilities. The Department has a group of productive faculty members with great enthusiasm in conducting high quality research, which is regularly published in premier management journals. Please browse our department website (https://mgmt.hkust.edu.hk/) for information about our faculty, teaching, current research programs, and research centers.

Assistant/Associate Professor in Criminal Justice and Public Affairs

The Ohio State University's John Glenn College of Public Affairs invites applications for a tenure track assistant/associate professor position in public affairs. We are particularly interested in scholars studying how the observed racial and ethnic disparities in the criminal justice system might be reduced through legal reform, structural and organizational change, innovative community initiatives, and more inclusive and equitable public policy. We seek candidates whose research is well grounded in relevant theoretical perspectives of the study of race and ethnicity, criminal justice, and public administration and policy. We welcome applicants who employ a variety of methodological approaches including but not limited to the analysis of large-N data, ethnography, experiments, and interpretive and critical research methods.

Responsibilities of the position include maintaining a robust research program, pursuing external funding, contributing to excellence in graduate and undergraduate teaching and mentoring, and providing service to the university. Scholars who can work collaboratively within a multidisciplinary team are of particular interest, as are those who can engage with other programs and interdisciplinary research centers at the university.

Additional Information

The position will begin in the fall of 2023. Salary will be commensurate with the candidate’s experience and qualifications. Applicants must have completed all doctoral degree requirements by the time of their appointment. Successful candidates will likely have doctorates in relevant fields such as public administration, public policy, criminal justice, sociology, or political science, and a demonstrated commitment toward social equity, diversity, and inclusion.

Questions regarding the position may be sent to the search committee chair, Russell Hassan, at Hassan.125@osu.edu.

Application Instructions

The review of applications will begin on October 1. Applications will be evaluated as they are received and will be accepted until the position is filled. To apply, please submit a letter of application that addresses your ability to contribute toward Glenn College’s research, teaching, and diversity, equity, and inclusion goals, a curriculum vitae, a sample research manuscript, and three professional letters of reference through Ohio State University’s job application portal.

Rice University: School of Humanities

Rice University is seeking a tenured advanced associate or full professor in Sociology, Anthropology, Political Science, Psychological Sciences, Linguistics, History, English, Visual Arts, Religion, Philosophy, Modern and Classical Literatures and Cultures, or Art History. The successful candidate will additionally serve as Director of the Center for African and African American Studies (CAAAAS), appointment beginning July 1, 2023. The Center for African and African American Studies bridges the School of Humanities and the School of Social Sciences. CAAAS currently encompasses ten departments and some thirty faculty members. We seek an innovative and capacious scholar, who will teach undergraduate and graduate courses, advance the Center’s interdisciplinary research endeavors and continue to expand its new and vibrant curriculum at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The Center director will also work with the two deans of Humanities and Social Sciences to raise an endowment for faculty chairs, postdoctoral fellowships, and a distinguished lecture series.

CAAAAS has a permanent operating budget, a designated half-time staff member, and administrative support from the two schools. The Center received approval upon its founding for the hire of ten new faculty members during its first five years. The first four faculty members were appointed in 2020 and 2021 (Art History, English, Anthropology) and two additional searches will take place in 2022-23 in Black French Studies and Modern African History (Humanities) with two Social Sciences searches planned for 2023-24. The new director will have a vital role in shaping the future faculty appointments in CAAAS.

The director of CAAAS will hold an appointment at the rank of full or advanced associate professor with tenure in one of the relevant departments: Sociology, Anthropology, Political Science, Psychological Sciences, Linguistics, History, English, Visual Arts, Religion, Philosophy, Modern and Classical Literatures and Cultures, or Art History. Ph.D. or relevant terminal degree in a relevant or related field is required. Previous leadership experience as department chair, center or program director or associate director, or other positions of leadership, is strongly preferred for this appointment.

Only electronic applications will be accepted, via Interfolio. We will start reviewing application materials on October 15, 2022. For fullest consideration all materials should be submitted by November 1, 2022.

Please attach a letter of application summarizing your interest and qualifications, C.V., an article-length writing sample, and statements on teaching and research philosophies, each uploaded separately to their respective tabs. Please list three references with contact information, from whom we might solicit letters as the search progresses. We particularly encourage applications from women and members of historically underrepresented groups who bring diverse cultural experiences and who are especially qualified to mentor and advise members of our diverse student population. The start date of the position is July 1, 2023.

28. University of Copenhagen

Job 18257: Postdoc Position on ERC Project on Siblings’ Intergenerational Social Class Mobility

Date Position is Available: Winter 2023

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 8/26/2022 to 9/25/2022

Institution: University of Copenhagen

Department: The Department of Sociology

Title: Postdoc Position on ERC Project on Siblings’ Intergenerational Social Class Mobility

Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: Post-doctoral

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Sociological Practice

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen invites applications for a 2.5-year fixed-term postdoc position starting on 1 March 2023 or as soon as possible thereafter.

This is a unique opportunity to join a research team that will conduct a large-scale study of the social class mobility of siblings born over most of the 20th century in more than 10 countries. The research project “Social Class Mobility in Comparative Perspective: Bringing Siblings In” (SIBMOB) is hiring a postdoc who will play a crucial role in contributing to the project’s empirical analyses. These analyses revolve around examining the class mobility experiences of siblings from different families by applying new methods to survey and administrative data. The team is located in a family-friendly work environment at the Department of Sociology, University of Copenhagen.

Qualifications

Applicants should hold a PhD degree, or be close to defending it, within the social sciences (e.g., sociology or economics) or related fields. Applicants should have obtained their PhD degree in 2017 or later. Applicants must (i) possess advanced quantitative methods skills and (ii) have experience in the field of social mobility and inequality research. Experience with coding and analyzing older survey or census data is an advantage but not a requirement. Experience with comparative mobility or inequality research is an advantage but not a requirement.

Job Description

SIBMOB, which is funded by the European Research Council, has two objectives: (i) to develop a new methodological approach to characterize the social class mobility of siblings, and (ii) to apply this approach in an empirical study of more than 10 countries. The main role of the postdoc is to contribute to the empirical part of the project, especially the comparative analyses of sibling data from different countries and in-depth analyses of selected countries. The postdoc will assume key responsibility for the empirical part focusing on cross-country and over-time comparisons of siblings’ class mobility, including literature review, data compilation, preparation, and analysis, and drafting manuscripts for journal articles/book chapters.

SIBMOB is a collaborative project, and the postdoc will be part of a research team which, in addition to the PI in charge of the SIBMOB project (Associate Professor Kristian Bernt Karlson), includes two other postdocs (Dongjie Wu and Jesper Fels Birkelund). The candidate is expected to work both independently and in collaboration with the research team to break new ground in the study of social class mobility, with the overall ambition of advancing our understanding of why some countries are more socially mobile than others. The project runs from 2021 through 2026 and is located at the Department of Sociology, University of Copenhagen. The candidate is also expected to take part in the academic life of the department and will be part of the research group Welfare, Inequality, and Mobility.

The postdoc position is a full-time research position and does not involve any teaching obligations.

For further information, including more details on the SIBMOB project, please contact project PI Associate Professor Kristian Bernt Karlson (kbk@soc.ku.dk).

Further information about the application procedure is available from HR officer, e-mail: hrsc@hrsc.ku.dk. Please refer to ID number 211-1129/22-2I #1

Salary and Terms of Employment

Salary and conditions of employment will be in accordance with the agreement between the Danish Ministry of Finance and the Danish Confederation of Professional Associations (AC). The annual salary for postdoctoral researchers is within the range DKK 427,492.33 – 450,093.33 (EUR 57,000 – 60,000 app.). In addition to the salary paid directly to you, the University will also pay a monthly contribution to your pension fund corresponding to 17.1 % of your salary. Negotiation for additional supplements will be possible. A special tax scheme is offered for researchers recruited from abroad, see http://ism.ku.dk/conarrival/taxes/

The recruitment process

Further information on the recruitment process at University of Copenhagen can be found here: https://employment.ku.dk/faculty/recruitment-process/

An Equal Opportunity Workplace

The University of Copenhagen is committed in its pursuit of academic excellence to equality of opportunity and to creating an inclusive working environment and therefore encourages all qualified candidates to apply, regardless of personal background, gender, sexual orientation, age, disability, ethnicity etc. For more on the diverse working place environment at the University and the University’s participation in the HRS4R HR Excellence in Research, see https://employment.ku.dk/workings-at-iscph/en-charter-for-researchers/

International applicant?

The University of Copenhagen offers a broad variety of services for international researchers and accompanying families, including support before and during your relocation and career counselling to expat partners. Please find more information about these services as well as information on entering and working in Denmark here: https://ism.ku.dk/

Application

The application must be submitted in English through the online application form by clicking "Apply online" below and accompanied by the following appendices:

Appendix 1: Cover letter detailing (i) how the scientific qualifications of the applicant meet the requirements for this position and (ii) how the applicant considers contributing to the empirical study in SIBMOB (max 4 pages in total).
Appendix 2: Curriculum vitae.
Appendix 3: A complete list of publications (including those accepted for publication).
Appendix 4: Your best publication (or chapter from your PhD dissertation) (max 30 PDF pages)
Appendix 5: A copy of the doctoral certificate or letter signed by the promotor that a doctoral certificate is expected in due time.

These documents can be submitted only electronically through the link provided below. Press “Apply now” and fill in the application form.

Please note that it is only possible to upload one document per attachment category. If more than one document, please make sure the documents are scanned and collected in one file.

All other written communication with you will be via e-mail.

Please note that applications will be assessed based on these mandatory enclosures. Applicants cannot expect any additional documentation to be taken into account in the assessment.

The University of Copenhagen wishes our staff to reflect the diversity of society and the world and welcomes applications from all qualified candidates regardless of personal or national background.

Application procedure

After the expiry of the deadline for applications, applicants are selected for assessment on the advice of the Appointment Committee. All applicants are then immediately notified whether an expert assessment committee has passed their application for assessment. Selected applicants are notified of the composition of the committee and each applicant has the opportunity to comment on the part of the assessment that relates to the applicant him/herself. You can read about the recruitment process at http://employment.ku.dk

The closing date for applications is 23:59 CET on 26 October 2022.

Applications or enclosures received thereafter will not be considered

Employer Description:
Part of the International Alliance of Research Universities (IARU), and among Europe’s top-ranking universities, the University of Copenhagen promotes research and teaching of the highest international standard. Job 18264: Tenure Track Open Rank, Health Management Faculty

Date: Thursday, September 1, 2022

29. University of Michigan School of Public Health

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 8/26/2022 to 9/25/2022

Institution: University of Michigan School of Public Health Department: University of Michigan
Region: Midwest
Title: Tenure Track Open Rank, Health Management Faculty
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: All
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Medical Sociology , Occupations/Professions
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link: http://apply.interfolio.com/106215

Job Description:

The Department of Health Management and Policy (HMP) at the University of Michigan is seeking a tenure-track faculty member at any level—assistant, associate or full professor—with expertise in the fields of management and/or organizational studies. We seek candidates from related areas of research, including but not limited to strategic management, management science, corporate responsibility, governance, leadership, technology and operations, marketing, organizational change, and team and professional dynamics. Individuals who have or will complete degrees in public health, health services, business/management, sociology, psychology, and related areas are encouraged to apply. The candidate must have completed a PhD by September 1, 2023.

We seek researchers with strong scholarly credentials and a record or promise of external research funding. The faculty member will be expected to teach at the masters and doctorate level, and possibly in the School of Public Health’s undergraduate program. HMP is committed to the University of Michigan Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion plan and encourages applications from faculty of color and women at all ranks. We value diversity as a necessary part of success in all aspects of teaching, research, and leadership. We encourage candidates to highlight their experiences with DEI in their materials including an explicit commitment to diversity.

About HMP and University of Michigan: Founded in 1817, the University of Michigan has a long and distinguished history as one of the first public universities in the nation. It is one of only two public institutions consistently ranked among the nation’s top ten universities. The University has one of the largest health care complexes in the world and one of the best library systems in the United States. With more than $1.53 billion in research expenditures annually, the University has the second largest research expenditure among all universities in the nation. The University has an annual general fund budget of more than $2.3 billion and an endowment valued at more than $12.5 billion.

The Department of Health Management & Policy has a longstanding reputation for its contributions to the design and improvement of health care and public health systems and has been ranked one of the top programs in the U.S. News and World Report rankings for over 20 years. This new faculty member will also be expected to actively contribute to our various educational programs, including the Health Services Organization and Policy (HSOP) program, and professional master’s degree programs in public health, health services administration, and the health informatics program offered jointly by the School of Public Health, the School of Information and the School of Medicine.

The Department and the School of Public Health (SPH) are committed to the University of Michigan Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) plan and encourage applications from faculty of color and women. Over the past two years, HMP has received a Rackham Faculty Ally grant to conduct regular workshops for faculty and doctoral students to build a more inclusive community that includes discussions and training in best practices for inclusive teaching, anti-racism and allyship, and mentoring. In addition to the Rackham grant, HMP has begun a more robust practice of mentorship for new faculty. We support LAUNCH committees (following guidance from ADVANCE) for each new faculty member which entails a committee including 2 senior members of the department (one in a field related to the faculty member) and two members from outside the department (at least one with field expertise) who meet every other month during the first year of the faculty member’s appointment. The goal of the LAUNCH committee is to discuss all aspects of new faculty member’s transition: research, teaching, service, clinical responsibilities, work/life integration, family transitions/adjustment to Ann Arbor, and challenges or questions in any area the faculty member wants to discuss.

How to Apply: All applicants should submit a curriculum vitae and a cover letter that address (or includes as separate statements) research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence if available, a statement about experience and commitment to diversity. We will ask for references and letters of recommendation at later stages of the process. All application materials must be submitted electronically via: http://apply.interfolio.com/106215

Please direct inquiries about this position to the chair of the search committee, Denise Anthony at deniseum@umich.edu.

Consideration of applications will occur on a rolling basis. Applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. We will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2022, for a start date of September 2023.

Background Screening: The University of Michigan conducts background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of a contingent offer and may use a third party administrator to conduct background checks. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

U-M EEO/AA Statement: The University of Michigan is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

U-M COVID-19 Vaccination Policy: COVID-19 vaccinations are required for all University of Michigan students, faculty and staff across all three campuses, including Michigan Medicine. This includes those working or learning remotely. More information on this policy is available on the Campus Blueprint website or the U-M Dearborn and U-M Flint websites.

Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Salary Range: Negotiable

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas

Job Description:

Assistant Professor of Leadership Studies - 000673

The University of Richmond's Jepson School of Leadership Studies (JSLS) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in the 2023-24 academic year.

The successful candidate must be a quantitative social scientist who will have completed a Ph.D. by August 16, 2023 in anthropology, economics, political science, psychology, sociology, or a related field. We will consider candidates whose demonstrated scholarly work considers how institutions or cultural norms structure leadership and/or decision-making. Successful candidates' specific areas of expertise might include (but are not limited to): whether or how leaders matter, collective intelligence, institutional decision-making, collective action problems, political polarization, institutional change, or cultural evolution.

JSLS is a collaborative, inclusive community of scholars with representation from diverse humanities and social science disciplines. Applicants should have the potential and desire to teach in our interdisciplinary undergraduate liberal arts environment (see http://jepson.richmond.edu/ for more information). The successful candidate will be expected to teach elective courses related to his or her disciplinary training and to contribute to the curriculum by teaching such required courses as Leadership and the Social Sciences, Quantitative Social Science, and Theories and Models of Leadership.

Applicants should apply online at http://jobs.richmond.edu and submit a curriculum vitae, cover letter, and teaching statement. In their cover letter, candidates should demonstrate how their scholarly and teaching interests bear on institutional or cultural determinants of leadership and/or decision-making. In addition, applicants should specify in their cover letters how they are prepared to contribute to the unique, interdisciplinary environment at JSLS and to diversity and inclusion. Please also include the names and emails of three references. We will let candidates know in advance if their references will be asked to submit letters (to the University's Human Resources department at URHR@richmond.edu). The teaching statement should articulate the candidate's teaching philosophy and experience, particularly as they relate to the courses the successful candidate is expected to teach.

Applications are due by October 31. Zoom interviews will be conducted in November. We anticipate inviting candidates to campus early 2023.

Employer Description:

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools (including JSLS) and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With approximately 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and more than 90% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students "to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society."

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse and inclusive campus community, which values the expression of difference in ways that promote a sense of belonging as well as excellence in teaching, learning, and personal development. The JSLS supports the University's commitment to promoting a diverse and inclusive campus community.

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:
The Department of African American Studies is seeking an Assistant Professor in the Social Sciences (specialization open). This Assistant Professor position will be a tenure-track position and will be responsible for teaching introductory survey courses and advanced courses related to the area of specialization; conducting scholarly research; and performing University and community service as appropriate.

UW-Madison is seeking a diverse set of faculty candidates who will deepen our campus' interdisciplinary research strength in key areas of current and future research promise, as well as faculty candidates who will approach their work in a manner that advances our commitment to research excellence. The successful applicant will be responsible for ensuring eligibility for employment in the United States on or before the effective date of employment.

UW-Madison is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. We promote excellence through diversity and encourage all qualified individuals to apply. A criminal background check will be conducted prior to hiring.

The deadline for assuring full consideration is September 26, 2022; however the position will remain open and applications may be considered until the position is filled.

Job Description:

Assistant Professor Political Economy

Position overview

Position title: Assistant Professor
Anticipated start: July 1, 2023

Application Window

Open August 18th, 2022 through Tuesday, Oct 4, 2022 at 11:59pm (Pacific Time)

Position description

The Political Economy Program at the University of California, Berkeley seeks a tenure-track assistant professor for a position 50% in Political Economy and 50% in a related discipline such as Economics, History, Sociology, Anthropology, Political Science, or Business.

Berkeley Political Economy has been a leading program in interdisciplinary political economy for undergraduates for more than 40 years and has recently launched a graduate program, the Designated Emphasis in Political Economy. This search represents an important step in an ambitious plan to expand and strengthen political economy at Berkeley; adding faculty, developing courses, building the graduate program, and expanding the Network for a New Political Economy (a campus network of faculty and students interested in political economy) into a leading research center.

We seek scholars from a related discipline who would be enthusiastic about joining such an enterprise and participating in the reconceptualization of this program. We encourage applications from scholars whose long-term research agenda seeks to bridge multiple fields. We would especially be interested in scholars who could offer required courses in Economics (such as introduction to economics or intermediate macroeconomics or microeconomics) and/or History (such as a global history survey or more focused historical context courses), or upper division courses in priority areas for curriculum expansion such as finance, public health, climate change, the digital economy, race, ethnicity, and/or immigration and migration.

We encourage applications from current or recent PhD candidates and graduates; current and recent postdocs; current assistant professors (including those who are “senior” assistant professors near tenure).

The Political Economy program recognizes the intrinsic relationship between diversity and excellence in all our endeavors. We embrace open and equitable access to opportunities for learning and development as our obligation and goal. We seek candidates who demonstrate a commitment to advancing diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging through their research, teaching, and/or service. UC Berkeley is committed to upholding the university’s principles of community so that every individual can be successful in a healthy, welcoming, and safe environment. Additional information about programs and resources supporting the advancement of diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging is available at:

https://ls.berkeley.edu/about/diversity-equity-and-inclusion
https://ls.berkeley.edu/ls-divisions/social-sciences/diversity-equity-and-inclusion

Considering the significant disruptions caused by the Covid-19 pandemic, particularly for disadvantaged groups, in our evaluation of applicants, dips in productivity in otherwise strong records occurring with the onset of the pandemic will be evaluated with the context of the pandemic in mind.

The department is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents, as well as candidates who have had non-traditional career paths or who have taken time off for family reasons. For information about potential relocation to Berkeley, or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty.

4. Research statement
5. Statement describing efforts to encourage diversity, inclusion, and belonging, including past, current, and anticipated future contributions in these areas.

6. Attestation and Acknowledgment form
7. Authorization form

Harvard University is committed to fostering a campus culture where everyone can thrive and experience a sense of inclusion and belonging. Community members are encouraged to model our values of integrity, responsible mentorship, equity, and excellence no matter where they are.

To support this commitment to our values of inclusion and excellence, the external finalist for this position will be required to complete a conduct questionnaire—specifically regarding findings of violation, on-going formal complaint investigations, or formal complaint investigations that did not conclude due to the external finalist’s departure concerning: harassment or discrimination, retaliation, sexual misconduct, bullying or intimidating/abusive behavior, unprofessional relationship, or misconduct related to scholarship, research, teaching, service, or clinical/patient care.

Harvard will also make conduct inquiries to current and former employers of the external finalist regarding such misconduct. To facilitate these inquiries, Harvard requires all external applicants for this position to complete, sign, and upload the form entitled “Authorization to release information for external applicants” as part of their application. If an external applicant does not include the signed authorization with the application materials, the application will be considered incomplete, and, as with any incomplete application, will not receive further consideration.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, religion, creed, national origin, ancestry, age, protected veteran status, disability, genetic information, military service, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or other protected status.

Job 18247: Assistant Professor of Sociology/Anthropology

Date: Thursday, September 1, 2022
37. Hendrix College

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology/Anthropology at Hendrix College invites applications for a tenure track position for an Assistant Professor of Sociology to begin in August 2023. The College seeks to extend its tradition of excellence in teaching and scholarship by attracting faculty who combine mastery of their disciplines with broad intellectual interests and commitment to the aims of a liberal arts college. We encourage scholars who have a primary focus on race and ethnicity and some expertise in quantitative approaches, with the ability to teach existing courses on race/ethnicity and social statistics, to apply. A successful candidate will rotate into core courses on research methods and/or theory as well. The ability to teach one or two other courses on topics such as Environmental Sociology, Medical Sociology, Urban Sociology, Sociology of Media, Sociology of the Family, and/or Social Work is a plus. Normal teaching load is 3-3. Doctorate is expected by the start date; however, applicants who are ABD at the time of application will be considered.

Applications should include a cover letter addressing the candidate’s interest in teaching in a demanding liberal arts environment, a curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, graduate transcripts, and a statement of scholarly interest. In addition, three letters of recommendation should be requested sent by e-mail to HR@hendrix.edu. Address cover letter to Dr. Anne J. Goldberg. Electronic submissions are strongly encouraged and can be submitted at www.hendrix.edu/jobs. Review of materials will begin September 23 and will continue until the position is filled.

Hendrix is a distinguished liberal arts college located in Conway, Arkansas, thirty miles from Little Rock at the foothills of the Ozark Mountains. The College, affiliated with the United Methodist Church, has a strong commitment to excellence in teaching liberal arts. Hendrix College is an equal opportunity employer, and all applications will be considered without regard to race, gender, disability, sexual orientation, national origin or any other characteristic specified by law. The College is committed to maintaining an atmosphere of civility and respect for all students, faculty, and staff.

Employer Description:

Hendrix College cultivates empathy, creativity, self-understanding, rigorous inquiry, informed deliberation, and active learning across the liberal arts, toward the development of the whole person. Through engagement that links the classroom with the world, and a commitment to diversity, inclusion, justice, and sustainable living, the Hendrix community inspires students to lead lives of accomplishment, integrity, service, and joy.

At Hendrix, our students work closely with faculty who are devoted to teaching and mentoring undergraduate students. Through Your Hendrix Odyssey: Engaging in Active Learning, students connect what they learn in the classroom with the experiences they gain through hands-on learning activities, such as internships, international study, research, and service. These experiences prepare students for graduate and professional school programs, prestigious postgraduate fellowships, and successful professional careers.

Your Hendrix Odyssey has attracted recognition for Hendrix as one of the nation’s leading liberal arts colleges. More importantly, Odyssey has attracted the best and brightest students from Arkansas, across the country, and around the world. At Hendrix, our students discover an environment that challenges their assumptions and expectations and encourages their most ambitious goals.

Job 18245: Tier 1 Canada Research Chair (CRC) in Health Equity

Date Position is Available: Fall 2022
Application Deadline: Listing Active: 8/24/2022 to 10/23/2022
Institution: Simon Fraser University
Department: Faculty of Health Sciences
Region: Canada
Title: Tier 1 Canada Research Chair (CRC) in Health Equity
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant/Associate Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Mental Health, Medical Sociology
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link: https://www.sfu.ca/fhs/about/employment-opportunities/faculty.html

Job Description:

As a strategic priority, the Faculty of Health Sciences (FHS) at Simon Fraser University (SFU), Canada’s leading comprehensive university, supports research in social inequities in health. To further this strategic priority, FHS seeks applications for a Tier 1 Canada Research Chair in Health Equity with an anticipated start date of Fall 2022 or later.

At the intersection of innovative education, cutting-edge research, and community outreach lies SFU, Canada's engaged university. With three campuses located in beautiful British Columbia’s largest municipalities—Vancouver, Burnaby and Surrey—our students, faculty and staff are privileged to live, work, and play on the traditional unceded territories of the Musqueam, Squamish, Tsleil-Waututh, Katzie, Kwikwetlem, Qayqayt, Kwantlen, Semiahmoo and Tsawwassen Peoples.

Consistently ranked as one of Canada’s top employers, SFU is an institution whose strength is based on our shared commitments to diversity, equity and inclusion, and the pursuit of decolonization, indigenization and reconciliation. Diversity is an underlying principle of our Strategic Vision, which pledges SFU to “foster a culture of inclusion and mutual respect, celebrating the diversity reflected among its students, faculty staff and our community.”

The Opportunity

The Canada Research Chairs Program stands at the centre of a national strategy to foster research excellence in Canada and improve our depth of knowledge and quality of life, strengthen Canada’s international competitiveness, and help train the next generation of highly skilled people through student supervision.

This CRC appointment opportunity is intended for outstanding researchers acknowledged by their peers as world leaders in their fields. Applicants must be full professors or associate professors who are expected to be promoted to the full professor level within one or two years of the nomination. Alternatively, if they come from outside the academic sector, nominees must possess the necessary qualifications to be appointed at these levels. They should have the potential to attract, develop and retain excellent trainees, students and future researchers as well as maintain and enhance an original, innovative, high quality research program.

The Faculty of Health Sciences

FHS was created in 2005 with a mission to improve the health of individuals and populations and to reduce health inequities through excellence in interdisciplinary research and education, in partnership with local, national and global communities and with a commitment to social justice. FHS is committed to improving our understanding of racism as an independent and fundamental determinant of health.

The successful candidate will be supported by collegial interdisciplinary faculty who employ a range of approaches to understand complex relationships between social conditions and health, including Indigenous, community-based and social epidemiological methodologies. The successful candidate will join a diverse and dynamic team of more than 50 multidisciplinary faculty members and will have the opportunity to engage with and teach outstanding students in the PhD, MSc, MPH, and BA/BSc programs.

We are committed to creating an inclusive educational environment with supportive student-focused mentorship and learning. FHS maintains collaborative agreements and partnerships with the BC government, regional health authorities, research centres, and provincial, national and international health and research agencies. Our community engaged research and teaching is exciting, inclusive, and at the cutting edge of interdisciplinary work in health and health equity. Faculty members actively collaborate to develop interdisciplinary research initiatives in our Research Challenge Areas.

The Successful Applicant

We seek an equity-focused scholar with a PhD or equivalent credential, who leads quantitative or mixed methods research, and whose research program focuses on the advancement of health equity, social justice, anti-racism and/or anti-discrimination in the domain of population and public health. We invite applications from candidates whose scholarship is grounded in critical race studies, critical feminist, post-colonial studies, anti-oppression, Indigenous health, Black studies, social justice, intersectionality, or other related theoretical frameworks.

An ideal candidate has a portfolio that emphasizes accountability of research through partnerships with decision-makers, individuals, and communities with lived or living-experience, and/or other knowledge users. Programs of research that align with the FHS cross-cutting core research themes and that align with one or more of our Research Challenge Areas will be prioritized. Evidence of interdisciplinary collaboration and engaged research will be considered a strength.

We additionally invite those whose scholarship is grounded in Indigenous knowledge, methodologies and/or epistemologies and whose scholarship might be distinct from Western academic traditions and/or follow ethical principles of community direction and governance.

A partial list of potential research areas includes structural inequities as determinants of health; inequities within health-related institutions, services, and professions; and inequities in the context of other public health related issues, including health and social impacts of COVID-19 responses. Research Challenge Areas include Mental Health and Addictions; Infectious Diseases; Health Systems and Health Policy; Developmental Trajectories; and Planetary Change.

The successful applicant will be expected to engage in innovative research, work with individuals and communities with lived/experience, build relationships with external stakeholders (e.g., in government, health systems, or NGOs), and assume a leadership role that bridges research strengths, knowledge mobilization, and policy or practice impact. Other expectations include undergraduate and graduate teaching and supervision, mentorship of junior faculty members, and service to the Faculty and University.

How To Apply

To apply, applicants should provide:

- A letter of application that addresses the full scope of the job requirements, including how you would contribute positively to SFU’s commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion
- An up-to-date, full curriculum vitae (include details of research and teaching, scholarly record, funding, and list of collaborations/partnerships);
- A brief statement of research plans for the next 5 years (two page maximum)
- A teaching and graduate student mentorship/supervision statement (two page maximum). The statement must detail experience and interests, and identify undergraduate and/or graduate courses of teaching interest with reference to existing FHS course offerings. It should also outline any contributions you expect to make to academic life in the form of service.
- The names and email addresses of 3 academic and one non-academic referees

SFU recognizes that alternative career paths and/or career interruptions (e.g. parental leave, leave due to illness) can impact research achievements and commits to ensuring that leaves are taken into careful consideration. Applicants are encouraged to highlight in their application how alternative paths and/or interruptions have had an impact on their career.

SFU also recognizes the value of mentoring and research training, outreach, professional service, and nontraditional areas of research and/or research outputs; demonstrated experience in increasing diversity in the previous institutional environment, and in curriculum, is also an asset.

All applications should be submitted to:

Dr. Tania Bubela, Dean
Faculty of Health Sciences
Simon Fraser University
8888 University Drive
Burnaby, BC, Canada, V5A 1S6
Email: fhs_recruit@sfu.ca

Screening of applications will commence on October 3, 2022. Any general inquiries regarding this posting may be directed to fhs_recruit@sfu.ca.

This position is contingent upon the applicant receiving a Tier 1 Canada Research Chair prior to being appointed to a tenure-track or tenured faculty position at SFU.

The position is subject to the availability of funding and to final approval by the University Board of Governors and the Tri-agency Institutional Programs Secretariat (TIPS). The Tier 1 Canada Research Chair is tenable for seven years and may be renewed once, subject to the Chairholder demonstrating that they have achieved their objectives from their first term. Interested applicants are invited to review the initial appointment and chair renewal details of the CRC Program [link].

Employer Description:

SFU is an equity employer and encourages applications from all qualified individuals, including women, persons with disabilities, visible minorities, Indigenous Peoples, people of all sexual orientations and gender identities, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of the University. SFU is committed to ensuring that no individual is denied access to employment opportunities for reasons unrelated to ability or qualifications. Consistent with this principle, SFU will advance the interests of underrepresented members of the workforce, ensure that equal opportunity is afforded to all who seek employment at the University, and treat all employees equitably. Candidates who belong to equity-deserving groups are particularly encouraged to apply.

SFU offers several benefits and services aimed at creating a more inclusive and accessible campus community for faculty, please see the Faculty Relations, Benefits and Service page for more details. SFU is also committed to ensuring that the application and interview process is accessible to all applicants; if you require accommodations or have questions about SFU benefits, services, accommodations policies, or equity considerations please contact the Specialist, Equity, Diversity and Inclusion in Faculty Relations.

Under the authority of the University Act, personal information that is required by the University for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see the Collection Notice: [link].

The Environment Initiative focuses the intellectual energy and work of faculty, students, and community partners on working towards a just and livable future through transdisciplinary research, teaching, and experiential learning.

The Department of Sociology respects the rights, dignity, and worth of all members of our department and university community, including students.
staff, faculty, the community where we live and work, and the communities that we research and study. As Sociologists, we are bound by the standards encompassed within the ASA Code of Ethics, and our department agrees that we wish to use this standard to guide our behavior. We are committed to nurturing a learning and working environment that respects differences in culture, age, gender, race, ethnicity, physical ability, sexual orientation, and religious affiliation. More information about our department can be found at: https://sociology.uoregon.edu

About the University

The University of Oregon is located on Kalapuya Ilili, the traditional homelands of the Kalapuya people. Following treaties between 1851 and 1855, Kalapuya people were dispossessed of their indigenous homeland by the United States government and forcibly removed to the Coast Reservation in Western Oregon. Today, Kalapuya descendants are primarily citizens of the Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde and the Confederated Tribes of Siletz Indians, and they continue to make important contributions to their communities, to the University of Oregon, to the land we now call Oregon, and to the world.

Job 18240: Professor of Sociology with a Specialization in Aging/Gerontology, Life Course, Health, or Medical Sociology to Direct the Center on Aging and the Life Course (CALC)

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 8/23/2022 to 11/21/2022

Institution: Purdue University
Department: Purdue University-Sociology
Region: Midwest

Title: Professor of Sociology with a Specialization in Aging/Gerontology, Life Course, Health, or Medical Sociology to Direct the Center on Aging and the Life Course (CALC)

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Full Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenured

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Aging/Social Gerontology, Medical Sociology

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

Principal Duties: The Department of Sociology at Purdue University invites applications for one tenured Full Professor with research in the area of aging/gerontology, life course, health, or medical sociology. The successful candidate will also serve as the Director of the Center on Aging and the Life Course (CALC).

Qualifications: The candidate must have a Ph.D. in sociology or a closely related field. The candidate also must have an established record of scholarly publications in the areas of aging/gerontology, life course, health, or medical sociology, as well as graduate mentoring experience, a history of external funding as PI or MPI from federal agencies or major foundations. The candidate must have a record of scholarship commensurate with full professor at Purdue University. Candidates will be expected to contribute to Ph.D. student training. Preference will be given to candidates who can contribute expertise to the Advanced Methods at Purdue program through research that utilizes cutting-edge social science research methods. Part of the teaching assignment for this position may be met by teaching in the first-year sequence of the College of Liberal Arts Core program. Preference will be given to candidates who have administrative skills or experience, as well as a history of teaching, collaborating, or training others in interdisciplinary settings.

CALC: The Center for Aging and the Life Course (CALC) was established in 1985 as a university-wide entity to strengthen interdisciplinary inquiry on aging and the life course, with the specific aims of advancing research to optimize the aging experience of diverse populations and preparing future leaders for the field of gerontology. CALC emphasizes the application of the life course perspective—studying the aging process from gestation to death—and leads inquiries at multiple levels of analysis (from cells to societies). CALC draws upon the expertise of Faculty Associates from more than 20 departments at Purdue, fostering a vibrant interdisciplinary community. More than 40 students have completed the dual-title Ph.D., linking an established discipline-based program of study with an interdisciplinary perspective on aging, since the program began in 2006; twenty-one students are currently pursuing a graduate degree related to aging (either an interdisciplinary minor or a Dual-title PhD). Further details regarding CALC can be found at the center web page: https://www.purdue.edu/aging/.

The College: The College of Liberal Arts at Purdue University is embarking upon 45 faculty searches for positions to begin in Fall 2023. These positions will advance research within and across disciplines, and intersect with technology, data science, and engineering in relevant and important ways. These positions include teaching in our innovative, nationally-recognized Cornerstone Integrated Liberal Arts Program that educates students across the university. Purdue University, the College of Liberal Arts and the Department of Sociology are committed to free and open inquiry in all matters. Candidates are encouraged to address in their cover letter how they are prepared to contribute to a climate that values free inquiry. Purdue University, the College of Liberal Arts and the Department of Sociology are committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort. Candidates are encouraged to address in their cover letter how they are prepared to contribute to an inclusive climate.

Application Procedure: To apply, please visit careers.purdue.edu. Names of references will be solicited for finalists. Applicants must include: 1) a letter of application explaining how their qualifications and experience make them a good candidate for the position, 2) a curriculum vitae, and 3) a statement regarding administrative skills or experience.

Screening of applicants will begin on November 9, 2022 and continue until the position is filled. A background check will be required for employment in this position. For additional information, contact the Search Chair, Dr. J. Jill Suitor, jsuitor@purdue.edu.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Principal Duties: The Department of Sociology at Purdue University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the area of racial health disparities. We are interested in scholars who can also complement departmental strengths.

With a strong commitment to advancing diversity in research, thought, and representation, the Department of Sociology in the College of Liberal Arts at Purdue University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the area of racial health disparities, as part of a cluster hiring initiative in Public Health, Health Policy, and Health Equity. Purdue University is a national leader in the graduation of Black and African American doctorates in the physical sciences, computer science, social sciences, and veterinary medicine over the past five years. Recently, the University has embarked upon a comprehensive 5-year, $75 million plan to further enrich and diversify its faculty, staff, and student body, as described here: https://www.purdue.edu/provost/diversity/issuities/cluster.html

Qualifications: The position requires a Ph.D. degree in sociology or a related field by the time of appointment. Candidates will be expected to contribute to Ph.D. student training. Preference will be given to candidates who can contribute expertise to the Advanced Methods at Purdue program through research that utilizes cutting-edge social science research methods. Part of the teaching assignment for this position may be met by teaching in the first-year sequence of the College of Liberal Arts Cornerstone program and will teach race and ethnicity.

The College: The College of Liberal Arts at Purdue University is embarking upon 45 faculty searches for positions to begin in Fall 2023. These positions will advance research within and across disciplines, and intersect with technology, data science, and engineering in relevant and important ways. These positions include teaching in our innovative, nationally-recognized Cornerstone Integrated Liberal Arts Programs that educates students across the university.

Purdue University, the College of Liberal Arts and the Department of Sociology are committed to free and open inquiry in all matters. Candidates are encouraged to address in their cover letter how they are prepared to contribute to a climate that values free inquiry.

Global Governance

Job no: 495451
Work type: Faculty Full-Time
Location: Denver, CO
Categories: Faculty
Application Deadline: September 16, 2022

The Josef Korbel School of International Studies at the University of Denver seeks to hire an assistant professor, tenure track, in the fields of global governance or international relations, with a preference for those studying challenges related to the global order in the 21st century and the prospects for new orders. Possible research interests include such core issues of international relations and the global order as the efficacy of international institutions, limits on the use of force for territorial gain, respect for human rights, authoritarianism and the international order, rising powers, and existential rivalries in the international arena. The position will commence in September 2023. The successful candidate for this position will function effectively as a scholar and teacher in an interdisciplinary school and will complement the expertise of the existing faculty who specialize in global governance (through the lens of human and international security, global development, and/or international political economy). The successful candidate for this position will be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students in several Korbel degree programs. Through research and outreach this faculty member will contribute to the School’s commitment to engaged scholarship.

Environmental/Natural Resource Policy and Economics

Job no: 495450
Work type: Faculty Full-Time
Location: Denver, CO
Application Deadline: September 23, 2022

The Josef Korbel School of International Studies of the University of Denver seeks to hire an assistant professor, tenure-track, in the fields of ecological, environmental, or natural resource policy and/or economics. The position will commence in September 2023.

The successful candidate for this position will function effectively as a scholar and teacher in an interdisciplinary school and will complement the expertise of the existing faculty who specialize in environmental issues. The subfield is open, but we will give special consideration to scholars who focus on the economic features or societal consequences of climate change, the efficacy of market-related policy instruments, and the design and execution of policy in the context of complex systems and deep uncertainty. Possible topics include but are not limited to climate tax and regulatory policy, corporate environmental and social governance, climate justice and sustainable economic development, climate and economic inequality, and stakeholder participation in policy design, enactment, and assessment.
The faculty member in this position will be prepared to introduce and teach core courses in the Korbel School’s MA in Global Environmental Sustainability, which also enrolls students from other Korbel graduate programs, and in the Korbel School’s undergraduate programs. Through research and outreach the person in this position will contribute to the growth of the School’s Sustainability Initiative and to the School’s commitment to engaged scholarship.

Employer Description:
The Korbel School is a leader in international affairs education and scholarship, serving a large undergraduate major, several MA programs, an MPP program, and a PhD program. We are deeply committed to building a diverse and inclusive educational environment and particularly seek candidates with research, teaching, service, or life experiences that can contribute to realizing that commitment. Candidates must demonstrate ability to work effectively with ethnically/racially diverse populations. The ideal candidate demonstrates experience and versatility in inclusive pedagogy. We also encourage applications from candidates with non-traditional career paths and from international applicants.

Submission Link: http://wsrp.hds.harvard.edu/apply

Job Description:

HARVARD DIVINITY SCHOOL announces five full-time positions as Research Associate and Visiting Faculty for 2023-24 in its Women's Studies in Religion Program. Proposals for book-length research projects utilizing both religion and gender as central categories of analysis and focusing on any religion are welcomed. Salary for 2023-24 will be $60,000.

Completed applications are due online by October 15, 2022.

Applicants must have received their PhD by October 1, 2022.

Please see our website (http://wsrp.hds.harvard.edu/apply) for more information.

Employer Description:

The Women's Studies in Religion Program was founded in 1973 to explore the fundamental role played by religious traditions in defining roles for women and men. Research on religion and gender sheds light on questions about the changing roles of women both inside religious communities and in broader public spheres. The Program's goal is the production of new primary research addressing these and related issues and the dispersal of that information through courses, publications, and public programs.

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

Principal Duties: The Department of Sociology at Purdue University invites applications for two tenure-track Assistant Professor or tenured Associate Professor positions in the area of criminology.

The first position is an Assistant/Associate in Criminology. We are particularly interested in those who are studying contemporary issues in the area of law and society and/or criminology with the use of innovative data or data techniques. Research focusing on corporate, finance, white collar, and organizational crime and those who can contribute to our new major in digital criminology are especially preferred.

The second position is an assistant professor in Criminology. The candidate must contribute to the college initiatives in one or more of the following areas:

- a. Social genomics
- b. Artificial Intelligence
- c. Cybersecurity
- d. Data, decision science, & social organizations
- e. Science, technology, and policy analysis

Beyond contributions of high-quality research aligned with the description above, part of that teaching assignment will be met by teaching in the first-year sequence of the College of Liberal Arts’ Cornerstone program. Candidates also will be expected to contribute to training and mentoring PhD students.

Qualifications: The positions require a Ph.D. degree in sociology or a related field. Preference will be given to candidates who can contribute expertise to the Advanced Methods at Purdue program through research that utilizes cutting-edge social science research methods. We expect the candidate will also train students in digital criminology and law and society.

Job Description:

Position Summary: The Department of Anthropology, Sociology and Criminal Justice at Regis University (Denver) invites Sociology/Criminology/Soc. of Law applicants for a full-time (9 month), tenure-track, assistant professor position. Teaching load is 3/3 with expectations of research, service, and student advising and mentoring. We are interested in candidates who critically explore oppression/racism/inequality in the criminal justice system, and who can help students envision radically just and transformative solutions. Faculty also frequently cross-list some courses with the Racial Justice minor, Peace and Justice Studies, Environmental Studies, and/or Women's and Gender Studies.

Qualifications:

- PhD in Sociology, Criminology, Social Work, Law, or a related field by 1 August 2023 (start date);
- Evidence of teaching excellence;
- Demonstrated commitment to inclusive pedagogy, diversity, and equity;
- Demonstrated commitment to effective mentoring, especially for students of color and first generation students;
- Plans to maintain an active research program, often with undergraduate students.

Application: Electronically submit: (1) a letter of application (cover letter) summarizing your interest and qualifications; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) a document showing evidence of teaching excellence (example content: comprehensive teaching evaluations, teaching philosophy, syllabus, etc.). Additional documents may be requested of semifinalists. The position will remain open until filled, though submitting your application by October 1, 2022 will ensure full consideration. Address questions to Dr. Jude Fokwang, Search Committee Chair, at jfokwang@regis.edu.

Employer Description:

About Regis: The Department of Anthropology, Sociology, and Criminal Justice is part of Regis College, the traditional undergraduate small liberal arts college of Regis University that serves approximately 1700 traditional undergraduate students (~50% students of color; ~26% first-generation college students, and most 18-21 years old). Classes are small, in person/on campus, and interdisciplinary collaboration is common. We are Jesuit and Catholic, and our mission includes building “…a more just and humane world through transformative education.” The University has a strong moral commitment to the principles of nondiscrimination: “Regis University does not unlawfully discriminate in either the provision of educational services or in employment practices on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, creed, ancestry, gender, age, marital status, sexual orientation, military or veteran status, physical or mental disability, or any other characteristic protected by local, state, or federal law.”

Job 18227: Associate or Full Professor in Macro Organizational Behavior (OB)

Date Position is Available: Summer 2023
Application Deadline: 8/19/2022 to 11/17/2022
Listing Active: 8/19/2022 to 11/17/2022
Institution: Cornell University - ILR School
Department: Department of Organizational Behavior
Region: Northeast
Title: Associate or Full Professor in Macro Organizational Behavior (OB)
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Associate Professor, Academic Positions: Full Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Organizations, Formal and Complex, Theory
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link: https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/22031

Job Description:

The Department of Organizational Behavior in ILR School at Cornell University is seeking to fill a tenure-track faculty position at the associate or full professor level in macro OB/organization theory. Candidates should have a record of high-quality research published in top organizational behavior, management, or relevant disciplinary journals. The ILR School prizes excellence in teaching as well as research, and we seek applicants with the ability to teach effectively at both undergraduate and graduate levels at Cornell’s main campus in Ithaca, NY. In addition, we seek applicants whose record in research, teaching or service has prepared them to contribute to Cornell’s historical commitment to diversity.

Cornell’s ILR School is a leading institution of applied social sciences focusing on work, employment, and labor policy issues in the U.S. and internationally. The School offers undergraduate and graduate education as well as career-long learning for professionals. ILR is comprised of six departments (including Labor Relations, History and Law, International Comparative Labor, Economics and Statistics, Human Resources, and Organizational Behavior) that operate in a highly collaborative and collegial environment. The Department of Organizational Behavior is a part of a rich intellectual environment for organizational scholars at Cornell, with strong ties to the Sociology and Psychology Departments and the SC Johnson College of Business.

Cornell University is committed to supporting the work-life balance of its faculty.

To be considered, please apply via Academic Jobs Online at https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/22031. Interested candidates should submit a cover letter, vita, research statement, teaching statement, diversity and inclusion statement, writing sample, and three reference letters. Applications from women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged. We will begin reviewing applications by October 1, 2022 and will continue our review until the position is filled. This position has a planned start date of August 2023.

Questions about this position should be directed to Professor Pamela Tolbert (pst3@cornell.edu).

As part of the university’s comprehensive vaccination program, all Cornell employees are required to have and provide proof of an FDA-authorized or approved COVID-19 vaccine, or have obtained a university-approved disability/medical or religious exemption, regardless of their role and work location.

New hires are required to provide documentation showing full vaccination status (that is, completion of two shots of the Moderna or Pfizer vaccine or one shot of the Janssen/Johnson & Johnson) before their first day of work. If a new hire’s vaccination is not complete or information is not received by their start date, the first day of work will be delayed. It is possible in some cases that an offer of employment may be withdrawn.

For additional information on Cornell’s Vaccination Compliance Program click here.

Diversity and Inclusion are a part of Cornell University’s heritage. We are a recognized employer and educator valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans and Individuals with Disabilities. We also recognize a lawful preference in employment practices for Native Americans living on or near Indian reservations. Cornell University is an innovative Ivy League university and a great place to work. Our inclusive community of scholars, students, and staff impart an uncommon sense of larger purpose, and contribute creative ideas to further the university’s mission of teaching, discovery, and engagement.

Job Description:

LSE is committed to building a diverse, equitable and truly inclusive university

For this post, we particularly welcome applications from women and people from minority ethnic groups

Department of Management

Assistant Professor in Management
(Human Resource Management)

Salary is competitive with Departments at our peer institutions worldwide.

Salary is no less than £58,519 per annum (pay award pending) and the salary scale can be found on the LSE website.

In addition, this post will attract a significant market salary supplement which reflects current market conditions.

The Department of Management plays a central role in the LSE, a global, single-faculty, social science university located in the heart of London. The Department's faculty and research strength is centred in employment relations and human resource management, organisational behaviour, managerial economics and strategy, information systems and innovation, marketing, and operations management. The Department's faculty members are engaged in research and scholarly activity across LSE, through research centres such as the Centre for Economic Performance, the Behavioural Lab for Research and Teaching, and interdisciplinary Institutes. The Department's own portfolio of degrees includes the BSc Management, a two-year Masters in Management, and specialist one-year masters programmes.

The post holder will contribute to the intellectual life of the School through conducting and publishing outstanding quality research, engaging in high quality teaching as instructed by the Head of Department, and participating in the School and wider Department activities.

The Department of Management at LSE seeks to hire an outstanding Assistant Professor who will strengthen our internationally renowned, innovative and publicly engaged faculty. Applications will be considered from candidates who investigate HRM foundational domains (e.g., staffing, learning and development, equality, diversity and inclusion, retention, rewards, performance management, voice), as well as areas such as comparative and international HRM and employment relations, strategic HRM, HR analytics, emerging technologies (e.g., AI, algorithms), and the future of work.

Successful applicants will have a PhD or be close to completing a PhD by the post start date in a social science discipline and/or an interdisciplinary field relevant to human resource management. You will have a track record of internationally excellent publications, or a trajectory for achieving this, as well as a well-developed strategy for future outstanding research that has the potential to result in world-leading publications in top journals. You will also have a demonstrable ability to teach on undergraduate, postgraduate, or executive programmes in management.

The other criteria that will be used when shortlisting for this post can be found on the person specification, which is attached to this vacancy on the LSE’s online recruitment system.

In addition to a competitive salary the benefits that come with this job include an occupational pension scheme, a research incentive scheme with personal reward options, generous research leave (sabbatical) entitlement, a collegial faculty environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

For further information about the post, please see the how to apply document, job description and the person specification.

To apply for this post, please go to www.jobs.lse.ac.uk. If you have any technical queries with applying on the online system, please use the “contact us” links at the bottom of the LSE Jobs page. Should you have any queries about the role, please email dom.facultyaffairs@lse.ac.uk
The closing date for receipt of applications is 7 September 2022 (23.59 UK time). We are unable to accept any late applications.

Listing Active: 8/19/2022 to 9/18/2022
Institution: London School of Economics and Political Science Department: Management
Region: Europe
Title: Professor in Management (Human Resource Management)
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Full Professor
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

LSE is committed to building a diverse, equitable and truly inclusive university

For this post, we particularly welcome applications from women and people from minority ethnic groups

Department of Management
Professor in Management
(Human Resource Management)

Salary is competitive with Departments at our peer institutions worldwide.

Salary is no less than £93,570 per annum and the salary scale can be found on the LSE website.

In addition this post will attract a significant market salary supplement which reflects current market conditions.

The Department of Management plays a central role in the LSE, a global, single-faculty, social science university located in the heart of London. The Department’s faculty and research strength is centred in employment relations and human resource management, organisational behaviour, managerial economics and strategy, information systems and innovation, marketing, and operations management. The Department’s own portfolio of degrees includes the BSc Management, a two-year Masters in Management, and specialist one-year masters programmes.

The post holder will contribute to the intellectual life of the School through conducting and publishing outstanding research, engaging in high quality teaching as instructed by the Head of Department, and participating in School and wider Department activities.

The Department of Management seeks to hire an outstanding Professor who will strengthen our internationally renowned, innovative and publicly engaged faculty. Applications will be considered from candidates who investigate HRM foundational domains (e.g., staffing, learning and development, equality, diversity and inclusion, retention, rewards, performance management, voice), as well as areas such as comparative and international HRM and employment relations, strategic HRM, HR analytics, emerging technologies (e.g., AI, algorithms), and the future of work.

Successful applicants will have a PhD in Human Resource Management, a closely related social science discipline, or an interdisciplinary field relevant to human resources. You will demonstrate a proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced by existing publications of the highest quality, at least two of which must be world leading, a track record of publishing on a continuous basis in top journals as well as a clear, well-developed and viable strategy for future outstanding research that will result in further world-leading publications. You will also have a significant track record of excellence in teaching undergraduate, postgraduate, or executive programmes in management.

The other criteria that will be used when shortlisting for this post can be found on the person specification, which is attached to this vacancy on the LSE’s online recruitment system.

In addition to a competitive salary the benefits that come with this job include an occupational pension scheme, a research incentive scheme with personal reward options, generous research leave (sabbatical) entitlement, a collegial faculty environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

For further information about the post, please see the how to apply document, job description and the person specification.

Job 18231: Dean, School of Education and Social Policy

Date Position is Available: Fall 2022
Application Deadline: October 15
Listing Active: 8/19/2022 to 10/18/2022
Institution: Northwestern University
Department: School of Education and Social Policy
Region: Midwest
Title: Dean, School of Education and Social Policy
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: All
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link: https://candidateportal.wittkieffer.com

Job Description:
Northwestern University invites inquiries, nominations, and applications for the position of dean of the School of Education and Social Policy (SESP). The school's 38 tenure-line faculty members, 11 research faculty and professors of instruction, approximately 65 adjunct faculty members, 118 staff members and postdoctoral fellows, and approximately 770 undergraduate, master's, and doctoral students form a vibrant community that values a wide range of methodological and theoretical approaches and fosters strong connections between world-renowned research, policy, and practice. The smallest of Northwestern's 12 schools and colleges, SESP nonetheless has a broad scope; the school draws to it those who seek to understand and improve learning and development over the course of the lifespan, as well as understand and shape social policies that affect learning and development. SESP scholars focus on individual development, families, organizations, and communities, and pedagogical and technological innovations, teacher education, school improvement, and local, state, and federal policies.

The University seeks a new dean to provide courageous, collaborative, and visionary leadership to further advance the school and to marshal the resources necessary to support the school's goals. Reporting to the provost, the dean is the chief executive and academic officer of the school, joining with faculty and staff in overseeing academic programs and policies; fostering a vibrant, equitable, and inclusive community that generates a passion for the school's mission; and developing and stewarding the school's financial, capital, and human resources; and playing a leadership role in fundraising and external relations. Ideal candidates will be prominent scholars whose active and distinguished professional records include a compelling combination of teaching, research, and practice within a field of study relevant to the school's broad profile of scholarship, who bring demonstrated evidence of transforming vision into action, especially in areas of diversity, inclusion, equity, and justice; with experience in program design; with community-building skills; and who have strong academic leadership and management experience. SESP's ideal leader will also be committed to maintaining existing and establishing new collaborative relationships with community and policy partners with the aim of having a local, national, and global impact on educational, organizational, and social change.

All applications, nominations, and inquiries are invited. Applications should include, as separate documents, a CV or resume and a letter of interest addressing the themes in the leadership profile, found at https://www.wittkieffer.com.

WittKieffer is assisting Northwestern University in this search. Application review has begun and will continue until an appointment is made. For fullest consideration, candidate materials should be received by October 15.

Application materials should be submitted using WittKieffer’s candidate portal.

Nominations and inquiries can be directed to:

Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/19/2022 to 11/17/2022
Institution: Stanford University
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: West
Title: IDEAL Provostial Fellows for Studies in Race and Ethnicity Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: All, Fellowships/Post-docs: Post-doctoral Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas, Open to All Specialty Areas
Salary Range: $80,000 - $89,999
Submission Link: https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/22083

Job Description:
IDEAL Provostial Fellows for Studies in Race and Ethnicity

Online application: https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/22083
Application Period: August 18 – November 1, 2022

Description:
Stanford University, in conjunction with its IDEAL initiative, is pleased to announce that it is seeking to appoint four to five early career fellows engaged in the study of race and ethnicity. The purpose of this program is to support the work of early-career researchers, who will lead the next generation of scholarship in race and ethnicity and whose work will point the way forward for reshaping race relations in America. Fellowships may be in any of the seven schools in the University (Business, Doerr School of Sustainability, Education, Engineering, Humanities & Sciences, Law, Medicine).

Applicants will be asked to identify the school or department that aligns with the field of their Ph.D. The selected fellows will be assigned a faculty mentor from their home department or school and will have the opportunity to be involved with the other early career fellows and Stanford faculty in a variety of activities. Informally, they will be invited to lunches and dinners to meet with other Stanford faculty who share their interests. They also will be invited to engage with the intellectual programming offered by the African and African-American Studies program, the Center for Comparative Studies in Race and Ethnicity and the Martin Luther King Research and Education Institute.

The early career fellows will have an opportunity each year to teach one course that will be cross-listed in the curricula of the Center for Comparative Studies in Race and Ethnicity and/or the African and African American Studies program. This course may be taught by the fellow or the fellow may team-teach a course with another member of the Stanford faculty. The fellows also will be involved in the organization of a major conference that brings to Stanford scholars who are at the forefront of scholarship in the study of race and ethnicity.

Criteria: Scholars interested in any field of study are accepted. Early career fellows should have received their terminal degree (PhD, JD, MFA, EdD, DSW, etc.) prior to the start of the fellowship. Selection criteria include the originality and quality of the research, as well as demonstrated potential for intellectual achievement. The term of these fellowships is three years, with a start date of September 1, 2023. To be eligible for an early career fellowship, a candidate must have received their terminal degree no earlier than September 1, 2020.

Applicants for early career fellowships should submit their applications electronically and include a cover letter (detailing the candidate’s interest in the position), curriculum vitae, a statement of research interests, a statement of teaching interests, samples of written work, and three letters of recommendation (provide contact information for each and a system generated request will be delivered to each referee). In these materials, please include how your interests would be advanced by a fellowship, needs for laboratory access or special equipment, etc. The deadline for receiving applications for early career fellowships is November 1, 2022. No application will be accepted after the deadline. Applications will not be accepted by email.

Inquiries about this program can be directed to facultydevelopment@stanford.edu. Please include “IDEAL Provostial Fellows” in the subject line.
Additional details about the fellowship program can be found at https://facultydevelopment.stanford.edu/ideal-provostial-fellows.
More information about Stanford’s IDEAL initiative is available at https://ideal.stanford.edu/

Job 18225: Open-Rank Tenure-Track Faculty Positions in Critical Race and Policy Studies

Date Position is Available: Summer 2023
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/19/2022 to 9/18/2022
Institution: University of Pennsylvania
Department:
Region: Northeast
Title: Open-Rank Tenure-Track Faculty Positions in Critical Race and Policy Studies
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: All
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Public Policy
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:
Open-Rank Tenure-Track Faculty Positions in Critical Race and Policy Studies

University of Pennsylvania: School of Social Policy and Practice

Location: Philadelphia, PA
Open Date: Aug 15, 2022

Description
The University of Pennsylvania's School of Social Policy & Practice (SP2) invites applications for tenure-track appointments to begin July 1, 2023.

SP2 seeks candidates whose research and scholarship are related to social policy, defined as a subset of public policy that focuses on solving social problems such as economic and educational inequality, racial and health disparities, among others. As such, social policy initiatives and outcomes actively attend to social issues of equity, equality, and adequacy. Advancing social justice is a core component of SP2's vision and a mission that unites all of its programs.

SP2 is particularly interested in recruiting faculty who study social policy with a critical focus on inequality and power structures; scholars who are informed by or engage in critical race studies, critical ethnic studies, LatCRT, Black radical thought, Black feminisms, postcolonial studies, queer studies and queer of color critique, indigenous studies, DisCRT, critical posthumanisms, affect theory, or other areas of critical scholarship. Applicants should have a background in interdisciplinary social science, humanistic social science, critical legal studies, cultural studies or critical theory, though the specific disciplinary home may be in any field, including social work, law, political science, sociology, anthropology, cultural studies, public health, among others. Global scholarship is also of strong interest though not required.

This position is for a faculty member whose primary responsibilities will be in the Master of Science in Social Policy (MSSP) Program. We welcome, however, candidates with the capacity for and interest in working across the school’s three master’s programs (Social Policy, Social Work, Nonprofit Leadership), as well its two doctoral programs (Doctorate in Clinical Social Work, and Ph.D. in Social Welfare).

Many opportunities for collaboration exist within the wider University of Pennsylvania academic community, as well as with health, educational, social service, nonprofit, and government organizations regionally, nationally, and globally.

Please submit the following materials through our online application system:

• CV.
• Cover letter.
• Research statement that includes current activities and future plans.
• Teaching statement that includes identification of SP2 courses of interest.
DEI statement.

- Three samples of scholarly writing.
- Contact information for three references.

Formal review of applicants will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Please contact Dr. Yoosun Park (yoosunp@upenn.edu) for further information.

If interested, please apply: https://apptrkr.com/3349661

Open-Rank Tenure-Track Faculty Positions in Nonprofit Leadership

University of Pennsylvania: School of Social Policy and Practice
Location: Philadelphia, PA
Open Date: Aug 15, 2022

Description

The University of Pennsylvania's School of Social Policy & Practice (SP2) invites applications for tenure-track appointments to begin July 1, 2023.

SP2 seeks candidates who hold a PhD (completed by the time of appointment) from the various disciplines germane to the school's Master of Science in Nonprofit Leadership program. Applicants should have a research program that focuses on nonprofit management, philanthropy, social entrepreneurship, volunteering, leadership for social impact, international NGOs, or other topic related to global civil society. Given the School's commitment to advancing social justice in all of its programs, the successful candidate will have a demonstrated interest in antiracism and anti-oppressive practice, education, and research.

While this position is for a faculty member whose primary responsibilities will be in the Master of Science in Nonprofit Leadership Program, we welcome candidates with the capacity for and interest in working across the school's three master's programs (Social Policy, Social Work, Nonprofit Leadership), as well its two doctoral programs (Doctorate in Clinical Social Work, and Ph.D. in Social Welfare).

Many opportunities for collaboration exist within the wider University of Pennsylvania academic community, as well as with health, educational, social service, nonprofit, and government organizations regionally, nationally, and globally.

Please submit the following materials through our online application system at:

• CV.
• Cover letter.
• Research statement that includes current activities and future plans.
• Teaching statement that includes identification of SP2 courses of interest.
• DEI statement.
• Three samples of scholarly writing.
• Contact information for three references.
Formal review of applicants will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Please contact Dr. Yoosun Park (yoosunp@upenn.edu) for further information.

If interested, please apply: https://apptrkr.com/3349640

Job Description:

Open-Rank Tenure-Track Faculty Positions in Social Work

The University of Pennsylvania’s School of Social Policy & Practice (SP2) invites applications for tenure-track appointments to begin July 1, 2023.

SP2 seeks social work scholars to contribute to one or more of its four MSW curriculum sequences: clinical practice, HBSE, social policy, and social work research. The School seeks candidates with innovative programs of research and teaching excellence. Given the School’s commitment to advancing social justice in all of its programs, the successful candidate will have a demonstrated interest in antiracism and anti-oppressive practice, education, and research.

A doctorate in social work or a closely related field (completed prior to the start of the appointment) is required for all applicants. An MSW from an accredited school of social work and at least two years of post-MSW practice experience is required for candidates applying for a position in clinical practice; MSW is preferred for all others.

While this search is focused on faculty members whose primary responsibilities will be in the MSW program, we welcome candidates with the capacity for and interest in working across the school’s three master’s programs (Social Policy, Social Work, Nonprofit Leadership), as well its two doctoral programs (Doctorate in Clinical Social Work, and Ph.D. in Social Welfare).

The Joanne and Raymond Welsh Chair of Child Welfare and Family Violence

University of Pennsylvania: School of Social Policy and Practice

Location: Philadelphia, PA
Open Date: Aug 15, 2022

Description

The University of Pennsylvania School of Social Policy & Practice (SP2) invites applications for the Joanne and Raymond Welsh Chair of Child Welfare and Family Violence, a tenured, full-professor appointment to begin July 1, 2023.

SP2 seeks a visionary researcher and educator who will advance the core values of social innovation, impact, and justice, central to the mission of the School and the University. The faculty selected as the Welsh Chair will have a distinguished portfolio of research and teaching, and leadership. The ideal candidate would have:

• A record of significant scholarly accomplishments with national and international recognition within the broad arena of child and family welfare and wellbeing.
• A career history of excellence in teaching, mentorship, and service appropriate to an appointment at the rank of full professor.
• A demonstrated commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion in their scholarship, teaching, and service.

The successful candidate will join the Field Center for Children’s Policy, Practice & Research (https://www.fieldcenteratpenn.org/) as a faculty director, and work collaboratively to advance its mission. The candidate will be expected to teach in SP2’s master’s and doctoral programs, as well as to provide leadership in promoting research collaboration with faculty within the School, the University, and with relevant agencies and institutions locally, nationally, and internationally.

Qualifications

• Ph.D. in Social Work or a related field.
• Academic accomplishments appropriate for tenured appointment at the rank of full professor at the University of Pennsylvania.
• Established program of path-breaking research with a progressive track record of external (ideally federal) funding.
• A strong record of successful management and leadership of funded research projects.

Job Description:
Tenure-Track Assistant Professor, Department of Sociology
Colby College, Waterville ME

The Department of Sociology at Colby College is hiring a tenure-track Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2023. Colby is a highly selective liberal arts college in a spectacular setting with a rich sociological history: it was here that Albion Small taught some of the first sociology courses in the country.

We are searching for an early career scholar who aims to make an impact through high-profile research, excellence in teaching, and meaningful student engagement. Areas of specialization are open. The ideal candidate will have a publication track record, ample experience with teaching—including course design—and a record of success advising and mentoring individuals from groups under-represented in higher education.

Review of completed applications will begin on October 1, 2022 and continue until the position is filled. A complete application must include: a curriculum vitae; letter of application that outlines the candidate’s research, teaching philosophy, and teaching experience and that demonstrates commitment to the value of diversity and to inclusive teaching; representative samples of scholarship; and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Questions about this search should be directed to: Sociologysearch@colby.edu

Employer Description:
Colby is a private, coeducational liberal arts college that admits students and makes personnel decisions on the basis of the individual’s qualifications to contribute to Colby’s educational objectives and institutional needs. The principle of not discriminating on the basis of race, color, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, religion, caste, national or ethnic origin, marital status, genetic information, political beliefs, veteran or military status, parental status, pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions, physical or mental disability unrelated to the job or course of study requirements is consistent with the mission of a liberal arts college and the law.

Job Description:

Assistant Professor: Race and Ethnicity

The Department of Sociology at San Diego State University invites applications for a tenure-track (assistant professor) position in the area of Sociology of Race and Ethnicity with a focus on Latinx and/or Black communities in the United States, to begin Fall 2023.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in Sociology or a related field by the time of appointment. We seek candidates with a strong record in teaching effectiveness and scholarly achievement/productivity (relative to career stage). Strong preference will be given to those with expertise in critical race theory, intersectionality, and other contemporary theories of race and ethnicity. We prefer candidates who show a commitment to teaching a variety of courses at the undergraduate and graduate level and who have experience working with underrepresented students. We further seek a scholar with evidence of commitment to community-based, anti-racist work.

The Department of Sociology offers the minor, BA, and MA degrees in Sociology. See website for more information. https://sociology.sdsu.edu

Interested candidates should apply online via Interfolio. Submit the following materials at http://apply.interfolio.com/111608:

1. CV
2. A letter (up to 3 pages) describing teaching experience and philosophy, research interests, and pertinent service experience;
3. A diversity statement (up to 2 pages, including two out of eight BIE criteria)
4. A writing sample; and
5. Three letters of recommendations.

Review of applications will begin September 16 (Friday).

We are seeking applicants with demonstrated experience in and/or commitment to teaching and working effectively with individuals from diverse backgrounds and members of underrepresented groups. Candidates must satisfy two or more of the eight Building on Inclusive Excellence (BIE) criteria.

Candidates that meet BIE criteria:

(a) are committed to engaging in service with underrepresented populations within the discipline, (b) have demonstrated knowledge of barriers for underrepresented students and faculty within the discipline, (c) have experience or have demonstrated commitment to teaching and mentoring underrepresented students, (d) have experience or have demonstrated commitment to integrating understanding of underrepresented populations and communities into research, (e) have experience in or have demonstrated commitment to extending knowledge of opportunities and challenges in achieving artistic/scholastic success to members of an underrepresented group, (f) have experience in or have demonstrated commitment to research that engages underrepresented communities, (g) have expertise or demonstrated commitment to developing expertise in cross-cultural communication and collaboration, and/or (h) have research interests that contribute to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education. Please indicate how you meet at least two of these criteria. Additional guidance on our BIE program for applicants is here.

Please indicate how you meet at least two of these criteria in your diversity statement.

SDSU is the oldest institution of higher education in the San Diego region, with a campus and microsites in San Diego and locations in Southern California's Imperial Valley and Tbilisi in the Republic of Georgia. The highly diverse campus community has a student population of approximately 36,000. SDSU is included in the Carnegie Foundation's Doctoral Universities: High Research Activity category. Established in 1897, SDSU offers bachelor degrees in 97 areas, masters in 84 and doctorates in 23. See http://www.sdsu.edu for more information. SDSU is a large, diverse, urban university and Hispanic-Serving Institution with a commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusive excellence. Our campus community is diverse in many ways, including race, religion, color, sex, age, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, national origin, pregnancy, medical condition, and covered veteran status. We strive to build a sustainable welcoming environment for all.

As part of its commitment to a safe and equitable “OneSDSU” community, SDSU requires that individuals seeking faculty employment provide at the time of application authorization to conduct background checks if they become a finalist for the position; applications without this authorization will be considered incomplete and not considered.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The person holding this position is considered a “mandated reporter” under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

SDSU is a Title IX, equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate against persons on the basis of race, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity and expression, marital status, age, disability, pregnancy, medical condition, or covered veteran status.

Degrees must be from a university accredited by the U.S. Department of Education or an internationally recognized accrediting organization.

Applicants should address in their application their ability to work with and instruct a diverse population and their willingness to teach remotely or online, if needed, in addition to traditional in-person instruction. Candidates must be willing to contribute to the University’s priorities, including student success, research, diversity and inclusion, internationalization, and community engagement and service.

The School of Criminal Justice has an internationally renowned doctoral program, a Master’s Degree program, and a selective BA program. The University at Albany is one of the four University Centers of the State University of New York; its approximately 17,000 students include roughly 5000 graduate students, and its full-time faculty number about 700. Albany, the capital of New York, is in a metropolitan area with a population of approximately 800,000. Located in beautiful upstate New York, it is in close proximity to the Berkshires, the Catskills, the Adirondacks, and the Hudson River Valley and is also convenient to Boston, Montreal, and New York City.

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2022 and will continue until the position is filled.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in criminal justice, criminology, or related discipline (e.g., sociology, political science, psychology, economics) from a university accredited by the U.S. Department of Education or an internationally recognized accrediting organization, in hand by September 1, 2023
- active and productive program of research
- record of or strong potential for externally funded research
- ability to effectively teach relevant undergraduate and graduate courses
- ability to mentor graduate and undergraduate students
- ability to work with and instruct a diverse population
- willingness to teach remotely or online, should needs arise
- willingness to contribute to the University’s priorities, including student success, research, diversity and inclusion, internationalization, and community engagement and service

Applicants should apply online via https://albany.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=151140

Applicants should submit:

1. a letter of application addressing each of the qualifications outlined in the position announcement
2. statements of research and teaching interests and experience
3. a curriculum vitae
4. the names and contact information of three references

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2022 and will continue until the position is filled.

Job 18216: Associate Professor

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/18/2022 to 10/17/2022
Institution: University of Pittsburgh
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: All US Regions
Title: Associate Professor
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant/Associate Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Eligible
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:
The Department of Sociology at the University of Pittsburgh is looking to hire an Associate Professor with tenure. Minimal qualification is a record of high-quality scholarship and teaching sufficient to qualify for a tenured appointment. We will consider advanced Assistant Professors who are eligible for a tenured appointment, and already tenured Associate Professors. Preferred qualifications include a focus on social movements or political culture, with insights and concerns rooted in the study of Africa/the African Diaspora. We understand this to include scholars who place US dynamics in a global perspective; scholars of the Caribbean, Afro-Latinidad, or Africa; and especially those who have an affinity to the Black sociological tradition, Du Boisian sociology, or Black internationalism. Central substantive expertise might include contemporary or historical struggles. The research agendas and pedagogical practices of the ideal candidate would employ an interdisciplinary perspective on social justice, racism, colonial effects, or access to a broad spectrum of rights.

To apply, please send a cover letter including a description of your research program and pedagogical approaches; cv; diversity statement; and contact information for 3 references, who should be available to be contacted for short-listed candidates. Applications received by October 15 will be assured full consideration.

Job 18211: Assistant Professor of Criminology

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/18/2022 to 9/17/2022
Institution: University of Southern Maine
Department: Department of Criminology
Region: Northeast
Title: Assistant Professor of Criminology
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Criminology/Delinquency
Salary Range: $50,000 - $59,999
Submission Link: < a href='https://usm.maine.edu/jobs' target='_blank'>https://usm.maine.edu/jobs

Job Description:

The Criminology Department at the University of Southern Maine is seeking a tenure-track Assistant Professors beginning Fall 2023 (August 28, 2023).

The Criminology Department offers a four-year program leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in criminology. The program provides students with a liberal arts education whose focus is the complex relations among crime, law, and society, and which emphasizes the social sciences. The curriculum is a rigorous series of courses which provides students with a comprehensive knowledge of crime and crime control in contemporary, historical, and comparative perspective. Click here to learn more.

The desired area of specialization includes but is not limited to: abolition, comparative and global criminology, green criminology, political economy of policing and punishment, restorative and transformative justice, state crimes, and social policy theory. The successful candidate should be prepared to teach required and elective courses in the criminology curriculum. While the department’s primary teaching needs are CRM 100: Introduction to Criminology, CRM 200: Research Methods in Criminology, and CRM 225: Crimes Against the Environment, the criminology department is committed to hiring the strongest candidate and will adjust existing teaching responsibilities accordingly.

Responsibilities include undergraduate teaching of three classes per semester (with only two teaching preps), advising of students, maintaining an active program of research and other scholarly activity, and engaging in university and professional service. There is one course release in the first semester in exchange for participating in the new faculty onboarding program.

The targeted starting date for this position is Fall 2023 (August 28, 2023) and will pay an annual salary of $58,500. This is an on campus, in-person teaching position with opportunities to teach in online delivery modalities.

The University of Southern Maine is committed to building a culturally diverse team of leaders, faculty, and staff. We welcome applicants who are multilingual. Women, minoritized and marginalized populations, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

We live our USM Service Promise: Student Focused Every Day. We are looking for a team member who understands that promise and supports our values: Respect & Care, Integrity, Equity and Responsiveness.

The University of Southern Maine (USM) is located in the intellectual, cultural, and economic heart of Maine. Over 60 languages are spoken within an hour’s drive of our three campuses in Portland, Gorham, and Lewiston. USM’s three environmentally friendly campuses are unique, yet all share the extensive resources of the university — and all are energized through strong community partnerships. Offering easy access to Boston, plus the ocean, mountains, and forests of coastal, inland, and northern Maine, USM is at the heart of Maine’s most exciting metropolitan region. Our faculty are dedicated researchers and experts in their fields, including multiple recipients of national grants, awards, and fellowships and state, national, and global partnerships are steps from our campuses.

The University of Southern Maine provides a highly competitive benefits package that includes: holidays, vacation and sick time; health, dental and vision insurance; life insurance; short and long term disability insurance; a tuition waiver program for employee and eligible dependents; a 403(b) retirement plan; and more. Click on our Benefits Information Summary to learn more.

Required Qualifications:

- Earned doctorate in sociology, criminology, or related discipline at the time of appointment.
- Demonstrated effective teaching and effective written and oral communication skills are also required.

Employees in the University of Maine System are required to comply with UMS COVID protocols which currently include, but are not limited to, being vaccinated, obtaining a qualified vaccination exemption, and/or participating in regular COVID testing.

To Apply: https://usm.maine.edu/jobs

Materials must be submitted via "Apply for position" at the bottom of the job posting page.

You will create an applicant profile submit the following:

- Cover letter
- Resume/curriculum vitae
- Teaching Statement that includes a description of your experience with and philosophy of teaching diverse learners.
- Research Statement expressing your areas of interest, past work, and future plans.
- The names and contact information of three references.

We will examine candidate packages on an ongoing basis as they are submitted.

All required materials must be submitted by September 5, 2022.
Appropriate background screening will be conducted for the successful candidate.

The University of Southern Maine is an EEO/AA employer, and does not discriminate on the grounds of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, transgender status, gender expression, national origin, citizenship status, age, disability, genetic information or veteran's status in employment, education, and all other programs and activities. Job Description:

The Organizational Behavior Area at INSEAD invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in Macro Organizational Behavior, based at INSEAD’s Europe Campus in Fontainebleau, France.

INSEAD’s Organizational Behavior Area has faculty members based in Fontainebleau and Singapore and examines diverse micro, meso, and macro topics. Examples include research on discrimination, decision-making, leadership, dispute resolution, negotiations, creativity, teams, careers, identity, diversity, networks, innovation, change, culture, hierarchy, organizational structure and design, inequality, status, and power. We also study meta-science and methodological issues. We have a collegial environment that encourages both disciplinary and interdisciplinary research, using all methodologies. We are interested in candidates that can further enrich, expand, and integrate the diverse research portfolio of the OB group and INSEAD.

We welcome applicants with backgrounds in sociology, organization theory, management, or other relevant fields examining macro phenomena. Candidates should hold a PhD or be at the dissertation completion stage of a doctoral program, have demonstrated solid skills in their respective areas, and have a promising research pipeline and a track record in publishing. We will consider both PhD candidates as well as early-career Assistant Professors.

If you are interested, please send your application materials to INSEAD.OB-area@insead.edu. Applications should include a cover letter, a CV, research and possible teaching statements, examples of representative research papers, teaching evaluations if available, and three letters of recommendation sent directly to us. Please direct any questions to the Chair of the recruitment committee, Prof. Kaisa Snellman (kaisa.snellman@insead.edu).

Applications should be completed by 11:59 PM on October 1, 2022 (U.S. Eastern Standard Time).

McGill University is committed to equity and diversity within its community and values academic rigour and excellence. We welcome and encourage applications from racialized persons/visible minorities, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, and persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, as well as from all qualified candidates with the skills and knowledge to engage productively with diverse communities.

At McGill, research that reflects diverse intellectual traditions, methodologies, and modes of dissemination and translation is valued and encouraged. Candidates are invited to demonstrate their research impact both within and across academic disciplines and in other sectors, such as government, communities, or industry.

McGill further recognizes and fairly considers the impact of leaves (e.g., family care or health-related) that may contribute to career interruptions or slowdowns. Candidates are encouraged to signal any leave that affected productivity, or that may have had an effect on their career path. This information will be considered to ensure the equitable assessment of the candidate’s record.

McGill implements an employment equity program and encourages members of designated equity groups to self-identify. It further seeks to ensure the equitable treatment and full inclusion of persons with disabilities by striving for the implementation of universal design principles transversally, across all facets of the University community, and through accommodation policies and procedures. Persons with disabilities who anticipate needing accommodations for any part of the application process may contact, in confidence, accessibilityrequest.hr@mcgill.ca.

All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Employer Description:
McGill University is one of Canada's best-known institutions of higher learning and one of the leading universities in the world. International students from more than 150 countries make up nearly 30% of McGill's student body – the highest proportion of any Canadian research university.

History
McGill is a public university, founded in 1821.

A Tradition of Success
McGill is recognized around the world for the excellence of its teaching and research programs. Ernest Rutherford's Nobel Prize-winning research on the nature of radioactivity was conducted at McGill, part of a long tradition of innovation on our campuses that includes the invention of the artificial blood cell and Plexiglas. Today our professors are building the new field of epigenetics, developing alternative energy sources from crop plants and driving human achievement in every field imaginable.

The Best and Brightest
In addition to a stellar faculty, McGill is known for attracting the brightest students from across Canada, the United States, and around the world. McGill students have the highest average entering grades in Canada, and our commitment to fostering the very best has helped our students win more national and international awards on average than their peers at any other Canadian university. The prestigious Rhodes Scholarship has gone to a nation-leading 145 McGill students.

Job 18206: Infrastructure Equity Faculty Cluster Hire – Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor of Urban Planning and Public Policy

Date: Thursday, September 1, 2022
78. University of California, Irvine

Job Position is Available: Fall 2023

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 8/17/2022 to 9/16/2022

Institution: University of California, Irvine
Department: Urban Planning and Public Policy
Region: West

Title: Infrastructure Equity Faculty Cluster Hire – Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor of Urban Planning and Public Policy

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant/Associate Professor, Academic Positions: Full Professor

Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Urban Sociology , Public Policy

Salary Range: Negotiable

Submission Link:

Job Description:

The Department of Urban Planning and Public Policy (UPPP) at the University of California, Irvine (UCI) invites applications for one faculty position whose research, teaching and service contribute to UCI’s Black Thriving Initiative (BTI) and the Infrastructure Equity Cluster Hiring Initiative, which solidifies UCI’s leadership in addressing systemic, environmental, and racial disparities in infrastructure planning, design, and implementation. The position is open at the the rank of a tenure-track Assistant Professor or Associate Professor or Full Professor with tenure. We are interested in candidates whose research extends UPPP’s focus on sustainability and social justice by advancing distributional and procedural equity for Black communities and other groups adversely impacted by past and future investments. The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong record of research and teaching focused on physical (transportation, water, land use, housing, energy, broadband, etc.) and/or social/civic (access to services, community capacity, structures, and processes for collective engagement, etc.) dimensions of infrastructure. We are particularly interested in scholars whose work addresses the following types of questions: (1) How do infrastructure investments impact the design, social fabric, and lived experiences of Black communities?; (2) How do historic or contemporary infrastructure planning and policy practices produce and reinforce systems of power that exclude Black and other historically marginalized communities?; (3) How can infrastructure planning, design, and implementation processes be transformed to ensure greater distributional and procedural equity and racial, economic, and environmental justice for Black communities?

This position is part of a campus-wide Infrastructure Equity faculty cluster hiring program which amplifies UCI’s Black Thriving Initiative by recruiting engaged scholars across the fields of planning policy, engineering, environmental science, and law to address social, environmental, and racial disparities in infrastructure planning, design, and implementation. The initiative includes the Department of Urban Planning and Public Policy in the School of Social Ecology; the Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering in the Henry Samueli School of Engineering; the Department of Earth System Science in the School of Physical Sciences; and the School of Law. The cluster’s curriculum and programming components foster cross-campus collaborations, build a community of scholars trained in community-based research, and engage with community organizations and governmental agencies in Black communities in Southern California and beyond. For more information, consult the cluster website: https://sites.uci.edu/iecluster/.

Launched in 2020 during the racial reckoning, the UCI Black Thriving Initiative mobilizes the entire university to transform UCI into the nation's foremost destination for Black people to thrive as students, faculty, staff, and communities served by the university. To this end, it consists of three action platforms that seek to inform choices, decisions, and practices - a great public research university. These are: change the culture, leverage the mission, and engage with communities. A major feature of BTI involves advancing understanding about the multifaceted Black experience and drivers of well-being in support of Black communities. The associated faculty cluster hiring program builds on and expands our shared values of diversity, equity and inclusion and commitment to social justice. Selected from a multi-year competition, the three BTI hiring clusters reflect the power and promise of interdisciplinary collaboration. They are: Environmental Health Disparities, Infrastructure Equity, and Poetic Justice. To accelerate and elevate the impact of the research, teaching, and service of participating and affiliated faculty, each cluster will receive dedicated programming support for three years. For more information, consult the BTI website: https://inclusion.uci.edu/action-plan/msi/uci-black-thriving-initiative/.

Priority will be given to applications received by October 15, 2022; however, applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Candidates must have completed a Ph.D. in public affairs, public policy, urban planning, economics, geography, sociology, political science, or a related field by the position start date, July 1, 2023 (teaching duties will begin Fall 2023). UPPP recognizes the value of diversity in its faculty and strongly supports UCI's mission for equity and inclusiveness. We are committed to ensuring accountability, providing training and education, conducting responsive research, and building sustainable partnerships. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply.

The University of California is committed to creating and maintaining a community dedicated to the advancement, application, and transmission of knowledge and creative endeavors through academic excellence, where all individuals who participate in University programs and activities can work and learn together in a safe and secure environment, free of violence, harassment, discrimination, exploitation, or intimidation. With this commitment as well as a commitment to addressing all forms of academic misconduct, UC Irvine conducts institutional reference checks for finalists to whom the department or other hiring unit would like to extend a formal offer of appointment into Ladder Rank Professor or Professor of Teaching series, at all ranks (i.e., assistant, associate, and full). The institutional reference checks involve contacting the administration of the applicant’s previous institution(s) to ask whether there have been substantiated findings of misconduct that would violate the University’s Faculty Code of Conduct. To implement this process, UC Irvine requires all candidates of Ladder Rank Professor or Professor of Teaching series, at all ranks (i.e., assistant, associate, and full) to complete, sign, and upload the form entitled “Authorization to Release Information” into AP RECRUIT as part of their application. If the candidate does not include the signed authorization to release information with the application materials, the application will be considered incomplete. As with any incomplete application, the application will not receive further consideration. Although all applicants for faculty recruitment must complete the entire application, only finalists (i.e., those to whom the department or other hiring unit would like to extend a formal offer) considered for Ladder Rank Professor or Professor of Teaching series, at all ranks (i.e., assistant, associate, and full) positions will be subject to institutional reference checks.

Applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of current and future research plans, statement of teaching, and contact information to request three reference letters. A separate statement that addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion (e.g., mentoring activities, committee service, research or teaching activities) must also be included in the application materials. For an appointment at an advanced Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor rank, evidence of success in securing extramural funding to support research and graduate students is desired.

Employer Description:

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy.

Institution: University of Maryland-College Park
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: East
Title: Assistant Professor

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Race, Class and Gender, Social Psychology

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology at the University of Maryland is seeking to hire an Assistant Professor with a start date in August of 2023. We are especially interested in candidates who study inequality based on race, health, and/or the environment, with a preference for researchers who primarily use a social psychological perspective and mixed or qualitative methods. We also particularly value candidates who would contribute to diversifying our faculty. To apply, candidates must submit a letter of application addressing our priorities for the position; curriculum vitae; a statement of research and teaching interests that highlights substantive and methodological innovations in both research and teaching; a writing sample; and names of three references. Reviews of submitted applications will commence on September 30, 2022 and will continue until the position is filled. Note, however, that the online application website may close without notice at any time after September 30, 2022.

We anticipate that the hire for this position might fit into a hiring cluster being carried out by the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences at the University of Maryland that will involve hiring researchers in racial inequality across a number of disciplines. Persons hired through the cluster will have access to a community of scholars and cross-disciplinary opportunities. For more information about the cluster, see here: https://bsos.umd.edu/academics-research/bsos-hiring-numerous-racial

Employer Description:

The University of Maryland is located in Prince George's County, near Washington, DC, accessible through the College Park/UM metro stop. For more information on the department and the university, we encourage interested persons to visit our website at www.socy.umd.edu.

Founded in 1856, the university is the flagship institution in the University System of Maryland. Our 1,250-acre College Park campus is just minutes away from Washington, D.C., and the nexus of the nation’s legislative, executive, and judicial centers of power. This unique proximity to business and technology leaders, federal departments and agencies, and myriad research entities, embassies, think tanks, cultural centers, and non-profit organizations is unparalleled. Synergistic opportunities for our faculty and students abound and are virtually limitless in the nation’s capital and surrounding areas. The university is committed to attracting and retaining outstanding and diverse faculty and staff that will enhance our stature of preeminence in our three missions of teaching, scholarship, and full engagement in our community, the state of Maryland, and in the world.

The University of Maryland, College Park, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal and state laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination and affirmative action; all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment. The University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, physical or mental disability, protected veteran status, age, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, creed, marital status, political affiliation, personal appearance, or on the basis of rights secured by the First Amendment, in all aspects of employment, educational programs and activities, and admissions.

Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Organizations, Formal and Complex
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link: https://apply.interfolio.com/108870

Job Description:
ORGANIZATIONAL STUDIES. The Interdisciplinary Program in Organizational Studies at the University of Michigan solicits applications for an open-rank faculty position to begin August 28, 2023. This is a university-year appointment. Organizational Studies is a small (approximately 100 students) highly selective undergraduate major in the arts and sciences. Although our preference is for a candidate with a micro-organizational focus, we will consider applicants from all areas relevant to the study of organizations, regardless of disciplinary background. Candidates must demonstrate excellence in research and teaching related to organizational theory and behavior, broadly defined. We especially seek applicants committed to undergraduate mentorship and innovative teaching methods. Application deadline is October 3, 2022.

Applications must include a cover letter, CV, research statement, and up to three representative writing samples. The University of Michigan and the Organizational Studies Program value contributions to diversity, equity, and inclusion (https://diversity.umich.edu/). In addition to the materials requested above, please include a statement (1-3 pages) that describes your demonstrated commitment to these goals through your scholarship, teaching and mentoring, and/or service and engagement. We will contact you in the event that we require references and teaching materials. Please follow this link to our website http://apply.interfolio.com/108870 where you will be able to access the application. For questions, email Orgstudies.Faculty.Search@umich.edu.

Offers for this appointment are contingent on successful completion of a background screening. The University of Michigan is supportive of the needs of dual career couples and is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply.

This offer is contingent upon reporting your COVID19 proof of vaccinations no later than one week before your appointment start date. You may request a medical or religious exemption; however, successful completion of the exemption process must occur prior to your start date. If you will not be up to date on your vaccinations at the time of hire (defined as receiving all recommended doses in the primary vaccine series and one booster when eligible), you may request an exemption. A temporary postponement may be requested if you are unable to receive the primary series or booster in your country of origin or current location. More information on this policy is available on the Campus Blueprint website.

Employer Description:
Organizational Studies is built on a foundation of three disciplines—sociology, economics, and psychology. Each discipline contributes a unique lens through which to see organizations, their forms, and their processes. These three perspectives together give students broad scope for understanding an organizational world.

Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: Post-doctoral
Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Applicable

Salary Range: $60,000 - $69,999

Job Description:

The Vanderbilt LGBTQ+ Policy Lab (https://www.vanderbilt.edu/lgbtq-policy-lab/) is seeking applications for a postdoctoral scholar position in the areas of LGBTQ+ health inequities, policies, and populations to begin in Summer 2023. The ideal candidate is an empirical social scientist who has an interest in studying the causes and consequences of LGBTQ-related public policies (e.g., same-sex marriage, non-discrimination, trans-gender sports bans, ‘Don’t Say Gay’ laws, ‘bathroom bills’, religious freedom exemptions, and others) on a range of social, economic, political, health, education, and demographic outcomes. Experience with programming in STATA, SAS, or R and handling large datasets is highly preferred; experience with qualitative research is a plus. A PhD in demography, economics, education, health services research, law/jurisprudence, LGBTQ studies, political science, public health, health policy, public policy, sociology, or a related field is required.

Please note that while the administrative home of this postdoctoral appointment will be in Vanderbilt’s Department of Economics and the Department of Medicine, Health & Society; we invite applications from and plan to hire researchers in multiple disciplines.

Responsibilities include:

1. Carrying out a full-time active research program focusing primarily on LGBTQ+ health, LGBTQ+ politics and policies, and/or LGBTQ+ populations, including solo publications and/or joint papers with Vanderbilt LGBTQ+ Policy Lab faculty and external collaborators.
2. Attending a weekly colloquium series on LGBTQ+ health inequities, policies, and populations.
3. Guest lecturing in courses related to LGBTQ+ inequities, policies, and populations.
4. Serving as a liaison to campus and community leaders on LGBTQ+ policy topics.
5. Mentoring, with supervision from LGBTQ+ Policy Lab faculty, undergraduate and graduate student research.

The Vanderbilt LGBTQ+ Policy Lab brings together experts from multiple units including: economics; medicine, health & society (MHS); sociology; education; divinity; health policy; law; medicine; political science; religious studies; public policy studies (PPS); gender and sexuality studies; and psychology and human development. Vanderbilt LGBTQ+ Policy Lab faculty have secured over $5 million in external funding to support research on LGBTQ+ inequities, health, policies, and populations. Our faculty’s research has been published in high-impact journals such as the Harvard Law Review, JAMA, LGBT Health, Industrial and Labor Relations Review, and The New England Journal of Medicine; covered by NBC, the New York Post, and the Washington Post; and cited in Supreme Court briefs on marriage equality and LGBTQ employment nondiscrimination. Previous postdoctoral fellows trained in the LGBTQ+ Policy Lab have secured tenure-track faculty positions at R1 universities; won prestigious awards including the Vanderbilt Postdoctoral Fellow of the Year award; and published in top-tier journals such as JAMA Pediatrics.

All postdoctoral scholars will be supervised by a Director (Kitt Carpenter) or Associate Director (Tara McKay and Gilbert Gonzales) of the Vanderbilt LGBTQ+ Policy Lab and one or more affiliated faculty mentors depending on discipline. For example, while candidates with economics PhDs will work closely with Kitt Carpenter and/or Marcus Dillender; candidates with sociology PhDs may work more closely with Tara McKay; and candidates with public health, epidemiology, or health policy PhDs may work more closely with Gilbert Gonzales and/or Kirsty Clark.

The one-year postdoctoral fellowships will begin 7/1/2023 (or possibly earlier if mutually agreeable), with an initial end date of 6/30/2024, and carry the possibility of a one-year renewal. Our preference is for candidates to be able to spend both academic year (AY) 23-24 and 24-25 at Vanderbilt. Each position carries a twelve-month salary of $67,500, office space, health insurance, and eligibility for other benefits (https://www.vanderbilt.edu/postdoc/faq). These full-time and in-residence positions require a physical presence in Nashville for the term of the fellowship.

Applicants should provide a cover letter describing interesting in the position and future research plans, CV, a research paper or writing sample, and three references at: https://apply.interfolio.com/111367. Applications will be reviewed immediately and until the positions are filled.

Vanderbilt University is committed to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of exceptional scholars. Women, minorities, and members of other underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. Vanderbilt University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer.

Job 18192: Lecturer

Date Position is Available: Spring 2023
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/12/2022 to 9/11/2022
Institution: Arizona State University
Department: School of Politics and Global Studies Region: Southwest
Title: Lecturer
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Lecturer
Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Political Sociology, Global and Transnational Sociology
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:
The School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS) is pleased to invite applications for a full-time position, benefits eligible, non-tenure track faculty member at the rank of Lecturer. The anticipated start date is January 1, 2023. This is an academic-year position within the SPGS faculty on the Tempe campus. Subsequent annual renewal is desired, contingent upon satisfactory performance, availability of resources, and the needs of the university.

SPGS seeks an applicant with a commitment to undergraduate teaching excellence to join its dynamic faculty. The primary responsibilities of the Lecturer will be to develop and teach in-person and online undergraduate courses on topics such as global studies, comparative politics, and international relations. A typical course load will consist of 4 classes per semester. Additional responsibilities holding office hours, mentoring, serving on committees, and assisting in curriculum development and extracurricular efforts to engage our undergraduate students.

Qualifications
Minimum qualifications:
A Ph.D. in a relevant field (Anthropology, Global/International Studies, Political Science, Sociology, or similar fields) by the time of appointment

Desired qualifications:
- Prior experience designing and teaching both in person and online courses
- Expertise sufficient to teach courses in comparative politics and global studies, with a preference for background in international relations as well
- Global experience (i.e. studying or working abroad)
- Experience mentoring students
- Demonstrated success in and/or plans for meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

Application Instructions
The College values cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

To apply, candidates must submit application materials online to Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/110735 by September 21, 2022; if not filled, complete applications will be reviewed every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. This is a paperless search; only electronic materials will be accepted. Submit the following: 1) a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, and courses they are able to teach as outlined below 2) a complete curriculum vita, 3) the names and contact information for three references, 4) if available, syllabi and course-related material (including evaluations) for no more than two courses you have taught; and 5) a statement addressing how your past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence.

As part of the application letter, applicants should indicate which of the following courses they would be able and willing to teach (with the understanding that not all of these courses would necessarily need to be covered by the person hired). Candidates optionally may also list other undergraduate Global Studies (SGS) or Political Science (POS) courses that they feel qualified to teach, consulting the ASU course catalog at https://webapp4.asu.edu/catalog/courselist.

POS 150 Comparative Government
POS 180 Global Politics
SGS 101 Thinking Globally (introductory course in global studies)
SGS 204 Professional Global Career Development
SGS 304 Foundations of Cross-Cultural Awareness
POS 301/SGS 305 Empirical Political Inquiry
POS/SGS 401 Political Statistics

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:
The Sociology Department in the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts at Loyola Marymount University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall semester 2023. We seek applicants with a Ph.D. in Sociology whose scholarship focuses on racial or ethnic inequalities in the United States. Applicants who use quantitative research methods in their scholarship and who are excited to mentor undergraduate students in independent research projects using quantitative methods are particularly encouraged to apply.

The position involves undergraduate teaching in the University Core curriculum, as well as in the Sociology major and minor. The teaching load is 2-2-2-3 over two years (two classes per regular semester and three classes every fourth semester). The department is interested in candidates with the ability to contribute to one or more of our interdisciplinary programs, such as African American Studies, Chicano/a, and Latino/a Studies, Asian and Asian American Studies. Candidates should have a demonstrated commitment to or promise for excellence in teaching. They should also demonstrate a commitment to equity and inclusion, student success, and engaging diverse communities, as the department, college, and university places a high priority on diversity, social justice, and inclusive pedagogy in fostering academic excellence. We are therefore especially interested in candidates who are open to helping students develop as local and global citizens through, for example, experiential learning assignments, community-engagement, and/or immersion experiences.

Interested applicants are invited to send electronic copies of the following: a cover letter addressing statement of teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and names/addresses of 3 references by September 30, 2022.

Only online applications will be accepted. Please direct questions to Rebecca Sager, Chair of the Search Committee at Rebecca.Sager@lmu.edu. We will begin our review of applications on September 30, 2022.

IMPORTANT-Applicant, please be aware that Workday has a limitation on the number of documents an applicant can upload (5 documents) as well as size limitation (5 MB). If you have documentation that exceeds the above referenced Workday limitations, please email additional materials to: Ryan.Yandell@lmu.edu

To ensure the safety and well-being of our community, Loyola Marymount University requires that all students, faculty, and staff are vaccinated or have been approved for a qualifying medical or religious exemption.

Job Description:

Closing Date: Thursday October 6, 2022

The Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy in the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in the area of Global China. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2023. The successful candidate may be appointed as the endowed Munk Chair in Global China for a five-year term.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. in any social sciences field relating to Global China or a related area such as Economics, Political Science, Sociology, with a clearly demonstrated exceptional record of excellence in research and teaching. The Munk School seeks a scholar whose research and teaching interests complement and enhance one or more of our existing strengths, which include the Future of Democratic Societies, the Changing World Order, the Political Economy of Innovation, and the Digital World. Candidates will have an established international reputation and will be expected to sustain and lead innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to maintain an outstanding, competitive, externally funded research program. The Committee especially welcomes candidates whose work focuses on the global role of China within the political economy of innovation, and the role of democratic societies, justice, and foreign relations.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of sustained high-impact contributions and publications in top-ranked disciplinary and/or field-relevant academic journals or academic presses, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, distinguished awards and accolades, other noteworthy activities that contribute to the visibility and prominence of the field, as well as strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated through teaching accomplishments, through the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application including a teaching statement, sample course materials, teaching evaluations, and through endorsements in teaching of the letters of reference. Candidates are also expected to show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment demonstrated through the application materials.

The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate courses, including in the Munk School’s professional graduate programs (the Master of Global Affairs and the Master of Public Policy) to students from a wide range of academic backgrounds and interests and will also expand teaching capacity in the Asian Institute Collaborative Master’s Specialization in Contemporary East and Southeast Asian Studies and the Dr. David Chu program in Contemporary Asian Studies. The successful candidate will have experience or demonstrable interest in a professional school and/or in an interdisciplinary environment.

Salary and rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

For more information about the Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy at the University of Toronto St. George campus, please visit our home page at https://munkschool.utoronto.ca/.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; curriculum vitae; writing sample; teaching dossier (including a teaching statement and sample course materials and teaching evaluations); and a research statement outlining current and future research interests. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity, diversity, and inclusion, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto’s recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each after an application is submitted (this happens overnight). Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in the PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact munkschool.academic@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by Thursday October 6, 2022.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement:

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ2S+ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. Job Description:
The Department of Sociology in the Faculty of Arts & Science and the Transitional Year Programme (TYP) at the University of Toronto invite applications for a full-time teaching stream position in the field of Sociology. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, Teaching Stream, with an expected start date of July 1, 2023. It will be a joint appointment between the Department of Sociology in the Faculty of Arts & Science (51%) and the Transitional Year Programme (49%).

Applicants must have earned a PhD in Sociology by the time of appointment or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in teaching and whose teaching interests complement and enhance our existing strengths. We seek a candidate who has an established record as an outstanding instructor and is enthusiastic about the opportunity to enjoy a long-term career in teaching at the University of Toronto. We are particularly interested in candidates with a demonstrated ability to teach Introduction to Sociology, as well as courses in theory, culture, race and ethnicity, health, organizations, gender, equity/inequality and/or other areas of strength of the Department of Sociology. Candidates must show evidence of innovative teaching practices both within and outside the classroom. The candidate should also have experience teaching social science writing, research methods and/or analytic skills to traditional and non-traditional undergraduate university students who may have faced barriers to access university education due to race, indigeneity, class, gender, sexual orientation, ability and/or migrant/refugee identifications and histories. For these reasons, we request evidence of engagement in the scholarship of teaching and learning and pedagogies of sociology related to development of writing across the curriculum. In addition, the successful candidate will be expected to participate in program discussions regarding the TYP curriculum and undergraduate sociology curriculum, as well as engage in undergraduate mentorship towards fostering a vibrant intellectual community for undergraduates in the Sociology and TYP programs.

Evidence of excellence in teaching and pedagogical inquiry can be demonstrated through teaching accomplishments, awards and accolades, presentations at significant conferences, the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application, including a strong teaching statement, sample syllabi, course materials, and teaching evaluations, as well as strong letters of reference from referees of high standing.

Candidates are also expected to show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment demonstrated through the application materials.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The Department of Sociology at the University of Toronto has internationally-renowned scholars with excellent track records for securing research funding, producing outstanding sociological research, and extensively mentoring our graduate students. Our collegial atmosphere encourages innovation and rigour in research and teaching. Our community of scholars includes over 75 faculty members, outstanding postdoctoral scholars, and approximately 110 creative and engaged graduate students.

The Transitional Year Programme is a full-time, eight-month access-to-University program intended for adults who do not have the formal qualifications for university admission. It is meant for those who did not have an opportunity to finish high school because of financial problems, family difficulties or other circumstances beyond their control. The Program actively encourage applications from members of the Indigenous, Black and LGBTQ communities, sole-support parents, persons with disabilities, neurodiversity, and individuals from working-class backgrounds of all ethnicities. Admitting about 50 students each year, TYP provides each student with academic coaching, access to social work and counselling support, need-based bursaries, and space to work, socialize, and be with other students in their program. For more information about the Transitional Year Program, see http://typ.utoronto.ca/.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a current curriculum vitae; and a complete teaching dossier to include a strong teaching statement, sample syllabi and course materials, and teaching evaluations. Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto’s recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each once an application is submitted (this happens overnight). Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date. At least one reference letter must primarily address the candidate’s teaching.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uott.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact Tina Colomvakos at tina.colomvakos@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by October 11, 2022.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Job Description:
The Questrom School of Business at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in Management and Organizations, pending Provost budgetary approval. The department seeks to add to its vibrant community of scholars. We will prioritize applicants working in areas related to (a) Human Capital (including the Future of Work), (b) Diversity, Inclusion and Equality, and/or (c) Cooperation and Conflict (including teams and ethics).

We actively seek to diversify our faculty and student ranks, recognizing that diversity of experience deepens the intellectual endeavor and can be a source of insight and excellence. We seek to cultivate an inclusive atmosphere of respect for all individuals without barriers to participation or access.

The anticipated start date for this faculty position is July 1, 2023.

Prospective candidates should have the following:

- A Ph.D. in management or a related field, such as psychology or sociology.
- High potential for producing original and innovative scholarly work of the highest quality and impact.
- High potential for teaching effectiveness at the undergraduate and/or graduate levels.
- A desire to contribute to the intellectual community of the M&O department and the School of Business.
- A commitment to our institutional values regarding diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Interested candidates should send the following by email (qstmo@bu.edu) to Professor Evan Apfelbaum, Chair of the Search Committee:

- A cover letter stating the position, their interest, and qualifications
- A curriculum vitae
- Statements of research and teaching interests and accomplishments, including teaching evaluations if available
- Representative publications and/or working papers
- Three letters of recommendation

Application Deadline: We will accept applications until the position is filled, although first consideration will be given to completed applications received by September 15, 2022.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VETRAA Federal Contractor.

Job Description:
The Strategy & Innovation Department at the Boston University Questrom School of Business invites applications for a tenured Associate Professor position in Strategy. Pending Provost budgetary approval, this position will begin July 1, 2023 for the Fall semester at Boston University.

The S&I Department places particular emphasis on the study of innovation and strategy in different kinds of organizations and the role of technological change in creating new industries and shaping existing ones. The department’s faculty represents an interdisciplinary group of researchers with backgrounds in strategy, economics, sociology and organizational theory. We believe that the cultural and social diversity of our faculty, staff, and students is vitally important to the distinction and excellence of our research and academic programs. BU has redoubled its commitment to more fully embody its founding principles, and we welcome new colleagues who have interest in joining us in this project. To that end, we are especially eager to have join our ranks a colleague who supports our institutional commitment to ensuring that BU is inclusive, equitable, and diverse institution.

Prospective candidates must demonstrate the ability to produce original and innovative scholarly work of the highest possible quality and impact; a PhD degree in business, management, or other closely-related areas from a research university is required.

Special consideration will be given to applicants whose research focuses on areas of strategic emphasis for the Questrom School of Business (such as health and life sciences, digital technologies, and sustainability and social impact), who can contribute to building the department's capabilities in entrepreneurship and global business, and who possess demonstrated teaching abilities at the undergraduate and graduate level. Interest and experience with modalities such as online would be appreciated. Salary will be commensurate with experience.

Interested applicants should send (a) a current curriculum vitae, (b) at least one recent scholarly article, and (c) three letters of recommendation by October 1, 2022 directly to: strategy@bu.edu.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Global and Transnational Sociology
Salary Range: $60,000 - $69,999
Submission Link: https://apply.interfolio.com/111424

Job Description:

Sociology Tenure-Track position in Global and Transnational Sociology

The Department of Sociology & Anthropology at DePauw University invites applications for a tenure-track position in sociology at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in August 2023. A Ph.D. in sociology (by the time of appointment) is preferred; ABD also will be considered at the rank of Instructor. The successful candidate will have an innovative research agenda and teaching experience related to global and transnational sociology. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more additional departmental areas including social movements; social justice; refugee and migration studies; political sociology; economic sociology; and the sociology of labor and work. Candidates should be willing to develop syllabi that engage and emphasize these areas. We seek candidates with pedagogical commitments to racial and social justice.

Candidates must be able to contribute to teaching all sociology core courses including introductory sociology, social theory, research methods both quantitative and qualitative, and senior seminar. A commitment to teaching undergraduates in a liberal arts environment and evidence of effective teaching are essential along with an ongoing commitment to inclusive pedagogy and high-impact practices in teaching and learning. This position includes employee health and retirement benefits, mentoring, and faculty development funding. The teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester, in addition to a half-credit course taught every third year during DePauw’s January or May term.

DePauw University is a leading, nationally-recognized liberal arts university dedicated to educating just over 1,600 highly talented, motivated, and diverse students from across the country and around the globe. Connected to the liberal arts college is one of the nation’s first Schools of Music. For 185 years, DePauw has created an atmosphere of intellectual challenge and social engagement that prepares students for lifelong success. Located in Greencastle, Indiana, about a 45-minute drive west of Indianapolis, DePauw is a member of the Great Lakes Colleges Association. DePauw has an ongoing commitment to diversity and seeks to strengthen our institution through equitable and inclusive practices. Please see this profile for more information about DePauw University.

Application Instructions

Applications should be submitted through Interfolio (https://apply.interfolio.com/111424) and include: cover letter, CV, one-page teaching philosophy, one-page research statement, contact information for three references, sample course syllabi, course evaluations, and a copy of graduate transcript(s). Candidates should be able to demonstrate, in application materials, a commitment to fostering an engagement with a diversity of ideas and experiences, which promote an inclusive environment in the classroom and at the University. Review of applications begins October 1, 2022 and continues until filled. Questions may be directed to the Chair of the Sociology & Anthropology Department, Lydia Marshall, at lydiamarshall@depauw.edu.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

DePauw University, in affirmation of its commitment to excellence, endeavors to provide equal opportunity for all individuals in its hiring, promotion, compensation and admission procedures. Institutional decisions regarding hiring, promotion, compensation and admission will be based upon a person's qualifications and/or performance without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, disability, age, gender, gender identity or expression, except where religion, gender, or national origin is a bona fide occupational qualification.

DePauw University's goals and commitments are best served if the institution reflects the diversity of our society; hence, DePauw seeks diversity in all areas and levels of employment and abides by all local, state and federal regulations concerning equal employment opportunities. The University admits, hires and promotes individuals upon their qualities and merits.

Job Description:

Position Summary
The Center is seeking a Research Associate with expertise in studying the experiences of Asian Americans and other racial and ethnic groups in the United States. This position will have the opportunity to play a key role in the Center's multi-year, cross-team research agenda on race and ethnicity in the U.S. The position will contribute to identifying key research questions, designing appropriate research strategies, conducting statistical analysis, preparing findings of that analysis for consumption by the media and general public, and reviewing pertinent literature. The Research Associate is also expected to engage in outreach to key audiences and stakeholders. This position reports to the Director of Race and Ethnicity research.

Primary Responsibilities

- (45%) Oversee the development and execution of original research focused on race and ethnicity. The Research Associate will be involved in all aspects of the research process, including management of research projects, designing and drafting poll questionnaires, performing statistical analysis, and helping to write and review reports. In addition, the Research Associate works to ensure various forms of data consistently meet Pew Research Center quality standards. Experience with qualitative research methods and secondary data analysis at the national, state and other levels is desirable, but not required.
- (40%) Write and prepare materials for reports and presentations, including preparation of memos, tables and graphs based on findings; manage the number checking process for reports and commentaries. Consistently exercise sound editorial judgement -- in line with the Center's style and voice -- when reporting findings.
- (15%) Respond to outside queries and represent the Center externally.

Education/Training/Experience

- BA required, advanced degree preferred.
- 5-9 years of research experience, with at least 3-5 years of specialized research and analysis experience expected. Often includes significant graduate training at the PhD level or equivalent experience in an applied setting.
- Subject matter expertise related to Asian Americans and other racial and ethnic groups in the U.S.
- Proven ability to independently design and manage research projects.
- Proven ability to undertake research involving quantitative data analysis is crucial, including using SPSS, Stata, R, Excel or other analytical software programs.

Knowledge and Skill Requirements

- Strong quantitative skills, including an ability to use various statistical programs to organize and analyze large amounts of data.
- Strong verbal and written communications skills.
- Ability to balance numerous projects simultaneously.
- Strong project management skills.
- Attention to detail, including exacting standards to maintain accuracy and impartiality in all work products.
- Ability to work well in a team setting.

FLSA Status: Exempt
Starting Salary: $93,000/year

Application Procedure
Click on the Apply button, and complete required fields. Both cover letter and resume are required.

When requested, please upload a copy of your resume/cv, as well as a copy of your cover letter in the section labeled Resume/Cover Letter. If the documents have successfully uploaded, you should see 2 attached files beneath the “Drop files here” box. Please make sure you have uploaded a resume AND a cover letter before moving on to the next page.

Total Rewards
In addition to competitive pay, Pew Research Center's employees enjoy a robust total rewards package that includes:

- Affordable, comprehensive health care that includes medical, dental (including adult orthodontia) and vision benefits.

Generous paid annual leave plan, including a winter break between Dec. 25 and Jan. 1

Employer-paid disability, life insurance and paid family leave plans

Up to a 12% employer 401(k) contribution, with vesting at the end of the first year.

A 37.5-hour workweek.

Health savings or flexible spending account options with employer funding component.

Flexibility to telework up to 60% for most staff

Job 18187: Assistant Professor of Indigenous Environmental Studies

Date Position is Available: Summer 2022
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/11/2022 to 9/10/2022
Institution: The Ohio State University
Department:
Region: All US Regions
Title: Assistant Professor of Indigenous Environmental Studies
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Environmental Sociology
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link:
Job Description:

Department:
FAES | School of Environment and Natural Resources

The School of Environment and Natural Resources (SENR) is seeking an Assistant Professor of Indigenous Environmental Studies to begin in Fall 2023. This position is a full-time, 9-month, tenure-track position. We seek an individual who can build creative partnerships in teaching, outreach, and research that respect the debt the Land Grant University system owes to Indigenous communities and inspire new approaches and philosophies that will contribute towards repaying that debt. Preference will be given to candidates whose training, doctoral research, and experience is firmly integrated with and informed by Indigenous people and has the potential to develop or further deepen connections with tribes.

The successful candidate will have a strong research and teaching background that supports Indigenous-focused, place-based, experiential, and inquiry driven pedagogies. In addition, the successful candidate will be able to engage in place-based and culturally informed pedagogy in their respective field and be familiar with Indigenous Research Theory and Methods. The successful candidate will be expected to develop a nationally recognized program at the nexus of racial/ethnic disparity and climate change as characterized through the lens of either social sciences or natural sciences (and potentially both). SENR aspires to develop reciprocity with Tribal Nations at all stages of research and recognizes that Indigenous communities maintain data sovereignty. The candidate will also be invited to collaborate with the Byrd Polar and Climate Research Center to help build mutually beneficial partnerships with Indigenous communities and advance dialogues (e.g., “two-eyed seeing”) between Western science and traditional ways of knowing.

This position is one of three faculty appointments in the Climate, Race and Place cluster hire to advance climate justice at The Ohio State University (OSU), and is part of a broader Race, Inclusion and Social Equity (RAISE) initiative focused on narrowing a range of disparities. This Assistant Professor position is available with the option to be hired into the Provost’s Tenure-Track Fellow to Faculty Program with an appointment to a mentored position as an instructor in the tenure track for up to two-years before transitioning to the Assistant Professor position.

Required Qualifications:
- Ph.D. in indigenous studies, climate science, environmental studies, sociology, or related environmental or social science field. Experience conducting research related to any aspect of climate change (social, biophysical, environmental, etc.) and integrated with Indigenous populations
- Evidence of potential for excellence in teaching and research
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills
- Willingness and ability to work closely with other people
- Demonstrable interest in and/or experience with teaching, recruiting, mentoring, and advising diverse underserved students, including women, students of color, and non-traditional students
- Proven track record of incorporating Indigenous knowledge into research and the potential to develop deep connections with tribes

Preferred Qualifications:
- Expertise that incorporates an understanding of climate change along with one or more of the following areas: Native identity, tribal sovereignty, decolonization, Indigenous rights, tribal needs and values, intellectual property, Indigenous participation in environmental planning or development, language preservation, health disparities in Native communities, or colonial and postcolonial relations among Indigenous and non-Indigenous groups.
- Experience integrating research and teaching
- Teaching and research philosophies that are collaborative, participatory, and focused on community participation and/or action
- Experience or demonstrated interest in working with natural and social scientists on interdisciplinary research teams.

Expectations and Responsibilities:

- Develop, refine, and teach new and existing courses that align with and/or enhance SENRs undergraduate and graduate teaching programs (~3 courses per year). Candidates will have autonomy to establish courses in line with their fields of interest and are encouraged to suggest courses that may be of interest to reshape, co-teach or implement as part of their application.
- Contribute to the research goals of the SENR and the College of Food, Agriculture and Environmental Sciences
- Advise undergraduate and graduate students and curriculum development
- Secure extramural funding for research activities
- Develop a strong publication record in scientific journals and other appropriate venues
- Work collaboratively with other university faculty/personnel, including on interdisciplinary teams, and with researchers in government agencies, non-government organizations, and community groups to advance the university’s mission
- Serve the university and professional communities through appropriate activities
- Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion: The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status. The university, the College of Food, Agricultural and Environmental Sciences and the School of Environment and Natural Resources are committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment and we encourage all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium.

Salary/Support: Salary is dependent on qualifications and experience. The Ohio State University offers one of the most comprehensive benefits packages in the nation, which includes medical, dental, vision, and life insurance; tuition authorization; paid vacation and sick leave; ten paid holidays; and State Teachers Retirement System of Ohio (STRS) or an Alternative Retirement Program. A start-up package, including discretionary funding, will be provided.

Application: Include a curriculum vita and a letter of interest that briefly discusses how the applicant aligns with each of the preferred qualifications; specific sections should address research (e.g., research interest and publication experience, potential for grant-funding) and teaching (e.g., evidence of and/or commitment to teaching). Candidates should include in application materials a statement addressing their experience in promoting equity and inclusion, and how we can collectively achieve mutually beneficial goals for Indigenous communities, the environment, and our university. Also include in the application packet digital copies of or links to three relevant publications or professional reports. Provide contact information for three references; however, letters of recommendation will only be requested if candidates advance to the stage of interview. Any questions, please direct to: Steve Lyon, lyon.248@osu.edu and Kerry Ard, ard.7@osu.edu, Search Committee Chairs

https://osujoblinks.com/gap2

Application deadline: Review of applications will begin September 15, 2022 and continue until a qualified candidate is identified.

Additional Information:

Ohio State is focused on enhancing the health and safety of our community. Therefore, the university is requiring every student, faculty and staff member to be compliant with Ohio State’s COVID-19 vaccine requirement.

By the start of employment, all newly hired employees must receive at least the first dose of a two-dose series or a single dose of a one-dose series COVID-19 vaccination. Individuals who choose a two-dose series vaccination must receive the second dose within 45 days of their start date. Proof of vaccination will be required at time of hire.

Candidates may request a medical or religious exemption from the vaccination requirement. Campus employees may also request an exemption for personal reasons. Ohio State Wexner Medical Center, College of Medicine or OSUP Employees are not eligible for personal exemptions. All exemptions are subject to Ohio State’s approval and subject to change, including revocation, due to legal and regulatory requirements.

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ancestry, color, disability, ethnicity, gender identity or expression, genetic information, HIV/AIDS status, military status, national origin, race, religion, sex, gender, sexual orientation, pregnancy, protected veteran status, or any other bases under the law. Applicants are encouraged to complete and submit the Equal Employment Identification form.

Position/Rank: Assistant Professor
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:
The Environmental Studies Program at Washington and Lee University invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the assistant professor level beginning 1 July 2023.

We would like to recruit a new colleague with a background in environmental sociology and an emphasis on environmental justice and policy. We seek candidates whose scholarship identifies current and historical environmental inequities to support policy creation for environmental progress and restorative justice. We welcome applications from scholars working in all areas of environmental justice, particularly candidates working with Native American or Indigenous communities. The faculty member's course load will include core courses in Environmental Studies and elective courses cross-listed in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology. In addition to courses in their area of expertise, the new hire will be expected to teach Introduction to Environmental Studies, a 200-level core course in environmental social sciences, and contribute to the senior capstone course. The ideal candidate will be a dynamic, creative teacher-scholar committed to high-quality undergraduate education and student-faculty research.

To achieve our mission as a liberal arts college, the Environmental Studies Program strives to foster an inclusive campus and to advance diverse perspectives within the program and its curriculum. We are committed to preparing our students for engaged environmental citizenship by creating an educational community that is rich with cultural, social, and intellectual diversity. In keeping with the University Strategic Plan, we welcome applications from underrepresented minority candidates and members of other communities that are traditionally underrepresented in academia.

respectfully acknowledge that Washington and Lee University exists on the homelands of the Yesa and their descendants, among them the Monacan people.

Qualifications

Faculty Positions in Organizational Behavior

The Yale School of Management (SOM) is soliciting applications for tenure-track faculty in Organizational Behavior (OB). The search is open to candidates at all ranks. Macro, Meso, and Micro scholars are encouraged to apply.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. or equivalent degree (or will earn the degree within one semester from the start of the appointment) in Organizational Behavior or a field that is broadly related, including psychology, sociology, management, public health, education, and the many related disciplines that inform how groups organize.

Applicants for tenured positions (full professor) are expected to have demonstrated intellectual leadership, placing them among the very top candidates nationally or internationally in their chosen area of study. Applicants for assistant or associate professor positions are expected to have demonstrated promise for eventually achieving that level of distinction and accomplishment in their scholarship. The position also requires effectively teaching MBA and/or Ph.D.-level courses and advising and mentoring graduate students.

The mission of SOM is educating leaders for business and society. Faculty in the organizational behavior group embody this mission in their scholarship, teaching, and service. Diversity, equity, and inclusion are central to the OB group and School of Management. Appointment terms This is a full-time, tenure-track faculty position located at the Yale School of Management in New Haven, Connecticut. Appointments will be made for the 2023-2024 fiscal year, beginning July 1, 2023.

To Apply For the Assistant or Associate Professor position, visit: https://apply.interfolio.com/111018
For the Tenured Professor position, visit: https://apply.interfolio.com/111019

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and at least two samples of their research for initial screening. Applications will be accepted until September 15, 2022. Qualified candidates being considered for the position will be contacted for additional materials, including references. For candidates applying to the assistant/associate position, three letters of recommendation are required.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Job Description:

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University invites applications for a faculty position in “cyber and security” to begin in July 2023. We are seeking applicants whose research focuses on various aspects of the intersection between cyber technologies and human security. Research of interest includes, but is not limited to, topics such as the impact of algorithm-based surveillance on marginalized communities, the strategic manipulation of cyber information for geopolitical gain, the intersection between social media and surveillance, the implications of autonomous weapons systems and drone warfare, and the development of offensive and defensive cyber weaponry.

This faculty position will involve a joint appointment between the Watson Institute and a relevant tenure-granting disciplinary department at Brown. We welcome applicants with doctoral degrees from all relevant disciplines, including STEM fields (e.g., Computer Science, Applied Mathematics, etc.) and the social sciences (e.g., Sociology, Economics, Political Science, Anthropology, History, Africana Studies). The Watson Institute is especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute through their research, teaching, and service to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. The Watson Institute is especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute through their research, teaching, and service to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. The Watson Institute is committed to diversity and inclusion, and welcomes applications from members of historically underrepresented groups.

Candidates at all ranks are welcome. A successful senior candidate must have an outstanding record of scholarly achievement, a proven record of successful research funding, and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising. A successful junior candidate must be engaged in a research program with the potential to influence their field, and a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and advising.

Junior candidates must have completed their PhD by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin on Sept. 23, 2022, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing research completed and planned, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a short writing sample, and 4) a teaching statement. We ask that in both the cover letter and teaching statement, the candidate describe how their work fosters inclusive learning and diversity.

Senior candidates should include the names of five references whom the search committee can contact at an appropriate time. The list of references can be submitted via the "additional documents" field in Interfolio.

Junior candidates should have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of the application. The confidential recommendation letters should be uploaded to Interfolio by the referee.

Brown University is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community; as an EEO/AA employer, Brown considers applicants for employment without regard to, and does not discriminate on the basis of, gender, race, protected veteran status, disability, or any other legally protected status.

Employer Description:

Housed at Brown University, the Watson Institute benefits from the resources—both academic and human—of a top-tier research university known for its commitment to serving the community, the nation, and the world.

In keeping with this ethos, the Watson Institute seeks to promote a just and peaceful world through research, teaching, and public engagement. The Watson Institute is a community of scholars, practitioners, and students whose work aims to help us understand and address these critical challenges. It is dedicated to meaningful social science research and teaching, and animated by the conviction that informed policy can change systems and societies for the better.

Job 18173: Two Assistant Professor Positions in Sociology & Criminology with expertise in Stratification and Inequality

Date: Thursday, September 1, 2022

97. Butler University

Job Description:
The Department of Sociology and Criminology at Butler University has openings for two tenure-track faculty members with expertise in Stratification and Inequality. We seek candidates with strong research agendas and a commitment to inclusive, excellent undergraduate teaching to join our department at the level of Assistant Professor starting August 2023.

The successful candidates will have research specializations and teaching interests in one or more of the following areas: Race/Ethnicity, Class, and Gender; Urban Community; Global/Transnational Sociology; Immigration; Crime/Victimization; Law and Society; Public Policy; Political Sociology; and Social Movements. Special consideration will be given to candidates who provide evidence of promising research and teaching agendas in these areas, infuse critical perspectives in their scholarship and teaching, and can contribute courses toward our growing major in Criminology. Strong methodological skills (both qualitative and quantitative) are also preferred, as are candidates with an interest in exploring service-learning opportunities.

The teaching load for tenure-track faculty is 3 courses per semester. In addition to teaching courses in their respective sub-fields there may also be opportunities to teach required sociology courses (i.e. Introduction to Sociology, Theory, Research Methods, Senior Seminar), to develop additional courses in criminology, as well as to contribute to interdisciplinary programs in International Studies, Race, Gender, and Sexuality Studies, and/or Science, Technology, and Environmental Studies. Ideal candidates will have a commitment to directing undergraduate research and internships, implementing other engaged-learning pedagogies, and will have a record of supporting BIPOC, working class, and first-generation students. Candidates should have earned a Ph.D. in Sociology before August 1, 2023, and preference will be given to those who demonstrate a commitment to building an inclusive learning environment for an increasingly diverse student population.

Housed in Butler University’s College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the Department of Sociology and Criminology has six full-time faculty. We offer degrees in sociology and criminology, with an optional concentration in social work and social policy within the sociology major as well as combined majors with psychology. The Department is committed to intersectional and critical approaches to the study of stratification and inequality, and is keenly interested in diversifying its faculty. Thus, we encourage applications from members of historically underrepresented groups in higher education. For more information about the department, see: https://www.butler.edu/artsci-sciences/sociology-criminology.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, transcripts of graduate work, teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching excellence, a representative sample of scholarly work, as well as a statement of research plans and a teaching philosophy that provides evidence of their commitment to fostering inclusive learning. Shortlisted candidates will be asked to provide at least three letters of recommendation.

Job Application:
Application materials should be sent electronically to soc-application@butler.edu. For questions about the position, contact Dr. Stephen Barnard, Department Chair and chair of the Search Committee: barnard2@butler.edu. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2022 and continue until the positions are filled.

Employer Description:
Butler University is a comprehensive, liberal arts-based institution with a student population of 5500 (4500 undergraduate), located in a residential area of Indianapolis. Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Racial and Ethnic Relations, Criminal Justice
Salary Range: $60,000 - $69,999

Job Description:

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Department of Sociology & Anthropology at the College of the Holy Cross invites applications for a Two-Year Postdoctoral Teaching Fellowship in Sociology, with a focus on racialized aspects of the carceral state, to begin in August 2023. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching interests focus on racial inequalities in the criminal justice system including but not limited to policing and surveillance, mass incarceration, historical or contemporary criminalization of racial minorities (Black, Indigenous, Latinx, Asian, Immigrant, adult and/or juvenile), racialized gender inequalities in criminal justice, and/or criminalization of political activists. We encourage scholars who address these phenomena from a critical race, intersectional, feminist, and/or decolonial perspective to apply.

This position carries a 2-1 teaching load and includes conference travel support, a $2,000 faculty development account to support the fellow’s scholarship, and the opportunity to apply to the Committee on Faculty Scholarship for additional funding. Post-doctoral fellows are eligible for reimbursement of relocation costs within the College’s published policies. All full-time appointments offer competitive salaries and include full benefits. To learn more about faculty life at the College & the Worcester area, candidates are encouraged to visit http://holycross.edu/join.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must demonstrate commitment to, and either excellence in or potential for, undergraduate teaching at the introductory and advanced levels as well as scholarly achievement. Ph.D. in Sociology required. Strong preference will be given to those who have received their Ph.D. between January 1, 2019 and September 1, 2023. Ph.D. must be completed by start date.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Please submit a cover letter addressing the position requirements listed above, curriculum vitae, statement on teaching, transcripts, and three confidential letters of recommendation. In your cover letter, in addition to describing your research and teaching interests, please address the ways you might contribute to and further the College’s mission as a Jesuit, undergraduate liberal arts college (see: http://holycross.edu/mission), and its core commitment to diversity and inclusion. Previous teaching experience or advising diverse students is an asset. For more information, please visit http://holycross.edu/diversity.

The College of the Holy Cross uses Interfolio to collect all faculty job applications electronically. Please submit all application materials to https://apply.interfolio.com/111005.

Review of applications will begin on October 1 and continue until the position has been filled. Initial interviews of selected applicants will take place in early November. We will conduct these preliminary interviews by Zoom. Questions about this search may be directed to Melissa F. Weiner at mfweiner@holycross.edu.

Employer Description:

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYMENT STATEMENT

The College of the Holy Cross is a highly selective Catholic liberal arts college in the Jesuit tradition. It enrolls about 3,100 students and is located in Worcester, Massachusetts, a medium-sized city 45 miles west of Boston. The College seeks faculty members whose scholarship, teaching, advising, and on- and off-campus service demonstrate commitment to the educational benefits of a richly diverse community.

COVID-19 VACCINATION POLICY

To mitigate the spread and effects of COVID-19, and as an integral part of its public health and safety measures, College of the Holy Cross requires that all successful applicants show proof of full, up-to-date vaccination (including a booster dose once eligible) by an FDA-approved COVID-19 vaccine before beginning employment, unless an accommodation exempting the applicant from this policy has been granted. Applicants who wish to request an accommodation based on a disability or sincerely-held religious belief should inform Human Resources after an offer of employment is extended; please do not include any medical, genetic, or religious information in your application materials.

Job Description:
The Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy in the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in the area of Global Affairs. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2023. The successful candidate may be appointed as the endowed Munk Chair in Global Affairs for a five-year term.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. in any social sciences field relating to Global Affairs or a related area such as Economics, Political Science, or Sociology, with a clearly demonstrated exceptional record of excellence in research and teaching. The Munk School seeks a scholar whose research and teaching interests complement and enhance one or more of our existing strengths, which include the Future of Democratic Societies, the Changing World Order, the Political Economy of Innovation, and the Digital World. Candidates will have an established international reputation and will be expected to sustain and lead innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to maintain an outstanding, competitive, externally funded research program. The Committee especially welcomes candidates whose work focuses on global regulation of data, international standard setting, or the governance of technology platforms, in combination with research on global politics, industry, trade, inequality, and international organizations.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of sustained high-impact contributions and publications in top-ranked disciplinary and/or field-relevant academic journals or academic presses, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, distinguished awards and accolades, and other noteworthy activities that contribute to the visibility and prominence of the discipline, as well as strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated through teaching accomplishments, through the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application including a teaching statement, sample course materials, teaching evaluations, and through endorsements of teaching in the letters of reference.

Applicants are also expected to show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment demonstrated through the application materials.

The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate courses, including in the Munk School’s professional graduate programs (the Master of Global Affairs and the Master of Public Policy) to students from a wide range of academic backgrounds and interests. The successful candidate will have experience or demonstrable interest in a professional school and/or in an interdisciplinary environment.

Salary and rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

For more information about the Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy at the University of Toronto St. George campus, please visit our home page at https://munkschool.utoronto.ca/.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; curriculum vitae; writing sample; teaching dossier (including a teaching statement and sample course materials and teaching evaluations); and a research statement outlining current and future research interests. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto’s recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each after an application is submitted (this happens overnight). Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in the PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact munkschool.academic@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by Thursday September 22, 2022.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement:
The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ2S+ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement:
The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.
The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

Salary Range: Negotiable

Submission Link: http://apply.interfolio.com/110653

Job Description:

As part of a major hiring initiative, The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University invites applications for multiple Lecturer positions in the areas of Development, Security, and Governance. These full-time faculty positions -- open to rank (i.e., Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, Distinguished Senior Lecturer) -- are focused on teaching, advising, and teaching-related administration in the Watson Institute's undergraduate International and Public Affairs program.

For each position, the initial appointment is for three years, and is renewable at regular intervals of three to six years. Appointments for these positions will begin on July 1, 2023.

We welcome applicants whose teaching expertise intersects with any of the Watson Institute's core research areas in Development, Governance, and Security. The Watson Institute is especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute through their research, teaching, and service to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. The Watson Institute is committed to diversity and inclusion, and welcomes applications from members of historically underrepresented groups.

For at least one of these positions, we particularly seek applicants with expertise in international security broadly defined, including but not limited to grand strategy and geopolitical rivalry, civil war and post-war reconstruction, defense policy and military intervention, nuclear proliferation and deterrence, terrorism and counterterrorism, cybersecurity and surveillance, and resource conflicts and the security implications of climate change.

Also, for at least one of these positions, we seek applicants who, in addition to their excellence in teaching, have a demonstrated record of academic administration in undergraduate education. Such a record might include prior service as director of undergraduate studies in an academic department, director of a multi-disciplinary undergraduate major/concentration, or director of undergraduate advising.

Applicants must have a PhD in the social sciences or related disciplines. Current PhD candidates must have the degree in hand by the time of appointment.

All candidates should submit: 1) a cover letter describing relevant professional and teaching experience, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) a teaching statement. Candidates should also have three letters of reference and their official graduate transcript uploaded to Interfolio at the time of application.

Review of applications will begin on September 23, 2022, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Job 18176: Assistant Professor of Sociology

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/9/2022 to 10/9/2022
Institution: California State University, Fullerton
Department: Sociology
Region: West
Title: Assistant Professor of Sociology
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Education, Criminology/Delinquency
Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:
The Department of Sociology invites applicants with primary teaching and research specialties in the Sociology of Education. A secondary area in the Sociology of Crime and Deviance is especially desirable. We are particularly interested in candidates who are teacher-scholars with a commitment to critical perspectives and social justice.

CSUF faculty are committed teacher-scholars who bring research and creative discovery to life for students in classrooms, labs, studios, and individually mentored projects. The primary responsibilities of the person in this position will include the development and teaching of undergraduate and graduate courses in their substantive area, as well as core courses in the discipline, and the development of courses in their area(s) of specialization. We are specifically looking for those candidates enthusiastic about teaching Sociology of Education at both the undergraduate and graduate level. We particularly welcome candidates who can also teach one or more of the following courses: Deviant Behavior, Law and Society, Criminology, Mass Incarceration, Juvenile Delinquency, or The American Drug Scene. Faculty generally teach 3 classes per semester. A reduced teaching load is provided for the first two years. This person will also be responsible for engaging in scholarly endeavors resulting in peer-reviewed publications commensurate with the requirements for tenure. Candidates must provide evidence of an ability to work collaboratively in an interdisciplinary and student-centered environment. The successful candidate will also be expected to contribute to and participate in the life and development of the department, work with graduate students and supervise M.A. theses and projects, serve on committees, and participate in the broader university and disciplinary communities.

Employer Description:
California State University, Fullerton (CSUF) is a minority-serving institution and an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer. CSUF is strongly committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community and the curriculum, and to fostering an inclusive environment within which students, staff, administrators, and faculty thrive. CSUF serves one of the largest student bodies in the 23-campus California State University (CSU) system, with an enrollment of over 40,000 students. The CSU is currently engaged in a directed multi-year initiative to improve graduation rates for all students with a particular focus on first-generation college students, low-socioeconomic students, Latinx, African American and Native American students. Candidates who can contribute to this goal through equity-minded teaching, critical scholarship, advising, and other activities are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences in this area. Individuals advancing the University’s strategic diversity goals and those from groups whose underrepresentation in the American professoriate has been severe and longstanding are particularly encouraged to apply.

Job Description:
The Department of Sociology at Dartmouth College invites applications for a full-time tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor beginning Fall 2023. We seek scholars who have a teaching and research focus on South Asia. We are open to a wide range of methodological and substantive approaches, including but certainly not limited to: Comparative Historical Sociology, Demography, Gender, Urban Sociology, Migration, and Social Movements. Sociology at Dartmouth is a vibrant intellectual community with scholars spanning four broad research areas: health, political and economic sociology, race and ethnicity, and social psychology. For more information about our department, please visit: http://sociology.dartmouth.edu/. The person in this position will teach courses in Sociology and in conjunction with Dartmouth’s interdisciplinary Asian Societies, Cultures, and Languages Program (ASCL). ASCL boasts a strong resource commitment to South Asian programming and an active South Asian student community. For more information about ASCL, please visit: https://ascl.dartmouth.edu/. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in Sociology or a closely related field before the appointment begins. For a complete position description, please visit: http://apply.interfolio.com/111087. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2022 and continue until the position is filled.

Employer Description:
Dartmouth combines the best qualities of a liberal arts teaching environment with excellent support for research. These goals are facilitated by the school’s resource-rich research environment as well as the quarter system, which allows the four course annual classroom teaching load to be covered in two ten-week terms with a third term in residence for research and other departmental obligations and a fourth term off.

Job 18165: Assistant Teaching Professor

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/8/2022 to 9/7/2022
Institution: Wake Forest University
Department: Center of Entrepreneurship
Region: Southeast
Title: Assistant Teaching Professor
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas
Salary Range: $30,000 - $39,999

Job Description:

The Center for Entrepreneurship at Wake Forest University invites applications for an Assistant Teaching Professor faculty position in any area related to entrepreneurship to begin in the fall semester of 2023. This full-time, non-tenure track position with benefits offers an initial two-year appointment with possibility of renewal and promotion on a teaching-centered career path. Because this is a teaching-centric role, responsibilities are divided 80% teaching and 20% service. The course load is 3 per semester (a 3:3 load), including development and delivery of two FYS (“first year seminar”) courses. The person in this role will also contribute to the co-curricular programming of the Center for Entrepreneurship. The successful candidate will diversify our team through their expertise and will provide significant educational contributions in support of our students’ development as entrepreneurs and entrepreneurial leaders.

As a collegiate university, WFU combines the tradition and intimacy of a small liberal arts college (approximately 5200 undergraduates and 3200 graduate and professional students in the Schools of Medicine, Law, Divinity, and Business) with the innovation and vitality of a research university. Embracing WFU’s culture as a leading collegiate university in the US (https://admissions.wfu.edu/facts/), the Center of Entrepreneurship is part of the undergraduate College, which prides itself in realizing the university motto of Pro Humanitate (for humanity) through its commitment to the engaged liberal arts and the teacher-scholar ideal.

The Center for Entrepreneurship offers an exciting interdisciplinary minor that draws over 300 students (49% female and 19% ethnic minorities) who are majors across 27 disciplines, including History, Sociology, Psychology, Business, Communication, Engineering, and Environmental Science and Sustainability, providing a rich environment for diverse perspectives and collaborations to identify high impact solutions to high impact problems for the betterment of our world. In addition to our undergraduate minor, we offer a robust set of co-curricular programs that draw creatively on the liberal arts to prepare ethical and effective entrepreneurs. If selected, you will be joining a dynamic program that is on the rise nationally, having been up for four major awards at key conferences over the past four years.

We welcome candidates with a Masters or Ph.D. in entrepreneurship, sociology, communication, engineering, psychology, gender and women’s studies, education, arts, management, and organizational behavior, among other fields who specialize in or have a significant interest in working across disciplines to pursue entrepreneurship-related teaching. Compelling applicants will demonstrate an openness to interdisciplinary engagement and a commitment to excellence in teaching and mentoring undergraduate students from diverse backgrounds, including international students, first-generation students, and those who identify as members of historically marginalized communities. Additionally, Wake Forest seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce, and encourages qualified candidates across all group demographics to apply.

To apply:

To apply, please submit the following in ONE PDF FILE to http://www.wfu.careers: 1) a cover letter addressed to the members of the search committee that speaks to your motivation for joining our team and your suitability for this job posting; 2) a curriculum vitae with an accompanying list of 3-5 references; 3) a teaching statement that addresses the candidate’s philosophy on teaching and learning as well as a plan to establish an inclusive classroom culture and one that infuses the liberal arts; and 4) evidence of successful student engagement, such as student evaluations or student letters of support (if available). References will only be contacted with prior approval of the applicant. Aside from the CV and student evaluations, all other documents should not exceed 2 pages each.

The position is scheduled to begin on July 1, 2023. Review of applications will begin on September 15, and will continue until the position is filled with new applications reviewed on a regular cycle.

Inquiries about the application process and document submission may be addressed to wakejobs@wfu.edu. Inquiries about the position in general can be directed to Cindy Baker (bakerc@wfu.edu – the Center for Entrepreneurship Administrative Coordinator) who will direct the inquiry to the appropriate person.

Essential Functions:
Teaches six courses per year (a 3:3 load), including two FYS ("first year seminar") courses.

Provides academic advising to minors in Entrepreneurship.

Works with the Executive Director and Faculty Director of the Center for Entrepreneurship to identify and develop courses that complement the minor.

Attends meetings, retreats, and convenings of the Center for Entrepreneurship and College faculty.

Provide service to the Center for Entrepreneurship and the College.

Meets as needed with the Directors of the Center for Entrepreneurship and related faculty and staff.

Performs other duties as needed.

Required Education, Knowledge, Skills, Abilities:

- Masters or Ph.D. in entrepreneurship, sociology, communication, engineering, psychology, education, arts, management, organizational behavior, among other fields.
- Teaching, research, or applied expertise related to entrepreneurship.
- Commitment to interdisciplinary teaching and engagement.
  - Record of or potential for excellent undergraduate teaching and mentoring and a commitment to developing creative pedagogy.
  - Commitment to supporting the intellectual and entrepreneurial development of undergraduate students.
- Experience with, and sensitivity to, diverse populations and the ability to build inclusive and equitable communities where differences are appreciated and engaged.
- Demonstrated ability to:
  - Be a constructive and collaborative member of a team.
  - Positively influence colleagues and develop collaborative relationships with a wide range of people.

Employer Description:

About Us:

Located in Winston-Salem, NC (“The City of Arts and Innovation”), Wake Forest University welcomes and encourages diversity and inclusivity and seeks applicants with demonstrated success in working with diverse populations. Wake Forest University is an AA/EO employer and values an inclusive and diverse learning community and campus climate. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. For quick facts about the University, see https://admissions.wfu.edu/facts/.

Please note that in order to provide a safe and productive learning and living community, Wake Forest University conducts background investigations and drug screens for all final staff candidates being considered for employment.

In an effort to protect the health and safety of the campus community, all faculty and staff positions, excluding staff who perform duties exclusively at Graylyn Conference Center, are required to be fully vaccinated with an FDA approved or authorized COVID-19 vaccine prior to their hire date. Once hired, faculty and staff must maintain full COVID-19 vaccination status throughout their employment at Wake Forest University. Faculty and staff with disabilities or sincerely held religious beliefs that preclude vaccination should contact Human Resources to request a reasonable accommodation.

Listing Active: 8/5/2022 to 10/4/2022

Institution: University of Chicago

Department: Comparative Human Development

Region: Midwest

Title: Faculty (Open Rank)

Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Education

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

The Department of Comparative Human Development at the University of Chicago invites applications for an open rank faculty position to start on or after July 1, 2023. We seek a scholar who conducts research on learning and socialization, and/or development in context, including but not limited to, research on racial, ethnic, gender, and/or ability differences in educational processes and outcomes. Candidates whose research takes a life course perspective to explore intersections between multiple and overlapping categories of marginalization will be of particular interest. In line with the department’s focus on international research, we encourage candidates who conduct research outside the United States to apply. The successful candidate will have demonstrated a record of original research, a commitment to rigorous methodology, and the potential to develop collaborative relationships with scholars currently in our department as well as in other divisions and schools within the University.

Founded in 1940, the Department of Comparative Human Development at the University of Chicago (https://humdev.uchicago.edu) is an interdisciplinary department whose faculty includes anthropologists, biologists, linguists, psychologists, sociologists, and methodologists whose theories and methods cross individual social sciences. Research in the department explores the social, cultural, psychological, and biological processes of change that vary across time, between individuals, between societies and cultures, and between species.

Qualifications

Applicants at the Assistant Professor level must have a Ph.D. already in hand and have demonstrated that the groundwork has been laid for an outstanding career; applicants at the Associate or full Professor level are expected to have made distinct and sustained contributions to knowledge in this field.

Application Instructions

Applicants must apply online at the University of Chicago's Interfolio website at https://apply.interfolio.com/111021. Applicants are required to upload 1) a cover letter 2) a statement of research interests, 3) a teaching statement, 4) a current curriculum vitae and 5) the names and contact information of three referees. Letters of recommendation and writing samples will be requested for short listed candidates. The review of the applications will begin on September 6, 2022 and continue until the position is filled or the search has closed.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange. The University’s Statements on Diversity are at https://provost.uchicago.edu/statements-diversity.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University’s Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-834-3988 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Job 18143: Assistant Professor/Public Policy and Management - School of Public Policy

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/5/2022 to 10/4/2022
Institution: University of Massachusetts Amherst
Department: School of Public Policy
Region: Northeast
Title: Assistant Professor/Public Policy and Management - School of Public Policy
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Public Policy , Policy Analysis
Salary Range: $80,000 - $89,999

Job Description:

Job Description

SPP invites applications for a tenure track faculty position at the level of Assistant Professor, expected to start on September 1, 2023. The successful candidate will contribute to SPP’s growing programs and community of programs, students, staff and faculty by building our interdisciplinary and community-engaged research and teaching agenda. Areas of interest for the search include public and nonprofit management; state and/or local government; policy or management approaches to inequality; climate, energy, and/or environmental justice policy or management; social enterprises and new organizational forms for the public good; comparative and/or international policy or management; public and nonprofit budgeting and/or finance. Competitive candidates’ research will reflect an intersectional approach including but not limited to race, gender, sexuality, and migration. Candidates should be able to teach required courses in the undergraduate and master’s programs and contribute specialized courses in their areas of expertise.

The School of Public Policy's work is constructed on the principles of democracy, social justice and equity, respect for human rights, and sustainability. We are a dynamic, interdisciplinary knowledge hub of undergraduate and graduate students, faculty, staff, and community partners, all of whom examine issues, ranging from the local to the global, through innovative social science methods. We emphasize real-world impact as we strive to understand, manage, and develop policy solutions.

With 13 full-time faculty and 10 jointly appointed faculty from across campus, SPP celebrates multidisciplinarity in its research and teaching. It was named to be among the most innovative public service programs in the United States by the independent group Best Value Schools and received the National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration’s inaugural Social Equity Award in recognition of its commitment to teaching, research, and service aimed at advancing social justice and social change. It offers both undergraduate and graduate degrees and an alumni network spanning public, nonprofit and private sectors.

Minimum Requirements

Successful candidates will exhibit promise in scholarly publishing, a commitment to public policy and management education, and a willingness to contribute to the growth of the School of Public Policy. Applicants must have earned a PhD in Public Policy, Public Administration, or a closely related social science discipline, by the starting date of the appointment.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit the following materials:

1. A letter of interest addressed to Professor Jane Fountain, Director, School of Public Policy, Thompson Hall, 200 Hicks Way, Amherst, MA 01003 USA
2. A diversity statement (see below)
3. Curriculum vitae
4. Up to three samples of written work
5. Evidence of quality teaching (such as summaries of teaching evaluations and/or a teaching statement)
6. Names and contact information for three (3) professional references

The one-page diversity statement should discuss the candidate’s skills, experiences and commitment to: teaching and mentoring diverse and historically underserved student populations; professional service that assists in achieving equity, inclusion, and diversity; and, how the candidate’s past or future research and teaching addresses fundamental questions important to an increasingly diverse and global society.

Applicants are required to apply through the UMass online application system.

Any questions about the position may be sent to: SPP Faculty Search Committee, School of Public Policy at sppfacultysearch@umass.edu.

Please apply by September 22, 2022, to ensure priority consideration. The search may remain open until a suitable candidate pool has been identified, or the position is filled.

UMass Amherst is committed to a policy of equal opportunity without regard to race, color, religion, gender, gender identity or expression, age, sexual orientation, national origin, ancestry, disability, military status, or genetic information in employment, admission to and participation in academic programs, activities, and services, and the selection of vendors who provide services or products to the University. To fulfill that policy, UMass Amherst is further committed to a program of affirmative action to eliminate or mitigate artificial barriers and to increase opportunities for the recruitment and advancement of qualified minorities, women, persons with disabilities, and covered veterans. It is the policy of the UMass Amherst to comply with the applicable federal and state statutes, rules, and regulations concerning equal opportunity and affirmative action.
Employer Description:
UMass Amherst, the Commonwealth's flagship campus, is a nationally ranked public research university offering a full range of undergraduate, graduate and professional degrees. The University sits on nearly 1,450-acres in the scenic Pioneer Valley of Western Massachusetts and offers a rich cultural environment in a bucolic setting close to major urban centers. In addition, the University is part of the Five Colleges (including Amherst College, Hampshire College, Mount Holyoke College, and Smith College), which adds to the intellectual energy of the region.

Job 18159: Sociological Theory

Date Position is Available: Summer 2023

Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/5/2022 to 10/4/2022
Institution: University of Toronto
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: Canada
Title: Sociological Theory
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Theory
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link:

Job Description:
The Department of Sociology in the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream appointment in the area of sociological theory. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2023.

Candidates must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Sociology or a closely related area by the time of appointment, or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in sociological research and teaching. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and enhance our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent sociological research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence, which can be demonstrated by a record of publications in top-ranked and field-relevant peer-reviewed journals in Sociology and/or academic presses and/or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards in the discipline, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments relevant to Sociology, the teaching dossier (with required materials outlined below) submitted as part of the application, as well as strong letters of reference.

Candidates are also expected to show evidence in the application materials of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment through the application materials.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking on the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter describing current and future research interests; a current curriculum vitae; a recent writing sample; and a teaching dossier that includes a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations. Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching, and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement on equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): familiarity with research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each after an application is submitted (this happens overnight). Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uofr.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in PDF format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact Tina Colomvakos at tina.colomvakos@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by September 27, 2022.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement
The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ2S+ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uofr.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement
The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Job 18156: Sociology of the Family

Date Position is Available: Summer 2023

Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/5/2022 to 10/4/2022
Institution: University of Toronto
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: Canada
Title: Sociology of the Family
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Family
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link:

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology in the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream appointment in the area of sociology of the family. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2023.

Candidates must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Sociology or a closely related area by the time of appointment, or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in sociological research and teaching. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and enhance our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent sociological research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence, which can be demonstrated by a record of publications in top-ranked and field-relevant peer-reviewed journals in Sociology and/or academic presses and/or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards in the discipline, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments relevant to Sociology, the teaching dossier (with required materials outlined below) submitted as part of the application, as well as strong letters of reference.

Candidates are also expected to show evidence in the application materials of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment through the application materials.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking on the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter describing current and future research interests; a current curriculum vitae; a recent writing sample; and a teaching dossier that includes a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations. Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement on equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): familiarity with research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each after an application is submitted (this happens overnight). Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in PDF format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact Tina Colomvakos at tina.colomvakos@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by September 15, 2022.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ2S+ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement

The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Job Description:

The College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at the University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks a full time, 9-month, tenure track faculty member at the rank of Assistant Professor. The successful candidate will have an outstanding research record in public perceptions of and engagement with agricultural science and technology, with a research focus that is relevant and impactful for the Wisconsin dairy industry and complements existing faculty strengths. This might include but is not limited to public perceptions of and public engagement with: the role of science and technology in agriculture, animal welfare, the relationship between animal agriculture and land/water stewardship, labor relations, policymaking and regulation of dairy production and organization, consumer decision-making, the relationship between community health and animal agriculture, the history and development of supply chains, social equity and class dynamics surrounding food and agriculture, or public understanding of nutritional labels and content. Research with international and comparative dimensions is welcome.

Ideally, the candidate's work will be relevant to one or more of the College of Agricultural & Life Sciences (CALS) key strategic areas (https://cals.wisc.edu/about-cals/initiatives/strategic-plan/priority-themes/) as context of inquiry.

Housed within the Department of Community & Environmental Sociology (CES), the position carries an expectation of teaching undergraduate and graduate courses and advising graduate and undergraduate students, with expectations for industry outreach and professional and university service. The ability to work in interdisciplinary settings and willingness to work with units across CALS will make this new colleague a perfect addition to CALS faculty.

This newly created position is supported by the Dairy Innovation Hub in the College of Agricultural and Life Sciences. The Hub is an exciting new initiative at the three leading UW agricultural schools (UW-Madison, UW-Platteville, and UW-River Falls) to foster dairy research, education, and outreach in the priority areas of Stewarding Land and Water Resources, Ensuring Animal Health and Welfare, Growing Farm Businesses and Communities, and Enriching Human Health and Nutrition. The Wisconsin dairy sector has a strong collaborative relationship with the University of Wisconsin-Madison and is highly motivated to help explore and develop innovative solutions to the industry's challenges. As a Hub supported position, the faculty member will also have the opportunity to collaborate with other Hub researchers, pursue Hub funding opportunities, and participate in Hub programs. For more information on the Dairy Innovation Hub (https://dairyinnovationhub.wisc.edu/) and UW-Madison CALS Hub efforts (https://cals.wisc.edu/dairy-innovation-hub/) please visit their websites.

Education:

PhD in Sociology or related position-relevant field required.

Qualifications:

Successful candidates will have a record of or demonstrate potential for:

i. Extramural grant-writing
ii. Publications in peer reviewed journals
iii. Graduate student training/mentoring
iv. Teaching and curriculum development
v. Contribution to the outreach and service functions of CALS and the Dairy Innovation Hub
vi. Promoting an inclusive and diverse climate within our campus and associated communities

Start date: August 23, 2023

How to Apply:

Apply online at "Jobs at UW" (http://jobs.wisc.edu) under job number 262172. Applications must be received through the UW-Madison's online application system.

Applicants should upload a single PDF containing the following:

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statements of:
   a. Research accomplishments and future goals (2-page limit)
   b. Teaching and mentoring philosophy and experience (2-page limit)
   c. Contributions to diversity and inclusion and areas of future impact (1-page limit)
4. Electronic reprints of one or two articles (pdfs) that are relevant to the position
5. Contact information for three references

The deadline for assuring full consideration is September 30, 2022; however, the position will remain open and applications may be considered until the position is filled.

Job 18155: Assistant Professor, Sociology

Date Position is Available: Fall 2022

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 8/4/2022 to 10/3/2022

Institution: Skidmore College

Department: Sociology, Anthropology & Social Work

Region: Northeast

Title: Assistant Professor, Sociology

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor

Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenured

Salary Range: Negotiable

Submission Link: http://jobs.skidmore.edu

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology at Skidmore College invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level beginning Fall 2023. We seek a quantitative sociologist whose research and teaching interests include at least one of the following areas of specialization: crime, deviance, gender, medical sociology, sexualities, or sociology of education. Ability to teach, advise, and mentor a diverse population of undergraduates is essential. The hired candidate will be expected to teach core courses (i.e., an introductory course, Social Research Methods and/or Statistics for the Social Sciences), courses at the 200- and 300-level in their area of expertise, and a course that contributes to the College's interdisciplinary first-year seminar program. Additional responsibilities include service activities at the College. The position involves an in-person teaching load of 18-credits per year, which typically equates to five courses per academic year.

We are especially interested in candidates from under-represented groups as well as individuals who have experience with diverse populations who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through their research, teaching, and/or service. We invite you to discuss any relevant aspects of your candidacy in your cover letter.

Skidmore College is a highly selective, nationally ranked liberal arts college in Saratoga Springs, New York, with a student population of 2,600 (8:1 student-faculty ratio), 26 percent of whom are domestic students of color, 10 percent are international students, and 15 percent are first generation college students.

Review of applications will begin on Sept. 30, 2022, and will continue until the position is filled.

A complete application includes the following materials:

1) a cover letter,
2) curriculum vitae,
3) a teaching statement,
4) a research statement including a clear description of the candidate’s current research program and specific future plans for research,
5) names and contact information for three referees who may be contacted at a later date to provide a letter of recommendation.

Candidates are welcome to contextualize the effect that COVID-19 has had on their teaching and research within these statements.

Finalists will be expected to provide additional materials at a later date (e.g., letters of recommendation, sample syllabi, and sample publications). Questions regarding your application should be addressed to Skidmore’s Human Resources Department at: careers@skidmore.edu or (518) 580-5800.

Education: To be considered, candidates must have a Ph.D. in sociology by September 1, 2023.

Pay Range: Commensurate with experience

In order to prevent or significantly reduce the risk of COVID-19 transmission at Skidmore College and protect all members of the College community from infection, successful candidates will be required to submit proof of full vaccination as a condition of employment, unless exempted as a reasonable accommodation of a medical condition or sincerely religious belief or practice.

EEO STATEMENT

Skidmore College is committed to being an inclusive campus community and, as an Equal Opportunity Employer, does not discriminate in its hiring or employment practices on the basis of race, color, creed, religion, gender, age, national or ethnic origin, physical or mental disability, military or veteran status, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, predisposition or carrier status, domestic violence victim status, familial status, dating violence, or stalking, or any other category protected by applicable federal, state or local laws.

Employment at Skidmore College is contingent upon an acceptable background check result.

Job 18158: Assistant Professor in Sociology--Poverty and Inequality

Date: Thursday, September 1, 2022
114. University of California-Davis

Application Position is Available: Fall 2023

Listing Active: 8/4/2022 to 10/4/2022

Institution: University of California-Davis
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: All US Regions
Title: Assistant Professor in Sociology--Poverty and Inequality
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Social Welfare/Social Work, Other Program/Area
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link:

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology at the University of California, Davis, invites applicants for a tenure-track position for scholars conducting theoretically-driven, empirical research related to poverty and/or inequality. The position is at the Assistant Professor level (salary commensurate with experience). Scholars with an active research program in any area related to poverty and/or inequality are encouraged to apply, and we encourage applications from individuals whose research and teaching align with the department’s existing areas of strength, including race/ethnicity, immigration, gender/sexuality, education, culture, political sociology, crime, and law. We are especially interested in candidates with the ability to teach undergraduate and graduate methods courses, and whose research interests align with University and College strategic priorities, including a new data science initiative and ongoing efforts to increase diversity and inclusion in the academy.

We seek a scholar with a strong commitment to quality teaching and mentorship. Teaching duties include four (quarter-system) courses per academic year at the introductory, advanced undergraduate, and graduate levels. Supervision of graduate students, student advising, curricular development, and performance of university service are expected of the successful candidate.

We expect the scholar to be active in the discipline of sociology and to contribute to campus efforts to diversify the university community, consonant with the population of the state of California. We especially welcome applicants whose research, teaching, service and/or community outreach demonstrably attest to their commitment to inclusion of under-represented and/or non-majority individuals into their respective area of specialization.

Applications must be submitted through the online application portal found at: https://recruit.ucdavis.edu/JPF05110. Applicants should submit the following required documents: (1) their curriculum vitae, (2) a research statement describing their current research and future research goals, (3) a teaching statement describing their experience, pedagogical approach, and practices related to effective teaching, (4) a statement outlining their contributions to the diversity, equity, and inclusiveness of their academic community, (5) up to three articles/manuscripts that present their scholarship, (6) a brief statement identifying the one article/manuscript that best represents their research approach and the types of questions that motivate their work, and (7) contact information for 3 individuals who will be contacted to provide letters of reference. For full consideration, all application materials, including letters of reference, must be submitted by September 25, 2022. The position will remain open until filled.

The statement of contributions to diversity, equity, and inclusion may describe (a) the applicant’s track record of engagement and activity related to diversity, equity, and inclusion as well as (b) their plans for future engagement (see https://academicaffairs.ucdavis.edu/guidelines-writing-diversity-statement for guidance as well as information about the university’s own commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion). This statement will be carefully read and evaluated as a standalone document and should, therefore, include all relevant information related to diversity, equity, and inclusion, even if aspects are also discussed in other submitted materials.

The article/manuscript that is identified as the best representation of an applicant’s work can be published, in press, accepted for publication, an unpublished manuscript, or a work in progress. The brief statement identifying this work should no longer than one page and should include an explanation of why that work is selected, the contribution it makes to the field, and its broader implications. For coauthored publications applicants should describe the specific contributions they made to the manuscript and the research on which it reports.

UC Davis supports family-friendly recruitments. UC Davis covers travel expenses for a second person to accompany a faculty recruitment candidate who is a mother (or single parent of any gender) of a child less than two years of age. More broadly, an integrated set of Work Life programs has been in place at UC Davis since January 2003, and a group of Faculty Advisors for Work Life was established in 2007 to help publicize and inform the faculty about the Work Life programs, policies, and resources. Visit https://academicaffairs.ucdavis.edu/work-life for more information about these programs. For information about benefits, potential relocation to Davis, career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, and other resources for new faculty, please visit: https://academicaffairs.ucdavis.edu/new-faculty.

The University of California is committed to creating and maintaining a community dedicated to the advancement, application, and transmission of knowledge and creative endeavors through academic excellence, where all individuals who participate in University programs and activities can work and learn together in a safe and secure environment, free of violence, harassment, discrimination, exploitation, or intimidation. With this commitment, UC Davis conducts a reference check on all first-choice candidates for Academic Senate Assistant Professor or Lecturer with Potential for Security of Employment, Steps 4, 5, or 6, or Acting Professor of Law positions. The reference check involves contacting the administration of the applicant’s previous institution(s) to ask whether there have been substantiated findings of misconduct that would violate the University’s Faculty Code of Conduct. To implement this process, UC Davis requires all applicants for any open search for assistant professor to complete, sign, and upload the form entitled “Authorization to Release Information” into RECRUIT as part of their application. Link to form: https://aadors.ucdavis.edu/our-resources/forms-and-checklists/forms/ARF.pdf

If an applicant does not include the signed authorization with the application materials, the application will be considered incomplete, and as with any incomplete application, will not receive further consideration. Although all applicants for faculty recruitments must complete the entire application, only finalists considered for Academic Senate Assistant Professor or Lecturer with Potential for Security of Employment, Steps 4, 5, or 6, or Acting Professor of Law positions will be subject to reference checks.

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology in the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream appointment in the area of international migration. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2023.

Candidates must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Sociology or a closely related area by the time of appointment, or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and enhance our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent sociological research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence, which can be demonstrated by a record of publications in top-ranked and field-relevant peer-reviewed journals and/or academic presses and/or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments, the teaching dossier (with required materials outlined below) submitted as part of the application, as well as strong letters of reference.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Candidates are also expected to show evidence in the application materials of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment through the application materials.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking on the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter describing current and future research interests; a current curriculum vitae; a recent writing sample; and a teaching dossier that includes a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations. Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement on equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): familiarity with research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ2S+ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uofl.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement

The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

Title: Assistant Professor of Sociology
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Racial and Ethnic Relations
Salary Range: $90,000 - $99,999

Job Description:
The Department of Sociology seeks to fill a vacancy at the rank of Assistant Professor. This is a tenure track position set to start in Fall 2023.

We are seeking candidates with expertise in the fields of race and ethnicity, racism, the sociology of Black America and the African diaspora. The position is open to scholars employing quantitative or qualitative methods. The ideal candidate will have a strong research agenda in these fields and be able to contribute to teaching and developing undergraduate courses in the sociology of race and ethnicity and the Black American experience.

Employer Description:
Often referred to as “the jewel of the CUNY system,” Queens College is a place of contrasts: An urban school in a suburban setting, where a large and diverse student body receives personalized attention. This formula has made us one of New York’s premier educational institutions.

With a mission to prepare students to become leading citizens of an increasingly global society, we offer a rigorous education in the liberal arts and sciences under the guidance of a faculty dedicated to both teaching and research. Our liberal arts, science, and pre-professional programs earn us high rankings in prestigious college guides such as The Princeton Review America’s Best Value Colleges. Our students graduate with the ability to think critically, address complex problems, explore various cultures, use modern technologies and information resources, and have won prominence in nearly every field.

The Sociology department at Queens College has a large, research-active faculty that places a premium on high quality scholarship with real-world applications, and we support a public Sociology that emphasizes broad dissemination of findings in highly regarded academic outlets as well as to lay audiences and popular media. Many research-active faculty in the department have an affiliation with the CUNY Graduate School Doctoral Program in Sociology and such an affiliation would be possible for the successful candidate.

Job Description:

Job Summary

The Shift Project, at the Malcolm Wiener Center for Social Policy at Harvard Kennedy School, focuses on collecting and analyzing new data to inform scholarly understanding of the contours, causes, and consequences of precarious low-wage employment and the effectiveness of policy and corporate response. This work involves original data collection, statistical analysis, and the writing and dissemination of academic papers, research briefs, invited testimony, and policy reports.

The Research Project Manager is a 100% (full-time) position that will support the work of the Shift Project in several domains. The incumbent will work under the general supervision of and in collaboration with Professor Daniel Schneider and as a member of a research team that includes Project Co-Director Kristen Harknett (UCSF), other project staff, graduate student researchers, and pre-doctoral fellows. The incumbent will perform complex and varied tasks to support data collection, research production and dissemination, and project management.

The incumbent will assume responsibility for various aspects of projects including (1) coordinating all data collection activities, including training and overseeing pre-doctoral fellow(s), programming surveys in Qualtrics, and maintaining detailed records of data collection instruments; (2) managing the work of pre-doctoral fellows, in close coordination with the faculty PIs, (3) coordinating digital dissemination of findings from The Shift Project to policy makers and other stakeholders; (4) assisting with grant proposal preparation and reporting and managing human subjects and data safety agreements. The incumbent will serve as an integral member of the research team working to study precarious employment and inform related policy making. The incumbent is an experienced professional who independently performs the full range of responsibilities within the function; possesses broad job knowledge; analyzes problems/issues of diverse scope and determines solutions.

Position Description

Duties and Responsibilities:

- Coordinate all data collection activities, including training and overseeing pre-doctoral fellow(s), programming surveys in Qualtrics, and maintaining detailed records of data collection instruments
- Work with the Research Data Administrator and PIs in the cleaning and analysis of data collected through The Shift Project
- Manage research collaborations external to Harvard while following appropriate internal policies
- Ensure that IRB and Data Safety protocols remain up to date and in compliance and originate new IRB and data safety protocols as needed
- Contribute to grant preparation and reporting activities including by participating in grant proposal creation and working with Kennedy School and Harvard University staff on grant preparation and reporting
- Provide general project management including building strong relationships with the Shift Project research team, establishing relationships with relevant Kennedy School staff, coordinating weekly and monthly Shift Project team meetings, and training new project staff members
- Coordinate dissemination of Shift Project research findings through such activities as co-authorship of research reports, collaboration with HKS and Wiener Center communications staff, supervision of Shift Project newsletter, and updating of the Shift Project website

Basic Qualifications
Master’s degree in economics, sociology, public policy, history, or other relevant field.

A minimum of two years of relevant research experience required. Experience gained in school counts towards requirement.

3 years of experience in research administration and/or project management.

Experience with survey programming with Qualtrics

Additional Qualifications and Skills

- Experience in economics, sociology, public policy, labor studies, or other relevant field preferred
- Ability to take initiative and manage projects with minimal supervision, including strong time management skills and ability to meet tight deadlines
- Strong interpersonal skills and communication skills
- Strong writing skills both for general and academic audiences
- Excellent organizational skills and attention to detail
- Ability to multi-task with demanding time frames required
- Ability to work both independently and as a team member
- Ability to work discreetly with sensitive and confidential data
- Excellent computer skills including with statistical software such as Stata or R as well as, expertise with Qualtrics, and knowledge of Word, Excel, and LaTeX
- Experience in research and/or policy related to relevant issues such as poverty, wage and/or labor policy, and/or issues facing low wage workers
- Experience with federal and foundation grant proposal writing and fund management
- Experience training and mentoring early-career staff members

Additional Information

This position is a fully benefits-eligible term appointment ending one year from date of hire, with possibility of renewal.

- We regret that the Harvard Kennedy School does not provide visa sponsorship.
- Harvard University requires pre-employment reference and background checks.
- Harvard University is committed to supporting a healthy, sustainable learning and working environment.

Please note: This is an in-person/on campus position based in Cambridge, MA, with possible flexible work options.

The University requires all Harvard community members to be fully vaccinated against COVID-19 and remain up to date with COVID-19 vaccine boosters, as detailed in Harvard’s Vaccine & Booster Requirements. Individuals may claim exemption from the vaccine requirement for medical or religious reasons. More information regarding the University’s COVID vaccination requirement, exemptions, and verification of vaccination status may be found at the University’s “COVID-19 Vaccine Information” webpage.

Salary Range: $70,800 - $119,000

Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link: < a href='http://www.owu.edu/joinOWUfaculty' target='_blank'>www.owu.edu/joinOWUfaculty
Job Description:
The department of Sociology/Anthropology at Ohio Wesleyan University (www.owu.edu) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Sociology, with a focus on criminology/criminal justice, to begin August 2023.

We are looking for candidates with a strong commitment to both teaching and research in an undergraduate liberal arts environment. We are especially interested in candidates who are enthusiastic to teach a broad range of undergraduate courses, mentor students, participate in program development, are passionate about social justice, and can contribute to an engaged campus community. The teaching load is 3/3.

Responsibilities:
The successful candidate will join an integrated sociology and anthropology department, which offers a major and minor in sociology/anthropology, as well as an interdisciplinary major and minor in social justice. The new faculty member will teach an introductory course in sociology, Crime & Deviance, and additional topics courses in the candidate’s area of expertise. The department is especially interested in sociological approaches to crime and the criminal justice system that addresses pressing social concerns, such as racial and social justice.

Regional specialization for the position is open, with a preference for candidates that can expand the geographic areas covered by the department by bringing expertise on Latin America, Africa, or the Middle East. Although not required, preference will be given to those candidates who can also teach our Social Theory course. We are also interested in candidates' other areas of expertise that could expand the department's offerings. Potential topics could include but are not limited to: the environment, social media and digital culture, religion, love & emotions, education, sexuality, urban society, science & technology, or public health.

This job is part of a cluster of positions with which Ohio Wesleyan seeks to further diversify its curriculum and faculty. This faculty cohort will join an educational community that values equity and interdisciplinarity and fosters close working relationships with students through our signature program in experiential learning, the OWU Connection. Incoming faculty will be provided with mentoring, professional development funds, and opportunities to connect with faculty across the Ohio 5 and GLCA consortia. Faculty are also encouraged to participate in one or more of OWU’s interdisciplinary majors, such as Africana, Gender, and Identity Studies (AGIS); Latin American Studies; Pre-Law; International Studies; Film Studies; etc. For more information about the cluster, please visit www.owu.edu/joinOWUfaculty. For more information about Academic Affairs and its commitment to anti-racism, please visit https://owu.edu/dei.

Minimum Qualifications:

1. The successful candidate must have a PhD, or be on track to complete their PhD by August 2023, in Sociology. We will also consider candidates with a PhD in Criminology and a demonstrated ability to teach courses in Sociology:
2. Proven record of successful teaching experience and an active research agenda.
3. Ability to teach courses in sociology, including Introduction to Sociology, Crime & Deviance, and related topics courses.

Completed application packets will include:
1) Cover Letter that describes teaching and research interests (including possible course offerings)
2) Curriculum Vitae
3) Statement of teaching philosophy, description of previous teaching experiences, and any evidence of prior teaching effectiveness (e.g. syllabi, course evaluations, peer observations)
4) Statement describing how the candidate has addressed diversity, equity, and inclusion in teaching, research, and/or service activities, as well as future plans for advancing these issues in the candidate's professional life
5) Statement of research interests, experience, and future plans
6) Official Transcripts
7) Contact information for three letters of reference (letters will only be requested for candidates invited for a video interview)

Please submit all materials via our website www.owu.edu/joinOWUfaculty.

This position is eligible for a comprehensive benefits package.
Deadline: For full consideration, please submit all materials by October 1, 2022. Application review will begin mid-September and will continue until the position is filled.

Position description

The Goldman School of Public Policy at the University of California, Berkeley, invites applications for a tenure-track appointment to the faculty at the Assistant Professor rank.

We seek applications from intellectually rigorous and exciting scholars whose research focuses on some combination of public policy implementation, public management, bureaucracy, improving government performance, electoral administration, organizational behavior, or behavioral economics, and who can teach innovative courses on these topics to our graduate students. We welcome applications from researchers studying these topics in the United States and/or in other countries. We expect a demonstrated interest in using research to advance public policy and address pressing public problems.

The Goldman School encourages applications from individuals of any scholarly discipline whose research focuses on these questions, including those in public policy, political science, economics, public affairs, sociology, psychology, business, and law, or data scientists with roots in computer science, schools of information, economics, and other fields. Preference will be given to scholars who have demonstrated the potential to make significant research contributions and who have a clear interest in teaching in the core of the School's Masters in Public Policy professional program. Public-sector experience, including in public management, is also desirable.

The Goldman School of Public Policy is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. We are also interested in candidates who have had non-traditional career paths or who have taken time off for family reasons, or who have achieved excellence in careers outside academia. For information about potential relocation to Berkeley, or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty

Region: All US Regions
Title: Assistant Professor in Sociology--Gender and Sexuality

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Sex and Gender

Salary Range: Negotiable

Submission Link:

The University of California, Davis, invites applications for a tenure-track position for candidates who take an intersectional approach to conducting theoretically-driven, empirical research on gender and/or sexuality. The position is at the Assistant Professor level (salary commensurate with experience). We expect the successful candidate to be active in the discipline, value methodological pluralism, and participate in the regular activities of the Sex/Gender and the Race/Ethnicity/Immigration research clusters in the department. Other areas of departmental faculty expertise include immigration, poverty/inequality, culture, political sociology, crime, and law.

We seek a scholar with a strong commitment to quality teaching and mentorship. Teaching duties include four (quarter-system) courses per academic year at the introductory, advanced undergraduate, and graduate levels. Supervisor of graduate students, student advising, curricular development, and performance of University service are expected of the successful candidate.

We expect the scholar to contribute to campus efforts to diversify the university community. We especially welcome applicants whose research, teaching, service and/or community outreach demonstrably attest to their commitment to inclusion of under-represented and/or non-majority individuals into their respective area of specialization.

Applications must be submitted through the online application portal found at: https://recruit.ucdavis.edu/postings/18145. Applicants should submit the following required documents: (1) their curriculum vitae, (2) a research statement describing their current research and future research goals, (3) a teaching statement describing their teaching experience, pedagogical approach, and practices related to effective teaching, (4) a statement outlining their contributions to the diversity, equity, and inclusiveness of their academic community, (5) up to three articles/manuscripts that present their scholarship, (6) a brief statement identifying the one that best represents their research approach and the types of questions that motivate their work, and (7) contact information for 3 individuals who will be contacted for letters of reference. For full consideration all application materials, including letters of reference must be submitted by September 15, 2022. The position will remain open until filled.

The statement of contributions to diversity, equity, and inclusion may describe (a) the applicant's track record of engagement and activity related to diversity, equity, and inclusion as well as (b) their plans for future engagement (see https://academicaffairs.ucdavis.edu/guidelines-writing-diversity-statement for guidance as well as information about the university's own commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion). This statement will be carefully read and evaluated as a standalone document and should, therefore, include all relevant information related to diversity, equity, and inclusion, even if aspects are also discussed in other submitted materials.

The paper that is identified as the best representation of an applicant's work can be published, in press, accepted for publication, a dissertation chapter, an unpublished manuscript, or a work in progress. The brief statement identifying this work should be no longer than one page and should include an explanation of why that paper is selected, the contribution the chosen paper makes to the field, and its broader implications. For coauthored publications applicants should describe the specific contributions they made to the manuscript and the research on which it reports.

UC Davis supports family-friendly policies. UC Davis covers travel expenses for a second person to accompany a faculty recruitment candidate who is a mother (or single parent of any gender) of a child less than two years of age. More broadly, an integrated set of Work Life programs has been in place at UC Davis since January 2003, and a group of Faculty Advisors for Work Life was established in 2007 to help publicize and inform the faculty about the Work Life programs, policies, and resources. Visit https://academicaffairs.ucdavis.edu/work-life for more information about these programs. For information about benefits, potential relocation to Davis, career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, and other resources for new faculty, please visit: https://academicaffairs.ucdavis.edu/new-faculty.

The University of California is committed to creating and maintaining a community dedicated to the advancement, application, and transmission of knowledge and creative endeavors through academic excellence, where all individuals who participate in University programs and activities can work and learn together in a safe and secure environment, free of violence, harassment, discrimination, exploitation, or intimidation. With this commitment, UC Davis conducts a reference check on all first choice candidates for Academic Senate Assistant Professor or Lecturer with Potential for Security of Employment, Steps 4, 5, or 6, or Acting Professor of Law positions. The reference check involves contacting the administration of the applicant's previous institution(s) to ask whether there have been substantiated findings of misconduct that would violate the University’s Faculty Code of Conduct. To implement this process, UC Davis requires all applicants for any open search for assistant professor to complete, sign, and upload the form entitled “Authorization to Release Information” into RECRUIT as part of their application. Link to form: https://aaslo.ucdavis.edu/your-resources/forms-and-checklists/forms/ARF.pdf

If an applicant does not include the signed authorization with the application materials, the application will be considered incomplete, and as with any incomplete application, will not receive further consideration. Although all applicants for faculty recruitments must complete the entire application, only finalists considered for Academic Senate Assistant Professor or Lecturer with Potential for Security of Employment, Steps 4, 5, or 6, or Acting Professor of Law positions will be subject to reference checks.

Job 18138: Assistant Professor of Urban Policy & Politics

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 8/2/2022 to 10/1/2022

Institution: Occidental College
Department: Department of Urban & Environmental Policy
Region: West

Title: Assistant Professor of Urban Policy & Politics

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Salary Range: Negotiable

Submission Link: UEPurbansearch@oxy.edu

Job Description:

The Urban & Environmental Policy Department at Occidental College invites applications for a teacher and scholar at the Assistant Professor level in Urban Policy and Politics, with a focus on Community Organizing, Labor Studies, Urban Political Economy, and/or Public Policy. The position will begin August 2023.

We are interested in candidates who understand urban and environmental problems as deeply linked, and whose research and teaching examine issues of economic and social inequalities, labor and community organizing, and the social, economic, racial, and gender dimensions of workplaces and the labor market. We are interested in candidates whose work considers the role of politics and policymaking at local, state, and national levels, and the challenges faced by policymakers to address existing inequities while also finding sustainable, and democratic solutions to environmental and economic injustice. We seek a scholar who approaches their work through interdisciplinary analysis and considers the role of labor and community organizing as an important response to and strategy to address inequality and to advance social justice.

Occidental faculty are committed teacher-scholars who bring research and creative discovery to life for students in classrooms, labs, studios, and mentored projects. They teach broadly in the curricula of their departments, advise students, carry out research and creative work, and provide departmental, college-wide, and external service. The primary responsibilities of the selected candidate will include the development and teaching of introductory and core courses in the discipline, including courses in your area(s) of specialization. Specific courses that include the introductory level department course (UEP 101), Community Organizing and Leadership, Community Internship/Practicum; and Urban Politics and Policy; the senior comprehensive seminar; and a college-wide first year seminar as well as as well as developing new courses in Labor Studies and Public Policy Analysis and/or a new course in their own area of expertise. The candidate will also be responsible for producing scholarship commensurate with the requirements for tenure and will be expected to develop a program of research that engages undergraduate students. Incoming faculty will be expected to contribute to and participate in the life and development of the department, advise students, serve on committees, and participate in the broader college and disciplinary communities.

We invite candidates from a range of disciplines, including sociology, political science, social work, social welfare, labor studies, urban planning, geography, applied economics, law, and public policy. In particular, we seek candidates with emphases from a range of disciplines in subfields of: race, gender, and work; urban politics; community organizing; and labor and globalization. Candidates are expected to hold the Ph.D. degree or terminal degree in their field, and must have completed or be completing their doctorate by fall 2023.

We are open to considering non-traditional candidates with extensive professional and community experience as well as a demonstrated record of research and teaching experience but who may not have a Ph.D. or other terminal degree but would prioritize engagement with students while bringing their extensive field experience into the academy.

Required Qualifications

- demonstrated commitment to and excellence in undergraduate teaching. We seek an effective and engaged teacher able to explain the relationships between local and global aspects of our urban problems and how policy practitioners, advocates and researchers, along with government officials, can create practical solutions at the community, local, state, national, and global levels, and teach students to understand and apply ideas about urban politics and political economy, including issues of race, place, poverty, inequality, and policy in the context of a global political economy.
- a strong record of scholarly accomplishments appropriate to the level of appointment or demonstration of applied research and written policy analyses for nontraditional candidates; an existing research program with a plan to integrate undergraduate students into their research.
- demonstrated experience in a range of practices (advocacy, community organizing, government, community engaged research, and public service) with preference for experience working on how policy and organizing impacts marginalized, low-income, and communities of color.
- demonstrated experience in working collaboratively with colleagues
- demonstrated potential for effective integration of technology into instruction
- demonstrated commitment to working effectively with students from minoritized and marginalized social groups
- ability to balance excellent teaching, scholarship, and service
- demonstrated commitment to the four cornerstones of the mission of the College: excellence, equity, community, and service
Preferred Qualifications

- experience working collaboratively with local community organizations
- industry experience

Application Submission Materials

You must submit a complete application package electronically to be considered. To apply, please send the following required materials to UEPurbansearch@oxy.edu:

- Cover Letter in which you respond to the required and preferred (if applicable) qualifications
- Curriculum Vitae
- Research Statement
- Teaching Philosophy Statement
- Commitment to Inclusive Excellence Statement
- This statement provides your unique perspective on your past and present contributions to and future aspirations for promoting justice, equity, inclusion, and diversity in your professional career. This should include your demonstrated commitment to, past evidence of, and future plans for creating equitable opportunities for learning and mentoring especially for students from marginalized and minoritized groups. The purpose of this statement is to help the department identify candidates who have professional experience, intellectual commitments, and/or willingness to engage in activities that could help the College contribute to its mission in these areas.
- List of three references with relevant contact information
- If you advance to the finalist phase, you will be asked to have each of your three references submit a letter of recommendation. Please have these ready for the references to submit should you move forward to this phase of the search. Do not submit these letters with your initial application.

Upon receipt of a complete application package, you will receive a preliminary questionnaire. You must complete this questionnaire to move forward in the search process.

Please direct all questions about the position to: UEPurbansearch@oxy.edu

Application Deadline

To be assured full consideration, your application materials must be received by October 3, 2022.

The Department and College

The Urban and Environmental Policy Department is unique among liberal arts colleges. Many liberal arts colleges have urban studies, public policy, or environmental studies programs. Occidental’s UEP major integrates each of these disciplines into a single interdisciplinary major, one that is uniquely situated in a liberal arts college located in the dynamic city of Los Angeles.

UEP is an interdisciplinary program that has multiple goals for student learning outcomes: critical thinking; writing and speaking skills; recognition and capacity to engage in policy development; knowledge about diverse communities and institutions; and an ability to translate what the students learn into a path for future learning and career development.

Our curriculum includes a heavy emphasis on writing and presentations, a strong focus on original research, including applied and policy-relevant research, community-engaged and client-based projects, and multiple strategies for community engagement, including community engaged research, internship requirements and opportunities in Los Angeles and beyond, and classes geared to providing an understanding of the policy process, with a focus on cities and the process of urbanization.

Oxy’s location in urban Los Angeles sets it apart from other liberal arts colleges, most located outside of cities in more rural or suburban locations. UEP and the College has centered Oxy’s Los Angeles location as critical to its curriculum. Our presence in Los Angeles offers the perfect setting for integrating the study of urban and environmental issues.

Finally, the Urban & Environmental Policy Institute (UEPI), our research, policy, and advocacy institute, mirrors our UEP major as a campus-wide center for community engagement, research, and advocacy. Through private foundation and government grants, UEPI has conducted research, engaged in policy analysis, and participated in advocacy efforts that have made a major difference in Los Angeles and around the country for over 15 years. UEPI has a professional research and program staff who develop programs and initiatives in the community that provide opportunities for all Oxy students to conduct research, study policy, and participate in advocacy. In the past four years more than 350 students from multiple majors across campus have participated in UEPI-funded projects. UEPI staff members bring professional degrees and experience to the classroom and have taught several UEP courses and advised, mentored, and provided research assistance to dozens of Oxy students – both UEP and non-UEP majors. Thus, UEPI has had a significant impact on the College’s mission in terms of both classroom teaching and undergraduate research.

Additional Information

Occidental is an Equal Opportunity Employer and does not unlawfully discriminate against employees or applicants on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, pregnancy, breastfeeding or related medical condition, national origin, ancestry, citizenship, age, marital status, physical disability, mental disability, medical condition, genetic characteristic or information, military and veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by state or federal law. Occidental is strongly committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community and the curriculum, and to fostering an inclusive, equitable, and just environment within which students, staff, administrators, and faculty thrive. Candidates who can contribute to this goal through their teaching, research, advising, and other activities are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences in this area. Individuals advancing the College’s strategic equity and justice goals and those from groups whose underrepresentation in the American professoriate has been severe and longstanding are particularly encouraged to apply.

Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications. Moving expense reimbursement (up to $5000, taxable according to current IRS regulations), start-up funds, and a one-course reduction of teaching load in the first year are provided. A comprehensive benefits package is available that includes: excellent health, dental, life, and retirement benefits; tuition benefits for the employee, spouse, domestic partner, and dependents; additional extras including use of gym facilities and the College Library. For a detailed description of benefits, please visit https://www.oxy.edu/offices-services/human-resources/benefits-information.
All qualified applicants will be considered for employment, including those with criminal histories, in a manner consistent with the requirements of applicable state and local laws, including the City of Los Angeles’ Fair Chance Initiative for Hiring Ordinance.

Occidental College is committed to working with and providing reasonable accommodations to applicants with qualifying disabilities. If you need a reasonable accommodation because of a disability for any part of the application or employment process, please contact Human Resources (hr@oxy.edu).

Job 18106: Lecturer/Assistant Professor in Sociology

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023

Application Deadline: 8/2/2022 to 10/31/2022

Institution: University College Dublin

Department: School of Sociology

Region: Europe

Title: Lecturer/Assistant Professor in Sociology

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor, Academic Positions: Lecturer, Academic Positions: Other

Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Applicable

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas, Open to All Specialty Areas

Salary Range: $50,000 - $59,999

Job Description:

We are seeking candidates who can make a significant contribution in one or more of the following areas: Computational Social Science, Quantitative Data Analysis, Social Networks, Demography, or Social Simulation.

The School of Sociology holds a premier place in the field of sociology in Ireland. It has a longstanding commitment to societally relevant research, interdisciplinary scholarship, and the provision of innovative and dynamic programmes at graduate and undergraduate levels. These programmes are underpinned by an extensive and diverse range of staff specialties that address the defining issues of the day.

Within the School there are currently three research groups - Organised Violence, Peace and Nationalism; Quantitative and Computational Social Science; Diversities and Inequalities - however, teaching and research in the school cover a wide range of other areas as well.

The successful applicant will also be expected to contribute to our goals of further developing the School of Sociology as a leading centre for sociological research and enhancing our international profile in this respect; advancing the innovation and expansion of our programmes; and playing a central role in enhancing UCD's position as an internationally recognised centre for academic excellence.

We will also consider applications from candidates with expertise in any other substantive area of sociology. The successful applicant would be expected to be involved in the BSc in Computational Social Sciences and MSc in Social Data Analytics programmes and also contribute to the other Sociology programmes.

The School operates on a 40/40/20 workloads model with approximately 40% of work time devoted to research, 40% to teaching and 20% to administration. The successful applicant is expected to be a well-rounded academic who can balance their work between these three domains, and sustain a healthy, affirmative work-life balance. The successful candidate will engage actively in the School's research and make a significant contribution to teaching and university life.

The appointee will carry out normal teaching, examining, administration and research duties and will contribute to other activities of the School as directed by the Head of School and/or his/her nominee.

See below for full details.

Notes for Applicants:

- All applicants are asked to submit a detailed letter of application when uploading their CV and related application material for the post.
- Appointees will commence in this post on 1 September 2023.
- There are currently two permanent posts available in the School and candidates should ensure they are applying to the correct vacancy.

95 Lecturer/Asst Professor (ATB) Salary Scale: €55,951 - €88,601 per annum

Appointment will be made on scale and in accordance with the Department of Finance guidelines.

Closing date: 17:00hrs (Local Irish time) on 26th October 2022

Applications must be submitted by the closing date and time specified. Any applications which are still in progress at the closing time of 17:00hrs (Local Irish Time) on the specified closing date will be cancelled automatically by the system. UCD are unable to accept late applications.

UCD do not require assistance from Recruitment Agencies. Any CVs submitted by Recruitment Agencies will be returned.

Job 18137: Collegiate Assistant Professor

Date: Thursday, September 1, 2022
133. University of Chicago

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023
Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/2/2022 to 10/1/2022
Institution: University of Chicago
Department: The College
Region: Midwest
Title: Collegiate Assistant Professor
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas, Open to All Specialty Areas
Salary Range: $80,000 - $89,999
Submission Link: https://fellows.uchicago.edu

Job Description:
The College at the University of Chicago is now accepting applications for four-year postdoctoral teaching appointments as Harper and Schmidt Fellows who hold the rank of Collegiate Assistant Professor. Collegiate Assistant Professors are members of the College Faculty whose primary professional responsibility is to teach in the general education (Core) program. Core courses in the Humanities typically deal with fundamental issues and texts in history, philosophy, and literature. Currently, the Core is organized into eight year-long sequences: Readings in World Literature; Human Being and Citizen; Greece and Rome: Texts, Traditions, Transformations; Philosophical Perspectives on the Humanities; Media Aesthetics; Reading Cultures; Poetry and the Human; and Language and the Human. For a description of these sequences see: http://collegecatalog.uchicago.edu/thecollege/humanities/core.
The Core courses in the Social Sciences explore, on the basis of significant works or primary source materials, the fundamental concepts and the different modes of inquiry that have defined the social sciences in the modern period. Currently, Core Assistant Professors teach in six of the year-long sequences into which the Core is organized: Self, Culture and Society; Classics of Social and Political Thought; Power, Identity, and Resistance; Global Society; Mind (a broad course explaining social science in the context of psychological science research); and Social Science Inquiry. For a description of these sequences see: http://collegecatalog.uchicago.edu/thecollege/socialsciences/core.

Some Collegiate Assistant Professors also teach in the History of European Civilization Core sequence as well as the Introductions to the Civilizations of East Asia Core sequences. These courses are taught on the basis of intensive readings of significant primary source documents. For descriptions of the History of European Civilization and the Civilizations of East Asia sequences see: http://collegecatalog.uchicago.edu/thecollege/civilizationstudies.

The positions are open to scholars in all disciplines and areas of specialization who will have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. degree no later than August 31, 2023. Candidates must demonstrate excellence in teaching as well as in their original scholarship.

In most years, Collegiate Assistant Professors teach two courses (usually of identical preparation) for each of three quarters. In the second through fourth year of residence, each Collegiate Assistant Professor has the opportunity to design up to two independent courses and each is eligible for one quarter of research sabbatical. In the fourth year there is a possibility of another quarter of sabbatical with salary reduction.
The position comes with an annual salary for 2023-24 of $80,166, carries full benefits, and an annual professional development fund of $6,500. The effective date for these teaching appointments is September 1, 2023.

To apply for these positions, please see our web site at https://fellows.uchicago.edu. The web site will be available to accept applications beginning August 19, 2022. The terms and conditions of these positions are described in the collective bargaining agreement between the University and the Service Employees International Union. On-line application deadline: 11:59:59 PM EDT, Friday, October 14, 2022.
We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange. The University’s Statements on Diversity are at https://provost.uchicago.edu/statements-diversity.
The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University’s Notice of Nondiscrimination at https://www.uchicago.edu/non-discrimination.
Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-834-0681 or email dneibel@uchicago.edu with their request.

Job 18110: Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellow 2023-2025

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023

Application Deadline:
Listing Active: 8/1/2022 to 9/30/2022

Institution: Brown University
Department: Watson Institute
Region: Northeast
Title: Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellow 2023-2025
Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: Post-doctoral
Tenure/Tenure Track: Not Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas, Open to All Specialty Areas
Salary Range: $60,000 - $69,999

Job Description:

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University aspires to promote a just and peaceful world through research, teaching, and public engagement. Central to this mission is the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, an effort to galvanize the careers of young social scientists conducting research related to the Institute’s three core thematic areas: development, governance, and security. Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Fellows receive two years of support, with the expectation that they will pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the Institute. Fellows will also teach one course per year in the Institute or in an affiliated Brown University social science department. Watson Institute is especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

The fellowship competition is open to candidates from the social sciences, including anthropology, economics, history, political science, and sociology. The selection process, open with regard to nationality and geographic area of research, is highly competitive and typically generates over 500 applications for 4 or 5 places. Scholars who have received their PhDs within two years of the application deadline are eligible to apply. Individuals who are currently – or have previously been – postdoctoral fellows in other programs are not eligible to apply. Fellows will receive an annual stipend of $60,000, for this benefits-eligible position. Additional funding will be made available for research expenses and research-related programming on campus. Candidates selected for the Postdoctoral Fellows program who have not completed their dissertations by July 1, 2023, will be paid a reduced salary until their dissertation is defended.

To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by September 30, 2022 to the application portal http://apply.interfolio.com/109862
- A cover letter stating the applicant’s academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear where in the Institute’s core areas of security, development, or governance the proposed research best fits. Please also include a statement about teaching in a diverse and inclusive classroom.
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae.
- A copy of each graduate transcript.
- A writing sample.
- Three letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant’s research.

Review of applications will begin on September 30; to receive full consideration applications should be received by that date. Awards will be announced in January 2023.

Job Description:

Job Purpose:

The Department of Sociology and Criminology at Gonzaga University in Spokane, WA invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning Fall 2023 (3/3 teaching load). This faculty member will contribute to the Solidarity and Social Justice (SOSJ) program, teaching introductory and capstone classes for SOSJ, and SOSJ electives that cross-list with sociology. We seek a colleague dedicated to social change activism, research, and teaching who demonstrates familiarity with and/or interest in engaging Ignatian spirituality, Catholic social teaching, and/or liberation theology. Preference will be given to candidates who can teach a course on social movements. The faculty member could also support the new Health Equity minor if research and teaching interests aligned. Applicants must describe their fit with Gonzaga’s mission and demonstrate a commitment to teaching excellence and an inclusive learning environment.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Sociology, or a closely related field. ABD considered, with the expectation that the candidate will have degree in hand by July 15, 2023.
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness, including the ability to effectively create inclusive learning environments with students from diverse and marginalized backgrounds and experiences.
- Demonstrated active research agenda in social change activism.

Job Duties:

- Teach three courses each semester, including introductory-level courses (SOSJ 101, SOCI 101) in areas of social justice and sociology, the SOSJ internship-based senior capstone course, and electives in the candidate’s areas of expertise. A minimum of four courses per year will be dedicated to the Solidarity and Social Justice program.
- Engage in research, publication, and other scholarly activity appropriate to the candidate’s research agenda and areas of expertise.
- Provide curricular and career advising and mentoring to the programs’ undergraduates.
- Support the department, university, and discipline through service and other forms of academic citizenship.

Application Procedure:

To apply, please visit our website at www.gonzaga.edu/jobs. Applicants must complete an online application and electronically submit (1) a cover letter, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) teaching portfolio, including a statement of teaching philosophy that includes evidence of responsiveness to the academic needs of students from diverse backgrounds and experiences, evidence of teaching excellence, sample course syllabus taught by candidate, (4) unofficial copies of graduate school transcripts, (5) research portfolio, including writing sample and statement of research interests, and (6) the names and email address for three persons who will be writing letters of recommendation. The position closes on September 15, 2022, at 11:59 p.m. U.S. PST. For assistance with your online application, please contact Human Resources at (509) 313-5996. Direct other inquiries to Dr. Andrea Bertotti Metoyer, Professor, Department of Sociology and Criminology, bertottimetoyer@gonzaga.edu.

Employer Description:

Gonzaga University sits adjacent to downtown Spokane, WA, along the Spokane River. We exist on the historical lands of Salish speaking tribes in the Inland Northwest’s most metropolitan region. Spokane is Washington’s second largest city and is home to a diverse array of neighborhoods and shopping districts, with many exciting food and beverage amenities. We are a short drive from hiking, skiing, rafting, and climbing locations.

Gonzaga University is a Jesuit, Catholic, humanistic institution, and is therefore interested in candidates who will contribute to its distinctive mission. Gonzaga University is a committed EEO/AA employer and diversity candidates are encouraged to apply. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to their disability status and/or protected veteran status.

Job Description:

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology is seeking an outstanding individual with a strong commitment to academic and research excellence commensurate with the expectations of a major research university, a proven record of effective leadership, and a visionary approach to administration. The Department Head will assist in promoting research, engagement, and graduate and undergraduate education in the department.

Reporting to the Dean of the College of Humanities and Social Sciences, the Department Head, serving as the department's academic leader and administrative officer, will be called upon to provide strategic leadership and vision in:

- creating an environment that facilitates an effective shared vision; serving as a thought leader and ambassador for the department, college, and university;
- leading departmental academic, research and engagement activities in the context of a broad vision of the discipline;
- facilitating an inclusive, equitable, and culturally competent environment with a strong commitment to recruiting and retaining diverse faculty, staff, and students;
- promoting and rewarding excellence in faculty research, teaching and mentoring, department, college, and university service, and community engagement;
- fostering a culture of high-impact interdisciplinary collaboration within the college; building partnerships and alliances across the university;
- advancing departmental and college academic excellence within the university as well as relative to peer institutions;
- linking programs within the department to the broader college and university missions; developing external partnerships, when relevant, in support of the department's mission and goals; aligning and allocating resources with departmental strategic plans and vision;
- demonstrating scholarly and professional engagement & excellence.

Duties and responsibilities include, but are not limited to the following:

- performance evaluations for all direct reports, including annual reviews and recommendations for faculty retention, promotion, and tenure;
- recruitment and hiring of new faculty and staff;
- recommendations for salaries for faculty and staff hires, including new hires, legislative increases, discretionary increases, and retentions; in a fair, equitable, principled, and defensible manner;
- coordination and management of course scheduling;
- curriculum assessment and revision;
- management of the faculty's committee and service assignments;
- resolution of student academic problems;
- allocation of available space to meet departmental needs
- comprehensive planning of all funding sources in the department using all available funding sources to meet the needs of the department;
- management and administration of fiscal resources, including planning, expenditure of funds in accordance with relevant processes and rules, and execution of fiscal year close out in accordance with college standards
- assisting, when appropriate, the college's development staff in fundraising;
- external relations with alumni and the community;
- representing the department in college and university-level planning and strategy development.

Inclusiveness and diversity are integral to NC State's commitment to excellence in research, engagement, and education. We are particularly interested in candidates who have demonstrated experience engaging with diversity through activities such as fostering an inclusive environment, working with students from diverse backgrounds, or incorporating diverse perspectives in research/leadership.

The successful candidate will possess an outstanding record of research, teaching, and leadership accomplishments along with a strong commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Employer Description:

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology serves students and the broader public by informing and influencing theory and practice in areas such as gender, class, and ethnic/racial inequalities; work and occupations; archaeological science; family issues; food culture and environments; state formation; social movements; health and the body; and crime and social control. Across this range of interests, the Department collectively values purposeful research that creates new knowledge and addresses pressing social concerns. As part of our university's land-grant mission, we bring a spirit of service to our research and engagement and are dedicated to attracting, recruiting, and retaining students and faculty from all backgrounds.

With about 25 full-time faculty, in addition to staff, lecturers and instructors, the department teaches more than 9,000 students each academic year. At the graduate level, we offer a Ph.D. in Sociology, an M.A. in Sociology, and an M.A. in Anthropology to approximately 70 graduate students. At the undergraduate level, our 500 majors study for a B.A. in Anthropology, B.A. in Criminology, a B.A. in Sociology, or a B.S. in Sociology.

Title: Assistant Professor of Sociology - Computational Sociology

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Quantitative Methodology

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

Description:
The Department of Sociology in the College of Arts and Sciences at The Ohio State University invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor position in computational sociology to commence autumn semester 2023. We seek candidates who are well-grounded in sociological theory and create new computational approaches to generate knowledge and advance sociological methodology. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches – including but not limited to – text analysis, networks, advanced quantitative methods, Bayesian statistics, analysis of large-N data, experiments, machine learning, and simulations. Responsibilities of the position include maintaining a robust research program, including actively seeking external funding, contributing to excellence in graduate and undergraduate teaching and mentoring, and engaged service to the university and the profession. Scholars who can work collaboratively with a multidisciplinary team are of particular interest, as are those who can engage with other programs and interdisciplinary research centers at the university.

Qualifications:
Applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in sociology or a related field by the start of employment and present evidence of potential for excellence in teaching and research. Appointment is contingent on the university’s verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

Application Instructions:

Job 18131: Assistant to Associate Professor of Sociology- Race, Ethnicity, and the Criminal Justice System

Date Position is Available: Fall 2023

Application Deadline:

Listing Active: 8/1/2022 to 9/30/2022

Institution: Ohio State University

Department: Department of Sociology

Region: Midwest

Title: Assistant to Associate Professor of Sociology- Race, Ethnicity, and the Criminal Justice System

Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor, Academic Positions: Assistant/Associate Professor, Academic Positions: Associate Professor

Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Racial and Ethnic Relations, Criminal Justice

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

Description:

The Department of Sociology in the College of Arts and Sciences at The Ohio State University invites applications for a tenure track position in the fields of race and ethnicity and the criminal justice system at the assistant or associate professor level, to commence autumn semester 2023. We seek candidates who are well-grounded in theoretical perspectives relevant to the study of race, ethnicity, and the criminal justice system, including their intersections and related inequalities in modern society (e.g., concentration of poverty and segregation). Relevant experience of the position includes maintaining a robust research program, including actively seeking external funding, contributing to excellence in graduate and undergraduate teaching and mentoring, and engaged service to the university and the profession. Scholars who can work collaboratively with a multidisciplinary team are of particular interest, as are those who can engage with other programs and interdisciplinary research centers at the university.

This position is part of a multidisciplinary cluster hiring initiative to recruit a cohort of four faculty members whose research contributes to advancing racial and criminal justice through collaborative science. Participating units include the Department of Sociology, Department of Political Science, John Glenn College of Public Affairs, and Moritz College of Law. This hiring program is supported by the university’s Race, Inclusion, and Social Equity (RAISE) initiative.

Through the Race, Inclusion and Social Equity (RAISE) initiative, Ohio State is enhancing our world-class research program on race, inclusion, and social equity. Over the next decade, the university will add at least 50 tenure-track faculty members to existing scholars whose research can help to narrow social disparities in educational attainment, health outcomes, rates of incarceration, political representation, environmental impacts, and economic well-being. Adding scholars in focused areas will enhance the University’s outstanding faculty and inform solutions to intractable issues. RAISE is part of Ohio State’s larger initiative to expand the size and impact of Ohio State’s faculty over the coming decade, while also enhancing academic and personal resources to support Ohio State scholars, educators, and practitioners through all phases of their careers.

Qualifications:

Applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in sociology or a related field by the start of employment and present evidence of potential for excellence in teaching and research. Appointment is contingent on the university’s verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

The Ohio State University believes in diversity of people and ideas. What Ohio State does matters. And how we do it matters. When we are at our best, we make a real difference to people. We believe that the university should be a place where people can work and learn together in a safe environment, free of violence, harassment, discrimination, exploitation, and intimidation. As such, finalists for any faculty position that carries tenure must sign an authorization and disclosure form, which will allow current or prior employer(s) to share information to the University regarding any findings of employment-related misconduct or disciplinary proceedings against a candidate and/or any pending investigations related to alleged misconduct. Such information shall include findings and pending investigations with respect to sexual harassment, violence, or harassment; research misconduct; financial fraud or misconduct; or any other type of finding or pending investigation related to a candidate’s employer’s policies and rules governing faculty conduct that may be reasonably expected to affect a candidate’s appointment. If the University becomes aware of any past finding of misconduct or pending investigations that were not disclosed, Ohio State will treat that as a serious omission and reserves the right to rescind an offer or terminate employment. Region: Northeast

Title: Visiting Fellow, Program in Latin American Studies

Position/Rank: Fellowships/Post-docs: Other

Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Open to All Specialty Areas

Salary Range: Negotiable

Job Description:

The Program in Latin American Studies is launching an open call for applications for next year's visiting short-term fellowships. We are looking for top scholars in their field. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects relating to Latin America who are stellar teachers.

Appointments will be for one month during the 2023-2024 academic year (September 1, 2023 to June 30, 2024). The Office of the Dean of the Faculty determines stipend on the basis of current academic rank; appointment rank at Princeton is determined on the basis of seniority and current institutional affiliation.

Visiting Fellows will be expected to devote themselves to research and to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, all the materials listed below must be received by October 16, 2022. All candidates must apply online to submit materials at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/26502.

1. Cover letter (in English) indicating when the applicant proposes to stay for one month during the academic year (September 1, 2023 to June 30, 2024), title of the proposed research project, and an explanation for reasons to be here at Princeton (i.e., use the library, look at particular archives, work with members of the faculty, etc.);
2. Curriculum vitae (in English);
3. A statement (in English) describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (1,500 – 2,000 words);
4. The names and contact information of two referees. (The Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Job Description:

The Sociology and Anthropology Department at Southwestern University seeks candidates for two tenure-track Assistant Professor of Sociology positions to start August 2023. Successful applicants will demonstrate a commitment to pursuing excellence in teaching undergraduate sociology courses in a liberal arts environment. In the years leading up to tenure, the faculty members are expected to teach an introductory course, two required core classes (quantitative research methods, sociological theory, or the research-based senior capstone course), and two upper-level electives in their area(s) of specialization. The university’s standard teaching load is five courses per academic year (3-2 or 2-3) and our faculty have no more than four course preparations per year. We are particularly interested in candidates who can teach in one or more of the following areas: crime and deviance; gender, immigration, medical sociology, race and ethnicity, or social inequalities. We especially welcome candidates who use an intersectional approach and who can contribute to one or more of a range of interdisciplinary programs such as Race and Ethnicity Studies, Feminist Studies, International Studies, and Latin American and Border Studies.

Southwestern embraces the teacher-scholar model; we seek candidates with a commitment to teaching undergraduates and pursuing scholarship at a liberal arts university that offers ongoing support for scholars' development, including pre- and post-tenure sabbatical programs, funding for conferences, opportunities for collaborative research, and low average class sizes. In addition to teaching and research, faculty member responsibilities include department and university service as well as academic advising.

Southwestern University (Georgetown, Texas) is a selective undergraduate residential liberal arts institution located in the greater Austin area. Established in 1840, Southwestern enrolls approximately 1,500 students and maintains a student–faculty ratio of 12 to 1. The university provides a highly interdisciplinary and holistic education that values high-impact learning experiences, such as study abroad, internships, and faculty-student research. A member of the recently formed Liberal Arts Colleges Racial Equity Leadership Alliance, Southwestern is committed to fostering a diverse educational environment and encourages applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in academia. Additional information about the university can be found at our website: www.southwestern.edu.

Candidates must have a PhD in Sociology, established excellence in teaching undergraduate students, a commitment to working closely with undergraduate students and mentoring undergraduate research, a growing record of national conference presentations and peer-reviewed publications, and evidence of working towards diversity, equity, and inclusion through their teaching, research, and/or institutional service.

Building on Southwestern University’s commitment to academic excellence and making connections within and across disciplines, we are pleased to share that both of these positions are part of a diversity, equity, and inclusion cohort hiring initiative in the thematic areas of race, ethnicity, and social justice. The thematic hire initiative seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of teacher-scholars from multiple disciplines in the humanities and social sciences (including English, Feminist Studies, History, Political Science, and Sociology) who will strengthen the University offerings in race, ethnicity, and social justice as well as increase curricular coverage of areas related to diversity and inclusion. As part of the thematic hiring process, Southwestern will provide members of the cohort with opportunities and resources to enhance their success and well-being such as participating in mentoring networks, research and writing workshops, and additional ongoing professional development.

The Sociology and Anthropology Department and Southwestern University are committed to recruiting candidates who both excel in teaching and research and can best serve our diverse student population. As of the Fall 2023 semester, 41% of students enrolled at Southwestern are members of groups traditionally underrepresented in higher education and we are committed to further increasing and supporting the diversity of our students, faculty and curriculum. The Department seeks candidates who have a demonstrated commitment to, and will take an active role in, enhancing diversity, inclusion, and equity across the University, including fostering a sense of community and belonging for students. In your application materials, please include specific and detailed information about how you have worked to enhance diversity and inclusion through your teaching practices, research, and/or service experiences within the college or university setting.

For full consideration, applicants should submit 1) a C.V. that includes the names and contact information of three academic references, 2) a no more than two-page teaching statement that includes a description of your pedagogical approach, teaching experience, and concrete ways that you work to foster an inclusive classroom environment, and a 3) two-page cover letter by Friday, September 23, 2022 to http://apply.interfolio.com/110380. The cover letter should include descriptions of a) your particular interest in working at a liberal arts university characterized by faculty-student collaborative learning and research; b) the core and upper-level elective sociology courses you are interested in teaching; c) your research pursuits; and, d) your efforts to enhance diversity and inclusion within the academy.

All offers of employment are contingent on successful completion of the University’s Background Check Policy process. Southwestern University is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Job Description:

St. Norbert College invites applications for a full-time, tenure track Assistant Professor of Sociology to begin in August 2023. We are seeking candidates who can offer courses in some of the following areas: (1) law, social control, and society; (2) race and ethnicity; (3) immigration; and (4) globalization. Research specializations are open. The position requires a Ph.D. in Sociology at the time of appointment. Successful candidates will demonstrate dedication to excellent liberal arts teaching. Responsibilities include teaching three classes per semester, while advising students and maintaining active research and service agendas. The successful candidate will design and teach courses in Sociology that support the Sociology major and the College’s Core Curriculum program.

How To Apply: Interested candidates should submit: (1) a detailed letter of application addressing qualifications for the position, (2) a CV, (3) a statement of teaching philosophy, (4) a statement addressing the candidate’s commitment to EDIJB, and (5) three letters of recommendation. Please submit all materials to the attention of Dr. Bola Delano-Oriaran, Divisional Dean, Social Sciences Division, St. Norbert College via the “Apply Now” link found on the College’s Human Resources website (https://stnorbert.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/SNC_Careers/details/Assistant-Professor-of-Sociology_JR100432). Questions may be directed to bola.delano-oriaran@snc.edu. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2022, and continue until the position is filled.

Employer Description:

St. Norbert College, located on the ancestral home of the Menominee Nation, is a thriving, nationally ranked Catholic liberal arts college known for its academic excellence, global focus, and leadership and service opportunities. We acknowledge the living history and contributions of the Indigenous communities that inhabited this land prior to establishment of St. Norbert College, as well as Wisconsin’s sovereign First Nations/American Indian Nations and Tribal Communities who continue to contribute to the flourishing of our communities. We are situated on an attractive riverside campus in De Pere, Wisconsin, a community contiguous with the city of Green Bay. The Green Bay metropolitan area offers abundant opportunities for recreational and cultural endeavors, is served by its international airport, and is located 200 miles north of Chicago. For additional information, visit the Life in the New North (https://www.thenewnorth.com/living-in-the-new-north/quality-of-life/) or the St. Norbert College website (www.snc.edu). St. Norbert offers competitive salaries and excellent benefits. St. Norbert College is an equal opportunity employer committed to enhancing the diversity of people, ideas, and talents. We invite and welcome candidates with research interests, pedagogical experience, or lived experience demonstrating a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, justice, and belonging (EDIJB) to join the college community in our pursuit of justice, inclusion, and excellence. Applications from members of historically underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged. The College’s mission emphasizes the Norbertine vision of community and includes providing “an educational environment that fosters intellectual, spiritual and personal development.” We seek candidates who will contribute to our mission and support our commitment to building a vibrant, diverse, and spiritually engaged community (https://www.snc.edu/mission/statement.html).

Title: Assistant or Associate Professors
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant/Associate Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Policy Analysis, Other Program/Area
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link:
Job Description: The University of Chicago Crown School of Social Work, Policy and Practice (Crown Family School) invites applications for tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professors with specialization in the area of policy and programs that aim to improve the well-being of low-income individuals and families.

We have opportunities for scholars in two distinct areas:

1) Policy analysis: Candidates for this position will have expertise in assessing policy outcomes in areas that may include—but are not limited to—poverty and income assistance, employment and work, child, family, and caregiving, housing, social determinants of health, or neighborhood and urban policies. Successful candidates will have advanced quantitative skills and experience working with large data sets, including surveys, administrative records, and/or other types of secondary data. We also welcome applicants who specialize in research using mixed methods, simulation, longitudinal, and multi-level designs.

2) Policy implementation, frontline practice, and/or community-oriented approaches: Candidates for this position might investigate issues such as how policies are experienced by participants and/or delivered by workers; policy and program innovation at the state, local, or community level; or mutual aid and grassroots approaches. Examples of areas of interest may include—but are not limited to—studies of street level bureaucracy, governance, administrative burdens, racialization in the policy process, or community-led alternatives. This position is open to diverse methodological approaches.

Successful candidates for both positions will engage in scholarship that is theoretically and empirically driven, innovative, and has clear implications for practice or policy. We encourage applications from scholars who think critically about the policies and programs they study, recognizing the larger structures of oppression within which they are embedded. Teaching and mentoring is expected at all levels but primarily at the graduate level. The anticipated start date is July 1, 2023, or after.

Applicants must possess a doctorate (or have a doctorate by the date of appointment) in social work, public policy/administration, sociology, public health, political science, economics, or a related field. Applicants should submit a cover letter, a Curriculum Vita, a statement that outlines research and teaching interests, and two writing samples that best represent the applicant’s approach (applicants for the dissertation stage should include part or all of their dissertation for one of these). Contact information for at least three references should also be included; references will be contacted after an initial review of submitted materials and candidates will be notified prior to contact. Consideration of applications will begin on September 6, 2022 and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed; early submission is encouraged.

Listing Active: 8/1/2022 to 9/30/2022
Institution: University of Utah
Department: Department of Sociology
Region: West
Title: Assistant Professor of Sociology (Med Soc/Pop Health)
Position/Rank: Academic Positions: Assistant Professor
Tenure/Tenure Track: Tenure Track
Special Program and Areas of Faculty Expertise: Medical Sociology, Demography
Salary Range: Negotiable
Submission Link: https://utah.peopleadmin.com/postings/136878

Job Description:
The Department of Sociology at the University of Utah invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2023. We seek a scholar who can contribute to the department’s Population and Health area (https://soc.utah.edu/graduate/pop-health-epiphaxis.php). Examples of potential research areas include, but are not limited to: health disparities and social determinants of health, population or demographic approaches to health and human behavior, aging and life course studies, and medical sociology.

This position will contribute directly to an established, long-standing partnership between the Department of Sociology and the interdisciplinary Health, Society & Policy (HSP) undergraduate degree program (www.hsp.utah.edu). While there will be shared teaching and service roles for Sociology and HSP, the tenure home will be exclusively in Sociology.

Applicant requirements:
- An earned doctoral degree in Sociology by the employment start date.
- Experience and/or demonstrated potential for research excellence, including a well-defined research agenda and a record of (or clear potential for) academic publication and extramural funding.
- Ability to contribute to the department’s undergraduate and graduate teaching mission, with the ability to teach courses related to Research Methods, Statistics, Population Studies, and/or Social Epidemiology.
- A strong commitment to upholding the University of Utah’s values and principles related to equity, diversity, and inclusion (https://diversity.utah.edu/).

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2022 and continue until the position is filled. Apply online at: https://utah.peopleadmin.com/postings/136878. Please submit (1) cover letter detailing your research and teaching interests and experience and include a discussion of how your work and other experiences can contribute to the success of underrepresented students at the University of Utah, (2) CV, (3) an academic writing sample, and (4) contact information for three people who will provide letters of recommendation.

Please address any inquiries regarding the position to Dr. Megan Reynolds (megan.reynolds@soc.utah.edu). For technical assistance or questions about the application process, contact Angela Midgley (angela.midgley@soc.utah.edu).

Employer Description:
The University of Utah, a Research-1 public institution and member of the Association of American Universities, is the flagship of the Utah System of Higher Education. It has approximately 25,000 undergraduate and 8,000 graduate students and a single campus that includes four hospitals and numerous specialty and community health clinics, which provides ample opportunities for clinical/research partnerships. The Sociology department awards the BA/BS in Sociology, BA/BS in Criminology, Master of Statistics, and PhD degrees. Sociology and HSP are among the most diverse majors on campus, with 38% and 44% of students identifying as non-white. Academic Analytics recently ranked the department first among 207 U.S. sociology departments in the number of articles published per faculty member. The University of Utah is located in Salt Lake City (1.3 million people). Salt Lake City offers unparalleled opportunities for outdoor recreation, with world-class hiking and multiple ski resorts within minutes from campus and five national parks within hours of the city. In 2021, the Human Rights Campaign scored Salt Lake City a perfect 100 on its Municipal Equality Index (https://www.hrc.org/resources/mei-2021-see-your-cities-scores).

EEO/Non-Discrimination Information
The University of Utah and Department of Sociology value candidates who have experience working in settings with students, staff, faculty and patients from diverse backgrounds and possess a strong commitment to improving access to higher education, employment opportunities, and quality healthcare for historically underrepresented groups. We strive to recruit faculty who will enhance our diversity and uphold our commitment to fostering equity, diversity, and inclusion. We recognize that a diverse faculty benefits and enriches the educational experiences of the entire campus and community.

Individuals from historically underrepresented groups, such as persons of color, women, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. Veterans’ preference is extended to qualified applicants, upon request and consistent with University policy and Utah state law. Upon request, reasonable accommodations in the application process will be provided to individuals with disabilities.

The University of Utah is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and educator. University policies prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, national origin, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity/expression, religion, age, status as a person with a disability, or veteran status. To inquire further about the University’s nondiscrimination and affirmative action policies, or to request an accommodation in the application process, contact the University’s Office of Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action, and Title IX at (801) 581-8365 or oeo@utah.edu.

Employer Description:

About WSU, Pullman, CAS, and Department of Sociology: Washington State University, a land grant, multiple-campus Research 1 institution. This position will serve on the Pullman campus, which has an enrollment of around 20,000 students and is located in Southeastern Washington on the homelands of the Nimíipuu (Nez Perce) Tribe and Palus people. Located 80 miles south of metropolitan Spokane, Pullman is also a quick drive away from the scenic Idaho panhandle and Moscow Mountain. The rolling hills of the Palouse offer a wide range of activities and a true four-season climate. The area provides ample opportunity to enjoy the cultural and academic hub of both Washington State University and the University of Idaho, in the neighboring town of Moscow, Idaho. For more information about the region, please see https://pullmanchamber.com.

Encompassing more than 30 departments, schools, and research institutes on five campuses statewide, the College of Arts & Sciences is the heart of WSU. Together our 730+ faculty and staff deliver more than 50% of WSU’s total undergraduate and graduate instruction, including the vast majority of WSU’s core curriculum. We also drive annual research expenditures of more than $26 million, with wide interdisciplinary strengths in public and community health, environmental change, equity and social justice, and data and technology at the boundaries. As Arts & Sciences begins its 10th anniversary as a unified college, we seek to lead a reimagining of WSU’s land-grant mission for the 21st century, expanding the boundaries of creativity and discovery while simultaneously recognizing more completely our obligations to Native and Indigenous peoples. For more about the College of Arts & Sciences at WSU, please see https://cas.wsu.edu.

The Department of Sociology has a long history of advancing sociological knowledge, and our faculty are nationally and internationally recognized for their expertise. Sociology faculty have recently served as National Academies committee members and as section chairs or council members for the American Sociological Association and a range of its sections, and as leaders in the Rural Sociological Society, the Interdisciplinary Association for Population Health Science, and the Society for Longitudinal and Life Course Studies. Faculty and students engage a diverse set of research methods, and the department is associated with WSU’s Social and Economic Sciences Research Center. Faculty research programs are supported by the NSF, NIMHD, NIA, and NIJ. The department offers a bachelor’s degree, three interdisciplinary minors, a certificate in sustainable organizational leadership, and a doctorate in sociology. Faculty have been honored with the University’s highest teaching and graduate mentoring awards, and are members of the President’s Teaching Academy.

The Department is committed to the retention of new faculty and as such the successful candidate will be provided with a faculty mentoring committee, benefit from peer/mutual mentoring opportunities, and have access to university programs such as the External Mentor Program.

WSU acknowledges that its locations statewide are on the homelands of Native American peoples, who have lived in this region and have been caretakers of the land from time immemorial. The Morrill Act of 1862 established our land-grant institution by providing public and federal lands that are traced back to the disposition of Indigenous lands, often taken by coercive and violent acts, and the disregard of treaties. For that, we extend our deepest apologies. We owe our deepest gratitude to the Native peoples of this region and maintain our commitment towards reconciliation. And as a land-grant institution, WSU is deeply committed to the land-grant mission, its Memorandums of Understanding with Native tribes in the region, and a tradition of service to society. To read the full WSU land acknowledgement, please see https://wsu.edu/about/wsu-land-acknowledgment/.

Assistant Professor of Sociology

Whitman College

Tenure-track position in Sociology, with expertise in criminology, corrections, punishment, and/or crime, at the rank of assistant professor. Qualified applicants will also have expertise in statistics and/or quantitative methods. PhD is required at the start of the position (August 2023).

The successful candidate will offer courses in criminology or criminal justice, corrections/prisons/punishment, crime and society, deviance, and/or closely related fields. The candidate will also offer courses in social statistics and/or quantitative methods, as well as other sociology courses at all levels (including senior thesis advising). The annual teaching load is five courses. The College provides a generous pre-tenure sabbatical leave program and professional development support for both research and teaching.

Located in Walla Walla, Whitman's beautiful tree-lined campus is home to an intellectually diverse, dynamic, and supportive community of some 500 staff and faculty serving roughly 1,500 students from the local region and across the globe. With exceptional students, accomplished faculty and staff, along with a fiercely loyal and growing number of engaged alumni, Whitman College continues to build on its national reputation for academic excellence as one of the top liberal arts colleges in the country.

Whitman College is committed to cultivating a diverse learning community. Applicants should explain how their classroom and scholarly practices will serve to create and sustain an inclusive learning environment. This statement can be included in the cover letter or the teaching statement. In their cover letter, candidates should address their interest in working at a liberal arts college with undergraduates, majors as well as non-majors, at all levels of instruction.

To apply, go to: https://apptrkr.com/3287423. BambooHR will prompt you to submit all of the required materials: a letter of application; separate statements addressing the candidate’s teaching interests and scholarly/performance agenda; curriculum vitae; contact information for three references; graduate transcripts; and complete sets of teaching evaluations or other evidence of demonstrated or potential excellence in undergraduate instruction.

Deadline: September 15, 2022

Whitman College is cultivating a community built on inclusion and belonging. We recognize the value of those who can offer historically underrepresented perspectives and encourage applications from those whose background, knowledge, and insights from lived experience can add to the college’s working and learning environment. Whitman College is an Equal Employment Opportunity employer (EEO)

No applicant shall be discriminated against on the basis of race, color, sex, gender, religion, age, marital status, national origin, disability, veteran's status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or any other basis prohibited by applicable federal, state, or local law.
