Annual Meeting Policies

Anti-Harassment Policy

ASA reminds everyone: Our Annual Meeting is convened for the purposes of professional development and scholarly educational interchange in the spirit of free inquiry and free expression. Harassment of colleagues, students, or other conference participants undermines the principle of equity at the heart of these professional fora and is inconsistent with the principles of free inquiry and free expression. Consequently, harassment is considered by ASA to be a serious form of professional misconduct.

The following Anti-Harassment Policy outlines expectations for all those who attend or participate in ASA meetings. It reminds ASA meeting participants that all professional academic ethics and norms apply as standards of behavior and interaction at these meetings.

Purpose. ASA is committed to providing a safe and welcoming conference environment for all participants, free from harassment based on age, race, sex, ethnicity, national origin, religion, language, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression, disability, health conditions, socioeconomic status, marital status, domestic status, or parental status (hereafter, simply harassment). "Participant" in this policy refers to anyone present at ASA meetings, including staff, contractors, vendors, exhibitors, venue staff, ASA members, and all other attendees.

Expected Behavior. All participants at ASA meetings are expected to abide by this Anti-Harassment Policy in all meeting venues including ancillary events as well as official and unofficial social gatherings. Follow the norms of professional respect that are necessary to promote the conditions for free academic interchange. If you witness potential harm to a conference participant, be proactive in helping to mitigate or avoid that harm. Alert conference security personnel or law enforcement if you see a situation in which someone might be in imminent physical danger.

Unacceptable Behavior. Harassment of any participant is unethical behavior under the American Sociological Association Code of Ethics. Harassment may consist of a single intense and severe act or of multiple persistent or pervasive acts which are demeaning, abusive, or offensive, or create a hostile professional or workplace environment. Harassment may include sexual solicitation, physical advance, or verbal or non-verbal conduct that is sexual in nature; it may also include threatening, intimidating, or hostile acts; circulation of written or graphic material that denigrates or shows hostility toward an individual or group; epithets, slurs, or negative stereotyping based on group identity.

Attendees are encouraged to immediately report instances of harassment during the Annual Meeting to the ASA Executive Officer, Nancy Kidd, at nkidd@asanet.org, (646) 408-9063 or to the Director of Meeting Services, Michelle Randall, at mrandall@asanet.org. Reports will be treated as confidential. Violations of this policy may lead to removal from the Annual Meeting. To read the American Sociological Association Code of Ethics in its entirety, visit www.asanet.org and follow the link to Ethics.

Permission for Recording and Social Media Use

The American Sociological Association (ASA), through itself or its contractors, may broadcast and/or record all or portions of the events and functions at the Annual Meeting, including through audio and video recording, web streaming and photography, for the production of material distributed for a variety of purposes, including but not limited to educational, archival, commercial or promotional purposes (collectively known as "the Material"). By registering, you irrevocably grant the ASA, its assignees and licensees permission to capture your image through photography, video, or any other means, and record your voice at anytime and anywhere throughout the Annual Meeting. You hereby irrevocably grant ASA, its assignees and licensees permission to publish, record, broadcast, exhibit, digitize, display, copyright, license, transfer, reproduce, translate, modify, edit or otherwise use perpetually throughout the world, in all media now and hereafter known or devised, in whole or in part, your image, likeness, name, biographical information, actions, performance, voice, conversations, quotes and material spoken (collectively, "Likeness") as captured in Annual Meeting recordings or broadcasts. If you would like to decline permission for ASA to use your Likeness in the Material that is distributed for promotional purposes, you can request, in writing to meetings@asanet.org, to be excluded and ASA will make a good faith effort to remove you from any of the Material that is published or otherwise publicly shared for promotional purposes. Additionally, you waive any and all rights to ownership of the Material as indicated above and accept that the ASA shall be the sole owner throughout the universe and in perpetuity of any and all rights in and to any and all works containing the Material, in whole or in part, for all purposes whatsoever and in any manner or media including, without limitation, radio or other audio broadcast, television or other video broadcast, podcasts, online video platforms, printed works, DVD, online publishing, social media, correspondence, email and any other publishing or distribution services.

Additionally, Annual Meeting participants and attendees should be aware that recording by attendees during open sessions is a probability as well as posting material discussing or relating to the Annual Meeting on social media. ASA requests that all attendees respect their colleagues and behave responsibly when engaging in recording and social media activities. ASA does not take responsibility for the manner in which attendees use privately recorded material. As a general rule, Annual Meeting sessions also are open to the press, who may report on discussions, quote participants and publish other information made available during the session.

Liability Waiver

By registering for the Annual Meeting, I agree and acknowledge that I am undertaking participation in ASA events and activities as my own free and intentional act and I am fully aware that possible physical injury might occur to me as a result of my participation in these events. I give this acknowledgement freely and knowingly and that I am, as a result, able to participate in ASA events and I do hereby assume responsibility for my own well-being. I also agree not to allow any other individual to participate in my place.

Welcome from the ASA President

Mary Romero
ASA President
Arizona State University

The conference theme, “Engaging Social Justice for a Better World,” could not be a more relevant given the current political climate in the US and abroad. Over the last year, we experienced assaults on women’s human rights, continued increase in gun violence, drastic moves to accelerate destruction of the environment, a massive upsurge in hate crimes and right-wing attacks on refugees, migrants, and gender, race, religious, and ethnic minorities. The theme is deeply grounded in the historical roots of sociology; thus the conference re-engages the debate over value-free or value neutral approaches to our discipline, calling attention to decades of rigorous research springing from and grounded in social justice. As a discipline we examine the distinctive balance between scholarship and advocacy in pursuing engaged research agenda for a better world.

I am delighted to have The Association of Black Sociologists (ABS) co-sponsor our opening plenary session, “Pioneering Sociology on the Periphery: Historically Black Colleges and Universities’ Role in Founding American Scientific Sociology”, featuring presentations by Joyce Ladner (The Brookings Institution), Earl Wright (University of Cincinnati), Michael Schwartz (Stony Brook State University), Krista Johnson (Howard University), with Walter R. Allen (UCLA) serving as presider. Joining the plenary session “Public Sociology and Social Justice Sociology” is Margaret Abraham (past IVS president, Hofstra University), Kalpana Kannabiran (Council for Social Development, Hyderabad, India), Michael Burawoy (former ASA president, UC Berkeley) and Sari Hanafi (ISA President, American University of Beirut). The other two plenaries address “DuBoisian Sociology and Social Justice” and “Social Justice Lawyering and Sociology”.

Along with plenaries on the role and significance of scholar-activist sociology in the development of the discipline and impact on legislation, we have a two-part presidential panel on sociology’s historical roots in engaging social justice, which discusses this trajectory, its contributions to the discipline and achievements. The presidential panel “Building on the Tradition of DuBoisian Sociology” emphasizes future directions that build on social justice research agendas. Other Presidential Panels include: “Caring in an Unjust World”, “Finding Our Voice: Catalyzing Racial Justice Activism in the Academy and the Streets”, “White Supremacy and Sociology”, “Transgender Justice, Scholarly Activism in and for Sociology, Stonewall at/After 50”, and “Economic Justice”.

In addition to the section sessions, members can choose among 41 Special Sessions, 45 Thematic Sessions, or 44 Workshops, including 10 Teaching Workshops. We will feature twelve Author Meets Critic sessions selected from publications in 2017 and 2018. Given the high number of submissions, our theme appears to have resonance with many ASA members. And, of course New York City is always a world class milieu. ASA offers tours related to our theme, including: “The Tenement Museum Walking Tour: Then and Now”, “Gay and Lesbian History: Before Stonewall”, and “Activist New York at the Museum of the City of New York.”

Whether formally at the meetings, or informally at any of the city’s myriad restaurants bars and coffee shops -- we encourage colleagues to share the roles they have played as scholar-activists -- whether in public discourse and political policy, communicating sociological findings to wider audiences, informing debates surrounding public engagement, and/or by clarifying and fostering what it means to do public sociology and address social justice in the course of sociological inquiry. We look forward to these conversations in New York!

Acknowledgments

Thank you to the many ASA members that contributed valuable time and effort planning and organizing the 2019 annual conference. I am grateful to the colleagues that responded to my requests for suggestions and participation.

The work and commitment of the Program Committee can never be underestimated. They were central in translating my vision of engaging justice across the many subfields in sociology, and ingeniously created sessions to appeal to our members and address important social justice themes. I was fortunate to work with amazing scholars and I acknowledge their essential contributions.

In addition to the program and local arrangements committees, I also want to thank colleagues who assisted in developing specific sessions for the conference. Aldon Morris generously assisted me in organizing the plenary panel: "Pioneering Sociology on the Periphery" and organizing specific sessions on DuBoisian sociology. Salvador Vidal-Ortiz came to my aid to organize the panel on Stonewall at/After 50. Patricia Madoo Lengermann and Jill Niebrugge-Brantley organized two amazing presidential panels on Sociology's Roots in Social Justice. Sociologists for Trans Justice organized panels on Transgender Justice and Finding Our Voice: Racial Justice Activism in the Academy and the Streets. Hector Cordero-Guzman organized a regional spotlight session, "Paradise Lost: Sociological Theory and Empirical Data Matter in the Context of Bankruptcy and Colonialism?" I also appreciate Hector's assistance in contacting a Latin Jazz band for the reception. Eric Samuel Taller, Director Programming & Production of the Afro Latin Jazz Alliance (ALJA), and Gabriel Globus-Hoenich, head teacher at ALJA, worked with us to organize the entertainment.

I want to acknowledge the generous contributions from Pearson, Fordham University and Hofstra University.

Navigating the Annual Meeting

This section provides information about many of the services and activities available to you during the Annual Meeting.

Accessibility Resources and Services. ASA is committed to making the Annual Meeting accessible to all. Should you encounter any problems during the meeting or need additional information about accessibility while at the Annual Meeting, please contact the ASA Meeting Information Desk located on the 2nd Floor of the New York Hilton. Every reasonable effort will be made to assist registrants onsite. If you need services, equipment, or accommodations, but did not notify ASA in advance, ASA may not be able to provide appropriate services due to limited availability of equipment and services and the time required to locate such equipment and services.

ASA will have a small inventory of scooters for use by registrants who need them, however if you prefer to rent your own wheelchair or scooter, please contact with Scoot Around North America (888) 441-7575. There will be a charging station in the exhibit hall.

If you have any problem or negative experience related to accessibility, including issues with housing, meeting sessions, travel throughout the city, restaurants, or any other accessibility related issue, please report the issue to the Meeting Information desk. An ASA Meeting Services team member will record the concern in our Accessibility Log and will be your advocates in working to resolve the issue whenever possible. By informing us of any concerns that arise we can work toward making the ASA Annual Meeting more welcoming to sociologists with disabilities and make the cities and hotels where ASA meetings are held more aware of accessibility issues.

Area of Rescue Assistance. An Area of Rescue Assistance will be established and clearly marked with signage on each upper floor of meeting space in both hotels. In the event of a hotel evacuation during meeting hours, hotel staff will check these areas for attendees who require assistance.

ASA Meeting Information Desk. The ASA Meeting Information Desk is located on the 2nd Floor of the New York Hilton.

Comfort Room. Comfort rooms have been designated for use by attendees requiring a respite from meeting activities. The Comfort Rooms are Harlem on the 4th Floor of the New York Hilton and Turtle Bay on the Lower Level of the Sheraton New York.

Emergency Information. Please report any suspicious activity in/around the hotel or convention center to security. Hilton Security: Dial (212) 261-5747 or 5747 from any house phone. Sheraton Security: Dial (212) 830-8595 or #3 from any house phone. Call 911 to report an emergency directly to the local authorities. In the case of a meeting-wide emergency, registrants will be emailed pertinent information.

Employment Fair. The Employment Fair is located in America's Hall I and is open to all registered attendees 11:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. on Saturday, August 10. Annual Meeting badges are required for entry. The Employment Fair area will be available to employers August 11 - 13 to interview potential candidates. Interviews are by employer invitation only.

All Gender Restrooms. ASA has designated all gender restroom facilities at both hotels. These restroom facilities are available for use by all persons, regardless of their gender identity. The facilities will be marked with green door signage and are noted in the Maps section. A sign on each level will show the closest gendered or all gender restroom. Please help make these facilities and this meeting an inclusive space for transgender and gender non-conforming attendees by respecting the right of all genders to use them.

Gender Pronouns. Meeting attendees have the opportunity to designate their pronoun set, when registering, to be printed on their meeting badge. If you did not select a pronoun set during registration, please see a registration attendant to have the pronouns added.

Health and Wellness. The nearest pharmacy to the meeting hotels is Duane Reade, 1657 Broadway, (212) 957-4680. The nearest hospital is Mount Sinai St. Luke's Hospital, 1111 Amsterdam Avenue, (212) 955-523-4000. Go to www.aa.org for a listing of Alcoholics Anonymous meetings in the area. Call the National Sexual Assault Telephone Hotline at 800-656-HOPE (4673) to be connected with a trained staff member from a sexual assault service provider in your area. Calling the National Sexual Assault Hotline gives you access to a range of free services including:

- Confidential support from a trained staff member
- Support finding a local health facility that is trained to care for survivors of sexual assault and offers services like sexual assault forensic exams
- Someone to help you talk through what happened
- Local resources that can assist with your next steps toward healing and recovery
- Referrals for long term support in your area
- Information about the laws in your community
- Basic information about medical concerns

Hotel Information. The ASA Annual Meeting is using two hotels: New York Hilton Midtown, 1335 Avenue of the Americas, New York, NY, (212) 586-7000 and the Sheraton New York Times Square, 811 7th Avenue, New York, NY (212) 581-1000.

Lactation Room. ASA has designated a room for parents with lactation needs. Lactation rooms are Holland on the 4th Floor of the New York Hilton and Bryant Park on the Lower Level of the Sheraton.

Mobile App. Download the ASA 2019 Program app to navigate the Annual Meeting. To download the app, go to the App Store or Google Play and search for "ASA Annual Meeting." To access program content and much more, select the 2019 Meeting under "Upcoming Meetings." For all other device types (including BlackBerry, Windows, and other web browser-enabled devices), point your mobile browser to m.core-apps.com/asaannual to be directed to the proper download version for your phone. Should you have any questions about downloading the app, please contact support@core-apps.com.

Programming Highlights

Special Events

Community College Coffee Hour.

Colleagues teaching in community colleges are invited to Coffee Hour, Sunday, August 11, 8:30 – 10:10 a.m., Sutton North, New York Hilton. Join colleagues in a series of ice breaker activities and a conversation.

Honorary Reception.

After the conclusion of the ASA Presidential Address and Awards Ceremony, attendees are invited to attend the Honorary Reception, 6:30 – 8:00 p.m., Sunday, August 11, Trianon Ballroom, New York Hilton to express appreciation and congratulations to President Mary Romero and the ASA award recipients.

Teaching Enhancement Fund “Just Desserts”.

Admission for this reception is by ticket only. Proceeds will go toward supporting the Carla B. Howery Teaching Enhancement Fund, a small grants program designed to support teaching-related projects that have long lasting and transferable impact. The reception is Sunday, August 11, 2:30 – 4:10 p.m., Regent, New York Hilton. Those who preregistered for the event will have an indication on their name badge. Others may purchase a ticket at the door.

Minority Fellowship Program (MFP) Benefit Reception.

Meet current Fellows and MFP alumni and reaffirm your commitment to the MFP Program at this benefit reception. Admission is by ticket only. Proceeds will go to the Minority Fellowship Program, which supports pre-doctoral training for students of color. Those who preregistered for the event will have an indication on their name badge. Others may purchase a ticket at the door. The reception will be held Sunday, August 11, 9:00 – 11:00 p.m., Grand Ballroom Foyer, New York Hilton.

Reception for Scholars with International Research and Teaching Interests.

All meeting participants interested in international scholarly collaborations or in meeting colleagues from other countries and learning about sociology globally, are invited to attend this reception in honor of our international colleagues on Monday, August 12, 6:30 - 8:00 p.m., Lenox Ballroom, Sheraton New York.

Student Reception.

All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting are invited to an open student reception on Saturday, August 11, 8:00- 9:30 p.m., New York Ballroom West, Sheraton New York.

Student Book Giveaway.

All students registered to attend the Annual Meeting are invited to a special book give-away sponsored by ASA exhibitors on Tuesday, August 13. Please meet outside the entrance to the exhibit hall at 1:30 p.m.

Welcome Reception.

All meeting registrants are invited to the Welcome Reception on Friday, August 9, 7:00 – 8:00 p.m., Grand Ballroom Foyer, New York Hilton to celebrate the opening of the 114th Annual Meeting. This social hour follows the conclusion of the Opening Plenary and provides opportunities to renew past acquaintances, chat with old friends, and find a newcomer to guide. New members and first-time meeting attendees are particularly encouraged to attend.

Programming Highlights

Sessions of General Interest

ASA Award Ceremony and Presidential Address.

All attendees are invited to attend the ASA Award Ceremony and the Presidential Address, "Sociology: Engaging with Social Justice," Mary Romero, Arizona State University. The ceremony and address will be held Sunday, August 11, 4:30 – 6:10 p.m., Grand Ballroom, New York Hilton.

Author Meets Critics Sessions.

Author Meets Critics sessions are designed to bring authors of recently published books that offer important contributions to the discipline, together with discussants who will provide differing perspectives.

First Time Attendees Orientation.

If this is your first time attending an ASA Annual Meeting, please plan to attend this orientation session. This special session provides the opportunity to meet Association leaders and staff. Advice from ASA Officers and experienced attendees will help you chart a course through the activities and substantive programming at the meeting. The orientation is scheduled Saturday, August 10, 8:30 – 10:10 a.m., Trianon Ballroom, New York Hilton.

Presidential Panels.

The Presidential panels are selected by the ASA President for their unique perspectives and spotlight top scholars in the field.

Plenary Sessions.

Plenary sessions are chosen by the ASA President as outstanding and compelling programming that elucidate the theme and are of interest to a large population of the membership. No other programming is scheduled against plenary sessions.

Regional Spotlight Sessions.

The local planning committee has organized a number of sessions that capture some key regional history and issues in the New York area.

Research Funding Opportunities and Data Resources Presentations.

Digital presentations provide a unique opportunity to meet representatives of major research funding institutions and principal investigators, researchers, and managers of large-scale, publicly available datasets. Each funding agency will offer an overview of the research funding they offer, and representatives will be on hand to discuss the application process and potential research proposals. Data presentations will feature datasets and analytic tools available to researchers, and attendees will learn how to gain access to the data and discuss potential uses of it. There are two scheduled sessions— Sunday, August 11, 12:30 p.m. – 2:10 p.m. and Monday, August 12, 10:30 a.m. – 12:10 p.m. in the Exhibit Hall.

Roundtable Sessions.

There are two types of roundtable sessions at the Annual Meeting. The Open Refereed Roundtable session on Sunday, August 11, 2:30 – 4:10 p.m., Trianon Ballroom, New York Hilton organizes papers around a central theme to allow authors to present and discuss. The Informal Discussion Roundtable session on Saturday, August 10, 2:30 – 4:10 p.m., Trianon Ballroom, New York Hilton is designed to facilitate discussion about specific topics including, but not limited to, methodology, policy, and professional concerns. Formal papers are not presented.

Sessions:

Special Sessions.

Special Sessions may be on topics that further investigate the meeting theme, contribute to the review of the discipline, or focus attention on other timely and important issues.

Sessions:

Thematic Sessions.

Thematic Sessions delve into important social and political issues, explore international and comparative viewpoints, and discuss the importance of sociological contributions.

Sessions:

Visual Media Presentations.

An exhibit of materials reporting research activities or informational resources in visual forms will be held Sunday, August 11, 10:30 a.m. – 12:10 p.m. in the Exhibit Hall.

Presentations include interactive and video presentations of research findings. Session:

Workshops.

One of the strengths of the educational component of the Annual Meeting is the breadth and variety of workshops offered. These sessions provide opportunities for attendees to update their knowledge and skills in a variety of professional areas. Workshop topics focus on Professional Development, Policy and Research, Departmental Management and Leadership, or Teaching. Workshops are open to all meeting registrants.

Programming Highlights

Sociology in Practice Settings Symposium Saturday, August 10 • Regent, New York Hilton

Join us for a full day of programming by and for sociologists working in practice settings. Participants will learn how practitioners are using sociological knowledge and skills to solve applied problems. Additionally, participants will have opportunities to gain valuable insights to advance their careers and build their professional networks. Sociologists employed in non-profit organizations, commercial industry, government, research centers, and other non-academic settings, as well as students interested in learning more about the sociological work that happens in these fields are encouraged to attend! Symposium is open to all Annual Meeting registrants at no additional cost.

Teaching and Learning in Sociology Symposium

Monday, August 12 • Regent, New York Hilton

The symposium on the practice of teaching and learning in sociology was established by ASA Council in response to the recommendations of the Task Force on Community College Faculty in Sociology. All sociologists who care about teaching are invited to participate, and we especially encourage participation from sociologists who teach at community colleges. The goal is for participants to gather specific and applied teaching ideas that they can use in their own classrooms. The symposium is open to all Annual Meeting registrants at no additional cost.

ASA Student Forum

ASA welcomes all undergraduate and graduate students to the Annual Meeting. Students who join ASA automatically become members of the ASA Student Forum. The Student Forum is the formal advocacy and governance arm for students and the Student Forum Advisory Board (SFAB). The Annual Meeting features professional workshops aimed at students' career concerns, student-only paper and roundtable sessions, the Student Reception, a business meeting, and student book give-away at the end of the Annual Meeting (Tuesday). The Student Forum is also pleased to offer an annual Professional Development Certificate for its members, based on attendance at a number of specific sessions, events, or workshops. Please visit the Meeting Information Desk for details, including the necessary forms and instructions.

ASA is pleased to recognize the 2019-2020 members of the Student Forum Advisory Board:

Elizabeth Anderson, Indiana University-Bloomington
 Apoorva Ghosh, University of California, Irvine
 Endia Hayes, Rutgers University-New Brunswick
 Kaitlin Johnson, Indiana University-Bloomington
 Saugher Nojan, University of California, Santa Cruz
 Elena van Stee, Calvin College
 Ellen Whitehead, Rice University

ASA Honors Program

The Honors Program has a more than four-decade history of involving talented sociology undergraduate students in the ASA Annual Meeting. It arranges participation in a series of events held at the Annual Meeting, including separate briefings on careers and graduate school. Students meet and interact with ASA leaders as well as the Honors Program Advisory Panel.

The 2019 Honors Program students, along with their institutions and faculty sponsors, are listed below (* denotes membership in Alpha Kappa Delta, the International Sociology Honor Society). Students are wearing ribbons showing their Honors Program affiliation. Please welcome them to their first Annual Meeting.

ASA Minority Fellowship Program (MFP)

The ASA Minority Fellowship Program (MFP), a pre-doctoral training program in existence since 1974, has been a significant factor in recruiting members of under-represented racial/ethnic minority groups into faculty, administrative, and other professional roles in the discipline. To date, more than 500 scholars of color have received MFP Fellowship awards, and at this year's Annual Meeting, MFP Cohort 46 will be introduced at the MFP Benefit Reception. MFP alumni continue to make important contributions to the growth and vitality of sociology, through their research, teaching, service, mentoring, and/or leadership.

ASA is pleased to recognize the current and former Fellows who are participating in this year's program:

Edwin Ackerman, Syracuse University	Katherine Maldonado, University of California, Riverside
Sabrina Alimahomed-Wilson, California State University, Long Beach	Ramiro Martinez, Northeastern University

Employment Fair

Saturday, August 10

11:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.

America's Hall I, New York Hilton

Any registrant, whether currently on the job market or a future candidate, is invited to attend the Employment Fair. The informal environment is designed to be flexible to fit with your schedule. You will have the opportunity to meet with employers and discover more about their institutions, as well as positions currently available and future employment opportunities. The Employment Fair also welcomes those scholars who will be future job seekers to explore different employment options for sociologists. There is no fee beyond meeting registration to gain entrance to the Employment Fair. Your meeting badge will be required to enter.

Prep Talks

ASA is pleased to continue Prep Talks in 2019. These short dynamic presentations cover useful job search and career planning topics for job seekers at all stages of their career search. Your meeting badge will be required to enter.

But Why Do You Love Teaching? Applying for Positions at “Teaching Institutions”

Saturday, August 10

9:30 a.m. – 10:00 a.m.

America's Hall II, New York Hilton

Diane Pike, Augsburg University

It's a question of degree, not of kind. R1 universities make claims about good teaching--they may not sufficiently reward it, but they promise it to the parents of students. At the same time, liberal arts and comprehensive colleges, as well as R2 publics, often have significant scholarship and research expectations--for which there is widely varying financial support. This interactive session focuses on how to make the case for your fit with a primarily teaching institution attending to approaches, evidence, and presentation of self.

Seeing Success After the PhD: Three Things You Can Do Right Now to Jumpstart a Successful Career Outside the Academy

Saturday, August 10

10:30 a.m. – 11:00 a.m.

America's Hall II, New York Hilton

Rachel Leventhal-Weiner, Connecticut's Office of Early Childhood

Your professional life is happening right now and most graduate programs provide little advance preparation for students thinking about working in the public or social sector. No matter your stage of graduate work or your career, there are things you can start doing to take your professional life out of the academy. In this Prep Talk, Dr. Rachel Leventhal-Weiner offers three things you can do right now to plan for your future professional life: 1) Forge your path; 2) Talk to people; and 3) Fill in the gaps. An educator, researcher and advocate, Dr. Leventhal-Weiner is a sociologist of education with a passion for data and information. Dr. Leventhal-Weiner has written and spoken about faculty and family life, balancing the personal and the professional, and about the importance of bringing sociology into the public sector. She was most recently appointed to Connecticut state government to lead the research and planning efforts in an agency focused on early childhood.

How to be Interesting for 45 Minutes

Saturday, August 10

11:30 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.

America's Hall II, New York Hilton

Stephanie Bohon, University of Tennessee-Knoxville

Job talks provide answers to the following questions: 1) What did I do? 2) How did I do it? 3) Why is it important? And 4) What did I find? A good scholar can and should answer those four questions in about five minutes. However, a typical job talk is 45 minutes long, so 40 of those 45 minutes are filler. Often, this filler is overly pedantic, unnecessarily technical, and excruciatingly dull to all but a few people in the audience. Fortunately, there are proven strategies for sounding smart AND interesting to the entire audience. In this talk, I discuss the job talk from the audience's point of view and provide advice for giving a job talk that makes a great impression all the way through.

What Does the Job Market Look Like?

Saturday, August 10

12:30 p.m. – 1:00 p.m.

America's Hall II, New York Hilton

Teresa Ciabattari, ASA

Whether you're looking for a job now, or still have several years left in your graduate program, it is important to understand the contours of the job market in sociology. This presentation will present data from ASA's 2018 Job Bank to answer questions such as, what areas of specialization are most sought after and which geographic regions offer the most jobs? The ASA Job Bank provides insights on the types of jobs available for sociologists and strategies that can lead you to them.

Money Isn't Everything: The Dos and Don'ts of Negotiating an Academic Contract

Saturday, August 10

1:30 p.m. – 2:00 p.m.

America's Hall II, New York Hilton

Verna Keith, University of Alabama at Birmingham

What happens after you get an academic job offer? What are the components of a contract? What does a “good” offer look like? What steps are involved in reaching a mutually beneficial agreement between you and the institution? These questions and more are addressed in this prep talk. We explore general issues such as prioritizing needs versus wants, researching the department and institution, and strategies involved in negotiating with department chairs. Nuts and bolts issues are also discussed, including salary considerations, relocation and housing, health and retirement (never too early to think about the latter), tenure and promotion requirements/timeline, teaching and advising, service expectations, and dual career/family issues. A key topic for consideration is the start-up package consisting of resources that enhance your probability of success--- release from teaching during the probation period travel funds, workstations and software, graduate student and staff support, research leaves/sabbatical, release from teaching during the probation period. See, there's more to this academic job thing than “money. Please join us.

Writing a Cover Letter for the Academic Job Market

Saturday, August 10

2:30 p.m. – 3:00 p.m.

America's Hall II, New York Hilton

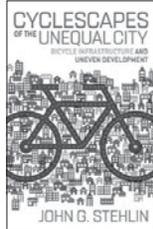

Victoria Reyes, University of California, Riverside

Whether you're are an ABD on the job market for the first time or you are a postdoc or lecturer preparing for your fourth or fifth time on the market, the process of applying for tenure-track positions is often filled with anguish, disappointment and mystery. In this prep talk, I'll focus on one of the essential parts of your job market materials: the cover letter. I'll discuss the purpose of the cover letter, provide tips for writing a successful one, suggest common phrases to stay clear of, and tackle your specific questions, experiences, and dilemmas when writing one.

 Schwartz, Stony Brook State University

The Black Mecca: Howard University's Contributions to the Social Sciences in the 1930-1950s - Krista Johnson, Howard University

Discussant: Walter R. Allen, University of California-Los Angeles
 The ASA honors four great black sociologists—DuBois, Frazier, Cox and Johnson—yet sociologists know little about where and how they worked. What they share, along with other pioneering black sociologists, was never holding professorships in white universities because white supremacy would not permit such an outcome. Thus, they spent their careers in poor, oppressed Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCU's). They triumphed against staggering odds, building major sociology programs, and producing theoretical and empirically based sociology that countered the narratives of the white mainstream, especially regarding race. These institutions included Fisk, Atlanta, and Howard universities, Hampton, Tuskegee, Spelman, Tougaloo, and Morehouse colleges. Nevertheless, mainstream sociology is ignorant of the major contributions these institutions despite their critical roles in the origin of American scientific sociology. This panel will take a major step forward in correcting this intellectual blindness.

GOLDEN YEARS?

Social Inequality in Later Life

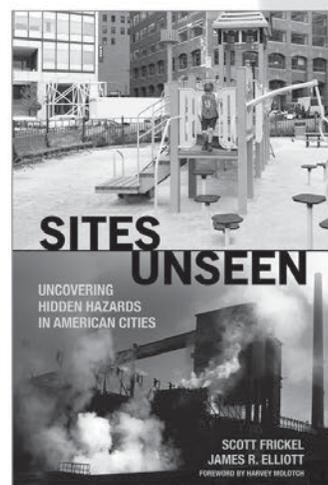

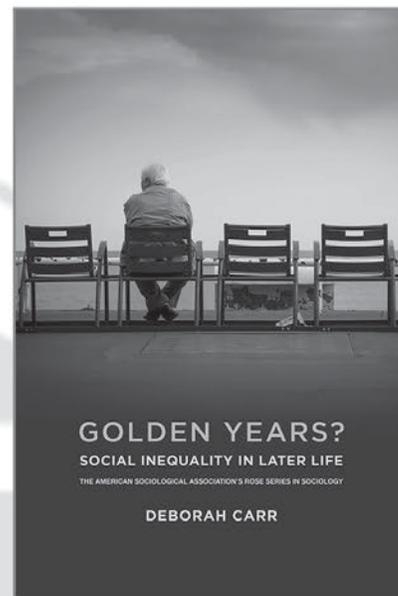

Deborah Carr

"Comprehensive, cogent, and carefully researched, Golden Years? provides a window onto the realities, risks and disparities confronting the burgeoning numbers moving to and through life after age sixty-five.... This book is must reading for understanding both aging and our aging society—for individuals, family members, students, scholars, and policy makers. An instant classic!"

—PHYLLIS MOEN, University of Minnesota

Thanks to advances in technology, medicine, Social Security, and Medicare, old age for many Americans is characterized by comfortable retirement, good health, and fulfilling relationships. But there are also millions of people over 65 who struggle with poverty, chronic illness, unsafe housing, social isolation, and mistreatment by their caretakers. Sociologist Deborah Carr draws insights from multiple disciplines to illuminate the complex ways that socioeconomic status, race, and gender shape nearly every aspect of older adults' lives. By focusing on an often invisible group of vulnerable elders, Golden Years? reveals that disadvantages accumulate across the life course and can diminish the well-being of many.

SITES UNSEEN

Uncovering Hidden Hazards in American Cities

Scott Frickel and James R. Elliott

"Sites Unseen is perhaps the most important contribution made in this century to our understanding of the distribution of environmental hazards in U.S. urban areas. Scott Frickel and James R. Elliott, two masterful sociologists, present their innovative and insightful research in this accessible but deeply scholarly work about how the history of cities affects the well-being of contemporary urban residents. This is a seminal work that is likely to spawn a wide variety of new research as well as aid and encourage social and environmental activists."

—RICHARD YORK, University of Oregon

Many establishments and homes across the nation share a troubling and largely invisible past: they were once sites of industrial manufacturers, such as plastics factories or machine shops, that likely left behind hazardous industrial byproducts. Sites Unseen uncovers the hidden histories of these sites to show how they are produced and reincorporated into urban landscapes with limited or no regulatory oversight.

PANEL STUDY OF INCOME DYNAMICS

INSTITUTE FOR SOCIAL RESEARCH • SURVEY RESEARCH CENTER

www.psid.org

@umpsid

The Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID) is the world's longest running national household panel survey. Begun in 1968, the PSID has collected 40 waves of data from the same families and their descendants for over 50 years. More than 11,000 families participate in the PSID, including a refresher sample of immigrant families added in 2017. Because PSID follows descendants of original sample members, it is a unique source for studying the intergenerational transmission of health and economic wellbeing.

Interested in learning more about PSID data? Please see our Getting Started page to learn about the study and sample, supplemental studies, and how to download data through our online Data Center.

Child Development Supplement (CDS) & Transition into Adulthood Supplement (TAS)

Measures of child and adolescent cognitive, physical, social and behavioral development as well as unique comprehensive national time-use information on children and youth of all ages.

Original CDS & TAS: Three waves of CDS data on 3,500 children aged 0-12 from PSID families who were first interviewed in 1997, re-interviewed in 2002 at ages 5-18, and again in 2007 at ages 10-18.

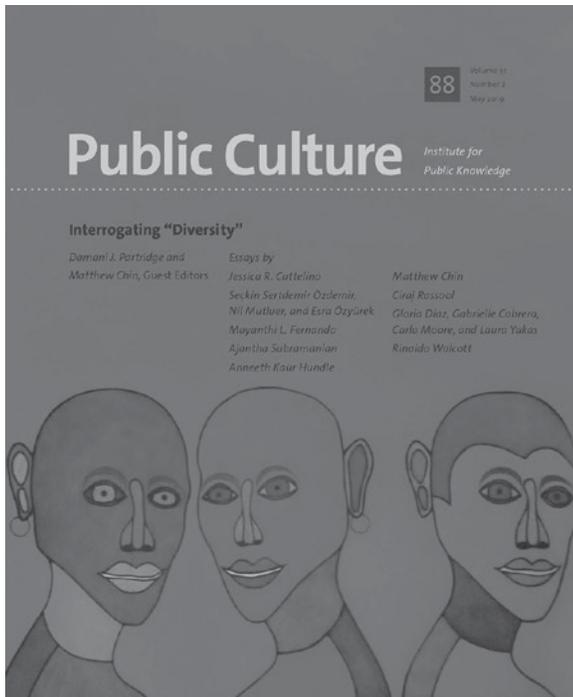

- Six waves of TAS data were collected biennially from 2005-2015 for CDS young adults ages 18-28.

Ongoing CDS & TAS: A new round of CDS (CDS-2014) with data from over 4,300 children and caregivers is now available. CDS-2019 is being collected in 2019-2020 from sample children ages 0-17.

- TAS-2017 has been released, and the 8th wave of TAS is being collected in 2019-2020 from young adults ages 18-28 in all PSID families, regardless of Original or Ongoing CDS participation.

The vast majority of data are freely accessible through the web-based Data Center which provides customized datasets

 This panel presents "a back to the future" moment: for behind a session seeking the roots of sociology in a social justice tradition is the long and continuing struggle to reconcile what the earliest American sociologists at first saw as two complementary projects—developing scientific knowledge about society and solving social problems of disorder and injustice. The intent of this panel is to trace that struggle as it occurred in the period when American sociology was taking shape, the period between 1865 and 1935, with a particular emphasis on examples of works, thinkers, and practical accomplishments that used sociology to promote social justice. To appreciate that, to uncover these roots, it is necessary to understand that sociology in its beginnings was practiced in several distinct though overlapping locations--voluntary citizen organizations, settlement houses, colleges and universities. Sociology arose in these locations in response to social justice concerns identified by a variety of social movements—The Social Science Movement, Progressivism, First Wave Feminism, the African American civil rights movement, the labor movement, and socialism. Responses to these concerns were threefold. One response was to develop both disciplinary associations—like the American Social Science Association which in turn would spin off nearly all the social science learned societies of today (AEA, AHA, APSA, ASS) and problem-solving associations (like Charities and Corrections, the Immigrants Protection League, the Consumers' League and, the perhaps crowning achievement, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People). A second response was the production of major empirical studies, like Hull-House Maps and Papers (1895), The Philadelphia Negro (1899), and Work-Accidents and the Law (1910) and major theoretical statements like A Voice from the South (1892), Women and Economics (1898), Democracy and Social Ethics (1902) The Souls of Black Folk (1903). A third response was the achievement of social amelioration through legislative action in victories such as the Ten-Hour Day bill in Illinois, the establishment of the Cook County Juvenile Court (1898), the establishment of the federal Children's Bureau (1909), the Workmen's Compensation Law (1902-1916), the enactment of Social Security legislation in 1935, that used a science-based sociology to conceive of solutions to social problems. It is hoped the panel might conclude with a meditation on the cost to sociology of marginalizing the social justice tradition as over time academic sociology moved toward a stance of value neutrality and objectivity and came to define the social justice tradition as not sociology but social activism. This split had significant consequences for sociology; in the 1920s, it led to a loss in the employment sector outside the academy, ceding it to social work (Lengermann and Niebrugge 2005) and when confronting The Great Depression, it found itself with nothing to offer but statistical method, ceding the high ground of social analysis to economics (Camic 2005).

A large amount of sociological research interrogating the spatial dynamics of race and inequality focuses on the examination of the physical geography of racial residential segregation and the connection between differential resources and racially organized neighborhoods. In the past two decades sociologists have begun to examine a corresponding social process that complicates issues of segregation, race, and space—processes of gentrification; more specifically the movement of whites into historically African American neighborhoods and the issues these migration patterns raise related to space, resources, and white domination. This panel situates these issues within the theme of the 2019 ASA annual meeting theme—social justice—by specifically expanding the discussion to a truly interdisciplinary forum, putting sociology in conversation with practitioners engaged in the negotiation of race, space, and social justice.

 Panelists: Johnny E. Williams, Trinity College; Rose Brewer, University of Minnesota; Britany Gatewood, Howard University; Rashad Robinson, Color of Change
 Although system reforms have been won to address class exploitation and racial and gender oppression, these gains are being rolled back as the U.S. experiences the effects of the crisis of global capitalism and intensifying state repression and white supremacy. The police killing of unarmed teenager Michael Brown five years ago in Ferguson, Missouri and the emergence of the Black Lives Matter Movement has prompted Americans across race and class lines to ponder their role in dismantling racism and other forms of systemic oppression. Across social science disciplines, scholars—especially academics from marginalized communities—are wrestling with the significance of the current political moment and how to engage the world in ways that produce transformative change. Sociology's distinct focus on making clear the ways in which racial oppression operates presents a unique challenge and call to action to the discipline in the context of persistent racial inequality, new movements for racial justice and a renewed interest in public sociology. Given these considerations, what is the role of the discipline in supporting and engaging in racial justice activism? How can the discipline find its collective voice and foster scholar-activism grounded in unity between the academy and the street? During this session organized by Sociologists for Justice, panelists will discuss how sociologists are linking theory and praxis by connecting their research, teaching, and public/community engagement activities to movements that advance racial equity. Two sociologists will discuss challenges in doing "movement work" both inside and out the academy. NAME-TBD of Organization TBD, will discuss how the organization works with scholars to advance social justice campaigns. Audience members will then join in a discussion with panelists that explores barriers, including what counts as tenurable activities, that prevent sociologists from fully engaging social movements.

INQUIZITIVE

Prep Your Students for Learning

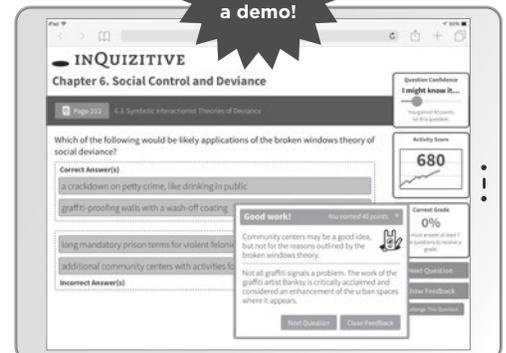

InQuizitive is Norton's award-winning, easy-to-use adaptive learning tool that personalizes the learning experience for students and helps them master—and retain—key sociological concepts. Through a variety of question types, answer-specific feedback, and gamelike elements, students are motivated to keep working until they've mastered the concepts and are more prepared for meaningful discussions and activities in class.

InQuizitive can also improve students' test grades when assigned consistently for points, as a part of the overall course grade. Through powerful gradebook analytics, you can view your students' progress and hone in on topics they might be struggling with during office hours or lecture. The convenience of LMS integration saves you time by allowing InQuizitive scores to report right to your LMS gradebook.

“With InQuizitive, students are incentivized to read the chapter and complete the corresponding InQuizitive activity by the due date, which led to higher-quality class discussions this semester.”

—Michael Masters, Associate Professor, Montana Tech

Race in America, 2e

Matthew Desmond, Mustafa Emirbayer

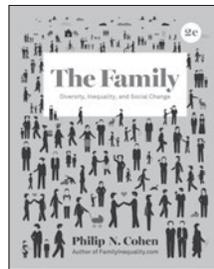

Equip your students to engage with the most urgent issues of our time. With a groundbreaking intersectional approach framed around social spheres, Race in America gives students the tools to think critically about race, racism, and white privilege. In this thoroughly updated Second Edition, students will find relevant examples drawn from the headlines and their own experiences. New features in the text and online help students see the “big picture”—and how they can participate in the fight for racial equality.

  All new copies come with access to the ebook and InQuizitive.

 Many sociologists study race, racism, and white supremacy in society, but what happens when we turn the lens on our own discipline to evaluate the ways that white supremacy impacts our scholarship and teaching, as well as the people who critically evaluate racist hierarchies? When we think about social justice and its relationship to sociology, the racialized processes involved in the production of social knowledge must be considered. This panel brings together scholars who have insights into the consequences of white supremacy for the discipline of sociology from multiple vantage points in order to interrogate the implications for sociological methods and teaching, as well as the lives of professional sociologists who navigate this scholarly terrain.

Presider: Abigail A. Sewell, Emory University

Panelists: Pauline Park, New York Association for Gender Rights Advocacy; Cary Gabriel Costello, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee; Vanessa Victoria, New York City Anti-Violence Project

In the years following Time magazine's 2014 declaration that the US had reached a "transgender tipping point," the nation has witnessed the simultaneous increased visibility and inclusion of trans people and increased violence and discrimination against trans communities. Despite its advancements in understandings of sex, gender, sexuality, medicine, and social movements, the discipline of sociology is infrequently called upon to contribute to national discourse on the US trans population. This presidential panel features scholar-activists in sociology and activists in the national transgender rights movement to discuss how to advance transgender justice in and through sociology. Panelists will articulate the sociological insights and expertise that could add to the national conversation on transgender rights and to support the national movement for trans justice. They will also speak to the urgent need to look “in house” at the ways in which the discipline can better include, represent, and support trans-identified scholars and the subfield of trans studies. The panel will close with a Q&A session with the audience.

Discussant: Wendy Leo Moore, Texas A&M University

In the fall of 2017 the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, John Roberts, suggested that empirical research presented in a case concerning politically partisan gerrymandering was "sociological gobbledygook." Chief Justice Roberts' comments raised a critical concern for lawyers and sociologists alike interested in the pursuit of social justice. In an era in which political leaders obscure empirical realities concerning inequality and oppression through rhetorical claims of "fake news" and rigid denial of empirical factual evidence, the need to examine the connection between lawyering and social science research is exceedingly important. Lawyers and sociologists interested in creating social justice and a more equitable United States and world must actively engage in the project of connecting law, political activism, and rigorous empirical research. This panel brings together lawyers and sociologists engaged in the project of tactical uses of social science research, empirical evidence, and activist legal work both (inside and outside courtrooms).

3456. Presidential Panel. Scholarly Activism in and for Sociology
Sheraton New York, Metropolitan Ballroom West, Second Floor, 2:30-4:10pm

Session Organizer: Juan Pablo Pardo-Guerra, University of California, San Diego

Presenter: Juan Pablo Pardo-Guerra, University of California, San Diego

Panelists: Abigail L. Andrews, University of California-San Diego; Daniel Laurison, Swarthmore College; Philip N. Cohen, University of Maryland

This panel is inspired by recent public debates about the role of scholarly activism within sociological professions. At the core, these discussions center on whether diverse forms of activism and public engagement are an integral, perhaps even expected, part of the contributions of contemporary sociologists. For some activism is not a critical facet of scholarly careers and may even result in negative assessments of the profession by external audiences. For others, activism and public engagement are entirely congruent with the intellectual and political ethos of the discipline. The participants of this panel represent different viewpoints between these contrasting understandings. Guided by short position statements published shortly before the conference and questions from the audience, the participants' conversations are meant to highlight ways in which sociology and its professional association can think about scholarly activism as an important and valuable element of academic careers and intellectual contributions. What are, for example, the institutional constraints on scholarly activism across the profession? Can activism echo the rigor and standards of sociological research? What is the role of scholarly activism in teaching and public communication? What, if anything, are the consequences of incorporating activism in the sociological profession?

We have just witnessed the 50th anniversary of the "Stonewall" riots in NYC. This was an important moment in resisting the police brutality and other institutions that operated against people who we now call gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender. For many in the U.S. and abroad, "Stonewall" - the fighting back in the summer of 1969 by gender non-conforming racial minorities - evokes a before and after of visibility, recognition, and the achievement of rights. This panel, comprised of activists, artists, and academics, will offer insights to the moment in time we have reached, speaking to both some of the most critical accomplishments and the losses in the past 50 years for sure, but charting a way of thinking about the next waves of work and organizing that take into account not just sexual orientation and gender identity and expression, but other axes of power.
