

Section on the Sociology of Development Bylaws

Adopted April 4, 2011; revised 2016, 2017, 2021, 2025

Statement of Purpose. This Section promotes the study of societal development within the discipline of sociology by providing intellectual and professional services to its members. These services may include (but are not limited to) the provision of outlets where development sociologists can publish or orally present work; the provision of useful information concerning grants, job openings or scholarly resources; the provision of opportunities for development sociologists to dialogue with each other; the official recognition of unusually meritorious work; the provision of academic forums for the raising of significant questions in the sub-discipline; and the provision of more public forums for the raising of development-related questions in society as a whole. All ASA members who define themselves as scholars of development, regardless of rank or institutional affiliation, are eligible for membership and office holding within the section.

Norm of Intellectual Diversity. A foundational principle of this section is the promotion and encouragement of intellectual diversity within the study of societal development. As such, the Section embraces all sociologists who define themselves as scholars of development regardless of theoretical orientation, methodological preference, region of study, or historical period of study. This commitment to intellectual diversity shall be reflected in all aspects of its activities, including but not limited to the composition of office holders, the composition of participants in official section panels or activities, and the composition of work that is recognized as meritorious.

By creating scholarly interchange between development sociologists with a wide variety of scholarly agendas, this section promotes a rich environment of intellectual cross-fertilization that is a benefit to all development sociologists and to the discipline more broadly.

Officer of the Section. The officers of the Section shall be a Chairperson, a Chairperson-Elect, a Past-Chairperson, and a Secretary-Treasurer. Voting members of the section alone shall be eligible to hold office. The Chairperson-Elect will automatically become Chairperson in the year following his/her office as Chairperson-Elect, and in the year subsequent to that become Past-Chairperson. The Secretary-Treasurer shall be elected for a period of three years. Officers shall not succeed themselves.

The Chairperson of the Section will serve as Chairperson of the Council.

The Secretary-Treasurer will be responsible for keeping section records, drafting an annual budget for the section, and tracking and promoting section membership.

There shall be a Council consisting of eleven members, seven non-officer members plus the four officers of the section. One non-officer member will be a graduate student representative. With the exception of the graduate student representative, the non-officer members will each serve for three years, with two Council seats being vacated each year. The graduate student representative will serve a one-year term, but will be eligible to participate in Council meetings and activities immediately upon election. The Council, in consultation with the membership at large, will be responsible for determining the academic program of the section.

The Council will nominate an editor for the section newsletter, and a webmaster for the section. The Editor and Webmasters serve for one-year terms. They may be reappointed for subsequent terms up to a maximum of three consecutive terms. The Editor and Webmaster may appoint assistants as they so choose.

Power of the Council. The Council is vested in principle with the power to carry out all necessary operations for the Section, acting as the representative of the membership of the Section. The functions of the Council include cooperating with the Program Committee of the American Sociological Association in planning the presentation of its field of interest in the Annual Meeting of the Association. They also include establishing ad-hoc committees to meet specific Section goals.
